SURE DEATH FOR HIM.

Chicago Youth Shoots Himself and Sets His Clothing on Fire.

Had Been Accused by His Relatives of Stealing Money.

Cartridges Exploded With Heat, Keeping Off Detectives.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 29 .- One of the most spectacular suicides on the record of the Chicago police occurred yesterday, when seventeen-year-old Adolph with arrest he walked the streets for two days and nights, morose and fearful. Then he came back to his boarding house, took a position beneath the window of his accusing relative, soaked his clothes in oil and fired his revolver into his breast.

At sound of the shot Detectives Nelson and Flynn, of the Hudson avenue police station, can toward the lodging house at No. 18 Hinsche street.

As the detectives were approaching the house at No. 16 Hinsche street.

As the detectives were approaching the lad's flame enveloped body a second revolver shot rang out. Another followed. One of the bullets whistled dangerously near Detective Flynn's head. Safe behind a corner of a building the detectives, paused, drawing their own revolvers. Then, peering out toward the middle of the yard, a splutter of sparks leaping from the centre of the fire, which still blazed up above the lad's body, and a sharp explosion occurring simultaneously told them where the supposed revolver shots actually came from.

At last the fire died down and the last report from the overheated cartridges had died away in the night. Flynn and Nelson cautiously went to the lad's blackened body. Seeing that the danger was over, they rapidly tore the clothing and ashes from the body, but Werderitsch was dead. Beside the bullet fired by his own hand at least two other shots had entered his seared flesh.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Although the Washington, Jan. 29.—Although the tariff framers, the Republican members of the House Committee on Ways and Means, have been working diligently in an effort to complete the task of preparing a new tariff bill, it is hardly likely that any definite rates of duty will be fixed in the bill until the days immediately preceding the introduction of the bill. It was understood that the majority members of the committee would take up the bill by having the various sub-committees consider the different schedules, but they have been considering the tariff in its entirety. No final decision on any important schedule has been reached.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 29.-Theo dore Adams, employed in the railroad roundhouse at Hopewell Junction, was arrested to-day, and charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, John Kliff, of that place, after Mrs. Kliff had accused Adams of robbing her. Kliff was the proprietor of a lunch room in Hopewell Junction, and was killed last Sunday morning, it was believed, by two men who had entered the restaurant ostensibly to purchase a bag of tobacco. As Kliff turned his back upon the men he was struck with a heavy bolt, and his skull was fractured. He died a few urs later. The men then entered Mrs. Kliff's sleeping room in the rear of the restaurant, fractured her skull with a and took about $700 from under Three Young Men Get Two Weeks Off Sentence.

James Yaldon, Charles Baird and Wiljail this morning, free men. On Dec. 12 they were convicted of perjury in connection with the Olympic Club Sunday raid of that memorable Sundayafternoon in July, 1907. Each of the three was sentenced to two months in jail, and Burkholder and O'Reilly received longer terms in Central-Prison. Petitions were circulated and were very largely signed, asking for the shortening of the sentences of Burkholder and O'Reilly, and for the release of the others. In the cases of the two men in Kingston the reply was a refusal, but the order for the release of the three in the city jail was received this morning. They had exactly two weeks yet to serve to complete their terms.

The Tangle of Fate

"Oh, how tired I am, sister. I've been nutting in the woods all the morning. Our teacher did not come to-day, and the scholars gave themselves a half-holiday," she cried ou. to Imogen, who stood on the porch in ner prettiest dress.
"I wish on had been with us, Miss Bonnie. Your sister went with me for a lovely stroil this morning," Lincoln La Valliere exclaimed, with a little note of regret in his musicai, oice. It had cost him a pang to see the little beauty go off with her books to school. True, Imogen, in her browa cashmere dress, with those red wild flowers in her dark hair, was very charming, but this other girl, so frank, so piquant, so lovely, had carried his heart by storm. At breakfast he hardly knew what he was eating, so constantly had itis eyes wandered to the young face opposite, that blushed so warmly under his gaze.
"My little sister, Bonnie," Imogen had said, carelessly, and then kept up the conversation so briskly that Bonnie sild hardly a word, only smiled at her old father, who looked at her so lovingly. After last night she had said she could not bear to look Lincoln La Valliere in the face.

After last night she had said she count not bear to look Lincoln La Valliere in the face.

But a glad light leaped into his laughing blue eyes as she came in sight again, and his heart beat quickly at the sound of her voice. He followed her eagerly to the porch, and then Imogen said:

"Yes, Bonnie, I took Mr. La Valliere up the glen and to the old haunted mill, and he made such a lovely sketch of it. And—Bonnie, you teld me a little fib last night—you did go there to look in the pool before you came home, because—" She paused. Bonnie had drawn back from her with startled eyes, Imogen gazed at her in surprise a moment, then continued:

"I knew you were frightened over something last night, and you are getting pale this moment at the very thought of it. Come, tell us what yous war in the pool, Bonnie?"

"I—I—wasn't there. Let me alone about it!" Bonnie cried, petulantly, her face pallid, her eyes flashing, but Imogen laughed.

"You needn't deny it, Bonnie, cause I found your blue hair ribbon and your lace handkerchief at the mill, and you certainly lost them there last night, for you had them when you started for the party. I gave them to Mr. La Valliere to carry. He will show them to you now."

But a glad light leaped into his laught, and in the red, handkerolt Mr. La Valliere.

The day came when she received the photograph of her unknown betrothed. She was in the parlor with Mr. La Valliere, but she did not hesitate to break the seal and look eagerly at the cabinet photograph if inclosed.

"A derisive smile parled the full red lips, and Imogen exclaimed, scornfully: "Oh, what fright!"

"I agree with you!" observed Lincoln La Valliere, with fright inclosed.

"But he is rich, is he not?"
"So he says, but although I long to be rich and live in the city, I cannot marry any one I do not love, and I shall write and tell him so this very day," declared Imogen, looking at him with such confiding eyes that he must have been blind not to understand their loving language.

the acre lot while you write your letter."

"He is anxious for me to write that man his dismissal," thought Imogen, joyously, then she sighed. "But I wish he had proposed at once. It was such a good opening for him when we were talking olve and marriage."

She ran upstairs to write the momentous letter, and Limcoin La Valliere, without another thought of Farmer Dale and his ten-acre lot, took his hat and strolled down the dusty road, hoping to meet his secret idol—lovely Bonnie.

It was getting on toward the early October sunset, and she would be on her way, he knew, for Farmer Dale did not permit her to stay out after dark. When he came in from the field he always wanted to see her fair face blooming like a rose by his home fireside.

Guelph, Jan. 28.—That he made love to the widow McGuire, and that when she turned him down he set fire to an destroyed the barn on the McGuire estate in Peel township.

This is the excuse of a young man was sentenced by Judge Chadwek to two years in the Central Prison. He is a quiet-looking youth, and he confessed to having set fire to the barn on Jan. 9th out of spite.

He was bound over for five years, in addition to the sentence, and advised not to go back to Peel.

CHAPTER VI.

Sure enough, there was Bonnie loitering in the patch of autumn-hued woods only a few rods from the house. She was standing with her back against a tree, throwing dead leaves into a little brook that went singing past her feet with a musical murmur. Her downcast dark eyes watched the leaves as they whigled down the tiny stream with a curfously sad, intent expression.

Lincoln La Valliere watched the girl in eager silence a moment, then helped her across the brook and caught her hand in his, holding it fast as he exclaimed:

"Where have you been all day, little truant?"

truant?"
"What is that to you, Mr. Curiosity?" demanded Bonnie, but in such soft tones and with so bright a blush that the words were robbed of their sauciness, and elicited a passionate answer:

"It is everything to me, Bonnie, because I miss you so and long for your presence every moment that you are away from me!"

Will you not love me in return, darling, and promise to be my wife?"

It was very impetuous wooing, but he was afraid that some one would come along the road and interrept them, hence his eager haste. He knew very well from sad experience that the fates always made his interviews with Bonnie very short, and he determined to outwit them this time.

Bonnie's beautiful face, crimson as a rose, dropped bashfully from his adoring eyes, and she faltered:
"I did not know you loved me, Mr. La Valliere!"

"I did not know you loved me, Mr. La Valliere!"

"Call me Lin, won't you, darling?" he exclaimed, 'eagerly. "Mister sounds so cold, and I would like to hear you call me Lin just as my mother used to do."

"Lin—it is a lovely name," she whispered

"I-I—have not promised," she cried, drawing back from him in dismay.
"But you must promise, my dearest.

Bonnie had been listening to his love words in tremulous silence, but as he attempted to put his arm around her she started back, her dark eyes flashing through the reserved.

This unexpected invasion seemed no doubt to leave a good deal to be desired in the direction of Turkish prison discipline, but having been born myself to a sufficient contempt for "law and order," and being, moreover, one of those who, with Lord Mansfield, regard the criminal on his hurdle as no blacker than the Judge who sentenced him might have been in the same environment, I was not much perturbed by the blazing eyes and wild animal growls of my new acquaintances. Little Danger.

A page of experiences of a Turkish prison is added to the long record of prison interiors by William O'Brien, M. P., in the Westminster Gazette:

Our excellent dragoman, Alexander, finding that his world of show places in Jerusalem, inexhaustible as it seemed, was panning out and that we were beginning to prefer to revisit the old seenes all by ourselves to muse in the delicious fragrance of the Franciscans' Garden of Gethsemane or in the gloomy depths of the Valley of Jehoshaphat, undisturbed by the chatter to which the best of guides are prone, discovered for himself and us a new world to conquer says his account.

He gave us to understand that by some unheard of devices of diplomacy between the Governor-General and the Consul and himself it might be possible to arrange a visit to the jail in which the most eminent murderers of the age—none of them ranking fewer than twenty years penal servitude, some of them crimson with the blood of half a dizent different victims and some choice, spirits actually under sentence of hanging—were immured. SENATE REFORM.

Now we have a definite proposal for reform of the Senate emanating from the Red Chamber itself. Hon. Senator R. W. Scott, who has for thirty-four years led the Liberals in the Senate, has given notice of a motion for a reorganization of Senatorial representation and a radical change in the methods of its constitution. His idea is to have two-thirds of the Senators elected for eight-year terms by obligatory popular vote, and one-third appointed by the Government for eight-year terms. Hon. Mr Scott's notice of motion is somewhat lengthy, and his idea of the reform which he proposes is very clearly set forth therein. He would have the Provinces divided into electoral dis- pire's contention, if admitted, would tricts for Senatorial representation, the seats being allocated as follows:

| Ontario | | | | 16 |
|------------------|------|---|--|----|
| Quebec | | | | 16 |
| Nova Scotia | | | | 7 |
| New Brunswick | | | | |
| P. E. Island | | į | | 2 |
| Manitoba | | | | 3 |
| Saskatchewan | | | | 3 |
| Alberta | | | | 3 |
| British Columbia | | | | 2 |

This arrangement would, of course, be subject to alteration with the growth of population in the various Provinces. Upon the definition of the electoral districts, a member of the existing Senate would be allotted to each; and as vacancies hereafter arise in the representation of the districts, they shall be filled by election by popular vote, under an obligatory voting system, a fine of $10 being imposed for neglect or refusal to cast a ballot. The remaining eight, or unallotted, Senators would be day. Provision is also made for emer-

It will be observed that his plan does not disturb existing Senatorial positions, and it is probable that this feature of it will not ender it less acceptable to the Upper House. It will be interesting to ob how the proposal is received by Parliament and the country.

Under our system, as it works out to-day, the majority rules; but the min-crity, by resort to debate, is entitled to influence the determinons of the majority. Argument may induce a ma-jarity to modify its propositions.

That also is beside the issue. All rea sonable discussion and argument is pro vided for in the reasonable closure sure, found to work so well in the Bri-Parliament. Every appeal to reason, and every argument addressed to the House or country is safeguarded in the British closure. Only deliberate obstruction-attempt by an unreasonable iness, because it cannot force the majority to give way to it-is thwarted by directs the majority, desires to stop discussion. Under it the Ministers may introduce their measures and permit a small degree of criticism. But the moment a proposition is attacked in terms that are unanswerable the Government can call for a vote and thus effectually gag Parliament. This largely augments the power of the Ministry over the deliberations of the representatives of the people. In fact it makes the Cabinet supreme and abolishes Parliamentary independence. The thing is wrong in prinpendence. The thing is wrong in princase. The British closure provided for ample opportunity for discussion of any measure. But if a gang of obstruction ists plan to kill time and block busibecause they cannot carry out their will, the Parliamentary majority may after a certain time require debate to end and a vote to be taken. This is not "wrong in principle." Parliament rules. It is a natural corollary to Government by majority. The Mail and Emabolish majority rule and bonus obstruction and Parliamentary chaos. The closure would ensure orderly debate, shorten sessions and save much useless expense. Canada is the only important country that has not adopted it, and she should not longer delay.

EDUCATIONAL ADVANCEMENT

To be the Policy for the Year 1909.

Thomas Hobson Elected Chairman of the Board.

Messrs. Wilson, Lamoreaux and Allan Committee Chairmen.

In his inaugural address, last night when the Board of Education met to organize for the year and elected him chairman, Thomas Hobson outline progressive programme for th ing the board for the honor conferred upon him, Mr. Hobson declared that Hamilton had a system of Public schools not surpassed by any in the Province and he hoped to see the scheme of improvements and increased accommodation discussed last year followed up. The enlargement of the Picton and Sophia street schools, which will be ready to open shortly, will furnish adequate accommodation in those districts, but there are one or two other buildings which Mr. Hobson thinks should be remodelled or torn down and new schools erected. Last year's board passed a resolution which provided for increasing the accommodation this year and next year and this would be one of the matters for the new board to deal with. Reference was also made to the matters of playgrounds for the child. son thinks should be remodelled or torn down and new schools erected. Last-year's board passed a resolution which provided for increasing the accommodation this year and next year and this would be one of the matters for the new board to deal with. Reference was also made to the matter of playgrounds for the children. This had been brought before the trustees last year and the chairman hoped it would be taken up in a businesslike way this year. There was no foundation, he declared, for the charge of evtravagance made against the board. The only thing attacked was the salaries and Mr. Hobson said that the city was paying men who had no educational training twenty cents an hour while the board paid its teachers less than forty cents an hour. The following striking committee was appointed—Trustees Ward, Howell, Armstrong, Lazier, Wilkes, Holden, Bell, Wodell, Clark and Allan. Its report was adopted without amendment, and was as follows:

Internal Management — Trustees

Internal Management — Trustees Wilson, Callaghan, Lazier, Clark, Armstrong, Holden, Wilkes, Watkins, Bell and Wodell.

Building Committee—Trustees Al-lan, Carr, Ward, Linger, McCullough. Finance Committee—Trustees Lam-moreaux, Howell, Booker, Blanchard, Lee.

Trustee Wilson was elected chairman of the Internal Management;
Trustee Lamoreaux was elected to preside over the Finance Committee, and Chairman Allan will again have charge of the Building Committee.
Practically the same committee that looked after the Technical school last year was re-appointed. The only change was the addition of Trustees Lamoreaux and McCullough to represent the manufacturers. Trustee Wodell thought that the name of Trustee Wilkes should be added as the only official representative of labor on the board, but Trustee Allan said that it was the intention to ask said that it was the intention to ask the Trades & Labor Council to ap-point a committee of three to confer with the board's committee. SWEARING.

To the Editor of the Times:

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—It is apparently considered among the younger generation of this city that to use filthy language and awear profanely adds something to their stature. To take a walk down any of the busy thoroughfares in the evening and be obliged to listen is painful. The "slangy" remarks and insinuations passed by gangs of young men on the women passing to and fro is abominable, and, surely, when so much is "in the air" at present to make Hamilton a cleaner city to live in, this "moral" question might also be considered.

a pastoral comedy drawn by Neil Two-mey, was presented by the Partello Stock Company at the Grand last night, and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. The company is offering an unusually good list of plays this week, and is deserving of liberal patronge, as the performances are above the average. To-night "Under Two Flags" will be presented, and to-morrow matinee "Lena Rivers" will be repeated owing to the success it achieved on Wednesday. The company will close its engagement to-morrow evening with "The Girl of Eagle Ranch."

AT THE SAVOY.

It is a long time since Shakespeare's immortal love tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," has been produced in Hamilton, and as the offering of the Selman Company next week at the Savoy it should prove one of the most attractive drawing cards of the season. Miss Lasche and Mr. Selman in the leading roles ought to appear to excellent advantage, and the other members of the company will have opportunity to display their versatility. The play has been carefully rehearsed under the direction of Lawrence Barbour, the stage director, and an exceptionally smooth and pleasing performance is guaranteed. The costumes will be elaborate and the seenic effects in keeping with the general excellence of the production There has been a satisfactory advance sale and the indications are that the house will be sold out at the matimes performances during the entire week. For Tuesday afternoon a large section of seats has been reserved for a theatre party from Brantford.

This week's offering, "The Land of the Midnight Sun," which has been pleas.

Brantford.

This week's offering, "The Land of the Midnight Sun," which has been pleasing large audiences, is one of the most ambitious productions the company has attempted during the engagement. It is intensely interesting from curtain to curtain, and should play to big business at both performances to-morrow.

"The refinement of vaudeville has caused it to become a staple article, with a standard of value as intrinsic as there is in wheat or steel or oil,"
Edward Davis, the actor-clergyman cently in discussing the variety stage "It is an enterprise now of millions and "It is an enterprise now of millions and millionaires, a public benefice for the millions of an amusement-loving world," he said. "Yaudeville is not the cunningly devised trickery of the charlatan; it is an enduring temple of decent pleasure, and has been built by men of keen preception, who long before it was realized anticipated the want of the people. These men are benefactors who have given as much to society as a Rockefeller or a Carnegie. Mr. Davis will be seen at Bennett's next week in his playlet, "All Revers Meet at Sea," said to be the most elaborately staged sketch in vaudeville. Other big attractions next week will include Hickman brothers, the famous comedians, in their s, the famous comedians, in their farce, "AeDetective Detected"; the Five Miezkoff-Sanders, Russian singers and whirlwind dancers, and the Olivotii

The theatre was packed again last The theatre was packed again last might, when the Hamilton Rowing Club gvae an evening. The boxes were prettily decorated and the show thoroughly enjoyed. The headliners, Butler and Bassett, in their artistic skating novelty; the three Binns, musicians and comedians, and Alcide Capitaine," divided the honors.

A GOOD COMEDY.

"The Three of Us" is not a comedy, as might be supposed by the title, but a high-class drama of life, as it really is in a western mining camp. Mention of the west leaves one to look for a lurid melodrama fiend and gun fighters, but there is nothing of the sort in "The Three of Us." Though possibly little is known of the play by Hamilton theatregoers, it had a long and successful run in New York at the Madison Square Theatre, and also toured with success last season playing at the Princess Theatre, and also toured with success last season, playing at the Princess Theatre, where it was highly spoken of. It derives the name from three of the principal characters, Rhy MacChesney and her two younger brothers, Clem and Tounie, who struggle through years of hoping in a small Newada mining town, waiting until someone will buy the mining claim left them by their father. Miss Janet Waldorf is said to give a capital portrayal of the heroine, Rhy MacChesrey. The play is to be seen at the Grand next Monday and is one that can be recommended.

"A MAN AND HIS MATE."

H. R. Durant, the author of "A Man and His Mate," in which Hilda Spong will be seen at the Grand next Friday and Saturday, is a young man but a few years graduated from Harvard, and has recently been practicing law in Waterbury, Conn., in addition to writing rather fascinating short stories for the leading magazines. "A Man and His Mate" is one of his stories, and its plot and construction opened up a new vein in literature. He developed and dramatized the story and presented it under his own management in several of the leading New England cities, where it caused such remarkable interest that Mr. Sire, after seeing it, at once purchased the producing rights, with a view to giving it a lengthy run at the Bijou Theatre, which just at present happens to be playing to about the biggest business in New York, and it being out of the question to immediately move the current attraction he is giving, "A Man and His Mate" a tour of the more important cities.

DIVORCE CASE.

Capt. Stirling Accuses His Wife and Lord Northland.

Counter Suit for Divorce from American Girl.

Edinburgh, Jan. 29.—The court to-day began the hearing of Capt. Stirling's the last week to hearing Mrs. Stirling's petition. Capt. Stirling stated that it was on Mrs. Stirling's suggestion that was on Mrs. Strings suggestion that Lord Northland was included in the party of four, the witness, Mrs. Stirling, Mrs. Atherton, and Northland, that vis-ited Paris. Capt. Stirling went on to tell how, on

THE WORLD AND A WOMAN. (Ethel M. Chapman.)

She was just at that stage when we all see life through a rose-colored mist, that softens and bedims its little ironies; and as she stood, with dreamy eyes, watching the airy bubbles that floated just out of her reach, how was she to know that their beauty would have van-ished the instant her fingers touched them? They were the ideals and ambiions of her girlhood dreams, and to her tions of her girlhood dreams, and to her they were genuine.

That was in the morning, when the desert of Life lay about her, sparkling and dew-pearled; but as the sun rose higher in the heavens, the opal drops vanished, and the rosy mist began to disperse, so that the landscape was no longer a fairy dream, but a grave reality. To the right and to the left, the sand-hills stretched, barren and desolate, their very silence echoing like a call from the dead, for nobler pligrims to leave on their monotonous waves a pathway to guide the straying Nomads to the sunset gates of Heaven. Far in the distance, gates of Heaven. Far in the distance, the heights of Fame rose high against the heavens, their snowy summits dazzling in the sunlight; but their rocky slopes were bristling with white grave-stones, for multitudes had perished before the height were cannot party of four, the witness, Mrs. Stirling, Mrs. Atherton, and Northland, that visited Paris.

Capt. Stirling went on to tell how, on returning unexpectedly from Scotland, he went to his town house and found the door on the chain. He rattled the door and rang the bell. Finally his wife came and opened the door. She appeared greatly confused. He went straight to the smoking room and found Lord Northland and provided the house, but Mrs. Stirling continued to meet him.

When he told his wife she was at the parting of the ways he received the reply that she was madly in love with Northland and he with her. Stirling said he next sought an interview with Lord Northland and he with her. Stirling said he next sought an interview with Lord Northland and he with her. Stirling said he next sought an interview with Lord Northland and he with her. What have tyou got to say?"

"If you divorce your wife I shall stick ther," Northland replied.

He would not say anything else, would not explain, and refused to make any appology.

"I told him I would arrange to have her go to her mother in America," Capt. Stirling continued, "and said, 'If after a period of months you and she find it impossible to keep apart I shall not be able to stand further between you."

To hoard the Adriatic while she was on her way to the United States Mrs. Stirling wrote suggesting a separation, and concluded:

"Don't think me an absolute rotter; I am not, but near it."

On her return to England Mrs. Stirling of her return to England Mrs. Stirling bare with the rising vapors, the heart to do the heights were gained.

And with the rising vapors, the heart to a woman, with an earnestness and purpose she had not known before. That fanciful and mysterious lady, Fate, had enceded, and she would use them to to brighten the arbidoved her with gifts, that the world needed, and she would use them to to brighten the alaphance in the wilder-ness. How often, alas! that same god dess has presented humanity with her priceless treasures, talent, and intellect, and geniu and concluded:
"Don't think me an absolute rotter; I am not, but near it."
On her return to England Mrs. Stirling eventually abandoned her husband, he testified.

Then that inevitable thing happened. Softly borne on the desert air came the tinkle of camel bells, and out from the level horizon a caravan approached her, She did not perceive it—a woman never does—until the brightness of the accoutements shone round about her like a halo, and all else lay beyond the outer ring in darkness. She felt an arrow from the inner glow nierce her, heart ring in darkness. She feit an arrow from the inner glow pierce her heart, but the warm blood only flowed with a pain of delightful eestasy. It was then she realized that she had met Love, Out in the darkness, in its impressive silence, she heard the voices of the world call-ing her back; far in the distance the fame hills beckoned her still; like the name mils beckoned her still; like the sobbing of the ocean echoed the cries of the falling that she might help to save. She half turned back, her eyes shining piteously with tears, when lo! Love held her, for a chain had grown from her heart strings about him.

Every day brought its happiness, every day its self-sacrifice, every day its fresh springs of affection. Here the path wandered through luxuriant plains, there it led through the narrow crevices of poverty, won into a great sunburst of happiness, and then, lo! to a tiny grave, and a mother's bleeding heart shivering above it. Yet still she whispered as her tear-dimmed eyes gazed into the eyes of her love, "We saw a little of heaven when the gates opening let him into the world, the gates opening let him into the work and the vision was worth the sacrifice."
So the years went on, and with each fresh trial she grew nobler, braver, sweeter. The great world might smile and throb at will, but it was her world no longer. Hers was bounded by the four walls of home, where half-unconsciously she was mouking into other young lives the strength and beauty of her own sweet personality. But as she neared the Elysian gates of the sunset, and looked over the past streching away into the indefinite shades of memory, she whispered gently: "What have I done? A talent was given to me, and I buried it, when the world needed it so much But if the world could have heard her it would have answered, "It is not talent the world wants; it is not genius nor intellect it lacks; but its empty heart is craving for character. Ah! the noblest part is by love and self-sacrifice for others, to form a soul worthy to be a ministering spirit in the courts of heaven."

ESSAY ON DEATH

New York, Jan. 29.-Ths "Essay on Death" was written by a man who committed suicide to-day: "My blooming years have faded. I am gloomy and despondent. I am tired of wandering ound the roaring streets of New York. world. I wish no ceremonies over my body. I want it burned. Do with the ashes as you please. Throw them back to earth from which they came.

"It is a man's duty to help nature; to kill off those who cannot fight against human beasts. The United States Government should establish a large park, where those who are despondent can go and end their lives. I'll admit that I am afraid of the future in this world." The suicide was Albert London, 55 years of age. He lived in West Twenty-fourth street. Before ending his life by inhaling gas London mailed a letter to the editor of a newspaper. While the editor was reading the letter his telephone rang. The man at the other end of the wire was the janitor of the house in which London lived.

Charm the Sterner Sex.

Charm the Sterner Sex.

It has been the habit of men, wise and witty, cynical and stupid, to cast the shaft of stinging ridicule at the widow, particularly if she be young and fascinating. It has been the traditional masculine attitude since time was young, and the so-called miles of the guileful widow have pointed many a proverb and sharpened many an epigram. And it is a sad fact that all these wise saws are pure bunco, save the face of men, whe, within their hearts, know the utter folly of resistance when an entertaining widow makes her plans and sets her cap.

Dido, or more properly Elise, of Carthage, was a widow when Aeneas drifted around that way, and we all know that it took the joint efforts of the Olympian syndicate of deities to jar loose her hold on the old Trojan warrior. And when he did quit her Virging to evade paying his fare on a street car. But while that romantic courtship lasted the faithful crew of Eeneas just sat around and roasted widows in general, and the Widow Dido in particular, just as they would to-day.

Heedful Penelope was in widow's

Just as they would to-day.

Heedful Penelope was in widow's weeds when that gay young bunch of riotous suitors lived high on the fat goats and swine of the long-tried, royal Ordesseus. One can imagine the biting gossip and cutting innuendoes anent widows voiced by the deserted maidens at the Ithacan bridge parties of that interesting period. And the list of widows who have made history and sown the seeds of bitterness might be indefinitely extended until it reaches its culmination in the classical utterance of Mr. Weller to his dutiful son, Samuel: "Bevare of the vidders."

But the traditional attitude towards widows and their charms which has filled literature with comical slurs and slings, is not alone due to mere men, who know their helplessness in the premises. Much of it has been inspired by the well-based fear on the part of vives.

Much of it has been ins mises. Much of it has been inspired by most the well-based fear on the part of wives and maids who seek to be wives of the little widow, who knows the man game go from A to Z. She is an expert, while to the rivals are amateurs or only learnher rivals are amateurs or only learning. Be that as it may, one cannot but admire the reckless courage of a woman who, having once or more stemmed the tempestuous tide of matrimony, should dare to take the awful risk of training another husband. Hats off to her:—Washington Post.

Extracts from the annual report of the chairman are as follows:

During the year the Board opened a branch in the rapidly growing east end. While it was thought the branch would relieve the strain on the main library, it has not, as the circulation of books has increased by 24,443 over the previous year.

During the year the Board were put to the expense of having a new roof on the Library and also of having the brickwork tuck-pointed and alterations made to the basement. This, with the firstallation of the branch, has been quite a drain on the finances of the Board, but I am pleased to report a surplus of $1,129.64, which will help to tide the Board over the beginning of the year. A Toronto Man Arrested on Fraud Charge.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—Bernard F. Gregory, familiarly known about the city as "Count Bertie" Gregord, is in trouble. Gregory was arrested on Yonge street Gregory was arrested on Yonge street by Detective Kennedy last night in a warrant charging fraud, the complainant being T. E. Mullett, of 382 College street, a druggist. Detective Kennedy took his prisoner to Court Street Police Station, where he spent the night.

Gregory, whose real name is said to be Greenbaum, is alleged to have obtained $2 worth of drugs and $8 in money from Mullett, recently, by means of a worthless cheque. In addition to the specific charge on which he was arrested, the police say they have several other charges to lay against Gregory.

Married on Wednesday, knowing he was on his death bed, to Miss Mary Weatherspoon, Pascal Finn, a native of Ireland, with no relatives in this country, died yesterday in the Brockville hospital.

That exceeds the maximum allowed (£31 10s), and he has, therefore, been disqualified.

CASES OF APPEAL.

Appeals under the old age pension actare being rapidly disposed of by the Local Government Board, and there is not likely to be any serious delay in the receipt by pensioners who are entitled to their allowances of the usual weekly sum. Up to the present there have been about 12,000 appeals altogether, of which some 6,000 came from Ireland. About half of the total number have been disposed of already, mostber have been disposed of already, most-ly in a sense adverse to the applicants, for the very obvious reason that the lo-ly in a sense adverse to the applicants, for the tery obvious reason that the local committee have been in favor of dealing generously with the old people, and if they could not approve, there was not much chance for the applicant thereafter.

It seems that 60 per cent, of the appeals turn on the question of the receipt of pauper relief; 30 per cent ion the "means" of the applicant, whether, in other words, he or she is too well off; and 10 per cent, on age, nationality and residence. These appeals can be presented by the pension officer, by the committees, by the applicants, or by any other person interested. Oddly enough, there are several of the latter, but the bulk come from the individuals themselves.

These old age pensions, it is conservatively estimated, will cost the country over $35,000,000 annually. Seven hundred thousand applications have been received. Of these 200,000 were disallowed, chiefly because the applicants had received poor relief.

The act embodying the expenditure of this enormous annual sum to the depersons in whose cases there been a very short or accidental The act embodying the expenditure of this enormous annual sum to the deserving poor within and beyond the seventy-year-age limit, contains the following clauses:

A writer in a London paper describing pension day scenes says the day was a revelation to the thoughtful observer, for there came into the light for the first time the proud poor. The highest pension is five shillings weekly, which is now being paid to persons having an income below $105 per year. If a man's income exceeds $105, but is below $155, small amounts will be paid. The action of private people, and in one case at least, a public body, discontinuing pensions to old folk on the ground that they can take advantage of the Government Act, is causing a great deal of hardship.

most admirably, and although it is epparent that the age limit of seventy must in course of time be reduced to sixty-five, yet, remembering that the scheme is in the experimental stage, it is working with wonderful smoothness. Nothing could exceed the courtesy and kindness of the over-worked rest office staffs, who, in the main, were dealing with people wholly unaccustomed to the "officias way." Almost every one of the old people had to be specially instructed and coached, and, whilst innumerable blunders were committed by the pensioners in their innocence, the strict letter of the law was not always insisted upon. And some of the old people were rather trying.

the pensioners in their mass of always insisted upon. And some of the old people were rather trying.

A very large number of the recipients had only the haziest notion of the significance of the pension. An old lady in Poplar, with a "strict conscience"—as she informed the postmaster—felt it her duty to inform the official that she had "never paid anything in, and that if he paid her, he did it on his own responsibility!" A pensioner at Islington wanted to know whether the grant "had anything to do" with the death of his brother, who had been killed in the Crimea. From the manner in which he insisted upon this point, it was very evident that he regarded his pension as a tardy recognition of his relationship with the heroic dead. Most common of all the inquiries, curiously enough, was in regard to retrospective "qualification. The Duke of Bedford, who is fifty years old, is one of the wealthiest men in England. Prime, who is a young man of good appearance and comes of a good family, smet with an inventor named Softley in Toronto at the Gladstone House, and made such a good impression that they came on to Guelph together to launch a stock company for a patented sanitary appliance. An office was opened up, but Mr. Softley took sick and the young man took charge, going in for $800, for which he gave his cheque on the Merchants Bank, St. George. On the 20th a cheque for $500 was given instead, and he explained that a delay would ensue, there being no branch of the bank here, so it was not until a couple of days ago that it was found there were no funds. Mr. Softley had issued other cheques on the strength of this one, but was able to meet them in time, and to give warning of the trasactions.

Many widows have lost part or whole of their allowances from the royal patricite fund. A circular note was early in December addressed by the royal corporation to the widows over seventy years, directing them to apply for pensions under the old age pension act. No intimation whatever was given that it intended to stop or reduce the allowance, which, as a rule, has been due to the shopkeepers before being received for the necessaries of life.

That this was only too true became apparent, however, on New Year's day, at Queenstown, when widows who were entitled to Government pensions found that their allowance had been lessened by the amount, as in most cases, which they would receive from the State, Most of these pensioners of the patricite fund were-paid quarterly, in advance, £3 l8s. but, to their dismay, the paying order for the deal wood Green a septuagenarian has

WILL NOT BUILD HOUSE OF REFUGE.

Couniu Council Sets Government Inspector Smith's Instructions at Defiance.

Councillor Hills Suggested Prince's Square as a Site for Refuge.

By a unanimous vote the County Coun- 1 il, at yesterday afternoon's session, de-cided to shelve the building of the county house of refuge for this year. The re-sult was not unexpected, as the members feel there is no necessity for rushing the matter, or doing anything in regard to it, unless compelled to by the Govern-ment. That the county is in a better position to look after its poor than any other county in the Province, was the concensus of opinion.

At the opening of the session the Council went into Committee of the Whole on the House of Refuge question. Councilor Waite moved, seconded by Councillor Pickard, that no action be taken in regard to Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith's communication in reference to the erection of a House of Refuge. Councillor Lawson took the chair, at the request of the Warden.

Councillor Hills thought it would be just as well to hear the Grand Jury's report and Dr. Smith's letter at the same time. The clerk read both com-

N. It was one that required state and introduced the resolution for the purpose of opening the way for a discussion. He thought that Wentworth was well provided for in having the House of Providence, and there would be no sense in having foo many places.

Councillor Binkley thought the resolution was somewhat usual. It was deallution was somewhat usual. It was dealing with a letter from the Government, which was official. The letter pointed ing with a letter from the Government, which was official. The letter pointed out that it was imperative that the building be gone on with at once. For a set of men intelligent enough to be elected to the County Council to disregard a communication from the Government, was, to his mind, the height of folly. The county has no permanent arrangement with the House af Providence. It was not a question of whether the Councillors themselves were in favor of having the House of Refuge or not, but whether the Council was going to act in compliance with the Government's order, or not. The statute states very clearly that the building of the House of Refuge must be commenced and completed this year. He did not think it was doing the fair and square thing to dodge the issue, by hiding behind mere excuses.

Councillor Vance wanted to know if the Government would go ahead with the building of the House of Refuge, in the Bovernment would go ahead with the building of the House of Refuge, in case the county refused.

Warden Gage said that he was not opposed to caring for the county poor, or, for that matter, to the building of a county house of refuge, if necessary. He was satisfied that the poor of the county are better and more cheaply cared for at the present time than they would be in a house of refuge under the direction of the county. Such in stitutions encouraged pauperism. If a house of refuge were built the taxes of the county would have to be increased. There are a lot of men who would be willing to enter such an institution who are well able to do a good day's work. If the Government wants the county to go on with the building of such an institution, why does Dr. Bruce Smith change his mind so often? The warden said he had in his pocket at the moment a letter form that gentleman to the effect that so long as the county poor are being well looked after there would be no need of building a house of refuge. Surrely this was somewhat inconsistent with the attitude of Dr. Smith at the present time, when he is demanding that the council build the refuge before 1910. It was the warden's opinion that the council would find that the cost of main. tenance of such an institution would be considerably more than the different tenance of such an institution would be considerably more than the different municipalities are paying at the present time. He had not heard of any conplaints from the various townships that their poor were not being looked sfter.

The Council ordered County Treasurer Cochrane to pay the bill of $320 for the preparation of the abstract in connection with the Beach by the registry office.

Councillor Hills said he thought the council should go very slowly in the matter, because it involves a serious responsibility on every member. The difficulty, he said, had been brought about by the vacillations of the Government. In 1903 a bill was brought in urging the building of houses of refuge. Later the time was extended to 1905, and again it was extended to 1908, and now the present Government have again extended the time until 1910. He did not think the Government would take any drastic action against the county until it had an opportunity of presenting its case to the right officials, and not through Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith.

case to the right officials, and no through Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith. Councillor Hills said that the hyster Councillor Hills said that the hysterical vaporings of grand juries had little effect on him. He considered that in charging these juries the bench had been unfair to the council in its remarks. The latter had had little or no opportunity of presenting its case to the public, except when some fair minded reporters of the press helped the council out.

lic, except when some fair minded reporters of the press helped the council out.

He stated further that the difficulties that have been placed in the way of the building of a house of refuge are on the increase, rather than on the decrease. He considered that Dr. Smith by his action has laid himself open to fair criticism by the Council. He has said that if the poor were properly provided for there would be no need of a house of refuge, and now he states that it is absolutely imperative that the matter be taken up at once. The question that was uppermost in the councillor's mind was: "Are we positively compelled to built before 1910?" If the poorhouse had to be built, then let the Council go ahead with the scheme at once. To his mind it was largely a question of domicile. If the Council is going to look for a site it would be best to have one with every convenience within reach, and not going into the country and select a farm. He suggested that the ground in front of the court house be utilized. As far as he could see it was disfigured by the scarters' stand, the year round, and the grounds themselves are inhabited largely by idlegs and bums.

Councillor Bunkley said such a plan could not be entertained, as there are provisions which distinctly state that the grounds in front of the court house are to be used for park purposes only. He did not think that Dr. Smith should come in for so much criticism, as it was clear that he is simply complying with the grounds in front of the court house are to be used for park purposes only. He did not think that Dr. Smith should come in for so much criticism, as it was clear that he is simply complying with the demands of the Government.

Chairman Lawson then put the motion to the committee, and it was carried without a dissenting voice.

When Warden Gage resumed the chair he put the motion to the Council, where it again carried unanimously. Then there came a mix-up when Councillor Binkley presented a resolution to the effect that the reeves of the Council be a committee to go ahead with the selection of a site for the building of the house of refuge.

Warden Gage ruled the motion out of order after hearing Councillor Hills' spirited objection to leaving the deputy reeves off such an important committee. The Warden explained that the motion was out of order for the reason that, in passing the resolution in regard to taking no action on Dr. Smith's letter the whole question of building a house of refuge was involved.

Councillor Lawson said he' had been under a misapprehension, believing that only Dr. Smith's letter was taken into consideration in the motion of Councillor Waite. In reply to several of the councillor Waite. In reply to several of the councillor Waite. In reply to several of the councillor Hills wanted to know what Saltfleet intended doing in regard to the paying of the taxes due the county. If the matter was not disposed of at once, he was prepared to take action.

Councillor Millen said that he would give the Council a definite answer this morning.

THE LAST DAY.

IN CAMPAIGN. Great January Sales End To-m row-Extraordinary Bargains. Citizens Will Go After Reduction

The Right House announces in this paper some wonderful value-giving for to-morrow. The last day of the great January sales that have been exciting so much attention and enthusiasm.

Three great free offers told of in their advertisement, will be withdrawn to. An enthusiastic and well-attended meeting of those citizens of Ward 7 who are interested in the question of license anree great free offers told of in their advertisement, will be withdrawn to-morrow night. It behooves every reader of this paper to take instant advantage of these great sale events. By all means get every need, for months ahead, supplied to-morrow at The Thomas C. Watkins store.

WILL SPEAK HERE.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—Mrs. G. Boumann Wells, of London, Eng., a wellknown suffragette leader, who is on this side of the water to indulge in a little missionary work, arrived in tne city from New York yesterday.
She will deliver several lectures
here, and will also speak in Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and other eastern cities. She seems terribly cut up over the fact that she will not get back to England in time for the doing when the British Parliament opens.

New Records.

To-morrow should establish new records for Treble's two stores, judging by the great values advertised. Saturday closes for this progressive firm one of the most successful year's business, and before stocks are entered on the books, they are making last day efforts by ignoring both profits and costs to make a final sweep of all broken lines, many of which are to be sold at half price. Be sure and make the most of this great event in men's furnishings, caps and boots.

At the Alexandra.

over last year, and including a thousand dollars for a semi-weekly collection of garbage during the months of July and August. Formerly the garbage was collected weekly, and during the hot weather this led to unhealthy odors. The present garbage system costs the city less than in any other city in Canada, and averages only 2 cents per week perhouse. A resolution was passed that two of the inspectors receive an increase of $100. In the past the work of inspection has been under the supervision of the health inspector, and as his other duties fully occupy his time this resolution was passed to allow him more time for the looking after of contagious diseases.

It was decided to ask the City Council for a contingency fund of $1,000 to meet any emergency in case of a smallpox epidemic.

The estimates were as follows:

Sevon at a time when you cannot very well afford to worry, the Government's well afford to due the amount paid in will be re-funded to the heirs with 3 per cent.

stated that this morning's snow storm was directly responsible for the arrest. When the pair were out hunting they saw Wilson going down Hughson street, but were too far away to start a chase with any hope of success, so they walked quietly to Hughson street on their way from police court on King William. At Hughson they stopped, but their man had disappeared, and fearing he might have become alarmed and started for the outskirts or a railway station, they started a search for him. Luckily no person had gone down Hughson street after him, and in the new snow were the imprints of his shoes. The eagle eyes of the detectives spotted these, and they followed. GENERAL NOTES.

Magistrate Livingston says he will stop wire pulling in future when local offenders are caught by the police, and they will be held until the police officers have made a most thorough investigation. This week a local man was let off by making restitution of $4 stolen from Stedman Bros., having pleaded guilty. Chief Slemin regarded the burglary as a daring one, the fellow having worked himself through the skylight into the store.

ValkEk DECIANES OFFER.

According to a report from South Africa, an attempt had been made there to get R. E. Walker, the Olympic champion sprinter, and A. B. Postle, the Australian professional, into a series of three sprint races. The money offered was tempting enough for the best ath late to leave the amateur ranks, but the siagular part of it was that Walker promptly refused.

It was proposed that the first contest should be either 100 or 129 yards, the prize money to be $3,000 and the race to be at Johannesburg. The second race was to take place at Durhan, and to be seventy yards. It was not stipulated what amount would be offered for it, In the Military League practice games

Hamilton basketball team have made up their minds to sit up and be good. They'll stay by the C.A.A.U. and may make a tour of New York State in the spring, playing unregistered teams. Of course, on a trip like that, they take a chance of running into a few professional players, but as no-body is likely to find it out, that won't hurt much. But anyway, Hamilton will quit howling for a few weeks—and that helps some.

New York, Jan. 29 .- Jem Driscoll champion featherweight of England and Australia, defeated Johnny Marto, of this city, on points in a slashing tenound bout at the Fairmount A. C. last night. The Briton gave a remarkable exhibition of ring science against a slugger, who was probably ten pounds heavier. Driscoll was quick as a cat on his feet, kept a cool head, in spite of incessant rushing tactics by his antogonist, and landed so many clean blows with both hands that Mario's left eye was completely closed, while his nose and mouth were badly bruised. In sidestep-ping and blocking Driscoll avoided many ping and blocking Driscoll avoided many dangerous blows, while he was always on the alert for openings. He jarred Marto several times with heavy right-handers on the jaw, but the latter's toughness probably saved him from a knockout. Driscoll could not have lost the mill if it had gone to a finish. To ring experts he appeared to be one of the best boxers that ever stepped into a ring in this city, and it was the opinion that at 126 pounds, ringside, Attell would have his hands full with him in a tenround contest. Driscoll is matched with Leach Cross, and the mill will be decided at the Fairmount A. C. probably on Feb. 11.

ATTACK ON DR. PUGSLEY.

Minister Accuses Premier Hazen of Unfair Tactics.

Dr. Pugsley Desires to Take Legal Proceedings.

Mr. Sealey's Maiden Speech Well Received.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.-If, as they profess it is the desire of the Opposition to expedite the business of the House this session, they are taking a peculiar way of showing it. Two days have been spent over Dr. Reid's motion dealing with the reception and awarding of tenders, and the end of the debate is not yet in sight. For the unprolongation of the discussion the party who sit to the left of the Speaker must be held responsible. Putting aside the question of whether the motion was called for at all, in view of the regulation passed by the Government relating to the procedure of receiving and awarding tenders, the issue raised by the member for Grenville was a simple one and could have been disposed of very briefly.

If the present system, which, by the way, has been followed since Confederation and obtains in every Province of the Dominion and Great Britain as well, is onen to objection, it might have been pealed vigorously to the chair. question of whether the motion was is open to objection, it might have been expected that the Opposition would avail themselves of the opportunity to advance solid and substantial reasons for advance solid and substantial reasons for the change suggested, and prove by concrete instances that the department had in the matter of tenders been wrongfully administered. Instead of adopting this course, however, the Conservative speakers one after the other accepted the motion as a pretext for a renewal of the mud-slinging which they included in so freely last session, and findly revealed the real motive behind the motion by making a concentrated attack upon the Minister of Public Works.

to Mayes for that affidavit, and he has declined to produce it."

The Minister of the Public Works then told of how before the Mayes affidavit was made public he was approached by ex-Ald. Baxter, a prominent Conservative of St. John, and informed that unless he (Dr. Pugsley) agreed to purchase Mayes' dredge for $15.000, Mayes would make it umpleasant for him. Other gentlimen warned him beforehand of Mayes' threats, and one even had been shown a photograph of a cheque for $2.000 and led to believe that that cheque had been paid to him (Dr. Pugsheque had been paid to him (Dr. Pugs-ey) while he was Minister of Public cheque had been paid to him to 2. Tags lety) while he was Minister of Public Works.

Dr. Pugsley concluded a clear-cut and convincing statement of the whole history of the case by drawing the moral from the whole situation, and leaving it for the consideration of his honorable friends opposite. He pointed out that mere charges of wrong-doing never count for much with the average elector unless backed up by evidence. "Give me," he said, "the name of a single Conservative who says he has been improperly dealt with under the present tender system. You must do that before you can expect the people of Canada to take any stock in your charges," and then as a parting shot, he declared that he could see nothing in the rewards of being in power in Parliament that might tempt one to lose sight of every principle of decency and fair play, even in the heat of a political campaign. "It does seem to me." he concluded, "as if the example decency and fair play, even in the heat of a political campaign. "It does seen to me." he concluded, "as if the example set by the leaders of the Conservative party—by the leaders I mean every member of the Opposition side of the House—in making reckless and unwar-ranted charges of all kinds, has been followed by their friends and supporters *howeverbout the country, even to the throughout the country, even to the reading of false affidavits and the print-ing of forged telegrams, in order to de-

Dr. Pugsley interrupted to say that Mayes' statements, as had been shown, were untrue, and the original affidavit itself had been concealed, and Mayes had refused to produce it. attack upon the Minister of Public Works.

A DISGRACEFUL PLOT.

To that attack Dr. Pugsley replied with great effort yesterday, and when the House resumed this afternoon he proceeded to let in more light upon the conspiracy hatched by the Conservative party jin New Brunswick on the eve of the election to drive him from public life. Upon Premier Hazer's part in the plot Dr. Pugsley commented in scathing terms. "It is to the disgrace of the man who read that false affidavit, and who sought to do me irreprobable injury." he declared, "that he has never had the manliness to express regret for what he did. I want to know," he proceeded, "whether that affidavit was sworn to by Mayes, and whether it is in existence, because if it is in existence it will be possible to found proceedings upon it. Through my solicitors I have made repeated application to Mayes for that affidavit, and he has declined to produce it."

Will be the Topic Discussed at This Convention.

The Canadian Forestry Association will meet, this year, in Toronto on Thursday and Friday, February 11th and 12th. The meetings will be held in the Convocation Hall of the University of Toronto. The railways have, as in former years, granted a single-fare rate or the meeting.

The Association decided to hold the meeting in Toronto on the invitation of the Board of Trade of that city, This fact of itself is interesting as tending to show that forestry has now come to be recognized as a business matter. The preservation and perpetuation of Canada's forests—the ideal aimed at by the Association—is indeed, judged by the experience of other countries, the best business policy Canada can pursue. usiness policy Canada can pursue. The chief work of the Canadian For keep before the Canadian public the wisdom of such a policy, to advocate the exploration of wild lands, with a view of having the land unsuitable for agriculture set aside as permanent forest land, and generally to disseminate knowledge on forestry topics. For the better carrying out of this last object the Association maintains the Canadian Forestry Journal, a magazine which all its members receive.

The Association has been in existence for but nine years, having been founded in February, 1900. by Mr. E. Stewart, then Superintendent of Forestry for the Dominion. From the first it has been successful in attracting to its membership many provinces, under the them well as officials connected with the timber administration of the Dominion and the several provinces, well-known scientists and educators and others interested in one or other of the many aspects of forestry. The membership is now ed in one or other of the many aspects of forestry. The membership is now nearly 1,700, the past year having seen an increase of nearly five hundred.

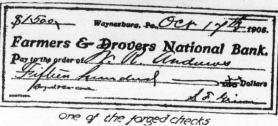

The president of the association for 1908-09 is Mr. W. B. Snowball, of Chat-Intion.

Mr. W. O. Sealey, the new Liberal member for Wentworth, in a neat maiden speech brought back the House to a sense of the real issue by offering some practical arguments against the "open door" policy advocated in the motion.

Then arose Mr. D. H. McAllister of the association for 1908-09 is Mr. W. B. Snowball, of Chatham, N. B., prominent in the lumbering industry of that province. The secretary's Mr. A. H. D. Ross, of the Faculty of Férestry, University of Toronto, who will [gladly furnish further information regarding the Association and its meetings.

CONVICTED BANKER, HIS HOME AND A FORGED PAPER.

J. B. F. Rinehart, the former cashier of the Farmers' and Drovers' National Bank, at Waynesburg, Pa., did not appeal, but went to prison to serve his fifteen-year sentence. His home at Waynesburg was one of the finest properties in Green county. Former County Treasurer Grimm says his signature to paper made out in favor of W. R. Andrews was forged by Rinehart. Andrews was former Republican state chairman. J. A. Fowler took a prominent part in the prosecution of Rinehart.

The Strand Magazine for February is an excellent number and contains a variety of good things. Hall Caine continues his enthralling story of Modern Egypt, "The White Christ," in which thrilling incidents are judiciously seasoned with fascinating love episodes, Harry Lauder, the highest-priced vaudeville artist in the world, commences his life story under the title of "My Reminiscences." Harry Furniss concludes his "The Comic Side of Orime" with some interesting stories, amusing and gruesome, which he cleverly illustrates. The fiction is good. The color section is devoted to Metropolitan opera artistes, and is an excellent feature.

TO REORGANIZE THE SENATE.

Senator Scott Gives Notice of Sweeping Resolution.

Election of Two-thirds of Senators Proposed.

Remaining Third to be Appointed by the Government of the Day.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.-In the Senate to day ex-Secretary of State Hon. R. W. Scott, backed by the authority of thirty-four years as leader of the Liberal party in the upper House both in Opposition and in power, lution based on the results of his and unique experience, seventeen years he has led the Senate on the Government side and for seventeen years on the Opposition In brief, his proposal is to have two-thirds of the upper House elected two-thirds of the upper House elected every eight years by popular compulsory vote, and one-third appointed by the Government in power for an eight-year tenure of office.

His resolution, after premising that the time has come to amend the constitution of the Senate so as to bring the mode of selection of the Senators more in harmony with public compared. more in harmony with public opin-ion, provides as follows: That the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec be each divided into sixteen electoral diseach divided into sixteen electoral dis-tricts for representation in the Sen-ate; that the Provinces of NovasScotia and New Brunswick be each divided into seven electoral districts, and the Pro-vince of Prince Edward Island into two electoral districts, and that for the pres-ent and until the four western Provinces have been given increased representation Manitoba, Naskatchewan and Alberta be each divided into three electoral dis-tricts, and British Columbia be divid-ed into two electoral districts. In ed into two electoral districts. In defining the electoral districts due regard is to be had not only to approximately equalizing the population in each district, but to the convenience of local interests and county bound-

That immediately after the electoral That immediately after the electoral districts shall have been defined a member of the existing Senate shall be allotted to each of the said districts, having due regard as far as possible to residence, local interests or other reasons. That as vacancies hereafter arise in the representation of these districts the va-cancy shall be filled by the electors of the district entitled to vote for members of the House of Commons. That in order to diminish the expenses attending elections over wide areas and to secure a larger and freer expression of independ-ent opinion, a system of compulsory vot-ing shall apply to all elections of Sen-ator, every voter being required to exer-cise his right to the franchise, and by hallot, under a penalty of ten dollars, to be collected by the returning officer and applied in the reduction of the election expenses. elections over wide areas and to secure

EMERGENCY APPOINTMENTS.

That in order to more nearly equalize the standing of the political parties in the Senate, on the occasion of a change in Government, the principle laid down in sections 26 and 27 of the British North America act shall apply; that is to say, the incoming administration may appoint an additional number of Senators, not exceeding nine, if in the opinion of the Governor-General, acting Senators, not exceeding the in the opinion of the Governor-General, acting independently of the Privy Council, the request is a reasonable one, but not more than one of the Senators to be appointed shall be taken from any one Province; and that no more appointments of Senators shall be made for that Province until a second vacancy has arisen; thus reverting to the original number of Senators allotted to said Province.

That Senators representing the several different Provinces be requested to meet and suggest the best mode of dividing the Province into Senate electoral districts, and also the name of the Senator who will represent each particular

TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION. TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION.

That the House of Commons be asked to concur in the proposed change in the constitution of the Senate, and that the Senate and House of Commons adopt a joint address to the King, praying that the British North America act be so amended as to conform to the foregoing resolution.

smended as to conform to the foregoingresolution.

Hon. Mr. Scott said his object was to continue the existence of the Senate.
He feared that the Upper Chamber might not be perpetuated under the present system. The plan of those who devised Confederation was to have a reasonable degree of equality in the Senate, but that object had not been accomplished, as changes of Government had not occurred as frequently as was expected. A Government under the present system was likely to be embarrassed by a hostile Upper Chamber. The present Government had been for two sessions in the minority in the Senate.

The numerous was now reduced to five, and before the Government left office it was likely that there would not be a single Conservator from Ontario in the Uppe office there were eighteen Conservative Government left office it was likely that there would not be a single Conservative Senator from Ontario in the Upper House. Could the Senate be defended before the public of Ontario if one of the great political parties did not have a single representative in the Canadian Upper House? He called attention to the movement in England in regard to the House of Lords. That hody itself had recognized the need for a change, and had passed a resolution declaring that a number of the Lords should be returned by election. The House of Lords had recognized that it was behind the times. The Canadian Senate should do the same. Now was the time for a change which would perpetuate the Senate, and five years hence, he believed, the time would have passed, for lieved, the time would have passed, for public sentiment would by that time have been formed too strongly against a Senate with a good majority on one ide. The system he proposed would ot disturb the existing Senators.

The conservation and regulation of the rivers for water power alone, to say nothing of transportation, was necessary for the future industries of Canada. The regulation of the rivers depended on the maintenance of forest growth, and, therefore, the future prosperity of the country hinged on that important question. The time might come when, with the development of the aeroplane, electric transportation would be confined to underground tunnels, but it was evident that the age of the electrical engineers in other directions had still to come. New Westminster, B. C., Jan. 28 .-Piqued because a recent despatch from Ottawa intimates that discipline in the British Columbia Penitentiary was not perfect during his tenure of office, D. D. Bourke, ex-Deputy Warden, and for months virtually Warden, has written to the press, intimating that unless justice is done him he will "open up a new field for moral reformers by telling the world the truth about the escape of Bill Miner and three conviet companions," who levanted from the institution in August, 1907. Mr. Bourke states that the disclosures he may make public would be sensational and far-reaching.

Neither Canada Nor United States Will Own Them-Girl in the East Enjoys Dodging the Immigration

Calais, Maine, Jan. 28 .- Mary O'Neill known as the "girl without a country, is making no end of trouble for the migration officers. If Mary is found in St. Stephens on the Canadian side of the line she is chased across the bridge to Calais, and if an American immigration officer gets sight of her he chases her back to Canada

Mary's case has been referred to Ottawa and Washington. In the mean-while Mary is doing a shuttle act across the international bridge. Mary O'Neill is a sprightly lass of nineteen, and says she was born in a shack near Moosehead Lake. Mary's mother died and her father married a St. Stephens girl and settled down in the Canadian town. Mary and her stepmother did not get on very well, and Mary-was turned out. Then her troubles began.

Inspector W. Hawthorne, of the Canadian service, was called in by the St. Stephens town authorities, who believed that the girl might become a town charge. Mary was escorted to the bridge and told to emigrate to Maine and stay tawa and Washington. In the mean-

HEN you know that this vast sum has been gradually gathered from a small beginning, over thirty years ago, you will recognize that, back of it, there must be sound, conservative management, to command such public confidence.

When you know that the greater proportion of this money represents the small, regular, systematic savings of the farmer and artisanyou will understand why this advertisement is inserted, soliciting your Savings Account; and comprehend the reason why the Bank of Hamilton should be selected, as the best bank to entrust with your money.

The absence of all display renders the Bank of Hamilton most acceptable to those who demand stability rather than display, in the Bank they select for the custody of their money. Combined with this characteristic, the absence of all unnecessary formality in the opening of Savings Accounts, or the regular deposit or withdrawal of money, makes transactions with this Bank especially pleasant to the majority of depositors

MORE LUXURY.

It Used to Be.

idon, Jan. 28.-The great increase in luxury here is subject of frequent dis-cussion. A well-known diplomat said: in country houses in the seventice way of living was plain and unpre the courage to offer his guests boiled eggs and cold ham for breakfast on a hot day, a dish of cold meats and cheese hot day, a dish of cold meats and cheese for luncheon, and a dinner of four or five courses all told? FEBRUARY FURNITURE

We begin next Monday the Semi-Annual Sale of Homefurnishings. This event is not gotten up at haphazard, or in a hurry, simply to boom business at a dull season, but preparations were begun months ago to make this one of the most successful sales we have ever carried on. Many stores at such times are tempted to gather up the culls of the factories-furniture that is out of design, or off color, because the factories are ready to dispose of them at any price. THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NOTHING OF THAT KIND HERE. Nothing but first class, well made and well finished furniture is offered, much of it new designs for the coming season and now daily arriving at our doors by the dray load. These designs are all placed on our floors at prices much below the regular figure. Goods purchased now will be kept until wanted.

Watch our frequent announcements in the daily newspapers, and visit our store and avail yourself of the opportunity to save money on your Homefurnishings.
