In Honor of Passing of Home Rule.

To mark the passing of the third reading of the memorable Home Rule Bill for the third time, the pupils of St. Patrick's Hall were given a holiday this morning. Some of the officers and members of the Benevolent Irish Society who are always in close communication with and much concerned over matters that transpire in the home land and who have been anxiously looking forward for a number of years back to see Ireland becoming "a nation once again," met this morning at their hall.

Whilst the members were congratulating themselves in anticipation of the final passing, it was considered that the most fitting way to celebrate the victory would be to grant the boys in charge of the Irish Christian Brothers a holiday. Accordingly fully 600 boys were equally jubilant over the solution of the Home Rule Bill, assembled in the B. I. S. Club Rooms, occupied by their teachers, where they were addressed by J. L. Slattery, Esq., the Society's venerable Vice-President, who delivered a most learned, interesting and eloquent discourse.

Patriotic and very interesting speeches were made by Rev. Bros. Ryan and Kennedy and Messrs. P. F. Moore and J. C. Pippy who also paid a tribute to the British Empire, after which the assembly dispersed with several ringing cheers and the rendition of a "Nation Once Again" and the "National Anthem."

The B. I. S. Hall is now profusely decorated with bunting and every night this week will celebrate in right loyal fashion.

LONDON, May 23.

The gravity of the Ulster situation was emphasized today by the announcement that Sir Edward Carson was leaving for Belfast, his departure being hastened on account of a meeting of the Cabinet Council which had been summoned this morning. Saturday meetings are most unusual but serious developments in Ireland and Monday's debate on the Third Reading of the Home Rule Bill necessitated an exceptional course. Carson's action recalled his departure just two months ago, which precipitated the Irish crisis, barely averting civil war. The Government is alarmed at the prospect of rioting or worse, during the coming week, in Londonderry and Tyrone, where the Unionists and Nationalist forces are equal. This is regarded as the storm-centre. The Nationalist force now includes 20,000 former army men, fully armed. The Government, it is said, contemplates a much firmer course in Ulster than it has hitherto taken. If any serious disturbances occur the Government will call out a large body of the regular army. Should the military be unwilling, the Government has already decided to appeal to the electors immediately on this issue. The Cabinet held a long conference on the Ulster situation in the home of Premier Asquith to-day and recent events indicate that another crisis is approaching.

LONDON, May 24.

In 48 hours, perhaps less, the Home Rule Bill will have passed its third reading in the Commons, and in due course become law, despite the House of Lords, whose vote under the Parliament Act is limited to two successive sessions. There will be a long, hard fight, however, possibly civil war in Ireland, before a Parliament is set up in Dublin, for Ulster Unionists are determined that their portion of the Province shall be excluded from the operation of the Bill and threaten to establish a Provisional Government, as soon as the Bill leaves the Commons. The third reading was interrupted on Tuesday by the suspension of the sitting by the Speaker, because of the obstinate tactics of the Unionists, which could not be checked. Bona Law will tomorrow again ask Premier Asquith to acquaint the House with the terms of the Amending Bill. If he refuses, the Unionists may leave the Chamber in a body, in which case the Government will pass the bill and adjourn over the holiday.

LONDON, May 24.

It was thought that the Ipswich election might influence the Cabinet to take a different course, but this hope has been dissipated by a letter from the Rt. Hon. Herbert Samuel, Postmaster General, in which that Minister, quoting the figures of 42 bye-elections, since the Bill was introduced in 1912, sets up the claim that 236,000 electors voted for Home Rule candidates and 201,000 for anti-Home Rulers. He concludes his letter by saying: "I do not know on what grounds the principle can be contended that the judgment of 17 constituencies with 201,000 votes should be accepted, and that of 29 constituencies with 236,000 votes, rejected."

LONDON, May 24.

Eyes in England are now turning to Ulster, where arrangements have been made to assemble a Provisional Government and mobilize well-armed volunteers. Arms and ammunition have been distributed, and plans have been completed for calling out the volunteers at a moment's notice. According to orders to the commanders of the Volunteers, these steps have been taken "to assist in keeping peace in the event of disturbances arising out of the passage of the Home Rule Bill." Londonderry and Tyrone are danger points, for here Nationalists and Unionists are evenly divided, and both armed. Nationalist rejoicings over the passage of the Bill might easily lead to a clash, and extra police have been drafted for service in these districts, and if necessary, the military will be ordered to proceed to the assistance of the civil authorities.

BELFAST, May 25.

In churches throughout Ulster yesterday, there were exhortations from the pulpits to worshippers to avoid anything which would be provocative to disorder. The Roman Catholic Bishop of Derry had a pastoral letter read in all the churches, which enjoined all to avoid any popular manifestation of jubilation over the success of the Home Rule Bill, so as not to offend the susceptibilities of their political opponents.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferers and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?
