Trenching AT GALLIPOLI,

By JOHN GALLISHAW.

The personal narrative of a loyal Newfoundland soldier in the disastrous Dardanelles campaign. An adventure-story stranger than fiction; as well as a reliable account, by an unusually keen participant, of the gigantic failure at Gallipoli.

For obvious reasons not a great many details of the Dardanelles campaign were permitted to be published while it was running its dramatic and terribly costly course; nor since, either, for that matter. Mr. Gallishaw, a student at Harvard when the war began and now, wounded, again in this country, is at liberty to write about what happened. His book, moreover, gives an extraordinarily vivid impression of what trench-fighting and trench-living is like.

If you haven't heard or seen it, get it now.

Illustrated from photographs.

ECZEMA

NEARLY all forms of itching skin diseases come under the common heading of eczema. A vesicle, or small water pimple appears. This breaks and exudes a sticky substance which hardens and forms a crust. As this is accompanied by intense itching the suffering is often very keen, and the temptation to scratch the irritated skin is almost irresistible.

By using Dr. Chase's Ointment you can avoid scratching and unnecessarily irritating the diseased parts. This ointment thoroughly cleanses the sores, keeps them antiseptic, and sets up the process of healing. In obstinate cases a little patience is necessary, but you can rest assured that no treatment is so certain to effect a complete cure.

Mr. J. E. Jones, 228 University Ave., Kingston, Ont., writes:—"I had eczema on my hand for about five years. I tried a great many remedies, but found that while some of them checked it, finally I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in six weeks my hand was completely better. I would not do without a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment in the house if it cost $2.00 a box."

The old idea that eczema was a disease of the blood has been exploded, because it was impossible to effect a cure by means of internal medicines. The treatment must be applied locally to the diseased parts, and there has yet to be discovered anything to rival Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema.

CHAPTER XLII.

An eager light came into the sick man's eyes, his lips moved, he turned to Malda.

"You will?" he said, with unfeigned joy. "But not a small part of it—all of it—I'll only take just enough to live on. Perhaps—perhaps for your father's sake you'll let me come and see you—not to be a trouble—not often—"

The tears almost blinded Malda.

"You shall share it with us," she said. "You shall be with us always; otherwise I will not consent—you'll let me take care of you—be as daughters to you—"

His face flushed and his eyes closed for a moment; then he opened them again and to them all it seemed as if a new life were dawning in the pale blue orbs.

"It's worth living for," he said.

"Ah, yes, yes," said Malda, with tender eagerness; "you must live, you must get better soon, for our sakes."

He nodded, then his eyes sought Heroncourt's, and he looked troubled and uncertain; but presently he said, with startling clearness:

"I remember now! It's all come back to me! It's about the marriage. Yes; it's all come back! I wanted to ask you, to hear from your own lips—tell me, tell him, Miss Malda, whether you were married to that man Broseley, out there at Milda Wolda. That's what I wanted to ask you!"

At his words, the colour left Malda's face, her eyes opened widely, and she shuddered; but though she avoided looking at Heroncourt, she knew that his face had gone white, that he was gazing at her with anxious, stern enquiry.

"No, no!" she panted. "I am not married to him. He wanted—he lured me to the hut—but Carrie came—Oh, no, no!" she shuddered.

"I knew he lied," said Purely, with something like his old drawl. "He was a bad lot. I really ought to have shot him; it was my duty. But she's yours still, my lord."

SOLD BY T. McMURDO & CO.

"I thank you very much, Mr. Clark, for your unsolicited testimonial to my appearance. And may one ask: why Australia?"

"Why, because you were there, of course!" responded Ricky ingenuously. "What else do you suppose I went for?"

"I'm sure I don't know," said Carrie, with too elaborate an indifference. "Some men go there to seek their fortune."

"Do they?" he retorted. "Well, I went there to seek the girl I love. She's fortune enough for me. And directly I got there, lo and behold, you'd taken flight—and so I came back, of course."

"And, lo and behold, I see!" said Carrie. "Aren't you ashamed of yourself, spending your time on such a goose chase?"

He burst into a laugh.

"Mind I can't call you a goose," he said.

She bit her lip and stared at him with mock resentment and hauteur; but Ricky had passed from boyhood to manhood—had he not been to Australia and back?—and was not to be put off by this play-acting. He went to her and put his arm round her waist and kissed her, as he had done that night at Coleridge Street. Carrie raised her hand—but perhaps she remembered that her hair was up and she was a woman now; for her hand fell; he got hold of it, and presently, somehow or other, he was kneeling beside her, and her arms were round his neck.

"Now, I am happy at last!" remarked Ricky, with a long-drawn sigh of perfect contentment. "But I say, Carrie," he said, with sudden gravity, and shaking his head seriously, "it's playing it rather low down on you. It's like asking you to be a mendicant bride; for I'm terribly hard up; but perhaps I could go out to Australia again; there are always openings there for a young man of exceptional talent and flourishing muscle."

"Oh, no, you don't," said Carrie, emphatically. "I've taken a dislike to Australia, beautiful as it is—that is, for engaged young men."

"You see, I've left Spinnars," he explained; "but I'm sure you won't mind marrying a poor man, Carrie, even if you have to make an intimate and prolonged acquaintance with cold mutton."

"I like cold mutton," said Carrie.

CHAPTER I.

She is a slight, thin, little woman, with a pale, plaintive face, and a deprecatory manner; the sort of woman who dislikes changes, and whose sole amusement in life is fancy needle work and the collection of old china. That such a woman should be fated to play the part of chaperon to a high-spirited girl like Dulcie Dorrimore is one of those odd arrangements which Fate is known to take a delight in.

Dul—sie! Oh, my dear, are you quite deaf? I am perfectly hoarse calling you, and she puts a thin, white little hand on the girl's graceful, square-set shoulders.

"Oh, I beg your pardon, aunt! Were you calling me? No, not deaf, but one can't hear one's self think in this din. Isn't it delightful? How you can sit inside there with this—and she waves an eloquent hand—"going on just outside, amazes me. Look! do look! Isn't it wonderful, isn't it glorious? Can you imagine that it is really real, that it isn't a scene out of an opera ballet at the theatre? "This is real! It is Rome! It is the carnival, and you are here in the midst of it, to keep my sense of reality awake and existent. Look!"

Mrs. Fermor does look; shrinkingly, nervously she just peers over the edge of the wide balustrade, and then draws back with a little shiver.

"What a dreadful crowd! and the noise; it makes my head ache. How can you stand here, so near and—"

At this moment a handsome Italian dressed as a page of the middle ages, passes, or not passes, but stops and smiles up boldly at the beautiful face above him, and with a true Italian grace throws a rose with such unerring aim, that it strikes softly against the girl's breast.

Mrs. Fermor shrinks back with an exclamation.

"Dulcie! you really must come in; they can see you!"

"See me! Of course they can!" retorts the girl, laughing, and pushing the rose over with the toe of her dainty, white-satin shoe.

"But—but"—remonstrates poor Mrs. Fermor. "You really mustn't, Dulcie—you, mustn't, indeed! Suppose any one—any of the visitors, any of the English—should see you; all sorts of people are out this evening, you know. And—and—at least you must put on that hideous and absurd mask!"

The girl laughs.

"You are right, it is a hideous and absurd little thing. I had forgotten it. After all, what does it matter? What harm am I doing up here, just looking on. Now, if I were down there in the crowd," and she sighs, longingly.

"Down there amongst—my dear Dulcie!"

"Well, I'm not, I said if I were, it would be different. What harm does it do me for a man to throw a rose? It was a graceful jest! When one is in Rome, one must do as Rome does. This is no Hastings, aunt."

"I wish it were!" retorts Mrs. Fermor, with a mild groan.

"I know you do, dear," assents the girl, in her clear, mellow voice. "I know you'd rather be sitting on those awful wooden seats by St. Leonard's, looking at the tide coming in or the tide going out, and listening to that dreadful band; and so you shall presently; but for a little while—ah, only a little while—I must have my way. It is my reward for many a month of weary boredom."

"Dulcie, I wish you wouldn't talk so strangely," remonstrates the elder lady. "And if you really won't come in—"

"I really won't, dear," laughs the girl. "I mean staying here until the very last of the show is over. In indeed, I never was so happy except at my first ball, and I shall never probably be half so happy again."

"Then, at least, do draw that ridiculous cloak around you and keep that mask on," entreats Mrs. Fermor, and she retreats, halting at the open window to ask, plaintively, "Shall I send you out a cup of tea?"

"Tea!" ejaculated the girl, with good tempered derision. "Tea me no teas, aunt! Say rather a glass of champagne or Tuscany"—but at this Mrs. Fermor disappears and seeks comfort in the recess of the couch and the pages of the last milk-and-water three volume fiction which the English library supplies to its patronesses.

And the girl stays, her brilliant, deep-set eyes never wearying of the pageant, her eyes never for a moment tired of the ceaseless laughter and resonant music.

But she is mindful of her aunt's injunction, and does keep the cloak round her slim figure and the little mask before her eyes; but for all that the passer-by glance up, and a flower or a shower of sweets ascends to the balcony and falls at her feet. Every now and then the distinctly defined figure of an English tourist appears in the crowd, and these, when they occur, never fail to look up, for the girl's nationality is unmistakable; and presently one of these stops and with something like a struggle manages to stem the tide of rushing, laughing revelers, and holding his place in the stream lifts his hat.

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas Range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. ## The Evening Telegram is The People's Paper.

The Motor

Editor Evening Telegram

Sir,—You in your capacity of the People's Paper, have done a great favour by continuing to run this motor news column. There are persons running to-day that in any other paper the Globe would not have run a wheelbarrow. They have gone completely mad and lost their heads because of a cess that has come their way war began, and although the letters have been written and in the press a little, no one has been paid to them, or like to know if the police are allowed by law. This means of proving that each guilty of oversteeding. They are feeling pretty bad about this matter and it will be a holler when they take their own hands and inflict on the drivers. You can tell me that it is a thing that should happen any night, and that for the people out there, it is a thing that should be prevented any way. It lies with you and if they fail to do it, the people they will have to blame. Waterford Bridge, the Bay Bulls Road, was a sooner or later that will be one to sit up and take notice of. Speeding is kept up. Morris to protect us and without delay. Surely there is to remain inactive and the tants murdered before we leave it with him to let us edy and to do so. In these people are indignant and are treated and do not know up with it. Now is the time to avert serious trouble. We are fooling in dealing with this menace, and if that is not intended to protect us, do not blame us if we take matters into our own hands and protect ourselves and our families is the time to avoid serious. We want it done without delay.

Yours truly,

The War.

Little fighting is reported from any front to-day, but there are several indications in the messages that the lull will not be of long duration. Berlin reports that the centre of the German line in Flanders is withstanding a constant day and night bombardment. It is not surprising, for we know that the British are merely waiting for the re-organization of their positions and the completion of preparations to re-open the furious attack which only the winter will interrupt for any length of time. Petrograd at the same time announces the opening of a German offensive at Riga and seems to allow it a certain initial success. This news is not surprising either. It is, in fact, a little belated, for American newspapers were hysterical more than a week ago over the actual loss of Riga and had Petrograd itself captured in prospect. What was a likely threat may be in the course of execution, but it is an ambitious project for the under-manned German army which has had ten weeks to count on before the early northern winter. Only an utter paralysis of Russian resistance would allow it a chance of success. In the south things are looking critical for the Roumanians, though there also Mackensen is urgently demanding the men that are not forthcoming.

The Russian situation (which may yet improve from within) is more than offset by the Italian successes, which have evidently been more considerable than the cables have suggested. The Scientific American said pertinently, before the recent great victory had been won: "Another hope is due to the present conditions in Austria. It is known that her strength is dropping so rapidly, that no great number of reinforcements can be drawn from the eastern front to produce material results on the Italian frontier. It is believed that this will be shown as soon as another forward movement of the Italian forces on the Carso front is begun." It has been shown, not alone by the success attendant upon that forward movement, but also by the forced levies upon Poland. In popular estimates of the future and the duration of the war, perhaps too much attention is ordinarily paid to the still great reserves of Germany in all respects and too little to the rapidly dwindling resources of her allies, who will inevitably, sooner or later, precipitate her downfall.

Finally, an eloquent commentary on the economic situation is supplied by the Copenhagen report that Norway has food stocks on hand sufficient to maintain her for another month only. Allowing for obvious exaggeration, we can well believe the seriousness of the outlook before that country. No one will waste much pity upon Norway. Had she not, with other neutrals, poured her own products into the warehouses of the country that was busy sinking her ships and murdering her seamen, she would not now be reduced to such a plight by the stoppage of the American supply. Indications that Holland, Sweden, Denmark and Switzerland are feeling the same strain would be more welcome still, though they are not wanting now. Everyone is resigned to the prospect of another winter of war, but the resignation will need to be greatest in the enemy dominions. With her own crops barely more than half that of last year and the supply through neutrals drained dry, Germany faces a terrible ordeal in the coming six months. They will leave her shaken and emaciated to oppose, when they are over, the tremendous, overwhelming, final assault that is rapidly gathering all its elements together against her.

Big Fire at Norris Arm

Yesterday afternoon the Reid N&D Co's. freight shed at Norris Arm was destroyed by fire, as were also two dwelling houses owned by Messrs. Ryan and Spurrell. How the fire originated is unknown, but as the three buildings were on fire simultaneously there is reason to believe that some one is responsible for the blaze. The freight shed was uninsured and it is not known if any insurance was carried on the dwellings. About two years ago the Reid Co's. station was burnt to the ground at the same place.

Fire at Topsail.

About 3 a.m. to-day a dwelling house and barn owned by a fisherman at Chamberlain's, Topsail West, was totally destroyed by fire. The fire first broke out in the barn, in which there was stored a quantity of hay, and before the flames could be checked the dwelling, which stood near, caught fire and was quickly demolished. The owner of the property and his family are at present fishing on the Labrador.

Finish the Match.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Mr. Editor.—Those who saw the cricket of Wednesday and of Wednesday week are hoping the unfinished second match will be played off on Wednesday afternoon, after which there should be time for a final one-inning game between these well-matched teams in aid of the same good cause.

Yours,
OLD TIMER.

Motor Tragedy Inquiry

The preliminary inquiry into the motor tragedy, which happened on the Goulds' Road on August 26th, set down for this morning in Court was deferred until three o'clock to-morrow afternoon, Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings, on behalf of the prosecution, stating that the Crown was not prepared yet to proceed and asking for the further remand of the accused, John Parker. The request was granted and bail was again allowed in the same amount, $20,000.

Motor Cars for Priest and Doctor

Rev. Fr. Kelly and Dr. Chisholm of Manuels have each purchased a new Ford motor car. Both priest and doctor have a large stretch of ground to cover in their mission and district and by the aid of their new purchases will be in a better position to attend to the spiritual and bodily wants of the people under their care.

Suspect Acquired.

The young man Quirk, belonging to the Battery, who was arrested on suspicion of breaking into the General Hospital and was kept in custody since Friday last, was given his liberty this morning, the police having no evidence against him. The real burglar is still at large and the police hope to run him down ere long.

Reid's Boats.

The Argyle is leaving Placentia to-day on the western route.
The Diana is north of Twillingate.
The Clyde is leaving Lewisporte to-day.

The Dundee is leaving Port Blanford to-day.

The Thetis left Catalina early on Saturday morning, going north.

Returning Soldiers.

A telegram has been received from Major Timewell to the effect that the following are en route to Newfoundland:—1081 Alfred J. Goase, Torbay; 1318 Allan G. Steele, Northern Bay; 1716 Charles Hardiman, Grand John, P.B.; 1987 Lemuel Morey, Boot Hr., N.D.B.

PERSONAL.—Dr. Fraser has gone to Grand Falls to attend Dr. Chamberlain, who is ill there, and will return to the city on Thursday.

Youthful Delinquents.

Four little boys, the oldest aged 6, were summoned to court to-day by Constable O'Flaherty for loose and disorderly conduct on the street. Judge Morris said he almost needed a magnifying glass to see the prisoners. Supt. Grimes admitted that the defendants were very young to be in court but that the circumstances warranted the case, pointing out that they had started under a pile of lumber a fire, which was extinguished by the constable. The Judge then reviewed the case solemnly and ordered that the parents of the children sign bonds for their future good behaviour.

Constable Woodford also had seven lads, whose ages ranged from 15 to 18 years, summoned for swearing and other unseemly conduct on the public street. As it was their first offence they were each let off on paying a fine of $1 and costs.

Druggist on Trial

IN PROHIBITION CASE.

An interesting prohibition case, the first since the famous Beef, Iron and Wine was "done to death," was heard in the Magistrate's Court to-day by Judge Morris and was listened to with rapt attention by a large audience. Head Constable Peet had a city druggist summoned for a breach of Section 4 of the 1916 Act and Section 32 of the 1915 Act. The officer found a drunken man on the premises and arrested him. The druggist, who has a license to dispense liquor on presentation of a doctor's prescription, stated in his evidence that the drunken man came into his store for the use of his toilet and also to have his face, which was cut, treated. Several other witnesses were examined and the case was adjourned until arguments advanced by Messrs. Dunfield and Gibbs, counsel for the prosecution and defence respectively, dealing with certain manufactured amendments of the Legislature in relation to the Prohibition Act, are settled.

BROKEN WINDOW REPLACED.—The beautiful memorial window in Cochrane St. Church which was broken during the big gale on Sept. 24th, 1916, has recently been replaced by a window which is considered an improvement on the former.

CRITICALLY ILL.—We regret to note that Mrs. J. J. Lacey is critically ill at Topsail, being unable to return to the city. Mrs. Lacey contracted a severe cold while at Hr. Grace a few weeks ago from which other complications set in, but with proper medical treatment her friends hope for a speedy recovery.

GAME LAW BREAKERS.—A gentleman who resides on the Kilbride road informs us that yesterday morning and afternoon several guns were heard to go off in the vicinity of Cochrane Pond, and he is of the opinion that some game law breakers were at work. The authorities should take the matter up at once and bring the guilty so-called sports to justice.

The Cost of Living.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—We have had a committee at work enquiring into the high cost of living and they have presented us with several voluminous reports. Now we have a Board of Food Control with P. T. McGrath as Chairman. Of course "Pay Tax" has gone on a little picnic to Canada and the States, but that does not matter, Mr. Coaker is now sailing in the same boat and will see that "Pay Tax's" expenses are paid by the Colony. Time was when such little joy rides as that given to "Pay Tax" and his big chief were called "Pienics" by the Advocate, but that was when Mr. Coaker was on the outside. Now he is in the ring, we fear nothing of the "Picnic Party."

But to go back to the High Cost of Living or Board of Control. The question which concerns us, is food any cheaper to the poor man since the Committee began to work? What do we find? Flour no cheaper, pork, tea, sugar, beef everything in fact has advanced in price. Butter, so the trade tells us, will be 4 cents a pound higher from to-day.

What good is the Board of Food Control to the public anyway? Absolutely no good whatever. The only result will be the people will have to pay these men a large sum each for sitting on a committee and writing reports for us. What we want is a new government with honourable men in it. Now is the time for the public to wake up and see that they have a clean government. Right Hon. Sir Robert Bond is the only man in the country to-day that can give us the kind of government we require. But it is up to the people to ask him to come forward.

Yours truly,
LIBERAL.

THE GERMANS ANGRY WITH WILSON.

BERLIN, To-day.
President Wilson's reply to the Pope's peace note was published generally by the newspapers on Saturday morning, and in the course of editorial comment Wilson is bitterly denounced on the score of the note's tone and tendency. The Lokal Anzeiger says: President Wilson declines the Pope's mediation with the same mans of swollen phrases with which he has already satiated the German peoples. We are told that the war is not being waged against the German nation, but against their masters. The immense mendacity of Wilson's phraseology becomes apparent when his dictum as to the rights of nations who are capable of shaping their own destinies is opposed to the wish of German people to be governed by those very masters. Wilson therefore does not intend to give us our liberty, but to deprive us of liberty to arrive at our own decisions.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, To-day.
A British official says: Attempted enemy raids last night at two points, north and northwest of Lens and southwest of LaBassee all were repulsed with losses. Both armies were active to-day east of Ypres. Little flying was possible yesterday owing to rain and high wind, but during the previous night our air-planes carried out bombing operations actively against hostile air-dromes and railway stations.

A LONE RAIDER.

LONDON, To-day.
Press despatches from the south-east coast report that only an air-ship engaged in the raid. No deaths are reported and the number injured is said to be from two to five, none of them serious. Six bombs were dropped and the raid lasted only a few minutes. The night was brilliantly clear with a full moon.

BIG ATTACK COMING IN FLANDERS.

BERLIN, To-day.
Heavy artillery fire is being directed day and night upon the German centre on the Flanders front, says today's army headquarters statement. In the Alsene region the French attained possession at the end of the fighting in the Hurtebise sector of a small portion of ground on our front lines.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE AT RIGA.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
German troops have crossed the Dvina southeast of Riga and are advancing in a northerly direction, successfully repelling Russian counter attacks, the war office announced today. A German offensive also opened in the northern sector of Mitau, southeast of Riga. The battle here is still in progress. On the Rumanian front several sharp attacks were made by Austro-German forces, but all were rendered fruitless by Russo-Rumanian resistance. One of these attacks was in the vicinity of Braila on the Danube.

GERMANS WERE A LITTLE TOO BOLD.

COPENHAGEN, To-day.
The demoralized remnants of the German armed trawler fleet that were attacked and shattered by a British destroyer force yesterday off the Jutland coast in the North Sea, four of the German craft being driven ashore, made off to the southward, scattering and sending wireless messages for assistance as they ran. A detachment of German light naval forces, accompanied by hydroplanes and submarines, arrived shortly afterwards, but too late to save the four trawlers that had been run ashore. In the course of the encounter that ensued a German hydroplane was brought down and a companion craft was seen to dive to the water, presumably to rescue the survivors. The German armed trawler fleet, confident of this protection by Zeppelin observation and the proximity of a supporting squadron, has of late worked in the boldest fashion in sweeping the seas clear on the route for submarines, and has been extending its sphere of operations northward. Frequent reports from the Danish coast towns mentioned the sighting of warships and a daily Zeppelin patrol was one of the sights of the Danish resorts. Yesterday's experience seems likely to make the Germans more cautious and to that extent interfere with the submarine campaign.

COUNTER PLOT IN PETROGRAD.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
Newspapers announce that a counter-revolutionary plot was discovered in Petrograd during the meeting of the Moscow Conference. The leaders are said to include well-known politicians and several officers. A search in various houses led to proofs of the existence of the plots.

TURKS CLAIM VICTORY IN PERSIA.

LONDON, To-day.
A Turkish official, dated last Saturday and received here this evening, claims that the Turks have driven the Russians out of Merivan, in Persia.

THE RAID ON KENT.

LONDON, To-day.
A German air raid on the coast of England to-night was announced by the official bureau. Bombs were dropped as the airplanes passed east of Kent. The text of the statement reads: Hostile airplanes crossed to the east of Kent coast at 11.15 o'clock to-night. They flew seaward a few minutes later. A few bombs were dropped; the casualties are believed small.

A WELCOME RETURN.

AN ATLANTIC PORT To-day.
The American schooner Estellan, reported sunk on July 10th by a German submarine, arrived here to-day. Through a misunderstanding the American Consul at Liverpool misinterpreted a message notifying him that a British patrol had rescued the crew. As nothing further had been heard the owners of the schooner believed she went to the bottom with all hands.

NORWAY SHORT OF FOOD.

COPENHAGEN, To-day.
The Christiania Social Demokrat

asserts that Norway has provisions for only one month and that imports prospects are very gloomy. The paper demands that the Government seize all private stocks and take over control of imports and food distribution.

POLISH "AUTONOMY."

COPENHAGEN, To-day.
The Berlin Kreuz Zeitung learns from Warsaw that a Council of Regency has been substituted for the Polish State Council and consists of three members, Prince Ruberinksi as Chairman, General Neumetrski, and the Bishop of Warsaw. The new Council, the paper says, will take over all Polish affairs.

CONFIDENCE IN KORNILOFF.

PETROGRAD, To-day.
In an official statement made to the newspapers to-day, Vice Premier Norkhroff denies reports that there was in contemplation a movement to supersede General Korniloff, the Commander-in-Chief of the Russian army. On the contrary, the Vice Premier declared, the Provisional Government is in complete accord with General Korniloff, some of whose stipulations already have been carried into effect, while others are under consideration. The Government, adds the statement, has complete confidence in Korniloff, who keeps clear of political intrigues and maintains complete political neutrality.

SUNK IN COLLISION.

PARIS, To-day.
Five hundred passengers were rescued from the French steamer Natal, which was sunk in collision with a steamer five miles from Marseilles, on Thursday evening. The Natal was given Marine. She had just left Marseilles when the accident occurred. Tugs and steamers responded quickly to the calls for help and the passengers and crew were brought to Marseilles during the night.

"Crushing" not "Rushing."

The Boche did his best. It was very good in the circumstances. Nothing could be more mistaken than to judge the moral of his troops by that of the first wretched prisoners taken after a bombardment. But it was not good enough. The British and French have taken over six thousand prisoners in Ypres, and lost only a few hundreds. Their casualties were unusually light. Besides the wrecking of their batteries and material the total German losses must have been well over 20,000 men. The enemy cannot spare them. All the indications show that his man-power is running out. In this battle he had to employ many youths of eighteen. Hindenburg has resorted to grotesque lying to conceal from the German people the bitterness of his defeat and the hopeless failure of his counter-attacks. We on our part have got a surer method. At last we have learned our lesson—that the "limited objective" steadily renewed in separate hammer blows is the right way. We no longer send our men beyond the range within which the guns can level the enemy's defences and cover the advance. As we have so often said before, "Crushing" is the only action like this. In spite of masquerading bulletins, the truth percolates and penetrates. Let us remember the Somme. There we were doing better all the time than we knew. Let us hammer it out on this line, and we shall hammer through to victory. We shall not have to reach the Rhine for that. Thirty miles further would do it. Let us stick it out until America is ready, and everything else shall be added unto us. Clausewitz wrote a wonderful book because it is not only a study of war, but a general treatise on human conduct. In all his pages there is nothing wiser than where he points out that in an obstinate contest like this those who can give "the last push" must win. Curbing our immediate expectations, but remembering that we are every day getting a firmer hold of the real crushing process, let us stiffen our backs and go on.—London Observer.

Wedding Bells.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Patrick's Church on Thursday night by Rev. Fr. Pippy, when Mr. P. J. Kerevan, of Bowring Bros. Ltd., led to the altar Miss Elizabeth Sutton, of Trepassay. The bride, very appropriately attired, was attended by Miss Minnie Aylward, while Mr. D. M. Dempsey supported the groom. Gold bracelets to the bride and bridesmaid and a pipe to his "best man" marked the groom's felicitation, while the usual shower of presents, including an address and valuable gift from Bowring's drapery department, marked the popularity of the happy couple. The Telegram wishes them a long and happy journey through life.

Food and the Neutrals.

Germany does not like the policy of our Exports Council concerning exports to the Northern European neutral countries. Her semi-official press, saying not a word about its effect in reducing her food supply, asserts that it is unlawful and brutal and that we intend to starve the people of Holland and Scandinavia. The Berlin Government's aim is to excite the anger of these people against the United States. Almost daily there is new evidence that Germany is sorely in need of food and suffers because food imports from these countries have already been reduced. Supplies in them are low because much more than could be spared has been sold to Germany. And the new crops are much below average, owing to unfavourable weather, which also so affected those of Germany that the yield is said to be only 40 per cent. of the normal quantity. Sweden has recently forbidden the feeding of rye to live stock. Denmark is killing cattle on account of fodder shortage. The Dutch government has cut down the quantity of fat that may be exported from 40 to 20 per cent. of the output at slaughter houses. Germany's deficient crops have recently suffered by reason of destructive hurricanes throughout the western part of the country.

She has been exchanging coal with the neutrals for food, and they have defended their food exports by saying that they must have this coal. But now there is coal shortage in Germany. The Swiss President said, explaining the Berlin Government's demand for a loan, that it was "a considerable sacrifice on Germany's part now to sell coal to any one." The term of Germany's coal agreement with Holland expired on July 31, and there may be no renewal. In Austria only the rich can have meat. Butter is $5 a pound, and the price of a chicken is $10.

Our Government has asked for official reports from the neutrals to show how much imported food and fodder they need for their own people. The shipment of enough to satisfy their necessities may eventually be permitted. They are still exporting to Germany, however, and how can we be sure that American food sent to them will not take the place of their own products sold to that country? There must be no exports to the neutrals that will aid Germany in any way.

Will Commandeer Freighters.

Eighty Lake Boats May Go to Salt Water.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 18.—A representative of the United States Shipping Board was in Cleveland to-day definitely initiating Government plans to commandeer lake freighters for coastwise and trans-oceanic war trade. Figures tabulated by the Government agent, in conference with local shipping experts, owners, builders and tug men, show that upwards of eighty lake boats can be taken to salt water.

The shipping board's decision will rest upon the report to be made by its representative. The plan is to take every boat possible of passing through the Welland Canal, and thence through the St. Lawrence River to the Atlantic before lake traffic is ice-bound. The shipping board is now making a list of boats under 260 feet in length and 43 feet beam, which can pass through the Welland Canal without alteration. Boats up to 520 feet in length and not more than 43 feet beam will be cut in two, bulkheaded, and towed by tugs through the canal and river.

A Slacker's Mistake.

(Providence Journal.)
A bride who was deserted a fortnight after her marriage has exhibited a letter from her husband, explaining that he married her to escape the army and has now joined the army to escape her. If that were the inevitable way it worked out it might be well enough to let the slackers and doggers do as they like but it is to be suspected that the military value of this type of man is about as poor as his matrimonial value.

They Were Christians?

A traveller who believed himself to be the sole survivor of a shipwreck upon a cannibal island, hid for three days, in terror of his life. Driven out by hunger, he discovered a thin wisp of smoke rising from a clump of bushes inland, and crawled carefully to study the type of savages about it. Just as he reached the clump, he heard a voice say: "Why in h— did you play that card?" He dropped on his knees and, devoutly raising his hands, cried: "Thank God, they are Christians!"

For Us Conserve.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"Conservation" is a word that has been much in style for the last few years. And, contrary to the nature of the styles, it is going to be a greater favorite than ever. For conservation is the word that goes everywhere hand in hand with preparedness in these times that try men's souls. And rightly. We must prepare, we must sacrifice, we must conserve. Everyone is anxious to know just how to prepare. On every side you hear the words "What can I do to prepare? What is my share?" Also the spirit of sacrifice is at last abroad in the land,—thank God.

Not So Dramatic As Sacrifice.

But conservation is rather less popular, probably because it is less dramatic and picturesque than the other two.

And yet it is quite as vital. And fortunately this is something that you or I can help at as we go about our daily work, and wish with all our hearts that we could throw it aside and do something bigger and finer and more heroic.

"They also serve who only stand and wait."

I do not mean necessarily that we will deprive ourselves of what we need.

I only mean that we will use what we have more wisely and efficiently.

Little Things But Big In The End.

We will study food values. We will keep a closer guard on what goes into the crumb bucket.

We will try to buy everything wisely and thoughtfully, passing by what is cheap and shoddy for what is simple and really good.

Nor is conservation only a matter of material things.

We will conserve our health. We will say, "My health is part of my equipment if my country needs me. I must be more careful of it."

We will try to conserve our time. We want to become more efficient about our daily tasks so that our surplus of time for any public duty may be as large as possible.

And Above All Things.

And above all things we must learn to conserve our courage.

The war time pessimist comes perilously near being a coward.

We mustn't go about looking lugubrious and enlarging on rumours of fears.

We must not worry until we absolutely have need to. And then we mustn't worry,—only make up our minds that if sacrifice is necessary we shall be capable of it.

The courage of its people is the backbone of a nation.

You and I are the people.

THE CRANK.

The crank is somebody we don't agree with. Every crank is operated by a self-starter which works by compressed air and never has to be pumped up, which makes his conversation tiresome to people who are accustomed to think in the same channel from the cradle to the grave.

The crank is nearly always the victim of some idea which has not struck anybody else and is therefore about as popular as a Mexican in Texas. The world is full of examples of earnest, well meaning citizens who have gone along for years without entertaining a bright idea of any kind, only to be impaled upon some tad of the day and become as noisy as a windmill. Some of our strongest-lunged enemies of the tobacco habit are men who consumed enough pure Havana cigars to pave the Lincoln highway and who never swore off until their wives inserted something into their coffee which caused them deep remorse.

WALT MASON

Once again September's smiling in a manner most beguiling, once she brings refreshment to the faded human joys, who have suffered through a season that was not beyond all reason, that was but a combination of a lot of sizzling days. As when one who's lost, forsaken, suffering for bed and bacon, sees a lighted cottage window that invites him to repose, so a delegate or member looks upon the mild September, which, with her refreshing coolness, is a balm for all his woes. By the heat of summer smitten, by the flies and skittering bitton man is, at the end of August, near the limit of his nerve; then September comes serenely, after months that seaked him meanly; he would load her down with posties, he admires her every curve. She is like a drink of water to the wanderers who totter on life's long and dusty highway, with their feet and bosoms sore; she is like a slice of slumber to the toiling guys whose number is as hard of computation as the sands upon the shore. She's a solace and a guardion to all skaters who bear their burden, she's a balsam for their bruises, she's a tonic for their souls; every feature of her pleases; autumn tints and frosty breezes—let us boost the calm September while the knell of summer tolls.

Wedding Bells.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place on Saturday morning, August 28th, at St. Patrick's Church by Rev. Fr. Renouf, the contracting parties being Miss Jessie M. Powell and Mr. Jas. L. O'Grady.

The bride was neatly attired in a dress of sage blue taffeta silk with hat to match, and was given away by her brother, Mr. Charles Powell. Miss K. O'Grady, sister of the groom was bridesmaid, whilst the groom was supported by Mr. P. J. Edstrom. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's mother where breakfast was partaken of, after which the happy couple drove to Waterford Bridge and joined the train for Topsail where the honeymoon will be spent. Many useful presents were received by the happy couple. The groom's present to the bride was a gold brooch, to the bridesmaid a gold ring, to the father-giver a stick pin, and the best man gold cuff links.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady join in wishing them many years of happy wedded life.

GERMAN MINE SWEEPERS DESTROYED.

LONDON, Sept. 2. Four German mine sweepers were destroyed by British light forces off the coast of Jutland, says the Admiralty officially.

SUBS CAUGHT IN RAID.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 2. In connection with the successful British raid on a German armed trawler fleet this morning, the German trawlers, according to various accounts, continued to fire after seeking refuge inside Danish territorial waters. The British raid appears to have caught not only the trawlers, but several submarines. The latter were compelled to submerge so hastily that some members of the crews were unable to enter the hatches and were left swimming in the water.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, Sept. 2. The official issued by the war office to-night reads: Northwest of Hurtebis we enlarged the ground captured and captured an enemy trench on a front of 200 metres. Thirty additional prisoners, one of whom was an officer, remained in our hands. German counter attacks delivered this morning were not able to touch our lines under the violent fire of our artillery. In Champagne, south of Butte de Mesnil, we repulsed strong enemy surprise attack and took prisoners, including the officer commanding the detachment. On the left bank of the Meuse there was lively fighting in the whole region north of Hill 304 and Le Mort Homme.

THE EASTERN THEATRE.

Eastern Theatre, Aug. 31.—The new enemy attack against Srki Di Legion, (Vardar sector), preceded by powerful artillery actions, was repulsed during the night. A counter attack by our troops drove the Bulgarians out of the last trench elements where they had maintained themselves. Violent action occurred at Tverna bend on the Serbian front and in the region of Doiran a surprise attack enabled the Italians to bring back thirty German prisoners, one of them an officer. Greek troops made a successful raid in the region of Mowina on the right bank of the Vardar. An enemy airplane was forced to land near Lake Doiran. In an engagement on Aug. 30, west of Monte Serbia, we captured seventy-two prisoners and two machine guns.

PRISONERS TAKEN IN AUGUST.

LONDON, Sept. 2. The British in Flanders have taken 10,697 prisoners, including 24 officers during the month of August. They also took six heavy guns, 32 lighter guns, 200 machine guns and 73 trench mortars. The British bombarded dugouts east of Wytchate, this morning and caught the garrison with machine gun fire as they tried to escape across the open.

DEATH PENALTY—PROTEST.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 2. The Petrograd Council of the Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates today passed a resolution against the re-establishment of the death penalty at the front, demanding that the measure be revoked.

SUCCESSFUL RAID.

LONDON, Sept. 2. An official report from the British headquarters in France to-night says: Early this morning we carried out a successful raid east of Wytchate, bombed the enemy's dugout and inflicted casualties with machine gun fire as the enemy garrison endeavored to escape across the open. South-east of Havincourt a hostile raiding party was driven off without loss to our troops. Yesterday the weather cleared for two hours for the first time in four days, and normal activity was resumed. In air fighting one German machine was brought down in our lines, and another driven out of control. One of ours is missing.

RUSSIA'S FORMER EMPEROR.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 2. Nicholas Romanoff, formerly Emperor of Russia, and his family are now living in a 14-room apartment on the second floor of a large old-fashioned house at Tobolsk, Siberia, according to reports just received at Petrograd. Nicholas and the former Empress each have a room, two rooms have been put aside for the four daughters, and one for Alexis, the former heir-apparent. The other rooms, except the dining room, kitchen, reading room and so forth, are occupied by the servants. The house is getting a garden, and the only way of getting fresh air is from a small balcony. The new home of the Romanoffs was not ready when the family arrived. They were compelled to spend two days aboard a small steamer, on which they travelled the last fifteen miles down the Tobol River. The former Empress and her daughter, Olga, rode to the house, while the others of the family walked. The day of their arrival was a holiday and few persons saw the new comers, except for the small crowd which had assembled to watch the priest conduct the usual ceremony of blessing the house for its new tenants. Guards of the former royal family are mainly Cavaliers of the Order of St. George, and Fusiliers, and the family is virtually under the same mode of life as at Tsariko Sloo. Nicholas has asked permission to engage tutors for his children. The mother herself will attend to religious instructions of the younger ones. It cost the government 10,000 rubles to move the family to Tobolsk.

BOMBS DROPPED ON RAILWAY.

LONDON, Sept. 2. Several direct shots were scored on the Ghistelles Aldrome on Friday night by our naval air squadrons, tons of bombs were dropped on Ostend Theuvel railway lines. All the machines returned safely.

FURTHER DETAILS OF RAID.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 2. In the naval engagement which occurred early this morning between the British and German mosquito fleets off Nymdide Gab, on the west coast of Jutland, the British destroyers attacked four German armed trawlers and drove them ashore. All four trawlers seem to have been destroyed. The Rinkioing newspaper says that the British continued to bombard the trawlers after they had grounded, completing their destruction. About 100 German seamen were landed, many of whom were severely wounded. Medical assistance was sent from Rinkioing, the nearest large town. One rumor has it that 100 dead have come ashore, but apparently this is a distorted version of the facts. About 100 men, reached ashore. The German craft were presumably engaged patrolling and mine-sweeping to clear the route for German submarines. German airplanes and submarines, according to one account, took part in the fight. The semi-official Danish Post says that four German trawlers were driven ashore near Rinkioing Fiord and that the crews were landed. The rest of the fleet of German armed trawlers fled to the south.

ITALIANS ADVANCING.

ROME, Sept. 2. The Italian troops yesterday extended the positions they occupied on Thursday and Friday last in Brestevizza Valley and on the Carso, the war office announced to-day. Additional prisoners and much war material, including nine machine guns and five trench mortars were captured. Austrian counter attacks at various points were repulsed. In St. Elvio region a detachment of Alpine troops re-occupied an advanced post which was abandoned August 27th at an altitude of 3,000 metres and captured an entire Austrian garrison.

Patriotic Football Season Closes.

As a result of the Baseball League relinquishing their evenings it is likely that the football season will close at the end of this week, as only four games remain unplayed. The St. Andrew's and B. I. S. will clash this evening, the Star and C. E. I. tomorrow; the St. Andrew's and Star on Thursday and the B. I. S. and C. E. I. on Friday. This will be the last week lovers of the game will have an opportunity of contributing towards the patriotic fund.

GOOD WORK FOR SICK WOMEN

The Woman's Medicine Has Proved Its Worth.

When Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies were first introduced, their curative powers were doubted and had to be proved. But the proof came, and gradually the use of them spread over the whole country. Now that hundreds of thousands of women have experienced the most beneficial effects from the use of these medicines, their value has become generally recognized, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard medicine for women.

The following letter is only one of the thousands on file in the Pinkham office, at Lynn, Mass., proving that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an article of great merit as shown by the results it produces.

Anamosa, Iowa.—"When I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered with a displacement, and my system was in a general run-down condition. I would have the headache for a week and my back would ache so bad when I would bend down I could hardly straighten up. My sister was sick in bed for two months and doctor, but did not get any relief. She saw an advertisement of your medicine and tried it and got better. She told me what it had done for her, and when I had taken only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my head began to feel better. I continued its use and now I don't have any of those troubles."—Mrs. L. J. HANNAN, R. F. D. 1, Anamosa, Iowa.

Thoughts Upon the Times.

(By PATRIOT.)

Whilst the authorities are to be commended in taking every precaution to stamp out infantile paralysis in the city, it seems absurd to close the public schools and leave open the many nickel shows. In the schools it is part of the teachers' duty to see that each child is provided with a sufficient amount of cubic space, and the precept is taught and practised that "cleanliness is next to godliness." Doctors tell us that the germs of certain diseases are contagious and contagion may be communicated by the breath of the diseased or by contact. One thing is certain—if the germs of infantile paralysis are as easily communicated as the human flea then it should be the nickels that should be closed and not the schools. The sentiments expressed by "Patriot" in Saturday's News are to the point and should be acted upon.

The Government has at last decided to inaugurate a vigorous Recruiting Campaign for the coming fall. We sincerely trust it is not too late. The reason given by the News, that our young men have been too busy reaping the Colony's harvest to think of joining the colours, is not well grounded in fact. In many of the outports it will be found that nearly all eligible young men, both married and single, have offered their services, and the people on the whole, are more deeply interested in the war and the problems facing us as a people, than the authorities seem to think. Certain reforms will have to be instituted, and better treatment given our returned heroes before we can expect our young men to respond to the call of duty. Enlarging upon my suggestion in last Wednesday's Telegram might I say that the presence of Hons. W. F. Coaker, John C. Crosbie, Messrs. John G. Stone, P. F. Moore and W. J. Walsh, M.H.A.'s on outport platforms appealing for recruits would have the desired effect, and convince the country of the Government's sincerity, more particularly if they appeared in uniform. The Recruiting Committee should remember that there are now few outports in the Colony where there are not to be found the parents of some poor lad who has offered up his life in France or Belgium in the "sure and certain" hope that the Allied cause would in the end, bring freedom and justice to the oppressed. Some are widows who have given their only son, and have received but scant consideration from the authorities in return.

The air is surcharged with peace talk these days. It is the kind of peace that Germany would have; the kind that would permit her to raid the world whenever she thinks she can succeed. The source from which such peace talk emanates is not from democratized Russia or bleeding France.

Lloyd George's reply to Germany's peace terms was to hold up a mirror so that the German people may see themselves, their character and their deeds reflected in it.

The prices of provisions and all food stuffs still continue to soar upwards. We have a Food Control Board consisting of three members two of whom are at present away out of the country. The third member is an elderly Government official whose public duties are sufficiently exacting as to take up all his time and attention. What is required is a prompt investigation into the whole food problem. The public should not be treated as children. They expect to be told, without delay, whether they are paying too high a price for the necessities of life. It will be of no service to the people to read by and by a long-winded report from the Board containing neither common sense nor practical suggestions. This will not fill the hungry want.

Since the outbreak of popular indignation against the furious driving of motor cars through the streets of the city and suburbs a decided improvement is noticeable on the part of the drivers. It is to be hoped that this will continue and that pedestrians will in future have no cause to complain.

Your Boys and Girls.

Every mother should investigate the milk supply thoroughly before trusting the baby's life to it. The milk should be absolutely pure and free from preservative and be delivered fresh every day in stoppered bottles. Corks or wooden stoppers never should be allowed as they absorb impurities. Soon after the milk is delivered the mother or nurse should prepare enough food for the baby for twenty-four hours. This should be put into the feeding bottles at once, just enough in each bottle for one feeding.

This will make it necessary to have about ten bottles for the small baby. The bottles should be stoppered with a little absorbent cotton and placed on the ice until needed. Remember that milk absorbs odors, and do not place it near onions or any vegetable with a pronounced odor.

When it is time to feed the baby one bottle should be heated by being placed in a pan of hot water. The other bottles should remain undisturbed until needed.

If a baby chokes, raise its left arm up over and very close to its head. This will relieve it at once.

TEA Prices

AGAIN ADVANCING!

Shipments just to hand of

Our Celebrated MOUNT VIEW TEA

Cost us 5c. per lb. over previous shipments. We have a limited quantity left from previous shipments which we shall retail till cleaned up at 55c. per lb.

and the price will then be 60c. lb.

This Tea is well worth 60c. lb. but the early buyer can save 5c. per lb. We trust that our customers will appreciate the fact that we have advised them ahead when tea prices were advancing and have protected them as far as possible. The tremendous freight rates are responsible for the rises in the price of teas. Today the freight and insurance on a pound of tea from Ceylon is 16 cents per pound. This compares with about 3c. in normal times.

We have cheaper teas in stock than our "Mount View," but the higher grade teas are the most economical and "Mount View" Tea is becoming a great favourite and we would like you to try it.
