ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Canadian Made
As a health builder, Royal Yeast is gaining in popularity every day. It is a food - not a medicine. It supplies the vitamins which the diet may lack. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in cases where the system seems "run down". Royal Yeast is the richest known source of vitamins, and when taken into the system acts as a corrective agent. Royal Yeast Cakes are recommended for their purity and wholesomeness. It is the purest, the most convenient and economical yeast on the market.
Two to four Royal Yeast Cakes a day will work wonders. A full day's supply can easily be prepared at one time by using one glass luke warm water and teaspoon sugar to each yeast cake. Allow to stand over night in a moderately warm room. In the morning stir well and pour off liquid. Place in refrigerator or other cool place and drink at intervals as desired throughout the day.

The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER XI.

The Duchess of Rosedene was fastidious even to a fault. Public opinion was often led by her. If she approved of anything, it was sure to be perfection; if she disapproved, it was generally found that she was right. To know her was to have the right of entree into the most exclusive circles; not to know her was in itself a confession of inferiority. To be on her visiting-list, to attend her "at homes," to be asked to her halls—the best given in London—were honors for which every belle, every fashionable woman sighed. She was the only child and wealthy heiress of an earl, and her marriage with the Duke of Rosedene had been dictated by pure affection alone.

They were exceedingly happy; but there was one cause for disappointment—they had no children. This was the one cloud in their bright sky. At the duke's death his estate and titles must pass into strange hands. It was a grievous trouble to them. In order to forget it, the duke flung himself into the whirl of politics and the duchess into all the gaieties of the world. She was one of the most popular and most highly esteemed women in England. Her name figured everywhere—in lists of charities, in every work of benevolence. She was the patroness of innumerable bazars, fancy fairs, and other fashionable methods of doing good. To be chaperoned by the Duchess of Rosedene was a guarantee of success. But she was fastidious, and not easily pleased. She had given a promise, charmed by the simple

SHE DIDN'T WANT TO LIVE

"I felt so ill and wretched that I didn't care whether I lived or not."

This was Mrs. W.'s experience. If you are not feeling well you should read every word of her story. She says, "Unless you have actually experienced what it means to be ill, really ill, you don't know what suffering is. I felt so ill and miserable that I didn't care whether I lived or not. I am naturally of an active temperament and as a result I must have overworked myself, because I began to feel tired and weak after the least exertion. At times my face took on a deathly pallor. I was sore all over. I was troubled with dull pains which at times produced nausea. My body felt as if somebody had been pounding it—every bit of it pained. When I laid down at night I could not get into a comfortable position and the consequence was I got very little sleep. The pains, which followed sleeping in one position for any length of time, gave me frightful dreams from which I awoke weak and perspiring. I consulted doctors and they told me that I was completely run down and needed something to build me up. Their prescriptions only helped me for a while. One day I found a circular about Carnol and the statements in it sounded so honest and true and free from any exaggeration that I decided to try it. In six weeks after taking the first bottle I was as well as ever. If any one had told me that Carnol would do what it did for me I wouldn't have believed them."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 7-122 earnestness of the general; but she wondered if she had done a wise thing. With an anxious face she went to her husband.

"The Hattons are a good family, are they not?" she asked.

"One of the oldest and best in England," replied the duke. "Greatly fallen off, I believe; but one may still be proud of knowing them."

"I wish," said the duchess, "that I had seen the girl before I made the promise."

"I am quite sure you need not fear," rejoined the duke. "If she is like the rest of the Hattons, she will be all right."

"But the duchess declared that she was a little nervous."

"I would do anything," she said, "for your friend. I like him immensely. But I have promised so much for the girl—to chaperon her, to present her; and, if she should not be just what I like, it will be awkward."

The duke assured her that she might rest content.

The next day she went over to Brentwood. Any fear she might have had was dissipated by the sight of the face and figure of Leah. Her manner was simply perfection. She showed no over delight, yet she was most attentive and polite to the duchess. She allowed her to see that she felt her visit to be a great honor, yet that, while she acknowledged it, she was in no way unduly elated over it. The duchess was charmed with her. She thought Leah one of the most beautiful and graceful girls she had ever seen.

She was struck by her face. There was more than mere beauty; passion, poetry, and eloquence were in it. She marvelled at Leah's grace, her good breeding, her accomplishments, and her refined education. She felt there was none more fair, graceful, or better fitted to take a high position in society.

"I shall be proud of her," thought the duchess; "it will be difficult to surpass her." It was not often that her Grace of Rosedene deigned to chaperon any young lady; but when she did it was done effectually.

She watched Leah with keen eyes. Every gesture, every pose, every word pleased her. "She should marry well," thought the duchess. "There will not be another face like hers next season." Yet, beautiful as it was, there was something in its expression which the duchess did not quite understand—the dawn of restless passion, the longing that could never be gratified, the story that could never be told. "She is not like other girls," thought her grace; "what satisfies them will never content her. There is something like a longing for the infinite in those dark eyes of hers." And in that moment, seated in Sir Arthur's luxurious drawing-room, surrounded by everything most costly and lovely, looking into the fair, proud face of Leah Hatton, there came to the duchess a foreboding that made her grow faint and pale with fear.

They were delighted with each other. The duchess pressed Leah to go over to Craig on the following day.

"I am sorry," she remarked, "that we are not remaining longer in the neighborhood; but, go where we will, you must remember our compact. We are to be friends always. Do not forget that I am to be your 'social god-mother,' and that next season I am to present you. I predict for you a grand success."

The duchess added how delighted she would be if, in the winter months, Leah could join them in a trip she and her husband intended taking to Rome.

The same evening the duke, entering his wife's boudoir, found her standing against the window, looking thoughtfully out on the tall, spreading trees. She did not see him or hear him, and started violently when he laid his hand upon her shoulder.

"What are you thinking about, Muriel?" he asked. "I do not often find you meditating."

"I am thinking," she said, "about Leah Hatton's eyes."

"What is the matter with them?" he asked, laughing. "I saw nothing wrong."

"There is nothing wrong," she replied. "They are the most beautiful eyes I have ever seen. Do you remember that superb heartsease of which Hawkins, the gardener, was so proud? It was not black, but rather a rich dark purple with a gleam of gold in it. Her eyes are of just such a color. I thought of the heartsease the moment I saw them. Yet it was not the color, rare and perfect through it be, that struck me the most; it was the expression. I am quite sure, Harry, that she will have no common fate."

"My dear Muriel," said the duke, "you are surely not growing romantic?"

"No, I am not; but there is something in the expression of the girl's eyes—a passionate longing; I wonder for what—whether for happiness, for wealth, for honors, or for love?"

"Do you not class happiness and love together?" asked the duke.

"Not in her case, I'm sure!" cried the duchess. "If ever that girl loves, it will be with her whole heart; and you know my belief on that point—any woman who loves with her whole heart suffers the direct pain with the most exquisite bliss. To be really comfortable in this life, there must be no grand passions."

"Perhaps you are right," replied the duke. "For steady wear in the long run, ours was the best kind of love, Muriel."

"I am sure of it," she answered. "A grand passion would have killed me. Yet you love me with all your heart, Muriel!"

"With all my heart," she replied. "There are women and women, loves and loves. That girl, depend upon it, Harry, has a power of loving to which I am thankful to say, most women are strangers."

"Yet her face is not at all expressive of tenderness," said the duke; "it tells rather of pride."

"It is proud, but there is concentration in it. She will love but few; and those few she will love well. I feel as though I had been looking at the picture of some beautiful queen of tragedy, some heroine of a grand poem; I cannot shake off the impression that her face has made upon me. But she is coming over to-morrow, and then I can study her at my ease."

The duke smiled to himself; it was some time since he had seen his stately wife so deeply impressed.

"Was her mother a lady?" asked the duchess, suddenly.

A LABOUR VICTORY.

LONDON, March 30. In the bye-election at East Leicestershire, Banton, Labor polled 14,068, while the Independent Liberal polled 8,710 and the Coalition Liberal 3,905. The Labor victory is considered important. The bye-election was made necessary by the appointment of Sir Gordon Hewart to the Lord Chief Justiceship.

WILL RECONVENE BOARD.

OTTAWA, March 30. Following an all day discussion in the Commons on the dispute in Nova Scotia's coalfields, the Prime Minister intimated the Government was prepared to re-convene the Gillen Arbitration Board, whose findings some weeks ago were rejected by the miners on the ground it did not go into the details of the financing of the British Empire Steel Corporation.

SENATE APPOINTS COMMITTEE.

OTTAWA, March 30. The Senate to-day decided to appoint a Committee to enquire into the dispute between the British Empire Steel Corporation and the Nova Scotia miners.

ANOTHER TREATY RATIFIED.

WASHINGTON, March 30. The nine-Powers Far-Eastern Treaty, drafted by the Arms Conference to carry forward the open door policy in China, was ratified by the Senate to-day unanimously, without amendments or reservations.

SIR JOHN EATON DEAD.

JOURNAL IS DEFIANT.

DUBLIN, March 30. The Freeman's Journal appeared this morning in the shape of a small handbill, which was placarded all over the city. It contained an editorial which told of the attack on the paper's premises, expressed defiance of those who made it, and asserted it would continue to appear in some form or other and say what it chose "in exposing tyranny in whatever garb it appears," and would continue to fight for Church liberty. Republican armed men with revolvers went about the city tearing down the editorial where ever it was posted.

TROTSKY'S LATEST THREAT.

MOSCOW, March 30. Trotsky is reported as saying "if the Soviets are attacked by the whole European Bourgeoisie perhaps the Soviets will introduce a war of communism which will be more merciless than civil war in Russia."

GUARDING CITY HALL.

DUBLIN, March 30. The Irish Provisional Government to-day placed a strong guard at the City Hall, and fifty soldiers in the Bank of Ireland, apparently for the purpose of guarding against attacks by Republican insurgents. The Lord Mayor insisted that the port authority in adopting a resolution protesting against disorders in Belfast, also condemn the outrages in the rest of Ireland. This, it is believed, reflects the opinion of the average Nationalist. The decision of the Republican Army Convention to boycott Ulster is being vigorously enforced.

THE DAILY STORY.

BELFAST, March 30. Two specials were shot and wounded to-night, and several big fires, apparently of incendiary origin, broke out.

When Women Were Whipped.

The greater part of the medieval lady's time and intelligence was devoted to works of piety. Almsgiving was strongly encouraged by the church and diligently practiced by the faithful. There is a French legend which speaks of a certain Countess of Mans who cared for 30 fatherless children, and who at her death was seen surrounded by a cloud of light in which were small children. Insuperiority is said to have been a great fault of the medieval lady if the fierce attacks of satirists of the times are indicative of her character. An old bird sings: "There were three wily, three wily there were, a fox a friar, and a woman." Woman was depicted as a chatting fickle creature, and her grotesque head-dresses, particularly called forth the anger of monkish chroniclers. In the Middle Ages a Scotch law held that a woman who committed trespass without the knowledge of her husband was liable to be chastised "like a child under age," and there was also a law that no man should beat his wife with a stick thicker than his little finger.

A new note is the standing collar, which is featured by afternoon frocks and fancy suits. It is generally embroidered and finished by a string tie.

King's Retinue Guards Lama.

High Priest Cured by Explorer. RANGOON, (Associated Press).—F. Kingdon Ward, explorer and author, has arrived in Rangoon from a nine-months trip into China, five months of which were spent in the independent kingdom of Muili, in Chinese Tibet. Mr. Ward spent most of his time on this trip in collecting plants for Edinburgh University, bringing back with him about a thousands varieties of rare plants, some of which are new and unclassified. He also found four new species of the blue poppy. These, with their seeds, have been shipped to Edinburgh. After traveling through northern Burma and a part of China, he entered Chinese Tibet and headed for Muili, a small kingdom, covering about 15,000 square miles, with many high mountain peaks, some of which are over 20,000 feet above the sea. Mr. Ward said that was ruled by a powerfully built man, a lama, who lived in an enormous monastery surrounded by a guard of 6,000 warriors. Mr. Ward found on arriving there that the lama was suffering from disease, but he soon recovered under the explorer's treatment and thereafter Mr. Ward was given quarters in the monastery for himself and a companion, and his servants were well looked after. In Muili and the adjoining kingdoms the party found that the villages, though few and sparsely settled, are all extremely prosperous. This is explained by an abundance of gold which is washed out of the river sand in many places. White men are not welcomed in these places as the rulers suspect that they come for gold. Mountain sheep abound in Muili, living about the high cliffs, which are mostly devoid of vegetation.

Yellows and Blues Have a Stimulating Effect.

Colour schemes for factory-workers, with a view to increased production, are among the bright ideas of modern decoration specialists. In one case, at least, the idea has been adopted with the best results.

"We were asked to decorate a factory so that it would produce better workers," explained a member of a firm of expert house decorators. "The walls were done in daffodil yellow; the corners and the capitals of the pillars being picked out with deep blue. The stimulating atmosphere created by that scheme was remarkable."

Do the colours and designs of our wall coverings really make their "victims" sad, mad, or sublimely happy? Several decorative artists think they may, especially as regards emotional, highly sensitive natures.

Thus, the psycho-craze has penetrated not only the wall-paper and coloured wall industry, but also has crept into furnishing and furniture.

Red Walls Irritate.
To dignity, beauty, and comfort in house decorating modernists have added the mental and moral aspects of complete schemes.

For instance, soft, gentle yellows must be the background of a room in which sufferers from neurasthenia are to find calm.

It would be unwise for a wife to enter into a contentious domestic discussion within red walls. Large patches of red in the home are admitted to be an irritant.

Canada's Wealth Not All in Farms.

OTTAWA, (Canadian Press)—In the course of his address before the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, yesterday, C. V. Corless, president of the institute, referred to Canada's enormous pre-Cambrian area surrounding house of minerals, where real prospecting had scarcely begun. This area included the nickel mines at Sudbury, silver mines at Cobalt, and gold mines at Porcupine, one of which might soon reach the position of the world's greatest producer. Referring to the great pre-Cambrian areas, which comprises 80 per cent of the province of Quebec, Mr. Corless predicted that enormous mineral treasures awaited discovery by "the thrifty people of that province."

A Persian blue sports blouse colored and cuffed in white is worn with a circular skirt of white flannel. A frock of midnight blue, corded silk is trimmed with brick-red broad-cloth and embroidered in blue and gold.

THE ART OF CHEWING.

Your whole system depends for its health and strength on the stomach. The stomach, in turn, depends on the teeth. The very foundation of health is therefore laid at the first step in food conversion—the act of chewing. Food improperly chewed, enters the stomach in a wrong condition, and it brings about a wrong fermentation which causes flat, indigestion, then kindred ailments. The proper chewing of the food will prevent these things. Chew your food plentifully.

At the City Hall.

The weekly meeting of the council held yesterday afternoon. Mayor C. Pratt presided and all the Council members were present. The Minutes of the last meeting were read, the following matters given consideration:—

Communication was read from J. White, Southside, in reference to unsanitary condition of the dump his locality. A committee of Council will visit the site, and see what can be done.

C. Pratt and A. E. Chown wrote reference to the condition of Lehigh Road. The City Engineer reported this matter already has been given attention by the Roads Department, and hopper removed as soon as weather conditions permit; also that owners of dwellings in this locality be notified to conform to the regulations by having sanitary appliances immediately installed.

The Inspector General reported he had no objection to permission being given the Red Taxi Company to install gasoline service tank at their premises, Theatre Hill.

B. Guzzell stated he was prepared to sell two horses to the Council, if they need same. The Council will likely require horses in the near future, and it was therefore ordered that this application be placed on file.

Communication of E. English, with reference to concrete sidewalk, Rawlins' Cross, was referred to the City Engineer, who will visit the place and report.

A communication was tabled from the Newfoundland Industrial Workers' Association, stating that, as a result of contractors engaging non-resident workers for the various works of construction and repairing or other such work, a great number of the members of the association were thrown out of employment, and they asked that the Council take into consideration the advisability of making such by-laws or rules for governing or regulating same. The matter was referred to the Solicitor, with a view to ascertaining Council's position in relation thereto.

Application of Wm. Whitemarsh for lease of property, belonging to the Council on Mundy Pond Road for grazing purposes, during the coming season, was ordered filed.

Mr. S. Willar asked that he be compensated for damages to his property during the opening up of the water line road. The Engineer reported that the property of the applicant was not damaged or interfered with in any way. The Council, therefore, acknowledges no responsibility.

Solicitor Carter reported on the application of the Methodist Guards' Old Comrades Association, in reference to that portion of the Parade Ground leased them by the Government, that the said lease was invalid, as the ownership of the property in question was vested in the Imperial authorities, and the Council had the right of possession. The Council, therefore, cannot recognize any claim the Association may have to this land.

A letter was read from G. W. B. Ayre, on behalf of the Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association, in reference to the Parade Ground. In view of the Council's power to transfer its rights in this property, being limited by the Municipal Act, he stated it would be necessary to amend same, so that the Association might receive proper guarantees to enable them to put the grounds in good condition and enter upon such expenditures as would likely be incurred. As this property was handed over to the Association by the late Commission, to be used by the public for recreation purposes, it was ordered that the Colonial Secretary be communicated with, so that amended legislation might be introduced at the present session.

Application of P. Grouchev, to erect dwelling, Pine Street, was deferred.

Thomas Shea asked permission to build annex to dwelling, Central Street. His request was accorded to, subject to the Engineer's approval.

File submitted by John Grant, for the erection of a dwelling, McKay St., was passed, subject to the approval of the City Engineer, and on condition the building is connected with water and sewerage.

Several other routine matters were disposed of; requisitions for various departments accorded to; reports of City Engineer, Health Officer, Sanitary Supervisor, etc., tabled.

The accounts presented were ordered paid. The meeting then adjourned.

Legislative Council.

THURSDAY, March 30th. The House met at 4 p.m.

The Bill respecting the Sealfishery during the present year was given a second reading. In endorsing the second reading of the Bill, Sir Patrick McGrath took occasion to review the discouraging tendencies which at present are jeopardizing the industry. In this connection he referred to the rescue of the crew of the schooner J. N. Rufuse, in which the officers and men of a foreign ship played such a heroic part. This he contrasted with the demand of $25.00 each made by the sealers who went to the rescue of their brother toilers in s.s. Diana. Sir Patrick strongly condemned this attitude. He also said that he was informed that wholesale misappropriation had taken place on board the Diana and things even went so far that the crew held up the operator, and demanded the contents of messages that passed between the captain and owners of the ship.

A Bill entitled "An Act to amend Chapter 75 of the Consolidated Statutes entitled 'Of Sufferers from Marine Disasters,'" passed second reading. This Bill is amended by adding after the words "waters of the Colony" the words "while in pursuit of his calling." This amendment was made necessary because relatives had made claim for compensation in cases in which the spirit of the Act did not intend to cover.

"The Dangerous Drugs Act" which will regulate "the Importation, Exportation, Manufacture, Sale and Use of Opium, Cocaine, Morphine, Ecgonine and Heroin" passed the second reading. This legislation is in conformity with that prevailing in all parts of the Empire.

The Bill entitled "An Act for the Protection of Neglected, Dependent and Delinquent Children" was sent to a Select Committee at the request of Sir P. T. McGrath. This Bill, which is a modification of the Canadian Law, passed through both branches last year, but not in the final stages, as the Hon. John Browning opposed vesting too much authority in those who would be empowered to carry out the Act. For the purpose of the Act a child means a person under the age of sixteen years, and Section 19 reads as follows:

(1) No child shall loiter in or on any dock, wharf, quay or cove after 9 o'clock in the evening, or be there after that hour unless accompanied by his parent or guardian or an adult appointed by the parent or guardian to accompany such child.

(2) A child found in or on any dock, wharf, quay or cove after the hour named in sub-section (1) unless so accompanied may be warned to go home by any constable or probation officer, and if after such warning the child is found loitering in or on any dock, wharf, quay or cove, such child may be taken by the constable or officer to his home.

(3) A parent who permits his child to violate this section shall for the first offence incur a penalty of $1.00 and for a second offence $2.00 and for a third or any subsequent offence $5.00.

The second reading of the Bill "An Act for the Encouragement of Shipbuilding" was deferred. Sir P. T. McGrath, in supporting the second reading, said he noted a considerable difference between the Bill and the notice as published under the authority of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries. Sir Patrick moved that the Bill be sent to a Select Committee. Hon. J. J. Murphy seconded the motion. He thought that the time for economy had arrived and the present was not auspicious for paying out extravagant bounties. "The time was," said Mr. Murphy, "when builders were glad to receive $100 but now it appeared that almost the value of the vessel was to be given in bounties. It is time to stop this waste," said he in conclusion.

The Bill "An Act to amend Chap. 22 of the Consolidated Statutes, entitled 'Of the Customs,'" passed second reading. The amendment to Section 55 calls for the substitution of the words "market value" or "fair market value" by the words "current domestic value." The substitution is designed to prevent defrauding the Customs and has in view what is known to the trade as dumping.

A Bill entitled "An Act for the disposal of the surplus funds of the Hospital Cot Fund" and a Bill amending the Law Society Act, were read a first time.

A report of the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund Committee was tabled. The House adjourned at 5.30 until Friday, at 4 p.m.

CHIMNEY ON FIRE.—An alarm of fire from Box 334 brought the Central and West End Fire Companies to a residence on Patrick Street, where a chimney was on fire. The blaze was extinguished within a few minutes and the Bremen returned to their stations at 6.10 o'clock.

RESULT.—We feel sure if you do as suggested under the heading "REQUEST," it will be a case of—you CAME—you SAW—you BOUGHT at Steele's Crockery Store.

Newfoundland Should Raise Her Own Food.

LITARY INSTINCTS OF OPINION THAT WE COULD PRODUCE ADEQUATE SUPPLIES.

Can adequate food supplies be produced within Newfoundland?—can the country be self-subsisting in food? The Methodist College Literary Institute is of opinion that she can, for at last night's debate the vote was very much in favor of the affirmative side.

AFFIRMATIVE.

By food supplies the affirmative meant those articles of food which were essential, the fundamental articles of food. They did not claim that Newfoundland could grow oranges and grapes, and coffee, for instance. We could, and in fact already did grow ninety per cent. of the agricultural products which we consume, with the obvious exception of wheat.

NEGATIVE.

The negative side claimed that by all the tokens Newfoundland was a fishing country, and would remain a fishing country. Geographically and temperamentally we were a fishing people, and not a farming people.

Centenary Exhibition in Brazil.

Why not Newfoundland be Represented and Products Exhibited?

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

We notice by an exchange that South American republics are all preparing for the great Brazilian Centenary Exhibition, to be opened in Rio de Janeiro on September 7th next, are now in full swing, and that it will provide an exceptionally valuable opportunity for the introduction of merchandise of every description into an increasingly receptive market in certain, especially as all countries are invited to participate in the event. The British Government has not yet, we understand, made a final decision in regard to the space required and the pavilions to be erected, but intending exhibitors will be interested to learn that the Brazilian Government has made the concession that all exhibits shall be imported free of duty.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S OPPORTUNITY.

Here is an opportunity that should not be overlooked by Newfoundland. Brazil has been for about a century, and still continues to be, one of our great customers, and Newfoundland should take advantage of the forthcoming Exhibition to have all our products fully represented. In the early days of the past century the enterprising firm of Messrs. J. & W. Stewart, shipped a few small cargoes of our codfish to Brazil as an experiment, and we all know how our trade with Brazil has multiplied since that date. Not alone would such products, especially our fish, when carefully cured and put up in suitable and catchy packages, give our Brazilian customers an idea of what we can do when we lay our mind to it, but such would be an inducement to the other South American Republics to enter into trade relations with Newfoundland, and thus we would find an outlet for our fish in new markets, which would materially benefit all concerned.

These South American Republics will be represented at the Exhibition, and, of course, the representatives will be in a position to view the Newfoundland fish for themselves, and make known to their merchants and dealers the quality of the article, which has proved to be the best in the world.

To-Day's Stupendous Attraction.

JACKIE COOGAN RE-APPEARS AT THE NICKEL.

An advertised elsewhere in this issue, the management of the Nickel has been compelled by popular demand to again screen "Peck's Bad Boy," the picture starring Jackie Coogan, the world famous child actor. This picture drew packed houses when shown at the beginning of the week, and many could not gain standing room, consequently numerous requests were sent in to have it re-scheduled to-night, when it will be shown in conjunction with the regular program, which consists of a big Paramount film, "Turning the Tables" featuring Dorothy Gish and the succeeding chapter of Ellen Sedwick's serial triumph "The Diamond Queen." If you already saw "Peck's Bad Boy," it will do you good to see it again and if you have not seen it, well here is your last chance to see the one and only Jackie Coogan in the only screen version of this extraordinary interesting story of fun and adventure.

The Sorrows of Ireland.

The present unrest in Ireland is merely a repetition of similar outbreaks for more than a century past. In 1795 Lord Camden, the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, landed at Blackrock on March 31, his chief Secretary—Pelham—having been there for some days. The state of the country was so evidently dangerous, that there was great fear for the safety of the Viceroy, so the time of his entry was changed, and Dublin Streets were quiet when he entered, and was sworn in by the Lords Justices at Dublin Castle. His arrival became known during the evening, and as the Lords Justices drove away, when it was over, they were received at the gates by a dense and angry mob. When Lord Fitzgibbon and the Primate's carriages appeared stones were thrown at them; Fitzgibbon who was an object of far more serious hatred, was attacked by a knot of well dressed, dangerous looking men who evidently meant mischief; but the coachman lashed his horses, and broke through the crowd. They made for his house in Ely Place by a short cut, and were there before him; as he drove up heavy stones were flung through the carriage window, one of which struck the Chancellor on the forehead. Passers by or the police, whom Gratton had not yet extinguished, gathered round and protected him from further mischief. The riot spread rapidly and the mob attacked the Custom House, the houses of the Speaker and the Postmaster and Postoffice. At least it was found necessary to call out the troops, who fired on the crowd, killing two men and dispersing the rest. An ill omened beginning of a disastrous delinquency. Ever since the Union of the two Countries, successive governments have attempted to pacify the Irish people, but the agitators have continued to keep the Green Isles in a condition of unrest down to-day, when notwithstanding the passing of the Home Rule Bill, lawlessness continues to prevail. And yet the country could be made most prosperous to the advantage of every inhabitant, if the rebellious undercurrent could only be persuaded to try, say twelve months of Peace.

AN EXPERT REPRESENTATIVE.

There would be no difficulty in Newfoundland finding a suitable representative to take charge of our products and protect the interests of our country.

One eminently qualified for such a position in the person of Mr. Charles A. Dyer, who has spent many years in the Brazilian Republic, and is thoroughly conversant with the trade relations in every detail between Newfoundland and Brazil. Not alone is Mr. Dyer's practical experience extensive, but he is a man of advanced ideas, and would undoubtedly prove himself to be a fitting representative of his native land, by bringing the products of our country prominently before the eyes of the people of all other countries who will visit Brazil in their thousands during the time the great Exhibition is being carried out. Now is the time for us to show our great customer Brazil and all other countries, what we can do, and what we possess. There is considerable risk in waiting a hundred years for another "Centenary Exhibition"—as we may be, let us hope, flatter our little wings up aloft, in the front rank, amidst the harps and chanters.

PROPHECIES OF LONG AGO.

The great Dr. Cahill in one of his lectures, many years ago, stated that in fifty years Brazil would become one of the most prosperous and important countries in the world, owing to its valuable resources," and Guthrie in his Geographical History, writing of Newfoundland in 1778 said, "not alone would Newfoundland export timber to England but would also go to Brazil and other South American countries." Guthrie paid a great tribute to Newfoundland as a fishing country, and predicted a great future for our Native Land.

EXCESS.

He had more wine than he could drink. His glass was filled up to the brim, but still he kept on pouring more until it ran about the floor. It stained the table and it took its crimson course across a book. And what had been a mansion fine was tainted with the smell of wine. Life's but a glass for us to fill. Poured to excess, the contents spill; In moderation men are glad—Too much of anything is bad. There is a realm where all is fair. Though to eat, good clothes to wear; Life's glass holds this—of friends a few. Some pleasure, and some work to do. But who would fill the glass with joy. The charm of laughter would destroy; And who keeps filling up his gold. Soon finds his treasure base and cold. When love descends to vulgar lust. What was delight becomes disgust; When once the wine is at the top. Good judgement bids a man to stop. Life gives so much, to seek for more. But rolls the treacherous floor. And he is wisest of our guild. Who knows just when his glass is filled.

Long-Necked Sea Lizard

Among the various queer animals that frequented the earth many hundreds of thousands of years ago were the long-necked sea lizards. They were far from pretty and had a body shaped somewhat like a cigar with a snake-like neck and a head that resembled a duck's, while it was thrust through the water by four flippers and a short tail. An idea of their size can be gathered when it is known that a single tooth was a foot or more in length, and its head, the smallest part of its anatomy, was six feet long. A total length of 60 feet would not be a giant by any means, and there is reason to believe its strength was so great that a single snap of the jaws would be powerful enough to cut through a tree with a 36-inch circumference. It lived almost all of the time in the sea, and dined off fish and other marine food. Its battles must have been terrific, as skeletons have been found where great pieces of vertebrae have been torn out, evidently from the living creature.

LOAN RESOLUTIONS DEBATED—GOVERNMENT SEVERELY CRITICIZED—INCREASE IN ESTIMATES FOR NEXT FISCAL YEAR—NO ATTEMPT AT ECONOMY.

The storm broke yesterday with a vengeance, and for the entire afternoon and through a night session, the Government had to sit under a tornado of criticism of their extravagant administration. Unlike Achilles, the Government leaders were not even vulnerable in the heel, and the criticism of the Opposition fell on "ears that would not hear."

The Opposition had sufficient grounds for criticism, for when the Estimates were tabled it was found that despite the emphatic need for drastic economies, they were nearly one million dollars more than those of last year. So was a further cause for complaint added to the fact that more than half the loan of six million dollars, which the Government has not yet obtained, has been spent.

BACKWARD ECONOMY.

The Order Paper of yesterday was a big one but questions were quickly disposed of and the Prime Minister then moved the House into Committee of the Whole on Supply, for the purpose of tabling the Estimates. In explaining the new Estimates, the Leader of the Government, again amazed the House, by announcing an increase of nearly one million dollars over those of last year. The Marine and Fisheries Estimates had been increased by $7,700 and those of the Department of Public Works have been augmented by a vote of $72,000. The new loan is responsible for an added $330,000 and the new scale of pensions calls for an increase of nearly $200,000. Further increases in the Finance Department come to $390,000. In all, the total increase over last year's Estimates is $559,446.96.

A SAD SITUATION.

Mr. Higgins was the first to open fire upon the Government ranks when the House went into Committee on the Loan Resolutions. He described the situation as a sad one and as the money was already spent, there was nothing to do but to raise the loan. There was never such a spectacle in a responsible parliament before. The entire public has to pay for Government incompetence. It was a ridiculous position to assemble the Legislature and ask for a loan of $6,000,000, half of which was spent, while the Minister

OF FINANCE IS STILL WAITING IN NEW YORK FOR THE AUTHORITY TO CLOSE THE DEAL.

He would not mind the loan being gone if something had been done for the money. It was now time when the House ought to consider whether we ought to have responsible government. It was a serious question. At a time when people all over the world are seeking for self-government, apparently we have to confess that we are not fit to rule ourselves.

MORE WILL BE NEEDED.

"It is not a question of how much money we can raise now," said Mr. Higgins, "but how many millions more will be needed next year. I did get a new loan," he said, "it would be spent before we obtained it. It was about time the Government made a death-bed repentance and tried to do some real work. Since the present Government took office, they had spent fifteen millions of dollars over and above the ordinary revenue. For what?" Mr. Higgins drew an analogy between the mad abbe of the Chateau d'If who dreamed of a treasure on the island of Monte Cristo, and the Government, who seemed to have nothing but dreams of better things to come.

COAKER'S HALL MARK.

"Perhaps," said Mr. Higgins, "the Minister of Marine and Fisheries has gone abroad to seek another Treasure Island. That expenditure of fifteen million," he said, "bore the hall-mark of Coaker all over it. Fish Regulations, Salt, Railway—Coaker had been responsible for them all. And the sad part of it was that we have to pay." Mr. Higgins declared that Hon. Dr. Campbell had full control of the expenditure of $600,000 for relief purposes. In the control of a Minister who was not responsible to the House, was a sum of money nearly as great as the entire vote for the department of Public Works. If the Minister sent a gang of men to shift the clouds on the Southside Hills, they would go smiling. It was a crying shame that this year's Estimates should be greater than last year's. The Administration seemed hopelessly incompetent and too lazy to try and save a dollar. He prophesied that the Estimates would total $11,000,000, as supplemental supply was not likely to be less than a million and a half dollars.

DRASTIC MEASURES NEEDED.

Mr. Higgins said that our total revenue for the current fiscal year up to the end of June next, will not exceed $8,000,000. How was it possible to spend eleven millions when the revenue was not eight millions. There was only one way to reduce expenditure. Drastic measures were necessary. Let the Government close up some of their departments. It was downright dishonesty and sheer folly to pass these Estimates. The Government had adopted a mischievous attitude, but for how long could they go on in that way? So long as this continued, so long was the proposition hopeless. The amount required for the general purposes of the Colony was barely enough to equal the revenue. Let the Government say they were prepared to cut the estimates, strip the Public Departments, even cut some of them out. The railway had cost five millions in two years. For operation next year, all that was known was that one million had been set aside to meet a loss. This matter should be laid before the House. The Mounted Police also came in for a severe handling at the hands of Mr. Higgins. This was no time to play at politics, concluded Mr. Higgins. For that reason any Opposition criticism was fair and free from political animosity or prejudice.

BEYOND A JOKE.

Mr. J. R. Bennett followed Mr. Higgins, and for over an hour, raked the Government ranks fore and aft. The announcement that the new loan had been nearly all expended had been astounding. Most of the public expected that this loan would last us for the next few years. It had got beyond the stage of a joke. The enormous Estimates had been a further surprise. The Government seemed to think they could keep on squandering and borrowing for ever. There was nothing to show for the huge expenditure of the past three years. Money had been thrown away on road work. It was a criminal waste, as far as Dr. Campbell was concerned, it was only a case of going to him and asking for money. His answer would invariably be "How much do you want?"

A HUGE DEFICIT.

Despite the fact that he was an optimist, Mr. Bennett thought that there would be a deficit of three million dollars at the end of the current fiscal year. He appealed to the Government to withdraw the Estimates and cut them down so as to make both ends meet. He expressed his regret at the decision of fish merchants to cut supplies to a minimum. The present Government had squandered the provision which the Cashin Administration had made for a rainy day. Mr. Bennett concluded with a final appeal for economy. The night session was occupied by Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Fox and Mr. Archibald, all of whom criticized the enormous estimates.

AT 10.30 P.M. adjournment was taken until to-day, when the debate will probably be concluded.

"Economy Land."

NONE VERY RICH; FEW VERY POOR.

If Newfoundland were a need of another name it would deserve to be called "Economy Land."

"Amongst the Newfoundlanders, the report just issued by the Department of Overseas Trade on the trade and industrial resources of Newfoundland, "there are practically no very rich people and comparatively few very poor."

"There is a noticeable absence of extravagance, quiet comfort being preferred to luxury. Large families are the rule, and the love of home life is a national characteristic."

The report comments on the fact that many people still think of Newfoundland as a part of Canada. "From the viewpoint of discovery," it says, "Newfoundland is the oldest overseas part of the British Empire, for in 1497 John Cabot took possession in the name of King Henry VII." Daily Mail, March 8.

Rosaries From Bethlehem.

Ten to 20 tons of the pearl-shell waste of American button factories—broken pieces and butt-ends of shells—are shipped monthly to the Holy Land where, in the village where Christ was born, the material is converted into "beads" and ornamental objects. For many centuries the manufacture of such products have been the only important industry of Bethlehem. In 1920 there was shipped from Bethlehem at least $50,000 worth of rosaries, made of mother-of-pearl beads, with silver chains and strung on wire of the same metal, or "white metal" for a substitute. For making larger carven or other ornamental objects Bethlehem obtains supplies of pearl-oyster shells from the Persian Gulf, from India and from Australia. The chains of silver and white metal are imported from France. Hand labor is employed exclusively in the industry, and, inasmuch as it is very cheap, the idea of using machinery is regarded with disfavour. Many necklaces of mother-of-pearl are sold to tourists who visit Bethlehem. The artisans of that quiet old town also make great quantities of tiny beads which are sold in strings or bunches for trimming women's dresses. These little beads are in special demand by the Moslem women of Algeria and other parts of Northern Africa.

A Child's Guide to the Professions.
"THE REPORTER."

Mr. A. P. Herbert has lately been writing a Child's Guide to the Professions in verse for "Punch." Our own poet proposes to follow up this idea by giving our readers a similar guide, with special reference to professions in our own country.

Reporters have to know a lot. For otherwise, my dear, you'd not get any news at all. Around the town they rush about There's not a thing they don't find out. They need consummate gall.

They go to places strange and weird Where no one else has ever dared To venture in before. They risk their lives a thousand times In searching out mysterious crimes, Poets that, and even more.

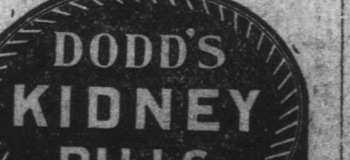

Police men are to them a friend, For to reporters they unbend. And on them always smile. And politicians, too, you know After reporters always go. In fact, it's quite the style.

They have to know how fish is caught For their advice is often sought. On this and other things. They also know how fish is made. And all about our export trade. And why the birds have wings.

They need to understand finance And also how to write romances. This last they really must. For if they cannot tell a lie The public will their papers eye With ill-disguised disgust.

Perhaps they have to leave their beds. And run around with tousled heads. To see a midnight fire. Their time, in fact, is not their own. And yet you never hear them groan. Nor do they ever tire.

Oh, yes! reporters leads a life Oh, yes! reporters lead a life Oh, yes, my dear, you see. It doesn't matter what you are (This trade is one that you must bear) Don't a reporter be.

Tea and Sale of Work.
WEST END GIRLS' CLUB.
 The annual afternoon tea and sale of work for the West End Girls' Club, was held on Thursday afternoon, March 30th. Despite unfavorable weather, a goodly number were present. The sale was opened by Mrs. Tasker Cook, who, in a very pleasing address, spoke of her personal interest in such work, congratulating the workers on their efforts, and advising all present to patronize the stalls liberally. Rev. R. E. Fairbairn, in moving a vote of thanks to Mrs. Cook, gave some explanation of the object of the Girls' Club, and of the efforts of the workers being to provide a comfortable recreation room for girls of all denominations, especially those here from homes in the outports. The singing of Miss Marjorie Hutchings, and the duet of Mrs. Garland and Miss Maunders, added greatly to the pleasure of those present. Four-year-old Miss Gertrude Butler, also gave a charming recitation. The workers wish to thank all the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly patronized the sale, and made it a success.

Inter-Imperial Organization.
FOR MARKETING OF WHEAT CROP.
 (Special Cable to The Mail and Empire.)
 London.—Mr. Trethowan, chairman of the farmers' pool of New South Wales, Australia, will shortly visit Canada and United States to arrange an understanding for the marketing of the Australian, Canadian and American wheat crops in a manner which will stabilize the market and secure the best possible prices to the producers. This announcement is the latest development in the reported possibility of a corner in the world's wheat supply, although Mr. Trethowan, according to the Morning Post, denies that he will visit Canada means states that he will visit Canada in his the furthering of such a design. He capacity as President of the Federal Farmers' Association, an Australian organization, which advocates the placing of wheat on the market only as it is required, thus conserving the interests of both the consumer and the producer. It is planned to complete such a wheat marketing organization in Australia and then apply similar machinery to wheat production and selling in North America. The proposal involves the forming of a central committee in London to act as the executive of all the parties in the pool.
 It is understood that the proposition which Mr. Trethowan will make to the representatives of the Canadian wheat growing and marketing organizations is that selling periods for the respective crops be so defined as to avoid competition.
 The growth of the co-operative movement throughout the Empire, which the correspondent has pointed out in previous despatches, makes world control of the marketing of wheat a distinct possibility. Now that Russia is for the time being eliminated as a wheat exporting country, India, Australia and Canada could easily make an inter-Imperial arrangement for non-competitive selling. Add the United States to this combination and Argentina would be left as the only important competitor in the world markets.

Tuberculosis and Heredity.
 Until comparatively recent years it was one of the shibboleths of the medical profession that tuberculosis is a hereditary disease and laymen, in duty bound to accept the teachings of the learned in matters of special knowledge, have accepted the dictum. Social workers in numbers have talked of the crime of allowing a tuberculous person to marry and some of the sages of eugenics have urged the passage of legislation to prohibit such alliances.
 But along comes Dr. Marcus Paterson, one of the greatest living authorities on tuberculosis, to give a last blow to the theory, and he quotes facts and figures in convincing array to prove his point. Nor is he evidently alone in his statement for such recognized world experts as von Pirquet, Speck, Faludi and Karl Pearson, after testing thousands of cases, are quoted to buttress up his statement.
 There is not the slightest doubt, say these scientists in chorus, that tuberculous parents raise children, this is a matter of common experience. There is, fortunately, plenty of evidence to show that it is far more probable that the children of tuberculous parents receive infection after rather than before birth.
 Professor von Pirquet made tuberculin tests on hundreds of infants and not a single one under the age of three months gave a positive reaction, proving that they were absolutely free from infection. Yet after three months the percentage rapidly increased until at the age of six years nearly half the children of infected parents gave evidence of the disease. The unhealthy environment in which the children of tubercular patients are often forced to live is probably the cause.

The Late Sir John Eaton.
OF TORONTO, ONTARIO.
 The following biographical sketch of Sir John Eaton of Toronto, who died at his home in that city last night at the age of 46, has been compiled by the Canadian Press Service.
 Sir John Craig Eaton, K.B., generally supposed to be Toronto's wealthiest citizen, was born in Toronto on April 23, 1876. His father was the late Timothy Eaton, founder of the extensive business with important interests in a number of cities of the Dominion including Montreal, Moncton, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Toronto.
 Educated in the public schools of Toronto and at Upper Canada College, John C. Eaton was trained to the business which his father had begun. Upon the father's death in 1907, the son, who was then Vice-President of the T. Eaton Company. The business continued to expand until the Eaton interests virtually touched every important point in Canada and reached far beyond the Dominion. Sir John's other business activities embraced several directorships. He was on the Boards of the Canadian Pacific Railway, The Sterling Bank and the Dominion Bank, and he held governorships in Victoria University and the Toronto General Hospital.
 Sir John Eaton was one of Toronto's most distinguished philanthropists. His munificence included the giving of several hundred thousand dollars to the Toronto General Hospital; the surgical wing of which he built at his own

It's Flavor that Makes the Meal!

And the sauces that the Libby chefs have adapted for you give flavor to the simplest dishes.

It may be eggs, or macaroni, or a cheap cut of meat—an unusual and delicious sauce will make it something you eat with delight and remember with pleasure—because of its flavor.

LIBBY'S CATCHUP and CHILI SAUCE are made from red, ripe tomatoes, grown in the fertile soil of Kent County, Ontario, picked when they are mellowed by the sunshine of long summer days, then rushed to the nearby Libby kitchen.

Here in sunny rooms the tomatoes are cooked with fragrant spices, onions, sugar and the best vinegar—cooked for hours until all the flavors are blended through and through.

Now the sauce is ready to give an appetizing relish to your steaks and chops, or a new piquancy to the meat gravy you serve with your roasts.

Your grocer has, or can get you, Libby's Catchup or Chili Sauce. Use it with your cold meat teas and note how quickly the second helping is necessary.

The delightful flavor of Libby's Beans is due largely to the wonderful Sauce prepared by the skilled chefs. Have you tried them?

Success and the United Hotels Company of America

THIS advertisement answers that question for all those who are considering investing in the 8% Convertible Debentures of The Mount Royal Hotel Company, Limited.

In the first place, The United Hotels Company of America have purchased for cash One Million Dollars worth of the 8% Convertible Debentures of The Mount Royal Hotel Company, Limited.

On this million-dollar purchase they will get no more nor no less pro rata than the 8% paid to the investor of $300 or $1,000.

The United Hotels Company of America owns and operates its various hotels for the benefit of the investors in their various securities. It will not make one penny of profit for itself unless and until The Mount Royal Hotel Company, Limited, pays dividends upon the Common Stock.

Thus, you see, investors in the 8% Convertible Debentures have an additional safeguard in knowing that their interests and the interests of the United Hotels Company of America are identical. Debenture holders must be satisfied first before Common Stock dividends are paid.

Nevertheless, we think that the Common Stock, which is now being given away as a bonus, should earn substantial dividends within a very short time.

For example: When the United Hotels Company took over the King Edward Hotel it was losing money every day. Almost over night they changed it into a paying proposition, and in two years put its Common Stock, which was given away as a bonus, on a 10% dividend basis.

The Mount Royal Hotel is the largest undertaking that the United Hotels Company of America have committed themselves to. They have agreed to operate the hotel on a thirty years' contract, under which they receive no salary, fees, or remuneration other than the dividends which may be paid on the Common Stock, of which they own a considerable amount.

You may be quite sure, therefore, that every ounce of ability and business and financial acumen that they possess will be brought to bear upon the successful conduct of this enterprise. We have gone into every detail of operating costs, of income, and of estimated profits. And we are satisfied not only of the hotel's ability to earn its interest charges, but believe it will earn sufficient to pay most satisfying dividends upon the common stock.

It is for this reason that we recommend these 8% Convertible Debentures so highly and invite you to write at once for a circular giving full particulars.

Living on the Ocean Bed.

Further attempts are to be made to recover some of the sunken treasures which litter the ocean bed around the British coast.

In a normal year ships and cargoes worth $15,000,000 are lost; but during the war the tonnage of vessels sunk in home waters amounted to 20,000,000. This enormous loss has spurred the salvage company to plan a scheme of fortune-finding on an unprecedented scale.

Recent improvements in connection with submarine work will make the enterprise less risky than it would have been a few years ago.

Divers no longer grope their way in darkness, depending for safety upon their life-line. Electricity lights the way, and a telephone connection in their helmets enables them to keep in touch with the men above. There is even a dress which permits them to dispense with an air-pipe, since it includes provision for the supply of air.

So comfortable are modern diving suits that often their wearers are in no particular hurry to return to the surface. Frequently a naval diver finds an anchor or other object at twenty or thirty minutes, and then sits upon it, switches off his telephone connection, and ruminates for an hour or two before he reports.

Some of the improved suits, too, enable divers to work at great depths. For many years the record was held by a Spaniard named Ercostarbe who, off Cape Finisterre, carried out salvage operations at a depth of 170 ft., and ultimately recovered in two seasons fifty-nine bars of silver, worth $50,000.

Subsequently, during some experiments carried out by the Admiralty, British divers reached a depth of 210 ft., and this is still the record for Great Britain.

The world's record was set recently by a Vancouver diver, who made a descent in a suit (his own invention) composed of aluminum, with ball-bearing joints and artificial hands. He worked at a depth of 356 ft., where, owing to the rigidity of his dress, the pressure inside was only 40 lb. to the square inch, whereas it attained 170 lb. on the outside. The inventor claims that with his dress it is possible to work at a depth of 500ft., and in normal circumstances to sleep in comfort on the bed of the ocean.

No less important have been the improvements in other types of apparatus. A feature of one of the most recent inventions is provision for living and moving on the sea floor.

The object of this invention is the raising of sunken ships—an object which has been achieved quite often by sinking caissons or canvas tubes, sinking them to the wrecks, pumping out the water, and then filling them with air, the buoyancy thus imparted lifting the ships to the surface. Under the new system the same principle is applied, but the actual raising is effected by means of multiple-units, open-bottomed, vertical pontoons, which are fastened to the side of the wreck.

The preparation of the hull for the attachment of the pontoons is carried out by two men, who are enclosed in a diving chamber. The latter is connected with the ship above by a cable, through which runs an electric cable, as well as a telephone wire. Power is obtained from this cable to work not only a tractor enabling the chamber to move round the wreck, but a pair of drills for boring holes through the plates of the ship.

In this house on the ocean bed the men can work, eat, read, smoke and sleep almost as comfortably as if they were in a dwelling on land. The air of the chamber is purified and renewed by the system used in submarines.

Fashions and Fads.

To wear with a suit of black crepe is a white waistcoat heavily embroidered in black, or a gingham often have net insets in the skirts, giving a most pleasing effect.

The wrapped skirt, fringed or unfringed, has become one of the season's most enjoyable fads. Steel beading and a perforated steel girde lend smartness to a straight frock of blue serge.

A favored type of coat for the youthful figure is the slim model with the short military cape.

Dresses made of tissue gingham often have net insets in the skirts, giving a most pleasing effect. For the boudoir are pajamas of black satin worn with a blouse of yellow and green printed satin. A frock of black velvet buttons up to the chin and has sash, collars and cuffs of dark brocade ribbon.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

HOW WILL YOU TAKE YOUR PLEASURES?

How would you rather (as we used to say in London Bridget) go to the theatre? Once in a first class seat or twice in a second class seat?

It seems to me that a wide difference in outlook on life is symbolized in those two choices. Some folks never like to do things unless they can do them just so. They would rather stay home than put up with second class in anything. Other folks would rather spread their pleasures out thinner and have them last longer.

The first is more apt to be the masculine point of view and the second the feminine. (Although one of the most striking examples of first class or none was given me by a friend I was going to take to the theatre. I could only get balcony seats the day we had planned on and she said she would rather wait so that she might sit on the floor. Be it added she was neither deaf nor short sighted.)

He Minds People's Opinions.

The reason for this is plain enough. I suppose. The man is the money maker and to a large extent is measured by how much he makes. Casual people, of course, have no other way of judging him, and to go about accepting second class service while others are getting first is to let all these people rank one as a second class man, to constantly admit to them that one has not the money for anything better.

Of course one may go second class because one has many other things for which one prefers to use money—including the peace of mind symbolized by a bank account. But that is not the obvious connection, and it is a rare man who is content with knowing that is so, no matter what people about him think.

Women for the Pleasure Itself.

Women on the other hand are not judged by how much money they make, and accordingly are much less sensitive on this score. They want the pleasure, as much of it as they can get, and they care less for the show.

We all know women who have been abroad on incalculable small sums. Some years ago some college girls I knew actually took a European trip on $200 apiece. Think what gall and wormwood to the spirit of the average man the infinite economics and scrimpings they must have had to practice would have been. But they had a wonderful time.

More Fun Out of Life.

It is a great talent, I think, this ability to get the best out of pleasure even if one cannot have them served in style. One gets so much more fun out of life if one can do it. But whereas I used to think that the people who were wanted to have things just so were merely foolish and obstinate, and could feel the other way if they tried, I have grown to realize that the roots are deeper that I thought and that one cannot change a psychological attitude merely by investing against it.

WOMAN COULD NOT WORK

Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a tired, worn-out feeling, and a painful period. I used to get up with a pain in my head and pains in my lower parts and back. Often I was not able to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it. I am strong and can do every bit of my work and not a pain in my back now. I recommend your medicine and you can use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. PHIL. MASER, 801 Winslow St., St. Paul, Minn.

Just another case where a woman found relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many times these tired, worn-out feelings and pains about the body are from troubles only women have. The Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for just this condition. The good results are noted by the disagreeable symptoms passing away—one after another.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Woman's Medicine for Women's Ailments. Always reliable.

The Kiel Canal.

The famous canal across Schleswig-Holstein, northwestern Germany, a commonly known as the Kiel Canal, taking this name from the port of Kiel at its eastern entrance. However, when the canal was completed it was given the name Kaiser Wilhelm Canal, and by that name it was officially known until the downfall of the Empire upon the defeat and surrender of Germany in the autumn of 1918. The canal extends from Brunsbüttel, on the Elbe River, to Holtzen, on Kiel Bay, thus uniting the North Sea with the Baltic. Its length is 61 miles.

Construction was commenced in 1887, and in 1895 the canal was completed having a bottom breadth of 72 feet and surface breadth of 213 feet, with a depth of 29 feet, 6 inches.

In 1908, owing to the construction of larger battleships, work was commenced to double the bottom width and increase the depth to 36 feet. This work of enlarging and deepening was completed on June 14, 1914, six weeks before Germany and Austria launched their raid upon the world. The ports connected with the canal and the canal itself afforded harborage for the German High Seas Fleet during most of the war. By the Treaty of Versailles the canal was made free and open to the vessels of all nations at peace with Germany on terms of entire equality.

Kiel harbor, near the Baltic entrance to the canal, was the German naval base. The great shipyards, which created most of the German navy has been dismantled; floating docks and other equipment have been moved away to compensate the Allies for damages sustained by Germany illegal submarine warfare on merchant shipping. The great batteries covering the Baltic entrance to the canal have been reduced to heaps of crumbled concrete and twisted steel, and the great guns have been broken up and thrown on the scrap heap. The canal, however, is busy, being used for commercial shipping.

Earth's Climatic Changes

A new theory has been offered by Dr. Harlow Shapley, an English scientist, relating to the mystery concerning the climatic change on the earth over millions of years. According to this theory, the earth has been cooled off during long periods, when the sun, the earth and the other planets were passing through regions of space filled with clouds of dust or dark, nebulous materials, which cast off enough of the sun's heat to freeze most of the globe. At other times, apparently, the solar systems moved through a region of space almost entirely free from such material, so that the sun's rays beat with full force on the earth, probably making the polar regions pleasant and the rest of the earth unlivably hot. At present the sun is apparently moving through a part of space thickly scattered with interplanetary materials.

A few million years ago, according to Dr. Shapley, the earth, the sun and the other planets were moving through a mark which is observed by astronomers in the constellation of Orion. This is one of the many vast black pockets, or "coal sacks," in the sky, some of which may be detected by the naked eye. Behind this veil in Orion are 70 faint stars which vary in intensity. They average about 700 light years (about 180,000,000,000 miles) from the earth, which is a moderate distance astronomically, and many of them would probably be very bright, except for the curtain of dark material hung between them and the earth.

Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, another speaker, said "the fundamental difficulty determination that the government investigate, regulate and even participate in practically every business activity of the country."

Mr. Rankin, after expressing his deep thanks for the tribute the dinner paid him, analyzed the value of advertising and the place it held in the activities of the country.—New York Times.

Mystery Men of Tibet.

THE WORLD'S MOST REMARKABLE RACE.

Living amidst the perpetual snows of Mount Everest is a race of mystery men known in the Tibetan language as the "Abominable Snowmen." On account of their ferocity and the savage deeds they commit when they come in contact with the more of less civilized inhabitants of the region, Harry Alnus, Bushmen, Patagonians, African Pygmies, and "Cannibal Amazons" have in turn excited our curiosity, but the "Abominable Snowmen" are more remarkable than any of them.

A great deal of mystery still surrounds the "Abominable Snowmen," and this, it is believed, will not be cleared up until the exploration of Mount Everest is finally completed.

Colonel Howard Bury, the leader of the Mount Everest expedition, states that on an elevation exceeding the heights of possible habitation "he observed tracks resembling those of a barefoot man leading up the glacier. He did not at first report the fact, because he saw no man, and he thought that the tracks might be those of some animal which had been altered by the weather into human shape.

"Abominable Snowmen."

The numerous statements of the coolies who accompanied the expedition, and of many Tibetans and several white explorers, about the "Abominable Snowmen," have led Colonel Bury to report what he saw.

The coolies who accompanied the Bury expedition state that they not only saw the footprints, but saw the wild men hanging around in the twilight, and ready to attack the explorers if they saw an opportunity, says an American paper. The coolies report that the wild men live entirely without clothes, and are protected from the intense cold only by their long, thick hair.

Investigation has further revealed that the existence of these people is known to many of the surrounding Tibetans, and that other white men had heard of them. Small colonies of the wild men are said by the villagers at the base of Mount Everest to live on the slopes of Everest and of the neighbouring peaks of Chumalhari and Karola.

Some of the natives explain that the wild men are murderers who have been driven from civilized communities and forced to live in waste places. The coolies on Mount Karola is said to be of this character, and it is reported that those exiles sometimes descend into the plains and rob the inhabitants.

But this expedition does not account for the statements that the "Snowmen" are wild and clad only in their own hair. Only a race with ages of adaptation to environment, it is argued, could live above the perpetual snow-line, and sustain life on the few animals and birds that are found there.

Moreover, other white explorers have just come forward with new evidence concerning the existence of a race of "Snowmen" who live naked in the intense cold. William Hugh Light, one of the best-known explorers of Tibet, read the report about human footprints seen by the Bury expedition, and made this statement:

Hairy Men of Everest.

Shortly before the last Tibetan war I was returning from Tibet with another European. A Tibetan guide, and our train of about forty or fifty coolies. We were coming down the track which leads from Ganatong to Se lonchen. As we got near Ganatong, we had to climb the long ascent. My companion had gone on ahead with the coolies. I was about half a mile behind, about half a mile below Ganatong.

I stopped to breathe my horse on an open clearing, and dismounted, loosened the girth, and watched the sun, which was just about setting. While I was musing I heard a slight sound, and, looking around, I saw some fifteen or twenty paces away, a man of a pale yellow all over, with a mass of hair on his head, little on his face, highly-splayed feet, large, formidable hands, and a muscular development in the thighs, legs, back and chest was what he had in his hand what I had in some form of primitive bow. He did not see me, but stood up and I watched him for some six minutes. So far as I could see, he was watching some man as far down the hillside. At the end of some five minutes he started off down the hill, and I was impressed with the tremendous speed at which he travelled."

Unclad Amidst the Snow.

The weight of evidence indicates that the creatures seen on Mount Everest were really men. That human beings should be able to endure the cold at such heights, and to live in a region where the food is so scanty, is amazing, but not altogether beyond the range of possibility. Explorers have found that there is a great amount of animal life above the snowline. On many peaks there are a good many birds and a few mammals, including the "whistling snow hare." Some of these creatures live by devouring other animals, and some find vegetation in little valleys and crevices just below the snowline. How men with their hearty appetites could exist on this scanty supply of food is hard to understand.

RAIN AND DROUTH.

The water is piled in my front yard, all kinds of water, soft and hard, and still the rain comes slopping down and saturates the weary town. The rain against the window beats and catches through the village streets, and even streets, and even frogs and ducks are tired; they have more rain than they desired. And while the day's so wild, wet, I read the Gopher-town Gazette, the old home paper that has brought for years its freight of Gems of Thought. And back in Gopher-town, it seems, all dried up are the babbling streams; there is no water in the wells; a parching population yells for just a little slice of rain, and all is yellow in its vain. No rain clouds gather in the sky, the river beds are dusty dry, while fish sit up along the brink and gasp for something fit to drink. The weather bureau should reform; why does it always send a storm where there should be a cloudless sky, and send a drouth where it is dry? Why does it drench the western coast and dodge the plains that need rain most? Why am I always stuck in mud, or battling through a turbid flood, while other fellows voice their wrath because they cannot have a bath? The weather bureau makes me tired; all winter long it's kept me mired.

WALT MASON

The fate of a Lawless Border Chief.

At the end of March, 1529, certain of the wild Border Chiefs openly defied the authority of England and Scotland, so King James of Scotland determined to try and put a stop to the degradation of the lawless clans. The task was one of great difficulty, for the freebooters had grown so powerful and daring, that they held the Border Countries in subjection, acknowledging no authority save that of their own clan. The Scottish King, however, collected an army of 6,000 men with the intention of penetrating into the fastnesses of the robber chiefs, but a "barleurg, Johnnie Armstrong, of Cricke, attended by a large retinue of followers, presented himself before the King. This chief of all robber chiefs, whose name had spread terror from the Tyne to the Solway, who had enriched himself by plunder, had insulted the King's authority, despised the laws, and endangered the peace of the kingdom, now voluntarily approached his sovereign in the hope that by submitting he would receive a pardon for his offences. He offered, if his life was spared, to hold himself, with forty men, ready for the King's service, and never to take a penny subject of England be he duke, earl, lord or baron, he would on a certain day bring to King James either alive or dead. He also offered handsome gifts comprising four and twenty milk-white steeds, and as much English gold as four of their broad backs could carry; also four and twenty mills, with as much wheat as their coppers can hold. James, however, was so indignant that a thief and outlaw should so ostentatiously display his ill-acquired wealth in the very face of his sovereign, that he sternly ordered him to be executed, along with the greater part of his followers, and they were hanged on the trees growing near the chapel of Carleurg. One named Sandie Scott was burned, because it was proved that he had burned the house of a poor widow, she and her children being inside. Armstrong, before he died, seeing no hope of life King's relenting, said proudly "I am but one fool to seek grace at a graceless face; had I known you would have taken my life this day, I would have lived on the Borders in spite of King Harry and you both, for I know that King Harry would downweigh my best horse with gold to know that I am condemned to die." His name has been handed down in song and ballad on both sides of the Border.

REV. W. A. THOMPSON WRITES OF DR. F. G. KINSMAN'S HEART TABLETS.
I had heart trouble severely for fifteen years and had many doctors to treat me with no discernible effect. I had become so low that I could scarcely walk fifty steps. At night I was troubled with fluttering of the heart, and by no means had a night's rest for that length of time. I had pains most excruciating and could not lie on my left side even for a moment. I tried five boxes of your Heart Tablets and can now truthfully say that I am well. I am a Minister of the Gospel and upon my word as such, I believe I could not have lived had it not been for your
