A QUEEN UNCROWNED

— OR —
THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER XXII.

"Heaven be praised—yes! But, tell me, how came you to seek the stage?"

"It was my destiny, I suppose. I was made to be an actress, and not a countess. However, I suppose must submit. Captain Tempest cannot call him father, somehow—and I came to understand each other pretty well before our journey's end. Alfred, they say the demon is not so black as he is painted; and I found Captain Tempest anything but the ferocious monster he was represented. He saw we could not get on together, and he agreed to let me go through the world my own way. So we parted—he for Cuba, and I for France; and since then we have never met. I took my own name, and was successful, as you know. I met Lady Austrey abroad, and came with her to England."

"And that reminds me! How in the world came you and Norma ever to know each other?"

She laughed and her eyes sparkled. "What great stupid things these lords of creation are. So you really cannot suspect?"

"Upon my honor I cannot."

"Then I shall not tell you—perhaps Norma may some day. But tell me, Alfred, how is Augusta? I saw her in your box, looking like a living skeleton."

"Yes; she is dead in life."
"My poor, poor sister. Have they discovered the source of this mysterious sorrow of hers yet?"

"I have; she told me in confidence, and I believe it has no real foundation whatever; yet you see it is wearing away her life. What a pity we cannot all be happy in this world—as happy as I am."

"I don't know as you have any great cause for happiness after all. I am not much of a treasure for any one. But now you positively must go, Alfred; and listen; bring Orrie with you when you come to-morrow. I wonder if Mr. De Vere will give her to me now?"

"He shall. The Countess of Earncliffe shall claim her own child. She knew you the moment she saw you, Jacquetta."

"I am glad!—I am glad! Oh, Alfred! how my heart has yearned for that child—almost as much," she said with a smile, half sad, half gay, "as it has for somebody else. And now, Lord Austrey, good-night; remember me to her ladyship, and tell her her prophecy has come true."

"What was that?" said Disbrowe, curiously.

"Never mind. I will tell you some day. Good-night, Alfred—good-night, my lord."

She turned to go. Disbrowe took a step after her.

"Not with this cold partying, surely, Jacquetta?"

"Keep the feast till the feast day," laughed Jacquetta. And with a wave of her hand and a bright, saucy glance, she was gone.

CHAPTER XXIV.

It was a happy scene on which the glad sunshine streamed the next morning, as it came in long, slanting beams between the folds of the dark curtains, and irradiated the beaming faces on which it fell.

They were in Jacquetta's parlor at the hotel—Mr. De Vere, Augusta, Orrie and Disbrowe.

"Strange, strange—most strange!" murmured Mr. De Vere, as he listened to Jacquetta repeating the story Disbrowe had told him the night before. "Oh, Jacquetta! what an escape you have had. What an awful fate might have been yours—to be buried alive, the most dreadful of all dooms! What a debt of gratitude we all owe to Captain Tempest at last!"

"He was very kind to me; and I owe him more than I can ever repay, but to live on wealth obtained as his had been, I could not; and so we parted."

"I wonder he let you go," said Mr. De Vere. "He seemed bent on obtaining you that day—that terrible day. I will never forget."

"Do you think of it, sir? No; strange to say, he made no objection to my resolution. I believe he loved me in a sort of a way—that is, he did not care, two pins for Jacquetta De Vere; but he still fondly cherished the memory of his lost Lelia. And seeing how desperately in earnest I was, he did not oppose me. And so we parted in Havre; he to go to Cuba, and I to go to Paris, under the name of Madam Lelia, and make my first appearance on the stage."

"What a strange life yours has been, Jacquetta!—a real romance in real life. What a brave, strong heart you must have, my dear child, to endure so much and make no sign! And all through me! Oh, Jacquetta, how, how can you ever forgive me?"

"Very easily, sir. You do not think me such a vindictive little monster, I hope."
"But you have been so cruelly wronged; so deeply injured—deprived of a name, of a home, of friends, of a child, of a father, all in one day. Oh, Jacquetta! you may forgive me; but I can never forgive myself."

"Dear papa," she said, calling him for the first time by the old familiar name, "why will you rake over the ashes of a fire that went out long ago. Let the dead past bury its dead, and remember nothing but that I am the happiest woman in all England to-day."

She looked at Disbrowe with a smile; and her bright eyes were full of love and trust.

"Now I must run away," she said. "I want to see Norma—I mean Lady Austrey—this morning. So, though it is yet unfashionably early, I will take the privilege of a friend, and dress immediately for the visit."

"By the way, Jacquetta," said Disbrowe, as she arose to go, "when am I to learn the mystery of this strange intimacy between you and Norma? Austrey told me his wife fainted, or something, the moment she saw you."

"My dear sir, is it such a very unusual thing for a lady to faint suddenly, that I am to be brought to task for it? Lady Austrey might faint a thousand times, and Jacquetta have nothing to do with it."

"True! But when Lady Austrey immediately gets into a state of mind, and insists on seeing Jacquetta, surely that lady has something to do with it, then."

"Ah! you are dying to know, I see; but I shan't tell you—at least till Norma gives me leave. So, for ten minutes, au revoir." And the bright little vision was gone.

Half an hour later, the whole party drew up before the stately portal of Tremain House, and were ushered in to the drawing-room, where they found Norma alone.

"My dearest Norma!"
"My dear—dear Jacquetta!" And the two friends were clasped in each other's arms.

"So, my lord, the wanderer is found," said Lady Austrey, when the first greetings were over, turning, with a smile, to Disbrowe.

"Yes; and, if I do not mistake greatly, we have to thank your ladyship for it."

"How is this, Madam Lelia? Have you been telling?"
"Not I—though it was not for want of coaxing, I can assure you."

"No; we have been lavishing entreaties on her which, if she had not a heart as hard as the nether millstone, she could not resist. Will Lady Austrey be more merciful, and explain the mystery?"

She blushed and looked at Jacquetta.

"Shall I tell him?"
"Just as you like. He will die of a rush of curiosity to the brain, if you don't."

As she spoke the door opened, and Mrs. Tremain and her daughter entered. Cordial greetings were interchanged; and, finding the rest were in the midst of an animated conversation, Norma beckoned to Disbrowe and made room for him beside her.

"So you would like to know how Jacquetta and I came to know each other?"

"Really I must plead guilty, I fear. You knew her before you met in Italy?"
"Yes—let me see—nearly a year before."

"Why—how?"
"Well, you needn't exclaim in that way, and draw attention—it is simple enough when you come to understand it."

"But, my dear madam, a year before, she was in America!"
"I know it! So was I!"

"What!"
"Why, how thunderstruck you look! Is my visiting that country as well as other people, such an unheard-of thing?"

"But really—why, my dear Norma, I never heard you were there," he cried, completely astounded.

"Very likely—yet I was there, nevertheless. How is Captain Tempest, and my friend Grizelle Howlet, and Mr. Rowley, of the Mermaid Inn?"

She half laughed, yet there was an unusual flush on her pearly face. Disbrowe sat mute with amazement.

"Dumb, I see! By the way, my lord, have you heard of your Spanish friend, Jacinto, lately?"

A light broke upon him! With a half-suppressed cry he nearly sprang from his seat.

"Good heavens! were you—could you—? Oh, Norma, was it you!"

She was crimson to the temples, yet she met his startled eyes firmly, and said, "Yes!"

"And I never knew it—never suspected it, Norma—Norma! what an idiot I have been!"

"Hard words, my lord; but, of course, you know best."

"And you were—you followed me there! Did Jacquetta know it, Norma?"

"Yes; her keen eyes discovered me at once; and I told her all. Do you understand, now, the scene in my room?"

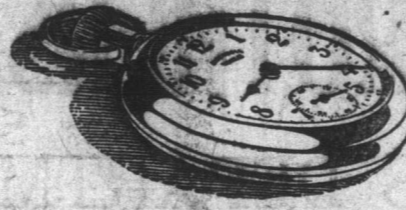

"Oh! everything is as clear as day now! Good Heaven! how I should have been so blind! Does your father know, Norma?"

WHEN JIMMY FOUND OUT.

Jimmy Barter is 12 years old. His father is a very well-to-do merchant and the Baxters have a comfortable home in the city, an attractive summer cottage at the seashore and an automobile.

From all of which you may perceive that the Baxters are in a position to gratify almost any reasonable desire of Jimmy's.

It is not surprising, therefore, that some of the neighbors should have been interested when Jimmy was seen toiling several hours a week in a farmer's garden this summer for the meagre wage of 20c. an hour.

"It seems so queer," they said. "It isn't possible that the Baxters need the money, and yet it isn't because Jimmy likes to work if I heard him fussing about it one day, and his mother just laughed and told him to run along and not disappoint Mr. Hall. She said that she'd go swimming with him when he got through."

The Time to Learn. Knowing Jimmy's mother I, too, was interested. I brought the subject round to Jimmy's job the other day and she explained with a reminiscent chuckle.

"I got just what I was after this summer. You see Jimmy was beginning to take things too much for granted. His father has been glad, of course, to give him the things other boys have: bicycles, balls, bats, catcher's gloves, hockey sticks, all that sort of thing. And Jimmy has been very careful about taking care of them. He left the tennis rackets out several times in the damp night air, library books were always overdue, he lost one watch and broke the mainspring of another, and he never had a pocket knife. So I make up my mind that it was about time for him to learn at first hand a little about the effort that goes into the earning of a dollar. Especially after I heard him ask his father for some toy or other one day with a casual: 'It's only 25c?'"

"It takes Two Hours to Earn 50c." So when I heard the farmer who brings us milk and vegetables complaining of how hard it was to get help, I suggested to Jimmy that he work for him a few hours a day. He fell in readily with the idea. Sure! It would be a snap! But after about an hour of steady weeding that first hot day Jimmy was ready to quit. I kept him at it, however, I laughed and shamed him into it. And toward the end of the season I overheard a conversation between Jimmy and another boy that just pleased me to pieces!

"There was to be some sort of excursion across the bay, and old Mike, the fisherman, would take anyone who wanted to go for 50c. It was the sort of thing to which Jimmy would have assented without question a year ago when it was just a case of asking Dad for the money. But Jimmy was earning his own spending money this summer you see. Fifty cents for a sail just over to Gould's Point," I heard him exclaim. "Well, I guess not! It takes me more than two hours to earn 50c."

The Only Way. "Wasn't that great?" said Jimmy's mother, her eyes shining with amusement and satisfaction. "That's exactly what I wanted him to find out. Jimmy has a great deal of respect for a dollar to-day let me tell you, a respect he couldn't have gotten any other way."

Mrs. Baxter's story speaks for itself, doesn't it?

It would be a good thing for other Jimmy's if they had mothers as wise, don't you think?

Shoreham's Mystery Tower

no more interesting or notable demolition job has been undertaken in recent years than the cutting down of the "mystery tower" in Shoreham Harbour.

One of the two towers built during the war was towed to a position about five miles east of the Isle of Wight to replace the Nab Lightship, while the other was cut down by oxy-acetylene torches and compressed-air tools.

These towers—begun by the Admiralty in 1918, for a purpose which has never been disclosed—were constructed on rather unusual lines that closely corresponded to those of a honeycomb. The steel superstructure was cut down by oxy-acetylene torches and the reinforced concrete was broken up by means of pneumatic tools.

To the layman, the tearing down of this structure might seem a simple matter, but such was not the case. The concrete proved to be exceptionally tenacious; and, piece by piece, it was necessary to cut entirely through both the cement and the metal all the way round in order to wreck the tower.

Altogether about seventeen miles of cuts had to be made in the floors and the cell walls, and all this work was done by compressed air equipment.

A Revolutionary Car for Every Owner

THE BROUGHAM

In literal sense, a revolutionary car: What other term could describe the Chrysler Six—a car that gives a high gear speed range of 2 to over 70 miles per hour—that weighs only 2705 pounds and yet can be driven in comfort 60 miles an hour on a cobbled street or a rutted road.

Never has there been a car within many hundreds of dollars of the Chrysler price, that could begin to do the things it does.

Never has there been a car that combined such starting performance with such economy of investment, maintenance and operation.

Coolidge is the Favourite in To-Days Presidential Contest

Flooded Rivers of N. France and Belgium Threaten Widespread Destruction—Outbreak of Pneumonic Plague in Los Angeles Causes Grave Concern.

LAST MINUTE EFFORTS.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3. The election campaign of 1924 is passing through its final hours in a swirl of activity destined to make political history. For the first time the two Presidential candidates, President Coolidge and John W. Davis, are preparing to address an election eve message to the same audience, a radio audience that will extend the country over. The two candidates for the Vice-Presidency likewise are upsetting precedent by continuing through a pre-election Monday their speaking campaign. Governor Bryan is completing the swing through his home state of Nebraska, and Senator Wheeler is winding up his coast to coast speech-making tour in Baltimore. Senator LaFollette having laid his case finally before the people in Saturday night's address at Cleveland, has returned to his home in Madison, and Charles Daves is awaiting in Evanston the verdict of tomorrow's balloting. The managers for all three of the Presidential tickets, after making the usual pre-election claims to victory, devoted much of to-day to perfecting their machinery to get out the voters. The weather forecast for most of the country fitted in with these preparations and appeared to presage a record vote.

BETTING FAVORS COOLIDGE.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3. Following Republican forecasts of certain victory at the polls to-morrow, the betting odds that Calvin Coolidge would win the Presidency race went 21 to 1 to-day. A prominent Wall Street firm announced an offer to lay $55,000 against $5,000 on the President. The odds against Senator LaFollette, leader of the Independent Party, were 24 to 1. In Wall Street the odds against John W. Davis, Democratic President nominee, were quoted to-day at 13 to 1.

CHARLEROI REGION UNDER WATER.
CHARLEROI, Belgium, Nov. 3. Nearly the whole of this region is under water and immense damage is reported. The big Hannout metal plant at Couillet is flooded, as well as the Marcelline Electric Plant, throwing thousands out of work. The authorities are organizing a boat service to convey food to the flood victims. It is expected the gas plant will be put out of commission at any moment, plunging the city into darkness.

FRENCH RIVERS OVERFLOWING.
PARIS, Nov. 3. Swollen by the incessant rains of last week coming on top of the dampest summer and fall in many years, the rivers of Northern France are rising with unprecedented rapidity, threatening widespread destruction.

COAL PRODUCTION.
GLACE BAY, Nov. 3. The October output at the Dominion Coal Company's Collieries totalled 355,327 tons, the largest output obtained since April, when a total of 379,569 tons were raised. It is 92,000 tons better than the output for September. During October the new colliery, No. 1 B., produced 62,097 tons.

BRUSSELS SUFFERING TOO.
BRUSSELS, Nov. 3. The River Senne is out of its banks south of this city and acres are under water.

HIGHEST RADIO STATION.
TARBES, France, Nov. 3. The highest radio telephonic station in the world has been opened at the observatory on Pic Du Midi, some 10,000 feet in altitude. The station uses a 460 metre wave length and has antenna capacity of 390 watts.

FIGHTING PNEUMONIC PLAGUE.
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3. State and Federal Health authorities to-day were moving to the aid of Los Angeles in its fight to block the spread of the Pneumonic plague which at last reports had claimed 21 victims in the city's Mexican quarters. To ceases under treatment at the general hospital were said to be critical. Ground squirrels probably brought the disease to Los Angeles and communicated it to rats, which in turn probably transmitted it to the first human victim through the intermediary of a flea, Dr. Kellogg said, discussing the history of the plague in the United States. The outbreak, according to Dr. Kellogg, is an indirect heritage from the Oakland plague of 1919.

BOATS MISSING AFTER STORM.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3. Two fishing boats with nine men aboard were reported missing, and another boat with eleven men aboard was towed into port to-day, as the aftermath to-day high wind which swept the waters off New York yesterday and last night. Three men are known to have been drowned and two boats were sunk during the height of the storm. The boat rescued was found helpless off College Point, Long Island, by Marine police in a patrol launch. All available police boats are being used in searching for missing craft.

TRYING TO PLACE THE BLAME.
NILES, Ohio, Nov. 3. With peace and order restored here the military county and city officials to-day turned their attention to fixing responsibility for the rioting here Saturday between Ku Klux Klan and anti-Klansmen which occurred while Klansmen were preparing to parade. The list of known wounded as a result of the skirmishes remained at thirteen.

WILL STAND.
BOSTON, Nov. 3. The will of Neil McNeill disposing of an estate estimated at between $800,000 and one million, the income from which is to be paid to seventeen nieces and nephews during their lifetime and then go to St. Francis Xavier College, of Antigonish, N.S., was allowed to-day, objection being withdrawn. Some of the heirs had announced their intention to contest the will on the grounds of undue influence by the Governors of the college.

An Entertaining Jewellery Firm

Recently, extensive alterations were made to the premises of Messrs. T. J. Duley, Ltd., Water St., and in consequence St. John's can now boast of a jewellery store that in appointments and range of stock, compares favorably with the most modern to be found in the cities of Canada and the United States. The alterations permitted an increase of 22 feet in depth to the main store and added close on 500 feet to the floor area. With increased space the whole layout of the display sections and counter cases became necessary. Made possible by the installation of two of the very newest type of all plate glass jewellery cases, the counter area has been practically doubled. These cases occupying either side of the store from the entrance to the rear and are the latest work in appointment. A notable feature is the rounded corners at the ends near the entrance. The advantages of this feature becomes apparent the moment one enters the store. In addition to these cases there are two six-foot display counters with a three mirror section and a fifteen foot show case. The latter is placed across the rear of the store. The firm, in remodeling, paid particular attention to illumination system and have equipped their main floor with up-to-date fixtures, giving a total of 1450 candle power. There is no doubt but that it is the best lighted store in the city. In consequence of the alterations, the Optical Department had to be removed to the second floor, but no inconvenience has been caused thereby, as easy access is obtained by an entrance in the main store. Messrs. Duley are now in a position to cater to the wants of an ever increasing clientele, as in keeping with the policy of up-to-date jewellery stores abroad, they have extended their stocks so as to embrace many new lines. They now carry a line of gift goods and novelties of exclusive design and not obtainable elsewhere in the city. They were personally selected in the markets of Great Britain and the United States, and are of such variety that the most exacting should find no difficulty in suiting their taste.

Our Perverted Proverbs

POPULAR SAYINGS WITH TWISTED MEANINGS.

Many of the proverbs in constant use are obviously nonsense. Others have a certain point, although it may be very different from that which first made the expression full of meaning. We talk of a thing not being worth a "rap," but probably we never realize the force of the saying until we know that R.A.P., in Indian account stands for Rupees, Annas, and Pice, just as we use £ s. d. in English.

There was once a similar expression—"not worth a tinker's dam." A tinker's dam is a wall of soft clay raised round a spot which a plumber wants to fill with solder. As the material of the dam is thrown away after use, the meaning of the saying was clear. Now its origin is so little remembered that we often hear of something not being worth a tinker's "curse."

Amis and Amile.
We now "lose the ship for a ha'p'orth of tar," or, more often, "spoil" the ship for that amount. Although this is not nonsense, it has not the point of "lose the sheep (pronounced ship in some districts) for a ha'p'orth of tar," when the custom of marking the owner's name on the sheep with hot tar is remembered. One of the best-known proverbs is "A miss is as good as a mile." It is possible that the original proverb read: "Amis is as good as Amile." Amis and Amile were legendary soldiers of Charlemagne, and, besides being great friends, were considerably like one another in appearance. They were famous as the heroes of a wide-known wild song. Later they entered into the traditions of the Church and were invoked indifferently. Hence the proverb.

The Choice of Most Women

Pearline washing Powder is selected by many women who know what a real good washing powder is. Pearline costs only ten cents a package and saves dollars in toil and labor. Years ago Pearline was the favourite—it is still the favourite with all its numerous users. Your grocer knows that Pearline is considered the best of all washing powders and this is why he will recommend it every time you ask his opinion. For cleaning pots, pans, kettles, etc. there is nothing like Pearline. For all washing or scrubbing a little Pearline added to the water makes the work much easier. Every woman should use Pearline. Ask your grocer for Pearline.—oct14,t,t

The First Railway

Next year there will be celebrated the hundredth birthday of our railways. It was on September 27th, 1825, that the Stockton and Darlington Railway was first opened.

The impression of passengers in the earliest days of railway travel make good reading. Sydney Smith, who saw fun in everything, remarked: "Railway travelling is a delightful improvement of human life. Man is become a bird. He can fly longer and better than a Solar goose. The mamma who sits in the carriage for two hours to the school of her confounding and confounding grammar boy. The early gentleman scratches himself in the morning mists of the North and has his porridge in Piccadilly before the setting sun."

The "Quarterly Review" for 1825, which was a railway "mania" year, in noticing some of the first railway looks, remarked that it would "back of Pa her Thames against the Wool-wich Railway for any sum."

TAKE CARE OF YOUR SHOES.

Nothing adds more to the general appearance than a nicely kept pair of shoes. But footwear of any kind needily loses its pleasing effect unless it is given a fair amount of attention.

Most of you know, of course, that when not in use, shoes should always be kept on trees, and that the trees must be of the correct size and shape for the shoes.

But do you know also that shoes which are standing by must be polished from time to time? This is very necessary, as dust is destructive to shoes, while the boot-polish nourishes the leather and prevents it from cracking.

After you have been out in the rain, take off your shoes directly you get in, remove the mud with a damp cloth
—this helps to prevent "weather stains"—and then place the shoes on the trees to dry. Leather or suede shoes should never be placed near the fire to dry when they have become wet.

Patent-leather shoes should always be kept in a warm place, and they should also be warmed slightly before being put on. A good way to warm one's shoes is to rub the hand over them a few times just before slipping them on.

Warming the shoes prevents them from cracking quickly. It is advisable also, with the same object, to rub into them, from time to time, a small amount of vaseline.

For cleaning suede shoes, and shoes which have cloth uppers, a little petrol is very useful, while evening shoes of satin and the like, can also be cleaned with the same agent.

Some Useful Hints.

When an umbrella is wet, it should not be left standing upright, in the usual position. If left thus, there is the risk that any water on the handle may trickle down inside, and rust the wires and joints and rot the silk. Nor should it be opened and left in that position to dry, as this state causes the silk to stretch, and then the umbrella will not fold neatly. The best way is to stand the umbrella upside down, and so leave it to drain.

Wear Gloves When Working.

If you do housework you will know how difficult it is to keep the hands smooth and attractive-looking.
But it is not really so difficult to keep the hands nice if you make a point of wearing gloves whenever possible while doing your work.

When sweeping or dusting, for instance, it is almost impossible to avoid getting some of the dust ingrained into the hands unless they are protected. And the same remark applies when the cleaning of grates, cutlery or other cleaning work is in progress —the hands must be protected or the dirt and polish will quickly coarsen the skin.

If you have much washing-up to do, buy a pair of rubber gloves. These gloves cost three or four shillings, but they are well worth the money, as they last quite a long time. The "corrugated" gloves are best, as the roughened surface gives you a better grip on the article to be washed.

You needn't buy special gloves for any other of your jobs, of course. Any old kid, suede or chambray gloves will do admirably. You will find that you can wear gloves while doing almost every kind of domestic work—then you will find how easy it is to keep your hands nice.

Washing Delicate Ornaments.

Most of us have a few delicate china or glass ornaments which we value very much. As considerable care is necessary in handling such ornaments to prevent the danger of breaking or chipping, here are one or two hints worth bearing in mind.

When washing the ornaments always place a folded tea-cloth in the bottom of the bowl, and another cloth on the draining board. These cloths protect the articles from danger of being chipped.

Ornaments that have raised patterns upon them are cleaned more thoroughly with an old toothbrush than with a dishcloth, but you must not, of course, rub too vigorously.

Canada's Tobacco Harvest

Canada is rapidly assuming an important place among the tobacco-growing countries of the world, and this Dominion now produces a great deal of the leaf from which smoking material of all kinds is made.
This year's crop will be about thirty million pounds—nine million pounds more than the 1923 yield. In Essex County (Ontario) a crop of ten million pounds is expected, which is nearly double the output of 1923 for this area alone. In Ontario and Quebec twenty-five thousand acres were sown this year, while large tracts of land are under tobacco cultivation in British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta.

The result of this wide cultivation of tobacco is that the Dominion is rapidly decreasing her imports of the commodity. During the year ending March 31st, Canada bought only five million pounds of raw tobacco from the United States, as compared with twenty million pounds during the previous twelve months.

age and weakness only brought a cheap grave on the hill. Philosophers took up this case, and argued con men perish so, if weary beings have no place when strength is ebbing low.

The statutes and the laws we make, through Solons' high and wise, are but a mean and shabby fake if any worker dies; because he cannot buy a steak, or even custard pies. Our nation must to chaos drift, its culture must decay; if it refuses to uplift and save the jobless jay; and yet there is a thing called Thrift that seems to answer "Nay." The man who's toiled for fifty years at any useful task, should clip off coupons with his shears, have Koepsels in a cask, have diamond pendants on his ears, and on silk cushions bask. That said old man of sixty-eight who sought the silent clime had doubtless young and strong and straight, he would not save a dime.

How to Store Your Garden Harvest

AND KEEP FRUITS AND VEGETABLES FRESH THROUGH THE WINTER.

(By ERNEST BADE, Ph.D.)

In previous articles I told how to plant your garden, and how to care for your growing vegetables during the summer. Now I am going to tell you how to enjoy the fruits of your labor—how to harvest your crop; more especially, though, how to store your garden products so that you will have fresh fruit and vegetables all winter.

The dry, sunny days of fall are the best of harvest. You must be careful, though, not to begin the harvesting too soon, for fruits and vegetables that are to be kept through the winter must be thoroughly ripe when picked, and perfect in every respect. It is better to delay the harvest until the first slight frost of autumn. This stops the growth of the plant, which has ripened thoroughly, and the plant can be kept fresh longer than if picked too early.

If the fall is rainy, winter cabbages tend to burst before they are harvested. This can be prevented by bending the plants to one side. Seize the stalk as if you are going to pull it out of the ground, and pull it over with a sharp jerk. This will stop the growth by destroying the tiny root hairs, and will prevent bursting.

The best way to store winter cabbages is to remove the plants, roots and all, and place them, heads upward and roots downward, in a shallow ditch or against a wall. Cover them with boards, a layer of straw or alder leaves, and about a foot of sand or soil. Protected in this way, cabbage plants will keep throughout the winter.

Leaf and tuberous vegetables such as carrots and turnips, can be stored in a similar way. Place them in a ditch about 18 inches deep, strung out in rows and in the same position in which they grew. Wall in the ditch with the soil you have removed in digging it. Over the ditch place boards covered with straw, leaves and soil. The boards should slant slightly so that the rain will run off.

Storing the plants in this way will stop their respiration. Consequently the excavation will become warm if it is not ventilated. Small openings here and there will suffice to carry away the warm air. If this expedient is not taken, the plants will, of course, decay. Care should be taken not to remove stored vegetables during intense cold or they will be frostbitten.

If you store vegetables in the cellar, see that it is well ventilated and dry. In damp and heated cellars the vegetables will be liable to decay. The best way is to place the vegetables in sand or soil, using boxes if necessary. Where space is lacking, trays or shelves can be made for storing the vegetables placed one above the other. This is an excellent way to store potatoes. Celery should be placed in sand, and carrots in boxes or similar containers where they can be covered with sand.

Apples should be stored in frames or boxes. When using boxes, raise them with strips of wood to prevent moisture from gathering on the bottom.

Kitchen herbs may be kept in some protected spot in the garden, especially if covered with a light layer of straw. A better method, though, is to place the herbs in pots in the fall. These can be kept on a window-sill until the cold weather sets in, when they can be removed to the cellar or some other part of the house and placed in a well-lighted window. If you will water them occasionally, you can have fresh herbs to season your meals throughout the winter.

Icebergs Ahead

The merger of navigation from floating icebergs is well known. Only one-tenth of the mass of a floating iceberg is visible, the other nine-tenths being submerged. As melting proceeds, the centre of gravity shifts; and a berg that looks as solid as Gibraltar is apt to tip over suddenly, with disastrous results to a ship which may have been at an apparently safe distance. Likewise, the immersed part is of such indeterminate extent that a ship may ground on it while the pilot is under the impression that he is still in safe water.

In order to avoid these dangers it is necessary that the approach of the iceberg be known before it becomes visible. A "radio-micrometer" has been made for iceberg detection. The instrument consists of two parts—a thermocouple and a spherical mirror. The thermocouple is enclosed in a vacuum tube from which the air has been exhausted. The mirror has a silvered front so that the radiation has not to go through the glass, which would absorb part of it.

There is a temptation to describe the work of this radio-micrometer in the location of icebergs as depending upon the "radiation of cold" by the berg, being at a temperature some hundreds of degrees above absolute zero, is in fact radiating heat, but not of low intensity. The thermocouple reacts to this heat, and as it approaches the berg it gives a galvanometer reading in accordance with this fact.

The Industrial Fair

The splendid Exhibition which was opened yesterday in the Prince's and Curling Rinks by His Excellency the Governor fittingly marks another turning point in the industrial life of Newfoundland. The enterprise shown by the exhibitors, the remarkable variety of the exhibits, and the many new lines of local and imported goods all testify to the renewed confidence in the country's recuperative ability, and to the "never say die" spirit of the people of the community.

Mr. W. A. MacKay has pioneered many enterprises in Newfoundland, and his vision has never been shown to better account than in this exhibition to which he has given his time, energy, and ability unsparingly, and it must have been a proud moment for him when His Excellency flooded the buildings with light yesterday, and revealed to the Assembly what had been accomplished. Mr. MacKay's firm belief in the future of his native country is the motive which inspires him in his undertakings, and it is a theme which is always uppermost in his mind. The Fair is a practical demonstration of the soundness of his ideas, and will do more than anything else to convince Newfoundlanders both at home and abroad that their Island home offers both to the investor and the producer many inducements which may be sought in vain in the outside world.

We should have welcomed a fuller display of our fishing and agricultural products as the former is essentially one which can never become secondary to any other, and because in the case of the latter every encouragement should be given to make us independent of outside supplies. Possibly at a later date an effort will be made in this direction, now that the first venture in many years has proved such a great success.

Advertising Nfld. Cod Liver Oil

The following Circular letter dealing with the merits of Newfoundland Cod Liver Oil was recently issued by Prof. Davies, who has been in charge of our exhibit at Wembley:

"Sir—In this year of the Empire's great effort at Wembley, I want to bring to your notice an Empire product which has been proved by biochemical experts to be the best of the world produces—I mean the Cod Liver Oil of Newfoundland.

"The Cod Liver Oil is manufactured under the most rigid Government supervision from the livers of codfish fed in the famous feeding grounds around the coast of Britain's Oldest Colony.

"The cod approach the Newfoundland coast after the spawning season, and gorge themselves upon myriads of caplin and squid until their livers become enriched with a considerable quantity of oil.

"This oil is the richest vitamin food known, being two thousand times more potent than butter. A world-wide use of this product of Newfoundland would prevent the appearance of rickets in the bones of infants and young children, and for safety's sake it has been recommended that every baby should receive thirty drops of Cod Liver Oil at least twice a day until the child is six years of age.

"Sir, if you should require further information your enquiries will receive the most prompt attention."

"This is, we believe, the first step of an official nature to be taken to broadcast the results of the discoveries made in connection with the oil by the various scientists who have investigated its properties, and it reflects credit on the enterprise of our representative.

We trust that this is only the beginning of a literature campaign to tell the world of this valuable find, and to increase the demand for a commodity which Newfoundland can produce in unlimited quantities.

Outport Visitors Arrive

The first of the outport visitors to take advantage of the reduced transportation rates during Fair Week, arrived in the city by yesterday's express, whilst another large number came in by the shore train last night. During the week it is expected that large numbers will visit the city from outside places, and their presence will result in a large increase in general business.

S.S. Susu Arrives From North

S.S. Susu, Capt. Jacob Kean arrived from the Fogo Mail Service at 6 o'clock last evening, after a stormy round trip of eight days. The Susu brought a full cargo, consisting of fish and oil, besides the following passengers for this port—Messrs. T. Sextant, W. B. Torrville and son, C. Abbott, Messdames. Pardy, Gillingham, Hutchings, Mullett, Abbott, Misses. Hutchings (2), Abbott and four in steerage. The Susu will probably sail again on Thursday.

Marvellous Feature

LARGE AUDIENCES DELIGHTED

A capacity house greeted the first showing of "Human Wreckage" at the Majestic Theatre last night. The picture was all and more than it was cracked up to be. It was undoubtedly one of the best pictures ever shown in this city, and it certainly excited the art of screen-dom. The principal parts were portrayed by Mrs. Wallace Reid and James Kirkwood, whose portrayals call for special mention. The picture is remarkable in many respects. The genuine description of the underworld life of New York, showing the Great White Way and the typical dens, all proved very fascinating to the story seeker. From every aspect, the picture was one that merits all the praise that has been given it, and those who saw it last night are speaking in strong, favorable terms of the production. It will be repeated to-day and to-morrow, and those who did not have an opportunity to see it last night are urged not to miss it to-night or to-morrow night.

Mrs. Clinton R. Thorburn will be "At Home" to her friends, at her residence, Hamilton Avenue, on Wednesday and Thursday evening's, the 5th and 6th of November, from 3.30 to 6 o'clock. nov4.11

Meigle Sails for Labrador

S. S. Meigle, Capt. Burgess, sailed from the Dry Dock wharf at 12 noon, for Labrador ports. She took a large outward cargo and the following passengers—A. Mercer, E. Murrett, A. Gaulton, Capt. Annabson and Miss Gertrude Roberts in saloon, besides four in steerage.

Had Windshield Broken

Yesterday afternoon some miscreant smashed the windshield of a motor car owned by E. R. Bowring. He had been attending the opening of the Industrial Fair and left his car parked outside the rink door. Returning to the machine he found the windshield smashed, and on the seat a large wooden ball to which a string was attached. Evidently the missile was thrown by some boys, but enquiries failed to elicit who was the culprit.

Remember St. Joseph's Hall is close by the Curling Rink, so you will not have far to walk for a good old honest to goodness time on Wednesday night. nov4.11

Magnificent Display At Industrial Fair

His Excellency the Governor Officiates at the Opening

The grand opening of the Mercantile and Industrial Fair, held in the Prince of Wales and Curling Rinks, under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardyce, took place yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. At 2.45 His Excellency Sir William Allardyce, and suite, arrived at the building, and upon being received by Mr. W. A. MacKay, the organizer of the Fair, the Vice Regal Party was escorted into the buildings and shown through the various booths. Amongst those in attendance were: the Prime Minister, Hon. W. S. Monroe and Mrs. Monroe, Hon. J. H. and Mrs. Bennett, Hon. W. J. Higgins, His Worship the Mayor, Hon. Tasker Cook, His Honor Judge Morris, besides many other prominent citizens. After the Vice Regal Party had completed their tour, they expressed themselves artlessly surprised at the excellence of the displays. The party then ascended a box in the Prince's Rink, when Mr. W. A. MacKay called upon His Excellency to declare the Exhibition open. His Excellency in his remarks stated that he was greatly impressed by what he had seen, and he frankly admitted that he did not think the country was capable of producing such products as were on view. It gave him very great pleasure to officiate at the opening of such an excellent exhibition. He referred to the exhibition recently held at Wembley, which was the largest of its kind in the world, and briefly outlined the great benefits which must result. His Excellency was somewhat disappointed in not seeing exhibited products of the soil. Newfoundland, he had been told, was a land of ice and fog, but he had found that it was capable of producing crops, equal to any in other parts of the world. "We ought to be a sheep raising country," he said. "And I am confident that such an industry would be successful." In this connection the exhibition of NONIA products will give visitors an opportunity to realize what has been accomplished by encouraging knitting, and they will be able to see the great advantage derived from it. His Excellency considered that the various displays did very great credit to the exhibitors, and expressed the hope that the exhibition would be the means of stimulating trade all over the country. The exhibition was then declared open and both Rinks were flooded with light when His Excellency turned a switch in the box.

The Vice Regal Party then made another visit to the various booths before their departure. The Fair, which comprises some sixty booths in number, consisting of local manufactures, chiefly, but of imported commodities as well, is undoubtedly one of the finest and most attractive displays ever witnessed in this country, and it certainly speaks well for the enterprise and resource of our local industrial concerns. The exhibitors, judging by the excellence of their display, have spared no expense or trouble in this connection. The various commodities, not to mention the general beauty of the booths, have in every case been splendidly arranged and the method is such as to enable the visitor to obtain a thorough grasp of the different grades of goods. In a general survey of such an exhibition it is impossible to do full justice to the various displays, and in order that the whole ground may be covered, it is our intention to deal with the Fair, section by section, and articles dealing with the different booths will appear during the next few days in our columns.

During the afternoon and evening, both buildings were crowded with interested visitors, many of whom were present from the Outports, and all were highly delighted and surprised with the excellence of the display. An added attraction to the Fair, and one which kept the gathering in a jovial mood, was the musical programme, furnished by the Mollit Cashel Band and the Prince's Orchestra. The music rendered was of a high order and helped greatly to enliven the proceedings. A dancing gallery, erected in the Curling Rink, was the attraction for many. The management of the Fair have left nothing undone to please the large audiences expected while the Fair remains open. The stalls erected in the main body of the buildings are well situated and there is ample space for the visitors to move around freely without crowding, whilst a special guard of police has been engaged to keep order.

Amongst the exhibitors who carry their special lines in the Prince's Rink are the following: Messrs. Bowring Bros., Marshall Bros., J. B. Orr Co. Ltd., J. B. McNeill & Co., Ltd., Orange Crush Bottling Co., Ltd., Ayre & Sons, Gerald M. Dayle, J. T. Lamb, American Aerated Waters, Job Ross & Co., Ltd., A. Harvey & Co., Nfld. Light & Power Co., Wm. J. Clouston & Son, Riversdale Woollen Mills, H. Grace Oil Clothing Co., P. M. O'Leary, Sterling's Restaurant, Harvey & Co., A. M. Penman & Co., Dick & Co., Imperial Tobacco Co. Ltd., Newfoundland Outport Nursing and Industrial Association, Standard Mfg. Co., Jas. Baird Ltd., T. A. McNab & Co.

An entrance between the two Rinks has been provided to enable visitors to pass to or from both buildings. Once the spectator leaves the Prince's Rink to enter the Curling Rink, the scene is one of equal attraction. Here are found well erected stalls of various designs, unique and attractive decorations and the exhibitors who carry their best lines in this building are as follows: Messrs. Nfld. Nail Factory, Ltd., C. A. Hubley, Butler Bros., Colonial Cordage Company, Baird & Co., United Tows Electrical Co., S. G. Faour, W. H. Ewing & Son, Hr. Grace Boot & Shoe Mfr. Co., J. Cocker, Lester & Elton, Agents for Dodge Bros. Cars, Henley Mattress Co., G. Browning & Son, Moore & Co., St. John's Gas Co., Ltd., Archibald Bros., Hr. Grace, Franklin's Agencies, Ltd., Sample coal by St. George's Coal Field Co. Ltd., Bert Hayward, Agent, American Aerated Waters, United Can Mfg. Co., Imperial Oil, Ltd.

Lady Allardyce to Deliver Address

ON MISSION WORK.

The Ladies Home Missionary Society are holding their monthly meeting in Canon Wood Hall to-morrow night, commencing at eight o'clock. At this meeting Lady Allardyce will deliver an address on her trip to Cartwright, and will also give a brief outline of the work being carried on there by the Rev. Henry Gordon. A short musical programme has also been arranged, and all ladies and gentlemen who are interested in Mission work are cordially invited to attend.

AWARDED CONTRACT.—In connection with the new suit of offices for Bowring Bros., which is now in course of erection under the supervision of Mr. Barnes, we understand that the firm of Moore & Co. have been awarded the contract for heating.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 3. Twelve persons were killed and many injured when the Liverpool express to Blackpool was wrecked this evening near Lytham. Several prominent Lancashire business men were among the casualties.

LEGIT DEALS WITH OPIUM QUESTION.

GENEVA, Nov. 3. The International Opium Conference to-day began under the auspices of the League of Nations its task of devising means of checking opium smoking. The conference representation, which is confined to Far Eastern countries and to those countries which have Far Eastern possessions, is the precursor of a second and more important international consideration of the opium question which will open on November 17 with wider application. The present meeting is expected to furnish the second one with an estimate of how much opium is used for smoking purposes, so that the meeting on the 17th may be enabled to formulate measures limiting the production of opium and narcotic drugs to the extent needed for medical and scientific purposes. The nations represented to-day were Great Britain, China, France, India, Japan, Holland, Portugal, and Siam.

CHURCHILL REVIVES SINGAPORE DISCUSSION.

LONDON, Nov. 3. Winston Spencer Churchill, who has just been re-elected to Parliament, is the first Conservative of possible Government rank to advocate publicly the revival of the Singapore naval base scheme. This he did in the course of a political speech here to-day. Resumption of the plan to establish a great naval base at Singapore has already been advocated by several Australian newspapers. The project of a naval base at Singapore at a cost of about £11,000,000 was brought forward by the Conservatives in 1923.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN BY RADIO.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. The Presidential campaign was brought to a novel and dramatic conclusion to-night with an audience of millions listening in their own homes to election eve addresses by two Presidential nominees. A far flung network of radio stations took command of the air to carry to the country the final pre-election admissions of President Coolidge delivered from his study in the White House, and of John W. Davis speaking from a radio studio in New York City. Momentarily the radio affair jostled out of the public mind the loud and persistent claims of headquarters of all parties. It overshadowed for to-night even tomorrow's election itself, at which the nation will choose between Coolidge, Davis and LaFollette, will elect a new Congress, and will fill a Governor's seat in each of the thirty-four States. Both the President and his Democratic opponent chose the occasion to say a word for a full poll of voting strength, an objective which kept the party managers great and small busy throughout the day and far into the night. A forecast of fair weather for virtually the entire country with dry roads in the agricultural section of the Middle West led to predictions that to-morrow's vote would be by far the largest ever recorded in a Presidential election. On election day President Coolidge will remain at work in the White House, having sent his ballot by mail to his home voting district in Northampton, Mass. Mr. Davis will be at his home on Long Island, and Senator LaFollette, the third entry in the three cornered poll contest, will cast his vote in Madison.

VICTIMS OF THE STORM RESCUED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3. Four fishing parties comprising thirty-two men and two boys were brought to safety to-day by an expedition boat and a sea-going launch from the Ambrose Lightship after clinging out the night in one of the heaviest gales the fisher folk have experienced in many months. The death toll remained at three, two of whom are unidentified. One small vessel went down. A seaplane flying over Long Island Sound opposite Stamford, Conn., was hurled about by the gale and finally plunged into the surf. Frederick Schavior and Aemil Mazzio, pilots, were rescued an hour later by a power boat.

R.C. PARLIAMENT IN SESSION.

VICTORIA, Nov. 3. The sixteenth Parliament of British Columbia was opened for its first session by Lieut-Governor Walter Nichol at three o'clock this afternoon with the usual colorful ceremony. That the Legislature programme of the session which will be actually underway to-morrow will be small was indicated by the speech from the throne.

Man's Report on Nfld. Trade Conditions

TRADE OF BUSINESS EXCEEDS THAT OF LAST YEAR—SPIRIT OF OPTIMISM PREVAILING.

C. C. Dun & Co., St. John's, Newfoundland, have issued the following report on "Newfoundland Trade Conditions":

Generally speaking, trade during the summer months was rather quiet, but both wholesale and retail reports show considerable improvement the latter part of September and October to the end of the year. The volume of business done by the bulk of the merchants is ahead of the corresponding period of last year. Most of the factories are working at full time and there appears to be a demand for their products.

Statistics as shown by figures are smaller in both number and amounts compared with the period ending September 30, 1923. They total to $2,232,000 as compared with $6 for the same period last year. Liabilities to date are $1,725,007 as compared with $3,797,243 to September 30, 1923—over $2,000,000 less. The general impression is that business is in a healthier state, and not many failures are anticipated between this and the end of the year.

The codfishery catch for the year is estimated to be considerably below the average, and while no accurate figures are available to date, it is estimated that the Labrador catch will be in the vicinity of 350,000 qtls., which is pretty close to the average, but the shore fishery is short, probably not over 100,000 qtls. The price for the best Labrador fish today is $9.50 per qtl, while the price for the best fish from the Labrador has brought as high as $7.30 per qtl. Cod oil is also demanding the high price of $140 per ton.

The codfishery this spring was estimated to be considerably below the average, total catch for the season being 129,561, while another 100,000 were secured from the shores. A good price was also received for the fish.

Considerable activity is noted in the Labrador Valley section where the Newfoundland Power Paper Co., Ltd., is constructing their plant and building the town at Corner Brook. It is estimated that there will be an expenditure of $2,000,000 expended in this section for the past 18 months; have two large warehouses, with a capacity of 100,000 tons each, already completed, and the frame of their concrete plant completed and starting to cover in. The plant has been erected, and at Corner Brook they have installed their water system and sewerage. At Deer Lake they have about completed their plant and are now installing their water system, a distance of 10 miles from Deer Lake to Corner Brook. Altogether the constructional work is giving employment to about 3,000 or 4,000 men.

The work at Deer Lake will be completed within a few weeks, but the company intend cutting in that vicinity this winter. At Corner Brook they are now laying down one of their water mains, and hope to have it in operation in the early spring. The Gander Valley Power & Paper Co., Ltd., which is composed of principally the directors of the Reid Newfoundland Co., Ltd., was incorporated in July, 1924, authorized capital $15,000,000. They do not intend starting any constructional work until next spring, but it is understood they intend erecting a large plant and will assist in obtaining pulp and paper for the Newfoundland Power & Paper Co. Ltd.

The Newfoundland Milling Co., which was incorporated in September, 1922, have been successful in obtaining their concessions from the Newfoundland Government, have secured a site on the south side, St. John's harbor, and before long will be starting the erection of their plant. Their authorized capital is $10,000,000, and it is understood that the bulk of the capital is foreign.

When the constructional work in connection with these plants starts it will give considerably more employment, and the outlook would appear encouraging.

The Anglo Newfoundland Development Co., Ltd., at Grand Falls, have increased their plant the past year, and are in a position to about double their previous output. Are working steadily, and while they will not cut much this winter, will keep their plant running to full capacity. The British Empire Steel Corporation, who control all mines at Bell Island, are employing about 1200 men at present, and the prospects are that they will continue to operate to that extent throughout the winter, most of their output going to Germany. The lumbering outlook is also encouraging, and it is understood that the Government intend allowing pit props to be cut this winter by parties in their own district where needed to necessary, and the different lumbering concerns intend to operate on a larger scale this year than last. On the whole, business conditions look encouraging, collections are good as compared with this season the past few years, and there is a spirit of optimism prevailing.

The "Laurentic's" Gold

END OF THE SALVAGE OPERATIONS—99% RECOVERED.

The following noteworthy record of achievement which appears in Lloyd's Weekly Shipping Summary has been forwarded to us by one of our readers: The return of H.M. salvage vessel "Racer" to Portsmouth, marks the end of the salvage operations which the Admiralty have been carrying out for the past few years on the wreck of the armed liner "Laurentic." The result of the undertaking has been that over 99 per cent. of the 5,000,000 pounds worth of specie which went down in the ship has been safely restored to the Treasury.

At the beginning of this year there were 154 bars of gold remaining buried in the wreck, and the salvage vessel "Racer" arrived on the spot in the first days of April for the effort to recover as many of these as possible before finally closing down. Visitors to the British Government Exhibit at Wembley who have seen a set of models there illustrating the state of the wreck at different periods of the work may remember that in the last stages all the structure of the ship and wreckage at the site of the former hullion room had been removed right down to the outer skin of the vessel, which formed, as it were, a carpet lying on the sea bed. This carpet had been swept clear of the gold, but it was crumpled and torn in many places, and there was reason to expect that some of the bars had worked their way through the rents into the sea floor.

Difficult Work.

In the first month of the present season a number of them obtained by digging out and sifting the boulders and stiff clay where they were exposed at the holes, and as the excavations were deepened and extended so that divers could squeeze themselves right underneath the wreck more gold was discovered several feet from the tiers and beneath continuous plating. The explanation of this anomaly is that what we have called the carpet of plating had been settling and creeping for a year or two since the bars were passed through the rents, and had come to cover up many of them. Work in the dark beneath the wreck was difficult and not too safe, so it was decided to cut all this last layer of that part of the wreck into sections and raise it to the surface piecemeal. A very fine spring and early summer favoured the undertaking, and eventually about 2,000 square feet of the sea bed was uncovered and thoroughly searched with most satisfactory results.

With the late summer bad weather set in, and soon the disturbance of the surrounding wreckage, due to the heavy seas running on the surface, caused stones and shingle to sweep into and over the working place faster than it could be cleaned out, and now any gold that is left there is buried several feet deep. The result of the struggle has been the recovery of 129 of the 154 bars, a value of about £200,000. When the news reached London of the loss of that great consignment of treasure in 20 fathoms of water, off an exposed and stormy coast, few can have expected that anything approaching 99 per cent. of it would ever be salvaged.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR GUEST.

THE MAGIC OF AUTUMN.
It's a glorious day with the sun overhead
And the maples off yonder in cardinal red,
And the elms spilling gold on the floor of the world,
And the sun's ablaze as the picture's unfurled;
Oh, poor little souls known as a man,
Work us such wonders as this if you can!

It's a glorious day, with the magic of fall
Working its changes too swift for us all,
Now the green turns to gold, in the glint of the sun,
But not one of us knows how this marvel is done;
From the high hat of autumn gay ribbons are tossed
And man merely calls it the work of the frost.

Here's a performance which dazzles the eye!
Here are illusions no Hindoo dare try!
Valley and hill top and forest and field
In garments of beauty are strangely revealed:
Oh, who can detect it, or who can explain,
Or what can equal such legerdemain?

The world is the stage, without curtain or wing,
When autumn performs for the peasant and king;
No velvet-topped table he needs for his feast,
As he scatters his silver and gold at our feet;
We see the scenes change in the glint of the sun,
But none of us knows how such wonders are done.

Motor Boat Reported Adrift

SAFE AT WESTERN BAY.
About eight o'clock last night the Department of Marine and Fisheries received word that a motor boat was adrift off Cape St. Francis and needed immediate assistance. The department took up the matter at once and made arrangements with the Cashin Tug Company to despatch the Susu to the scene. Owing to the late arrival of the steamer, and the discharging of her cargo being handicapped owing to the Longshoremen being on strike the work was somewhat delayed, but after taking a supply of coal on board the ship left port shortly before midnight. Meanwhile it had been learned that the boat in distress was the yacht Madeline, of 20 tons, owned by Dr. H. Rendell, which left port at 10 o'clock yesterday morning for Hr. Grace to undergo repairs. Amongst those on board were Mr. Bob Sexton, the well known race-boat builder, with his son, and Mr. Driscoll, engineer at the Sanatorium.

This morning much anxiety was felt for those on board and it was feared by many that the off shore wind which prevailed last night had driven the little craft rapidly to sea.

Latest.
Shortly before noon hour Dr. H. Rendell, received a long distance message from Western Bay stating that the Mr. Sexton and party had arrived there at eleven o'clock last night, all well. Owing to line interruption the particulars of their going adrift could not be received. It is quite possible that engine trouble was the chief cause. The Susu which engaged in the search all night, was reported passing Bay de Verde this morning and had not reached port up to 2 p.m.

Obituary

HUBERT J. YABSLEY.
A highly respected citizen of the city in the person of Mr. Herbert J. Yabsley passed away at the General Hospital yesterday morning, in his 44th year. The deceased who was of strong and robust physique, hardly ever knew what a day's sickness was, until about three weeks ago when he was suddenly taken ill suffering from internal trouble. On Thursday last his condition reached such an alarming stage that the doctors in attendance ordered his removal to Hospital where an operation was performed on Friday. The malady had gained such inroads on his system that a cure could not be effected and he lingered until the final summons came 6 o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased was a Master Cooper by trade, having been identified with the firm of Messrs. Bowring Bros. Retail Stores for the past twenty-five years. During his long years of service he was held in the highest esteem by his co-workers and employer, and his passing will be greatly regretted.

The deceased was a prominent member of the Congregational Church, and always took an active interest in church affairs. Much sympathy will be expressed for the wife of the deceased who is at present in Boston on a visit to her daughter who is ill. The deceased leaves to mourn besides his wife, 3 daughters, 2 sons, mother, father, one sister and one brother, to whom the sympathy of many will go out in their hour of sorrow.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

QUEST UNDERTAKEN FOR VENTUROUS NAVIGATORS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.
Bound for the North Atlantic on an errand of mercy, the United States S. S. Trenton to-day sailed to search for the sloop Lief Ericsson and the three adventurers who last July fared forth from Bergen, Norway, to find a trail of the Norseman across the Atlantic to Labrador a thousand years ago. Opposite the naval anchorage on the east bank of the Hudson a woman and two sturdy youngsters silently waved the Trenton God speed. They were the wife, son, and daughter of William Washburn Nutting, the commander of the Lief Ericsson's venture, and farther down the river alone on a wind swept pier another woman waved a tiny handkerchief after the disappearing cruiser, for her husband Eric Todahal, the marine painter, and another countryman, Arthur Hilberbrand, the author, also sailed with the craft. The quest was ordered by the Navy Department at Washington last Saturday when the voyage was forty-two days overdue at Battle Harbor, Labrador. The Lief Ericsson last was heard from as she passed Julianahab, Greenland, surging on the last and most perilous lap of her journey.

LEAVES FOR PARTS UNKNOWN.

TIENTSIN, Nov. 3.
Wu Pei Fu, the ousted Field Marshal of the Peking Government armies, left here at four o'clock this morning going to Tangku, on the Gulf of Chihli, where he sailed on a steamer for a destination unknown. It is expected that Wu transferred to the cruiser Nishi off Tangku. If this is true he probably will make for Nanking to join his ally, the Tuchun of Kiangsu Province. Before leaving Wu executed a Shenai officer who had refused to fight.

ANOTHER FIRE FATALITY IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.
Mrs. Mary Negro, wife of the janitor of a building in Lower Manhattan, and her two children were burned to death in fire which destroyed the building yesterday.

A VALID REASON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.
Rev. Dr. Charles W. Dawe, the pastor of St. Mark's Congregational Church, has resigned because "an active minority in the Church insist upon desecrating the house of God by using it for modern mixed dancing," he announced to-day.

Sunlight at the Fair

The Sunlight Soap booth on Main Street at the Mercantile Fair is bound to register in the memory of every visitor; it occupies a choice position, and represents a shop window where in the familiar Sunlight Packages are shown in overwhelming profusion. High up in the centre and lower down at the sides, are shown "Caskets" which represent a corner of Port Sunlight, the most marvelous Industrial Village in the world. It is most gratifying to users of Sunlight Soap to know that when they buy Sunlight Soap, they are getting the best Soap in the world, at a reasonable price, and are, at the same time, enabling their fellowmen and women in Port Sunlight to live in comfortable homes.

In the centre of the Sunlight booth, a cake of Sunlight Soap is displayed; and honestly it looks good enough to eat; no wonder intelligent people prefer it to any other soap; its pleasing purity and refreshing odour are in themselves proof enough of its superior quality, but in addition to these proofs of Sunlight's excellence, here and there throughout the booth, are displayed copies of the famous Sunlight guarantee, which, to the amount of five thousand dollars (£1,000) give convincing evidence of the absolute purity of Sunlight Soap.

Running Twenty Miles a Minute!

An astonishing fact, which would rarely occur to one when watching the leisurely antics of a fly in the air, is that whereas at that particular moment it is probably moving at the rate of five feet a second, in a few brief glances, quicken its pace to thirty-five feet a second.

Experiments have proved that a baby fly, barely visible to the naked eye, can cover six inches in a second. If that fly were a man with a two-foot stride running, it would run at the rate of twenty miles a minute.

The strength of some insects is almost unimaginable. A common beetle was covered by having a quart-bottle of milk placed over him, so that he should be kept captive without being hurt. To the captor's amazement the bottle began moving and gliding along the table. The beetle was pushing 112 times its own weight.

Had the beetle been a boy buried inadvertently under the giant bell of St. Paul's, he could have marched along the streets, pushing his prison in front of him.

Even a small ground beetle, the subject of experiments by a well known entomologist, was able to climb an inclination of five degrees, dragging after it (attached to its leg by a silk thread) a weight equal to 125 grains.

A Meal of Moths

Moths hardly appeal to the average man as an article of diet. Yet there abounds in certain parts of Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand a moth which, at one time, was highly esteemed as an article of diet by the aborigines of those countries.

This is the Bugong moth, to which scientists have given the name of Agrotis spina. It is a dull, brownish, stout-bodied insect, measuring from one and a quarter to two inches across the wings. There is nothing especially attractive about its appearance.

Years ago a well known naturalist recorded that these moths congregated in myriads in the isolated granite rocks in a particular district which he visited during November, December and January.

What was the object of these assemblages it would be difficult to say. The natives, however, turned the occasion to their own advantage, and came from far and near to collect the moths. After removing the wings they ate the bodies, or powdered and smoked them to preserve them for future use.

The bodies of the Bugong moths abound in an oil, and have a nut-like flavor. When first eaten they cause violent sickness. After a few days, however, this wears off, and the native who chooses this peculiar diet begins to get fat.

Black crows were other eager consumers of the moths. However, the natives dealt with these marauders in summary manner, dispatching them with their clubs and using them as food.

A score or more of tiny American citizens of Japanese ancestry were gathered in a street in the Oriental section of Honolulu. Two of them were beating on tin cans, and the others were singing at the top of their voices.

"Pretty sight," remarked a tourist to a friend.
"Isn't it?" the friend replied. "So characteristically Oriental. I wonder what song they are singing."
"Probably the Japanese anthem," said the first.
The children were singing "Barney Google."—Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Apparently, these men laugh at the law. From what was said, it appears that for years the police have been trying to run to earth a mysterious person who manufactures false weights and measures for the use of dishonest costermongers and fraudulent traders generally.
Many thousands of these weights are turned out yearly. They are all cast from the same moulds, and sold from thirty to fifty shillings a set. To the eye they are quite perfect, even to the reproduction of the Inspector of Weights and Measures' stamp.
Only two or three men sell them; they are quite well known, but they cannot be apprehended—the mere possession of false weights not being an offence. Their users, however, can, of course, be prosecuted.

ST. PAUL.
 September Earnings Best Monthly Net in Six Years and October Net Likely to be Largest in Company's History.

N.Y.—With one of the most substantial fall grain movements in its history under momentum, St. Paul's September net, which was over 13% ahead of the corresponding 1923 period, reflected the establishment of the best monthly net in six years.

Outstanding accomplishment of the September showing was the cut of $68,493 in operating expenses to $10,824,800, in the face of the $328,352 gain in gross, resulting in decrease of operating ratio of .2% to 71.5%, lowest for any month of the current year. Had it not been for the decided falling off in the month's passenger business, against 1923, net would have been $500,000 greater than then.

Progressive increase in October traffic, aggregates thus far show, indicates that the month's statement will reveal the largest monthly net in St. Paul's career. Preliminary estimates place net at between $3,700,000 and $4,000,000, against $2,626,004 actual net in the same month of 1923.

and gross at about $16,500,000, against $15,365,219 last October.

Such a result would carry net for 10 months and substantially over $14,000,000, against $15,288,088 in 1923 and tend to substantiate predictions of the management that about $21,500,000 fixed charges for 1924 will be fully covered.

To accomplish earning of 1924 charges, it will be necessary for the road to earn an average monthly net of about $3,250,000 in the last quarter. While December ordinarily reflects curtailment in traffic volume, existing big grain traffic is expected to keep St. Paul busy until well into November while recent resumption in miscellaneous traffic will probably gain momentum from now on.

Valuable Art Collection

FOR THE U.S. PUBLIC.

NEW YORK—(Canadian Press)—An art collection worth $50,000,000 will be presented to the United States public on the death of its owner, Mr. Joseph E. Widener, financier and art connoisseur, of Philadelphia. Mr. Widener announced this intention during the trial of an action between himself and Prince Youssouf, a Russian nobleman, who wants to regain paintings Mr. Widener bought from him in 1921.

The collection is being built up in memory of his father by Mr. Widener. It includes a Bellini worth $600,000, and two Rembrandts, valued at over $350,000 each. The Philadelphia connoisseur intends to make his collection the best in the world. "I have nothing for sale and I hope I never

Supreme Court

The King vs. James Whiteford McNeilly.

The Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Johnson and Mr. Justice Kent delivered separate judgments on the validity of the Grand Jury.

The Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Kent held that the jury was competent to perform its functions.

Mr. Justice Johnson disagreed. Owing to pressure on our space we are unable to give the judgments in full in to-day's issue. In another column appears an installment of the judgment of Mr. Justice Kent the concluding portion of which will appear to-morrow.

The King vs. Leonard G. Reid. The indictment charging manslaughter was read to the accused who pleaded not guilty.

Mr. C. E. Hunt for the Crown asked that the case be set for the 17th before a special jury.

Mr. L. E. Emerson for the accused made a motion for bail. Bail in the sum of $100,000.00 was renewed.

King vs. Albert Maidment. Charged with breaking from the penitentiary during the month of October. The accused pleaded guilty. The court sentenced the prisoner to serve a further term of 12 months in prison.

King vs. Thomas Hekey. Charged with forging a number of cheques. He pleaded guilty. The prisoner was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary.

King vs. J. T. Meaney. Mr. Winter asked to be allowed to cross examine Mr. Meaney on his affidavit made at a previous hearing.

Mr. Fox entered a plea—that the prosecution should not be proceeded with and further elaborated the argument which he made last week on the garrett case. He pointed out that the impression Meaney had gained when he placed himself at the disposal of the Crown was that he was freeing himself from any ill consequences. In reference to his refusal to give evidence before the Magistrate, Counsel claimed that it was only hesitation on his part because he was under arrest and his trial was proceeding.

Mr. Meaney, called and examined by Mr. Winter, said there was no reference to any shortage in the Controller's Department in the notice of suspension which he received in the department. The only reason given for his final dismissal was some statements he had made in reference to a burglary. He was informed that the Prime Minister was moving for his arrest and prosecution for alleged larceny of money and goods from the Department of Controller. Witness stated that his counsel had informed him that he (counsel) had assurances from the Justice Department that proceedings for his arrest would be stopped. There was no warrant for his arrest issued at the time, but the witness believed that his arrest was pending. In reply to further questions witness said that at a conference between himself, Sir William Coaker, and the then Attorney General and his counsel the whole of the matters concerned in the indictment as he understood the situation then were discussed. Witness said he understood that the department had given him an assurance going beyond matters contained in the documents which he had submitted. Witness also said that at the Enquiry he was not questioned upon all the facts which he gave the Attorney General, because the Commission only covered the payment of moneys.

Following the examination Mr. Knight made a short examination of the witness in order to fix some dates. In giving evidence at the preliminary Enquiry in the matter of Sir Richard Squires, witness said he claimed his privilege because he was ordered to do so by his counsel, and the same was true on his appearance before the Grand Jury.

The Court arose at 1 p.m. until 3 o'clock, when the evidence of the former Attorney General and Mr. W. J. Higgins will be given.

shall have," he said. "Yes, I suppose I am lucky, and the American public will be later on."

Joseph E. Widener bought two portraits from the Prince in 1921, on a contract stipulating they might be bought back for the purchase price plus 8 per cent. interest. This contract was replaced by another 15 days later, which the Prince's attorneys argue is invalid. Attorneys for Mr. Widener contend the first contract was a mere chattel mortgage. Widener declares he will fight to the last for the portraits, for the memory of his father and the welfare of the American public. He has refused an offer of over half a million dollars from the Prince for them.

That Joseph Widener's great gift to the public will be eventually housed in the huge $10,000,000 art museum now being erected at Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, is the opinion of New York Connoisseurs. The only definite knowledge of Mr. Widener's intentions, however, is that on his death he will leave his extensive collection to the public as a memorial to his father.

THE TRAINS.—Sunday's express arrived at Port-aux-Basques 8.15 last night. The local Carbonar train arrived at 12.25 p.m. The express for foreign countries went out at 1 p.m.

Supreme Court.

THE KING VS. JAMES WHITEFORD McNEILLY.

Judgment of Mr. Justice Kent.

In this case we have to decide certain objections raised by the accused to the validity of the Grand Jury and to the indictment it has found against him. The Grand Jury found a true bill against the accused upon bill of indictment preferred against him by the Crown charging him in twelve counts with stealing money contrary to sec. 17 (2) (a) of the Larceny Act, 1916, and in twelve other counts with offences against the Falsification of Accounts Act, 1875. Upon being called to the bar to plead to this indictment he, through his counsel, enters a plea in abatement to the indictment; he also challenged the array of the Grand Jury that had found the indictment against him and moved to quash the indictment. All three proceedings are based on the same allegations, namely:—

(1) That the cards containing the names of the Grand Jurors were not compared with the revised list of Jurors by the Registrar or the Deputy Registrar of the Court immediately before this present Fall Session; but the last time they were so compared was before the Winter Session, 1924; and no such comparison was made during the Spring Session, 1924;

(2) that the said cards were not put into the box, nor were the said alleged Grand Jurors drawn in the presence of the Registrar or Deputy Registrar of the Court;

(3) that the first twenty-three persons whose names were first drawn from the box were not summoned to serve nor did they serve on the said alleged Grand Jury but only eighteen were so summoned;

(4) that the five persons, namely, George Baird, Archibald Forbes, J. Penney, Francis Cooper, and William Chancy, who were among the twenty three first drawn, were not summoned;

(5) that two persons, namely, Terence G. Cooper and Wilbur Chancy, whose names were not upon the present revised list of jurors had attended and taken part in the deliberations of the alleged Grand Jury and were parties to its finding of the present alleged indictment;

(6) that the cards in the box did not correspond with the revised list as furnished by the Revising Magistrate because since the list was received the following changes have been made by some person unknown:

(a) the name Joseph Perry has been struck out and the name of Joseph Perez substituted;

(b) the name of Edward Perry has been struck out and the name of Edward Perez substituted; and

(c) the name of Archibald S. Lewis has been struck out and the name of Archibald S. Lewis has been substituted; which said alterations are apparent upon the face of the Revised List;

(7) that Thomas James, one of the alleged Grand Jurors, who has attended and taken part in the deliberations of the Grand Jury and concurred in their findings, is a person holding an office of emolument under and at the will of the Crown, namely, Customs Officer, and therefore he is not a proper person to be a member of a Grand Jury in a prosecution by the Crown;

(8) that the alleged Grand Jury was not drawn from a box containing cards bearing the names of all the qualified Grand Jurors set forth in the present revised list of Grand Jurors; but twenty-seven of the said names were missing from the box when the said alleged Grand Jury was drawn;

(9) that it is uncertain whether the names of all the qualified Grand Jurors upon the revised list were in the box or not when the said alleged Grand Jury was drawn, because it appears from the evidence of the Sheriff that upon various occasions when panels of special jurors were drawn from the box since the last time the contents of the box were compared in the said box were afterwards returned into the box without being counted or checked or compared with the revised list of Grand Jurors or with any list.

I propose to consider these objections separately, but where it seems to me that any two or more of them are related or inter dependent I shall consider them together.

First, as to the first, second, eighth and ninth objections, these objections are related, in that, if the provisions of the statute as to comparing the cards containing the names of the Grand Jurors with the revised list, and as to drawing the second objections were not observed, had been strictly followed in every detail, the fact that certain cards, bearing the names of some of the persons, were not in the box from which the names of the grand jurors were drawn, as alleged in the eighth and ninth objections, would have been discovered and the omission remedied. I shall therefore consider these four objections together. Evidence has been produced before us in regard to the allegations of fact made by the accused in these objections. I think the evidence establishes the following facts and circumstances. The annual revised list of Grand Jurors for the year 1923 was received by the Sheriff from the Revising Magistrate in the month of December 1923, previous to the opening of the winter session of this Court, that revised list containing the names of all persons qualified to serve as Grand Jurors for the year 1924. Sometime between the time the list was received by the Sheriff and the commencement of the Winter Session of the Court, the names of all persons on the revised list with their respective occupations and addresses were written on separate cards, and before the opening of the Session on the 5th of January the Sheriff attended with these cards before the Deputy Registrar of the Court, who compared them with the revised list of Grand Jurors, and the cards were put into the jury box in the presence of the said Deputy. The evidence satisfies me that the officer who made this comparison and saw the cards put into the box was the Deputy Registrar, because while the Sheriff swears positively that the office was either the Registrar or the Deputy Registrar, the Registrar swears it was not he, but the Deputy Registrar was unable to remember whether it was he or not. I am satisfied that the Deputy was the officer who performed these duties on that occasion. The names of the twenty-three jurors who were to serve as Grand Jurors for the Winter Session were drawn in the presence of the Deputy Registrar and duly attended and served. It is clearly established therefore that at that time the names of all qualified jurors and none but qualified jurors were in the box. This is corroborated by a comparison of the cards with revised list which was made about the same time by the sub-Sheriff and Mr. Cross, one of the bailiffs attached to his office. No other comparison of the cards with the list was made before the time these comparisons were made and the drawing of the Grand Jurors to serve on the Grand Jury for the present session, nor was any such comparison made before the present Grand Jury was drawn. In the meantime the box containing the cards was in the custody and control of the Sheriff and was kept by him under lock and key, no one having access thereto except the Sheriff and the sub-Sheriff, who alone held keys to the place in which the box was deposited. The box was not disturbed during that period, except when required by either the Sheriff or sub-Sheriff for the purpose of drawing Grand or Special Jurors, as was from time to time required, and was returned again to its place of deposit. Several jurors were drawn during that period, and it was the practice of the Sheriff to return the jury cards drawn for the purpose of special jurors after the purpose for which they were required had been completed, but he negligently did so without previously counting the number of cards so returned to the box. This was the position when the Grand Jurors to serve during the present session were drawn.

A Mansion of Mystery
 London has lost one of its most fantastic sights. The grotesque mansion that stood at the corner of Oakley Street, Chelsea, and was famous by reason of the weird legend associated with it, has been demolished.
 Plastered from top to bottom with a riot of elaborate ornamentation, the house was built by a wealthy eccentric, Dr. John Phene and was supposed to contain a bridal chamber prepared for a wedding which death never permitted to take place.
 The Sealed Room.
 Recently the house was sold to an architect, and housebreakers have now left of it nothing but bare walls. It is to be entirely reconstructed, and small houses, with labor-saving devices are being built on what was once a tangled wilderness of a garden.
 Dr. Phene is supposed to have designed the house as a home for his future bride, and the story is that death stepped in and claimed the bride on the morning of the wedding day.
 The heart-broken bridegroom gave orders that the bridal chamber should be sealed up and never entered, and he would not allow the house to be occupied.
 Dr. Phene died about twelve years ago, and the house afterwards changed hands several times.

FILM the worst enemy to teeth
 You can feel it with your tongue

Now find out what beauty is beneath the dingy film that clouds your teeth

You may actually have dazzlingly clear teeth and yet not realize it. Send the coupon, make this unique test, as advised by world's leading dentists.

THIS offers you a test which millions have made with surprising results.
 Modern science has found a new way to clearer, healthier teeth. A way that proves that scores of people who go through life wishing for dazzlingly white teeth already have them, yet never reveal them, or know they have them.
 You may be one of those people. This is a simple way to find out without cost.

How it invites tooth troubles
 Film is charged with most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.
 You must remove it at least three times daily. And thus constantly combat it. You can't have pretty teeth, unless you do. For it is ever present, ever forming—a constant danger in your mouth.
Removed without scouring
 Now new methods have been found and embodied in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, different in formula, action and effect from any other dentifrice.
 Its action is to curdle film, then harmlessly to remove it. No soap, no chalk, no harsh grit dangerous to enamel.
Results are quick
 Mail the coupon. These notes result. Mark the glistening whiteness it brings; the amazingly clean feel it gives your teeth, the beautiful polish and luster. Don't hide your pretty teeth any longer.

Extraordinary Distribution of Popular Products

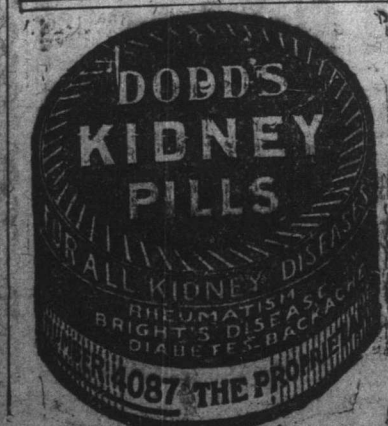

Makes Strong Impression on Crowds

Justly proud of the success that has attended the marketing of the various products, he represents recognized everywhere as leaders both in popularity and quality—Gerald S. Doyle adopted a convincing method to show the crowds who attended the exhibition yesterday how widely used his goods are all over the country. A large map of Newfoundland is prominently displayed in the centre of the very attractive booth and a colored pin is stuck in each place where the goods are sold. The map is literally dotted with pins, every nook and corner shows a distributing centre for these well known goods. The different products are tastefully arranged on fancy pedestals. One is given entirely to Dr. Chase's Emulsion. Another shows Scott's Emulsion. The Pro-phy-lac-tic Brushes also receive prominent display and the famous Life Savers—the candy with the hole—shows up to splendid advantage. Crisco, Ivory Soap, Fletcher Castoria, Pearl-line and the Shiffrin line of Jellies and Extracts, all are most attractively displayed. The popular Three Flowers Toilet Preparations in their gorgeous and dainty packages lend an aristocratic touch to the exhibit. In these lines of merchandise Mr. Doyle has the equal to anything manufactured and a glance at the map shows how universally used the goods are all over the island. A prize of twenty dollars will be given the person who makes the nearest guess to the number of pins in the Map and this feature attracted considerable attention. The whole display is certainly well worth seeing, and has been judged by critics as one of the most attractive in the building.

The pace-maker in each heat was the big colt, Guy Richard, for the first time since the Readville meeting showing his true form, trotting a wonderful race but finishing second to the champion. From where he got off in the first heat, Guy Richard was separately timed in 2:01 1/2.

Three days later, Mr. McElwyn added more fame to his name by trotting a mile in 2:00 1/4, a truly wonderful exhibition.

Thomas W. Murphy added another mare to the "charmed circle" by driving Rose Scott a mile in 1:59 1/4, a remarkable performance, for a few weeks ago she was a very sick mare. The Castleton and the May Day were won by Etta Druten and Aileen Guy, both mares trotting sensational miles.

BEAUTIFUL PLAY ENACTED BY YOUNG-ADAMS CO.

The Young-Adams Company last night delighted one and all by their excellent presentation of "Over the Hill S'Manthy." Out of the rat of the usual run of plays, entirely different from anything we have seen in many seasons is this fascinating piece. The play opens in the farm house of Granny Pelham (Mabelle Leverton) who suddenly discovers that she is worth a million dollars due to the fact that a gusher of oil has been found on her property. Immediately her relatives appear on the scene and hasten her to make a will. Granny dies and much to the surprise of her money-mad relatives she leaves the bulk of her estate to her little friend and helper "S'Manthy" and "Nimrod Hawkins," another assistant on the farm. This, naturally causes friction amongst the relatives, but eventually everything turns out alright.

Marjole Adams as "S'Manthy" gave a perfect performance of a rather difficult role, and at times during the emotional scenes you could almost hear a pin drop. H. Wilmot Young delighted his numerous friends by his Rub well with Minard's. It penetrates and takes out stiffness.

Vaudeville numbers between the acts were contributed by Mabelle Leverton, Ann McNeil, Frank Bellier and The Durands. Each performer was compelled to respond to repeated curtain calls. To-night the same bill will be played and also at the matinee to-morrow. Wednesday night's bill will be "East Lynne," and as seats are selling rapidly we advise you to book yours soon.

Beautiful Theme in Big Photoplay

"NAME THE MAN" OPENED AT NICKEL LAST NIGHT.

Whether or not a woman should forgive everything in the man she loves is the underlying theme of the Goldwyn photoplay, "Name the Man!" which was shown last night at the Nickel Theatre, where it will remain for two days more. Whether her love should triumph and her pride be submerged no matter what he has done, or whether she would let him suffer on his own salvation, is the problem presented.

In Hall Caine's characters from "The Master of Man," the question is worked out. Conrad Nagel as Victor Stowell, Patsy Ruth Miller as Fennella, and Mae Busch as Bessie Collister, are the principles involved.

Victor, who really loves Fennella, is caught in a web of circumstances, and since Bessie, the victim of circumstance also, does everything in her power to protect him from the girl he loves and from his public. But when suspicion dawns upon Fennella, and she realizes that he is guilty, her only comment is a sharp slap across his face.

However, when facing an incensed mob, he makes a complete confession, she glories in his honesty, her love again triumphs and she rushes to protect him from being stoned. "Name the Man!" Victor Seastrom has justified Goldwyn's judgment in bringing him from Sweden to direct pictures for it. Lovers of this form of entertainment should see to it by their support of his productions that Seastrom is never allowed to stop directing photoplays in America. "Name the Man!" is one picture which deserves the word "great" in all its implications.
