PETERBORO HAILS BORDEN AND ROBLIN

Leader Says Laurier Discounted
Public Conscience in
His Advice to the Woolen Manufacturers.

MANITOBA REITERATES CHARGES AGAINST GLOBE

PETERBORO, Sept. 25.—(Special)—R. L. Borden and Premier Roblin today invaded the first Liberal stronghold on their Ontario tour. This is the home of Hon. James Stratton, who is the Liberal candidate in the West riding of Peterboro, and to say that the reception to the Conservative leaders was warm would not do justice to the occasion.

The opera house was crowded with the solid electorate of the city and surrounding country. Preceding the meeting there was a procession from the hotel, headed by the 57th Regiment Band and a number of torch-bearers.

Mr. Borden in his address did not refer to the Roblin-Macdonald controversy, but Manitoba's premier did, reiterating the allegations made at Mississauga. He added that his charges were not against Editor Macdonald personally, but against The Globe newspaper.

James Kendry, ex-M.P., the chairman, in opening the meeting, warmly attacked Mr. Stratton, who he said had never won an election except by the number of graft and trickery. He held this the most corrupt riding in the country.

J. H. Burnham, the Conservative candidate, made a charge of grafting and false swearing against his opponent, Mr. Stratton, in connection with the amalgamation of the People's Life Insurance Co. of which Mr. Stratton was president, and the Home Life. Mr. Burnham recounted the McCutcheon-Pattison evidence given during the insurance enquiry, and concluded by saying:

"We believe that you will send a garter to catch the grafters at Ottawa."

Three Principles of Protection.
The reception to Mr. Borden was not quite so great part of the audience rising and waving tiny Union Jacks, while the band played "The Maple Leaf."

He spoke of the responsibility resting upon the electors and said that the charge is true he will resign from the editorship of The Globe.

Further he says: "If the one man who knows all the facts at first hand, and who can speak with unquestioned authority, Mr. J. S. Willison, managing editor of The Globe, if he will affirm that charge to be true I shall resign."

Premier Roblin replied to Mr. Macdonald yesterday in an interview published only in The News: "I repeat every word I said in my Toronto speech. The Globe and those for whom it speaks are not editorially independent of public interest and was greatly weakened by the alliance of many of the party which The Globe supported."

This is the original charge repeated and re-inforced. Yet by the law of evidence it is not yet proven to us that Mr. Willison, who is not editorially independent of public interest and was greatly weakened by the alliance of many of the party which The Globe supported."

To persuade Mr. Macdonald that this charge is true only one thing is necessary. That one thing is for J. S. Willison, former editor of The Globe, to affirm that charge to be true.

He Awaits the Proof.

Apparently Mr. Macdonald has an open mind. He has heard the charge. He holds it not however, and does not agree with it. Mr. Willison, who, if one knows, he knows the truth or the falsity of the charge—if Mr. Willison will affirm the charge to be true, then he (Mr. Macdonald) will consider the charge proven and will resign at once.

Mr. Willison, who is not editorially independent of public interest and was greatly weakened by the alliance of many of the party which The Globe supported.

The last night with the charge and the reply before him Mr. Willison said nothing in the columns of The News.

Mr. Willison's failure to answer may be interpreted to mean that he does not know the truth or the falsity of the charge.

Or that he, retarding his time to think it all over and to refresh his memory, or

(2) That what Premier Roblin said against The Globe directors, viz., "The Globe did use its influence as a medium to grant certain concessions to the Canadian conscience," is not true.

Or that he, retarding his time to think it all over and to refresh his memory, or

(3) That Mr. Willison never did and doesn't now know anything about it.

(4) That it is not true.

In a nutshell the situation is: If Mr. Willison says the charge is true Mr. Macdonald resigns from The Globe.

What does Mr. Willison say?

Editor Macdonald's reply to Premier Roblin reads as follows:

(From The Globe.)

Hon. R. P. Roblin, premier of Manitoba, speaking in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Wednesday evening, in reference to myself as editor of The Globe, and made a direct and explicit charge against The Globe. As reported yesterday in The Globe, he spoke as follows:

"I say again that the man who preaches righteousness on Sunday and defends political immorality on every

HOT SHOT

The Crow's Nest Coal charge of Hon. Mr. Roblin has brought dismay into The Globe office; it may be into The News office. But it has left the Conservatives unscathed. As far as they are concerned they are free. In no way is Mr. Borden or his friends involved. What Mr. Roblin said the other night has been said before; but it has been said at this stage in so dramatic a way and under such dramatic circumstances as Rev. Mr. Macdonald has created that the whole electorate will insist on the truth from Mr. Willison. Conservatives have no fear of the truth.

Up to Mr. Willison To Exonerate "Globe" Or Back Up Roblin

Editor Macdonald So Seriously Impressed by Manitoba Premier's Charges That He'll Resign if Convincing.

CAN THE TALE UNFOLD OF CROW'S NEST BARGAIN

The political campaign has taken on a spectacular phase.

Premier Roblin's charge, made in Massey Hall on Wednesday night, involves the reputation of The Globe and Robert Jaffray, and his associates behind The Globe.

Him, and Declares His Own

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 25.—Senator Foraker has prepared a statement replying to the recent charges made by William R. Hearst and President Roosevelt. In the opening paragraph, Mr. Foraker declares that the president showed bias in accepting as true the charges made against him (Foraker). He denies that he acted improperly in accepting employment from the Standard Oil Co., says that there was no secret about it and produces letters to prove that after the government began its attack upon the Standard Oil he declined to accept a retainer from them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

These are the days that the die-in-the-wool fan dreams of. When the next day may bring four, and last night not one, exception to the rule. One point only now separates the Giants and the Cubs in the National, owing to Cincinnati's double walloping of New York yesterday.

In the American Detroit took a new lease of life yesterday and beat Philadelphia twice, while Washington trounced Cleveland, thus leaving only two points of a margin between the leaders and the second to-day, as the Washington team, you know, are great at trimming the Naps, their last series resulting in a clean sweep. But why try and dope out baseball, it is always worse than horseracing and that's the limit.

The finishes have quite a contrast to the wind-up at the Island. There is no colour, nothing of excitement or drama, no police, for instance, at the Thursday game in New York, it is chronicled that the police arrangements were excellent. Inspector Titus being in charge with a hundred extra policemen. Several of the stars had to leave after the game in escorting Chamberlain to his carriage. There were a few hand to hand encounters, but they were hardly noticed.

This was the day after one of the games neglected to run out his hit, costing them a win and according to rule the Chicago Cubs lined up for the first of a double-header, showing final victory, that ensured final victory. However, the 20th game was won by New York's work in the field was far better than usual form. Scores:

First game—

the second game the first run was scored in the second innings on a single by Stein, a foul to Law, and a ground ball to Dudas. Hamilton Thistles 1, Trinity 1.

AMEND THE LEMIEUX ACT.

Credit is due the striking Canadian Pacific machinists for their action in declining to embarrass Sir Wilfrid Laurier by submitting their special grievances at his North Bay meeting and for the withdrawal of their pickets in order to allow such of the strike-breakers as so desired to attend. Their decision was prudent in view of the renewal of negotiations for an amicable settlement of the matters in dispute, and it is to be sincerely hoped that these will result in an amicable arrangement. But apart from the particular issues of the struggle between the railway company and the striking machinists, it must not be overlooked that a question of principle is involved of the utmost importance to organized labor employed in the industries affected by the Canadian Industrial Disputes Investigation Act—that is to those concerned with public utilities.

The World has not concealed its conviction that the men are in the right in asking the act to be amended in order to equalize the position and privileges of both employers and employees. What the trade unions protest against is this—that as the act is framed it always compels the men to require an investigation by an official conciliation board. If the men want an increase in their wages or any improvement in the conditions of service they must ask an investigation before using the compulsion of a strike. But on the other hand the employers may lower wages and alter the terms of service without first asking for the appointment of a conciliation board to consider the reasonableness or the reverse of the proposed alteration. Thus it is again laid upon the men if they object to a change in the rates of pay or of the service conditions to apply for an investigation and the onus is laid upon them to show cause for restoration of the old schedules rather than, as it should be, requiring the company to justify its action.

Possibly this aspect of the Lemieux Act did not occur to its authors, but it undoubtedly places the men under a very considerable handicap. For as it stands the law deprives the unions of their undoubted right to cease work when reductions in pay or alterations in the terms of service are arbitrarily made. It may be proper in the public interest to restrict personal rights by requiring an official investigation before a strike can be declared, but in common fairness the position of employers and employees should be equalized and arbitrary action on either side prohibited until a board of conciliation has considered the grounds for changing the prevailing conditions. And most certainly the burden of requiring the appointment of a board and of justifying the alterations proposed should be laid upon the parties at whose instance the dispute originates. This, then, is the demand of the unionists that the party desirous of altering wages or conditions should accept the responsibility of obtaining the approval of the conciliation board. It is a fair, proper and thoroughly reasonable demand, and The World is prepared to give it the fullest possible support. The act must be modified in the direction indicated and the necessary amendment should be passed in the first session of the new parliament.

ANOTHER TARIFF REFORM VICTORY.

Making every allowance for the three-cornered character of the by-election at Newcastle-on-Tyne, the result can only be regarded as distinctly favorable to the cause of tariff reform. Altho a great industrial centre, Newcastle has had a chequered political history, and in 1890 provided one of the surprises of the general election by rejecting Mr. John, now Lord, Morley and his Liberal League. At that time a Labor candidate also ran and polled 2302 votes, whose withdrawal in all probability cost the distinguished Radical statesman his seat and compelled him to seek refuge in the Montrose Burghs. At this by-election, the Socialist representative only polled 670 votes more than were recorded for the Labor nominee eleven years ago, a by no means remarkable increase, looking to the present industrial conditions.

The new Conservative member stood as a tariff reformer, his ministerial opponent being a strong free trader. Judging from the drop of 7000 in the Liberal vote, a number of the electors appear to have lost faith in the virtue of the latter remedy for the industrial ills from which the nation suffers, and certainly conditions in Britain appear to be far more deplorable than are those of protected countries. It is estimated on good authority that in addition to the millions who are ever on the borderland between penury and want there are to-day 1,000,000 skilled workmen with 5,000,000 dependents in absolute starvation. To the old school of political economists this is just the ordinary working of the law of supply and demand, but this doctrinaire view of human labor is being superseded by the claim that every man willing to work should have work enough to keep body and soul together without being compelled to eat the bread of charity. British workingmen are beginning to ask why British industries should not be encouraged by a fiscal system just as they can see has been done by the new patent law.

PUBLIC ROADS AND THE DUST PROBLEM.

Very general approval has been accorded The World's suggestion that the time has arrived for the provincial public works department to assume responsibility for the construction and maintenance of a trunk system of macadamized roads. It is being everywhere recognized that unification of control is the only effective method of securing a high uniform standard of surface and that its provision for trunk roads is really a matter for the government, not for local authorities or adjacent proprietors. Some distinction in taxation may be equitable between the frontages and the back landers, but this does not affect the question of policy. Certainly the placing of the main lines of road under a competent provincial official ought to be pressed upon the attention of the government and dealt with during the next session of the legislature.

What gives the matter urgency as well as necessity is the new difficulty created by the rapidly growing vogue of the automobile. As The Canadian Engineer recently remarked: "The automobile on a country road in summer impresses one forcibly and in a most unpleasant manner with the unsuitability of our roads for such traffic. The highway engineer has not been able to keep pace with the mechanical engineer, the result being that the clients of both are heavy losers."

The presence of the automobile is another reason why the burden of constructing and maintaining roads that can withstand the friction of self-propelled carriages should be transferred from the local ratepayer, since it is clear that the automobile has come to stay as a means for both passenger and freight transportation. Then the dust problem, with the consequent deterioration of fruit and other crops, is compelling all countries to take measures for its remedy.

Numerous experiments are now being conducted by the office of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, some of them along novel lines. Its scientific experts have been working for two main objects—the utilization of by-products in road-building and the prevention of dust.

Careful laboratory tests and actual experiments have shown ground for hope that crushed rock or slag, in combination with preparations of tar or asphalt, will achieve the desired result, and stretches of slag and tar road are now in course of construction at Chicago, of slag and asphalt at Birmingham, Ala., and these will be kept under close observation during the coming winter. If in the spring it is found that this class of road remains firm, does not rut, sheds water and makes but little dust, a vast step forward will have been taken in road-building and a never-failing market secured for blast furnace waste."

More curious still is the fact that at Newton, Mass., Prevost Hubbard, an assistant chemist attached to Director Page's scientific corps, is leveling a half mile stretch of road and will thereafter supervise the laying of the first "candy road" of history. Some months ago Director Page's attention was called to the almost useless by-product of the great cane sugar refineries of the south and the beet sugar refineries of the west and southwest. This molasses is described as "sickly sweet, nearly as black and as thick as tar and almost as powerful as a binder," and much cheaper. A supply was obtained, blended with oil and lime-water, mixed with rock dust, earth and sand and dried out under heat and under water. It behaved so well and held out such promise for ideal roads that the practical test of a real road was recently decided upon. A comprehensive treatise on dust prevention is about to be issued by the United States Government and it will be followed by a symposium embodying all the experience and experiments hitherto gained and made by the reports of a federal expert, who has been examining the methods in use in France and England. The United States Government is evidently keenly alive to the necessity of dustless roads.

TWAS EASY MONEY ALL ROUND

Till Police Decide That Some People Needed Protection.

Charged with fraudulent use of the mails, Fred. George Cubbridge, ex-church usher, ex-Sunday school teacher, and at present engaged in city missionary work, was arrested in Yonge-street by P. C. Harrison (SS).

Cubbridge, who runs a pattern making establishment at 97 1/2 West Adelaide-street, has been advertising locally for workers, mailing address envelopes for advertising concern.

To those who replied he sent letters on paper headed "International Advertising Company of North America." The letters say that the directory is being used for the purpose of sending out letters and $5 per thousand to be paid for addressing them. It further states that as an assurance of sincerity the correspondent encloses 25 cents with the reply.

Some time ago he went to the post office and rented Box 144, and rented room 3, 11 1/2 Wm. Richmond-street. Some time later Inspector Anderson of the postal service and City Detective Murray was put on the case.

To the police Cubbridge admitted that the game was fraudulent.

Missed Train Connections.

A score or more of disgusted C.P.R. passengers, many of whom were women, spent last night reading their mail on the hard benches of the waiting room—room at the Union Station. They had come down from the west, many of them from points the other side of the Winnipeg, on the express due at the Union Station at 8:30 p.m. The train, however, steamed into Toronto at 8:30, or just about six hours late. These passengers were bound for Western Ontario points, London, Goderich, Windsor, etc., and all missed their connections.

A pair of London men said that when the conductor on the Winnipeg train came to the conclusion that they were not going to arrive here in time to connect with the train which leaves for London and western centres at 7:15, he wired the dispatcher here to hold the train, but this the C.P.R. officials declined to do.

Rabekah Lodge to Minister to the Dis-tressed.

With the worthy end in view of establishing a fund to go to relieve, as much as possible, the hardships of the sick sisters of their society and others.

A birthday party was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, on Broadview Avenue last night by the "Rabekah," and when the money was counted out and expenses paid about $35 was left as the nucleus of the fund. Then the three lodges in the city contributed $5 each, bringing the "bank" up to $50.

About $70 "grown-ups" attended last night and enjoyed a concert, supper and dance.

Committees will be appointed to seek out the needy who do not ask for help, and members of the lodges will go out and act as comforters as far as lies in their power.

In addition sewing classes will be started on garments that will go to warm many a chilled woman during the coming cold weather. Every one of these ladies will, in addition to giving her world gratis, pay an admission fee of 10 cents, which will go to swell the fund.

"BLACK HAND" AT FERNIE
NINE SENT TO PRISON

Terms Range From Six Months to Seven Years—Ritual of the Organization.

FERNIE, B.C., Sept. 25.—The conviction of nine "Black Hand" prisoners, who came here from Spokane shortly before the fire, were arrested and tried, being sentenced to various terms ranging from six months to seven years, has rid the country of a bad gang.

W. A. MacDonald, K.C., crown prosecutor, had a hard time securing evidence from fourteen witnesses called, but sufficient was elicited to convict. The ceremony connected with the first degree, it was learned, was called "Picciotto," and was comparatively simple. All present divested themselves of any weapons which they might have concealed on their persons, a guard being left over these. A circle was formed.

It was then pointed out to the new member that the space in the centre of the circle represented an abyss, in which everything spoken was understood to be forever buried. An initiate was then chosen by the leader of the society followed, and the new-comer had it carefully pointed out to him that the consequences of betraying his comrades would be very disagreeable to him. A fraternal kiss was then exchanged upon the center.

The conferring of the final degree or "Camerister" degree, admitting a man to full membership in the society, was gruesome indeed. A circle was formed as in the previous case, but on the floor in the space five knots of twine were laid around the points radiating to the outside of the circle. Upon these a handkerchief was placed, leaving the points exposed, and on the top of that a stiletto was placed. Lot were then drawn and the man who won the stiletto fell had to bare his arm whilst his neighbor seized the stiletto and stabbed him in the wrist until the blood flowed freely.

Again the cabalistic words were brought into play, and while these were being repeated, the candidate for initiation had to suck the blood that was spurting from the wrist of the man who had been stabbed.

The Italians sentenced had threatened to kill citizens if blackmail was not forthcoming.

Proving By Actual Experiment

This experiment will always interest the children, and will provoke a good deal of thinking. The explanation, of course, is that the lighted piece of paper which is inserted into the inverted glass drives out most of the air, so that when the mouth of the glass is quickly put down into the water there is very little air and consequently very little pressure above the water within the glass. Hence, the weight or pressure of the air on the water outside the glass drives the water up into the glass to occupy the space from whence the air was driven by the burning paper.

A practical demonstration of this kind is always more convincing than any mere statement. This is particularly true of medical remedies.

The effects of the anti-toxin treatment for diphtheria is noticeable within a few hours, so that everyone must believe in its virtue. In a similar way, the treatment known as ORANGE LILLY gives a practical proof of the progress it is making in curing women's disorders, and that, too, within a few days after commencing its use.

All authorities agree that in every case of women's disorders there's exists a congested condition of the womanly organs. The circulation in these parts is sluggish or stagnant and the result is that the broken-down tissue or waste matter which should be carried off if the blood was circulating normally remains in these parts causing inflammation, irritation, oppression of the nerves, etc. ORANGE LILLY is not taken internally, but is applied direct to the suffering organs. It is absorbed into the circulation, and its antiseptic properties at once act on the waste matter referred to above. The consequence is that this waste matter, which is causing the inflammation, ulcers, nervous troubles, etc., begins to be discharged, and it continues to be discharged until all this foreign matter is removed from the circulation. At the same time the blood vessels and nerves are toned and strengthened, the nervous trouble disappears, the circulation is restored and good health follows.

Toronto, Ont. June 2, 1904.

Dear Mrs. Currin—I wish of tell you that ORANGE LILLY is doing me a great deal of good. Those ulcers come away in a few days and I have less pain and fewer headaches. I feel sure I will be perfectly cured in a little longer time. MRS. D. S. T.

The explanation of the wonderful cure performed by ORANGE LILLY is very simple. It is a scientific remedy, based on the discoveries of Pasteur and Lister. The conditions existing in all female troubles are alike in character, differing in degree and development only, so that a positive remedy as ORANGE LILLY is, acts with all the certainty of a chemical experiment. In order to convince every suffering woman that ORANGE LILLY will cure her, I make the following

Horse Show Gowns at Ostend.

The Ostend correspondent of The N.Y. Tribune writes:

Charming new autumn gowns were the first day of the horse show, most of them showing off the new tight-fitting half-long coat, with the latest skirt, that hangs straight and soft, but easily fitted over the hips, and of a pretty fulness at the weighted hem. They were hung at the natural waist line, with a slightly flared, inconspicuous front. These new coats define the figure perfectly in the back and on the sides to the hips; the fronts, straight and seamless, are carefully moulded to outline the waist.

There were numerous trimmings in the way of broad and gathered ribbon ornaments, handsome buttons set inside frills of silk or velvet, and odd little lozenges of fur and soutache braid, all contrived with a dainty, personal touch that lifted them above the commonplace.

The Duchess of Sutherland, as she walked about the enclosure during the races, was conspicuous in a charming costume of heavy, satin-faced cloth of new shade of deep gold color. The skirt, designed a little, was trimmed about the hem with a coarse lace entre-deux, embroidered with mere threads of brownish fur that stopped at the seam of the front breadth. From waist to hem this seam was covered by a line of fur covered buttons set far apart in the middle of it. The fur embroidered lace trimmed the coat about the neck and the edges of the front. The old button hole was followed by the new means of closing what sleeves, and there were cuffs of the fur embroidered lace. The short waistcoat, with its lower edge covered by a softly belted belt of black satin, was a gem of artistic embroidery, raised gold and silver flowers on pale blue cloth, the blue showing only a little back of the metal tracery. Her grace wore one of the new fur neck ruffs, a pretty melange of brown fur and twists, loops and a small bow of black ribbon. It was edged with a two-fold, the topknot plaited crepe lace that framed the whole face, the chin being quite sunken in it. On one side of her immensely large, flat silk hat was a big bow of wide black ribbon, but that seemed to tie the width of brown and yellow shaded dabblies that trimmed it.

A pretty Hungarian, the Countess Csapary, was well turned out in a soft camel's hair cloth. The long hair falling to the back was fastened in a bun. The long skirt that trailed softly was quite plain except for the wide, false hem at the foot that weighted the limp broadsides about the pale legs. The long sleeves that nearly covered the hands in the back had only one seam that in the centre of the back, it was dragged diagonally to the front, forming many graceful little puckerings that were gathered at one side in a diagonal line with curiously spaced buttons of soft dull gold. Below the closing the skirts of the coat sloped sharply back and the back seam was open to the waist line, giving freedom of movement. Extraordinary odd ways of closing were above the shoulders. It was cut into a deep square, showing the hemstitch of tucked white tulle. Over this, in a straight line from the edge of the shoulder, close to the neck, was a wide band of black ribbon, the ends passed under the dress to appear in an apparently unfastened fashion on the front breadth of the skirt. The ends were knotted and finished with long tassels. The tight, long sleeves were buttoned from the elbow to the wrist; lace frills at the wrists and gloves.

Like nearly every other woman that day, the countess wore a fur cravat. Hers was of black fur, daintily turned over with ermine and fastened at one side under the usual big ribbon bow. Her white hat was her, with its wide brim covered smoothly with black silk Beaver. It was heavy with black feathers and pricked in many places with splendid jeweled hatspins. To one side a large white fan was accepted by women of all ages for the present an incredible number of pins are necessary. It is not imperative that they match, but they must at least harmonize. There are women who prefer to use plain hidden ones for the real service of holding the hat fast, having only two or three for ornamentation.

The Tell-Tease Hand.

A writer in an English weekly declares that if we want to know what other person is thinking we must look at his hands. Even unexpressed lips can lie, as every one knows.

Long practice in self-control will enable one to keep one's voice sweetly cordial when there is nothing but indifference or cold dislike behind it. The eyes can be made to shoot glances which are not intended to express the emotions. But the hands, it is asserted, are utterly beyond the control of those to whom they belong. Even people who hardly articulate at all—do, to keep their thoughts secret.

Miss Florence Winship, a most essential part of good breeding, even these people are seen, constantly revealing themselves in little movements of the hands. The amateur Mulvaney has put on record that the hand of a woman who is unscrupulous can be discerned by the action of her hands. Of course, it takes a practised reader to interpret what the hands are saying. It is not a case of "he who runs may read."

WHY THE STRIKERS OBJECT TO THE PRESENT LEMIEUX ACT

NORTH BAY, Sept. 25.—D. S. Lyons, secretary of the Local Federation of Trades and president of the Machinists Union, discussing the C.P.R. strike today.

WHY WE object to the Lemieux Act is that it always forces the men to do the asking for a conciliation board. If we want wages raised we must ask the company. The company can lower our wages if they like. We object to the strike because of the procedure.

"What we want is the law changed so as to force the party altering wages to do the conciliation board to give its consent."

evidence that in reading the agreement he by mistake read $6 instead of $3 in the contract.

Mr. Hoover, said Mr. Tilley, was then faced by an independent board ready to criticize his actions. Hoover had no time to have an argument during the hearing. Resolution adverse to Hoover were passed at the very first meeting after the independent directors had learned that they had been deceived. One was to stop the sale of stock. Another resolution passed at the meeting was that they had not confidence in him even as to the company's securities.

The $3 contract was never legally ratified as a point insisted upon by Mr. Tilley, who asked for judgment awarded him $100 damages claimed.

Mr. Watson argued that there was no fraud in law, and that if any wrong had been done the plaintiffs were estopped from action as they had concurred in the contract, and were fully liable to the company. If one is liable, proclaims Mr. Watson all are liable.

Mr. Watson argued also that inasmuch as the contract was executed and completed no claim was valid against it except upon proof of unusual legal fraud. This was necessary for the plaintiff to establish what was imputed to the provisional directors.

Mr. Watson said that he took the full responsibility for not placing Mr. Tilley in the box, as he had not known which it was necessary for him to explain.

After giving from a number of authorities on technical points, Mr. Watson asked that the case be dismissed. Judgment was reserved.

Witnesses testified that these resolutions were dictated to her at a date subsequent to the other portion of the minutes of the meeting by Mr. Hoover. She could not explain why.

The witness was sent to produce her note book of the same meeting for Mr. Tilley to inspect. Mr. Tilley said that he would have to ask the indulgence of the court.

"I am disposed," said Mr. Justice Latchford, "to allow you every indulgence."

Mr. Tilley then introduced "Exhibit 5," a startling letter from Mr. Hoover to E. O. Rundall. This letter was apparently in reply to the latter's objection to lumping all the expenses to the club instead of treating them.

The letter read in part:

"In your request for an itemized account of the company's expenses, in the first place, it would not do to have a page torn out of the company's annual report, and another substituted which is not exactly the same as sent to the shareholders after the annual meeting. It would be regarded as sharp practice, and create adverse criticism, which we cannot permit. You can understand a dissatisfied shareholder could bring suit against the company for this sort of thing, and the judge would score us most unmercifully."

A detailed account, accordingly, was made out and pasted in the report, for Mr. Rundall.

When the next witness for the defense was called A. H. Hoover was expected to have been placed in the box. His counsel, Mr. Watson, instead of doing this, announced that the defendant would not take the case.

Mr. Tilley proposed presenting evidence in rebuttal in the person of Thomas Bradshaw, expert accountant.

Mr. Watson objected and after some cross-firing between counsel the witness was withdrawn.

The afternoon was devoted to addresses by counsel.

Mr. Tilley argued that the attitude taken at the July meeting of the directors showed that he had only signed the $3 contract subsequent to the preceding meeting, and that this established the reliability of Mr. Hunter's

AT THE THEATRES

Direct from its triumphant run of 100 performances at Wallack's Theatre in New York City, with a proud record of universal praise from the critics of the seventeen century during the third week of the insurrection which was ripe in that year, the new comic opera "The Gay Musician," from the facile pen of noted composer Julian Edwards, comes to the Princess Theatre on Monday evening for one week's engagement, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

The success of "The Gay Musician" in New York City was a notable one when it opened in the spring, and the light comic opera crowded Wallack's Theatre during the longest spell of hot weather ever known in the city.

The book and lyrics of "The Gay Musician" were written by Edward Siedle and Charles Campbell and their joint efforts resulted in one of the drolliest and most amusing performances of laughter-making witnessed in many years. Apart from the delightful music by Julian Edwards, the public was quick to appreciate the clean-cut work of the book and lyrics of the comic opera. As one distinguished New Yorker said on the opening night: "This is the kind of play I like, my wife and daughters to see. It is clean."

That the critics of the New York City newspapers appreciated the work of Julian Edwards and Messrs. Siedle and Campbell is shown by the following extracts from the criticisms of "The Gay Musician":

"Musical numbers jingle like sleigh bells."—The Herald. "A production work of the world renowned "march king," John Philip Sousa, while the book was written by Charles Klein. The plot is laid in Peru in the early part of the seventeenth century during the third week of the insurrection which was ripe in that year. Don Enrico Medina had been appointed viceroy of Peru, and fearing the dangers of a too highly exalted and easily aroused populace remained in the background of all political trials, finding his chief support in the Don Enrico Medina himself. The most terrible fighter of the insurgents was El Capitan, who, unknown to the world, was dead and buried. The crafty viceroy, thinking to save himself during an insurgent raid, disguised himself as El Capitan and caused the arrest of his faithful chamberlain and loaded him with chains and gagged him to prevent Pozzo from revealing his secret. The viceroy, however, was soon discovered and appealed to the Inquisition to pardon him. The daughter of the insurgents chief, further annoys the viceroy by thrusting her attention upon him and her former lover in his jealousy adds to his terror and confusion, placing Don Medina in mortal judgment. She reveals his secret to the world, and the viceroy is removed from his dangerous position by the arrival of General Heriberto at the head of a large Spanish force.

"Scored an undeniable hit and will have a long run."—The Telegram. "A long run, above the average."—The Evening Star.

The Amusement Producing Company, under the direction of Manager John P. Slocum, has spared no expense in presenting "The Gay Musician." The best talent was secured for the principal roles. The chorus, with its variety of comic opera, has such a strong company as been assembled in stock or otherwise.

Nevada, Thomas McKnight as Estrella, Jessie Crox as Princess Margaret, Vilette as Isabel, Don Medina's daughter.

Great praise is due this company, not only for the marvelous manner in which they are producing the popular musical comedies, but to each member of the cast, and to the management. Never has a production of comic opera been such a strong company as has been assembled in stock or otherwise.

The greatest care is being exercised by the management in selecting only artists of repute, and in staging the scenes in a most artistic production with elegance and beauty. The show is now open to the public.

The Amusement Producing Company is spreading, not only thru all Canada, but the United States as well.

the latest New York craze, "The Love Waltz." It is presented by Jesse L. Lasky, the producer, and is a Viennese operetta, with a Vienna operetta, with a Vienna operetta, and a company of thirty, a triumph of musical magnificence, and contains many of the Vienna waltz tunes now the fad of the music-loving public. Spectacular scenes are enacted in the course of the story, exceeding in grandeur.

Beautiful Audrey Maple, who has many friends in Toronto, appears as the princess.

The special attraction for the week is Eva Williams and Jack Tucker, who will appear in "The Love Waltz." Miss Williams is the original interpreter of the wolf and kid, and in these well-known characters she has made an enviable reputation for herself. The scene is Lonesomeville, and the title, "Waltzing the Wolf and Kid." Miss Williams is Mary Ellen Murphy on her way to the poor farm, and Mr. Tucker is the pooh-bah of Lonesomeville, called Lonesome. He is the stationmaster, and plays little "Mary Ellen" a happy hour with him on his way to her cheerless home. The offering is a little classic, and both tears and laughter are readily coaxed by the lines and situations.

At the Grand.
The men in "Marrying Mary," the Edwin Milton Royle musical play that will be presented at the Grand next week by Florence Gandy, the head of a large singing and acting company, are interesting as they are dissimilar one from the other. First of all there are Mary's three ex-husbands, who have had their names changed to Marry, Harry, and Bertie. Husband No. 1 is Senator-elect Bunchgrass, the second is Bishop Brigham Smude from Salt Lake City, and the third is Willie Drinkwater, a nonentity and cousin to the bride, who she means might be divided between them. Willie is one of those accommodating young men, ready to go away and drink himself to death with a small amount of capital. There are also the lovers of Mary—Orville Kappeler, Col. Harry Clay Whipple, his father, Col. Harry Clay Whipple, Thorley Throckmorton, the rector of the fashionable at Newport. To give still more variety, Mr. Royle has introduced a French landlord of the Hotel Mount Royal, a chamberlain as volatile and high-tempered as any gentleman as one can meet in the Paris boulevards. None but a master hand could weave these various strands of life into a single picture.

ANGLICANS DISCUSS WORK AMONG INDIANS

After All-Day Argument Question of Schools is Referred to Special Committee for a Report.

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.—(Special)—Today's session of the General Synod of the Anglican Church was taken up in a discussion on mission work in the Canadian northwest, with special reference to the Indian schools, which are particularly supported and looked after by the Indian department of the Dominion Government.

Rev. Archdeacon J. W. Tims of Calgary has had a lot of experience in mission work in the northwest, particularly among the Indians. He claimed that the Indian department had not dealt fairly with them in the matter of boarding schools.

He also criticized a report that Dr. Bryce, chief medical superintendent for the department, had made regard- ing some of those schools. Some statement was made in an official report giving death and sick statistics he characterized as a lie.

The primate: "I would suggest that you moderate your statement as to what. To give the lie to an official report is perhaps a somewhat serious matter."

Rev. Tims: "All right, your grace. I'll say he made a mistake."

"Mr. Tims want the mission board and also the government to assist in this work to a greater extent than they have been doing. In his statement he in particular said that some comparisons are made which are misleading."

"The schools," he says, "do not compete with the missionary; they carry on their work. The missionary wins the Indian and at the schools they train the children. Statistics are presented in such a manner as to lead to false conclusions. Dr. Bryce's report on the condition of Indian schools is quoted as showing a death rate of 20 per cent, but it is not stated that that percentage covers fifteen years and that the rate per annum therefore is only 1.85 per cent."

As Acting Bishop:

Rev. Mr. Tims protested against any interference by the board with the interests of the church and her bishops to determine what dioceses shall be created or maintained.

The speaker told many schools throughout Rupert Land and elsewhere will be run by Roman Catholics, and drew out a warning that this was one reason why Anglicans should not withdraw any schools. In this connection he said in his report:

"Of one thing we may be certain. Rome will not run our Canadian legatees. If we withdraw from schools and missions, our Roman brethren will not be slow to profit by our neglect and desertion. Shall we, to gain a few thousand dollars, leave this work wholly to the government, and risk another? This, its ultimate transference to the ever-ready Roman Catholic authorities?"

At the afternoon sitting there was some discussion of the pamphlet issued by Dr. S. H. Blake in his support of the proposed creation of Prince Albert.

At the Indian question a very important one. He would like to see a special Indian committee appointed in the west by the Archbishop of Rupert's Land, and another in the east by the Bishop of the Indian problem, he said; would settle itself in a few years, for the red men were dying out. He did not believe, however, that Indian school's and missions were hotbeds of disease. While officials at Ottawa were conservative, officials on the reserves were like "little tin gods."

Mr. Blake Sticks It Out.

Archdeacon Gilmore asked S. H. Blake pointedly if he was in favour of the English Church in Algoma with apathy in regard to Indian work. Mr. Blake replied that an Anglican church paper had made the charge.

"The editor of that paper referred to appears outside the diocese," said Archdeacon Gilmore.

"No elections were made," retorted Mr. Blake.

The Archbishop of Rupert's Land, while agreeing with Mr. Blake in respect to the Indian, did not admit his campaign unfairly. This was a critical time for the Church of England schools. None but their schools had yet been closed. Mr. Blake said he would withdraw nothing, he said. He was informed from all sources, the church should go forward with its work and forget what had passed. Mr. Blake said that if the Indian department did not open better schools it would certainly hear from the Anglicans.

Frank Oliver had written him about those schools, and he felt confidence in the promises made in respect to them.

At the evening session Rev. Mr. O'Meara moved a resolution to refer the Indian question to a special committee to be appointed by the board of missions. The synod finally disposed of the question by voting down the motion and passing another instructing the primate and Archbishop of Rupert's Land to appoint a committee. The Committee will not be able to report to this synod.

Nominated for Congress.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Gov. Hughes to-day congratulated State Senator O. G. Foelker, Brooklyn, on his nomination for congress from the third district that is a fitting tribute to Senator Foelker's "heroic service" in the state senate.

Senator Foelker's trip from a bed of illness to the legislature in order to vote on the anti-gambling bills in the last session of the legislature, made the passage of those bills possible.

FOSTER HAS A MEETING.

W. K. McNaught, John Shaw and Haughton Lennox speak for him.

Davenport Hall was crowded last night at the Conservative rally held in the interests of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, John Shaw, M.L.A. presided, and gave a rousing introductory address, giving some trenchant reasons for a change of government.

W. K. McNaught, M.L.A., expressed the view that the time had arrived when the public was entitled to demand that the control of affairs should be placed in the hands of an administration loyal to the national policy, which had done so much to promote the industrial progress of the cities of Canada.

Haughton Lennox of South Simcoe was glad to be down from his constituency at a moment when he could drop in to a meeting in Mr. Foster's rest. Prominent members of that Masonic order are behind the purchasers in their enterprise to accomplish that object.

More than 50 years ago, this splendid home, built by the late registrar, John Ham Perry, at a cost of $90,000, has been unoccupied for a long period, and is in sad condition of ruin, except for a perfectly splendid grove of trees with which it is surrounded. Of especial interest to Masons will be the Balm of Gilead and tall cedars of Biblical repute.

JUDGE WILL HEAR APPEAL.

In the sessions this morning, Judge Foster will hear an appeal of Mr. Vernon from a decision by Police Magistrate Denison on an assault charge in the police court, on which he was convicted.

ILLS OF CHILDHOOD,
HOW TO CURE THEM

In thousands of homes Baby's Own Tablets is the only medicine used when children are ailing, and the mother who keeps this medicine on hand may feel safe in the thought that there is a doctor constantly in the home. Baby's Own Tablets cure all stomach and bowel troubles, break up colds, expel worms, and make teething easy. The mother has the guarantee of a good old saying that this medicine contains no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. H. H. Bonnyman, Mattall, N.S., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little girl while teething and for constipation, and think there is no medicine can equal them." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents each box. The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

James R. Hart was arraigned in the Sessions charged with killing his son from R. L. D. Taylor & Co. and forging the name of Fred Dean on an Imperial Bank cheque. Decrease in New Cases, But More Deaths Than Yesterday.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—The Post publishes the disclosures of an alleged filibustering expedition which is intended to start from this city on Oct. 1, composed of 600 men fully armed and equipped for the overthrow of the United States of Colombia.

The recruiting of this alleged force was under the direction of a mining engineer of New York. Revolvers, carbines and machine guns had already been purchased from a firm in New York. The arms were to be shipped to Boston and held here until the departure.

A British tramp steamer had been secured, it is claimed, to transport the troops and arms to South America. A fishing schooner was to take the men and arms outside of Boston harbor outside the triangle, where the steamer would be held. A former soldier of the United States army, who lives in Providence, it is said, has been secured to command and the date of the departure set for Oct. 21.

Train Makes Daring Trip to Save Refugees.

EUREKA, Cal., Sept. 26.—A great forest fire is raging near here, fanned by a 50-mile gale, and already the plant of the Kelstrom Lumber Company, valued at $600,000, has been destroyed. The fire is threatening the vast tracts of reduced timber lying between Kelstrom and Trinidad, to which latter place refugees are flocking from many camps. The million-dollar plant of the Redwood Lumber Company is directly in the course of the flames.

A passenger train engine arrived at St. Louis last night, carrying refugees from Lufkinholz and Fieldbrook, the former town having been destroyed by the flames. The refugees were hemmed in by the flames and the daring trip thru the fire on the train was proposed. The dash was made with the flames so close that the paint on the cars was blistered in the heat.

He was fifty-six years old and is survived by two daughters.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 25.—A great rush of land-seekers from the United States invaded Winnipeg Sunday and spent the best part of the day at the immigration office enquiring as to the best places to locate. CALL FOR PRAYER

J. M. Wilkinson believes the churches to-morrow should pray for rain. Is it right to pray for rain? If so, will the Almighty Father answer prayer?

"The effectual, fervent prayer of the righteous man availeth much." James, v. 16.

This is the precise, condensed statement of the Apostle James—the apostle of practical Christianity—on the subject of prayer.

You will observe that he who prays to God with assurance of answered prayer is a righteous man—righteous in an absolute sense, since God alone is absolutely righteous; but righteous in the Bible sense—not loving or approving of any known iniquity. As the Psalmist put it: "If I regard iniquity in my heart the Lord will not hear me."

Further, the prayer itself must be a fervent, effectual prayer; not only "effervescent" wrought by the spirit of God, but "effectual," i.e., well-wrought. Begotten of God, the prayer must proceed from faith itself, which is the "victor" in all cases. Such a prayer availa-

"much." God alone has put the lime to such praying.

Having stated a fact, the apostle proceeds to illustrate his subject by the example of Elijah, here and throughout the New Testament called Elias. "a man of like passions with us," proving that it is not absolute righteousness the apostle speaks of, as characteristic of the man who wins. Elijah was a right-living, zealous man, who had his "little ones" like the rest of us, but when he prayed to God against an idolatrous persecuting country he prayed earnestly, or, as it is in the original, "in prayer he pray'd."

It is not enough to say a prayer, but we must pray it, pray it.

The apostle tells us that Elijah "prayed earnestly that it might not rain, and it rained not on the earth (the then known earth), by the space of three years and six months. And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain and the earth brought forth her fruit."

Here then is a simple statement as to the efficiency of prayer in general, and an authentic illustration of the use to which prayer may be put. Herein the apostle plainly teaches by precept, when to pray, what is the right and proper thing to pray for rain, which is the question we are asked to answer.

I take this text merely for this special purpose: as in case in point to prove that contention, now, defend Elijah (for his needs, no defense).

Those familiar with Old Testament history will remember that after the death of Solomon the Kingdom of Israel was divided. Two tribes only (besides that of Levi) remained these kept up the worship of Jehovah; the other ten tribes revolted under Jeroboam and set up the idolatrous worship of Baal, the idol god of the Canaanites. The country of the revolting tribes was in extreme misery, having been punished with drought for more than three years.

We have no record that Elijah had prayed for this drought—any more than this: that he said to Ahab, the king of Jeroboam's successors and a worshiper of Baal, "As the Lord, God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain in these years, but according to my word" (1 Kings, xvii: 1), and the prophet's words were entirely fulfilled.

Elijah stood alone, in his name, before the power. He lacked the wish. But where, on the one hand, is the God worthy of our respect, or, where, on the other, the One worthy of our love? We may not pray to Him, because He is in no wise enter into the Kingdom of God." There is nothing more characteristic of the nation than the indifference of the people to religion, and the disposition of the people to inquire to see what is the best way to bring up a child: it is this that makes the parent a father.

Then, again, this negative Gospel wipes out God as our Father. If it be true that God made the world, endowed it with life, and gave it to man, then He can and must work only in one direction, producing always and ever but one result, thus giving no place to prayer, then I can not see how any child lift his head and say, "I have a father in heaven and believe that our father is there." He may be the Creator, and in a sense the Ruler of the world, but He cannot be "Our Father." For, according to this conception, God Himself is bound, He has defected from the original intention that He made the world, endowed it with life, and given it to man, and cannot be broken, and that they can and must work only in one direction, producing always and ever but one result, thus giving no place to prayer, then I can not see how any child lift his head and say, "I have a father in heaven and believe that our father is there." He may be the Creator, and in a sense the Ruler of the world, but He cannot be "Our Father."

Heavenly Father, we shall be as your children. We will teach you to speak power words like them. Your prayers for good shall speed to their accomplishment as surely and as fast as my prayer for evil upon the fig tree.

Price Automatic Signal System Will Save Lives

Important Invention Which Should Revolutionize Railway Methods of Protecting the Lives of Passengers and Employees.

Perhaps while the readers of The World are perusing this article, there is a railroad accident happening some where, and not one only, but several. The record of railroad accidents in The World with regard to railroad fatalities are simply appalling. And so appalling are these facts that railway officials have at last insisted that something effective in preventing railroad accidents must be invented or devised at once.

Many signal systems for this purpose have been devised, and all have failed, not so much because they are mechanically imperfect, or fail to work under the peculiar climatic conditions of Canada, but chiefly because they do not make it impossible for the engineer to disregard signals.

What is wanted is a device which is a positive train stop, whether the engineer of the train be asleep, disabled or dead. That is to say, an "automatic" train stop.

At last this has been devised by Mr. W. H. Price, B.A., Sc. lecturer in electrical engineering in the University of Toronto.

W. H. PRICE, B.A., Sc.
Lecturer on Electrical Engineering, Toronto University, Inventor of the "Automatic" Railway Signal and Train-stopping System.

to. Mr. Price is a young man, still under forty, but his invention has stirred and captivated the whole body of engineers interested in inventing a new signal system for railroads.

The Price system of automatic signaling and train controlling is a system using electrical circuits. An electric current is sent through a coil that of an ordinary house bell passes continuously along the rails of each block to a coil. This magnetizes the coil and causes it to hold up a small armature. This armature holds the train in one direction on the line short circuiting this current and it ceases to pass through the coil. When this happens, the coil being no longer magnetized, allows the armature to drop, and it falls back again to a small port located in the cabin of the engine is opened, thru which compressed air rushes into a chamber, gradually applying the brakes and automatically holding them set as long as may be necessary.

A trial was made on the Intercolonial Railway by Mr. Price, extending over a period of many weeks, have produced the following results under his system:

(1) On double-track steam railroads where trains run normally in one direction, only, on a single track;

A train running in the proper direction will receive no danger signals.

Two or more trains follow each other in the proper direction on a single track, the foremost train will receive no signal, but each of the trains behind it will be automatically stopped before entering the block containing the train next preceding it.

(2) On single track steam railroads where trains run normally both ways;

Any single train running in either direction will receive no danger signals.

If two or more signal-equipped trains run in opposite directions, so as to approach each other head on, each train will be stopped upon approaching the other, so as to leave less than two clear blocks between the blocks containing the two trains.

The existing conditions of the other most improved signaling systems only accentuate the superiority of the Price automatic system. Consider the facts:

To show the scope of a signaling and stopping device that will meet all requirements, consider the fact that of the mileage in the United States, and 2 per cent. of the mileage in Canada, is equipped with automatic block signaling devices.

In the United States the report of the interstate commerce committee indicates that there are 148,000 miles of railroad, of which 82,000 miles are equipped with automatic block signaling systems.

In Canada there are about 25,000 miles of single track railroad and about 100 miles of double track, of which it is estimated that only 900 miles are equipped with automatic block signaling devices.

The report of the interstate commerce committee shows that automatic train stops have been successfully installed on the New York Central, the Boston & Albany, the New Haven, and the Boston & Worcester.

At last this has been devised by Mr. W. H. Price, B.A., Sc. lecturer in electrical engineering in the University of Toronto.

the Intercolonial Railway of your electric apparatus for operating automatically the engineer's brake valve for the operating of train by hand.

(3) That your company equipped two Intercolonial Railway locomotives (Nos. 62 and 152) with your signaling and brake valve devices.

(2) You also made a corresponding instrument for the two locomotives Humphreys and Palaeo Junction—a distance of about five miles, dividing that distance into six blocks, by means of insulated rails and brake valve devices.

(3) The afternoon of Sept. 5, 1907, tests were made with the above locomotives on that portion of the track in your presence, and in the presence of a number of the Intercolonial Railway officials, in the following manner:

Friday Evening, Sept. 25.

The activity in dealing in New York stocks during the week has not been shared by the local market, with the exception of Sao Paulo's little flurry. Dulles has marked the sessions as a rule, and transactions to-day did not depart from the rut. Mexican Power was quite strong, and on comparatively light purchasing the stock advanced from yesterday's 75 level to 76 1/4, with 76 5/8 offered at the close. There was further talk of a dividend on the basis of the company's earnings for the first eight months of the year. The gross was $2,237,667, and the net $2,266,207, and it is estimated that, after paying fixed charges, the surplus would be equal to 7.5 per cent. on the new stock. Other issues were dealt in very sparingly, but the general tone was firm.

Buoyancy ruled again at New York. The rumor of a coming increase in themodity freight rates had a favorable influence on the western railway list. Reports of increased steel and iron business, and an advance in copper prices, gave confidence to dealings in industrials. The clouds on the political horizon have temporarily disappeared.

bie developments of the day was an advance in quotations for copper metal on the local exchange. The metal interests profess to be quite bullish on the situation. One argument used by the metal men in connection with the railroads, and which helped to compel the short covering in the Hill stocks, was the report from Chicago to the effect that the railroads operating west of that point have decided upon a general advance in commodity rates to the Pacific coast.

THEY'RE ALL ALIKE

Set any number of Massey-Harris Cream Separators side by side, test them in actual work and you will find them all alike—they are perfect work. Every Separator is carefully inspected and thoroughly tested before leaving our factory. Every one must be in perfect working order before it is permitted to go out.

The parts of Massey-Harris Cream Separators are all alike in one respect—they are all of one mind regarding the uniformly good work required. They are simple; their easy turning; freedom from danger; convenience of filling, owing to the low supply can; their simplicity and durability.

There is another respect in which these Separators are all alike—all parts are perfect duplicates, being made by the most improved machinery built especially for this work. If a part becomes worn from long use, it can be broken by accident, you can be sure of securing an exact duplicate to replace it.

FREE RAILROAD ROUND TRIP FOR BUYERS

Corn—the market is in a very strong position and it looks to us as though corn would sell very much higher later on. We advise purchases of May on all soft spots, for we do not look for any material change.

Oats—Steady, market acts but enough, trade dull. Cash bids are sold some May. Corn is the only thing that comes to mind where they are. The close was 4c. to 4c. lower for September and December. May unchanged.

Provisions—Lard—No changes in provisions; there is no material change in prices.

Packers were moderate sellers of the deferred options. The wheat list is as follows: Winter wheat, 11.00c.; market shade, higher. Receipts, 11.00c.; market shade, higher. Market closed unchanged to 25c. higher.

Ennis and Stoppani wired to J. L. Mitchell:

"Wheat There has been rather a nervous market in wheat to-day. There was considerable profit-taking on the bulges by professionals who have been buying in foreign markets were all strong and higher and news from abroad was considered bullish. The market reported 47 long tons last week. Reporters say winter wheat acreage will be curtailed."

Corn—Showed a firm tone throughout and closed with fair gains.

Oats—Within narrow limits all day and nothing special to note.

Provisions—Were weak on selling by local dealers, but were recovering later due to grain strength and some buying by the large packers.

Marshall, Spader & Co. wired J. G. Beatty:

"Wheat—The market is very quiet, within one cent range throughout the session, closing with only fractional changes. Locally, sentiment, very bullish, and the general report of late was that the market was fluctuating. The effect was hardly what was to be expected. Sentiment here is decidedly mixed and sharp shake-out was to be expected."

Corn—Market dragged after a firm start, but later turned strong on local buying, which had for a basis the importations.

BECAUSE IT'S EXCLUSIVE

There are a whole heap of reasons why this hat store of ours should be on your list every time you need a hat.

It's because the stock is exclusive. There are blocks here that you can't purchase elsewhere in Canada. Hats, too, that mark a man at once as being better costumed.

Fifty years handling hats has given us, besides experience, a large prestige over other dealers in the matter of buying--It has always been our privilege to introduce novelties in men's hats.

Two Little Girls Near Weston Bitten by Dog and Cat--Prompt Measures Adopted.

WESTON, Sept. 25.-(Special)--Considerable excitement, and not a little anxiety was occasioned here to-day by the report received by Dr. Irwin last night, and made public this morning, concerning the medical analysis made by the provincial health department on the heads of a dog and cat forwarded by the doctor last week, and supposed to be infected with rabies. The causes leading up to the killing and examination of the animals were the facts that they had a week ago bitten two little girls on the outskirts of the town, coupled with their strange actions.

One of the children, a little daughter of John Moore, was bitten by a pet dog belonging to the family, while the other child, a daughter of Mr. Johnston, also of York Township, was bitten by a stray cat.

The examination at the department was conducted by Dr. Amyot, who decided that traces of rabies were developed in each of the animals.

Dr. Warren, medical health officer of York Township, and Dr. Irwin of Weston were called in connection with the matter, and, following a conference with Reeve Henry of York Township, it was decided to send the little girls, whose ages are, respectively, 5 and 7 years, to the Pasteur Institute in New York, which will be done this afternoon, and the expense of which will be borne by the township.

TWO TO ONE SHOT LANDED:
But Added Entry Cops the Real Prize of the "Meet."

Lewis E. Fishman, 25 years, Elyria, Ohio, was arrested by Detective Arthur Chisholm at the Woodbine track yesterday afternoon as a "vag" of the tout variety.

The story told the detective by the alleged "mark" runs thusly:

The easy one stood by the track using a sheet of tips.

"Ever bet?" asked the pleasant voice of Fishman at his shoulder.

"You bet I do," was the enthusiastic rejoinder.

"You bet!" still more eagerly.

The introduction was performed and the opulent one displaying a big wad advanced a plunge of a $8 to $5 shot.

The easy one took the spot, but the big fellow grabbed $15 more, advising him to make a man's bet.

This went up and the horse romped in. The $65 was assembled and the easy money prophet advised that it, with an additional $30, be put up.

Just here the mark had a rush of vertigo, but the other twain laughed. Fishman started in to tell how honest his friend really was and when the mark looked up he was gone.

He yelled for help and the arrest was made.

EAST TORONTO, Sept. 25.—The wind up of to-night's council meeting (a special one) was characterized by all the elements of a hot election alteration, only the subject matter under dispute was not of a political nature.

Acting Mayor John Little was in the chair, with just enough members present to constitute a legal quorum.

Concerning routine business was put thru and so were all the questions of annexation introduced.

Bringing along with him the question of annexation from city solicitor Chisholm that the railway and municipal board would be prepared to hear, the town's plea for annexation was the lessusive issue.

Mr. Conner, deputy postmaster-general, was recently in town visiting his relatives prior to his trip to Australia as special commissioner of the government in connection with "The All Red."

Rev. E. H. Toye is giving a special talk to young people in the Methodist Church on Sunday evening.

Rev. Dr. Pringle of Dawson, Yukon, famous thru his fight in that country for higher morality, was visiting in town this week.

A pumpkin pie social will be given by the Epworth League on Tuesday evening.

ELDER'S MILLS, Sept. 25.—Geo. A. McClure of Cherry Grove Stock Farm attended the Brampton Fair this week with his well known string of heavy horses and brought down the reputation of the young people in the market grounds.

He secured first and third in his class and first and the Ryrie Medal for the best heavy team on the grounds. His well bred team of three-year-olds has never beaten in the show ring.

Chairman of Finance Phil took exception to the solicitor's exclusion.

"This matter has never been taken up by the hands of the annexation committee," said Councilor Grant, "and we object to the presence of Solicitor Grant for the purpose of pointing out defects, if any, in the annexation vote of two years. In an advisory capacity and as a townsman the solicitor would be welcome. He tried to introduce a measure along that line, but would have none of it."

Another resolution of Councilor Phil, favoring the presence of the solicitor, and suggesting the added provision that the solicitor be paid $1000 a year, was carried.

NORTH TORONTO, Sept. 25.—At the meeting of the local Conservative Association held last night at the Oulton Hotel delegates were appointed to attend the South York nominating convention on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The wardens of St. Clement's Church have issued a financial statement covering a period from April 20 to Sept. 20, which shows a total of collections at the services of $1,008.44; collection to build fund on Sept. 20, $87.14; collection for subscriptions, $300.00; $99.55; total, $247.74.

The wardens say that the collections show a shortage of $14 per Sunday, and hope that the congregation will contribute liberally on the harvest thanksgiving day Oct. 4.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret Ann Fox, wife of Thos. Fox of Victoria-avenue took place to Mount Pleasant Cemetery this afternoon and was conducted by Revs. N. Wellwood, Rev. G. W. Robinson, Rev. T. W. Pickett and Rev. J. W. Stewart.
