MEXICAN TROOPS HAVE A CLASH WITH BANDITS

American Soldiers are Guarding the Border
Between Mexico and Texas—Mexicans Fight With Bandits in the Mountains.

Monterrey, Mexico, June 30.—Troops of the seventh regiment, which left Matamoros Sunday, in pursuit of the bandits who attacked that town, encountered them after several hours' pursuit. No details of the fight have been received. San Antonio, Texas, June 30.—By order of the war department, Federal troops of the Department of Texas, under command of Brigadier General Meyer have been ordered to proceed without delay to the Mexican border for the purpose of preserving to neutrality law between the United States and Mexico. City officials of the department are on their way to Leon Springs, where the joint maneuvers are to be held, commencing July 2. The troops will leave camp this morning.

Monterrey, Mexico, June 30.—A despatch to the News from Matamoros says, the special correspondent of the News has just returned from a trip to Viesca with the 10th Regiment from Mexico. City composed of 320 men under command of Brigadier General Juan N. Duran. At the station of Galita information was received that a band of insurgents had passed through there burning the bridge across a mountain in the center of Galita and cutting the telegraph wires both ways. In view of this General Duran ordered part of his force to make a general hunt through the mountains and the remainder to repair the bridge. This was done and after fourteen hours on the way they finally reached Viesca.

The force hunting in the mountains captured four men. The four men stated that the bandits had dispersed and were now scattered. At Viesca the troops made several arrests, among them being a merchant of Viesca, who took an active part in the raid, and was the chief of the band, and Alberto Pineda, a tailor, who was second in command. These men are well known and are identified by all residents of Viesca and surrounding haciendas as having been with the bandits during the raid.

AT ODDS OVER
THAW'S FUTURE

One Judge Thinks Thaw is Dangerously Insane While Another Holds Opposite View.

New York, N. Y., June 29.—Justice Dowling of the supreme court, who presided at the second trial of Harry K. Thaw, denied today Thaw's application to be removed from the asylum for the criminal insane to a private hospital, to some other institution, on the ground that Thaw was a dangerously insane person, not to be punished but to be kept under restraint, that he might not injure himself or anyone else.

In another phase of Thaw's fight for freedom, Justice Mills heard argument at White Plains after issuing a writ of habeas corpus on Saturday on Thaw's application for a jury trial to determine his sanity at the present time.

On this application, Judge Mills adjourned the case until July 13th, when further argument will be heard, ordered Thaw to be returned to the Poughkeepsie jail in the meantime.

Unlike Justice Dowling, Justice Mills seemed distinctly to favor a jury trial to determine Thaw's sanity. Justice Mills said after the argument:

"I believe it should be only a matter of time when this man should have a jury trial. I am not prepared to say whether it should be now or later."

VOICES OF GREAT SINGERS
LOCKED IN CORNERSTONE OF PHILA. OPERA HOUSE

Philadelphia, June 30.—In the presence of a thousand persons Oscar Hammerstein of New York, laid the cornerstone of the Philadelphia Opera House, which he is having constructed at Broad and Poplar streets. The opera house will be finished before the end of October, and the first opera will be produced in the new house on November 17th.

Mr. Hammerstein, in laying the cornerstone, used a silver trowel and hammer. In the box in the cornerstone were placed, among other things, the following photographic records:

"Habenera," from "Carmen," by Calver; "Flower Song," from "Carmen," by Delmore; "Mad Scene," from "Lucia," by Melba; "Noel Pien," Renaud; "En Tu," from "Maak Ball," Summerson; "Mad Scene," from "Lucia," Tetrazzini; "Morte d'Otello," from "Otello," Zentale.

The ceremonies over, Mr. Hammerstein, his famous wife in the center of the platform, exclaimed:

"I'm glad it's over. I'd rather search Europe for a second Tetrazzini than stand here in all this heat."

Simultaneously with the laying of the cornerstone, the first steel column was swung into position and imbedded in the masonry. Before the crowd had departed two other columns had followed.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS TASTING
DISCOMFORTS OF REAL WAR

Soldiers Drilling at Camp
Sussex Today Under a Scorching Sun.

Sussex, N. B., June 30.—(Special.)—Under a scorching sun the soldiers are drilling today at Camp Sussex and the militiamen are getting a little taste of the hardships of real warfare in enduring the present temperature. The Hussars are free from mounted duty today and are engaged in target practice at the range. The artillery are deploying on the large field near the railway, but are obliged to rest their horses often on account of the heat. The infantry are scattered about in loose company formations and the soldiers show interest in the advances against a supposed enemy concealed in the shade of a large tree.

Tomorrow the big event of the year, field day and review before Adjutant General Lessner, will take place. The morning will be occupied in the customary drill and maneuvers in preparation for the afternoon. All the troops in camp will assemble in the big plain in the afternoon and go through the evolutions under the eyes of the inspecting officers and thousands of spectators.

THE WEST SIDE
DEER KILLING

Police are Still Investigating the Case—Where the Carcass was Sold.

It transpires that the carcass of the deer killed illegally on Sunday afternoon was not sold to the captain of the Steamship Abernethy, now lying at Sand Point, but it is believed by the officials that the body was disposed of by the men concerned in the affair to the captain of the S.S. Loyal Briton, at present in the channel and due to depart tonight.

Captain Davis of the steamer refused to acknowledge any direct connection with the purchase, but admitted that the men had probably sold the deer to one of the ship's officers in return for several drinks of whiskey or probably a bottle of gin.

The story told by the two West Side men, who killed the deer, is to the effect that they saw the flight of the deer along the ferry route and they declared its jaw had been broken. With the idea of terminating the creature's suffering, they secured a rope and succeeded in killing the deer. They endeavored to sell the body after skinning it to the captain of the Abernethy who declined to be a participant in the sale.

POISONED BY BOTTLED ALE

Sensational Murder Unearthed in Philadelphia—A Medical Doctor the Victim of a Plot.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 29.—The laying bare of a most sensational murder is promised by the authorities in the case of Dr. William H. Wilson of this city, who died at his home on Friday night, after drinking a portion of a bottle of ale which had been sent to him for trial. An autopsy performed by the coroner's physicians and an examination made of the viscera taken from the body today, according to the coroner, proved conclusively that Dr. Wilson died of cyanide of potassium poisoning. The ale was believed to have been sent by a brewing company of this city. Investigation is being made by the police officials as to the source of the poisoning.

Unusual as are the poisoning features of the case, more extraordinary is the thought which the police officials assign for what they are certain is a murder. Though Dr. Wilson had been living for more than twelve years in the house where he drank the fatal potion, he never put on a physician's sign and was not known in general as a practitioner. Wilson, he had a large clientele, made up mostly of the police officials, of prominent women. The police officials have learned, they allege, that Dr. Wilson attended during a fatal illness, a member of the family of a young man who will be charged with being the poisoner.

The death, it is alleged, could no longer contain himself, when he sought to put an end to the physician's practices by sending him poison rather than to go into court and having his family history exposed to the world.

Denver, Col., June 28.--The fight over the anti-prohibition plank in the Democratic platform is not the only struggle in which the committee on resolutions and possibly the convention itself may be involved.

It developed today that the prohibition question is to be brought to a head at the Denver convention. The prohibition plank in the platform is not the only struggle in which the committee on resolutions and possibly the convention itself may be involved.

The anti-prohibition plank continues to provoke a large amount of discussion among party leaders as have already arrived for the convention. While opinions differ as to the exact nature of the plank which should be adopted, all are of one mind in saying that it shall be a definite and specific statement. Such members of the national committee as have discussed the matter are a unit in saying that the wording of the anti-prohibition plank shall leave no possible doubt in the mind of any reader as to where the party stands on this question.

Denver, Colo.--When Dr. Sam Rothe, child struck a match to light a cigar in front of a public drinking fountain, there was a terrific explosion. WITH THE BOYS AT CAMP SUSSEX

Hard Drill Has Turned the Force into Seasoned Veterans--Fine Weather Continues.

Sussex, N. B., June 28.--The 2500 troops at Camp Sussex put in another hard drill today and a great improvement in appearance is noticed already.

The Eight Hussars had a particularly hard day this morning and during the afternoon had exercises in wheeling and forming up.

The artillery had the gun carriages along today and some blank shells were fired during the afternoon.

Some companies of the infantry are still at the ranges and the remainder were scattered about the grounds doing company drill under the direction of their officers. Practice was given in advancing under cover with the aid of scouts on the river.

Among the troops were stationed several corps of signallers who are progressing well under expert instruction.

On the outskirts of the camp lines the detachment of engineers are at work. The corps is handicapped by a shortage of officers and the present staff is hard worked.

Construction of trenches, redoubts and bridges is a part of the work of the engineers.

An interesting part of the camp to visit is the corner occupied by No. 7 A. S. Company of St. John. Here the 1200 leaves of bread eaten in camp each day are baked and the men who handle the groceries and kill the cattle to provide the meat have their headquarters.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely damage the eyes, and when entering it through the mucous surfaces, such articles should be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians. As the damage they do is irreparable to the good you can possibly derive from them, be very careful.

Ottawa, June 28.--The Oliver land bill was got through today, but at the suggestion of K. L. Borden it stands for a third reading, when some amendments will be discussed.

CHILD LABOR DOOMED IN UNITED STATES AND CANADA

This is the View of Factory Inspectors in Convention Last Week in Toronto--Ohio, Quebec and Kansas Cited.

(Toronto News.) Child labor is doomed in Canada and the United States. Such is the consensus of opinion among the factory inspectors in convention in Toronto, interviewed by The News yesterday. A strong and growing sentiment among the states, exists in all civilized communities which does much to make the laws enacted both in Canada and permanent.

The inspectors said that in the past decade laws have been put upon the states and continually supplemented and reinforced by additional amendments.

Child labor--as far as juveniles of tender age are concerned--is practically a thing of the past. Within the past decade laws have been put upon the states and continually supplemented and reinforced by additional amendments.

The day of our triumph is now near, said Mr. J. H. Morgan, of Cleveland, chief inspector for Ohio. "On July 1st there comes into force a State enactment known as the Child Labor Law. Under it the employment of minors under fourteen years is forbidden, and schooling certificates are required for all minors between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years."

LIMITS THE HOURS. "Moreover, in addition, the new law limits the hours during which minors may be employed to work. Boys under sixteen and girls under eighteen years of age must not be employed more than eight hours in one day, nor more than forty-eight hours in one week. Children of the same age limits must not be employed later than six o'clock in the evening nor earlier than seven o'clock in the morning."

Further valuable clauses are those which provide that no minor under sixteen years of age may be employed at dangerous machinery or where its health will be injured or morally depraved, and that no female under the age of sixteen years shall be employed at the mines, quarries, or at employment compelling her to remain standing constantly. The chief and all the district inspectors are vested with full powers to enforce the laws.

Mr. Morgan said the new law was the result of some years of education and effort. For some time past public opinion has been growing, and conditions, which in some of the factories were formerly more or less serious, have been improved. Mr. Morgan was confident that under the new law child labor would be practically banished.

STRICT IN QUEBEC. "Quebec is grappling firmly and effectively with the problem of child labor," said Mr. Louis Guyon, chief inspector of factories for that Province. "In addition to the strict laws now enacted, the inspectors are given full power, in event of their noting during their inspection any child who seems weak or unwell, to order an examination of the child by a Government-appointed physician, and its removal from work at the factory if the physician's report is not favorable."

DOMINION DAY

The Canadian retrospect on Dominion Day, 1908, should be marked by a greater degree of soberness, and more of heart-searching, than that of 1907. There have been happenings in these twelve months. There has been a period of depression, and there have been political revelations. Also, however, there have been evidences of a hopeful power of adjustment to conditions, and of an awakened public conscience. Canada is stronger and better for a year marked by some disappointment and some humiliation. The discipline has been timely and, let us hope, salutary.

For there is nothing wrong with basic conditions. This country retains its vast areas, its boundless and varied resources, its premier position among the newer countries of the world. It faces the prospect of a record grain crop in the west, and of splendid crops throughout all the provinces. Its wealth in mines, forests and fisheries has scarcely been realized by its own people. Its population is increasing, its industries for the most part flourishing, its means of transportation multiplying at a rapid rate, its agricultural products in every line increasing, its educational institutions taking rank among the best, and its fame spreading among the nations of the earth, as the greatest of the few lands of promise which still hold out the allurements of comfort and happiness to the less-favored of the sons of men.

Perhaps it is commonplace to say that the great need of Canada today is strong men, true men, honest and far-seeing men, who scorn the bribe and stand for that which is highest and noblest in public life and service. And yet evidence has been wanting—there are never wanting—that this commonplace statement needs to be emphasized and pressed home upon the conscious and moving thought of the people of this great country. There is too great a difference between the ideals of individuals in private life and the moving principles of men in public life. It is too frequently the case that a man who is scrupulously honest in his private dealings will adopt expedients in political warfare which are utterly wrong in principle, but which he in some strange manner justifies to himself, as the proper means to a political end.

Canada has been taking stock. There has been a slowing down in the march of progress. The period of readjustment has not yet run its course. Financial institutions are still cautious and watchful. Investors are conservative. Nobody doubts that the basic conditions are sound, but the pace has been just a little too rapid. There is already a return of confidence, and the industrial and commercial outlook is brighter than it was a few months ago. In the realm of politics, signs are not wanting that the people are disposed to insist upon reform in departments of government which had become notoriously corrupt. There may even be a complete change of administration at Ottawa before another Dominion Day rolls round. In any event, certain abuses must be remedied and reforms inaugurated.

In a national sense, Canada has notably developed during the past year. Ancient prejudices rear their heads no longer, and the national has more and more obscured the mere provincial outlook. We are Canadians. Not less significant is the trend of imperial sentiment in Canada, stimulated and encouraged by the evidence of a marked change of opinion in the United Kingdom in regard to imperial relations. Surely, if ever a country were blessed, that country is Canada. Her future rests with her people. To the extent that they impress upon the strenuous and often feverish activities of modern life the virtues of honor and purity and unselfishness, they will make that future spell success or failure.

In an editorial urging the Canadian people to rescue the country from the abuse of partyism the Toronto News says:—"All over this country there are young men, yet full of the eager and disinterested enthusiasm of youth, and inspired by high and ingenious zeal to conquer a proud destiny for the land of their birth and affection, who may be enlisted in this contest. To these may be joined the increasing number of Canadian citizens in all the Provinces who have grown restless under the slavery of party when party means an agency of extravagance and jobbery and a refuge for abuses. United in a generous determination to restore conditions of political equality, to establish the independence of the civil service, to end party ownership of the public offices and the public resources, and to establish equal and honest dealing with public supplies and public contracts, they can hold the balance of power and determine the electoral result in two-thirds of the constituencies of Canada."

The Toronto World intimates that the Liberals of Ontario have decided to do some vigorous organization work before the federal elections. It says:—"Those who desire the success of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the polls are taking important steps to strengthen the Liberal organization throughout Ontario. For some months past A. H. Beaton, barrister, Toronto, has been observing the situation, and has consented, at the request of Liberals M.P., M.L.A. and others, to generally supervise the work and act in co-operation with all Liberal and other associations desirous to see the return of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to power. Mr. Beaton's appointment in no way disturbs existing organizations. One of his duties is to find out the shape the organization is in throughout the province and endeavor to have the friends of the party strengthened up where it is weak. It is Mr. Beaton's business to see that the work is done, and as time progresses others may be chosen to assist him."

Unless President Castro of Venezuela mends his ways the United States may try the effect of retaliation. A Washington dispatch says:—"That there will be a possibility of retaliatory tactics with regard to trade should no overtures come from Venezuela is also intimated, though it is not believed that anything can be done in this direction until the reassembling of Congress. This country takes most of the coffee, sugar, hides and some of the cocoa exported from Venezuela, and a breach in this trade would create a difficult situation for that country. A retaliatory policy was suggested in Congress last winter and met with some approbation from various legislators. Whether such a scheme could be carried through, and if so its exact form, cannot be predicted, but this is the line on which the punishment thought to be needed by the Venezuelan Government will be likely to be developed."

Unless the civil service commissioners under the proposed federal bill are partisan officials the measure will not be as effective in good results as it should be. The civil service should be independent of the political machine. Otherwise it will be crowded with incompetent friends of the politicians.

The Toronto News, discussing the evils of the patronage system, says:—"The Federal Department patronage costs $70,000 a year. And patronage rules all the departments. Keeping the party solid is an expensive proceeding."

Persia's experiment in constitutional government has almost resulted in anarchy. The people were not yet qualified for intelligent self-government. Repressive measures are now necessary to restore order.

Tomorrow, Dominion Day, the Times will not be issued.

MISS ANGLIN'S AUSTRALIAN SUCCESSORS.

From Sydney, Australia, Mr. Tom Nettles yesterday cabled to the Herald that Miss Margaret Anglin had made her appearance there on Saturday night and received a great welcome. Her debut on the Australian stage, he said, was a triumph. He did not give the name of the play in which the star appeared, but before leaving here it was understood she would present "The Great Divide," the first play of her repertoire. Mr. Nettles is managing the tour of Miss Anglin—New York Herald, June 29.

London, June 30.—The Duchess of Cornwall and Princess Patricia spent the week end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Waldorf Astor, who yesterday gave a brilliant garden party in aid of the Barnardo Homes. The Bishop of Virginia, who presided, and the Duke of Cornwall, who came specially for the occasion, made sympathetic speeches in favor of the Barnardo movement.

AS TO NOW

(By John Kendrick Bangs.)
No matter how we turn or twist,
How strenuously we persist,
Whatever has been or will be,
Whatever other change we see,
We cannot change this anyhow;
It's always NOW.

It never leaves us, year by year—
The faithful NOW is always here—
And though the swift hours hurry fast,
And but an instant Time doth last,
To other instances giving place,
NOW ever stays.

Our friends may leave us, and our foes:
Our love depart, our troubles ebb;
Ambitions fade, our joys rise and set;
We lose our hopes, and vain regret;
The thing that cheers, the thing that grieves
NOW never leaves.

All through our lives it is the same,
In deep obscurity, in fame,
Hence, since our steps 'twill not forsake,
Who makes the best of NOW will make
In peace or war, in rest or strife,
The best of life.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of W. G. Scott, 164 Paradise Row, when his youngest daughter, Emma J., was united in marriage by the Rev. G. M. Campbell, D. D., to Ernest Edwin Prince, teacher in the school for the deaf, Lancaster. The bride, who was given away by her father, was becomingly dressed in white silk trimmed with Irish lace. Her traveling dress was brown, with hat to match. Only the immediate friends of the contracting party were present. After the ceremony breakfast was served, when the happy couple left by train for an extended trip through the State of Maine. They were the recipients of many useful and valuable presents, including a substantial cheque from Mr. J. Harvey Brown. On their return they will reside at 164 Paradise Row.

MORE SPORTS AUG. 29th.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Every Day Club last evening a statement was submitted showing that the club had netted a small financial loss on its splendid series of sports on Saturday afternoon, owing to lack of public patronage. This was the more regrettable as it lessens the club's ability to do all it was hoped to do for the children's play ground. The opinion was unanimous, however, that the club should continue to encourage athletic competitions, and was resolved to issue tickets at once and hold another series of sports the last Saturday in August. Mayor Bullock has indicated his desire to supplement the handsome prize already offered for the best all-round athlete of the season at the club's sports.

The club's efforts to secure an option on a hall or a suitable site for one, to be occupied after January 1st next, have thus far been unsuccessful.

A. and for the Marathons Titus and Rootes.
