TO WORK N. S. GOLD AREAS

Syndicate Formed to Mine Gold in Victoria County, Cape Breton.

SYDNEY, N. S., April 16--(Special)--A syndicate composed of A. C. Ross, M. H. H. McCurdy, C. J. Burchell, A. J. McDonald, Mayor Macdowell, F. W. Bishop, E. W. Murray, W. J. Gray, S. Row, Reynolds Harrington, D. D. McCurdy, has been formed to work the gold areas at Middle River, Victoria county. This project resulted from a discussion at a meeting of the board of trade held a month ago when Mayor W. J. Griffiths, a mine expert from South Africa dealt with the possibility of the existence of valuable gold reefs and deposits of the precious metal.

Some of the specimens were of very high grade, and the total results far surpass the expectations of the promoters. The claim is made that this gold section will yield even larger returns than the famous Beaver Hat. Gold was first found at Middle River 35 years ago, some suggests and dust being panned out from the workings of those years, and in the river bed. Some few years ago a group of Chinamen located at the river and made a large profit on the gold strike from the sand. A local resident for several years has made a profitable dividend for himself and family from a shaft sunk in the gold belt. Griffiths, who is an Englishman, and who is here at present, was for 16 years engaged in gold and diamond mining in South Africa.

INDIANS FIGHT ON ST. MARY'S RESERVE

Fredericton Police Called on to Restore Order --- Several Arrests Made --- Well Known Frederictonian May Also Get Into Trouble --- The Perfume Theft Case.

FREDERICTON, N. B., April 16--A number of Indian warriors on St. Mary's Reserve, got mixed up in a drunken row on Saturday evening, and the police had to be called in to restore order. Officers Rideout and Gallagher visited the wigwam of Joseph Gabriel, and found a condition of affairs which indicates a rather low state of morality on the St. Mary's Reserve. Joseph, who was well under the influence of liquor was keeping guards downstairs, while his squaw was upstairs entertaining a white man belonging to the city. The police took Joseph into custody, and ejected the white man from the house. While on the way over the bridge with the prisoner the officers found another Indian carrying a heavy jag and arrested him. The Indians were arraigned in the police court this morning and remanded until tomorrow. The white man who figured in the affair belongs to the city, and has a wife and a grown up family. Indian agent Farrell intends to proceed against him under the Indian Act.

The preliminary examination of John McGuire, charged with stealing a bottle of perfume from Wiley's drug store, is going on at the police court today. Mr. Wiley swore that he missed a bottle of perfume on Friday, and he identified the bottle found on the prisoner as his property. The prisoner said that he was drunk at the time, and could not remember having visited Wiley's store. He will likely be committed for trial. Number 3 company of the Royal Regiment, will be transferred from St. John's, Quebec, on May 1st. It is understood the present strength of the company is three officers and 85 men. Orders have been received to have some repair work done at the barracks. As a result of the recent rainstorm the water in the river here has risen two feet, and is still coming up. The ice is getting shaly and will likely move before the end of the week. There is no material change today in the condition of Rev. Dean Paetridge. The remains of Earle King, who died in St. John on Saturday were brought here this morning for burial.

NO MORE PASSES ON STREET CARS

St. John Railway Company Decides That in Future Every One Must Pay.

At a meeting of the directors of the St. John Railway Company held Saturday afternoon, it was decided to abolish all complimentary pass books. This order will go into effect immediately. The outstanding pass books will, however, be allowed to remain in use until they are run out. This step has been taken in view of the fact that there has been considerable talk about the possibility of giving passes to aldermen, so that the company have decided to do away with them altogether. In future the only passes issued will be those made by the employees, not even the directors receiving a pass. The company considered the present a good time to put this new plan in practice, before the new council is elected.

He had lived with the Ducharme family till last Thursday, when, as the result of an altercation with the husband and wife, he was ordered to leave. He did so with many threats. He is supposed to have met his victim as he was driving to town Friday night and to have strangled her to death.

INDIANTOWN WAITING FOR RIVER TO OPEN UP

Expected Ice in Reach to Run out Very Soon--- Steamboat People Making Ready for Busy Summer.

According to reports the recent heavy rains weakened the river ice considerably, but it is hardly expected that the river will run out before the last of this week and some believe that it will hold till the first or middle of next week. It was reported at Indiantown today that the Kennedocuss was clear as far up as could be seen from Millidgeville. It was also stated that the steamer Maggie Miller would probably be running next week, but at the time of writing no confirmation of the report could be obtained. Steamboat people are busy preparing for the opening of navigation and it is expected that all will be in readiness when the ice comes out of the reach. Some of the Victoria's crew were at work this morning getting the big river liner in shape and other steamers belonging to the Star Line are almost ready to start out. The Hampstead went up river again this morning and the changes and improvements on the Elaine are practically complete. The Crystal Stream is being painted throughout. It was learned today that the Springfield Steamship Co. were as yet undecided as to what would be done regarding the summer's work. Some repairs have been made on the May Queen and she will be painted throughout. The tug boat people are also getting ready for the season's business and Indiantown will see out a busy season when the ice goes away. Hotel men in that section of the city seem to be well satisfied with business and expect to have a good summer.

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

THE INTELLIGENT VOTER. Mr. Peter Binks remarked this morning that the more he saw of some voters the more he respected imbeciles. "I met a man this morning," said Mr. Binks, "who said he had intended to vote for one candidate, but that candidate did not ask him for the vote, and another one did. Therefore he would vote for the other one. Now that," said Mr. Binks, "reveals discrimination and discrimination doesn't it? I vote for a man because he asks me, and I don't vote for another man because he doesn't ask me. I'm a wretched man-on-a-string. Somebody pulls the string, and I dance. Nice thing--isn't it? I have no views whatever. I don't know one man from another, till one of them asks me--and then I'm his man. That's the way to get a good city council and a well-governed city. Next to staying away from the polls altogether, I don't know of any other means by which a man can so surely impress his individuality upon a town, or shape its destiny, as by standing around on one foot and then the other foot until somebody asks him for his vote. I'm not surprised that we have no city debt, that the streets are in perfect condition; that the ferry service is a model; that the population is increasing; that the outside public point to St. John as the greatest town on earth. The reason is perfectly clear. The voters make the town, and we have the voters. Hurray! Excuse my enthusiasm--but I can't help it. There are times when the patriotic citizen simply can't keep quiet. This is one of them. Hurray! Hurray!" Mr. James-Jones is not working to-day. He has been somewhat abstemious during Lent, and it went to his head today.

ROUGH ON THE ELEPHANT

—New York Herald.

THE MATURITY OF THE VIOLET

The maidens swung down with a rattle as the white-painted yacht came up in the wind. With its long forest fluttering gently she lay at anchor in a tiny bay. It was one of those coves upon the south-west coast where the trees stand boldly out toward the waves, marking with a fringe of green the landward limit of the beach. Mosey Gainsford clambered up the narrow companion stairs. The man who was lounging by the tiller regarded his dress doubtfully.

Her mode of expression had been more diffident in the old days, but her eyes were as pretty as ever. They were dancing with pleasure now. "To think of it!" she exclaimed. "Why, it seems just like old times seeing you here!" He was playing with the lace of her cap, Gainsford, gazing at her almost disbelievably, but curiously with her words. His thoughts went back to the shy, willow-figured girl with the large eyes and tremulous voice that he had known.

NEPTUNES TO ADD ROWING MEMBERS

Will Issue Special Certificates for the Season --- New Officers Chosen--The Racing Outlook.

At the annual meeting of the Neptune Rowing Club, which was held in the club rooms Saturday evening it was decided to issue special certificates at $5 each to those interested in rowing who are not members of the club. These will entitle them to the use of the boats and boat-houses during the coming season. A special effort will be made to encourage the formation of a racing crew with headquarters at Millidgeville.

R. Frith, Retiring President.

The president, Rowland Frith, occupied the chair and there was a fair attendance. After the usual routine business the election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows: Heber Yvonne, president; F. A. Kinser and Homer D. Forbes, vice-presidents; C. B. Robinson, secretary; F. E. Hamilton, treasurer; W. Coates, captain; Rowland Frith, K. J. MacFae, F. White, George P. Kirk, A. E. Everett, T. E. Powers, R. D. Patterson, W. H. C. Mackay and V. V. Johnson, managing committee; Rowland Frith and F. E. Hamilton, trustees.

W. J. Coates.

The final word was his sacrifice to the cause of what once had been a glorious spiritual edifice. "No, you need not come back with me," Gainsford asserted. "I will return to the small craft; 'the fact is that the one I expected to find was not there.' 'These little findings into the past are either dangerous or bitterly disappointing. I heard from a man who had been there that there is an excellent tea place in the neighborhood. Shall we go?'"

DEAN PARTRIDGE OF FREDERICTON IN CRITICAL STATE

NEW RECTOR OF ST. JAMES' IN CHARGE

The services in St. James' church yesterday were conducted by the new rector, Rev. J. Edward Hand. There were large congregations at each of the three services. In the evening he preached his inaugural sermon and it was a powerful and eloquent plea for higher ideals in church life and work. His text was II. Chronicles xviii and vii, where is related the history of the conspiracy of Jehoshaphat and Ahaz.

After a brief discussion of the text, in which he showed that Ahaz's disaster was the result of his setting at naught the will of God, the preacher proceeded to discuss the elements which constitute successful parish work. Large congregations and large gifts of money were dismissed as being imperfect standards by which to measure church growth.

"How then," said he, "shall we measure our growth? There is only one answer and it is this: If in one year or two years or ten years you and I can look over this community in which our lot is cast and can truthfully say that the lives of the individuals are purer and more righteous than before then and not until then can we affirm that our church is doing the work that God intended that it should do.

"That is the problem. When we can look upon our church members and see that they are now more pure, more true, more powerful and more full of human sacrifice than we may congratulate ourselves on the fact that our church is making progress in the very highest sphere. It is not big congregations, it is not big gifts of money that make the church do its work, but it is the moral and spiritual worth of its individual members. It is that we on earth may become more heavenly. And the heavenly man must be loyal to the King of heaven? God, and God is the embodiment of truth, love, purity and righteousness. And you reign there, thus making your life one continual embodiment of the God-like qualities. That is church growth.

"How shall we accomplish this great result? Largely through your efforts and mine co-operating with the spirit of the God we worship. I cannot make the church perform its mission in this part of our city without your sympathy and help. It is not the captain of the army that wins the battle but in every case the victory is due to the rank and file co-operating with the leader. I have come to you to work for you and with you and in our work I want you to stand back of me. Not in front of me or on top of me. I am not coming with a lot of untried schemes and fancies but after some years of experience I am coming to you to work. I want to make St. James' parish my best work, my last work and most enduring work and this I cannot accomplish without your help.

The preacher spoke favorably of institutional church work but favored making his church an inspirational one. "A church which will inspire men with high and holy aims in life, inspiring men to think right, to do right and to worship right. The great object of the church is to teach the art of living rightly and this object will be accomplished largely through our ability to make friends with the individual. Kingsley says that the secret of his life was in the fact that he had a friend. One secret of success in our church work lies in our power to make friends with the boys and girls and men and women with whom we meet in our daily intercourse. There are many things that we can do and may do out to do them means service and sacrifice." The sermon was listened to with marked attention by a very large congregation.

POLICEMAN ROBERT HAMILTON DEAD

North End Policeman Had Served 27 Years on the Force.

A faithful and efficient member of the police force passed away on Saturday night, when Robert Hamilton, of the North End division, died at his home, No. 566 Main street.

For the past twelve years or so his health had been far from rugged, for he was a severe sufferer from asthma, but he did not relinquish his duties until almost the last, and the news of his death, while not unexpected, was learned with great regret for he enjoyed the high regard of very many.

Deceased was sixty-two years of age, and a native of Queens county. In early life he was in the employ of Messrs. Purdy & Green, of the Queen's wharf, and was for some time engaged in the lumber woods. In 1879 he joined the police force, and prior to the union, served in the old town of Portland, under Capt. Rawlings. He subsequently he performed good work in the city, and in recent years was again stationed in the North End.

Mr. Hamilton was an enthusiastic and

NEGROES TORTURED TO DEATH BY MISSOURI MOB

Three Thousand Springfield Men Took Victims from Jail, Hanged Them to Goddess of Liberty Statue Near Court House, and Then Roasted Them—Were Charged With a Fiendish Crime.

Springfield, Mo., April 14.—A mob of 3,000 men took three negroes from the jail, hanged them to the Goddess of Liberty of the court house and built a fire under them and roasted them to death.

Last night while Miss Edwards and a woman were sitting in the jail, a mob of three negroes were taken from the jail and hanged to the Goddess of Liberty and roasted to death.

Instead of attacking the jail the mob turned the residence of the county sheriff and destroyed the furniture in the lower part of the house, carrying the sheriff's keys.

Overcoming the resistance of the sheriff and a posse of deputies the mob returned to the jail and demanded an entrance.

It developed about midnight that there were two mobs, one well organized and composed of men and another of boys and girls.

FROM NEW JERSEY TO A HINDOO TEMPLE.

Miss Ruth St. Denis, Dancer, Explains Her Reincarnation as a Hindoo Idol.

By Fannie Fann

Ruth St. Denis

NEW YORK, April 14.—Often I have some Hindoos come to play for me on their musical instruments. Then, when the room is very warm and there is incense burning, my imagination is so changed with Hindoo feeling and I find myself becoming one of them, in soul, at least. All sorts of suggestions for my work come to me while I am in this state. And many Hindoos who have seen my dance have said that it is wonderful for one who has never been in India to have been able to evolve so correct an interpretation of the mysticism of the Hindoo people.

Miss Ruth St. Denis, whose Hindoo temple dances have created such a sensation in New York this winter, reclined gracefully upon a couch in her apartment and rolled her blue eyes dreamily toward the ceiling.

Neither Miss St. Denis nor the apartment looked particularly Hindoo. I had looked forward to meeting a person swathed in East Indian scarves and seated upon a rug with a ring in her nose and jingling anklets and bracelets.

Instead I was presented to a very American young person who wore practical everyday garments and spoke with an animation and intelligence that characterize the Yankee maid alone. The "Hindoo" of the Temple was still the Ruth of private life. A couch with many cushions, it is true, furnished somewhat of a background for a substitute Oriental floor posture. A little tinzel jacket was hung across a screen, and two queer tomaton arrangements—evidently the Hindoo musical instruments which have furnished the spur to Miss St. Denis' Hindoo imaginations—gave the only Oriental touches to an otherwise completely occidental apartment. Miss St. Denis resides very far west on Forty-second street. One could not help wondering why under the circumstances she had not chosen an east side apartment. It would have placed her in the very midst of Oriental atmosphere. Of course that would only have been for Hindoos, near-at-hand.

But even that would have seemed more inspiring than the bitingly Irish local color of West Forty-second street. "Always back in the beginning of things," confessed Miss St. Denis, "I lived in New Jersey."

She did not flinch at the thought, something of the boldness and independence which made her content to live with a tremor have, no doubt, been responsible for the success which she is beginning to have in her unique field.

"But even then," she continued, "I had determined to be a dancer. I believe that all sorts of things could be done in dancing that were not then, and are not now, being done. It seemed to me that here in America, at least, the art had been degraded to the uses of the show girl. I had no expression, no poetry, no nobility."

"But although I had a vague idea of what I wanted to do, it was not nearly definite enough to begin on. So despatching of striking a line that would really satisfy my desire I went into acrobatic dancing. I didn't like it. But there was demand for it and I decided as long as I had nothing more clear in my own mind I would go into it while I was waiting."

"Waiting," I asked.

"For my work," explained the dancer, "for the real thing which in my more hopeful moments I knew would come to me some day."

"I danced two years—acrobatic dancing, in the vaudeville houses and on the roof gardens. Then I went with Mr. Balsano's company. I was with Mrs. Carter four years. It was while I was out on the road with Mrs. Carter's company that my inspiration came."

"Of course it is hard to say exactly when a thing begins. I suppose it was coming all that time. I suppose I was gradually finding out what I wanted to do. But the flash which really showed me the way to begin came to me one day from a little picture. I was in a drug store, and the picture—an advertisement lithograph, tacked up on the wall, caught my eye. I pointed it out to the young woman who was with me.

"There," I said, "that is what I mean to do." She was also taken with it and it is she who has played the music for me to prepare these dances.

"What picture was it?" I inquired.

"That's a secret," said Miss St. Denis. "It was a picture of a dance, but not of the dance I'm doing now. I shall do that dance next when I have prepared it. I will bring out the little picture. I have kept it all this time.

"At first when I saw it in the drug store I dreamed to do that particular dance, which is not a Hindoo dance, but one of another Eastern nation. As we were then on the road I hunted the libraries of the towns we played. I found pictures and descriptions. I read about the life and customs of the people. After I had formulated plans for that dance and had it pretty well worked out, I found it would be very expensive for me to put on without a backer.

"It was then that I turned to the Hindoo dance. I thought it would prove less expensive to put on than the other would have been. It hasn't proved so. But it has proved very effective. I had again to resort to libraries and picture galleries and Hindoo collections."

Miss St. Denis paused sadly.

"And," she added, "I had to begin hunting up Hindoo."

"Was that hard?" I asked.

"You have no idea how few Hindoos there are in New York," said the dancer. "I did very well when it came to advice and they would play for me on their musical instruments and tell me how to perfect my dance, but when it came to working I found that there were only six Hindoos in New York who need work. All the others are students or merchants or enjoying independent incomes.

"Of course there was a real Hindoo troupe at Coney Island and I learned lots from them. But they were home again and there were only six left.

"When at last succeeded in getting a dance on at Proctor's I engaged three of these men as priests. You see I need the priests for atmosphere.

"Two were Hindoo and one a Mohammedan. Would you believe that although I paid them an enormous salary, they formed a union!

"The Hindoo were meek, but the Mohammedan was determined and they had me cornered. But I refused to be unionized. 'No,' I said, 'I will engage individual Hindoos. I will not treat with a union.'

"They thought I couldn't do without them, and I didn't want to, but when they acted like union men I engaged mulattos. The Hindoo never thought of that, and when they saw how well the mulattos did they came back very meek indeed. It only served to show me, however, how few available Hindoos there are in New York."

Miss St. Denis' principal dance is that of the Hindoo Temple Idol. The curtain rises on the temple, the idol in her niche and the prostrate priests. Then the idol is inhabited by a living spirit and the first position assumed in the dance shows the slow and stately awakening. Following come four divisions of the dance expressive of the four seasons; for sight, the jewel dance; for smell, the flower dance; for taste, the bowl of wine; and for touch, the kiss. Then comes the last movement of the dance, when the spirit, discovering the pleasure of the senses to be unsatisfying, frees itself by force heaven. At the very last the curtain rises once again on the idol seated in her niche.

The entire dance, costume, accessories and movements, is original with Miss St. Denis. "And what are you going to do next?" I asked.

"Give some matinees here, if I can, and then go to London. There I know the balls will have me if the matinee people won't."

Besides the special matinees which she gives, Miss St. Denis is in great demand for private house entertaining. She has had many requests to dance at fashionable houses in New York, Boston and Philadelphia. At present she is giving a series of special matinees Tuesday afternoons at the Hudson Theatre.

MALE CHOIR NOW

Easter Music in Cathedral Under Changed Conditions.

At pontifical high mass and vespers in the Cathedral yesterday the singing was sung by a male voice choir for the first time. Much interest had been taken in the approaching change and it was generally conceded after the services that the result was satisfactory. In the morning the solemn tones of the Gregorian chants were in marked contrast to the masses to which the congregation reacted rather pleased comment though regret that the voices of the ladies are to be heard no more.

At vespers the choir chanted the Psalms, the Benedictus, O Salutaris and the Tantum Ergo, sang two Eucharistic hymns with good effect.

At present no distinction is made between tenor and bass, the singing is in unison, but as the new choir increases in numbers and experience a division of the voices will be made, and boys' voices added. The choir now consists of the following twelve members: T. M. Burns, Jos. Stanton, John Lawlor, Edmund S. Riddell, Dr. T. H. Lannan, J. Percy Lemley, Arthur Godsoe, G. Stanton, John Stanton, F. O'Regan, William Wallace and W. M. L. D. Landry, who has been named director and organist for a number of years, continue in charge and is training the new choir.

PREDICTS LITTLE SUPPORT FOR LORD'S DAY BILL

Alphonse Verville, M. P., Declares That Measure as it Now Stands Will Not Get 20 Votes in House.

Montreal, April 15.—(Special)—In an address Saturday night to a gathering of Canadian laborers, Alphonse Verville, labor M. P. for Maisonneuve, said that not twenty members of the house of commons would vote for the Fitzpatrick Lord's Day bill, as it now stands. The bill, he added, would probably be an ineffective one, when the committee to whom it was referred brought it back to the house.

A MONTREAL KICK ABOUT ST. JOHN WORKMEN

Longshoremen Protest to Shipping Federation About Bringing Them to Work During Summer Season.

Montreal, April 15.—(Special)—Officials of the Montreal Longshoremen's Union are protesting against the practice of stevedores and shippers bringing men from St. John and Portland to work during the summer months. They point out a discrimination whereby Montrealers no sooner start work in St. John than they are held up by a subsidized policeman and compelled to pay a $7.50 tax while St. John workmen pay no taxes in Montreal unless they are householders. The longshoremen here have brought the matter before the shipping federation.

MONTREAL EXCURSIONISTS HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Montreal, April 15.—(Special)—The engine of a train with Easter excursionists jumped the rails and dropped a 20 foot embankment shortly after leaving Place Viger Saturday afternoon. Eight passenger cars remained on the rails but the tender and baggage cars were dragged off the rails but remained on their trucks. The engine went down with engineer and fireman in the cab but the engine landed on its trucks and the men escaped injury. A shovel dropped on the track by a construction gang was the cause of the accident.

SEVEN KILLED IN EXPLOSION ON U. S. WARSHIP

Charge of Powder for Thirteen Inch Gun Ignited in Turret

Washington, April 14.—The navy department has received word of a serious accident on the battleship Kearsarge while she was engaged in target practice today near Cuba. An explosion occurred in one of the forward turrets and a number of men are reported to have been killed.

Lieut. John M. Hudgins and five men were killed and one officer and a number of men slightly injured. The accident occurred yesterday at the conclusion of practice in the forward turret of the Kearsarge, as the powder was being taken down.

The official account of the disaster is contained in the following telegram from Admiral Evans:

Campana, April 14, 1906 Secretary Navy, Washington: On April 13th, about 6.15 p. m., shortly after completion of target practice of Kearsarge forward turret while the powder was going below three sections of a thirteen inch charge of powder were ignited. Charge of powder in other turret was blown later and one section inside 13-inch remained intact. Cause not yet determined, not accountability. Matter to be investigated. Lieut. Jos. W. Graeme, gun umpire, has been sent to the Maryland in a very critical state about 9 p. m.

The following have since died: Lieut. Hudgins, turret officer; Peter Morberg, gunner's mate; Theodore Nagelski, seaman; Anton O. Thomson, ordinary seaman; Julius A. Koester, turret captain, first class; Ellis H. Aldrey, seaman, first class; W. King, ordinary seaman. Will bury dead at Guantanamo. Vessel uninjured.

The residences and next of kin of the victims were as follows: Norberg, Peter, gunner's mate, third class; residence New York, next of kin, Margara, Norberg, mother, Sandwall, Norway. Nagelski, Theodore, seaman, residence Elizabeth (N. J.), next of kin, Louis Graf, guardian, 864 Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth (N. J.)

Thomson, Anton O., ordinary seaman, residence New York; next of kin, Elias Thomson, father, Wyckoff avenue, Broadway, New York. Koester, Julius Alfred, turret captain, first class; residence Chicago (Ill.), next of kin, John Peterson, uncle, 545 West Huron street, Chicago.

Aldrey, Ellis Homer, seaman, residence Parkersburg (W. Va.), next of kin, W. Aldrey, father, 1008 Twenty-first street, Parkersburg (W. Va.)

The following dangerously injured by accident: King, William, ordinary seaman, residence Appleton City (Mo.), next of kin, Mrs. Alice Cox, Appleton City (Mo.)

The following message of condolence was telegraphed to the commander-in-chief of the fleet, Admiral Evans, by Acting Secretary Newbery: April 14, 1906.

"Evans, Maine, Naval Station, Campana." "The department is deeply grieved by the unfortunate accident which occasioned the death and injury in the performance of duty of brave officers and men in the navy and it extends its heartfelt sympathy to the injured and wishes for a speedy recovery from their wounds. Spare no effort to ease the sufferings of the injured in every possible manner and show honor to the dead.

"NEWBERY." Lieut. Graeme, who was mentioned as being in a very critical state at the time the cablegram was sent, has since died, did not belong to the company of the Kearsarge. He was attached to the Maryland and was aboard the Kearsarge in the capacity of an umpire to check off and score the performance of the gunners, a very necessary performance in view of the keen spirit of rivalry pertaining on board the battleship during target practice.

The Kearsarge, while not one of the latest, is regarded as one of the best battleships in the American fleet. She is commanded by Captain Winslow, is of 11,200 tons displacement, is 375 feet in length, 72 feet in breadth and 23 feet draught, with a speed of 18.2 knots, and a battery of twenty-two guns, four inches and more in calibre and 34 guns below that size. She was launched in 1888 and commissioned in 1900.

Lieut. John M. Hudgins, who lost his life by the explosion on the Kearsarge, was a native of Virginia.
