While it has been named a skating party, it is not necessary that contestants be on skates. As to costume, some suitable sport outfit is preferable, as the selection of Miss Canada will be made in that manner, but it will not be insisted upon on Saturday afternoon.

opinion of the executive committee of the Winter Sports that the original idea of keeping the names of the judges secret would be impracticable and unsatisfactory.

LEAPS TO DEATH
FROM BIG LINER

Brooklyn Man Leaves Note Saying He is Sick and
"Cannot Stand This Any Longer"—Wife Notified
by Wireless.

New York, Jan. 26.—When the White Star liner Celtic arrived recently from Liverpool and Queenstown with 800 passengers of all classes, Purser T. L. Evans reported that Thomas Tompkins, fifty-nine years old, of 188 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, disappeared from the ship sometime on Wednesday night. He left a note in his cabin which read: "I am too sick and tired to stand this any longer. Please notify my wife." There were two valises containing his effects, but no papers of any kind were found, the purser said. Tompkins had been abroad for some time, he told acquaintances on the ship. He was last seen at 6.30 p. m. Wednesday, taking a cocktail with two other passengers. He did not appear for dinner, and it was thought he had gone to bed early. When the steward knocked at the cabin door the following morning there was no response. The bed had not been slept in, and the note, addressed to the purser, was lying on the settee. Mrs. Tompkins, the widow, had been notified by wireless and was at the pier to claim her husband's effects.

Among the passengers who embarked at Queenstown were the Rev. Father Denis J. Wilson of Winona, Minn., and Thomas Donoghue of Cork. Father Wilson went to Ireland last summer for a visit and joined the Free State army as a chaplain. He was detained to the prison in Cork, where 500 republicans were confined. Among them Donoghue, who managed to escape with thirty others, and got safely on board the Celtic. While the ship was still in the harbor, Donoghue went into the dining room for breakfast and saw Father Wilson with several Free State officers who had come to see him off. Donoghue was in his cabin until the vessel was well out of the harbor.

Another passenger was the Rev. H. R. L. Sheppard, rector of the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Charing Cross, London, one of the oldest churches in the British metropolis. It faces Trafalgar Square, where so many homeless persons sleep at the base of Nelson's columns when the weather is fine. In his cabin until the vessel was well out of the harbor.

Dr. Sheppard, who was chaplain to Queen Victoria, said that his church was kept open day and night all the year round, and while he did not approve of its use as a common lodging house, he believed it was doing good as a refuge for the poor. "If anything is stolen," he said, "the good Christians in the congregation can make up for it." He declined to comment on the Dr. Grant controversy, and said that he would take care to keep out of all discussions on the subject.

Dr. Sheppard was met at the pier by the Rev. Karl Reiland of St. George's Church, Stuyvesant Square, who invited him to America to be the guest of the church for a month. Dr. Sheppard will preach his first sermon in America at St. George's next Sunday.

SLEIGH DRIVE AND SOCIAL

A party of about 130 members of the St. John the Baptist Young Men's Society and their friends, enjoyed a sleigh drive and social on Wednesday night. It took three large sleighs to accommodate the party and to the tune of horns and other instruments of musical melody the journey was made to the Three Mile House and back to the society's rooms in the parish building in St. James street. Refreshments were served and games and amusements were indulged afterwards.
The outing and social were thoroughly enjoyed and the new society proved themselves efficient in arranging an evening of pleasure. Mr. and Mrs.
Daniel Doyle were the chaperones and the men's committee which arranged for the evening's programme consisted of Stephen Daley, J. Butler, Edmund Lowe and Frank Hurley. The refreshments were in charge of a committee of ladies consisting of Mrs. Thomas Killen, Mrs. J. McCarthy, Mrs. F.
Doyle, Miss M. Johnson, Mrs. A. Mc-Carthy, Miss Margaret Driscoll and others.

Slayer Says He Doesn't Even Know
Why He Shot His Friend.

Yorktown, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Coroner Fred A. Snowden of Peekskill was called to Yorktown Heights today to investigate the killing of Jacob Cassen-berg, aged sixty, who was shot yesterday in his home by William Warren, a resident of the neighborhood. The police said Warren confessed and said he was drunk and did not know why he did it.
He was overcome with grief when he learned his friend was dead. "I didn't mean to do it," was all he could say.

After killing the man with a rifle, Warren ran and fetched a member of the New York City aqueduct police who arrested him.

SALARY INCREASES

Matter Discussed at a City
Hall Meeting and Goes
Over to Later Session.

The matter of increases for civic employees occupied much of the time of the Common Council yesterday afternoon but nothing tangible was arrived at. All the commissioners favored increases but thought that any increases granted should be general and not confined to one department. Further consideration will be given the matter.

The estimate for the Workmen's Compensation Board for its department this year was $1,650. Last year, it was $2,224. This passed.

Payment of $6,255.29 for the work done in the Marsh Road in conjunction with the province, also passed.
A sum of $1,000 is included for the Rockwood Park grounds. This occasioned a considerable debate, during which it was revealed that some $15,000 had been spent on development of the grounds so far. The first amount spent was $5,000 in 1913, when a start had been made on draining the land. A bond issue of $10,000 was voted in 1920 and this also has been absorbed for drainage purposes.

G. H. Hatfield, the road engineer, who was present, said that by the end of this year, a good running track would be constructed and the field would be in shape for a general athletic meet.

An amount of $2,000 for the development of the new West Side playground was allowed to stand until the commissioners meet with a representation of west end citizens regarding this project. Commissioner Frink, replying to Commissioner Thornton, declared that none of the west side people had made any offers of assistance in the development. He remarked that the location chosen would require a considerable expenditure to put it in shape and that the $2,000 was included to get a start.

Commissioner Bullock declared that the West End Improvement League was not taking hold of the project.
In fact, there was some opposition to the present site not being the most suitable that could be obtained.

Commissioner Wigmore said he was rather surprised to hear that there was opposition. Other sections of the city had developed their playgrounds in co-operation with the city and he was sure that the west side people would assist. He suggested that, before passing the item, the west side league be communicated with to find out how far it was prepared to go in the matter.

Salary Increase

The item for salary increases then was presented to Commissioner Frink.
He explained that he had not received any requests for increases, but that he thought the officials he was recommending for an increase deserved
it. He recommended that the road engineer's salary be increased $250, making it $2,400, the street superintendent, $200 to $1,900; the assistant road engineer, $100 to $1,700. Also, that the chief clerk's salary be increased by $200 to $1,800, half to be borne by his department and half by Commissioner Bullock's department;

Commissioner Thornton, expressed surprise that these increases were prederstanding, he said, that no increases would be granted this year, and on that understanding he had made up his estimate. If other departments were to increase the salary item, he Commissioner Frink, said Commistive declaration that there must be an end to paying city laborers 75 cent a day more than laborers employed by private corporations. "Where is his recommendation to that effect?" asked Commissioner Thornton.

Commissioner Frink, replying, said that the city paid $3.25 a day to laborers, which was more than received by other laborers, it was true. Yet, he could not conscientiously recommend a reduction as he was at loss to understand how these men supported their families on even this small wage. He did think that unmarried men might be paid $3 a day.

Commissioner Thornton reiterated that it should make no difference whether the laborer was married.
Commissioner Wigmore said that he had not received any requests for increases from his men, although there were several deserving cases. He was prepared to recommend increases but these increases must apply right down the line and not be confined to the officials.

Commissioners Bullock and Mayor
Fisher expressed similar sentiments.

SAYS HOLLY MAKES

Lawyer Gives Up Practice to Develop Properties of the Christmas Plant—Also a Tobacco Substitute.

New York, Jan. 26.—Holly, heretofore limited to Christmas decoration, contains properties of great commercial value, according to Stephen M. Hoye, corporation lawyer and chemist of 694
Sixth street, Brooklyn, who announced that liquid soap, alcohol, tobacco substitute, cattle fodder and medicinal remedies could be produced from the green leaf. Mr. Hoye said he was convinced that $1,000,000 would be a conservative estimate of the annual commercial value of the holly plant, which grows in profusion, particularly in the South.

"Saying that he had given up a $40,- 000 a year income from his law practice to devote himself to the study of holly,
Mr. Hoye told how he had experimented for the past ten years with the plant. The study was inspired, he said, by a talk with a Brazilian official, during which the latter told of a beverage with stimulating qualities which Brazilians made by steeping the leaves of holly in water.

"It occurred to me that the holly must contain medicinal qualities," Mr.
Hoye said. "I sent some leaves to the New York State College of Agriculture, Cornell University, for analysis. I received a report from Professor George W. Kavanagh which showed that holly had 14.66 per cent. in protein and 18.58 per cent. fats. These figures were higher than for such grains as barley, oats, corn and rye.
Wheat, for example, contains two per cent. fats and one per cent. Holly contains six times more protein than wheat.

"I found that a substitute for alcohol could be extracted, as well as liquids of medicinal value in treating diabetes and kidney trouble. Liquid soap and tablets containing all the food elements of a dinner are by-products.
The pulpy residue, when shredded, can be made into a filler for cigarettes and cigars. I have been handing out cigarettes with holly substitute within the wrapper to friends, who say they could not detect the presence of the leaf. The residue also constitutes an excellent fodder for cattle and chickens.
I know a man on Long Island who is feeding his chickens holly pulp with good results."

Mr. Hoye was graduated from Yale in 1898. He has been counsel for several banking and railroad corporations.
TRAIN HITS FIRE LADDER.
Men Fighting Brooklyn Store, Blast
Had Just Climbed Off It.

New York, Jan. 26.—Five firemen narrowly escaped injury yesterday when a Bay Ridge train knocked down two ladders which had been propped against the elevated structure near Fifty-first Street and Third Avenue, Brooklyn, while the department was fighting a fire that burned out five stores at 5102-5-110 Third Avenue.

The total snowfall for the first twenty-five days of the month of January was thirty-five inches, which makes the grand total for the season seventy-six inches, or six feet and four inches.
In the war of 1812, the U. S. lost fewer than 1600 men.

BEATS HORSE WITH HATCHET, FINED $25

New York, Jan. 26—Because he beat his horse with a hatchet, Samuel Feder, twenty-three years old, of 223 East Nineteenth street, a peddler, was yesterday fined $25 by Magistrate William A. Sweetser in Yorkville Court. The complaint was made by Harry Howard, an agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, on information furnished by Mrs. Lily Goult, of 223 East Twenty-first street, who said she saw Feder beat his horse with the hammer end of a hatchet on Jan. 12 in Twenty-first street, Feder pleaded guilty.

LIQUOR CASES.

The case in which John Bossep is charged with having liquor in his house for illegal purposes was to have come up again yesterday afternoon in the police court but it was postponed until this morning at 11.30 o'clock. Joseph Murphy, charged with having liquor in his possession in other than his private dwelling, was brought before the Magistrate again yesterday afternoon and fined $50 for having the liquor in his possession illegally and $8 for being drunk. As he was unable to pay the fines he was remanded to jail. The case of Arthur Paradise, charged with supplying liquor, was postponed until next Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock for judgment.

New York, Jan. 26—The presence of the United States in the League of Nations would help to suppress the drug evil, said Mrs. Mary Lilly, superintendent of the Correction Hospital at Welfare Island, speaking to the Women's Democratic Club last evening at the John S. Curry headquarters, 418 West Fifty-seventh street. "Most of the opium coming into the United States," she said "comes from poppies grown in India and Persia. I do not blame this on the British, but I say that it is their problem as well as ours to fight the drug evil. I think that

A NEW PREMIER.

The announcement that Hon. W. E. Foster is to resign his office as Premier will be heard with surprise as well as regret throughout the province. Even his supporters in the house who were called together in conference last night did not anticipate this result.

It is declared also that there is discrimination against Canadian ports on Georgian Bay and Lake Erie and in favor of Buffalo. The Standard Shipping Company is said to have complete control of the chartering of vessels on the Upper Lakes for the Canada Steamship Company.

The Preston report makes this obvious comment on the situation: "The existence of a monopoly or combine operating or controlling for its personal profit the transportation facilities upon the main waterway over which must be carried the bulk of the natural products of the western provinces would levy a special burden upon the agricultural life of the west, constitute a menace to the settlement and expansion of the prairie provinces, and also restrict general trade, with serious consequences to the entire commercial, industrial and financial life of the Dominion."

Hon. Mr. Foster, in retiring, has the satisfaction of knowing that during the period of his leadership the Province has been given more progressive legislation than in perhaps any like period in its history, and that his retirement is universally regretted. There have been no scandals, no charges of wrongdoing in office against any member of the Government.

Hon. P. J. Veniot comes to the premiership with strong qualities of leadership and a remarkable capacity for work. No Minister of Public Works in the Province has ever worked harder or accomplished as much in a given period. He is one of the most formidable debaters in the house.

PROVINCIAL FINANCES.

The financial statement of the province for the last fiscal year shows a surplus of $70,576.02 on current revenue account. There is the usual large deficit on Valley Railway account, but this charge cannot be set over against the ordinary revenue or regarded as an item to be paid out of revenue.

While the territorial revenue last year showed a large falling off, the outlook for the current year is bright, and this year's receipts will be much nearer normal. The receipts from succession duties were large last year, but the item concerning which there has been and will be most discussion is the large revenue from liquor, amounting to considerably more than half a million dollars.

Looking to the future it is worthy of note that there was a surplus on current revenue account last year, the recent sale of bonds shows the credit of the province to be very high, and the territorial revenue this year will be so much larger than with reasonable economy the position will be excellent.

IS THERE A COMBINE?

Is there a shipping combine on the Great Lakes? A Royal Commission will get the facts. The Toronto Globe says: "A report submitted to the Government by Mr. W. T. R. Preston states that such a combination of Canadian shipping companies exists, and that it exercises a dominating influence over

WINTER VALLEY.

(Louise Deiseoll, in New York Times) My home is set on a hilltop; A narrow valley lies, Holding a little river; The wild duck flies And dips to wild rice marshes.

At dawn the mist in the valley Lies like an opal fire, Catching a rainbow radiance As the sun comes higher.

HON. W. E. FOSTER.

Hon. Walter Edward Foster, Premier of New Brunswick since April 4, 1917, has led the Liberal party in the New Brunswick Legislative Assembly through six sessions, a period surpassed in length only by Hon. L. J. Tweedie, premier from 1900 to 1907.

Mr. Foster was born at St. Martins, April 9, 1874, and was educated at the St. John public and grammar schools. He was in the service of the Bank of New Brunswick from 1889 to 1899, when he became a member of the firm of Vassie & Co., Ltd., wholesale dry goods merchants, St. John.

HON. PETER J. VENIOT.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis
Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 216.
SUCCESSFUL BROADCAST RECEPTION.

In the early days of broadcasting, when the transmitting stations were few and far between, little difficulty was experienced by the receiving operator in "tuning in" a particular station without interference from other broadcasting stations. Stress was laid upon the SENSITIVITY of receivers and little or no attention was paid to the degree of selectivity obtainable. It was merely necessary to have the receiver capable of responding to 300 meters without suffering interference from amateurs on 200 meters and commercial stations on 600 meters.

The enormous increase in the number of broadcasting stations, until the number reached several hundred, has resulted in the assignment of an additional wave length for broadcasting purposes. Broadcasting is now conducted on the wave lengths of 300 and 400 meters with 485 meters used for weather broadcasts. Tests have demonstrated that two stations may operate simultaneously, one on 300 meters and one on 400 meters without interfering with one another. WHEN THE RECEIVER IS PROPERLY MANIPULATED. In the immediate vicinity of two such stations difficulty may be experienced in differentiating between these two wave lengths, especially when the receiver is of the single circuit crystal type. Receivers having variable coupling between the antenna circuit and the detector circuit render a much greater degree of selectivity possible. This fact may be noted on any two or three circuit receiver by "tuning in" the 300 meter station with loose coupling and then tightening the coupling which will bring in the 400 meter station as well.

Another important factor in obtaining selectivity in the receiving system is the antenna. The coil or loop antenna gives very great selectivity and strong signals when employed with several stages of amplification. The amateur of limited means, however, must seek other methods of increasing the sharpness of tuning obtainable with his receiver.

The average amateur erects as high and as long a receiving aerial as his geographical location and his pocketbook will permit, on the theory that the greater the dimensions of the antenna the stronger will be the signals. This is true, a large antenna will bring in all the signals but considerable difficulty will be experienced in selecting any particular station and tuning out the others. In order to obtain sharp tuning an antenna of moderate size should be used. For example, a single wire 75 feet long and 80 feet high in connection with a good loose coupler or other two circuit receiver gives fairly good selectivity.

While it is true that the strength of the signals heard on a small aerial will not be as great as with the 300 or 400 foot wire, the operators will find more satisfaction in being able to tune out unwanted stations than in listening to a bedlam of noise from a number of stations. Operators at points distant from transmitting stations may find the long wire necessary in order to hear the desired station but operators in the same city where there are several stations operating on different wavelengths, at once, will appreciate the degree of selectivity which may be obtained with the antenna of smaller dimensions.

The commercial operator must get his messages through on 600 meters and there are thousands of ships and shore stations all using the same wavelength. He learns to adjust his circuits and coupling so as to reduce interference to a minimum, that is part of his work. The broadcast listener must follow his example.

RECENT DEATHS

William B. Rogers.

William B. Rogers, who had passed the century mark more than four ago, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Gamble, at Musquash, on Wednesday. Mr. Rogers was in his 103rd year and had been born at Mace's Bay, where he had lived for the greater part of his life. He was a fisherman and had followed this calling until a few years ago when he went to Musquash to reside with his daughter. He had been an extremely active man and retained all his faculties until two years ago when he suffered from paralysis. Since that time his memory failed. He smoked and enjoyed his pipe until the last.

He is survived by one son, Charles, of Mace's Bay, and three daughters, Mrs. James Logie, of Oranmore; Mrs. Brunswick Slocum, of Jenseg, and Mrs. George Gamble, of Musquash.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at Musquash.

Sister St. Charles Spinola.

The death of Sister St. Charles Spinola, formerly Miss Annie McIntyre of Tignish, P.E.I., occurred at St. Mary's Academy, Newcastle, last Monday. She entered the novitiate of the Sisters of the Congregation de Notre Dame, Montreal, in August 1921 and received the habit in February 1922. She was twenty-two years of age and had been in ill health for some time. Her funeral was held Wednesday morning.

HUGE DREDGE RAISES COPPER LOST 3 YEARS
Mud-Covered Ingots Lost When Lighter Was Sunk in the Bay Are Being Fished Up.

New York, Jan. 26—For more than a week one of the largest bucket digging dredges of the Merritt & Chapman Derrick and Wrecking Company has been anchored in the main ship channel, between Governors and Ellis Islands, salvaging copper bars which have been lying under ninety-three feet of water for three years since a lighter was sunk by the United States transport Buford. The copper, which belongs to the Government, is worth about $150,000. Divers searched the channel for two years before they could locate it.

The pigs are of two sizes, weighing 140 pounds and 260 pounds respectively. The first were brought up on Dec. 14. Since then nearly 400 have been recovered. Buckets hoist up the ingots covered with mud which is washed off at the depot of the wrecking company. They then are sent by motor truck to the Government warehouse.

QUICK WIT PREVENTS PANIC
"Movie" Fans Unaware of Film Fire as Operator Continues Program.

New York, Jan. 26—The quick wit of George Maurs, film operator in Loew's Metropolitan Theatre, Brooklyn, prevented a panic among the 3,000 persons in the theatre yesterday afternoon when a reel of film he was adjusting in the projecting room caught fire. Mauro threw the blazing film into a sink of water near at hand and continued operating his machine, while an alarm in an alarm. The arrival of the fire apparatus attracted a large crowd in front of the theatre, but the excitement side. The apparatus departed after the firemen learned there was no need for their services. The picture that held the audience to what was transpiring ended there and did not penetrate in the projecting room, was a comedy.

At a meeting and social of Main street Baptist church choir held last evening at the home of W. H. White, Douglas avenue, presentations were made to Miss Ethel Parlee and Miss Elva Carpenter who are severing connections with the choir.

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1923

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE REPLIES TO COUE

St. John, Jan. 22, 1923.
Editor Times-Star:
Sir—In your issue of January 20 a quotation is made from a sermon concerning Christian Science which requires correction. And as the papers in St. John have always been willing to make corrections concerning Christian Science, I am sending this clipping which explains authoritatively its position in regard to Dr. Emil Coue and his teaching of Auto-suggestion.
Thanking you in advance for your space in the Times for this correction, I am yours truly,
Mary E. Peterson,
Committee on Publication for New Brunswick.

The quotation was as follows:—"Mr. Coue has helped us to discover one of these higher laws through the use of which, by the grace and help of God, we can work miracles. We can all afford to abuse and belittle him. His law explains the little good which Christian Science and New Thought and many similar cults have been doing, robbing the church of credit and leaving the church to lose the right kind of power which it might more wisely and effectively employ."
Following is the official Christian Science reply to M. Coue:

In compliance with a request for a statement as to the attitude of Christian Scientists towards M. Coue and his visit to this country, I will say that while we sharply disagree with this form of treatment, nevertheless, we recognize it as a right of everyone to employ the practitioner of his choice; therefore, we have no word of condemnation either for Dr. Coue or those who care to experiment with his system of healing. We do object, however, to having his teachings confused with those of Christian Science.

In way of explanation, I will say that the teachings and practice of Christian Science as set forth in the writings of its discoverer and founder, Mary Baker Eddy, are directly opposite to those employed by Dr. Coue. The latter, as an example, is based wholly upon the belief in minds many, and the power of one mind over another; whereas, Christian Science teaches that there is but one Mind, infinite and divine, called God, even "that Mind which," according to the Scriptures, "was also in Christ Jesus."

Again, Christian Science does not heal by means of psychotherapy or suggestion; and no more does it require, as is the case with the French physician and hypnotist, the constant repetition of specially formulated phrases by those who turn to it for help. In fact, it specifically prohibits the use of formulas and classifies all forms of suggestion as activities of the carnal mind of which sin and its resultant states, sickness and death, are effects. Christian Science actually holds, therefore, that since the seeming cause of disease obtains in the carnal mind which, as Paul tells us, is the source of death and enmity against God, its cure must come not, as Dr. Coue teaches, through the enforcement of the corporeal will itself a product of this mind, but from the natural operation of the corrective and curative power of divine Mind in human consciousness before which all phases of sin and disease yield as readily and inevitably as darkness gives way to light.

The Christian Scientist, striving to emulate the example of Christ Jesus, earnestly prays. Not my will, but Thine, be done; realizing that blessings are obtainable only by full and complete submission to the will of God. Furthermore, the primal object of treatment in Christian Science is to improve the individual morally and spiritually. While suggestion and hypnotic methods of mental healing have no religious element but look merely to the physical betterment.
In drawing a distinction between the operation of Christian metaphysics, as taught and practiced by her and the various systems of mental therapy based on a belief in the power of human will, Mrs. Eddy has stated the case most clearly on p. 144 of Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures. "Human will-power is not Science. Human will belongs to the so-called material senses, and its use is to be condemned. Willing the sick to recover is not the metaphysical practice of Christian Science."

Sincerely yours,
(Sgd) CHARLES E. HEITMAN,
Christian Science Committee on Publication.

GRIP EPIDEMIC SPREADING.

South Most Affected, but Nearly Every State Has Cases.
Washington, Jan. 24.—An epidemic of grip, believed to have some connection with the influenza epidemic of 1918-1919, is sweeping the country, according to reports received by the Public Health Service. Although nearly every state already has been embraced in the territory affected, the disease thus far has shown none of the serious developments of its predecessor, specialists declared, and the resulting fatalities have been few.
Based on health reports for the week ended Jan. 18, the epidemic was said to have been most severe in the Southern States, Mississippi alone reporting 2,350 cases from the districts covered by the official survey. Alabama had 2,152 cases and South Carolina 1,842.
Officials here recognized in the symptoms recorded by attending physicians, some of those apparent in the epidemic of grip which for two or three successive years followed the severe influenza wave of 1919.
Physicians practicing in sections where the grip outbreak is widespread will be allowed to prescribe more medicinal liquors than usual. It was said today by Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Jones. Such physicians who hold licenses for prescribing liquor to patients, he said, can secure, if desired, prescription blanks in excess of the ordinary limit.

FINED AFTER FIRING 5 SHOTS TO GET HELP AT BIRTH OF SON
New York, Jan. 24.—Salvatore Marcascio of 105 Columbia street, Brooklyn, was fined $25 for having in his possession a revolver after Justice McInerney, Salmon and Edwards in the Court of Special Sessions had congratulated him upon becoming the father of a ten-pound boy.
Marcascio was arrested on Christmas Day after he had fired six shots from the window of his home. He told the court that his wife had suddenly become desperately ill and that he feared to leave her. His shots had the desired effect, and when a policeman responded an ambulance took the woman to the Long Island College Hospital. Her son was born soon afterward.

While the excuse for shooting into the air was adequate, the court held it was no good reason for the possession of the gun.

DRUG ARRESTS INCREASE.

U. S. Official Reports 65 Per Cent. Rise For Last Six Months of 1922.
Washington, Jan. 24.—A report showing an increase of 65 per cent. in the number of arrests for drug law violations in the second half of 1922 over corresponding period in the preceding year was made public recently by James E. Jones, assistant prohibition commissioner.
During the five months ending last November, the report stated, there were 1,491 drug cases brought to the courts and the convictions were 100 per cent. "These figures, however," it added, "do not mean any great increase in drug addiction, but rather of increased activity of prohibition agents. Undoubtedly, though, there has been a decided increase in addition following the war, due, for the most part, it is believed, to injudicious use of narcotic drugs by

FREAK LEGISLATION.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 26.—The speaker of the New Hampshire Legislature protested against the introduction of "freak legislation" today after four bills had been presented to the House. One bill would make eight hours sleep in twenty-four compulsory; another provided for the appointment of a commission to investigate all homes to determine whether they were happy. A third measure would enact that no woman shall marry her grandmother's son. The fourth would ordain that the Ku Klux Klan must not call meetings unless authorized by the Kliegau.

The Montclair entertainers gave an enjoyable concert in the Seaman's Institute last night before a full house and were ably assisted by Mrs. Seelye, and by Mr. Frank J. King and W. Roberts of the Manchester Exchange. Every item received an encore and J. Young and G. Ford were recalled several times. The programme follows: Piano solos, M. J. Pratt; songs, G. Ford, Mrs. Seelye, J. Young; comic songs, J. Young; imitations of various instruments, J. King; step dances, Mr. Roberts; accordion and piano duets, Messrs. King and Roberts. Accompanists were P. J. TALK SALARIES AT CITY HALL

Mayor for Increases in the Financial Department

Discussion Ensues and There is to be Report on All Salaries—Water and Sewerage Estimates Taken Up.

The consideration of estimates was again the order of the day when the Common Council met in committee this morning. Water and sewerage department figures were presented by Commissioner Wigmore. Consideration was not completed. There was some further discussion on the matter of increases for civic employees and the Mayor announced that he intended to recommend increases for every member of the finance department. This precipitated a slight flurry. In the discussion on the water department estimates Commissioner Wigmore announced that he would have ready a recommendation as to an appointment of a superintendent of water and sewerage. The Mayor and all the commissioners were present.

Commissioner Frink said that the unemployment claim of last winter was ready and the matter of the Manawatch road work yet remained to be adjusted. The federal government had said it would not pay its share until assured by the city that the province had paid its share. Commissioner Wigmore said a thorough inspection of the work had been made. The government engineer had sent in a bill for about $14,848, which had been revised down to about $600. This was for road work. Some conferences had been held with B. M. Hill provincial engineer. He thought $600 was a reasonable charge and should be paid. He thought it small work on the part of the local government to hold up payment of a bill which it acknowledged because of a paltry $600 due it. A thorough adjustment of the whole lock joint pipe matter was being made.

Commissioner Thornton said the Lock Joint people were responsible for any damage done to the Manawatch road. He thought the people who sold it should be consulted. Commissioner Frink moved that the city pay to the provincial government the sum of $600 on the claim for damage to the road. Commissioner Wigmore seconded the motion.

Commissioner Thornton could not see why the thing was being rushed through. He moved that the matter be put on the table until the report of the committee on water and sewerage was received.

Commissioner Bullock said he thought they should have all the facts. The sum of about $34,000 was due the Lock Joint Pipe Co.

The motion was carried, Commissioner Thornton voting against it. Public works estimates again were considered. The Mayor said he had recommended increases all through the finance department which he would bring in. As yet they were not completed. The Mayor said he thought Henry Needham, bookkeeper in the public works department, should be put on the salary list instead of the pay-roll.

Commissioner Frink said he had a number of men who wanted to go on the salary list, and this would open the door. He moved that the matter of salaries be on the table. Commissioner Thornton said when the Mayor first came to city hall he was going to cut down the tax rate, and his intention to increase salaries did not look like it. Many city employees were up to the maximum provided by the city. This applied to the magistrate. The chief of police was underpaid. He would recommend an increase.

Commissioner Frink said the matter of increases had been a bone of contention for some time. The climax would be reached some time. Commissioner Thornton said he was willing to resign at once with the other commissioners and stand or fall by this question.

Commissioner Bullock said a climax would come only if extremists were resorted to. He thought some increases were due. He expressed surprise that the Mayor wanted to increase all the salaries in his department.

Commissioner Thornton said the Mayor had been against increases and now wanted to increase them. Commissioner Wigmore could not see why there should be any discrimination in the matter of proportion of increases. He also expressed surprise at the Mayor's stand. If this were followed out his estimates would be enlarged. At present there was class legislation proposed.

The Mayor said he could not see that this was class legislation. He thought that things had not settled down since the war as expected. He did not remember taking the lead in increases, but considered, in view of circumstances, that he was justified in recommending the increases.

Commissioner Wigmore thought a schedule should be drawn up and strictly adhered to.

Commissioner Thornton moved that each commissioner bring down figures showing exactly what the men in his department were paid, naming every man and the amount he received. The motion was carried.

Water Department. Water and Sewerage estimates were next taken up. Receipts for 1922 totalled $254,042.01 and expenditures $281,267.49 leaving an unexpended balance of $27,784.53. The estimate for 1923 was given as $280,000 for the water department, sewerage maintenance as $22,000 and for hydrants as $8,000, making a total estimate for the water and sewerage department of $280,000.

Commissioner Wigmore moved that the cost of labor on catch basins be made a matter of assessment amounting to about $7,000.

The motion was lost. Commissioner Wigmore then moved that sewer maintenance and hydrant maintenance be a charge on water revenue. The motion was carried.

Sufferin, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Fannie Leporetti, 6 years old, was killed instantly and several girls and boys were hurt when a bob-sled on which they were coasting on a steep hill at Mont-sey, near here, crashed into an automobile driven by Elwood Blanchard of the Sufferin Automobile Company. WIND BLEW AT 60 MILES AN HOUR

Hurricane in Early Hours This Morning.

Train Schedule Again Hard Hit as Roadway Snowed Up—Some Damage in the City—Valley Railway Affected.

The storm, which swept over this section of the country during the night, was considered from some aspects one of the worst of the season. Last evening the thermometer dropped and the rain which had been falling during the day turned to snow and a strong wind sprang up from the north west. It increased in velocity and between two and three o'clock this morning developed into a regular hurricane. At this time it was blowing sixty miles an hour and the falling snow was whirled into large drifts. The wind had only abated three miles an hour until between five and six o'clock when it registered forty-seven miles an hour and showed signs of clearing.

The Canadian National Railroad was hard hit by the storm and as a result their passenger train schedule was badly disrupted. Train No. 18 started for Halifax at 7:08 this morning, but was only able to get as far as Coldbrook and had to be cancelled. The Halifax suburban trip was in the city at 7:40 o'clock and the Sussex Express at 8:55 did not reach the city until 9:55. This was due to large drifts that covered the tracks from Highway to Coldbrook. Train No. 20, which left last evening for Moncton, was reported to be still at Apohaqui at 11 o'clock this morning.

Ploughs were rushed along the line, but owing to a coating of ice forming over the snow great difficulty was encountered in breaking them. A crew of 100 men were rushed along the line from Coldbrook on, early this morning and at some places they were forced to pick their way over the snow. No. 14, which was due to leave for Halifax at 1:40 this afternoon, was not expected to get away for some hours.

The C. P. R. reported their passenger trains running on time. During the storm late yesterday afternoon all freight movement was cancelled and ploughs were sent out ahead of all passenger trains. In this manner the lines were kept open.

Some damage was done in the wind storm. A chimney on the Greany house, Pitt and King St. East was blown down.

Valley Line Blocked. Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 26.—Traffic on the Canada Eastern division of the C. N. R. was tied up throughout the night as the result of a run-off north of Peniac, about half an hour after the express for Newcastle left Fredericton, and today traffic on the St. John Valley division between Fredericton and St. John is blocked as the result of a snow plow leaving the rails near Gunter's Station. The snow plow, locomotive, tender and all the rest of the train with the exception of the first class day coach left the rails in a run-off on the Canada Eastern at Peniac last night, the accident being caused when the plow struck a frog as the train was pulling out of the yard. No body was injured and the damage was not great but because of the coupling breaking between the locomotive and tender when the wrecking crew from Devon were pulling the wreckage back on the tracks the train had to remain in the yard. The express for Fredericton and the passengers were sent out on the regular train this morning for Newcastle.

TROPHY FOR THE CARNIVAL WEEK BOWLERS

Imperial Alleys Offer It—Bowlers Invited to Meet Monday Night.

Preparations were advanced this morning by H. J. Sheehan of the Carnival executive for the bowling tournament which will be a feature of Monday and Tuesday in Carnival time. The bowling tournament games will be contested on the Imperial Alleys and Mr. Porter, the proprietor, notified Mr. Sheehan today that he would donate a trophy to be awarded to the winning team in the tournament, the terms yet to be worked out. A large number of entries are expected for bowling interest is very keen in St. John and other parts of the province this year, and it will be well worth while for the team that wins the carnival honors.

Mr. Sheehan asks that representatives of all the bowling organizations meet him at the Carnival headquarters, Bank of Montreal building, on next Monday evening at eight o'clock to complete details for the tournament play. He hopes that there will be a representative attendance—the more the merrier—for the committee wishes to make the bowling feature a very attractive one for the followers of that lively game.

FORBIDS BIRTH CONTROL SESSION

Albany Mayor Bans Mrs. Margaret Sanger Meeting

Albany, Jan. 26.—William S. Hackett, Democratic Mayor of Albany, at 6 o'clock last evening, forbade Mrs. Margaret Sanger and the American Birth Control League to hold the second session of the day's conference in the Hotel Ten Eyck.

We got hold of a copy of the program of tonight's meeting, at which Mrs. Sanger was billed to speak on the need of birth control in America.

To the women themselves the Mayor made no explanation whatever. They heard the news from Harry B. Price, manager of the Hotel Ten Eyck, who came to them apologetically and told them that at the Mayor's command, he could not allow them to hold their meeting.

The afternoon session, which was attended by two patrolmen in uniform, three officers from the mayor, one from the corporation counsel's office, one from the health department, another from the department of public safety and several plainclothes men, as well as a stenographer from the Supreme Court, was allowed to proceed without interruption, and at the end of the session Mrs. Sanger and the women and Mrs. Sanger that the meeting had been entirely satisfactory to them and that they were very much pleased.

When Mrs. Sanger and her co-workers were informed of the Mayor's edict they at first looked for legal redress. "We had never had experience of this sort in many cities, and all we have to do is to get an injunction," said Mrs. Sanger.

Joseph J. Driscoll, a local lawyer, offered his services, but the local judges were consulted by telephone in vain. It was too important a matter to decide off-hand, they said, and there would not be time to examine the case fully before the hour of the meeting.

The Mayor says that he has long been an advocate of home rule, and he does not see how he can consistently interfere with what Mayor Hackett does, he announced.

"Citizens of Albany," she continued, "this is your fight, not mine. Do you want free speech in your town or not? If you do not want to force me to hear anything you do not want to hear, but if you do want to hear us, are you going to let any one interfere illegally with our meeting?"

"The same people who did it in New York," she said, "but I have a boy who is under the doctor's care and I am afraid the noise would disturb him. It is a shame. Maybe some one else has a house where we could go and hear Mrs. Sanger speak?" No one volunteered.

There was an effort to get permission to hold the meeting in the City Club, but this was denied by the president on the ground that the entire board of trustees should be consulted. Then Mrs. Sanger gave up. She urged all present to write letters of protest to the Mayor and to join the league.

"Who went to see the Mayor this afternoon?" she asked. "Who made him change his mind?" "The same people who did it in New York," she said.

Many Protest Meeting. It has been understood in Albany for several days that much pressure was being brought to bear on the Mayor to forbid this meeting.

Dean Larned said: "It would be an outrage to hold this birth control conference. It is an interference with Divine Providence."

Geneva, Jan. 26.—M. Viviani, president, has convened for Feb. 9, at Geneva, the commission of the League of Nations for the reduction of armaments.

A new and unique drawing contest, serving the twofold purposes of a business advertisement and the securing of a large and valuable mailing list, is being conducted most successfully by the Tyler Jewelry Company, of Enslay, Ala., a suburb of Birmingham.

The contest is an original idea of Mr. Tyler, but it can be used with equal success by a grocery, hardware, clothing store or any other kind of store, as well as by a jewelry store.

The contest opened on October 15, and Mr. Tyler said that in two weeks his firm had done an additional business of $2,000, due to this contest.

And the contest is most simple and inexpensive. It will close on December 22, and will not cost much over $200. The expense is about as follows:

Printer's bill about $ 50
Newspaper advertising about 75
Gold money prize 100
Total, $225

Mr. Tyler is of the opinion that the contest will bring to his firm from $8,000 to $10,000 worth of new business they would not have received but for the contest.

There is a printed registration card about 3 by 6 inches, containing a stub with a perforation. The registration card contains the name of the party registered, white or colored, married or single, number of children and ages and the address. The stub is printed and the person registered to keep this stub and receive a chance at the store every day on the drawing for $100 in gold.

When a person registers he is given a number which entitles him to one chance in the drawing for the $100 in gold. No one has to make a purchase in order to get a chance. All that is necessary is to visit the store in person. The chance ticket is also printed with a stub. Both stubs and tickets contain a duplicate number. The stub is placed in the voting box and the chance ticket given to the person registered.

"I have been engaged in business," Mr. Tyler said, "for many years, and I have never seen a better method of advertising than this. It is a simple, effective and inexpensive method of advertising that has never been used before. It is a method of advertising that has never been used before. It is a method of advertising that has never been used before."

POOR VISION IS BLAMED FOR CRIME

Investigator's Report Cite an Opinion by Municipal Judge in Philadelphia—Claims Haste Affects the Eyesight.

Many new developments in the work for the conservation of vision were revealed at the annual meeting of the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness at the Russell Sage Foundation Building, New York, on other day.

That poor vision is now being recognized as a contributing cause of crime was brought out in a report by Mr. Winifred Hatheway, secretary of the National Committee. Among various examples the report cites an opinion by Judge Charles L. Brown of the Philadelphia Municipal Court, in which poor vision is recognized as a factor causing delinquency.

The report states that in one instance a child was passing through the medical department of the court shows eye conditions as a factor in morality. The report stated that a considerable extent moral and business efficiency is now believed to depend upon safeguarding the eye against strain and accident.

Discussing the national situation with respect to blindness, the report says: "The recent prognostications which stirred up so much attention by the prophecy that within a hundred years every man, woman and child in the United States will be wearing glasses is not taken seriously by the National Committee, which claims that haste in the pace that kills is responsible for America's dismal outlook; that ophthalmologists shut out national vision; that our brilliant automobile lights and electric signs will steadily bring about a condition of poor eyesight."

"The National Committee on Blindness believes that the greatest safeguard against blindness is the eye. It is a public opinion which is gradually molded through sane legislation and wise education, the importance of which is being increasingly recognized and important part of every health undertaking."

The report points out that in the few years the number of cases of strabismus among the school children of New York City has been reduced from 8,798 to 846. This is taken to prove that it is impossible almost to wipe out this disease.

"It is surprising to find," says the report, "that the roller coaster of the sagittar cone in the cities that have long tried to hold to a constant health program."

Edward M. Van Vleet, director of the committee, in an address, said that Columbia University now offers the first course in the hygiene of the eye for training teachers to become instructors of sight conservation. Twenty-one persons enrolled as students this year.

"Eyes of children in schools must receive greater and more intelligent care," said Mr. Van Vleet. "Half of all the blindness in the United States today is unnecessary. Of the 100,000 persons who are blind in this country, half the number are needlessly deprived of their sight. Think what this means. Think of an intelligent country allowing 50,000 of its citizens to be deprived of sight unnecessarily."

Resolutions were adopted calling upon the president and governors of all states for legislation restricting the distribution of the eye for other than commercial purposes.

Another resolution urges that persons training to be teachers should be instructed in the hygiene of the eye with special reference to the conservation of vision and that more careful examinations of the eyes of pupils be made.

WAR MEMORIAL WOULD CHANGE WHOLE CASTLE ROCK OUTLINE

Scotsmen are indignant that famous shrine of Scottish history should be eclipsed by modern mass of masonry—urging change in location.

NO GENERATION HAS RIGHT TO MAR SITE

For several days recently the citizens of Edinburgh saw the Castle in a changed aspect.

There had been placed on the rocks a wooden erection, ordered by the Board of Trade to show the scale of a proposed war memorial. This model, an open framework of timber, does not give an accurate impression of the effect that will be produced by a solid stone structure. But it has been criticised in an adverse sense, because it entirely changes the familiar lines of the Castle, because it is altogether out of proportion to the old buildings, and because it introduces incongruous features in the architectural crown of the rock.

"No one, I suppose, will for a moment question Sir Robert Lorimer's ability as an architect," writes Mr. F. C. Cadell, 6 Ainslie Place, Edinburgh, to the Scotsman. "The idea of a central shrine with side chapels or dedicatory recesses is a very excellent one, but I do not agree that the Castle Rock is the place for it. Introduce a great mass of modern masonry like that, and you eclipse in solid stone the history of our race."

"What was the last war?" An indignant magistrate with nothing to do with Scotland in particular, and now we Scots are asked to approve of, and subscribe to, a memorial that will, from near and far, eclipse the old, small buildings replete with this nation's history, which stand, familiar, on the summit of the Castle Rock.

"I hope the citizens of Edinburgh will look well through the permanent wires at the temporary structure before they take the plunge." "There can be no doubt," writes Professor Sir Richard Lodge, Scotsman, "that the proposed war memorial, so much more lofty than any layman had expected, revolutionises the grouping of the buildings on the Castle Rock completely. And I doubt whether any generation has the right to alter in this way a view which has followed by time and by familiarity."

New Caliph Man of Charm and Culture

The sultan of Turkey has succeeded as caliph by his cousin, Prince Abdul Medjid. This is in accordance with the Turkish law of succession that the eldest male descendant of the Ottoman sultan succeeds to the throne.

The caliph is invested with absolute authority in all matters concerning the religious policy of the Mohammedans, who hold him to be a direct descendant of the prophet's family.

The new caliph, says the London Daily Mail, is considered in Constantinople to be the most popular member of the royal house of Ottoman, finding favor as much with the peoples as with the more intellectual classes.

He is fifty-four years of age and a son of Abdul Aziz, the sultan who, after paying a short visit to several western countries of Europe, observed upon his return to Constantinople: "I have nothing to learn from these states."

In appearance the caliph is short and stout, and his premature baldness is possibly due to constant wearing of the fez, both indoors and out, as prescribed by the Mussulman religion.

He has a fresh complexion, alert blue eyes, a slightly curved nose, and a display of gold-crowned teeth beneath a white moustache.

Unlike the majority of his stolid, unemotional fellow-countrymen, he appears to be active and energetic. He is enthusiastic, has much play of feature, and combines amiable courtesy with a brisk business-like manner.

He has never been permitted to leave Turkey, and many years of his life were spent in a palace-prison on the Bosphorus. His cousin, the notorious Abdul Hamid, relegated all possible aspirants to the throne to a place which, although lacking the actual iron bars of a prison, were effectual in restricting the movements of the inmates. Guarded, vigilant, he watched and spied upon, flight or actual communication with the outside world was rendered impossible.

During this period of seclusion the crown prince, as he then was, made among other things, a study of European history, and he is thus well informed concerning western systems of administration and political, economic and foreign policies. He is a professed Anglophile, and one of his greatest ambitions is one day to visit England.

AUNT MARIA WONDERS WHAT THE PEOPLE ON THE OTHER 'BUS ARE LAUGHING AT

THE VIOLIN IN SCOTLAND DISPLACED THE HARP

Interesting Story of the Appearance of the Violin in the Land of "Auld Reekie." Neil Gow's Contribution to the Dance Music of His Beloved Country is set out.

There is a considerable amount of mystery in connection with the early history and development of the violin in Scotland, writes J. L. Forrester in The Scotsman, and all attempts to find out its ancestry have invariably proved futile.

As far as I have been able to ascertain the harp was the earliest national instrument in Scotland. There was a school for harpists in Skye, intercourse with the Isles of the west, especially Iona, accounts for its early introduction from Ireland. This appears to have been about the end of the twelfth century.

In a very short time Scotland not only equalled but far excelled her mistress, Ireland, in the manipulation of this instrument. James I. was second to none as a well-skilled musician and singer. The transition period from harp to pipes appears to be close on two centuries. The pipes for the tumult and roar of battle gave it the easy supremacy over the harp. By its construction it is clearly a martial instrument, and the performer must have a carriage when using it, giving him a warlike appearance.

His claim as the Scottish national instrument rests entirely on its being an outside one.

The fiddle, when introduced gained the day as a house instrument and an unrivalled dance accompaniment. The earliest mention of it is in the sixteenth century, when Mary Queen of Scots was fiddled into Holyrood.

The first exponent of slow airs and dance music of the country was unquestionably Neil Gow (1727-1807). Born at Inver, near Dundee, he was intended to be a plaid weaver like his father, but showing an aptitude for stringed instruments at a very early age, his father indulged his precocity by getting him a "kit," or small-sized fiddle.

He gained the first prize at a contest when 13 years of age. A blind man was one of his judges, and his verdict was that he could distinguish the upstroke of Neil's bow among a hundred players. His portrait by Sir Henry Raeburn, which now hangs in the County Buildings, Perth, represents him holding his chin on the inner side of the tail-piece. Paganini is said to have held it in the self-same manner.

His compositions, chiefly strathspeys and reels; number 70, the one of outstanding merit being "The Drummer of Perth," "Lord Bannockburn," "Sue Brodie," and "Whisky Welcome Back Again." Marches—"The Athole Volunteers," "Earl of Dalhousie," and "Lawson House." Slow airs—"Lamentation for the Death of Abercromby," and "Farewell to Whiskey."

He had four sons, the most distinguished being Nathaniel (1768-1831) whose band was in constant requisition for the balls. A century ago, when George the Fourth made his triumphal entry into Edinburgh, he was entrusted with the getting up of a fashionable ball in honor of His Majesty's visit. It is recorded that the King was so electrified with his playing that at one part of the proceedings, he exclaimed, "Gow, you would make the very horses dance."

The Mother: "She's still awful upset about 'er young man givin' 'er up."

Neighbor: "Yes, an' 'oo knows but wot it might drive 'er t' become one o' those vamp women yer sees on the films."

ASTOUNDING FINDS IN AN OLD TOMB

Lord Carnarvon Tells of Wonderful Discoveries Made in Egypt.

IT WAS VERY EXCITING TIME

Vivid details of the sensational discovery of the funeral chambers of King Tutankhamen in the Valley of the Kings, Egypt, have been given by Lord Carnarvon. They have already been briefly explained in despatches. The excitement was intense, declared his lordship, when the explorers, Mr. Carter and Mr. Callender, dug a way into this archaeological treasure house, which is over 3,000 years old.

"We reached a solid door or wall. We wondered if we should find a staircase, probably blocked, behind this wall or whether we should get into a chamber. I asked Mr. Carter to take out a few stones and have a look in. After a few minutes this was done. He pushed his head partly into the aperture. With the help of a candle he could dimly discern what was inside. A long silence followed, until I remarked in somewhat trembling tones, 'Well, what is it?'"

There are some marvellous objects here," was the welcome reply. He pushed given up my place to my daughter, I myself went to the hole, and I found with difficulty restrain my excitement. At the first sight, with the inadequate light, all that one could see was what appeared to be gold bars. On getting a little more accustomed to the light it became apparent that there were colossal gilt couches with extraordinary heads, boxes here and boxes there. We enlarged the hole and Mr. Carter managed to scramble in and then, as he moved around with a candle, we knew we had found something absolutely unique and unprecedented. Even with the poor light of the candle, one could see a marvellous collection of furniture and other objects in the chamber."

A Parisian theatre manager has offered to employ two hundred ladies of the Turkish exultant harem. As one of them doubtless remarked: "There's a new world in a chamber still to be explored."

Auld Brig of Ayr is Not in Any Danger by Improvements

By 14 votes to 4 Ayr Town Council agreed to call in an expert engineer in connection with the proposed alterations to the bridge over the river bed between the new bridge and the historic Auld Brig of Ayr.

Mr. G. G. Stewart said he was not a little bit concerned about the Auld Brig. They did not intend to endanger it in any way, or form, and a great many of the objections were made by people who knew nothing about the matter. Mr. Stevenson, a local engineer, had warned them the new bridge might be endangered by the scour of the river, and it was advisable to have an expert on the matter.

Councillor Patterson, a Labor member, said he would have liked to see the plans of the bridge of the man who immortalized the brig of the people who had been writing to the Council. Those who had been held in the rooms of the bridge belonged to the class of people who, if they met Burns in the street, would pass him by on the other side.

Two Empresses Are Fast Friends

The Empress Marie Feodorovna's visit to Queen Alexandra will give their Majesties great pleasure. The royal and imperial sisters always had much in common, and in common they built a charming villa at Helsingfors, where it was summer tents to spend many days and Queens propose, God dispose; their summer there were only one or two after the villa was completed and furnished.

Queen Alexandra is now obliged to be very careful; she is older than the Queen, and her demand for the greatest care. There are now in London three Queens and an Empress. The Queen of Norway made a stay at Buckingham Palace while in town. Queen Alexandra's birthday was quietly celebrated, all the near members of her family taking part, and her grandson, the Prince of Wales, being one of the first to see her Majesty and present his offerings and congratulations.

British Sleeping Cars Running on Continent

Made in Leeds and Operating Between Calais and Nice. First Time British Built Sleepers Have Been run on a European Route. Each Cost About Twelve Thousand Pounds.

Two "Blue Trains"—so-called because of the external color of the cars—acquired by the International Sleeping Car Company—have just had their inaugural run between Calais and Nice, one in each direction. Sleeping cars between Calais and the Riviera are, of course, an old established institution, but these new cars—which, as has been previously stated, form the first instalment of forty sleepers being built by the Leeds Forge Co., and a train made up of these vehicles makes a fine appearance. Each car costs about £12,000. On both trains were many representatives of British and Continental railways, and of the Leeds Forge Company.

RED SEA TYRANNY VIVIDLY SKETCHED

Was Once Infested by Gangs of Most Cruel Pirates

THE HAUNT OF SEA MONSTERS

One must always respect the Red Sea, writes Major Arthur W. Hewlett in the Manchester Guardian. Other seas may be placid, remote, even ridiculous. There is the German Ocean, which is not necessarily German, and is certainly not an ocean; and there is the White Sea, which nobody troubles about. But half the keels of the world furrow the Red Sea, and thanks to Pharaoh, it has a claim even to antiquity. There are eleven hundred odd miles of it from north to south, from the red hills about Suez to the islanded Straits of Bab el Mandeb. Eleven hundred miles of superfluity of oceanic naughtiness. You may be sure when you enter it, it will show you some of its vagaries. Hence the name of the straits—the Gate of Tears.

Again, though landlocked and, to all appearance on the maps a mere thread of salt water between Asia and Africa, I have known uncountable great seas get up in it, so that the miserable passenger, besides being prostrated with the heat, is subject to the added miseries of seasickness. In days not very remote pirates in swift-sailing dhows had their lanes along its rocky coasts, and descended like wolves on all who were unable to defend themselves. It lent itself remarkably well to the art of piracy, and the plank for its hot waters teem with all kinds of horrible marine monsters. And if you ever get ashore you would find a lot of thirst and sunstroke, so that on all counts the hardship of the ancient voyagers is something to be respected.

Sinai, of course, forms one boundary of the upper arm of the Red Sea. Somewhere there, on those miles of mountain, there has been even yet they stand in countless jagged pinnacles to catch the flaming gold of the desert sunsets, like the unknown grave of Moses, and day by day the steamers pass, leaving their long plumes of smoke drifting and dipping down in uncountable quantities to the leader of long ago.

London Policewomen On Permanent Basis

War Bequeaths Unique Institution as Addition to Patrol Forces

NOW REDUCED TO TWENTY

London is not to lose its policewomen altogether. It is to have 20, and they will form a cadre for any subsequent expansion of the women's police force, if such be found necessary. The Home Office declines to enable the small number of policewomen remaining from the detachment of more than 100 organized soon after the war to be placed on a proper footing. Since the Geddes Axe to the women's police force this detachment has been gradually reduced in strength by women retiring after the year of service has expired. At the moment the force is almost down to 20. The future conditions of the women are now under consideration.

At Sotheby's sale in London a copy of the Kilmarnock edition of Burns was sold for £700, and a bundle of letters written by Boswell for £245.

BABY WAS POPULAR

Judge Mellor told an amusing story in Manchester of how he was imposed on by a baby. Some months ago, he related, he was dealing separately with a number of women, nearly all of whom had a baby decked with blue ribbon. "I said to the policeman outside," continued Judge Mellor, "a great number of babies in court this morning. 'No, sir, only one,' replied the policeman. 'But I have seen about a dozen.' 'Oh, yes, sir,' the policeman explained that when a woman had arrived with an infant there had been a rush to borrow it as the women declared, 'We get more money out of the judge if we have a baby.'"

BIG HOTEL FOR LONDON

A monster hotel for London, "the biggest outside America," is the subject of negotiation going on at the present time. The hotel will contain 2,000 rooms, and will approximately cost £600,000. The proposed site is within easy reach of several railway termini.

EFFECT OF WAR ON BRITAIN SHOWN IN AMAZING FIGURES

INCREASE OF EXPORTS AND IMPORTS IN £2,921,000

Cave-dwelling and Barbarism As Solution of House Shortage?

It was announced recently in the House of Commons that some youthful couples were unable to get married for want of the house which they might purchase, or hire at a rent, and furnish as the home of their wedded lives. Houses cost so much to build that ordinary citizens cannot afford to pay the rents required to provide the necessary return for the original investment. What is to be done? Shall European civilization revert to the state of the dwellers in caves and rock-shelters in the Paleolithic time 50,000 years ago, who lived by chasing the mammoth and the reindeer? asks the Yorkshire Post. Or must we restore the ruins of ancient lake-dwellings and pile-villages that served our hirsute ancestors of the Neolithic period, which lasted in Europe for many centuries after the foundation of the Empire of old Egypt, from 6,000 to 7,000 years ago. Wanting a supply of houses our race must relapse into barbarism.

Royal Birds Leave Nest Palace Is Overhauled

Ever since the close of the season Buckingham Palace has been undergoing internal overhauling. Most of the rooms had nothing done to them since before the war.

Now that the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary have set up houses of their own, and the Duke of York is likely to leave the Palace soon, various good rooms in the near neighborhood of their Majesties' private apartments are, or will be, available.

Some of these are to be arranged to give the ladies-in-waiting more accommodation in a portion of the building near the Queen's rooms. At present the distances to be traversed are enormous.

PRINCESS IN DIFFICULTIES

Princess Andrew, wife of the exiled Greek Prince, has a pretty talent in dress designing, and will probably take it up as a profession. The Princess and her husband are comparatively poor. They have a family of charming daughters, whom they are taking to London to live. The Princess's sister-in-law, Lady Louis Mountbatten, is said to be the richest heiress in England, and being a real good sort, will doubtless help all she can.

CAPTURE SEAL AT BERWICK

Fishermen report that seals are in fairly large numbers in the sea off Berwick, one great attraction there by the late running salmon and trout, which are yet taking the River Tweed. Recently a seal was caught napping on the rocks at the Greenshaws.

Skeleton of British Hero Found in Woods in France

Airman was Shot Down in July, 1918, and Dragged Himself into Thicket to Escape Huns—Buried Beside Flying Companion in Sarraube Cemetery with Military Honors.

In the Forest of Herbitzheim, in Lorraine, the skeleton of a supposed officer of the Royal Air Force has been found by a party of boar hunters. In the ragged fragments of clothing still clinging to the bones were a watch, which had stopped at 9.5 and bore the words "Ingersoll Radiolite," a jack-knife, a pencil, several cartridges bearing the words "London, 1907," were found near the body. It is believed that the skeleton may be that of one of two British airmen who were shot down in July, 1918. Apparently he fell into the forest, and though badly wounded, dragged himself into the thicket to escape being found by the Germans. On July 31, 1918, a German anti-aircraft battery near the Sarraube salt mine hit a British plane which was flying toward the Palatinate. The accident was in a field near the Forest of Herbitzheim. In the debris of the machine the Germans found the body of Second-Lieut. L. R. Dennis. The British officer was buried by the Germans in Sarraube Cemetery in a grave numbered 23. As the plane was passing over the Forest of Herbitzheim the inhabitants of Herbitzheim saw an airman jump out of the machine. The German military authorities carefully searched the woods, but found no one, and several inhabitants noted for their Francophile sentiments were arrested on suspicion of having harbored the missing airman. The skeleton now found was taken to Sarraube Cemetery for interment with full military honors in a grave next to that of Lieut. Dennis.

Marriages and Births are Showing a Marked Increase. Number of New Companies also Growing Steadily. Trade Slowly but Surely Improving According to Official Statistics.

BIG ADVANCE NOTED REGARDING EXPORTS

Each of the nation's plunge into war and its return to peace are shown in striking figures contained in the "Statistical Abstract for the United Kingdom," issued by the Board of Trade. This volume deals with the years 1906 to 1920, and shows vividly the action and reaction of the war. Most obvious, of course, is the rise of the Army. Here are details showing the size and fall of Britain's men of all arms on October 1 of each year:—

Year	Army	Naval Reserve	Army Reserve
1913	247,250	1917	3,883,017
1914	1,327,372	1918	3,838,266
1915	2,475,764	1919	1,084,743
1916	3,343,797	1920	434,725

All this dilatation of the male population had a corresponding effect on the marriage rate and birth rate. The manner in which the numbers of marriages and births in England and Wales rose and fell as the war cloud lowered and lifted is shown thus:—

Year	Marriages	Births
1913	286,833	881,890
1914	294,401	879,096
1915	280,885	814,631
1916	273,192	785,520
1917	255,855	668,346
1918	287,163	662,661
1919	289,431	618,485
1920	279,982	957,732

The number of new companies registered is almost as eloquent:—

Year	New Companies
1913	7,321
1914	6,097
1915	4,002
1916	3,317
1917	1,920
1918	10,661

In addition to these figures can learn from the Abstract an enormous number of minor facts, such as, that while 106,662 cwt. of hallow was caught in 1913, in 1918 the amount had fallen to 6,174 cwt.

British Trade Improves. That British trade is steadily, if slowly, improving is shown by the official returns for November. The value of both exports and imports is the highest for any month last year, and is 10 per cent. above the corresponding months of 1921; and that, too, although there has been a considerable decline in the general level of prices. The excess of exports over imports was £5,000,000 as compared with October, and over £3,600,000 as compared with the same month last year. Imports increased by £20,500,000 as compared with October, and £8,000,000 compared with November last year. During the past eleven months the general trend has been distinctly in the direction of trade recovery, although the total volume is still far behind that of pre-war normal. After all, it is healthier that the improvement should be gradual and sustained than the sudden increase of a post-war boom of revival which may as speedily disappear.

An expansion in the import of raw materials is generally regarded as a sign that manufacturers anticipate more active trade conditions. There has been such an expansion on a modest scale, in recent months. In regard to exports, the total value of £5,000,000 is largely accounted for by coal, woollens and worsteds, chemicals, apparel, paper and miscellaneous articles. While exports for the first eleven months of the past year show an increase of about £15,000,000 compared with the corresponding period of 1921, there is a decline in imports of £22,000,000. The excess of exports over imports is £152,000,000 compared with £280,000,000 a year ago. Allowing for the fall in prices, the result is more than hopeful. Our foreign trade is expanding, and if conditions in Europe only become more settled, one great hindrance to a revival would be removed. Although the volume of trade is greater than 1921, and in many instances greater than in 1920, there are about 1,300,000 unemployed in the country.

ENGLAND'S NEW ROADS ARE QUITE EXPENSIVE
E. E. James, C. E., Speaks of Fine Motor Highways Being Built
(Toronto Globe.)
Compared to roads being built in England, Hon. F. C. Biggs' Ontario highways are being cheaply constructed. In the opinion of E. A. James, C. E., Engineer for the Toronto and District Roads Commission, who told The Globe yesterday that $200,000 a mile was not an unusual figure for the new motor roads in the Old Land. Mr. James has just returned from studying traffic, road and sanitary improvements in the British Isles. England was very much alive to the road problem, Mr. James stated. The Roads Department was doing its best to construct new highways to keep pace with the growth of motor traffic. The privately owned motor car is just taking hold of the Britisher, he said, and the Roads Department was endeavoring to have new highways constructed before the demand for a greater road system was excessive. Just as the old roads built for horse-drawn vehicles surpassed highways on this continent, the new motor world highways, Mr. James said, "In the near future," he stated, "the improved motor roads of England will be models as to curving, grade and construction."
These new roads, Mr. James said, are being constructed on entirely new ground. They are planned to be 100 feet wide, and will have two roads, with boulevards separating the lines of traffic. The road laborers are being paid from 35 to 87 cents an hour. Mr. James is very optimistic as to the industrial outlook in the Old Land. Unemployment is steadily decreasing, factory orders are increasing, and shipping is very busy, he says.
The first bank in Europe was the bank of Venice, 1170.

CUPID NEVER GROWS OLD
Man's inhumanity to man is as nothing to a maiden aunt's to her niece. From Boston comes the story of how Eva Sadowski, spinster, 68, went to live with Nellie Grabol and gave $1,000 to her. As evidence of her affection the young woman bought a tombstone and burial garment for her aunt.
Then the spinster stepped out and married Charles Lukas, who promptly demanded the return of the $1,000.
Judge Murray now is filling the role of a modern Solomon trying to hold the scales of justice even between a bridegroom and a 68-year-old bride on one hand and a sorrowing niece, a perfectly good tombstone and a burial shroud on the other.
When do maiden ladies cease thinking about marriage?
An earnest investigator once put this question to a woman of 85.
"You'll have to ask someone older than I am," was her answer.—Forbes Magazine (N.Y.).
Bombs were invented in 1598 and first used in war in 1684.

THOSE WOLVES.
(Toronto Star.)
Up north they scoff at the idea of wolves attacking men. If they are right we blush to think of the mentality of the pioneers who held thrilling tales of fights with wolf packs and of hunters who never came back and whose drumsticks and wishbones were found picked bare by search parties of neighbors.
The Soo Daily Star has interviewed Old Sam Martin on the subject, and Old Sam is scornful. He says—
"My experience with wolves leads me to believe that the Algoma wolf is the biggest coward that walks the earth. He is scared of his own shadow, and not at all the smart fellow he is said to be. Tramp a snowshoe circle by the woods and he'll keep out of it. Why? Cowardice; he's afraid something might be in the ring. Any man that says he was ever set on by a wolf is a liar," said Sam, with emphasis.
"Let me tell you, son, these wolf attacks happen over in the next range. I never knew anybody to be attacked by a wolf—I mean the Algoma grey wolf—and I never found any of the stories to be anything else than a camp yarn."

MISS CHESLEY'S RECORD.
To Editor of The Halifax Chronicle.
Sir—After reading Crack-Shot's attack on Miss Chesley from behind his shield of a pen name, I feel that I ought to say something in her defense. It is because we both feel the awfulness of the sacrifices made by our men and women during the war that we want to help on the time when there shall be peace.
Crack-Shot says that Miss Chesley's idea of love is rather narrow, he quotes the "Greater Love" verse, but Miss Chesley has lived it. When the influenza was raging in British Columbia, Miss Chesley, then a teacher, volunteered as a nurse in an emergency hospital where twenty-two patients died in five weeks. She spent several weeks lecturing, refusing pay from Ottawa, and among greater sacrifices financed her own tour. When a student in England, during the war, she spent some of her holidays working among poor babies in the East End of London. No, Crack-Shot is wrong when he calls her an arm chair critic.
Crack-Shot, in attacking us both wonders what sort of company ours would be for the ancient heroes. They would have welcomed Miss Chesley, for she lacks neither physical nor moral courage. As for physical training she is just as keen for it as Crack-Shot, but she got hers without rifle practice which does not develop the body. She has played in tennis tournaments in

E. E. James, C. E., Speaks of Fine Motor Highways Being Built
Compared to roads being built in England, Hon. F. C. Biggs' Ontario highways are being cheaply constructed. In the opinion of E. A. James, C. E., Engineer for the Toronto and District Roads Commission, who told The Globe yesterday that $200,000 a mile was not an unusual figure for the new motor roads in the Old Land. Mr. James has just returned from studying traffic, road and sanitary improvements in the British Isles. England was very much alive to the road problem, Mr. James stated. The Roads Department was doing its best to construct new highways to keep pace with the growth of motor traffic. The privately owned motor car is just taking hold of the Britisher, he said, and the Roads Department was endeavoring to have new highways constructed before the demand for a greater road system was excessive. Just as the old roads built for horse-drawn vehicles surpassed highways on this continent, the new motor world highways, Mr. James said, "In the near future," he stated, "the improved motor roads of England will be models as to curving, grade and construction."
These new roads, Mr. James said, are being constructed on entirely new ground. They are planned to be 100 feet wide, and will have two roads, with boulevards separating the lines of traffic. The road laborers are being paid from 35 to 87 cents an hour. Mr. James is very optimistic as to the industrial outlook in the Old Land. Unemployment is steadily decreasing, factory orders are increasing, and shipping is very busy, he says.
The first bank in Europe was the bank of Venice, 1170.

CUPID NEVER GROWS OLD
Man's inhumanity to man is as nothing to a maiden aunt's to her niece. From Boston comes the story of how Eva Sadowski, spinster, 68, went to live with Nellie Grabol and gave $1,000 to her. As evidence of her affection the young woman bought a tombstone and burial garment for her aunt.
Then the spinster stepped out and married Charles Lukas, who promptly demanded the return of the $1,000.
Judge Murray now is filling the role of a modern Solomon trying to hold the scales of justice even between a bridegroom and a 68-year-old bride on one hand and a sorrowing niece, a perfectly good tombstone and a burial shroud on the other.
When do maiden ladies cease thinking about marriage?
An earnest investigator once put this question to a woman of 85.
"You'll have to ask someone older than I am," was her answer.—Forbes Magazine (N.Y.).
Bombs were invented in 1598 and first used in war in 1684.

THOSE WOLVES.
(Toronto Star.)
Up north they scoff at the idea of wolves attacking men. If they are right we blush to think of the mentality of the pioneers who held thrilling tales of fights with wolf packs and of hunters who never came back and whose drumsticks and wishbones were found picked bare by search parties of neighbors.
The Soo Daily Star has interviewed Old Sam Martin on the subject, and Old Sam is scornful. He says—
"My experience with wolves leads me to believe that the Algoma wolf is the biggest coward that walks the earth. He is scared of his own shadow, and not at all the smart fellow he is said to be. Tramp a snowshoe circle by the woods and he'll keep out of it. Why? Cowardice; he's afraid something might be in the ring. Any man that says he was ever set on by a wolf is a liar," said Sam, with emphasis.
"Let me tell you, son, these wolf attacks happen over in the next range. I never knew anybody to be attacked by a wolf—I mean the Algoma grey wolf—and I never found any of the stories to be anything else than a camp yarn."

WHAT'S DOING IN THE MONEY AND STOCK MARKETS TODAY

TO TALK OVER WABANA ORE SITUATION

Newfoundland Premier to Montreal to See Empire Steel Officials.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Hon. Sir Richard Squires, Premier of Newfoundland, is due to arrive in Montreal on Sunday. He is to meet officials of the British Empire Steel Corporation to discuss the future of the ore properties at Wabana which are operated by the corporation, but which are now idle.

One mined at Wabana is shipped to Sydney for the use of the steel plant there, while a considerable proportion of it has been taken by German operators. Following the occupation of the Ruhr district by French troops it was announced that there was no demand for Newfoundland ore and shipments for Germany ceased. There is sufficient stock on the pile in Canada to fill all possible requirements for the next year. Consequently work has been suspended at Wabana, and 2,500 men are without work.

ANGUS McLEAN IS PRESIDENT

New Brunswick Chosen as Head of Canadian Lumber Association.

Montreal, Jan. 26.—At a banquet here last night, which concluded the annual convention of the Canadian Lumber Association, it was announced that Angus McLean of Bathurst, N. B., had been elected president of the association.

Other officers are: First vice president, G. W. Grier, Montreal; second vice president, D. Chaboussier, Restigouche; secretary treasurer, R. G. Cameron, Ottawa; secretary, Frank Hawkins, Ottawa; transportation manager, R. L. Sargant, Ottawa.

Potato Slump Puts Farmers In Bankruptcy

Several Aroostook and Other Maine Growers go to The Wall.

Portland, Me., Jan. 26.—The recent slump in the potato market is given as the reason for the filing here of an annual number of bankruptcy schedules by farmers of Aroostook and other eastern Maine counties where potatoes are a staple crop. Six such schedules were filed this week with total liabilities in excess of $50,000.

OPINIONS ON THE MARKET

(McDougall & Cowan, Private Wire.) New York, Jan. 26.—Evans—"General business conditions in this country continue to improve steadily, and it looks as if a boom were at hand. The market is held in check by the foreign situation. Wall Street hopes and believes that this situation will be cleared up, but there is no denying the fact that at present it is extremely menacing." Bache—"So far as we can determine most of the important buying of the day has been of excellent character, and appears to be the kind of buying which usually takes place in anticipation of more favorable earnings figures." Hutton & Co.—"For people who are sensitive it is possible that the final action of the French, which is likely to be drastic, will prove a shock. The war element on the floor is getting an abtious again. They may take another whirl on the down side, but we do not think they are going to get out of substantial liquidation in the good stocks." Block Maloney—"We think a trading position will pay best for a time."

Fisher Body Shoots Up on Reported Offer to Buy—Lively on Montreal Exchange.

New York, Jan. 26.—Opening prices in today's stock market were irregular, most of the initial changes being of a fractional nature. Demand was centered in the independent steels, rails and equipments, with heaviness being apparent in a number of the coppers and oils. Columbia Gas opened a point higher and Consolidated Gas, new stock, which advanced six points yesterday, dropped back 3/4 of a point. Fisher Body opened nine points higher at 122, on overnight announcement that W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, had offered to buy the outstanding capital stock at $200 a share. Woolworth advanced five points and gains of one to two points were scored by Corn Products, United Retail Stores, Owens Bottle, Mackay Companies and California Petroleum. Burns Bros. A gained 1/2 and then dropped back 1/4. Steel and Tube Pfd., Allied Chemical, North American and Piggly Wiggly yielded fractionally. Foreign exchange opened easier.

Banker Shot; Told Nobody

Coroner Investigating Death of C. W. Watson, Toronto

(Canadian Press) Toronto, Jan. 26.—Charles W. Watson, aged 63, retired banker of Toronto, died in St. Michael's Hospital last night from peritonitis resulting from a gunshot wound received accidentally while hunting last August. A strange feature of the case is that Watson concealed from his doctor that he was hunting in Parry Sound district when he was accidentally shot in the back by a companion. He was taken to Parry Sound Hospital. When he improved sufficiently to return to Toronto, some weeks ago, he again became ill, but still did not disclose the real trouble which was undoubtedly typhoid fever. Watson's own family were not apprised of the accident until a few days ago. He was then taken to the hospital where an operation was performed but without avail. The coroner is investigating.

PANAMA CANAL TRAFFIC MADE A RECORD IN 1922

Intercoastal Trade About Doubled; Tolls Collected Also Reached Maximum; Outlook Continues Bright.

A new high record for commercial traffic through the Panama Canal was practically double that of the preceding year in net tonnage and cargo tons, and constituted about 25 per cent of the total canal business. In November there were forty-three vessels carrying 164,880 tons of cargo through the Canal as compared with twenty-four vessels with 91,067 tons in November of 1921. The average number of intercoastal vessels during the beginning of the year in June was thirty-seven, compared with an average of twenty-two in the corresponding month of the year 1921. The average of ships for all trades was 273 a month as compared with 228 during the first part of 1922. The total traffic for the calendar year was 2,097 ships carrying 15,710,556 tons of cargo and paying tolls of $12,578,408 compared with 2,788 ships with 10,707,000 tons of cargo and $11,305,000 tolls during 1921. The greater part of the increase in traffic was due to the advance in the United States intercoastal trade. When the intercoastal conference disbanded in June and rates fell to one-half or one-third of the previous levels, there was a remarkable advance in the volume of business, most of which was taken from the trans-continental railroads.

QUESTIONS BUILDS UP THIS STORE'S SUCCESS

Indiana Merchant Finds It Pays to Find Out Why Things Happen

Queries New Customers—Internal Investigations Reveal Whether Sales are Gaining and Why They are Lost.

A new director of the National Art Gallery, at Ottawa, recently appointed to augment the membership of the board.

Know what's what in your business?

"Know why you are doing certain things and what these things are accomplishing."

"Know what your most effective store promotions stunts are."

"Know where you are going and how you are going to get there."

These, in the opinion of E. C. Rurode, of the Rurode Dry Goods Company, of Port Huron, Ind., are four of the cardinal principles of retailing which are too often overlooked by merchants, and it is Mr. Rurode's contention that if retailers generally would dig more deeply into their businesses and bring to light some of the hidden factors that affect their sales they would be far more successful.

One of the points upon which Mr. Rurode, who has been in business for sixty-three years, considers of primary importance is the question, "What brings new customers to the store?"

In order to secure accurate answers to this, Mr. Rurode personally interviews fifty or more new customers once or twice a year, asking them just what brought them into his store and made regular patrons of them.

"We do our newspaper advertising," he will say, "or was it our window display? Did our direct-mail advertising have anything to do with it?"

Did the recommendations of friends or relatives result in your coming here? Was it our outdoor advertising, our location, our prices or what? We'd really like to know, so that we can really serve you more effectively in future."

These questions to new customers—which are invariably answered in the spirit in which they are asked—bring to light some very interesting facts. For instance, they show that recommendations of former customers are the strongest promotion assets the store has and that more new customers are brought to the store by such recommendations than are brought by anything else.

They also show that the proportion of customers who are brought to the store by the store's newspaper advertising, direct-mail advertising and window display are about the same year in and year out. Consequently, when the proportion of new customers brought by window displays, for instance, shows a drop this merchant knows that he must investigate his window display department, unless he is content to lose some of the value of this very effective method of getting new customers.

He also knows when these questions disclose the fact that some unsatisfied factor is bringing new customers to the store, and that he must emphasize that factor more strongly.

For instance, upon one occasion this investigation showed that new customers were being brought into the store by a new and particularly appetizing "sandwich" served at the store's soda fountain. Mr. Rurode had thought much about this, but when his questions showed its importance he immediately played it up strongly in his advertising and brought in even more new customers.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF HARDWARE MEN

More than forty people were present at the annual dinner of the St. John Iron and Hardware Association, which was held last evening in the Union Club, with S. L. Emerson, the president, in the chair. After the toast to the King had been honored the toast to the association was proposed by the president and responded to by Hon. W. H. Thorne.

The City of St. John was proposed by M. E. Agar and G. Fred Fisher, Mayor of the city, suitably replied. The Board of Trade was proposed by J. G. Harrison, and G. E. Barbour responded. The toast to the manufacturer was proposed by A. M. Bowan and W. S. Fisher, Charles McDonald and S. E. Elkin replied. Mr. McDonald made a particularly witty speech which was warmly applauded.

The guests were proposed by S. E. Fisher and replied were by Mr. Stephen, and Mr. Walsh, of Halifax. During the evening there were songs by Messrs. Cairns, Lawrence, Holger and Pepper.

Chain shot was invented by a Dutch admiral in 1668.

Why Are Sales Lost?

Another investigation which has produced remarkable results is that dealing with the subject of lost sales.

Every retail store is, of course, constantly losing sales. Some of these are due to not being able to give the customer goods at the price the customer wants to pay. Others are lost because the store hasn't thought much about the new and particularly appetizing "sandwich" served at the store's soda fountain. Mr. Rurode had thought much about this, but when his questions showed its importance he immediately played it up strongly in his advertising and brought in even more new customers.

Kearns Signs Option.

New York, Jan. 26.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, yesterday signed an option with Tex Rickard under the terms of which Kearns agreed not to enter into any contracts involving the heavyweight champion for a period of six days ending February 1.

(Burton Whitman in Boston Herald.)
How John L. Sullivan, Boston's famous Strong Boy, who was for many years the most spectacular heavyweight boxing champion of the world, went securely and permanently on the "water wagon" was told me last night, between acts, by a South Boston man, Will H. Cohan, comedian and forty-eight-year-old acrobat with "Rockets," now playing at the Gayety Theatre.

For ten years Cohan was dresser, masseur, confidential and social secretary and general fixer for John L. Will says he is the only Hebrew who ever came in close touch with John L. And by "close touch" is meant the real personal contact, which endures even when things are dark and dismal for both parties.

Drink His Only Flaw.
"John L.'s base on his New York saloon was for $33,000 a month," explained Cohan, "and the lease only went from one month to the next. He was doing a whole of a business there, too. I was with him, working for him, you know, at that time. They must have been afraid that if they gave him a case for a long time he'd get making too much money that they'd never forgive themselves."

"I remember the night he opened up the saloon. He said that the liquor trade owed him something. You know, his only fault was drink. He was the squarest fellow I ever met and drink explains all of the charges anyone could bring against him.
"On that opening night he told me I could have all the gold that came in the counter. The next time gold often was passed over the saloon counters of the sportier places like the one we had. I thought I'd get rich. Well, right off the reel Jim Corbett comes along and tosses out $100, but it is a $100 bill. The boys drink it up. Then Nat Goodwin comes along and tosses out another $100 bill. This goes, too. We took in $4,000 that night and, believe me, my share—all the gold taken in over the counter that night—was a $3 gold piece.

Gets Only $3,500 For Belt.
"Getting down to the end, however, John L. was drinking it up faster than he took it in. He got broke finally and he sent me out with his diamond belt, the most famous one given him by the citizens of Boston from the stage of the old Boston Theatre, Aug. 8, 1887. It had 'Champion of Champions' on the front of it. It contained 219 diamonds and rubies and most of them were big ones, too.

"He told me to pawn it. I easily got $3,400 on it. He took $1,650 and then gave Brooklyn Jimmy Carroll, his pal, the same amount, $1,650. He tossed me the rest and told me to get myself a couple new suits. Then they went out and blew in that money.

"John L. came to me the next day and asked me if I had any of the money left. I had it all. He asked me to let him have it. I did, and the reason I did was because he was absolutely strapped.

Know When End Comes.

"Things got worse and worse, and one night John L. sent me to George Considine to get $150, enough to pay the month's rent with what he dug up somewhere else.
"What, lend that big bum $150?" exclaimed Considine. "He'd drink it up in one night. Not a cent."
"I argued in vain with George, who often had loaned John L. before. But there was nothing doing. I went back to John L. I told him that Considine had refused to lend him a cent.
"Said I'd drink it up, did he?" mused John L. "Well, when a pal like Considine turns me down because I drink, I think I'd better go on the wagon."

"And John L. climbed up right then and there and he never took a drink again. It was the most remarkable swearing off I ever even heard about. It took, too, and he never let it bother him again. He used to make temperance speeches after that and right here in Faneuil hall talked in favor of prohibition many a time.

Better Than Dempsey.

"Do I think he was a better man than Dempsey? Well, I'll tell you. I think Sullivan in his prime was the greatest fighter, by a long ways, we ever had. He was the most perfect specimen I ever saw. He would have loved to have stands right up there and swaps blows.
"Let me tell you something about John L. which I never have seen in print. He'd wear out a pair of shoes in a perfect way. He would wear a pair of shoes a year and the heels would be just as straight all the way around as the day they left the maker. He never turned over. He stepped perfectly. He got fat toward the end, but I am talking about the time of his prime.

"Strong? Why, says, he used to pick me up and throw me at some of the fellows he didn't like when he was drinking.
"It was in Spokane, Wash. the day he died in Arlington. That afternoon my collar button broke. It was solid gold and the gift, many years before, of John L. Strange, wasn't it? But you see that umbrella over in the corner with the dog's head in ivory for a handle? That's another present to me from John L., and let me see someone get that away from me!"

SAVED BRITAIN IN THREATENED MUNITION CRISIS

Lord Moulton, 70, Whose Efforts Increased Output Thousandfold, an Almost Obscure Man.

The name of Lord Moulton is today almost as little known in Britain as it is on the other side of the Atlantic, yet it is he of whom Lord Birkenhead says that "his individual contribution to winning the war was as great as that of any contemporary Englishman." The publication of "The Life of Lord Moulton" (who died in 1921), by his son, has done something to establish a belated recognition for a man who was known previous to the war to a limited circle as one of the Lords of Appeal, but to the general public scarcely at all.

Fletcher Moulton, a "senior wrangler" in mathematics at Cambridge and a patent attorney of high caliber, was in 1898 appointed a Lord Justice of the Court of Appeal. His service in this capacity, while brilliant, secured for him little publicity beyond that afforded by one anecdote which has become a classic among lawyers. In a passage at arms with a counsel who was arguing before him Lord Moulton objected that there was no precedent for the views which the attorney was propounding, and was answered that "the common law is the mother of precedents."

"Yes," he replied, "but she is now a mother who is past the age of child bearing."

"With your lordship's assistance," the counsel retorted, "I shall hope to prove the contrary."

Takes Office at Age of Seventy.
It was this man, who, at the age of seventy, was in 1914 called to the Ministry of Munitions as Director of Explosive Supplies. Of business experience in the ordinary sense he had none whatever, and he had reached an age at which most men are contemplating retirement even from such placid work as was his own. But his scientific training and his analytic mind stood him in good stead, and within a few months he was engaged in a serious struggle with the elements at the War Office, which keenly resented civilian interference and which preserved an exalted opinion of the value of red tape in war time.

The question at issue was the famous high explosives controversy, in which one Prime Minister was unmade and another made. Almost from the beginning of his work at the Ministry of Munitions Lord Moulton was applying his knowledge of high explosives, and especially of amatol, the compound which, it is estimated, finally enabled the production of "H. E." shells to be trebled. In February, 1915, Lord Kitchener definitely pronounced in Lord Moulton's favor, and the organization was set in motion which eventually achieved a production of 1,000 tons of high explosives daily, instead of the one ton which was the average in the early months of the war.

"He thought in tons where others thought in pounds," his son remarks, and the sentence sums up the creed of Lord Moulton.

Winning his fight at the War Ministry, however, was only the first part of Lord Moulton's task. He had obtained only permission to go ahead, he had not established sources of supply, factors, forces of workers. Before his task was finished he was in autocratic
