By LOUIS TRACY

These imposters are infinitely worse than a pestilence. They resemble it in their unexpected outbreaks and phenomenal areas of activity, but they scourge Moslem mankind with a virulence unknown to cholera or small-pox. It was Warden's grievous misfortune that he had blundered into Hassan's Tower while the Blue Man of El Hamra was meditating an attack on the chance thus offered of receiving a Christian captive to grace the prophet's return to Lektwa was too tempting to be neglected.

Fate oft chooses her victims with savage recklessness, but Warden felt, as he crossed the Atlas Mountains by way of Beni Mous, that that influence more far-reaching than fate was leading him along the path trodden by Domestica, across the raby was hidden in the tower. He had no manner of doubt that the Portuguese artist and pirate was taken into the heart of Africa by this very route. The belief sustained him in those too frequent moments when sheer weariness of spirit whirled self-destruction by way of the sufferings in that way. If rabid fanaticism could sway a whole Mohammedan race, he at least gave a certain trust in a higher and holier creed. Not till grim death bade him lay down his arms would he abandon the struggle. Never a day passed that he did not plan a means of escape, but every scheme promised failure, and he did not mean to fail, for failure meant death. So he trudged on manfully, his only friend a stalwart negro who spoke the Hausa language, and ever the road led to the southeast—the desert—to the unknown land.

His boots gave out, his clothes were torn to rags; he was compelled to adopt the garments and many of the habits of those with whom his lot was cast. But he kept the ruby safe, for none thought of searching him now, and he was given a certain measure of liberty once the Atlas range was passed. Towns and villages became more scattered. The country was so wild that any attempt to travel by other road than the long-established caravan track would mean an easy resurrection. To go back was equally impossible. Every community in the Nila Moullah's own territory was gratified by the spectacle of a Christian among the Mahdi's "troops." The people would crowd around him and leer at him, for no better cause than that he was one of the hated white race. Many of them had never before seen a white man, but that did not count—they cursed him roundly for the sake of the legends they had heard of the arrogance with which the Prophet's followers were treated by Nazarenes in their own lands.

Warden bore this contempt with infinite patience. He knew that the desert folk were repaying some of the wrongs their ancestors had endured from generations of Portuguese and Spanish freebooters. But at last he laid to heart the knowledge that he could never return by the way he had come unless he were still a slave. He would be recognized instantly and clubbed to death like a mad dog.

Despite his hardships, he was soon restored to perfect health. The winter season, such as it is in the Sahara, was approaching. The air was invigorating, and the rough food, mainly grains and fruits, was wholesome and nutritious. Yet, when Lektwa was reached, his case looked desperate indeed. Day followed day, and week followed week, without any prospect of relief, and he became more and more a mere appendage of the Nila Moullah's household. It was just when hope itself was yielding to numb despair that the sought-for opportunity presented itself. It came like a meteor falling from the midnight sky, and Warden, ever on the watch, was ready to avail himself of the light it shed on his dark calvary.

Some Mohammedan festival had led to a good deal of revelry and gormandizing when Warden, at the close of a tiring day, found his negro friend sitting at the door of his hut in an attitude of dejection.

"What has happened?" he asked.

The man, moved by the familiar accents of his native tongue, gave way to tears. His plaint was common enough in communities ruled by a truculent savage of the maullah's type. His daughter, a finely-built parasite, and she was summoned forthwith to the despot's seraglio. Now, the negro, who belonged to one of the numerous Hausa tribes, while ready enough to enlist under the prophet's banner, was far from gratified by the prospect of becoming his holiness' father-in-law. A doubtful privilege at the best, it was shared by many, and a goodly number had been besetted to

WANT MORE INFORMATION ON PAVEMENT QUESTION

For two hours yesterday afternoon the general committee of the city council discussed permanent paving and after considering the question in various phases, referred it back to Engineer Murdoch for further information. As the matter now stands the engineer will be required to prepare a specification of what streets permanent work should be done on, the class of the work to be undertaken and its cost.

The whole discussion hinged upon the recommendation of Engineer Murdoch on the paving of a section of Germain street and of Paradise Row. In his recommendation he estimated that the Hassan paving was good value for the money but he favored paying a higher price and securing a better article. Three motions were before the committee and all were voted down. Finally, when the committee resolved itself into the council to hear its report, Ald. Kelley's motion was put and carried and the council adjourned.

Mayor Bullock presided and there were present Ald. Scully, Frink, Baxter, McGoldrick, Lewis, Likely, Hayes, Colner, Potts, Wilson, Elkin, Sprout, Vanwart, Kelley and Engineer Murdoch. Col. E. T. Sturdevant, L. G. Crosby and Charles Peters were also present during the discussion representing the residents of Germain street.

The engineer was not present when the council opened and as it was important that his views should be obtained he was sent for.

The petition of the residents of Germain street, already published, asking for permanent paving on that street between Princess and Queen streets, was read. The following recommendation from Engineer Murdoch as to the paving question was then read:

To the Mayor and Common Council of the City of St. John:

Gentlemen,—In compliance with instructions received I beg to report concerning the recent tenders for permanent paving on that street between Princess and Queen streets. As there has been but one tender for the work in response to the advertisement of permanent paving going on but he wanted the engineer to take the responsibility for saying that the pavement was the best to be had for the price. The question of permanent paving had been discussed time and again but nothing had been done, consequently when the opportunity offered, now the work should be undertaken at once. I certain streets were paved and the effect seen he thought other streets would also be paved later.

Ald. McGoldrick moved that Germain street be paved in accordance with the proposition made by the residents of that street. In reference to Paradise Row it would be necessary to give thirty days notice so as to allow one-third of the residents to protest against it if they wanted to. In Germain street this would not be necessary as two-thirds of the people there had already decided in favor of it. He had seen the Hassan pavement in Fredericton and had found it to be very good. People of Fredericton also praised the pavement. He would like to see it in St. John, for instance on Prince William street from King street to the Three Lamps. The company would give a ten-year guarantee as to the quality of the pavement and the rate offered by the engineer would be slightly in excess of the actual figures. It did not, however, include repairs to the water pipes but only in the surface work. The repairs to the water main would cost about $1,700 or in all about $14,500.

Ald. Elkin seconded Ald. McGoldrick's motion. The Hassan paving he thought was good for the level streets, and he would favor it.

Mr. Paterson, who had inspected the pavement in Fredericton, was asked for his opinion of it, and replied that he considered it very fine.

Ald. Baxter thought there was no need for any long discussion. The city had asked for tenders for the paving and only one had been received. Engineer Murdoch's opinion had been that it was good value for the money, and as he had no other suggestion to make, the tender should be accepted and the work proceeded with.

Ald. Potts wanted more information. Engineer Murdoch's report was very indefinite, and for that reason he moved an amendment that the question should be referred back to the engineer.

Engineer Murdoch said the cost of the work would be about $12,750, made up as follows:

4,000 square yards paving at $2.40.....	9,600
1,000 feet of curbing at 42¢.....	420
Setting stone at 30¢ per foot.....	300
1,000 yards sidewalk at $2.40.....	2,400
	$12,720

Of this amount one-half or $6,360 would be paid by the residents of Germain street which would make the cost figure out at about $2.80 per lineal foot of paving.

Ald. Potts again objected to the proposition. If permanent paving were regarded as an experiment to see if it would give value for the money spent, Germain street was the last place in the city to put it on. Pavement such as that proposed might be laid on a street where the traffic was heavy, but it was altogether a waste of money to put it where the traffic was not heavy. At the present stage there is a first mortgage of $275 to $300 against every piece of real estate in the city, because of the very heavy debt, and now the proposition of paving would add another ten-year mortgage. Permanent paving was all right if the people could not afford it. As the guardians of the public money the chairman had no right to spend it in this way. They could accomplish more by devoting their energies toward placing the city affairs upon a sound business basis. It had been said that the company would give a bond guaranteeing the pavement to remain in good condition for ten years. This bond would probably be secured from a guarantee company, and he asked how the city would collect it if it was forfeited.

Ald. McGoldrick—"How did we collect the bonds from clerks and others who had defaulted?"

Ald. Kelley—"You didn't collect them."

Ald. Potts—"Thanks, I didn't know that but now I believe you never collected."

Cured His Rheumatism In Three Weeks.

James LeB. Johnstone, a prominent member of the Citizen's Band, of Chatham, writes:

"I contracted rheumatism by exposure five years ago, and was ailing for two months and in great pain at the time. I got Father Morrissey's No. 7 Tablets and took them for about three weeks, when the rheumatism all left me and I have had no return of the pains since."

Father Morrissey's "No. 7" Tablets have cured thousands of this terribly painful disease.

Rheumatism is generally brought on by exposure, but is really caused by Uric Acid in the blood. This Uric Acid is an irritating poison, formed from the waste matter of the body. The kidneys should remove it, but when they fail it poisons the blood, and, settling in the joints, causes Rheumatism.

"No. 7" Tablets clear out the clogged-up Kidneys and stimulate them to perform their task of filtering the Uric Acid out of the blood. When this is done the Rheumatism simply and naturally vanishes.

"No. 7" Tablets cost 50c. At your dealer's. 28

WEST INDIES COMMISSION TO HOLD SESSION HERE

Montreal, Aug. 20.—A London cable says: The West Indies royal commission to which Honorables W. S. Fielding and William Paterson were appointed held a meeting for organization today at the colonial office. Lord Balfour, of Burleigh, president and all the members were present except Mr. Paterson.

The British commissioners, Lord Balfour of Burleigh, and Sir John Dickson Poynder, Bart., will sail for New York Sept. 11, being unable to secure accommodation by Canadian lines.

It is expected that the first meeting will be held at Ottawa on Sept. 21, and meetings will follow of commercial bodies, if they so desire, at Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, Halifax and St. John. Two or three weeks will be occupied in these hearings.

The commission will then adjourn for several months and resume hearings in the West Indies during one of the winter months.

Ald. McGoldrick—"Oh, we got all that was coming to us."

Ald. Potts—"I don't believe it. You started, but you didn't go far enough."

Ald. McGoldrick—"If we pressed every case to the end there would be a good many men in the penitentiary."

Ald. Potts—"So they should be if they defrauded the city." Continuing, Ald. Potts said the permanent paving in Halifax had added that city with an expenditure much heavier than they could afford.

Ald. Likely announced that he was in favor of permanent paving. Residents of Germain street had expressed their willingness to pay half the cost, and he would agree to the pavement going down there.

Ald. Lewis delivered a lengthy address against the idea. There had been, he said, a deep laid scheme to oust the representatives of the South End wards from the board of works, and they had never got square treatment.

Ald. Scrool seconded Ald. Potts' amendment. He thought local men could be secured to do the work more cheaply.

Ald. Kelley declared himself in favor of permanent paving, but not in favor of doing the Germain street work until Engineer Murdoch had made a definite statement that he considered the Hassan paving the best for the purpose. This Mr. Murdoch had not done. In fact his whole report seemed to have the effect of curing the Hassan pavement with faint praise.

He moved in amendment to the amendment that the report be laid on the table and the engineer be asked to prepare specifications for such streets as he recommended for permanent improvements.

Ald. Baxter seconded this.

Ald. Frink accused Engineer Murdoch of juggling with words by submitting a report which said nothing.

Engineer Murdoch disclaimed any intention of this kind, and when asked by Mayor Bullock to express an opinion as to the Hassan paving, said he thought it was good value for the money, but he would prefer to see a higher priced article used.

Ald. Hayes said he would oppose the present plan for permanent paving on Germain street.

Ald. Vanwart expressed a similar view, and Ald. McGoldrick closed the debate speaking in favor of the proposal.

The amendment to the amendment, the amendment and the original motion were all voted down, and the committee resolved itself into the common council without making any recommendation.

At the council meeting Ald. Kelley then made his motion, that the city engineer be requested to prepare specifications for such streets as he would recommend for permanent improvement. This was seconded by Ald. Baxter and carried, and the council adjourned.

SAYS HE GAVE BRIBE TO ALDERMAN

Montreal, Aug. 20.—A new phase was given to the work of the civic royal commission this afternoon when a representative of the contractors who put in the new elevator at the city hall stated that he had given a bribe of $500 to Alderman Lesperance, chairman of the city hall committee, in order to secure the contract for the new elevator.

The witness was Julius H. Burritt of Cote Bros. & Burritt and in the course of a good deal of cross-examination he admitted that he had at one time laid $200 on Alderman Lesperance's desk and later on had deposited $300 in the same place.

According to Burritt there had been no word of money between himself and Alderman Lesperance but he had considered that he ought to give something to the alderman for services rendered, so he put the $200 on his desk. The money went in some way. Later on Mr. Burritt said it occurred to him that he ought to give Alderman Lesperance some more, so he again put $300 on his desk and again the money went.

NORTH END BOY BADLY HURT

Yesterday afternoon Frank Webster, the nine year old son of Duncan Webster, of 143 Adelaide street, had the ends of the first two fingers of his left hand blown off by a dynamite percussion cap.

The young lad early in the afternoon in company with other boys, had gone to Belmont street, North End, where there is a new building being erected by a Mr. Seymour. The workman had found it necessary to do considerable blasting in digging the cellar and in running a drain through the solid rock to the street.

While playing inside of the building, young Webster found some of the percussion caps used in setting of the less explosive dynamite. He picked up one of these caps and putting it in his pocket took it home. On his arrival there he took it out and after playing with it a while proceeded to explode it. He inserted a nail in the tube of the cylinder of the cap and holding the nail and cap on the stone door step of the house with his left hand he started to pound the head of the nail with a rock. The cap immediately exploded with such force as to tear off the ends of the first two fingers of his left hand and mangle the thumb.

The stone step where the cap had been held was clipped and broken and a hole was driven right in it to the depth of two inches or more. The young son of Motorman John McCollum, of the street railway, who was standing near by, had his leg hurt by the explosion. Medical aid was summoned as soon as possible and last evening young Webster was reported to be coming along nicely.

COMMISSIONERS INSPECT AT GRAND FALLS

Van Buren, Me., Aug. 20—At the session of the St. John River commission yesterday afternoon, W. H. Cunliffe, president of the Madawaska Log Driving Company, told about the driving of logs and the operations of driving companies. He also told of the logs now in the river between Van Buren and Grand Falls.

Joseph Violett and Maxim Martin told of the people on the river in early times from Grand Falls to Edmundston. A number of the employees of the St. John Lumber Company then told of the operations at the sorting works.

A. W. Brown, manager of the St. John Lumber Company, was also examined. His testimony was similar to that given by him on a previous occasion.

This morning the commissioners and counsel inspected the power at Grand Falls. In the afternoon they will return and hold a session here and another one will be held this evening.

CARLETON COUNTY CROPS GOOD

Hartland, N. B., Aug. 20—The week has been rather rainy, but as most farmers have completed haying and harvesting, the rain is beneficial to potatoes, late grain and pasturage. With the exception of hay, there will be an abundant crop of corn, which were almost a complete failure last year, are headed out well, and the kernels are plump. For some years a bumper wheat has been grown but little. This season the acreage is largely in timothy and crop promises well. Potatoes, the most important of all, are in excellent shape and form in a hill. Digging will be general about the first week in September. Apples are plentiful. During recent severe winters the orchards have suffered heavily, but the trees have not been replaced in many places. The late spring frosts killed the greater portion of the crop.

Cattle and sheep are shipped from the county almost every day. They go, for most part, to Houlton (Me.), where they are slaughtered. There is now and then a shipment to Montreal.

Miss Alanda Slat, of Tracey's Mills, has returned home with a visit with her aunt, Mrs. J. W. Adams.

Mrs. J. D. Curry and daughter, Miss Mary, are spending a few days at Deer Island.

S. S. Miller and family are spending a few weeks at the "Ledges," St. Stephen.

There will be an entire change of teachers at the opening of the Hartland school next week. Miss Murray, of Glasgow, will be principal. Miss Clara Shannon will teach the intermediate grades and Miss Sadie Barnett the primary. Having a lady principal is something of an experiment at Hartland, the school has always been in charge of a man. But Miss Murray brings excellent credentials.

Today Prof. W. P. Watson, who holds the chairs of Chemistry and Biology in Furman University, Greenville, S. C., and has been visiting his parents here, leaves for Baltimore, where he will be joined by Mrs. Watson and daughter. From there they will go to Chicago, then to Oshkosh, (Mich.), to attend the International League Association. Afterward they will go to Minneapolis and down the Mississippi river to New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy York and children, of Fort William, arrived here yesterday and are visiting their parents at Victoria, Col.

James Gardner, of Waterville, a prominent farmer, died last evening after a long illness from heart disease. He was 60 years of age and leave two sons, besides his wife.

BRITISH NAVY MEN COMING TO CANADA

London, Aug. 20—The admiralty has lent to Canada a number of naval officers who shortly will proceed to the Dominion and advise on the work of organizing the new Canadian navy, in accordance with the plan agreed upon with the Canadian delegates to the imperial defence conference.

The British government is awaiting ratification by the Canadian parliament of the decisions reached, and it is understood that the work will begin as soon as this is given.

OFFERS A MEDAL

The prize list for the St. John City and County Agricultural Society exhibition on Wednesday, Sept. 29, at Moosepath Park has just been issued. It is gotten up in a very attractive folder form, a new idea that reflects much credit on the secretary, P. R. Patchell. There are some special features this year that will add much to this annual fair of the society. A handsome silver trophy has been offered by W. H. Barnaby for the best horse and carriage, the whole turnout, to be judged, etc. There will also be a special competition for boys and girls of not less than twelve and not more than eighteen years for exhibits consisting of wheat and oats.

The competitor in the inter-society competition receiving the highest score on his exhibit will be awarded a handsome gold medal, donated by James W. Robertson, president of the Macdonald College, Quebec, and of the Canadian Seed Growers Association.

This will be an honor worth striving for.

H. C. TILLEY DEAD IN ST. ANDREWS

A Good Life Ended—Was Forty-One Years Old and was Second Son of the Late Sir Leonard Tilley—Had Been Ill Two Years.

Herbert C. Tilley died at 12.15 this morning at his mother's home in St. Andrews, after an illness extending over two years. Mr. Tilley was a sufferer from locomotor ataxia until comparatively recently, when paralytic complications set in which caused his death. Mr. Tilley was the second son of the late Sir Leonard Tilley. He leaves two brothers, L. A. Tilley of Montreal, and L. P. D. Tilley, barrister, of this city, and three sisters—Miss Julia Tilley, of Toronto; Mrs. Thomas Burpee, of Ottawa, and Mrs. J. D. Chipman, of St. Stephen. His mother, Lady Alice Tilley, and his widow, who was a Miss Tucker before marriage, also survive him.

Few there were among the younger citizens of St. John who occupied as high a place in the public esteem as the late Herbert C. Tilley. A devout Christian, prominently identified with all good works, his entire life was of service to others, one of those men who carried his religion into his every day life and who moulded his every act on the tenets of the golden rule. Forty-one years of age, he was a son of the late Sir Leonard Tilley, one of the fathers of confederation and a lieutenant governor of this province. Following such a father Herbert Tilley carried out the principles inculcated in him by his parents. How well he succeeded can be told by the many whom he has aided, by the various movements for the uplifting of mankind to which he gave unparagonably of his means, his labor and his time, and by the scores of his friends who at some time or other were helped and strengthened by his sympathy, his kindly encouragement or his example.

From his boyhood he had been connected with St. John's (Stone) church Sunday school and associations. An active member of the old St. Mark's Young Men's Association under the spiritual direction and social leadership of the late Rev. John deSoyes, that organization was a force for good in the parish and beyond it, he early became identified in the work of the Sabbath school as teacher, and later for several terms as superintendent. A keen Bible student for a layman, his Sunday Bible class was a weekly period of inspiration and pleasure to those who attended it. In the church corporation he also did much service as a member of vestry board and a synod delegate on numerous occasions. He was a past president of St. Mark's chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and took a keen interest in its work.

But his activities were by no means confined to his church. The Young Men's Christian Association, of which he was a past president, found in him a staunch friend and untiring worker. The Seaman's Institute made large claims upon him, especially in its earlier days. He was one of the progenitors of the movement here and did very much to bring it to its present high plane of successful endeavor. He was also a member of the directorate of the Home for Incurables. Temperance work also attracted him, and he was prominent in the councils of the Sons of Temperance, carrying his membership in old Albion division.

In business life he was regarded as a model of integrity. At first in partnership with the late Ira Cornwall as Cornwall & Tilley, the firm did a large agency and insurance business. Then he became for a time manager of the Harvey & Salisbury Railway, and upon resigning from that carried on an agency business until 1902, when with Frank R. Fairweather he established the firm of Tilley & Fairweather, doing a successful insurance business until he was compelled by his illness to cease active work about two years ago. Since that time he has lived in St. John, in Rothesay and in St. Andrews with his wife and mother, Lady Tilley.

Wolfville, N. S., Aug. 19—A committee meeting of the Baptist denomination was held in Wolfville today to discuss matters relative to work to be brought up at the convention in Halifax. It was decided to ask the convention to appoint a special committee to consider any changes in denominational methods that would be of benefit in carrying on the work. The matter of consolidation of the treasurer's office was taken up, but no decision arrived at. It was decided to recommend that a finance committee be appointed to consist of twelve members, representing the different boards. The matter of field secretary was not touched upon.

Locomotives in the Philippine islands burn lignite. Many of these new engines have been shipped to the islands within the past few months. The tenders have cylinder water tanks. Lignite is a mineral coal retaining the texture of wood from which it is formed. There are vast fields of this coal in the Philippines, and it gives off intense heat. The new locomotives, which were built in an American factory, are of a somewhat different model from the ones used in this country, on account of the prevailing conditions regarding climate and the roadbed.

The Evening Times

ST. JOHN, N. B., AUGUST 20, 1909.

Schools, Chapters on Reformatories and Convict Prisons, Houses of Reception and Training Schools for institutional officers follow, in properly related sequence, with the daily routine of the successive institutions minutely outlined. The final chapter on discipline is uniquely original, vigorous and comprehensive.

The book is issued from the press of the Elmira, N. Y., Star-Gazette, and will be greatly valued by students of social problems.

PUBLIC CONTROL. The New York Journal of Commerce is emphatically in favor of placing telegraph and telephone companies under the supervision of the public service commissions of the state.

Measures for the Material Progress and Moral Advancement of our Great Dominion. No Craft No Deals. The Shamrock, Thistle, Rose entwined The Maple Leaf forever.

COST OF PROPERTY. The amount of money spent by the New York Department of Charities in the course of a year is enormous, and one reads with surprise that no less than 2,370 persons are employed by the department.

CRIME PROBLEM. Col. V. M. Masten, military instructor at the New York State Reformatory, has written a book on the Crime Problem, what to do about it, and how to do it.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE ARRESTED. London, Aug. 20.—Eight suffragettes, including Mrs. Despard and Mrs. Saunders, were arrested on Downing street today in connection with the picketing of the house.

MONOPOLISING WATER POWER. It would be the part of practical wisdom for the president of the United States to order a thorough inquiry into the charges made by Mr. Pinchot at the National Irrigation Congress.

THE DEAD ENGINE. Just back of the door, on the playground floor. With drivers shining bright. And the yards are lonely to-night.

IN LIGHTER VEIN. BETTER STILL. Let poets sing. Of gentle spring. When it starts their wheels awhirl!

TIME-SAVERS. "I speak," said Uncle Eben, "dat one read dis corporation bill, dat one see dat when dey has any indignation to express or any argument to make, dey take down de book, den dey read de law."

NEVER OUT OF SIGHT. Wife (excitedly)—"If you go on, like this, I will certainly leave you." Husband (calmly)—"No danger, my dear. A thing of that size is not easy to lose."

THE REASON. "Bridget, how does it happen that I saw you yesterday at the window looking at me like a piece in the kitchen last night?"

THE CITY MAN WAS LOGGING ON TOWARD the summer boarding house in a rocky old wagon. The driver was slum and far from contented.

THE INGLENOOK PHILOSOPHER of Kennebecus Bay. A white hearse followed by a long procession of carriages moved solemnly by a few days since, and over the hills and down to the church on the shore of the bay.

After a touching service the little one was laid away in the graveyard surrounding the church, there to slumber until the hoped for resurrection, the dawn of which may be centuries hence.

Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," but what we understand by inhumanity is human from first to last. It is born in us, grows with our growth, and waxes fat to the end.

Whitehead, Kings Co., August 17. A MOVEMENT for a "greater Philadelphia" is slowly crystallizing, and in the forefront of that movement will be the imperative demand for the clearing of the city's channels to the sea, the expansion of its port facilities and the total abolition of every unjust transportation discrimination which now retards its natural growth.

THE GIANTS' CHANCES FOR NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT

New York Sporting Writers Say They Can Still Win It—Pitching Record Almost Equalled—Newsy Notes of Sport of Many Kinds.

The National Baseball Commission, in session this week at Cincinnati has given a decision that the St. Paul American Association Club must pay the New York National team $1,000 for catcher Tom Needham.

The New York Club's claim against the Pittsburgh Club was ordered to pay $300 to the Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Club for failing to keep an exhibition date on July 18.

It is not too late for the Giants to win the National League pennant. They are going at a fast clip now, and if they keep it up the fans expect to see them make a roaring finish. It is a fact that the team began to take a new lease on life from the moment that Cy Seymour resumed playing and Fred Merkle supplanted Tennyson at first base.

Crawford and Cobb are keeping the Detroit on the top in the American League race. Both have passed the hundredth mark in hits. Cobb has made 122 in ninety-six games and Crawford 117 in ninety-seven contests.

"Big Ed" Reulbach, the phenomenal pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, lost his opportunity on Saturday to create a new world's record. He had won fourteen straight, equalling Jack Chesbro's record, and was expected to establish a new pitching mark. Chance put a stop to the Chicago pitcher's record by hitting the wonderful Chicago leaver in the sixth and the great streak of McGraw's men giving New York a victory by 5 runs to 2.

Harry Wolverton, Newark's manager, is on the slate to succeed Joe Cantillon as manager of the Washington American League team next season. The New York American League Club, which secured Wolverton by draft from Williamsport last year, still has a string in the Newark manager. Secretary Kowle, of the Nationals, was a spectator at a recent Newark-Montreal game, as was also Big Chief Stallings of the Yankees. It is no secret that Stallings wants Pitcher Walter Johnston and the Washington Club a new manager, so two and two make four, and the fact that McGraw's team has accepted more chances than any other club in the league is no wonder.

Montreal is carrying more players than any other club in the Eastern League. Manager Casey has seventeen on his roster on the present trip.

First baseman Kenethy is doing the star playing for the St. Louis Club. The big first baseman is hitting the ball hard and scoring often. He has made eight hits in the last four games and now has 87 for 88 games. He has tallied 50 points. One-half of his hits and runs have been made since June 28.

Murray of the New York Giants has struck a good gut that he is keeping up. With one of his leading finishers, which two hits a game, getting fitter in that time. He also showed speed on the sack, stealing six bases.

A special meeting of the directors of the Eastern League is being held at Rochester, N. Y. President Powers called the meeting to order. These members are present: "Red" Hanlon, of Baltimore; A. B. Potter, of Buffalo; J. J. McCreedy, of Toronto; and Charles T. Chasin, of Rochester, comprising the board of directors. Protested games will take up most of the time. Rochester has two to be put LANCASTER, ONT. CARRIED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES" These Wonderful Fruit Juice Tablets Are Winning Friends on Every Side.

Lancaster, Ont., Sept. 18, 1909. I was a sufferer for many years to that distressing complaint, chronic Constipation. I tried many kinds of pills and medicines without benefit, until I consulted a physician, but nothing did me any real good. Then I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" and these wonderful little fruit tablets entirely cured me.

Lily Lake Sports. With fine weather there can be no question of the success of the water sports to be held under the auspices of the Ontario Rowing Association in Lily Lake this afternoon. Owing to the great interest taken and the large list of entries it has been decided to call the races at 2:30 instead of 3 o'clock.

MILLIONAIRE AND SON BOTH SUED FOR DIVORCE. Philadelphia, Aug. 21—Suits for divorce from Warner W. Croxton, started here by Mrs. E. B. Steek Croxton, daughter of Edward M. Steek, the millionaire coal man, who himself is being sued by his wife, Mrs. Mary B. Steek, for divorce on the grounds of desertion.

Costumes for Traveling. Years have changed the various styles in traveling costumes as the elaborateness of travel has decreased. In the past special occasions such as traveling meant the necessity of many new gowns, many of them very elaborate, but nowadays a woman going from one city to another goes herself about the same as though she were going downtown on a shopping tour.

DRAWING MILL PONDS IN SEARCH FOR WOMAN. No Trace of Mrs. Benson up to This Morning—Search Still Kept Up.

A telephone message from Norton states that there is still no trace of the missing Mrs. Wm. Benson, but that parties are still diligently searching for her. A report that she had been seen crossing the track a few miles west of Norton, was found to be untrue.

HARVESTERS HELD UP FOR $4 HEAD TAX. Sarnia, Ont., Aug. 21—(Special)—Several harvesters bound for the Canadian Northwest, who took the route via Chicago, had an unpleasant experience at Fort Huron, where United States Immigration officials held them up for $4 head tax. To some of the men passage through the United States was refused altogether.

ONLY ONE DAY'S RACING AT MONCTON. Moncton, N. B., Aug. 21—(Special)—It has been decided by the directors of the local "speedway" to have only one day's meet in September on account of the large race meetings being held on other tracks during the same week.

NEW BATTLESHIPS FOR UNITED STATES. Camps Offer to Build 26,000 Ton Ship for $4,500,000. Washington, D. C., Aug. 20—Bids for the construction of the two 26,000 ton battle ships, the Arkansas and the Wyoming, were opened at the Navy Department.

For Women Over Fifty. Many elderly women complain that there are no fashions for women over 50 years of age, but such is not the case. The elderly woman may have to consider lines if she is over fifty, but she may still wear any hat that is becoming to her, and there are many lines on her face. But one of the important things is the way her garments are made.

Bathing Suits. There has been a number of changes in the styles of bathing suits for women during the past few years, but that of this season probably is the most extreme. Princess gowns being in favor, the bathing suits are made on the same lines.

Problems of the Week End Trip. On a week-end trip a great deal depends on the amount of baggage one is to take. What clothing to take along is a question. If the trip is to be an outing in the country, just a pleasure jaunt where any kind of clothes will do, one should take the "good-time tops," simply the sweater, duck shirt and two or three simple blouses.

PRISONERS BREAK FOR FREEDOM
 Montreal, Aug. 20—A desperate break for liberty was made tonight by ten prisoners in the Bedford jail at Sweetsburg who attacked the turnkey and beat him almost into insensibility before help arrived and they were arrested.

The regular jailer was away on a holiday and the prison was in charge of Deputy Scott, who is 75 years of age. When he started tonight to lock up the ten prisoners they turned on him, evidently as the result of a plot, and seizing his keys beat him over the head with them.

The old man shouted for help and his family heard the cries, calling in High Constable Boisvert, who appeared with a revolver. After a sharp struggle all the prisoners were landed behind the bars, where they will probably have an extension to their term as a result of their break for freedom.

The ringleader in the revolt was a prisoner named Staggie, who is serving a short sentence for vagrancy, and the plans had gone so far that a rope had been hung from one of the windows for the prisoners to descend.

Scott is confined to the hospital as a result of the attack and will be permanently disabled.

FINES ON THE G. T. P.
 Division Engineer Balkam, of the Transcontinental, arrived in the city on the Boston express last evening. To The Telegraph last night Mr. Balkam said that as a result of Police Commissioner L. P. Farris' activities in Boston, seven dealers have been fined $50 each and one man will go to jail for selling liquor within the ten mile limit on the G. T. P. construction work.

On August 18 Commissioner Farris held his court and convicted George Burgoyne, Henry Soucy, Remi Levesque, Joseph B. Levesque, James T. Clair and Augustus O'Brien, all of whom paid their fine of $50 imposed by the commissioner. On August 19 he had two more convictions. On Philip Savoie paid his fine but Joseph Cyr went to jail in default of payment.

Mr. Balkam reported that the work on the Transcontinental is being pushed along rapidly, although there has been some delay lately on account of wet weather. Mr. Balkam also reports that Chief Foster, of the G. T. P. police, is very ill at Hartland with typhoid fever and that when the express passed through Hartland yesterday afternoon little or no hope was held by the doctors attending him for his recovery.

Hints for Housekeeper
 A few drops of lemon squeezed in the water in which potatoes are boiled, just before they are done, will prevent them from turning black.

Paint which sticks to glass can be removed with vinegar.

If some soda is mixed with flour in making ginger cookies with sour milk instead of being dissolved in milk, as is the usual way, they will be very much lighter.

Cooking with curry powder makes a delicious change in the preparation of meats, rice, eggs and fish. Curry powder is an invention of the Anglo-Indian and most housewives know very little about it.

Paint wooden panels and tubs with glycerine to prevent shrinking.

MAY ROBSON NEXT WEEK.
 The opening for August 23 at the Opera House will be that charming actress, May Robson, in The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary, by Anne Warner. Miss Robson has been playing before large audiences nightly in the quaint role of Aunt Mary which is brimful of tenderness and sentiment.

She realizes the Aunt Mary of Miss Warner's creation as no other actress could, and maintains the easy dignity of

 The true gentleman that Aunt Mary's admirers wish her to be. Aunt Mary is so funny that the three acts ripple and bubble with laughter and there is not a single dull moment during the entire performance. The piece is fairly brimming over with witty speeches and laughable episodes. It presents several situations which are truly side-splitting. Miss Robson has been given able support in every member of the company, and a very fine production, making the comedy in its entirety one of the best to be seen in this city.

NICKEL TODAY AND ON MONDAY
 Those who like good entertainment who have been asking all week if the Nickel could not hold the Bush Family of musicians over for another week will be glad to know that telegraphic communication has made this possible. On Monday therefore their bill will be as follows: (a) Trapeze-Schumann; (b) violin solo, "Scene de Ballet (Bolero) by Debierot and (c) Surpe's "Poet and Peasant." Overture with the Nickel orchestra. This is a truly lovely programme and will be immensely enjoyed. DeWitt Cairns, who shortly returns to scenic Temple, Boston, will continue his short engagement Monday in the best ballads of the day. There will be a whole set of the latest pictures to be shown Monday, Today the Nickel will be headquarters for the half holiday folks and children.

MOSCOW, the Onetime Capital of RUSSIA

Palace of Peter the Great

Though Moscow is an old city, great effort and large sums of money have been spent making the place modern and attractive. Everywhere are the houses surrounded with trees and gardens brilliant in color and laid out with exquisite care.

That the city is old is shown because it is irregular and without plans, but there are new sights at every turn. The city is inclosed by a number of old gates. Passing under an ancient gate one reaches a narrow street suggesting an Eastern town.

Arch of Triumph

ed by the small river Moskva. This is a rich in churches and shrines. The most sacred of all these minor chapels is the Iversky Virgin, situated at the gate. The exterior walls are made of imitation malachite; the roof is a sky-blue cupola spangled with gilt stars.

Church of the Holy Virgin is Arabian and Byzantine, with a suggestion of Indian on the fourth story. The palace is in the form of a square. The state apartments are particularly rich and are in good taste. The hall of St. George is 200 feet by 65 wide and 35 high.

What Causes Beri-Beri

Science now claims to have discovered the cause of beri-beri, the mysterious Oriental plague with the curious alternative name. Beri-beri, which has come under American observation only when the Oriental crew of some tramp steamer has put into port dying with the disease like flies, is now stated to come from eating bad rice. It is not considered infectious, although it might be contagious if the person lived for a length of time familiarly with beri-beri patients.

Ivory Gate

The Purification of Cairo

The cleansing of the Augean Stables of Greek fame is being more than equaled by the British government which is now making a determined effort to clean up Cairo, that Egyptian city which for generations has made Europeans shudder and hold their noses at the mere mention of the city's name.

With the keeping of the refuse far from the cool vaults of enormous size and with the carrying out of the plan to partially cook the garbage into a sort of charcoal, the British commissioners hope to get a start on cleaning up Cairo—a job no other of its numerous past governments ever gave a thought to as being within the range of human possible accomplishment.

CHILD WAS STILL MISSING LAST NIGHT

Stellarton, N. S., Aug. 20.—Large parties are still searching for the child of William for the lost Mueller child. The citizens of Westville turned out in large numbers Friday but found a fruitless search.

Mayor Campbell of Stellarton had an interview with the managers of the different mines, Acadia, Albin, Drummond and Alkanna, and they agreed that about the child not to be found by Saturday night that they would try their men and furnish teams to make a final search at 9 a.m. Sunday.

The Drummond mine officials have agreed to run special trains Sunday morning over their line to give free conveyance to all a near point to the woods that are being searched.

The underbrush is very thick in the vicinity and besides there are many old trial pits filled with water and almost overgrown where a child might easily be lost.

CANADA FOR CHEAPER CABLES

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The report that Canada has blocked a movement for cheaper cable rates by declining to participate in a cable conference is without foundation.

The record of the present government demonstrates that it is, and has always been, strongly in favor of cheapening cable rates. This is shown by the fact that the government strongly promoted the state-owned cable, which has been established between Canada and Australia.

BROTHERS ARE ARRESTED

Moncton, N. B., Aug. 20.—Ben LeBlanc and brother, Tillan, were arrested here this evening by the police on a charge of breaking and entering Fred Bourque's house on Paines Road this morning and stealing $45 in cash.

When taken to the police station one of the prisoners confessed and disclosed the hiding place of the money. They buried the money on the outskirts of the city and the prisoner, who confessed took the police to the spot and the money was recovered.

WOODSTOCK MAN IN GOLF FINALS

Halifax, Aug. 20.—Ideal weather conditions favored the golfers today in their play for the maritime province championship. The links were in excellent condition, and the semi-finals brought out the best playing seen here in years.

The play in both matches was very close, and it was some time before the winners were finally decided. Henderson and Sprague play off tomorrow for the maritime championship.

Henderson is considered one of the best players in eastern Canada, having for many years played in the old country.

In the consolation match, C. A. Evans, Halifax, defeated W. T. Sprague, Woodstock, by one hole, and Peter Jack, Halifax, defeated Owen James, Halifax, by one hole. Evans and Jack will play off tomorrow.

THE HUMAN FACE

(By Elbert Hubbard)

The human face is the masterpiece of God. A woman's smile may have in it more sublimity than a sunset; more warmth than the sun's bright rays; more pathos than a battle-scarred landscape; more love than words can say.

The eyes reveal the soul, the mouth the flesh, the chin stands for purpose; the nose means will.

But over and behind all is that fleeting something we call "expression." This something is not set or fixed; it is fluid as the ether, changeable as the clouds that move in mysterious majesty across the surface of the summer sky, subtle as the sob of rustling leaves—too faint at times for human ears—relative as the ripples that play hide and seek over the bosom of a placid lake.

And yet men have caught expression and held it captive on a canvas. On the walls of the Louvre hangs the Mona Lisa of Leonardo da Vinci. This picture has been for four hundred years an exasperation and an inspiration to every portrait painter who has put brush to palette. Well does Walter call "The Despair of Painters."

The artist was over fifty years of age when he began the work, and was four years in completing the task.

There is in the face all you can read into it, and nothing more. It is given you what you bring, and nothing else. It is as silent as the lips of Memnon, as voiceless as the Sphinx. It suggests to you every joy that you have ever felt, every triumph you have ever experienced.

This woman is beautiful, just as all life is beautiful when we are in health. She has no quarrel with the world—she loves and she is loved again.

No vain longing fills her heart; no feverish unrest disturbs her dreams; for her no crouching fear haunts the passing hours. That ineffable smile which says plainly that life is good.

And yet the circles about the eyes and the drooping lids hint of world-weariness and speak the message of Koleheth and say, "Vanities of vanities, all is vanity."

La Gioconda is infinitely wise, for she has lived.

That supreme poise is only possible to one who knows.

All the experiences and emotions of manifold existence have etched and moulded that form and face until she has become the perfect instrument of the soul. Like every piece of intense personality, this picture has power both to repel and attract.

To this woman nothing is either nearly good or bad. She has known strange woodland loves in far off acorns when the world was young. She is familiar with the night and doves of Hepatira, for they were all hers—the lavish luxury, the animalism of a soul on fire, the smoke of curious incense that brought poppy-like repose; the satiety that sickens—all these were her portion; the sting of the asp yet lingers in her memory, and the faint scar from its fangs is upon her white breast, known and wondered at by Leonardo, who loved her.

Back of her stretches her life, a mysterious purple shadow. Do you not see the palaces turned to dust, the broken columns, the smitten treasures, the creeping mosses and the rank ooze of fretted waters that have undermined cities and tumbled kingdoms into desert seas?

The galaxy of pagan Greece have swung wide for her on the forgetting tide, for her soul dwelt in the body of Helen of Troy, and Pallas Athene has followed her ways and whispered to her the secrets of the gods. Aye! not only was she Helen, but she was Leto, the mother of Apollo, and next she was Mary, visited by an angel in a dream, and followed by the Wise Men, who had seen the Star in the East. The centuries that are but thoughts, found her a Vestal Virgin in pagan Rome, "Pompeii's last," then Saint Cecilia, mother of sacred music and later ministered to men as Nicodemus, the Num of Tiber; next the daughter of William the Conqueror, the Sister of Charity who went through Italy, Spain and France, visiting the sick, the nunnery to sew, to weave, to embroider, to illuminate books and make beauty, truth and harmony manifest to all.

And so this Lady of the Beautiful Hands stood to Leonardo, the embryo of a perpetual life, living in a constantly ascending scale, gathering wisdom, gracefulness, love, even as he himself in this life met every experience half-way and counted it joy, knowing that experience is the germ of power.

Life has become the perfect instrument of the soul. Like every piece of intense personality, this picture has power both to repel and attract.

The human face is the masterpiece of God.

SIX HUNDRED AT CLOSING OF GROUNDS

The closing exercises of the public play grounds operated at the Centennial stadium were largely attended yesterday afternoon.

An excellent programme was carried out as follows: Solo, "The Maple Leaf," with chorus of girls, Miss Burnett Callahan.

Recitation by Miss Caroline Robertson. Solo by Miss Celis Amur. Recitation by Miss Elsie Allan.

Club singing by Miss Agnes McNeil. Solo by Miss Jessie Hill. Recitation by Miss Marion Roberts.

Opening Fur Sale

Our Fur season is now well under way. Purchasers who appreciate the advantage of placing early orders to secure first selection and the advantages of special Summer Prices are placing substantial orders for immediate and future delivery.

One order received now is worth more to us than two in the busy season, because our labor cost is only one half as much as it will be later on.

We are making these special price reductions to encourage early buying and to save lower cost of making up at this season.

Our Fur opening this year will be marked by special inducements never before offered by us at this season.

We want to impress you early with the important fact, that although Dunlap-Cooke Furs are high class, they are not necessarily high priced—in fact the securing of our supply of raw skins direct from the trappers, manufacturing on the premises, and supplying the requirements of particular people, enables us to produce finer furs at the lowest possible wholesale costs; then our method of selling direct from the trapper to wearer, avoiding middlemen's profits, gives us an advantage in the Fur trade that we could not possibly have if we did business on a smaller scale and the multiplied profits under the old methods of the general dealer.

The whole tendency throughout the manufacturing world today, as well as in the profession is to specialize—concentrate all one's forces to the mastering of one line. Our business is Furs—from the raw material to the finished article. We devote all our time, skill and experience to the buying and manufacturing of Furs on a large scale. Our Boston House looks to the designing of our Furs and you may rely upon getting the best. If quality and price count with you here are examples of how the specializing in our business works out. Compare these prices and values and remember the prices furs brought last season. This sale opens Monday, Aug. 23rd.

In order to secure your Furs in advance of requirements and to take advantage of special Summer Prices without investing the money till goods are needed, a deposit of 10 per cent of the value will entitle you to have furs laid aside for delivery when required.

GUN PLAY AGAIN AT PITTSBURG STRIKE

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 20.—An alleged attempt to set fire to the plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company at McKees Rocks early today followed by much disorder when the striking employes of the car company fired several shots at over 100 men who were being taken into the works about noon, kept the state constabulary and deputy sheriffs on the alert for twelve hours today.

New cars shipped away today indicate that the company is successful in operating the works at least on a small scale with the imported workmen.

The women strike sympathizers became excited during the afternoon and the Amalgamated Society of Engineers gathered at the gate of the car plant and threw heavy paving stones over the stock yards.

The women gathered near the car company's restaurant and resumed their stone throwing. Inside of the restaurant at this time were many clerks and office employees of the plant. Suddenly the windows were shattered and stones began flying about the heads of the men in the place.

The mounted troops rode into the crowd of foreign women and plied their clubs lustily.

Early today bundles of riot rods soaked in oil were found lighted near the paint house of the plant.

STILL GRASPED PISTOL IN DEATH

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Lying on a bed in his room at the Nottingham rooming house, Jarvis street, with a discharged revolver still grasped in his hand, a man about fifty years old, who had given the name of F. Brown, but who is believed to be W. F. Fley, was found dead, shot through the mouth, at 8 o'clock this morning.

He must have shot himself during the night, as he was quite cold when found. It is not thought the dead man's name is Brown. When the police searched the body they found that there were some militia discharge papers from Halifax, and the name on them is W. F. Fley. He gave the name of Brown when he went to the rooming house, said Inspector Davis.

ARNOLD SAYS $1,000 WORTH OF GOODS STOLEN

What looks like evidence of a long continued series of robberies was brought to light yesterday following the arrest of Walter Patrick, on suspicion of theft from Arnold's department store, Charlotte street. Goods which were identified by G. H. Arnold, the proprietor, as having been taken from his store and which he valued at about $900 were found at the residence of his brother, Hugh Patrick, 37 Winter street. Mr. Arnold thinks, however, that the goods he lost aggregated in value $1,000.

The prisoner, who is 25 years of age had been employed in the store for the last two years. He seems to have borne a good character. Mr. Arnold said yesterday that the young man, who he thought was a good character, had been in the store for about two years.

At the windows, according to Mr. Arnold, were hung delicate lace curtains, behind which were heavy tapestry curtains. The walls were covered with expensive, framed pictures, especially the latter part of the store, which were worth about $1,000.

Scattered about in various parts of the room were jardiniere of elegant design, dainty folding tables, a china cabinet, boxes of records, four umbrellas and numerous other articles. All these things, with the exception of the pictures, Mr. Arnold identified as having been taken from his store. They were packed in boxes, trunks and barrels, placed on a truck and taken to the central police station, where they were locked up for safe-keeping.

In the meantime, however, Miss Arnold says she learned that Patrick had been in the habit of sending parcels out of the cellar door. These, contrary to the custom of the house, had no labels on them but Miss Arnold said that the parcels would give the boys five or ten cents to carry them to his brother's house in Winter street, which they did in all instances.

After dinner Detective Killen with Mr. Arnold called at the home of Hugh Patrick to make investigations. Here Mr. Arnold says they made every search but in the house in Moore street. Among other things he says there were two closets filled with the most expensive glassware and china were handled in the store. There were plates of Japanese ware which sold for from forty-five cents to more than $1 apiece and equally expensive English ware. There were fancy cups and saucers worth ninety cents and candlesticks which sold as high as $2 each.

Mr. Arnold said yesterday that Hugh Patrick claimed to have bought most of these goods from his brother, who represented that he could buy them cheaper and sell them cheaper than anyone else.

Everything was, however, packed up in barrels and boxes and taken to the central station. Altogether Mr. Arnold valued the goods taken from the two houses at between $600 and $800. "Considering, however," said Mr. Arnold, "the chances Patrick had and the fact that he was known to be almost constantly giving presents to his friends, I am inclined to think that the total value of goods stolen is $1,000."

Between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Patrick was taken before Judge Ritchie and formally remanded to jail. After being remanded the prisoner, in the custody of Policeman Scott, was taken to Rowe's studio, Charlotte street, where his photograph was taken. The police are still working on the case last night following up clues to other goods supposed to have been stolen from Arnold's department store by Patrick.

OUR LITTLE FAIRIES

Robert, Civilian and Warrior

(By Maud Walker.)
Robert was not a boy. Neither was Robert a man. Robert was a cat. He was not an ordinary feline, but a very high-toned, well-bred one. He was as sleek as a diet of raw eggs, rich sweet milk, and dainty bits of fish could make him. And he had brushings and brushings every day and every day. Sometimes Robert wondered if his beautiful fur would not all be brushed off, if he was brushed and brushed so much.

But Robert did not hate being brushed half so much as he hated being kissed and embraced by the old lady who owned him. Had his mistress been a little girl—or even a boy, and a bad boy at that—he could have endured life as he lived it (in a fashionable house) with less weariness and discontent than he did. But each day she went driving poor Robert was taken along being held in the old lady's fat arms or stuffy lap. But on this morning Robert was alone. And the feeling was so sweet that he lay and purred gently to himself. Then something happened that changed the whole plan of his life. A great green grasshopper hopped his way. Cat instinct told Robert to catch the bopper. He leaped about trying to lay paw on the active insect but the little sprightly hopper was too watchful for Robert, and bridged him a merry chase. At last it hopped right into the thick hedge which bordered the grounds of Robert's mistress' home. Then it hopped into the sunny open space beyond the hedge. Robert was all excitement from the chase—the first time he had ever gone after prey—and he decided to follow, if following were possible. So he

Thus an hour went by and Robert found himself in the wild woods where birds filled the trees and where squirrels ran hither and thither. Now he was in his glory and forgot the grasshopper that had led him to this lonely and delightful place. He did not know that he had left the town and entered the woods that bordered a great river and beyond which lay a long chain of high hills, wild and full of small animals. And over this river stretched a bridge approached by a country road.

Robert wandered about in the woods most of the afternoon, and getting hungry, fell to catching occasional grasshoppers and wood crickets. And he enjoyed this sort of diet more than he did the bits of white fish, raw eggs and sweet milk. It was his cat nature dominating him.

Getting thirsty Robert went to the river and drank from it. This feat was rather a difficult one, and twice Robert almost fell into the roaring stream. But he learned many things that afternoon, drinking from the edge of the river being one of them.

At last night settled down and Robert, instead of being lonely, felt the keenest enjoyment of his surroundings. How happy he was to be free! Ah, now he could purr about, contented for live creatures that might be his enemies or prove to be his prey. Now he could nap on a bed of soft dry leaves, ever so softly, as in the manner of a cat. But not for one moment did he long to return to the house where the old lady reigned supreme. At different times he did feel desires for his own kind. Not that he had ever known another cat. He had seen them prowling about, had seen the homestead chase them with a broom; but he had never made the acquaintance of one of them as much as he should have liked to do so.

The next day in the woods passed in much the same manner as did the first day. Robert ate grasshoppers and crickets and drank river water. But his appetite prompted him to return to town, to another quarter of the town—a place where the houses were plain and close together, and where many children played in the streets, and where dogs and cats—yes, cats—ran about at their own sweet will or fought battles on dog fences and in alleysways.

At first Robert started a bit afraid of the fellow life as he was the "King Tom of the Alley." He grew and grew, and many a time against his better judgment, he would endeavor to coax him by placing plates of fresh food for him and calling this "dear little kitty, kitty! Pretty kitty, come here!" But Robert always kept his distance, eying his would-be-friends with suspicion. Somehow they resembled in that part of the old lady, and Robert would rather have died than ever to have been taken into captivity again. So he continued to live the life of an alley cat, as happy in his freedom and numerous fights as it is possible for a cat to be. And he became a boy and a warrior, and many a time he had heard a fierce growl, and looking behind him, beheld a large, yellow cat, a enough to be his rival, yellow cat, a enough to be his rival.

He beheld a large, fierce-eyed, fighting-tailed, yellow cat, old enough to be his father.

brought new cause for discontent to Robert, for with each day cat-nature developed amazingly, and the old lady became more and more objectionable to him. Sometimes he scratched her, for which behavior she would give him gentle slaps, slaps that only irritated him more and more.

One day Robert lay on the green grass in the yard back of the fine big house where he lived. For some reason unknown to him the old lady had allowed him out of her sight longer than usual this morning. She may have had callers, or she may have been out shopping. But she was not out riding in her basket phaeton, for when

How Nita Was Punished

Mamma, please tell me a goodnight story." So begged little Gracie Adams of her mother. The clock had just struck eight and it was the hour for Gracie to go to bed.

"Very well, dearie," promised Mrs. Adams. "What sort of story do you want?"

"I like fairy stories best, mamma," replied Gracie.

Then, as soon as Gracie was in her little white nightgown, she snuggled close beside her mamma in a big story-hollow, prepared to give close attention to the good-night story.

"Well," began Mrs. Adams, "this story I am about to tell is of a little girl called Nita, and of her punishment for being very naughty one time during her mamma's absence. She was left in the company of her aged great-grandmother, who was although Nita felt ashamed of having tried to deceive old Granny, she nevertheless got the old lady's stick for her, for she was too anxious to get back to her dolls to run to the spring and get the water.

"After her aged grandmother had hobbled to the spring for a drink, Nita sat by her dolls. She sat busily sewing on a little blue frock for one of her dolls, a pretty pink silk (a remnant her mamma had bought for the purpose) to be trimmed in most blind. Before her mamma departed from home she told Nita to be very kind to old Granny, and to perform any little errands for the old lady that she might wish to have done. Nita promised to obey; but the very first thing that Granny asked her to do, she pouted and acted very naughtily. And all Granny had asked of her was a cold drink of water to be brought from the spring, which was near to the kitchen door. But Nita was playing with her dolls and did not want to take the time to go to the spring, so she got a dipper of water from the big wooden pail which stood on a bench in the kitchen, thus saving herself five minutes' exertion going to and from the spring for fresh water. Granny put the water to her lips, but finding it warm, said she could not drink it. "Why, it's from the spring," declared Nita, thinking that she was telling the whole truth, for, of course, the water had originally come from the spring, but it had been in the pail for sometime. But she knew she was deceiving her old grand-

The Five Little Boatmen

But one got tired and quit his job;
Then there were only four.

Four little boys kept rowing along
(They were on the Tombigbee),
But one fell over and swam ashore,
Then there were only three.

Three little boys still bravely rowed,
The boat was trim and new;
But one got seasick and went home,
Then there were only two.

Two little boys in the boat remained
Till the setting of the sun,
Then one to supper hurried home,
And then there was but one.

One little boy in the boat rowed fast
Till there came a heavy rain;
Then he got out and ran for home,
So no boy did remain.

Little Nellie's Fairy

(By MARY GRAHAM.)
Oh, Mamma, just see what I found in my slipper this morning when I got out of bed!" cried little Nellie Long, rushing into her mother's room. And she held up a great, fat, candy pear, beautifully tinted. "Isn't it lovely, Mamma? And who do you suppose brought it to me? It must have been a fairy, for it isn't time for Santa Claus to come with gifts."

Mamma smiled and looked at the fine candy pear and said: "Well, we shall have to be on the watch for the fairy so we can thank her—or him."

"Oh, there are no boys or men fairies, are there, Mamma?" asked Nellie, with some surprise occasioned by her mother's remark. "I thought they were all girls and women fairies."

"No, I think there are fairies of both sexes," explained mamma. "Of course, as I never yet saw a fairy, nor have I ever talked with one, I cannot say much about them. But I dare say there are both boys and girls and men and women among the fairies—if there really are fairies."

"Oh, Mamma, I don't doubt that there are fairies," declared Nellie. "Why, who else but a fairy could have brought this lovely candy pear to me? Oh, I shall be sure to watch every night for the fairy's return." And Nellie danced about the room in glee, holding her new gift in her hands. "I shall not eat it, it is too precious," she said. "And I want the fairy to know how much I value her little gift."

Then Nellie's mamma helped her to get dressed for breakfast, for the little maid had been too much excited on discovering the candy pear in her slipper to make her toilet, and had been dancing and jumping about in her white nightgown and slippers.

At the breakfast table Nellie held her hands behind her till her papa came into the room. "Guess what I have in my hands," cried Nellie, looking up into his face with a happy smile. "Guess you have a well, well, what have you?" asked her papa, also smiling. "Guess you have a—well, a rabbit."

A well-known proverb is hidden in the following sentences, each sentence containing but one word of the proverb. If the words are rightly guessed and written together they will form the proverb:

One with a good conscience is charitable to others.

HELP!
(Baltimore Sun.)
During the absence of his wife from home, a man engaged a new cook, a country girl not long in the city. Although a good servant, the newcomer evinced a distressing unfamiliarity with the gas range. It became necessary for her employer to go to the kitchen and explain the modus operandi of the range. He gave her quite a demonstration, and lit every one of the many burners. While thus busily occupied he was interrupted by the call of a friend.
"I think you understand the range now," said he, and he went upstairs. He soon forgot the matter, and did not see the girl for several days. When he did it was again in the kitchen, for it occurred to him to go thither to see how the range was working.
"Everything is going nicely, sir," said the cook. "That's the nicest stove I've ever seen. You kindled it for me four days ago, and would you believe, sir, it's still burning and hasn't lowered even one!"

OPERA HOUSE PLACE OF BEAUTY, MANY CHANGES

Fresh From Hands of Painters and Decorators, A Surprise Awaits the People.

When the St. John Opera House is opened on Monday evening, after a period of eight weeks in the hands of cleaners and decorators, it will be an auditor-him for St. John to be proud of, for it is doubtful if a handsomer or more attractive looking play house is to be found in the Dominion. There are larger houses, but for tasteful decoration and general cleanliness, it would be impossible to beat the local theatre.

Never before has the building received such an extensive overhauling. From floor to ceiling and wall to wall, every inch has been washed and painted or varnished.

Like a New Place

The first impression received on entering is that the old Opera House has been replaced by a brand new structure. The eye is first attracted by the new box stalls in front, and a little to one side of the looking play house is to be found in the Dominion. There are larger houses, but for tasteful decoration and general cleanliness, it would be impossible to beat the local theatre.

Around the proscenium arch eighteen new lights have been placed in attractive brass chandeliers of three shades. The walls are painted in several shades of green with trimmings in gold, and the ceiling is finished in light green and golden green with scroll designs and large panels of dark brown. A very artistic fresco borders the walls, at the ceiling.

Above the boxes the former large wall is relieved by handsome large arches in which a golden vase is shown with immense burning. These are the shrines of Beethoven and Shakespeare, and are emblematic of music, and the drama.

The large electric chandelier in the centre has been rebranded, and new shades provided for the lights on the ceiling. The ironwork fronting the balcony and gallery presents a fine appearance, also with new paint and gold trimming.

The floor has been covered with linoleum which will protect the dresses of the ladies, and alterations have been made in the seats, so that theatre goers will find them more comfortable than in the past. Arrangements have been made so that the gallery will empty entirely by the side exit, and thus avoid crowding in the corridors.

President A. O. Skinner has given the matter of decorating his personal attention, and it is a foregone conclusion that everyone will approve of the good taste displayed in harmonious colorings and fittings. Manager H. J. Anderson has also given much time and work to make the building better than ever before.

The painting and decorating was in charge of E. W. Paul, with William Vincent as chief worker, executing the many difficult and artistic designs. The electrical work was looked after by Hiram Webb and T. McAvity & sons furnish the brass fittings.

May Robson and her supporting company who will open a week's engagement on Monday night, have engaged rooms at the Dufferin Hotel. They will arrive from Halifax Monday morning, after a very successful engagement in the sister city.
