FRENCH PRESS ADOPTS BOLD TONE TOWARDS GERMANY

Definitely Charges the Emperor With Trying to Make Trouble and Declares That Other Nations Will Support France

PARIS, Sept. 10.—The Temps, in an outspoken editorial, declares that the only explanation of M. Loubet's delay in responding to his proclamation as sultan of Tangier, August 25, is that he is awaiting the counsel of Germany. The Temps repudiates the German semi-official statements that the mission of Dr. Vassel to the Sultan in Tangier was to warn M. Loubet against El Menebi, the former Minister of War, because the latter has visited the French and Spanish legations at Tangier.

PRINCE EULENBERG IN A CRITICAL CONDITION

Is Being Kept Alive by Morphine—His Trial May Never Be Resumed.

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Prince Philip Zu Eulenberg, whose trial on charges of perjury in connection with court scandals of last year, was indefinitely suspended on July 12 last, is suffering from repeated attacks of fainting, with intense and agonising nervous symptoms. The physicians in attendance on the prince are obliged to administer morphine to him continually and his condition now is one of almost complete collapse. The prince, since the abrupt adjournment of his trial on account of his ill health, has been confined in the police ward of Charité hospital, where he is under the strictest surveillance. It is impossible to forecast when the trial will be resumed.

THE HAZEN SCHOOLBOOKS MORE COSTLY THAN ANY Sackville Complains That Prices Have Gone Up, in Spite of Promises of Reductions.

SACKVILLE, N. B., Sept. 10.—Despite promises of greatly reduced prices for school books under the Hazen government, the citizens of Sackville are unable to purchase a single book in Sackville at the wanted low prices. Moreover it is also indisputable that the prices now charged here for drawing books is double that formerly charged. The present situation is intolerable and has prevailed ever since Hazen came into power. It is not to be wondered at that on every hand there is complaint of the mismanagement which renders such a condition of affairs possible.

Howard Shafter passed him at this point and broke every world's record from 25 miles to 48 miles, establishing new records from 49 to 66 miles, and broke the world's one hour record by nearly eight miles. In addition to this Paul J. G. Derkmun rode a quarter of a mile in 13 seconds, a feat never before achieved, but one which has no place in the record books.

TABULARY, Sept. 10. - Negotiations looking to the restoration of peace have been reopened between the Royalists and the Revolutionists through the efforts of the British consul.

MULLIN CALLED A LIAR TRIES TO STRIKE BAXTER IN COURT

An interesting scene took place in the police court room yesterday afternoon when judgment was given in the case of the King v. Hardy for violation of the Alien Labor Act. Daniel Mullin, K. C., acting for the prosecution, became greatly angered at J. H. M. Baxter, B. Q. L., for the defendant, and after hot words were exchanged a blow was delivered at the latter, but an officer intervened before it reached its destination.
His honor Judge Ritchie, who was giving judgment in the case, was interrupted during the proceedings by Mr. Mullin and his discourse listened to by the court. Mr. Mullin said that a penalty of $1,000 could be given the prisoner, but at this point J. H. M. Baxter interrupted and the judge was obliged to be by Mr. Mullin. Mr. Baxter referred to a reference which Mr. Mullin had made regarding a case which he quoted from the Australian courts. He quoted words to the effect that Mr. Mullin's statement was a deliberate lie. Mr. Mullin at this point exclaimed "Who's lying?" and Mr. Baxter, turning to Mr. Mullin, said "You're lying." Mr. Mullin was very much enraged, and with his fist raised in the air attempted to reach Mr. Baxter by climbing over the table which was between them. Not being successful in this he then hurried across the table and upon approaching Mr. Baxter raised his fist once more and aimed a blow at Mr. Baxter. Sheriff Hastings was on the spot by this time and interfered just in time to prevent the blow from being received with full force.
His Honor then demanded an apology from Mr. Mullin, which was given by him to the court and the matter was ended.
Judge Ritchie imposed a fine of $350 upon the defendant, Henry Hardy, who was detained at a deposit house until 4 o'clock.
Speaking to Mr. Baxter, the Sun was informed that the counsel for the defendant would undoubtedly appeal the case. Regarding the matter between himself and Mr. Mullin, Mr. Baxter seemed very angry, but no such action was contemplated by him. He said that his interruption was allowed by His Honor and the counsel remained in court until 11 o'clock. He said that he had made a statement to Mr. Mullin was due to the fact that Mr. Mullin had quoted a case which he said in his opinion a falsehood, but which Mr. Mullin, when interviewed last evening by a Sun reporter, made the following statement:
"Judgment in the case was to be given at three o'clock. At that time both Mr. Baxter and myself were present. The magistrate, before imposing sentence, discussed the point whether or not the Dominion Labor Act was ultra vires. He also said that in his opinion a case had been made out against the defendant.
"I drew the attention of the court to the fact that the Canadian act provided for the punishment of a person who committed an offense in a foreign country. The United States act was similar to the said, and had been in force for twenty-five years. I went on to say that the United States courts had decided several cases upholding the act.
"Mr. Baxter interrupted, saying that such was not the case.
"His Honor said to me: 'You have not cited your cases.'
"I said no more.
"The magistrate then resumed and was about to say that the defendant was liable to a fine of $300 when Mr. Baxter arose.
"I protested against counsel interfering when sentence was about to be imposed.
"His Honor said to me: 'You interfered yourself a short time ago. I will hear Mr. Baxter.'
"Mr. Baxter then proceeded to make some remarks. Dealing with my statement concerning the United States case, he said that counsel had lied.
"Who lied?" I asked him, getting on my feet.
"His Honor turned toward me, and looking across the table said: 'You lied.'
"I made a blow at him across the table, but he was just out of my reach. I then rushed around the end of the table and raising my arm, struck at his face. Two policemen, at the order of the court, I suppose, caught my arm.
"That ended the trouble and a fine was imposed.
"There was some discussion concerning an appeal. I insisted that the penalty of $350 was excessive. The magistrate said the fine should be paid.
"I suppose it was, as Mr. Baxter and his client remained in court until 11 o'clock. I came away from court with those for whom I was acting. Mr. Baxter came after me, accompanied by his client.
"I made no statement about coming out on the street and settling it there."

ST. JOHN LIQUOR DEALERS SUFFER

By reason of the acts of Inspector Colpitts in Carleton County recently made by St. John wholesale liquor houses as to the extent of several hundreds of dollars each. Under the amendment passed by the senate of Canada at the last session, a wholesaler dealer can lawfully ship goods for the purpose of sale to any person or firm of persons in Scott's County in Canada. Disregard of this law means confiscation of the goods so shipped by such dealers.
Evidently the three firms referred to in this city were prepared to run the risk, for they each shipped, as before stated, goods valued at several hundred dollars to dealers in Woodstock. The inspector, becoming aware of this, hastened to the railway station, it is said, accompanied by the deputy and by means of an axe broke open the packages, which he believed to contain liquor, and the persons to whom the packages were consigned now propose to hold the railway responsible.
One of the St. John liquor dealers who was sending to a druggist who has authority to sell liquors under certain restrictions has intimated his intention of taking legal steps against Inspector Colpitts for his alleged wrongful acts in the confiscation of these goods.
It appears that the legal actions were being made the attention of Superintendent Newcombe was called to the matter and he has been instructed for the purpose of restraining the inspector in his acts, but evidently evading legal steps against Inspector Colpitts for his alleged wrongful acts in the confiscation of these goods.

MONCTON OFFICERS RAID HOTEL MINTO

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 9. - Officers Constable Gunn, McKim, Bourgeois and Atkins about six o'clock this evening made a raid on the Hotel Minto. Several men were arrested for intoxicating liquor, but was fruitless.
In the police court this afternoon Damien S. Bourgeois was convicted of a $250 fine for violation and fined fifty dollars for three months in jail. Conviction was made on the evidence of Nova Scotia and Nova Scotia. Two kegs of ale taken from the Bourgeois place were poured into the gutter by the police to-day by order of the police magistrate. The police station is now free of beer and other liquors seized by the police on the first time in five months.
A citizen was fined twenty-five dollars in the police court today for fast driving on Main street.

YARMOUTH COOLS TOWARD BORDEN

YARMOUTH, N. S., Sept. 9. - About 700 people assembled at the Yarmouth Opera House tonight to hear Messrs. R. L. Borden and J. C. O'Mullin, his colleagues in Halifax, who was turned down at the late convention in Halifax. The meeting was exceedingly undemonstrative, quite a contrast in this respect with Liverpool. There were very few Conservatives in sight when Mr. Borden arrived and the whole temper of Yarmouth towards him smelted cold.
It was first announced that the Conservative convention had nominated Dr. S. W. Williamson as their candidate and he had asked for a week to consider. He dealt with Mr. Fielding's reference to the Conservative party as a poverty stricken party. He would tell him and the Liberals that the Conservative party today in all matters touching public interests has infinitely more definite and settled policy than the Liberals, as everyone knows who has read the Halifax platform. The Conservative stood exactly today on that platform and expect to sweep the country on it. He said he had letters in his pocket showing that earth in certain sections of the G. T. P. in Quebec which could be removed for 21 cents per cubic yard had been classified as solid rock, payable at $1.50 per cubic yard.

GREENWAY WILL LIKELY BE ONE

OTTAWA, Sept. 9. - At a brief meeting of the cabinet this afternoon an order in council was passed appointing Colonel the Hon. J. M. Gibson of Hamilton to be lieutenant governor of Ontario in succession to retiring Lieutenant governor, Sir Mortimer Clark, whose five years' term of office expired last spring.
The appointment of R. G. MacPherson, M. P. for Vancouver, as postmaster at Vancouver was also put through. Mr. MacPherson succeeds Mr. Miller, who has been postmaster for many years and who has now been superannuated.
No decision has yet been reached as to the three new members of the railway commission, and it may be some time before an announcement is made as to who they will be. It is understood, however, that Thos. Greenway, M. P., an expatriate of Manitoba, will be one of the men appointed by the board.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPT. 10, 1908.

ADVICE TO BOYS.

There is more sound good sense in an address delivered to the boys and girls of St. John, N. B., by Governor Hughes, a few days ago, than in a whole library of Sunday school books. These observations and suggestions by a man like Hughes, who even were he in poverty and without position, would still be esteemed, because of his personal character has been reproduced all over America. Governor Hughes prefaced his remarks by the observation that those people who believe the business of life to be politics and manipulation of business interests are mistaken. The efforts of a nation should be for the conservation of natural resources, and the greatest of all a nation's resources are its boys and girls. The first duty of a government and of a people is to make the best possible use of its own manhood. This problem is one of the greatest ever submitted to a nation, and it can be solved not alone by taking good care of the boys and girls, but by the men and women of the country living up to those ideals which they would impress upon the younger generation. The men of today are the examples to be followed by those who are now children; they are the ones who will either destroy or conserve the natural resources of the country, and when in social or political life or business and pleasure conduct their affairs in an honorable fashion they are laying the foundation for the building of such a national character as they hope may come to pass.

Speaking devotedly to the boys and girls Governor Hughes said that in his youth he often wondered how the opportunity would arise when he grew to manhood and how a place would be found for him in the world. He supposed that all boys had the same problem, and it may seem to them that they will have very hard times in getting along in the future, owing to all the places being filled. For the solution of this somewhat perplexing question he declared that in all his career he had never known one who had tried to do his duty, who was honest and industrious, who did not meet with a fair measure of success. Opportunities were never greater than they are today. There have been great men in the past, but these men when their opportunities came were not physically weakened by the follies of wasted youth, they did not have a lot of noisy harmless pleasures and conserved their energies for the day of action. The man who succeeds is the one who can bear a burden when it is placed on him, who proves that in the hour of necessity he is strong and big, and not weakened by the recklessness of misguided boyhood. Nor is it creditable to be smart. A good many boys get into the habit of thinking that the slick customer is the kind to emulate. There may indeed be illustrations in which sharpness results in apparent success, but the first object in every boy's life is to prove to the other boys about him that he can be trusted as a friend and as a worker. Employees want boys they can trust; parents also want them and the people of today are seeking men in whom they may place entire confidence. In every department of life the history of success is the history of boys who have given full measure and honorable effort in all their undertakings, and such a course brings with it that happiness and contentment which comes only to the one who has the pride found in the knowledge that he is equal to his job. The Governor concluded his address as follows:

"When young men realize that there is an opportunity for them if they play straight and work hard and realize the satisfaction of doing something worth while in a man's way, then, whether they make little money or much money, whether they live in a palace or a modest abode, they are truly successful because they are on good terms with themselves. You can't be happy in this world and have a fellow that you go to bed with at night and get up with in the morning disgusted with you. You may heap up all the treasure of a Solomon, and yet if down in your heart you have contempt for yourself because you know you haven't been square and you haven't got it straight you are the most miserable man, whatever your external condition.

"When we pass from middle life into old age and begin to think over the past and see the inevitable is approaching when we must cease our activities, then what do we think of? Do we think of how we got the best of the fellow and cheated him out of what was rightfully his or do we think of the time when in some sure way that nobody found out we got something that we were not justly entitled to? No, you think not of what you have got but what you have given, what you have tried honestly to do, and you will face the future with a more certain courage going with the strength of your manhood before you make."

BALLAD OF DEAD ACTORS.

Where are the passions they essayed,
And where the tears they made to flow?
Where the wild humors they portrayed
For laughing worlds to see and know?
Ophelia's wail and Juliet's woe?
Sir Peter's whims and Timon's gall?
And Hamlet and Romeo?
Tint the night go one and all.

Where are the braveries, fresh or frayed?
The plumes, the armor—friend and foe?
The cloth of gold, the rare brocade,
The mantles glittering and fro?
The pomp, the pride, the royal show?
The cries of war and festival?
The youth, the grace, the charms, the glow?
Tint the night go one and all.

The curtain falls, the play is played;
The beggar packs beside the boat;
The monarch tumbles with the snow,
The thunder huddles with the snow,
Where are the revellers, high and low?
The dancing swells, the lover's call?
The dancers gleaming row on row?
Tint the night go one and all.

ENVOY.
Prince, in one common overthrow
The hero tumbles with the thrall;
As dust that drives, as straws that blow,
Tint the night go one and all.

FIGHT ON ALGERIAN FRONTIER: 2,000 MOORS DEFEATED.

French Have an All Day Battle, in Which They Inflict Terrible Loss on the Enemy.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Five thousand French troops, comprising the garrison of Bou Djanib, on the Algerian frontier, attacked the Moorish troops who had surrounded them, and who have made several attacks on the garrison. The Moors, who numbered 20,000, suffered a disastrous defeat, and were routed in disorder, after ten hours' fighting. The Moorish loss is said to have been very heavy, while the French casualties were three men wounded.

According to news from Indo-China, revolutionary principles are making tremendous headway among the inhabitants, who are represented as being, in certain districts, on the verge of open rebellion.

Organized raids by natives, armed with modern rifles, are of daily occurrence, and whole villages, whose population is supposed to be loyal to the French, are often plundered. The French authorities are at last awakening to the gravity of the situation, and a strong body of white troops has started on an expedition into the district believed to be the centre of the disaffection.

It has been discovered that thousands of native soldiers wear inside the lining of their uniforms badges bearing Chinese signs indicating their membership in a secret society. The revolutionists are said to number at least 20,000, most of them armed with Mauser rifles. Against them there are concentrated in the entire colony only 7,000 white troops. The French government is rushing 5,000 soldiers to Tonkin at once, preliminary to the despatch of further reinforcements if necessary.

VALUABLE FIND OF FOSSIL BONES.

Remarkable Discovery Made in East Africa.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—From German East Africa news comes of a remarkable discovery, namely, a deposit of prehistoric animal skeletons which, according to Prof. Fraas, of Jena, excels in importance the American Atlantosaurus beds east of the Rocky Mountains. Prof. Fraas has discovered specimens of the gigantosaurs and his investigations lead to the conclusion that the remains found are those of the youngest of the dinosaur family, which flourished long after its species in America and Europe had become extinct.

The locality where they were found is known as the Lindi hinterland, and is close to the Tendaguru Mountain range. The bones had absorbed much lime in the course of centuries, and were consequently in better condition to withstand the ravages of time than the friable marl and sandstone in which they are embedded, and so they frequently appeared on the surface. Some skeletons were dug out as they lay on the animal floor when it perished.

The discoverer calculates their age as belonging to the upper Cretaceous era, while the remains found in America and Europe go back to the Jurassic period, or at the outside to the lower Cretaceous age. The size of the skeletons just unearthed is hardly exceptional, only about fifty feet in length, and from ten to eleven feet in height, but any deficiency in size made up by the extraordinary quantities of bones composing the deposit.

ANOTHER DEMONSTRATION BY GLASGOW'S UNEMPLOYED.

GLASGOW, Sept. 10.—Three thousand of the unemployed last night organized a midnight march to one of the best quarters of the city. Mounted police scattered the crowd and frustrated its intention. Several arrests were made. The town council today will consider proposals to alleviate the distress arising out of the unemployment of so many people.

TRAINING BOYS TO BE SAILORS

From Liverpool last week they set out for Australia ports a sailing vessel whose voyage marks a new era in merchant shipping. The Mersey, for such is her name, carries the flag of the White Star Line, and takes to sea some forty cadets, aged anywhere from 14 to 21, to be trained as junior officers. She is the only way to get them away from the problem presented by the ever-shrinking supply of sail-trained youngsters.

It might have been thought that a line like that which Mr. Lamay controls would have had difficulty in getting an ample number of young officers of a class corresponding with its needs. It is, therefore, a significant commentary upon the transfer of trade from sail to steam that the present decline step should be deemed necessary. Training their feet to sail-trained officers, the White Star Line arrived at the conviction some little time back that the only way to get them away from the problem presented by the ever-shrinking supply of sail-trained youngsters.

A CLIPPER SHIP.

That other steamship lines will be forced to follow the White Star's example is confidently predicted. In the meantime, Mr. Lamay's experiment will be watched by them with keen interest, more especially as it has been undertaken in a thoroughly spirit, and after the most careful thought. The Mersey is a fine clipper-built ship, constructed on the Clyde and cost something like $35,000 to acquire.

She is to continue her career as a trader, principally in the Australian trade, but cargo-carrying, while an important branch of her work, will probably be subsidiary to what may be called her more important aspect. Her fitting up suggests this, as well as the fact that she was originally constructed for the carriage of passengers, a room, dormitories, school-room, toilet-room—all the incidents of a floating academy, in truth—are provided together with a staff of instructors, medical and otherwise.

The young cadets are to continue their general education while they are picking up a knowledge of practical seamanship, and even of foreign languages, at the hands of competent teachers. They are to work the ship and to keep watches, the latter so arranged that each watch will have eight hours rest.

But besides becoming familiar with the handling of the ship, and being initiated into all sorts of nautical lore, the youngsters are to have other forms of tuition in port. There the cargo will give them the opportunity of acquiring all sorts of nautical lore, the following colloquy took place: "Is my nephew, Mr. Smith, on board?" "Mr. Who?" asked the quartermaster. "Mr. Smith, a fair-haired boy, was the reply. "Oh, you mean young Carrots. He's in the galley with the cook, peeling potatoes. Where else do you expect an apprentice to be?"

That is just it. The sea apprentices might in that case be expected to be learning the art to acquire which he was indentured. But as often as not he is given the dirty work of the ship to do, and never master nor officers consent to teach him a scrap of navigation. That is left afterwards for the summer on shore. On the Mersey, of course, it will be altogether different.

AN ASSURED CAREER.

The cadets will not only be instructed day by day, but they will be periodically examined, and the results carefully noted. Moreover, in a boy's last year, the examiner will propose him, as far as possible, for his Board of Trade examination. Thus the White Star cadet scheme brings the assurance to the parents that the premium will not have been paid in vain, and that a youngster with any ambition can hardly fail to learn his trade.

That, however, is by no means the only important feature of Mr. Lamay's enterprise. The striking fact about it is that it assures a career in certain well-known steamship lines when the three years' or the four years' apprenticeship, as the case may be, is at an end. A sea apprentice in the ordinary way may serve his time, and may get his certificate from the Board of Trade. But his foot is not even then on the first rung of the ladder. He may or may not obtain suitable employment. Under the White Star scheme, however, his course is mapped out.

On the expiration of their apprenticeship cadets will be eligible to pass the Board of Trade's examination for second mate's certificate, and, having obtained it, they will have the preference for appointments as junior officers in the steamers of the White Star, Leyland, Dominion, and Atlantic Transport Lines. Thereafter promotion will come according to conduct and ability, the intention being that the young officers shall remain in rank and experience until, perhaps, they finally attain the command of a crack liner.

Such is the scheme which the sailing ship Mersey formally inaugurated. It marks a striking feature in the re-education of the fact that something must be done to swell the supply of sail-trained officers for the mercantile marine. It also suggests that other steamship lines will many of them be driven to set about a similar enterprise in the not distant future, if they are not to be left behind.

WAR PREPARATION WILL LEAD TO WAR.

German Socialist Leader Sounds Note of Warning—Provoking a Catastrophe.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Herr Bebel, the German Socialist leader, writing to James Ramsay MacDonald, M. P., secretary of the Labour party, discusses the friction between Germany and England, which he thinks it quite possible may lead to war, though not at an early date. He says the German Socialists do not see any grounds that would justify such a war and they are doing all they can to prevent it.

"Nevertheless," says Herr Bebel, "the preparations for war are carried on with such vehemence and claim such an immense part of the resources of the two nations that the present state of things cannot last very long. It is provoking a catastrophe which it was meant to prevent. We should calmly and carefully follow the development of things, enlightening the people, especially the work people, upon the possible consequences."

PRIMITIVE AGRICULTURE IN OLD PALESTINE

The primitive methods of agriculture followed in Palestine are (says Mr. Consul Blech in his report on the trade of Palestine for 1907) familiar through the descriptions of numerous writers; it is difficult to see how they could be greatly developed in the neighborhood of Jerusalem itself.

Every advantage is taken of the few inches of soil which cover the underlying rocks, and it is impossible not to admire the peasant's dexterity in avoiding the numerous outcroppings boulders in his often diminutive plot of ground as he guides his flimsy plough drawn by an ox, a horse, an ass, or a camel, may often be seen, so employed in one field. No improved plough could be used, as the soil is in most cases not deep enough.

The remarkable fertility of the land round Jerusalem, in appearance so arid and unprosperous, can only be ascribed to the retention of moisture underground; the porous limestone formation does not allow of the accumulation of large quantities of water, which might be raised to the surface by artesian wells, but it retains an astonishing amount of moisture during the long rainless summer, and hence vines and figs flourish, and it is possible to grow the great heat by drawing up the moisture from the soil by means of the siphon; at certain seasons there are heavy dews, and the subsoil almost invariably retains a certain degree of humidity.

Quite different is the rich Plain of Sharon. Here water is generally to be found at no great depth, the soil is fertile, and with the extension of improved methods of cultivation which are already being employed in the German and Jewish colonies, the production might be greatly increased.

FLOURISHING COLONIES

Wells are sunk, and water is now generally raised by motor-engines, mostly petroleum. upwards of 200 such motors are now in use in the Jaffa district for purposes of irrigation, etc. not quite half of these are of British make, the others coming from Germany.

The British article is preferred, but the German manufacturer is more conservative as regards the terms of payment. The engines average 5 horse-power.

Producer-gas engines are being introduced; their cost of installation is too great to enable them to take the place of the smaller petroleum engines, but in the case of more powerful machines the economy in working is so considerable as to make it profitable to produce gas where this is feasible. There are also such engines in use of from 10 to 25 horse-power each.

The Jewish colonies, originally founded by Baron E. de Rothschild, but handed over in 1900 to the Jewish Colonization Association, are now reorganized and fairly flourishing. But those which are dependent on viticulture are less prosperous; the over-production of wine has been so great that the product finds no sale, and the vines are being up-rooted; 700 deunams (10 acres) of vineyards were so destroyed in 1906, and 300 deunams (20 acres) were to be similarly dealt with in 1907. It is proposed (says the report of the consul) to substitute the cultivation of the almond, orange, and other fruit trees.

We are planning an event of most unusual importance to the people of St. John—and of equal importance to the thousands who will visit us on that occasion.

A. GILMOUR, 68 KING STREET. Established 1841.

Two small fires broke out in residences of the city yesterday caused by defective flues, but both were extinguished before any damage was sustained.

In the evening about 10.30 o'clock the alarm rung for a fire which had started near the chimney on a house owned by Alex. Mitchell, St. Paul street.

DANGEROUS TO OFFEND THE KING

"It doesn't matter nowadays if a man does make Royalty angry. The King can't do anything to him."

ROYAL FROWNS. A trio of daring members of Parliament recently criticized the King for visiting the Czar. They were not asked to the next Royal garden party.

MEAN SOCIAL RUIN. When a lady or gentleman is presented at Court the hall-mark of high-toned respectability is so to say, set on them. No circles are therefore too exclusive for them.

AMUSEMENTS. NEW TALKING PICTURES AT NICKEL TODAY.

"All is Fair in Love and War" will be the Humanova Co.'s bill for today and the remainder of the week. This is a sensational production by the Geasany Co. of Chicago and has been received with much favor by the press and public of New York and other big cities.

THE PRINCESS. Large crowds of delighted people continue to visit the Princess Theatre. The new show given yesterday proved very pleasing.

HAPPY HALF HOUR. "Packed to the doors" was the rule last evening at the Happy Half Hour.

GOOD PICTURES, FINE HOUSES, PLEASED PEOPLE, THE BIJOU TALK YESTERDAY.

The Joy-Promoter

By MRS. LUTHER HARRIS.

He insists upon wearing a collar several sizes too large, which gives his neck a deolite appearance very cool and diverting.

His pessimistic platitudes are like dry crusts soaked in the vinegar of cynicism. I'd like him so much better if he would occasionally try moistening them with a little of the milk of human kindness.

All others are mere imitations. His belief is very simple, and sufficient to begin with. He believes that in the beginning God made a German baron, young Hammerstein, who it is said, was a great and successful "beware of imitations."

He is painfully literary, and when he demanded to know the other day whether I had seen "The Force of the Fable," I was compelled to ask him whether it was a recent bit of fiction, or a state of mind, or a new kind of breakfast food.

He has no patience at all with his nephew, young Hammerstein, who it seems has no liking at all for the occupations of a German landed proprietor, and sighs to return to America, and the wild, tree life of a Montana ranch.

"Boys," announces Uncle Heinrich graciously, as he fits his finger tips neatly together and leans back ponderously in his chair, "are all jackasses. They simply differ a trifle as to length of ear and strenuously of brain, but with no single exception do I pronounce them all jackasses."

And he looks at young Hammerstein with as now-will-you-be-good expression which appears particularly entertaining to that youthful son of the "ace."

In fact, the entire aggregation of relatives presents a wide field to the student of human nature whose book is the open book of life.

Every evening at about the same hour, young Hammerstein asks me to marry him. I could almost always watch by him, he varies so little. For as much as fifteen minutes after my refusal, he looks very cast down, and as melancholy as a mute at an English funeral. Then he at once brightens up, begins facetious criticism of what he chooses to call "the German," and the trifling incident is quite forgotten. Almost invariably we are interrupted by the warning sound, the grandiose-like tread of Great-aunt Schomburg.

There is something positively bordering upon the occult in the way she always appears to hit upon the wrong cue for entry. Young Hammerstein rises gracefully, brushing the dust from his trousers, and with a small bow with the twisted grin of a small boy ing to the Schloss a very great deal on one excuse or another. I was sitting with young Hammerstein on the veranda one evening when the Prince rode by, sitting very erect in the saddle and looking quite the modern knight.

"Rather a nice chap," drawled young Hammerstein, lighting a fresh cigarette. "Too bad he had that stroke in South Africa a few years ago. He has been no compos mentis ever since. Right bright fellow up till that time."

"Sunstroke?" I gasped breathlessly, and simply stared with wide, unthinking eyes like a poor little hypnotized drowsie.

"Yes; in South Africa, you know. Unfortunately, Basia is his bolshy ever since. Wouldn't notice it in ordinary conversation, but he's really as lame as a March hare. Tremendous pity! No hope of recovery, either. Something or other slipped a cog in his brain, you know, and there'll be room to rent in the upper story till the end of the game."

ATLANTIC EXPRESS RUNS INTO A BURNING BRIDGE

Engine Goes Down a Ravine—No Loss of Life

WHITE RIVER, Ont., Sept. 9.—The first section of the east-bound Atlantic express ran on to a burning bridge six miles west of here at 6:40 this morning, but fortunately there was no loss of life. The engine went down into the ravine spanned by the bridge, the engineer and fireman escaping, although the former was seriously injured. The contents of the baggage and postal cars were saved and no loss of life. The cause of the fire is unknown, but an investigation is being held. The work of rebuilding the burnt part of the bridge was at once commenced and it is expected traffic will be resumed tomorrow.

JAPANESE WERE CAPTURED IN ACT

Were Engaged in Making Raid on Seal Rookery When Taken.

(Victoria Colonist.)

Further advice received from the north indicates that the two Japanese sealing schooners, Kinsei Maru and Sakai Maru, which were seized on July 22 by the United States revenue cutter Bear, were caught while actually engaged in raiding the Seapanel seal rookery at the north of St. Paul Island, the main seal rookery of the Trinity group. Capt. Ritchie, a former Victoria seal hunter, who went to Japan some years ago and was given across the sea by the schooner Seifu Maru, in which he came to James Bay two years ago, was navigating officer. The raiders and revenue officers were both surprised when the Bear came across the two schooners have close inshore in the fog.

The Japanese had their boats in the water, hordes of seals in them and implements ready with the fresh blood of the animals. Before the fog settled, there was not a sail in sight of the cutter, and here, only a few hours later, were two vessels right inshore taking seals. In such a dense fog the Japanese evidently believed the cutters would not be riding safely at anchor or standing out to sea away from the rocks, but here were the poachers, come from no one but themselves known where, and here was a cutter, supposed to be almost anywhere else.

Instantly the Bear started for the nearest poacher and both schooners started for the open sea. There was but little wind to help the Japanese, and their vessels lay in poor shape to catch what there was of it. But the little brown fellows did not propose to let pass any opportunity to make their escape, so making lines fast to their respective vessels, the men in the small boats were thrown across the bows of the ships around in the wind and head them out to sea, hoping that at least one of them might escape the snare. The cutter was thrown overboard to escape, repeatedly signalled to the Japs to surrender, but not until a few minutes later, when the cutter's bows did take any notice of the cutter's demands. Even then the small boats cut loose and tried to escape, and it is thought that some of them succeeded.

The ships were searched, and the skins of several hundred seals were found, and in one of the small boats was the body of a female seal, still showing signs of life. Taking away their arms, ammunition and sails, the Bear placed guards aboard each schooner, turned the prizes over to the cutter, which took the prisoners to Unalaska. They have been taken there to Unalaska for the north.

The Japanese sealing fleet in Behring Sea this year is larger than that of any previous year. There are all sorts of reports in the northern sea. Major E. W. Clark, special agent of the United States government at St. Paul Island, who was returned from the north, says the number of Japanese sealers working at close proximity to the shore, all being permitted to hunt with firearms, is a new development. Instead of being forced to hunt with spears only and kept six miles from the shore, the sealers are now permitted to come within a few miles of the shore and there are few seals that can escape the cord of Japanese hunters. Major Clark says: "The Japanese sealers have enough men and boats to effectively block the escape of the female seals that leave the islands to go into the ocean in search of food for themselves and their young."

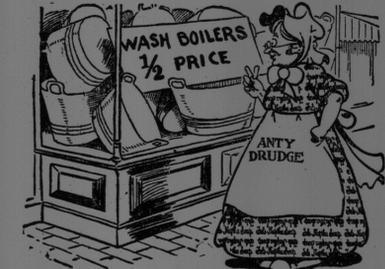

"If any seals should pass the first line of boats, the three-mile limit, another line of seal killers can overtake and slaughter them. There is practically no chance for the animals to get away."

"The killing of seals under such circumstances is inhuman. I cannot say who steps the government in taking a new line of development as swimming, which exercises more muscles than any other single sport. In fact, it is not easy for a good swimmer to have a bad figure, and there are very few who have."

It is well to have a teacher if possible, but swimming can be self-taught, or, at least, learned with slight help from a companion. I also used it on my self how to swim. But before attempting to learn, or before venturing into any but the shallowest water, a physician should be consulted to see if the body is fit for the sport.

Mr. Campbell shows his knowledge of women in laying stress on the fact that nothing is as good for the figure as swimming. Golf, cycling, etc., are fine in their way, but none give such an all-round development as swimming, which exercises more muscles than any other single sport. In fact, it is not easy for a good swimmer to have a bad figure, and there are very few who have.

Anty Drudge Causes a Panic in Washboilers.

Anty Drudge—"Well, well, well! So my work is beginning to show even in the store windows. When I see washboilers offered at half price, I feel just as though the women were thanking me for releasing them from the slavery of the old-fashioned washday, with its back-breaking rubbing—its ruinous boiling—and its sickening smell. For Fels-Naptha changes washday to play-day."

Modern progress hasn't forgotten the woman at the tub.

Fels-Naptha proves that. Time was when medicine wasn't considered good unless it was strong enough or tasted bad enough half to choke the patient.

Some folks who don't know about that new way of washing think that wash-day must be a day of seething suds, scalding water, perspiration and general misery. But Fels-Naptha is converting these people who have been tied to the not-good-enough method.

You see there is a way to wash clothes summer or winter in cool or lukewarm water, a way that saves your strength, your time and your temper, and preserves the garments from the ruinous, fibre-destroying boiler.

That way is the Fels-Naptha way. Look for the red and green wrapper.

A SKIRTLESS BATHING SUIT FOR SWIMMERS

Collis Campbell, the English authority upon swimming, stands for the skirtless bathing suit. He gives his reasons, along with a lot of counsel, to would-be swimmers, in a recent number of "The Ladies Field." Besides being "skirtless" in every way, he says, the skirtless costume, leaving the limbs free and unimpeded, is the only one in which a woman can be really expert in the water.

The ideal costume is made of heavy stockinette, or of silk and wool. It is cut low in the neck, but closely fitting, and the knicker part reaches not quite to the knees. If a woman must have a skirt, it should be attached to the costume, not merely buttoned on. These directions are for the real swimmer, of course—all the paddler need think about is prettiness.

SWIMMER'S FIGURE. Mr. Campbell shows his knowledge of women in laying stress on the fact that nothing is as good for the figure as swimming. Golf, cycling, etc., are fine in their way, but none give such an all-round development as swimming, which exercises more muscles than any other single sport. In fact, it is not easy for a good swimmer to have a bad figure, and there are very few who have.

One Child Cured of Summer Complaint and Six Cured of Cramps by Half a Bottle of DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY.

Mrs. Wm. Flewelling, Arthur, Ont., says: "I find it much pleasure to recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as a grand cure for Summer Complaint. My little boy, one year old, was very bad with it, and a few doses cured him. I also used it on my other six children for cramps, and it will half the bottle left. I cannot praise it too much."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the greatest of all cures for all bowel complaints such as Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Summer Complaint, etc. Beware of imitations and substitutes sold by the unscrupulous dealer for the sake of greater profits. They are dangerous to your health. It is manufactured by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. See that the name appears on the wrapper.

BOISTEROUS SAILOR ON AN I. C. R. EXPRESS

He is Handed Over to Police

An unknown man arrived on the train from Point du Chene yesterday afternoon, very much under the influence of liquor, and was handed over to Officer Smith of the I. C. R. by Conductor Williams, charged with having disturbed the passengers. The man is supposed to be a sailor who was coming to St. John to work on a vessel, but when asked what his name was he refused to answer. On board the train the intoxicated man is said to have used profane and abusive language in the coach where ladies and male passengers were seated, and for some time the conductor found it hard to restrain him. Immediately after he was handed over to Officer Smith he became unmanageable and a desperate man. Officer Ross assisted Officer Smith and together they landed their prisoner in the station.

TWO GIVE CHASE TO A PRETTY ANIMAL

Policeman Marshall Fails to Connect, but Fred Driscoll Gets Close Enough

A mysterious animal with a beautiful bushy tail and prettily spotted attracted considerable attention on Tuesday night on the public streets of St. John. The animal was seen on King Square by Officer Marshall and at once he decided that it was a pretty rabbit and gave chase. The animal, however, distanced the officer and was lost to view in a short time.

Later in the evening, Fred Driscoll, barber on the north side of King Square, noticed the animal on the corner of Germain and King streets, and he believed it to be a rare species of Maltese cat. He chased the animal up the street and finally was successful in reaching its side and his delight was great to think that the prize was his. He whispered to himself, "I'll catch the pretty creature and take it home." Needless to say he did not succeed. Officer Marshall had believed the animal to be a rabbit and wished to capture it for his own use, but Fred Driscoll believed it to be a Maltese cat.

RICH GOLD DISCOVERY

NORTH BAY, Sept. 3.—Mann brothers of Killisnoe, prospectors, have made one of the richest strikes in the Cobalt district. At Cowanada, on the east branch of the Montreal River, they found a veritable bonanza, showing up eight four sacks of silver nuggets from ground, which they brought out. A vein of solid silver 25 feet long has been uncovered, and they were offered $30,000 for the claim as soon as they left the recorder's office. Fifty thousand dollars worth of ore is in sight, and the find has made a big sensation.

This is ladies' night at the Victoria roller rink, and a large crowd is expected to attend. The band will be present and furnish the usual excellent music.

LITTLE PRINCES ON A HOLIDAY

"Welcome home!" These were the first words that met Prince Edward of Wales's ears when he returned to Frogmore, England, for his summer holidays recently. His brothers and Princess Mary had caused them to be put up at the entrance to Frogmore House, which was also gaily flagged in honor of the occasion.

Prince Edward was coming home after being such a long time away, and the royal children were determined to give him a right royal welcome. Prince Albert and Princess Mary were the leading spirits, but little Prince Henry was as energetic as they were in getting ready for the great event, and when Prince Edward did come they greeted him as affectionately as only brothers and sister can when they love one another.

Prince Edward has become quite a strapping lad. His toys he has long ago forgotten, and many of them have brightened the weary hours of little inmates of some of the great children's hospitals in London. He spent a week or so of his holidays at Frogmore, and has had a really good time with Prince Albert, Princess Mary, Prince Henry, Prince George, and Prince John.

Frogmore House is an ideal place for children. It is surrounded on all sides by park land. In the green meadow close by the King's sheep are feeding, and a little distance off are the royal aviary, the royal dairy, the royal farm and the royal gardens.

Within a stone's throw are the King's tennis, the King's cricket ground, and the royal River Thames. A short bicycle ride and one is in the midst of Windsor Forest or Burgham Beches, while Virginia Water is but a few miles off.

ALL GOOD RIDERS. The little Prince and Princess Mary are up early every morning, and if the weather is fine most of the day is spent out of doors.

VAST SUMS IN GOLD HOARDED IN INDIA

"We are satisfied," said the report, "that no definite limit could be assigned at the present time to the amount that could be remuneratively devoted to the development and expansion of the Indian railway system. The committee then suggests that the state expenditure on railways should be increased from £10,000,000 a year to £12,500,000, which Sir Ernest Cable calls a 'trifling advance in relation to the needs.'"

The Indian capitalist is shy, and the failure of the British Government to enlist the financial confidence of the people. LONDON, Sept. 9.—Sir Ernest Cable writes to the Times in reference to the report of the Indian Railway Finance Committee.

JUST LIKE OTHER BOYS. Prince Albert is as merry as a cricket. At Datchet regatta, when he slipped from his bicycle he ran across to the iron railing running along the river bank, and was soon swinging on to it head downwards.

While her brothers are at play, Princess Mary often sits at home and does fancy work, and she has recently made some very nice baskets which were sent to a bazaar.

GAME OF CRICKET. The Prince can play almost any English game well. Prince Edward and Prince Albert frequently play over the King's golf links. They drive really well for lads.

Both he and Prince Henry have greatly enjoyed the games with small Eton boys and the lads of St. George's School Windsor Castle. Prince Albert can also bowl pretty well, and has taken

MODERN TREASURE SEEKER AND HOW SHE IS EQUIPPED

This Particular Expedition Did Not Succeed to Any Extent. In April of last year a little steamer—the Alfred Nobel—left the South-west India Docks, London, on a quest for sunken treasure.

For this purpose she was certainly well fitted. She carried two of the most expert salvage divers in the world. She was provided with all sorts of salvage gear, including suction pumps, compressed air machinery, hydraulic jacks, submarine suits, and submarine telephones.

By and by the Alfred Nobel steamed away for Delagoa Bay, and was here that she really entered the region of romance, for whether the impression is correct or not, it has always been believed that the steamer was fitted out with a view of recovering Kruger's gold, the fabulous fortune which is supposed to have been lost by the wreck of the bark Dorothea.

WHY DEVONSHIRE SOLD HIS SHEEP

Big English Estate Crippled by Death Duties. Heavy Duties Have Been Paid Out on 17½ Estate Twice Within 12 Years. LONDON, Sept. 9.—The new Duke of Devonshire sells a very polluted reference a few days ago to the effect of the death duties on estates such as he has just inherited.

THE LATE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE used to say that Chatsworth House, whose myriad windows with their gilded leaded panes make such a splendid spectacle in the setting sun, cost him £1,000 a year in putty. The upkeep of these places is on the same scale all through. Sir William Harcourt's death duties have crippled many of the owners. But for a while the new inheritor always suffers, and, as must be the case, my suffer with him.

THE LATE DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE only held the estates for some twelve years. After that comparatively short time his successor has to pay out the heavy duties once more, for he succeeds as a nephew, and the more distant the relationship the higher are the duties. So it is that at Eastbourne the other day the new Duke announced to his Eastbourne tenants that he had been compelled by the heavy death duties to curtail considerably the scale of expenditure maintained by his predecessor. The occasion was the sale of the entire herd of pure Southdown sheep bred by the Duke.

"I can assure you," said the Duke, "that it is through no wish of my own that I have found it necessary very considerably to curtail my operations in many respects, and I hope you will believe that, although these flocks and herds have been dispersed, it does not show any feeling of ill-will or lack of interest in agriculture. I hope that later on it may be possible for me to do something on the lines on which my late uncle proceeded."

MUFFY SHUFFLES

by B. CORY KILVERT

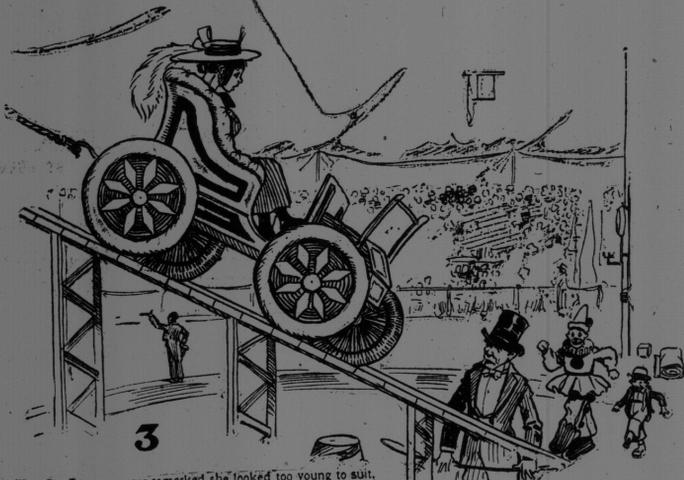

COPYRIGHT, 1908, ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

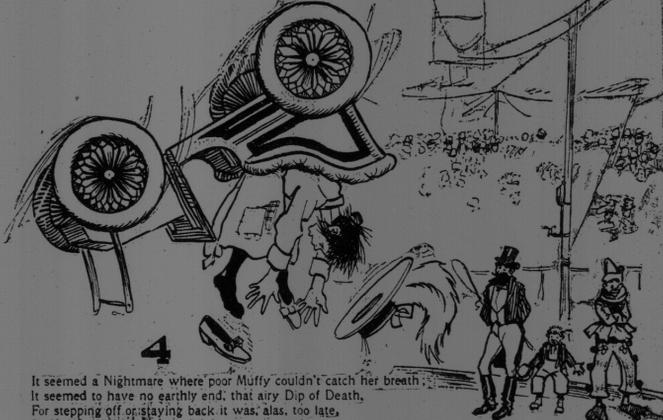

1
When Muffy Shuffles read the news and saw the posters flare
For telling when the Circus came, her heart was light as air.
She spelled thro all the wondrous acts, with Reddie at her side,
"Hully-gee, why don't you join dem?" youthful Reddie cried.

'Twas but a foolish hint yet through our Muffy's veins it spread,
She soon had Saw-Dust-On-The-Heart and Circus-In-The-Head.
She told the Big-Tent manager of all her daring deeds,
From mounting untamed elephants to riding fiery steeds.

The Big-Tent manager remarked she looked too young to suit,
But tried her on the Dip of Death first as a substitute,
And Muffy, who from danger never once was known to quail,
Kept up her face as she went up—but it was somewhat pale.

It seemed a Nightmare where poor Muffy couldn't catch her breath,
It seemed to have no earthly end; that airy Dip of Death,
For stepping off or staying back it was, alas, too late,
So Muffy didn't stop—she didn't even hesitate!

5
Now Muffy never understood just how or where she went,
Though Reddie turned and whispered as they sadly left the tent:
"Dis circus life intoxicates, dese dippy Dips an' such,— But Muffy, don't you kind o' t'ink you took a drop too much?"

MANY CHANGES IN THE FACULTIES AT MCGILL UNIVERSITY
New Professors Will Make Their Appearance This Session

(Montreal Star.)
Everything in and around McGill University shows signs of preparation for the coming session. Supplemental and matriculation examinations begin this week. The Lectures in Law open September 13th; in Arts and Applied Science, September 21; and in Medicine, September 22nd; supplemental examinations in Arts and Matriculation examinations in all Faculties begin September 10th; Science Supplementals begin September 15th, and Medicine supplementals about the same time.
The results of these examinations will be known when the session opens on Friday from England by the Express of Ireland, and Dr. Perrin is also expected about the same time.
Changes in the various Faculties are numerous. In Arts, Professor J. A.
Pais, M. A. of Oxford, will fill the newly-endowed chair of Education.
Dr. H. C. Perrin will be the new Professor of Music and Director of McGill Conservatorium. Professor John Mc-
Reading replaces Professor Walter Scott as Professor of Classics. No appointment has yet been announced of a successor to Professor A. D. Taylor, the Frothingham professor of Philosophy.
Dr. Adams, while retaining the professorship of Geology, is the new Dean of Applied Science. Professor McLeod, the new vice-dean of Applied Science, continues professor of Surveying and Geology. In place of Professor Morgan, Professor H. O. Keay, formerly assistant professor of Mechanical Engineering, has been made professor of Transportation, and Professor Victor
I. Smart, formerly lecturer in Transportation, has been made professor of Railway Mechanical Engineering. Professor H. M. Mackay, formerly associate professor of Civil Engineering, succeeds Dr. Bovey as professor of Civil Engineering. A former McGill man, Professor L. McKerron, who came from the University of Virginia, has been appointed assistant professor of Mechanical Engineering.
In the Faculty of Law there are no changes. In Medicine Dr. Shepherd has succeeded Dr. Roddick as Dean of the Faculty. A new department will be in charge of Professor John L.
Todd, a McGill graduate, who was associated for some years with the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine, and who is the discoverer of the cause of Sleeping Sickness. He will succeed the late professor of Parasitology and the new Medical Building is completed and will have its laboratory at Macdonald College.
As yet it is impossible to tell the number of students who will be enrolled, but everything points to a most successful year in all the Faculties.

as follows with reference to the lynching last night:
"I led the mob which lynched Nease Patton, and I'm proud of it. I directed every movement of the mob and I did everything I could to see that he was lynched."
"Cut a white woman's throat and a negro. Of course I wanted him lynched.
I saw his body dangling from a tree this morning and I'm glad of it. When I heard of the horrible crime I started to work immediately to get him. I did all I could to raise one. I was at the jail last night and urged the mob to lynch Patton. I don't care what investigation is made, or what are the consequences. I am willing to stand them."

IN NEWFOUNDLAND
LEGATE RECEIVED WITH SOLENN SPLENDOR
The Pope's Representative Welcomed to London.

Westminster Cathedral the Scene of an Impressive Service Yesterday.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—With all the solemn splendor of the Roman Catholic church, Cardinal Vannutelli, the Pope's legate, was formally received by the prelates who have gathered here for the synod of the province of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The reception took place this evening in Westminster Cathedral, which was crowded with prelates and laymen.
Long before the arrival of the legate every seat in the cathedral, which is capable of accommodating eight thousand persons, was occupied.
The galleries were crowded and in the streets thousands waited for hours to get a glimpse of the Pope's representative. Cardinal Vannutelli, with the attending priests, walked from the cathedral, through lines of cheering people, including hundreds of priests, who came from almost every country in the world to attend the congress. A fanfare of trumpets announced the arrival of those within the edifice and the immense congregation arose to greet him. On entering the church the legate put on his cardinal's robe of brilliant scarlet. He was received by Archbishop Bourne, the head of the Westminster diocese, who was arrayed in his pontifical robes and carried his pastoral staff. Having kissed the crucifix Cardinal Van-nutelli sprinkled the bystanders with holy water. He then was escorted up the steps of the altar.
On either side of the aisle stood four scrubbed men in red and purple, seventy-five in all, who were the abbots and other prelates in their more sober cassocks, while beside the altar to the right stood the cardinal's aides-de-camp, who were six cardinals, including Cardinal Gibbons, also robed in scarlet, denoting their rank.
The service opened with the singing of the "Te Deum," which was followed by the recitation of the Pope's legate in the name of the clergy and the laity of England. Speaking of the legate, the cardinal said:
"It is an act of worship, an act of faith and at the same time an act of prayer. It is an act of devotion for all those words uttered in the English language, that some sent forth in prayer, and some in the name of the Pope, and some in the name of the Pope's legate, which surely will be pleaded in mitigation of their guilt, and have done outrages to the Blessed Sacrament."
"If, prostrating by the grateful fact of the native sense of justice in our countrymen, have overcome the prejudice which once did them so great honor, we on this occasion, make the fullest use of the right of speech and public demonstration which they are entitled to readily to advance the cause of their country, let us not imagine that we do these things in any spirit of hostile feelings to those who do not think as we do and still less that there is any thought of empty boasting in our minds."
The solemn benediction of the Holy Sacrament brought the impressive service to a close.
The congregation included the members of the leading Catholic families of England and Ireland and a great many foreigners, some of whom have followed the legate to the synod. Other services will be held during the course of the week.

READY TO REPORT ON TEMPERANCE ACT
Will Probably Submit Report at Next Session When Legislature May be Asked for a Prohibitory Law.

The report of the commission to investigate the workings of the prohibitory liquor law of the province of Prince Edward Island and the operation of the Canada Temperance act in the province of New Brunswick will probably be in evidence at the next session of the legislature, when it is understood the government will have to consider the appeal of the Temperance Federation for the enactment of a prohibitory law similar to that in the statute books in Prince Edward Island.

It is by no means convincing after reading the evidence, a summary of which has been published in pamphlet form, that the law in Prince Edward Island is as successful in its operation as the temperance advocates claim it is.

MARRIAGE MARY.
Those who enjoy good dancing—and who does not—will revel in the dances introduced into Edwin Milton Roy's musical play, "Marrying Mary," in which Florence Gear and a large company will be seen at the Opera House during Exhibition week. At the head of the cast is Florence Gear, recognized as one of the most talented singers and dancers on the stage today. Miss Gear as a child was passionately fond of learning new songs. At dancing school she was the most graceful one in the class and the most sought after partner, and since she has been on the stage she has always insisted upon in-serting into her part one or two dances that made pronounced successes. In "Marrying Mary" she has introduced each one more attractive than the other, as a recent newspaper critic expressed himself. Harry B. Roche, as Wills Drinkwater, has an attractive dance with the chorus. Flurette, the maid, has a terrifically peculiar of her own. The three ex-husbands and their partners have a minuet in the first act that is everywhere received with great acclaim, and Col. Henry

WATER MAIN BROKE

EARLY THIS MORNING

Part of the City Was Deprived of Their Water Supply for a While.

The supply of water in the higher levels of the city was very low this morning and in some places there was none to be had at all. The cause of the trouble was a break in the twenty-four inch main known as number two. The break occurred on the Woodside farm, owned by John McDonald, opposite the One Mile House, about six o'clock this morning. Before it was located the water in the city had got down to a level of only about forty feet above sea level. When the position of the break was discovered the water was turned into the other main and the water supply soon reached the normal pressure again. It is expected that the break will be repaired by tonight.

The trouble was finally discovered to have been caused by some of the men who were engaged in erecting a stand-pipe, and turned off the water main by mistake.

This time the charge was lying and lurking in a box car on the McLeod wharf. Connor explained that he had worked for five hours in Carleton and got a dollar. He walked round the bridge and being too late to get in the Salvation Army Home where he had a bed paid for, he took a bunk in a box car.
