"BIG JIM" PARKER

The Colossal Negro Tells How He Saved the President's Life.

Buffaio, Sept. 10.-The News says: "Big Jim" Parker, the colored negro who claims to have captured Czolgosz after the latter fired the shots at Mc-Kinley, was the tawny lion of the exposition Sunday. He has sold all the buttons off his coat for $25 to crazy souvenir hunters, and has received one offer to go into a Midway show. Another applicant has appeared for the privilege of photographing him and selling his pictures. "Big Jim" is appropriately nickenamed. He is 6 feet 6 inches in height. He was born in Atlanta about 30 years last Saturday, when he came to Buffalo and secured work as a waiter in the Plaza restaurant. His right name is Benjamin Parker. The engine of the freight, three or four passenger cars and a baggage car were destroyed. Immediately after the collision they caught fire. Engineer Benning, of Sarnia, was pinned in the wreckage, and his body burned almost beyond recognition. J. Harmon, of Toronto, was in charge of the train of empties. He was caught among the broken timbers and burned to death. The fireman with Engineer Benning jumped and escaped injuries, excepting severe bruises, and two brakemen, Peacock and Morgan, received no injuries except bruises. The less will amount to about $3,000. Traffic was not seriously impeded, all trains going by way of Paris and Junction. In that case also a freight train ran into a standing train; the engineer was killed, the fireman saved his life by jumping, and several cars

New Vital Force For Gells and Tissues.

Chronic Disease Overthrown and the Whole System Revitalized and Reconstructed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Disease is a tearing down, wasting away and destroying of the tissues of the body and a shriveling up of the nerve cells and blood corpuscles. This wasting process may attack the llungs, the heart, the liver, the kidneys, the bowels, or, as is most frequently the case, result in collapse of the nervous system, prostration, paralysis or

You may rest assured that disease will search out your weak spot and gradually gain the upper hand. Nature alone cannot end this wasting process. External assistance is absolutely necessary, as you know too well if you have been observant of what is going on around you. As a result of centuries of investigation and research science now offers certain restoratives and revitalizers which have a wonderfully beneficial effect on a weakened and run-down system. These are combined in the most successful proportions in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which is by far the most thoroughly effective tissue builder and nerve restorative that is known to the medical profession

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

At least nine-tenths of the ailments from which people are suffering and dying today are the result of thin, watery blood, exhausted nerve force and general debility of the body. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food stops this wasting process, puts new life and energy into the wasted nerve cells, fills the shriveled arteries with rich, life-sustaining blood, and overcomes disease. #### ATTEMPT TO SETTLE THE STRIKE FAILED

And the Amalgamated Association Executive Adjourned Without Date.

Pittsburg, Sept. 10.-The last effort to settle the strike has failed. The general executive board of the Amalgamated Association adjourned without date last evening, and without either accepting any of the peace propositions which have come indirectly from the United States Steel Corporation or without making any counter-propositions, according to the of-ficial statement. The semi-official report is that the proposition secured for the Amalgamated Association through the intervention of the representatives of the National Civic Federation, was unsatisfactory, and that the entire matter of arranging for a settlement was left with President T. J. Shaffer. The board, in its session of three days, has been clam-oring for a settlement, but satisfactory erms and means were not at hand, and the sessions resolved themselves into an informal discussion of the situation. At the close of the meeting of the national executive board this evening. President Shaffer declared that he had no statement to make, but subsequently said:

A PRONOUNCED IMPERIALIST.

Was a Generous Friend of Colonial Troops, Previding for Them Many Extra Delicacies.

Mr. R. Stuart Solomon, a prominent imperialist of Cape Town, paid a flying visit to London yesterday, the guest of Mr. Alex. Stuart, K.C., of this city. He and his wife and daughter are taking a trip around the world, going from here to Vancouver, thence to Japan, Hong Kong, Australia, New Zealand, and from there home to South Africa. He is known to many Canadians as a devoted friend in Cape Town of the colonial troops who serv-

Major Stuart, writing from Johannesburg some months ago, after hearing that he was going to visit Canada, said that Mr. Solomon had spent half his time and large sums of money in devotion to the welfare of the colonial troops. The sick were supplied with all kinds of comforts and delicacies; every body of colonial troops departing for the front had some extras be-stowed upon them by his hand, and every troopship leaving with colonials received similar attentions.

Mr. Solomon is very pronounced in his opinion of the benefit to the em-pire, and particularly to the British in South Africa, of the assistance given by the colonies to the mother country in the recent struggle. In acknowledging the honor done him by the freedom of the city of St. Johns, bestowed upon him during his present visit, he said it was his firm belief that if it had not been for the assistance given by the colonies and the demonstration made by them of their readiness to do more in support of the empire, such assistance would have been given to the Boers by the people, if not by the governments of other nations, that South Africa would have been lost. But when Canada was ready with more men, and when Australia sent word that she had four hundred thousand men of the same mind and the same mettle as those she sent to Afand my grandfather."

In praising the colonials he says it is still hard to beat Tommy Atkins, but he was not given the same liberty of action as was given to, or taken by, the colonials. The latter did bold and original things that discipline restrained Tommy from doing. What strikes Mr. Solomon most

Amusements.

NEW GRAND OPERA HOUSE. The opening of a brand-new theater s not an every-day event in London and when such an event transpires it is only fitting that the city's play-lovers should recognize the occasion in a becoming maner by turning out in a becoming maner by turning out ingratifying numbers to attend the opening performance. The size of the audience last night was an encouraging and gratifying evidence that London is prepared to patronize liberally the bet-ter classes of dramatic attractions, and so sustain its reputation of "a good show town." The audience seemed to favor the balcony, considered by many to be the best location in the house, and only a few chairs in the two back rows were vacant. Downstairs house was comfortably filled. As for the gallery, the tumultuous applause when the villain got his bumps told the rest of the house that both the gallery habitues and their hearts were in their right places. Of the play itself, it is needless to say much save that it comes to London with the approval of a continent stamped upon it. The story is a simple one, and beautiful with the beauty of simplicity. A young woman who has been betrayed by means of a mock marriage finds refuge in the house of an honest old New Hampshire farmer. Her child is dead and so are all her hopes in life. She wins the love of the old farmer s only son. The latter is engaged to be married to his cousin, but neither of them cares for the other. The unhappy waif, who has been taken into the family circle, seems likely to find a husband and happiness, until a village busybody reveals her mottled past. Ther the father sternly sets his foot down and turns the girl out of the house on a winter's night. Before she goes, how-ever, she is able to denounce the author of her wrongs, who is courting the very girl whom the old farmer is in-tent upon marrying to his son. As the curtain falls the heroine goes out into the storm, followed by the farmer's son. The last act brings the father to a full realization of the situation, the unhappy girl is transformed into the bride-to-be of the farmer lad, and her betrayer is informed "that this neighborhood will be ruther lonely" for him

It is evident that London has lost nothing in not seeing the play presented by even the original company, for it would be difficult to imagine the play in more capable hands. The hon-ors of the evening, as did the sympathies of the audience, fell to Miss Flora Fairchild, who essayed the difficult role of Anna Moore, the shrinking, sensitive woman, whose life has been well-nigh ruined by a villain, but who finds happiness at last. Miss Fairchild's appearance was looked forward to with special interest by numberless admirers of her gifted sister, Miss Julia Arthur, and they were not disappointed. Virginia Westbrook, as the coquettish litwiles and is captured like one of his own beloved butterflies hearted professor, was very sweet and winsome. Scott Cooper gave old farmer, whose heart softens at last to his adored son and the girl of his love. Philip Yale Drew, whose last appearance here was in a lighter role in "The Man from Mexico," fulfilled the difficult role of David Bartlett with complete satisfaction. So well bal-anced is the company that it is impossible, as it would be unfair, to single out other members of the suppor for praise.

The scenic, mechanical and light ef fects were all excellent, the snowstorm scene in Act II. being an especially effective piece of realism. The orchestra under the direction of F. L. Evans, gave a select programme in an entirely satisfactory manner.

Col. C. J. Whitney, of Detroit, and Mr. A. J. Small, of Toronto, lessees of the house, and Col. Wood, of Detroit, the architect, occupied a box during the play.

When Paire's Celery Compound is used by sick and broken down women, a selid foundation of health is quick-The bowels are kept regulated, poisons in the blood are banished, neuralgia and rheumatism are expelled from the system, the appetite becomes natural, and sleep and sweet rest prove that perfect health has taken the place of sickness and disease. We urge every wife and mother to test the virtues of that medicine that "makes sick people well."

Mrs. M. Young, desiring to benefit suffering women, writes thus:

"I was a terrible sufferer from neuralgia and nervous debility, and was extremely weak and rundown. While in this condition I tried almost all kinds of medicines without any im-provement. My sister finally persuaded me to try your Paine's Celery Com-bound. The first bottle helped me wonderfully, and, after having used six bottles my health is restored and I am now a new woman. I am pleased to say that Paine's Celery Compound is all that you represent it to be—a banisher of disease and a restorer of health. CROP REPORTS FOR NEW YORK STATE.

The New York section of the Climate and Crop Service of the Weather Bureau issues the following crop bulle-tin for the week ending Sept. 2: "The temperature during the week was moderate and favorable for the growth of crops. The precipitation was light generally, but moderately heavy in some sections. The moisture, in general, is sufficient, but more rain is needed in Essex and Suffolk counties and other scattered places. Corn continues to make large growth, but in some places is not earing well. Though late potatoes are affected by blight and rotting slightly, the prospects for a fair crop continue favor-able. Buckwheat has made a large growth, but is filling unevenly, and has blasted to some extent in the southern and southwestern counties. Oat harvest is delayed in the northern portion by unfavorable weather, and threshing shows a uniformly small yield. Tobacco cutting continues, and the crop is in excellent condition. Beans are being pulled, but have not ripened evenly, and have been injured to some extent by blight. Hops are being picked, and the crop, while not large, is of good quality. Grapes, plums and peaches continue to rot somewhat, but are generally promising. Apples are very poor, though more favorable reports come from some localities. Garden truck is plentiful, and pastures, meadows, and all grass lands are in fine condition. Threshing

GIGANTIC MOUNTAIN VANISHED

Enormous Damage Done by Fire in Foo Chow.

Famine in Corea—Earthquake in Japan-Sudden Death of a Noted Prussian.

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—The steamer Tartar brings news that a mountain in Northern Japan disappeared after an earthquake last month. It stood in the center of a plain in Igusa district, rose over 500 feet in height and covered 40 acres at the outskirts of the village of Kolwayama.

Aug. 16 a tremendous thundering noise was heard in the direction of this hill and when the villagers assembled on the spot, attracted by the mysterious sounds, they found that the mountain had disappeared. Instead of the hill they saw level ground. The strange discovery threw the villagers into great consternation. closer examination of the spot showed that the mountain had been bodily sunk into the ground, leaving its top on a level with the surrounding land. It is thought that the phenomenon Valenciennes Laces at 15c, 20c, 25c 👌 was the result of subterranean vol-

Hot Weather Ailment

The remarkable Recovery from Chronic Dysentery of Wm. Francis, of Toronto.

Dysentery is an ailment most commonly suffered in the summer. It is a form of catarrh due to the food you eat and impure drinking water. Powley's Liquified Ozone rectifies your stomach and bowel action. It is good for any form of disease that attacks the mucous membrane lining of the stomach and bowels. Used in drinking water it effectually destroys germ life and prevents the disorders they usually

For dysentry take Powley's Liquid Ozone in dessertspoonful dese, use every fifteen minutes This stops the fermentation quickly, stimulates the membranous lining of the stomach and bowels, and prevents recurrence of the disorder by m king digestion com-

The following remarkable case of Wm. Francis is worthy of your attention:

I have the pleasure in testifying to the wonderful curing powers of your Ozone and what it has done for me. For eighteen years I have been troubled with tropical dysentery, also a complication of other diseases. I attended St. George's Hospital, London, England. They told me my disease was incurable. I then went to West London Hospital, at Hammersmith, England. I was told the same thing. For the last eight years I have been treated by the General Hospital, Grace Hospital, and also Simcoe Street Dispensary: they all did their best but all said I was incurable. One of the hospitals asked me for my body when I died. This showed how bad my case was. I had also a lump in my stomach about the size of a hen's egg, which was thought to be a cancer. It burned like fire all the time. Finally I could keep nothing on my stomach and I also lost my appetite. Mr. A. Cunningham advised me to try Ozone as he thought it would cure me. After taking Ozone for a few days my appetite came back and the lump in my stomach went away and in a week's time I could get out of bed. I have taken about four bottles of Ozone and all my complaints have been completely cured. I never felt better in my life. It is certainly a miracle to cure my diseased body after all I have gone through.

(Signed) WM. FRANCIS, 8 Elliott St., Toronto.

The best way to take Powley's Liquified Ozone during the summer is in the form of a drink. It makes a most refreshing beverage. In taste it is very much like a superior quality of lime fruit juice, and its use prevents nearly all the disorders so commonly suffered in hot weather.

Presidents and Assassinations.

The gratifying news comes from Buffalo that President McKinley progressing so favorably that his complete recovery, in due course of time, seems now to be highly probable.

The strain of anxiety thus measrelieved, public attention among our neighbors naturally directs itself to the lessons growing out of this third lethal attack on a President of United States within the lifetime still comparatively young. Taking up a number of our exchanges at random, the opinion seems to be unanimous that, while no human forethought can always suffice to avert anarchist outrages and madmen's and kings. The Washington Star thinks the time has come to "round up the Reds;" and, while free speech is to be preserved, that liberty and license are different things. Whatever may be the results of the President's wounds, there should be at least a greater rigidity of surviellance over poisonous agitators of the Emma Goldman type, who, on public platforms, openly advocate the assassination of rulers and men in high places. It is felt that there are always liable to be present in a crowd some persons whose natures become readily influenced as they listen to the mouthing of incendiaries.

The Windsor Record, published on the border, thinks the United States has permitted too wide a latitude to these disorderlies, and that a mad dog might as well be given the freedom of the streets in the name of liberty.

The New York Sun, referring to certain class of current sensational writing of the day, says, "It is the fact that the seed which grows into murder is not of foreign sowing alone. It is scattered in the United States every day, and it does not always fall

The New York Evening Post points out that free discussion does not mean freedom to excite violence, and that often wild speech means the risk of wilder action by the hearers. Anarchists, the Post declares, need watching with special vigilance as outlaws of the human race. The Chicago Tribune thinks that more pains should be taken to bar out foreign Anarchists in the first instance. watched more diligently. "They are enemies of mankind that cannot perhaps be extirpated, but who should be kept under perpetual espionage."

Another journal calls for a little more safe-guarding ceremonial, and suggests there should be no more of these freefor-all, hand-shaking presidential receptions, which give an easy opportunity for a madman to change the course of the history of the country.

The New York Tribune calls upon the people to manifest a stern hatred of the crime which they lament, and an inflexible resolution to make by every lawful means within their power even the menace of its repetition impossible.

The New York Herald thinks the "time has come to settle with these reptiles," who have no proper place in a republic. It suggests an amendment by Congress defining anarchy as a crime against the United States, and subject to trial before a Federal jury. As the President is Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, an attack upon him, it considers, should be triable by court-martial, so that swift and relentless justice would be meted

The New York Journal contends there must be organized effort to discourage organized murder

The New York World holds there is much plausibility in the suggestion made by many eminent criminologists, that every assassin should, as far as possible, have his identity effaced. If even his name were suppressed in reports of the crime, and he was hurried to trial and execution without having any personal prominence in the public eye, so that he would cut no figure at all, either at the time or in history, it is evident that the stimulus to notoriety and the love of public posing would e taken away.

The Advertiser, while not antagonizing any of the foregoing views, still regards a right public opinion as the main preventive, and on the whole the strongest thing in the world. In forming that public opinion, perhaps the newspapers could do most. Newspapers should treat men of the type Nothing could be more despicable than the conduct of President McKinley's would-be assassin. Czolgosz walks up, with his hand in a handkerchief, as if injured. The kindly President receives him with added kindness because of assassin takes his cowardly opportunity to shoot a man who had never done or thought him injury. Such a est description. And as right thinking is necessary to right action, all responsible journals should set forth the extreme which attempts to make upon the building of naval vessels, out that every Canadian, man or retaining only the provision that the company the party while traveling warships should not be kept in the ever the Grand Trunk.

cowardice and meanness of the assassin on the other.

The Canadian Exhibit in Glasgow.

The step taken by the Dominion Government in providing such an elaborate and well-ordered exhibit at the Glasgow Exhibition is proving a and the other from the Detroit Free happy one. No better or more legitimate means of advertising the agricultural and other industrial possibilities of Canada could have been devised than a showing of actual results. Regarding our Dominion, a British publication makes the following statement: "Among the numerous colonies which together form the Great Britsh Empire beyond the seas, none is of more interest to the average inhabitant of these isles than that of the Dominion of Canada." Britons have hitherto been accustomed, through absence of correct knowledge on the subject, to regard Canada too much as the 'Lady of the Snows' and as a country where the most comfortable garb would be that made of furs. The agricultural products on exhibition in Glasgow go to show that our climate is tempered to the liking of the most fastidious Britisher. The exhibit of Canadian minerals forms perhaps the leading feature in connection with the Canadian section. The collection contains over 1.250 specimens illustrative of the mineral wealth of Canada. This exhibit is divided into nine subdivisions, as folfreaks, unending vigilance must be lows: Metals and their ores; materiexercised in the defense of presidents als for the production of heat and light, for example, coal, peat and petroleum; minerals applicable to chemical manufactures and mineral fertilizers; mineral pigments such as ochres and barvta; salt and brines; refractory materials and materials for pottery and chinaware, such as asbestos and fire clay; minerals for grinding and polishing; minerals applicable to fine arts and jewelry; and lastly, minerals for common and decorative construction, as granite, sandstone, marble and cements. This collection forms a mineral exhibit hitherto unequaled by that of any other country in the world. Since minerals form the basis of capitalistic investment in perhaps the majority of cases, it is a wise stroke of policy to bring such an exemplary exhibit of our mineral resources to the attention of the Brit-

Patriotism and Criticism.

In Queen's Quarterly Journal for July, Mr. J. Marshall has an article on Archibald Lampman, the Canadian Those who are already here must be poet, in which he protests against the worship of that which is Canadian, simply because it is Canadian. The protest is no doubt needed, and while Mr. Marshall is right in maintaining that we ought to measure ourselves by the highest standards, and so learn humility, without crushing aspiration, many even among thoughtful observers will think that the critic goes to the other extreme. To compare Lampman with Wordsworth or Tennyson is of course absurd; and if the admirers of the Canadian poet do this, they court such crushing retorts as those of Mr. Marshall; but on the other hand, it is well that in a new country such well-meant, and, considering the environment, successful attempt after poetic culture should be appreciated. It is quite true, however, that in the matter of literary criticism our patriotic feeling may easily lead us astray. "In these matters, unfortunately, however, patriotic feeling is not entirely to be trusted. It is apt to be a little over-enthusiastic, a shade too intent on utterance, and too impatient of form, a trifle deficient in balance and measure, a little blind in the larger vision of humanity. The patriotism, for example, which believes in forming our children's minds on

'We'll lick the Boer,

Excitable enough, Canadians are deficient in imagination and emotion. This seems his supposed wound, whereupon the severe, from one of ourselves, and perhaps may correctly be regarded as rather sweeping; but it is the kind of criticism that, if it is accepted in the man is no hero, but a cur of the mean- right spirit will do mere good than

Shall Warships Be Maintained On the Great Lakes?

give elsewhere today articles, one from the Chicago Tribune treaty, of 1817, forbidding the building and maintenance of warships on

Our neighbors, whenever they have an interest in the repudiation of treaty obligations, always maintain that there is such a change in the circumstances as to justify the course which they think it is their interest to take. canals had been constructed; In this matter, having several shipbuilding establishments on the borders of the great lakes, they maintain that these provisions of the treaty ought no longer to be binding upon them. We entirely dissent from this view. The building of ships for warlike purposes upon the great lakes by the one party, would be certain to become a source of menace to the other, and it is because this is so that the provision in the treaty of 1817 was agreed upon. It was at that time at er lakes for the training of naval releast as much in the interest of the United States to maintain it as it was in the interest of Great Britain and

Government of the United States attach so little importance to their ern ships, and this could not be actreaty obligations and to what is due by them to a friendly State as to engage in shipbuilding in contravention of so important a convention. Our neighbors must bear in mind that however much such a course would be of advantage to two or three firms of of advantage to two or three firms of to play with—Buffalo, Cleveland, To-shipbuilders on the borders of the ledo, Detroit, Milwaukee and Chicago lakes, it means a very considerable expense both by their Government and The agricultural exhibit fairly repre- by that of Canada-an expenditure of moneys that could be more usefully means of protection to the shipping for the reception of gunboats built at increased menace would be a few posanother way.

It was against the temptation of reciprocal armament that the treaty complained of was intended to provide. It has done so for a long time. Our neighbors are enterprising and strong, but they are not so strong as to be enabled to disregard with impunity the most sacred treaty obligations.

We append the two editorial utterances referred to above: THE RUSH-BAGOT CONVENTION

[From the Chicago Tribune.] The antiquated treaty of 1817 forbidding the building and maintaining of warships on the great lakes has engaged Congressman Boutell's attention ever since it killed his bill three years ago for giving the Chicago naval militia a modern training ship. In the North American Review of September he tells the curious story of the birth, life, death, resuscitation, and accomplishments of that outworn treaty. He writes unde the title, "Is the Bagot convention immortal?" He makes it clear that the old treaty is now doing more harm than good.

The object of this convention between the United States and Great Britain was to remove a possible cause of irritation after the war of 1812. It accomplished that object. It stipulated that neither nation should maintain any naval vessels on the lakes, with exception of four small revenue cutters "not exceeding 100 tons burden and armed with one eighteen-pound cannon." At that time iron or steel ships were unknown, and steam had not yet been applied to a war vessel. The treaty has long outlived its purpose and the conditions that made its literal observance possible. Both nations tacitly admitted this fact as long ago as 1844, when the United States launched the 498-ton side-wheel bark Michigan, which still survives as an ancient curiosity. This has violated the letter of the treaty for nearly sixty years. Mr. Boutell thinks it is time both governments ceased to maintain the pious fiction that the convention is still being observed." At the time when Mr. Rush and Mr. Bagot exchanged their notes the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals did not exist. To build a warship on the lakes then meant to maintain it Changed conditions now make it possible to build ocean vessels of moderate size in lake shipyards and convey them to salt water. Lake shipbuilders could compete with those on the sea-board in building smaller naval vesour own and foreign governments if it were not for the Rush-Bagot convention. The men who made that treaty had no idea of forbidding so legitimate an industry, yet such is the ffect of the agreement as its stands. Mr. Boutell calls renewed attention to the fact that there are at least twelve large shipyards on the lakes at Chi-cago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Cleveland, and other cities, which are now prevented from building naval vessels of any kind by this antiquated treaty, though they could do the work more cheaply than seaboard firms, because they are nearer the ore beds, coal mines and steel plants. The government suffers loss because it cannot accept the lower bids of the lake shipbuilders. The naval militia on the lakes are prevented from having a genuine gunboat on which to complete their training. These need-less deprivations could be removed by a simple changes in the convention. It is not desirable that the treaty should be abrogated entirely. It would be unfortunate both for Canada and for the United States if they were to begin to create rival navies on the lakes. It would be beneficial to both, the difference between high character and courage on the one hand and the cowardice and meanness of the assasis also a fine art, and is not easily lakes after completion, save in the case of a few training ships. This is what Congressman Boutell recommends, and is advice is sound and sensible. It is not likely that Canadians would object to so reasonable a change.

ANOTHER VIEW.

[From the Detroit Free Press.] Three or four years ago the abrogation of the Rush-Bagot treaty was a favorite subject of agitation for the congressman from the great lakes district, who had nothing better to agitate. We have not heard so much about it for the last two or three tate. years; but in the September number of the North American Review, Representative Henry S. Boutell, of Chicago, reopens the question. Boutell is ardently in favor of the abrogation of the treaty, and discusses the question with rather more enthusiasm than logic. Like all his predecessors in the list he fails to show that there is a crying necessity for any change whatever in the status Mr. Boutell's argument venerable one. At the time the treaty was agreed upon none of the inter-lake shores were sparsely settled and nobody imagined that war vessels could be built on the lakes to be sold to other nations. Neither party has held strictly to the original agreement. There are twelve shipyards on the lakes which are shut out from bidding on the construction of vessels for the United States navy or any other navy. And lastly, the naval reserves in the lake states are deprived of any opportunity to train on a modern ship. wisest course would be to permit each government to maintain one modern

If there is to be any change in the Rush-Bagot treaty, provision should be made that the United States be allowed to maintain warships on the great lakes in such ratio to the Canadian warships as the American marine interests on the lakes are to the Canadian marine in As the British Government would never consent to such an arrangement, the Rush - Bagot treaty might better be left untinkered.

The name of the man who shot President McKinley is pronounced "Shollgosch."

Prof. J. G. McGregor, formerly of Dalhousie University, Halifax, now successor to the late Prof. Tait, of Edinburgh University, has struck the keynote of the educational situation when he says that it is not "knowledge" so much as "power" our boys want. Knowledge is soon forgotten, and at best is encyclopedic in its nature; power enables one to invent, to contrive. The former lacks the element originality; the latter is the chief qualification in the work of re-

Will Niagara Ever Run Great Western?

The following is from the New York Evening Post. Will the power at Niagara Falls ever run the Great Western Division of the Grand Trunk and the Canada Southern Railways? Says the Evening Post: "Sweden promises to be the first country to substitute electricity for steam upon a large scale on railroad lines. Official announcement has been made that, at the next session of the legislative body, the Government will push a measure to this end, and the movement seems likely to carry. Sweden has no ceal mines of importance, but it has an abundance of waterfalls and cascades. Accordingly the Government, some time ago, sent out a party of experts who were to examine waterfalls and their possibilities as a source of electrical power, and their report was most favorable. engineers took into account only those falls which developed an energy of at least 1,500 horse-power at low water in midsummer, and found that sufficed in most places for all practical purposes, while in others power could be conveyed to a distance from very large falls. The projected change would result in the abandonment of long trains and the substitution of shorter ones at more frequent intervals-a reform which tourists would particularly appreciate. At present the longest electric railway in Europe is that from Como to Varese in Italy -51 kilometres (about 32 miles). The electric power is produced with the aid of steam, but as soon as possible the falls of the Ticino are to be utilized.

September Magazines. There are two important and dis-

inctively Canadian articles in the Sep-ember Canadian Magazine. "Dawson As It Is" describes the rise and growth of that city of the north-a mosquitohunted muskeg in 1896, now a town with seven or eight thousand inhabitants. This is well illustrated. "Cape Breton, Past and Present," by W. L. Grant, a son of Principal Grant, of Queen's University, is a splendid piece of descriptive writing. For centuries that island was a battle ground where the French and English struggled for supremacy, and Mr. Grant outlines that struggle in a masterly manner. This is also illustrated with pictures of historical spots about Louisbourg, and with charming bits of characteristic scenery for which the island is famous. Another article in this issue worthy of special mention is entitled, "Humming Birds of Ontaric," by C. W. Nash, one of the greatest authorities on American wild life. Prof. Adam Shortt writes of "An Early Canadian Statesman," and gives a powerful pic-ture of the work done by the Hon. Richard Cartwright and others in the early years of the century in fighting against the forcing of an established church upon the new Province of Up-per Canada. F. Clifford Smith writes an interesting sketch of L. O. David, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's most trusted friend. There are some bright stories and the usual comments on men, affairs and books.

The discourse of the Rev. Geo. Theo Dowling, D.D., delivered a few weeks ago in Christ Episcopal Church, Los Angeles, Cal., of which he is rector, and which is published by his vestry, on "Romanizing Tendencies in the Episcopal Church," has reached its ninth thousand.

Muscular Strength.

There is this to be borne in mind in these days, when so many young men are giving so much attention to muscular development, in gymnastic and athletic exercises, that there cannot be permanent muscular strength where there is not muscular strength where the blood strength, Hodd's Barsaparilla gives blood strength, prometes digestion and assimilation, and builds up the whole system.

It acts with wonderful rapidity in subduing that dreadful disease that weakens the strongest man and destroys the young and delicate. Those who have used this cholera medicine say it acts promptly, and never fails to effect a thorough cure.

MISS WILLARD IN NIAGARA WHIRLPOOL

Suffocated After Passing Through the Rapids.

Detailed Description of Her Foolhardy and Fatal Voyage.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 10 .- As already briefly described, Carlisle D. Graham and Miss Maud Willard kept their promises and made their voyage through the gorge on Saturday, but Miss Willard lost her life in doing it. It was just 3:40 o'clock when she was placed in the barrel, which belongs to Graham, and at 3:53 p.m. the barrel was in tow of a small boat and being pulled out to the middle of the river, where it was set adrift. When the city clock was striking 4 Miss Willard was being rushed by the current under the lower bridges into the boiling rapids. At 4:04 o'clock she had successfully pulled through the rapids and was floating across the whirlpool. Unlike other rapid navigators, she had not the good fortune to be carried straight across the pool to the Canadian side, but the harrel got caught between the up and the down currents, and there it tossed and tumbled hour after hour until people grew weary of watching it. As night approached and the barrel took a different list as it floated around it was the general opinion that the girl had become unconscious and that her body lying to one side caused the barrel to list. Before this the barrel appeared to stand somewhat upright, as though the girl on the inside was keeping on her feet, but when the strange lay away over, so that both heads were nearly in the water, people became fearful of the result.

Standing on the bare rocks on the American side of the whirlpool was Graham. With the entrance of the Graham. With the entrance of the barrel to the pool he donned his lifepreserver and put a life ring about his neck in order that his head might be supported should the waves knock He was prepared for the him out. of the barrel from the great river pocket, and ready to follow it to Lewiston, but after it had been held in the pool nearly an hour he leaped into the water at 4:45 o'clock and was on his way to Lewiston. His trip through the waves was unevent-. He passed safely through a portion of the Niagara River never before swam by man in this way. During Miss Willard's trip through the rapids and Graham's trip from the whirlpool to Lewiston a moving picture machine was in operation on a trolley car on the American side. Graham did net swim through the whirlpool rapids where Webb lost his life. Graham returned up the gorge it was only to find that his young girl companion was still help-lessly floating on the bosom of the whirlpool. Never before had a rapids navigator been held there so long. When Graham reached the rapids elevator he ascended to the top of the bank and hurried acress bridge to the pool. Night was fast falling. In fact, when Graham reached the water's edge at the whirlpool darkness had settled. But, watching the tumbling barrel as it occasionally appeared in the gloom, he struck out the water after it, but failed to capture it. Again it was swept out to the middle of the river. Hearing of the failure to get the barrel, Capt.

Johnson, of this city, a well-known surf-diver, went over to the pool with long ropes and life rings to aid in the rescue of Miss Willard.

All hope of Miss Willard being alive was at last abandoned. Her body was brought up during the early hours this Undertaker morning and taken to Butler's rooms, where it will lie until tomorrow morning, when it will be taken over to her home at the Falls. Archie Donald, the young lad who was last week presented with the Royal Canadian Humane Society's medal for saving the life of a companion in the whirlpool about a month ago, swam out and secured the barrel and towed it ashore. The scene enacted at the whirlpool between 2 and 5 o'clock this morning told the story of the life the unfortunate woman had led of late years, when an army of her friends came over from the American side to bring the body up from water's edge. They half carried, half dragged the body of the woman up by her feet and hair of the head. Some were carrying burning embers and torches to light their way, others were falling off the rugged paths in their drunken stupor as they climbed up the narrow paths. The worst kind of blasphemy resounded through the gien at the pool, and, with the flying burning embers before the high wind, presented a weird sight, not unlike Dente's Inferno. Even the body of the weman did not escape the blasphemy and immoral language poured forth during the scene that lasted some three

A THOUSAND THANKS.

Quebec Man Cannot Be Too Grateful for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Elyear, Que., Sept. 9, (Special) .-A feature about the work of Dodd's Kidney Pills is the great gratitude they arouse in those whom they restore to health. Health and sickness are as different from each other as happiness and unhappiness, misery and joy. Is it any wonder that those who are transported from sickness to happiness and joy by Dodd's Kidney Pills are grateful to that wonderful medicine? And as Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured people all over the world, one may judge of the multitude which bless the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE GREAT FAIR!

Attracts an Immense Crowd in Spite of Threatening Weather.

No Rest for Tired Ticket-Takers--- Magnificent Displays in the Various Departments--- Exhibits of Western Ontario Products That Are Well Worth Visiting -- Today's Meeting of Directors.

morning. The unprecedented attendance yesterday was highly encouraging to the directors and their high hopes for a record-breaking aggregate seem likely to be realized. The exhibition grounds are fairly swarming with people. The staff of ticket-sellers on the different gates were a worn-out lot of men last night, when the last ticket had been sold and the last quarter had been raked into the bulging moneybags, and today they are not likely to get any rest.

The most remarkable thing about today's crowd is the vast army of farmers who are taking advantage of this annual opportunity to compare notes, and to get new ideas in the progressive science of agriculture. They are out in thousands, and they have come from every corner of Western Ontario. And they will not be disappointed, for never before, since the Western Fair became an annual institution, have the agricultural, horticultural, dairy, poultry and stock exhibits been more extensive or more representative of the garden of Canada. THE DAIRY BUILDING. The dairy building is in itself well worth a journey of many miles to anyone interested in that important branch of Canadian farming. When one pauses to consider the marvelous strides made by this country, and particularly by Western Ontario, in the manufacture of dairy products, the importance of this branch of the Western Fair will at once be realized. The exhibits in the dairy building are not only more extensive, but of a much superior quality than those of any former year; indeed, it is doubtful whether a more magnificent display of the kind was ever seen in the Dominion. Nearly every well-known cheese and butter manufacturer and apiarist in the west is represented, and some of the exhibits are of unusual magnitude. The display of honey is particularly good. Here also are to be seen every sort of contrivance for the manufacturer of dairy products; here are the machines that have revolutionized the making of butter and cheese, and here are the finished products of the factories that have placed the name of Ontario prominently before the whole world as a dairy country

THE GREAT CANADIAN HEN. The poultry pavilion is another department that is crowded today. Hand in hand with the progress made in other lines in Western Ontario during the past few years, has been the advance in poultry breeding. The great Canadian hen has become something more than a mere term, for in addition to the attention devoted to the breeding of fancy stock, there has been a general improvement in the development of egg-producing and market fowls. The exhibits in the poultry pavilion are excellent, and include the best stock not the successful breeders of the city, but of all Western Ontario. They include almost every known variety, from the more well-known breeds to the rarer and more expensive varieties.

SPLENDID STOCK DISPLAY. To adequately describe the stock sheds would require the entire issue of a newspaper. The huge cattle shed is literally filled to overflowing with the choicest fancy cattle in Ontario, which means the choicest of Canada, which, in turn, means the choicest of the world. Such a magnificent collection of well-bred stock was probably never before seen in the Dominion. Nearly every breeder in the west is present with entries, and every breed in the county is represented. The horses are in no way inferior; and to the growing band of men who are endeavoring, with so much success, to improve the quality of Canadian horses, the exhibit is indeed encouraging.

THE PALACE OF ARTS. The Palace of Arts is, of course, the one point on the exhibition grounds toward which visitors first direct their steps. Today it is packed with a mass of interested people, and so great is the crowd that it is almost impossible to gain access to the building. The many beautiful booths on the main floor form a very attractive picture. Some of them are elaborate in the extreme, and a visit to the palace is in itself an object lesson of the industrial and commercial progress of the past year. The merchants and manufacturers of London are well represented, and here the visitor may see all manner of manufactured products, from a spool of thread to a piane.

The Midway, with its numerous interesting side-shows, is attracting thousands of people. To have seen the big fair without having seen the Midway is to have missed half the The best of order has been maintained among the great crowds, and the force of regular police and special con-stables under Sergt. Crawford has had little to do but look pleasant. In the machinery and carriage pavil-ions there is an extensive display, and farmers who believe in keeping abreast of the times in the matter of machinery are thronging the buildings. At a meeting of the board this morning several unimportant matters were discussed. Secretary Nelles read two letters, one from Mrs. Rennie, referring to a mistake in judging in the goods department, and the other reference to the judging of his sheep. Both matters were laid over. Director Reid referred to the propo-sition to allow the stockmen to enter the ring after the showing of cattle. The matter was carried after a great deal of discussion.

SOME GOOD EXHIBITS.

Oak Hali.

Oak Hall, as usual, is making a very attractive display in the Palace of Arts. A feature of the exhibit is The Dr. Zina Pitcher Company, To-the famous "Peerless Pocket," which ronto, Ont.

Despite lowering clouds, the day be- | the Sanford Manufacturing Company gan auspiciously at Queen's Park this is now putting into all its clothing. The "Peerless Pocket" is a very simple device by which, without causing the pocket to sag, the strain of a weight in it is thrown altogether on the inside of the garment. In addition it does away with any danger of the pocket tearing at the corners. The ingenious little device, which is patented, promises to become one of those big little" inventions which will be very popular. Oak Hall's display of fashionable men's clothing is of particular interest to men who wish to dress well. Down-town fair visitors are again reminded of this progressive clothing establishment by the tastily decorated windows of the Dundas street warehouse. The work has been done with rare skill and is attracting much attention. In one of the win-dows is a mechanical device which shows how money can be made by purchasing Oak Hall clothing.

Cowboys in Their Element.

The performance given in front of the grand stand by the rough riders of the Wild West Show is only a small sample of what may be seen in their mammoth tent on the Midway. The troupe embraces 15 men and 40 horses, and their performance is a complete epitome of life on the boundless plains of the west. The riders are all Canadians from the ranches or Alberta, and are a fair sample of the class from which were chosen Canada's brave rough riders in South Africa. Among them are such expert riders as Horsehair George, Broneno Pete and Lee Marshall. The bowboys guarantee their ability to ride any horse ever foaled, and it will delight them for any owner of a fractious beast to bring it to their tent. The livelier and worse-tempered it is, the better they will like it. A feature of the exhibition is the hanging of a horse thief. The entertainment is free from objectionable features, and the most refined can witness it.

The Bell on Top.

With the largest factory of the kind under the British flag, and with over $1,000,000 invested, it is no wonder that Organ and Piano Company occupies the deservedly high place it has achieved by merit in the ranks of the foremost manufacturers in the world. It is characteristic of the Bell Organ and Piano Company to do nothing in a restricted way in pushing their great industry, and in presenting to the public their exhibit at this year's Western Fair the company went about the undertaking on the most liberal plan, with the result that one of the most superb and extensive piano displays ever attempted at a great fair has been evolved, and is at once the delight and pride of all loyal and progressive Canadians. When the visitor at the fair calls at the Bell quarters he is courtequely received, and the merits of the several instruments are set forth pleasingly and convincingly. One can spend an hour at the Bell quarters and want to go back and have another hour's enjoyment the next day. The Art Upright and the Art Grand, the wonderful "Appolo" and "Beliolian," self-players, not to mention the Compensating Pipe Organ ar each and all a very revelation in their distinctive lines. The superi-ority of the "Bell" lies in its exclusive features, which have only to be examined to captivate the intending plano buyers. Skilled players are at the service of the musical public who wish to hear all that the Bell Piano reveals. The exhibit is in charge of Mr. J. E. Keenleyside, the genial and courteous local representative of the company, and he is ably assisted by an efficient staff. Mr. Keenleyside will be pleased to have the public call. *

Blue Ribbon Tea.

The exhibit, occupying the most prominent position in the main builddoes, in the estimation of ing as it discriminating housekeepers, is that of Blue Ribbon Tea, as its stand faces the visitor immediately on entering the western door. The dainty decorations of blue and white bunting, to correspond with the label of the company, together with palms, ferns, and tropical plants, present an appearance which could not be excelled for beauty. The pagoda is kept brilliantly illumin-

CHILDREN'S KIDNEYS

Mothers know what distress and anxiety they have when the little ones cannot retain their water properly, or have any trouble with their kidneys. For any weakness of the kidneys, bladder or urinary organs of children, Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, which are the prescription of the eminent specialist, Dr. Zina Pitcher, are the most effectual remedy known to science.

Mrs. W. M. Clover, Pearl street, Brockville, Ont., says: "One of my children that had been suffering from sluggish kidneys read about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and procured a bottle. They removed the whole difficulty promptly. That de-pressing pain over the kidneys step-ped, dizziness and headaches ceased, and there was a general invigorating of the system. There is no question regarding the merits of those Tablets for the back and kidneys We have great confidence in them and recommend them highly."

shows great enterprise in thus practically demonstrating the good qualities of Blue Ribbon Tea, now used in thousands of homes throughout the country. Visitors will be amply repaid for their translations. for their trouble if they will call at the booth and get a cup of tea. Blue Ribbon Tea is so well and favorably known that commendation would almost be out of place at this particular time, if it was not for the fact that this is a subject to which too much attention can hardly be given. Being one of the main articles of diet, the purity or impurity of tea becomes a serious matter, and when an opportunity arises like this, when people can investigate and satisfy themselves it is a privilege which should be taken advantage of by every visitor to the fair.

Jumba, the Man-Eater.

No attraction on the fair grounds is creating more genuine interest than Jumbo, the man-eating crocodile from the west coast of Africa. Jumbo is 14 feet long and weighs 482 pounds, and is altogether the most ferocious-looking creature one would imagine. The huge saurian, though he is very fierce lies so quietly for the greater part of the time that one would imagine he was asleep. If the arm of a spectator should get too close to his huge jaws, however, the wicked little green eyes will open suggestively. With less good specimens of the Florida alligator which a little negro boy handles. This show is not of the "Fake" variety, and is really well worth seeing, for it enables one to witness alive a monster, which is almost unknown outside the stories of African travel. Jumbo's cage is directly south and opposite the Western Fair offices.

Chosen by the Cultured.

It is a significant fact that of all the great musical artists who have visited Canada in recent years, they have almost without exception chosen the Heintzman piano for the proper expression of their genius. Such great pianists as Friedheim, Burmeister, Hyllested and Nutini and Jeannette Durno, have considered it the only instrument adequate for their use. Such vocalists as Antoinette Trebelli, Sofia Scalchi, Pel Plancon, Plunkett Greene, Watkin-Mills, David Bispham, Ben Davies and Harold Jarvis have selected it for their accompaniments. This verdict of the master minds of music has only been an indorsation of the conviction so long entertained in Canada, that the Heineman Piano is par excellence, the instrument which appeals to the cultured ear and the artistic touch. This is apparent from the number of Heintzman pianes which will be found in the homes of musicians and in musical institutions throughout the Dominion. The Heintzman is the only instrument used in the London Conservatory of Music. A magnificent new Baby Grand Heintzman has just been purchased by Prof. J. W. Fetherston, the well-known musician, for his home on Queen's avenue. The Heintzman exhibit at the fair is under the direction of Mr. J. A. Croden, the company's local agent.

A Delicious Beverage.

The verdict yesterday of thousands who sampled the perfection cocoa of the Cowan Company, of Toronto, was that it excelled all the imported cocoas ever brought into the Canadian market. It costs less to the consumer and is absolutely pure. Purchasers should ask their grocer for Perfection Cocoa, and insist on getting it. The Cowan Company will serve the dainty cups of cocoa every day this week at their booth in the main building, and extend a cordial invitation to all to call and sample their delicious beverage. A staff of at-tractive and deft-handed young ladies is on hand to meet the demand, and the few moments required to drink a cup of cocoa is well spent. The company's western traveler, Mr. J. E. Whaley, is in charge of the exhibit, and will be pleased to welcome all his old custom-The New Ontario Exhibit.

Fair visitors are manifesting much interest in the New Ontario exhibit, which was brought here by Mr. R. A. Burgess, of Port Arthur, the Dominion crown lands agent. Mr. Burgess has and now a commodious two-story returned home, and the exhibit, which hewed log house, and about twelve is located in the agricultural building, is now in charge of Mr. J. A. Robertson, of Toronto. Just outside the entrance to the dairy building is a affords a visible means of support, roomy tent in which Mr. Thomas Timber for buildings, fencing, fuel and Southworth, director of colonization market. There is cordwood and ties for the Ontario Government, has to be taken out. This can be done in established a bureau of information the process of clearing. In this bureau of information one may learn those facts about it which are essential to an appreciation of its vast possibilities. Some of these questions which naturally suggest themselves are: What are the staple crops and average yield? About how long is the season without frost? What fruit can be raised? Is the climate severe in winter? Is wood plentiful for fuel, and is there any coal? How about water? Is the country subject to drought and frequent failures of crops? Can desirable free grant land be had? It is just such questions as these that the bureau of information is designed to answer adequately. In regard to the staple crops and the average yield it may be said that New Ontario is particularly fortunate. No other in the world yields timothy and clover. The country second crop of clover is good, and frequently on Rainy River the second crop of timothy is good. Fall and spring wheat yield well; the same can said of rye. It is a fine country for oats. Three years ago a farmer on Slate River had twenty acres that yielded one hundred bushels per acre. For the truthfulness of this statement, the present mayor of Fort William pur-chased the oats. No country yields better potatoes. Prolific crops are grown, and this can be said of all root and garden crops with the excep-tion of tomatoes. While settlers have ripened tomatoes occasionally, they have not succeeded yet in growing them for the market. People seem surprised because they do not ripen corn and tomatoes in this latitude, but when one thinks that bananas and oranges do not ripen in the Eastern or Middle States, the fact is no longer a surprise. In Port Arthur potatoes grow large enough for the table in 60 days from fime of planting. But go one thouated at all times, and this adds to its good appearance. A staff of deft and obliging young ladies are kept busy dispensing tea. This explains why the place is always so crowded. The firm shows good enterprise in thus prac-

The climate, that is an important question. Many people believe that New Ontario is a land of frost and snow. To be sure there is plenty of cold, and the people are the better for it, but there is no more danger of damage to crops from frost than there is in Old Ontario. Think of the mercury climbing up to the hundred-mark in summer, and your ideas of frost will a port in Chili. On going ashore, he be dispelled. The fruits: All kinds of wild fruits -strawberries, blueberries, raspberries, saskatoons and plums-can be raised in great quantities. Wood is so plentiful that the settler does not require coal. There are no barren prairie lands in New Ontario. In New Ontario the land is covered with timber. This is valuable to the poor settler. He may have a family, with just enough money to pay his transportation and get on his 160 acres of free grant. With his axe he can construct his own home out of logs. One gentleman in Burriss township, Rainy River, came from Texas with wife and four children. In Rat Portage he spent about all his money for provisions. There is enough free grant land in Rainy River district, north of the Rainy River alone, to give 5,000 men 160 acres each. This valley is 100 miles long, and the good fertile land extends back from the river 10 to 40 miles. There are 24 free grant townships surveyed there

All details as to the method to be pursued to obtain government free land may be had from Mr. Fee at the bureau information tent.

A Grand Exhibition.

An attraction of unusual merit at the fair is the exhibition given by the Famous Backman Troupe of Glass Blow ers, who are located near the King street entrance. Six first-class artists are constantly making handsome ornaments out of ordinary glass, which are given away to their visitors free of charge.

A steam engine made of glass, in full operation, glass dresses, neckties, etc., are some of the novelties they display. No one should miss the opportunity of paying them a visit during their stay here. Every visitor receives a glass sou-

UNDER TWO FLAGS

How a Sailor's Life Was Saved by the British Consul at Valpariso, Chili.

The following stirring incident of the two flags happened at Valparaiso, Chili, and was related at Montreal in 1881 by the Rev. Dr. J. O. Peck. Dr. Peck said: "The man who gave me the facts I am about to relate was Mr. Haskins, an American sailor, who had sailed to steady, and the grass, despite the heat, never burns up as it does in some One of the police officers, instead of warning him not to make a noise in the street, drew his sword, and, strik ing him a blow, knocked him down. On that the American sailor got up, and knocked the policeman down in return. He was on that arrested and tried, and condemned to be shot in the morning of the following day. Mr. Loring, the American consul, expostulated with the authorities that it would be monstrous to shoot a man for such an offense, but they paid no attention to him, so e thereupon made a formal protest in the name of the United States government against the barbarous act. Mr. Haskins, the sailor, was in the morning brought out pinioned to be shot. * * * As the English consul preparing to hoist the Union Jack he saw the crowd in the field opposite where the execution of the American sailer, of which he had heard, was to said: "I live on a 50c farm, in a 40c house." Two years have passed by, can consul he said: "Good God! Loring, you're not going to let them shoot that man! 'What can I do?' he said. 'I have protested against it. I can do no more.' Quick as thought the English consul shouted: 'Give me flag!' and in a trice the Stars and Stripes were handed to the English representative. At once taking his own Union Jack in his hand, he hastened across the field, elbowed his way through the crowd and soldiery, and, running up to the doomed man he folded the American flag around him, and then laid the Union Jack over it. Standing a few paces back, he faced the officer and soldiers, and shouted defiantly: 'Now, shoot, if you dare, through the heart of England and America!' And they dared not de it, for they feared the consequences, so man was at once released.

LATE LOCAL ITEMS

-Mrs. W. Whitehall and daughter, Miss Alice, 488 York street, have returned home, having spent a pleasant month with friends in Guelph, Toronto and Buffalo.

-Wm. Douglas, formerly cashier of the London Street Railway, and lately with the Montreal Street Railway, has been promoted to the Everett lines at Cleveland. He arrived in the city last night on his way to Cleveland. THE SMASHUP AT PRINCETO.N

In this morning's accident at Princeton, some members of the crews were more seriously injured than was at first supposed. Brakeman R. Oliver, of Toronto, was injured seriously about the head, and Brakeman A. R. Peacock's right leg was broken above the ankle and amputated. Fireman R. Wrenwick was shaken up and bruised.

LICENSE TO TECUMSEH HOUSE. There has been, as is known, some friction in connection with the granting of a license to the Tecumseh House. Into the details of the dispute it is not necessary to enter. The commissioners named conditions, and it is sufficient to say these have been partially met. Mr. C. F. Complin will have the business management for the remainder of the p t license year.

Accordingly, a license to the Tecumseh House has new been issued by the commissioners.

BEAUTIFUL PIANOS.

A remarkable feature of the exhibit of Nordheimer Pianos is the fact that the instruments shown are not manufactured for exhibition purposes, but are from the regular stock of the London showrooms and warehouse, at 188 Dundas street. In viewing this exhibit the public should bear in mind the fact that they will find at the downtown showrooms (which are easily the most attractive and artistic premises of the kind in Ontario) an equally choice and more complete stock of Nordheimers. The beautiful instruments shown comprise one each of the different styles made by the firm, the cases being respectively English quarter-cut oak, crotched mahogany, burl and blistered walnut, and San Domingo mahogany. The prospective purchaser has many strong reasons for selecting a Nordheimer Piano. The name itself has been associated with development in Canada during the past 50 years, and attached to it is the prestige for right dealing gained in the course of a long and honorable career. A guarantee, which accompanies each piano, not only insures to the purchaser the soundness of its construction, but spectively English quarter-cut soundness of its construction, places beyond any doubt the assurance of the instrument giving perfect satisfaction. The success of the Nord-heimer Piano is attested by the large and increasing demand for the instruments, as well as the numerous unsolicited letters (from professional musicians of the highest standing) and musical connoisseurs throughout the Dominion, testifying to the superior and distinctive qualities of the planes. In the manufacture of the Nordheimer Piano there has been applied thoroughly attested principles known to modern piano science. Another special feature of the Nordheimer exhibit is the Angelus, the wenderful instrument which enables anyone to perform artistically and correctly the most difficult musical selections. exhibit is under the direction of Mr. James J. Callaghan, the manager of the local branch. The Nordheimer Piano was recently at St. Thomas. An immense Oriental business that now comes by way of Suez will, as Rear Entrance, 9 and 10 Market Square Sels in the world are completed, be diverted across the Facilio to Seattle, gave results such as the medical fraternity would be expected to pass upon in the case of any citizen. "It would be well to have it stated," he added, "that the president is not being deprived of the benefits of private citizenship. He is being treated exactly as any other citizen would be, and is getting the benefit of it. We view the case just as that of any other man who might be similarly afflicted."

A PREVIOUS PLOT. New York, Sept. 10.-Details of a previous plot against the life of President McKinley are given out, it is said, on good authority by Senator T. E. Ellsworth, according to a special to the Tribune from Lockport, N. Y. He is credited with the statement that the plot was hatched in Paterson, N. J., about the first of May, and Emma Goldman and other prominent anarchists are said to have been concerned in it, A young tailor, Michael Anuitzi, it is said, was the one to whose lot it fell to do the deed. At that time the president was on his tour of the West, and Anuitzi left for San Francisco where he expected Mc-Kinley would be by the time he reached there. But he arrived several days ahead and attended several anarchis meetings, where he met a young man to whom he told his purpose. The young man was no other than a secret service detective, and Anuitzi was promptly arrested, but upon lack of evidence and certain advices from Washington, only the charge of vag-rancy was entered against him. #### Today's Bulletins.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 10.-The following bulletin was issued by the president's physicians at 9 a.m.: "The president's condition this morning is eminently satisfactory to his physicians. If no complications arise a rapid convalescence may be expected. Pulse 104, temperature 99.8, respiration because I do not like to prejudice serious cases, but now I can say to you that everything in the president's condition warrants the statement that he is on the road to quick recovery."

The latest Parisian, London and New York creations of style are always to be found among their fashion sheets. Manufacturing fine furs is the foremost aim of this enterprising firm, but they also do a great deal of altering and remodeling. #### IS MODERATOR Woman as an Insurance Agent. Woman has essayed all the professions with success proportionate to her ability. She has demonstrated her aptitude for business from the conduct of a farm to manufacturing and merchandising. She occupies many minor business positions, in some cases to the exclusion of man, yet though fire insurance offers her an excellent arena, the insurance woman is a rarity, the writer knowing of but eight or ten, and not over two of them in any one state. Woman is an adept at securing a personal following the first requisite to success in a business mostly composed of person-ality. A good presence, engaging manner, tact, persuasive address, interesting and convincing conversation -all are hers by birthright. And to these a business interest, and what a solicitor she would make, remarks the Spectator. More especially as she is accustomed to arriving when she starts-or capturing what she covets, from man to money. Her resourceful persistence if applied to a line of insurance would end in the discomfiture of any male competitor. She is an acknowledged success as a clerk in the local office, but appears to lack the ambition possessed by the male clerk, who generally uses the information and experience he accumulates at his employers' expense, as a foundation for a business of his own.

There is no instance on record of a woman being accused of stealing and capitalizing her employers' expira-tions. This recalls another one of her traits namely honesty; and the injection of a modicum into the local business while it might cause surprise. would not be injurious. Her intuition if she would give the companies the benefit of it, would also be valuable in the selection and rejection of business. Anything, even intuition, would be an improvement over the present system, which has not the courage to reject even known unprofitable

ELSIE.

She looks like a nobler Queen Elizabeth, thought Elsie, with all that great queen's energy of intellect joined to the soul of a saint. As for the young lady, Elsie shivered a little as she looked at her. She was unique, a lovely woman, but there was an unearthly, uncanny element in her loveliness—clever, oh, so clever, Elsie was sure of it, and haughty as a Russian or a Spanish princess. Who was shewith those intensely blue eyes, the very color of the summer sky, and those long, thick black lashes and dark pencilled brows, and that short, scornful upper lip—and, wonder of wonders, with those masses of perfectly flaxen hair, contrasting so strangely with the dark eyebrows and lashes?

She was very handsome: her complex-She was very handsome; her complexion was like alabaster, with the tint of wild roses on her cheeks, and her lips were coral-red and her nose a delicate equiline. But Elsie searched in vain for one soft gleam of womanly tenderness; the face was too narrow to be perfectly beautiful, and the lips were too thin. The young lady was graceful, tall, and slender, holding herself erect, and looking down, so it seemed to Elsie, on the world in general.

"Is this girl Lady Marjorie? If she is I can never like her."

The young lady was attired in a gown of purple velvet, made in the most finished Parisian style; around her long throat cose a high white lace ruff, a short chain of pure dead gold at her girdle was her puly ornament.

"I didn't hear you, Lady Chase. I never hear a sound when I have my chakspeare before me."
"But you should not study too much, my dear Pauline. You are looking overtired, as if you had wearled yourself with brain work."

brain work."

A look—was it alarm or annoyance?—shot into those very blue eyes of the flaxen-haired girl for a moment. Ther she laughed a pretty slivery laugh, and showed her even white teeth.

"You forget that to study is my recreation. You forget how little time I have had to devote to it hitherto. Dear Lady Chase, don't check me; let me study. I am happier here than with your gay guests—indeed I am."

"Well, and I suppose it is pleasant to guests—indeed I am."

"Well, and I suppose it is pleasant to study the part of Ophelia here in this old Tudor hall. You could fancy you heard Lord Hamlet's step coming down the cloister behind those suits of armor. And the ghost, too!"

The young lady laughed again. This time her laugh sounded shrill and unpleasant.

time her laugh sounded shrill and unpleasant.

"The ghost? That is the only part of the play with which I have no sympathy.
Of course one must allow for the ignorance and superstition of the times in which Shakspere wrote, but if I had my way I would have all those elements of the supernatural taken out of the new editions of his works."

"And that hint to Horatio, 'There are more things in heaven and earth Horatio

And that hint to Horatio, There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in your philosophy.' Would you suppress that, with all the speculative thought attendant in its train." "I would," cried Pauline, with a smile on her lips that did not flash into her eyes, "I would. I do not care for those speculative portions of my favorite author. I have a dislike to the idea of the supernatural. It is so puerile, so redolent of the dark ages, it makes me laugh."

Lady Chase only smiled again faintly It was but a half smile, Elsie thoughtone that meant "I could never make this young person understand what the term supernatural means to me and to the supernatural means to me and to the class of thinkers, or perhaps one should say speculative dreamers, whom I admire and sympathize with." Elsie read, in fact, the exact thought that ran in the mind of the countess, for there was a certain affinity between this soul of the schoolgirl—half daring, wholly sympathetic with all that was true or noble, as with anything that pathetic with all that was true or noble, as with anything that suffered, with everything that was oppressed—and the soul of her ladyship, Clara, Countess of

"I will leave you, then, to your studies, Miss Bracegirdle," the countess said, "but first let me introduce to you Miss Elsle first let me introduce to you Miss Elsie Carew, who has come to spend the vacation with us at Charteris."

Handsome Pauline Bracegirdle raised her penciled brows in what looked to Elsie like a superlative disdain. She bent her handsome head to the schoolgirl, who immediately fired up, and, holding her pretty head aloft, bent it in the stateliest fashion to the other lady; and Pauline, turping away, began to chatter to the countess of other things—of the visitors staying in the house, of the private theatricals that were to come off in the second week of the new year.

"We shall not attempt Shakespeare." she said. "Only one or two of all your guests are capable of really appreciating him. But we are going to act 'Mademoiselle Renee,' adapted from the French—a delicious piece of sarcastic humor—delightful! I am sure you will be enchanted."

"Doubtless, if you act in it," returned the counters kindly: the

'Doubtless, if you act in it," returned the countess kindly; then she made a sign to Elsie to follow her.
Elsie accompanied the great lady, who was sweet and gentle as some saintly nun of high birth whom one has read of history, up the wide carven oak stairs and across a richly-carpeted gallery lined with paintings, toward a dark, polished door.

"You shall look at our pictures another time, my child; but now I know you must be hungry, and I want to show you your room. I made up my mind last night, when I heard the story of your being left alone to pass the holidays, that you should come here if you would, and I arranged for you to have the I arranged for you to have this

Elsie felt speechless with gratitude as

Elsie felt speechless with gratitude as the countess turned the handle of the door and led the way through a short of statue room into another and smaller corridor. At the end of this was a small round room, furnished cheerfully in bright-colored cretonne, pale blue ground with pale pink rosebuds. The pretty bed was hung with curtains of the same pattern; the chairs and couch were covered with the same; there was a large window in a recess, draped with the like chaste material, and this window looked over the flower garden, which Elsie had lot seen until now. The smooth gravel walks wound in and out amid hedges that in summer were abloom with roses of all hues; beyond were level lawns, bordered with flower beds; at the foot of this wide space was a dense wood of elms and beeches. elms and beeches.
"It must be lovely in summer," said

Elsie.

"Does that mean that it is dreary now?
Well, the English climate is depressing in winter, but we will make up for all that indoors. We will be so gay, and if you would like to take a part in these theatricals you may."

"May I?" cried Elsie. She clasped her hands in an exclasy for a moment.

"May I?" cried Elsie. She clasped her hands in an ecstasy for a moment; then she said: "I used once to fancy I should like to act for my living, but I have altered my mind; still, I should like to act fust once, to see what I could do."

"You shall," said Lady Chase. "But now take off your wraps, and when you are ready to come down ring that bell and Anderson, my maid, will come and shew you to the dining room; you will find me there at lunch."

Left alone, Elsie sat down and confessed to herself that this adventure was more like a lary story than ever. The unreality of the whole circumstance seemed to press on her like a nightmare. Aunt Johanna, away at Cannes, hew she would rejoice if she knew that Elsie was positively a guest of the Earl and Countess of Chase, at Charteris Court! How their wives, who formed the monde at the comparatively cheap pension! How she would boast to the other genteel spinsters, the half-pay captains and she would boast, to be sure, if ever it came to her ears!

"The countess, my dear friend—the countess!" Ah! I can hear her saying it all," Elsie said to herself, with a certain little curl of the lip; "but the end of the story has not come yet, and I feel somehow that the end won't be like the beginning; I feel that I shall have enemies in this enchanter's castle. That girl with flaxen hair and thin lips is my enemy already. If she could have taken me by the shoulders and put me out at the door she would have done it; or, better still, she would have liked to bring me up here and push me out of the window. A she would have done it; or, better still, she would have liked to bring me up here and push me out of the window. A horrible young lady, I feel sure of it. Fair as Becky Sharpe, and something like her, only a little prettier and more wicked. I ought not to think so, perhaps, but I seem to know it somehow. How fond she said she was of Shakespeare! Who can she be?"

Then Elsie took off her wraps, smoothed her fringe of dark, curly hair, bathed her face, washed her hands, and, going to where a china bowl with winter flowers stood in a recess, she took out a spray of holly and a blossom of lauristinus, and fastened them against her brown velvet gown. Then she rang the bell, and soon there appeared a tall, pale person, with a quiet face, a long black gown, and a small, tasty pink cap.

a quiet face, a long black gown, and a small, tasty pink cap.

This was Anderson, the favorite and confidential maid of the countess. The moment her brown, quiet eyes had searched Elsie's face she smiled kindly. "Lunch is quite ready, Miss Carew," she said, "and the countess is in the dining room."

Elsie went down the wide stairs, feeling more in a dream than eyer.

Elsie went down the wide stairs, feeling more in a dream than ever.
What was going to happen to her?
Nothing, most likely. She would be in a crowd, and nobody would take any notice of her. Only the countess would smile at her. She would lose her individuality in that crowd. She would sit moping—abashed, unnoticed, in fact.
Elsie lost all her courage suddenly when she found herself in a sort of inner hall of carved oak, with painted ceiling when she found herself in a sort of inner hall of carved oak, with painted ceiling, and high church windows of stained glass. There was a heavy rosewood door, through which came the sound of voices and the faint clink of silver.

Anderson turned the handle of this door, and Elsie found herself in a long room, paneled with oak and olive-colored velvet. There was a great table, at which some forty guests were seated; flowers, china, silver, crystal, all gleamed in the wintry sunshine streaming in through a large bay window, draped with curtains of dark claret satin. Footmen were handing dishes about. As for the guests, Elsie felt inclined to hide herself from their scrutiny and to retire. Then the voice of the countess reached her as she stood abashed by the door.

"Bring Miss Carew here, next to Lady Marjorie."

Another moment and Elsie was seated on a moss-like velvet chair close to the Lady Marjorie Hammond, the only daughter of the Earl of Chase. [To be Continued.]

CONSCIENCE MONEY. Ottawa, Sept. 9.—J. B. Dumais, a contractor, lost $120 while paying some employes in a George street store, and had entertained slight hopes of recovering it. Rev. Canon Campeau, however, has since returned the missing cash to the rightful owner. Of course, the good priest was retired as to the manner in which the reticent as to the manner in which the money came into his possession. It is understood, however, that it was given to him by a party whose confession he heard. The priest, in compliance with the rules of the church, withheld absolution until the money was returned. This fact and the workings of conscience led the unlawful possessor to restore the $120, through the medium of the priest, to the owner.

THE MASONIC FRATERNITY IN MOURNING

Beplore Loss of Able and Zealous Grand Master. ++++++++++++++++++++

> Expressions of Sorrow Throughout All the Order. AT THE FAIR

> > Mourning Emblems Drape the Blue Room-Grand Lodge Will Conduct Funeral.

The regular communication of Union Lodge, No. 380, of which the late M. Wor. Bro. R. B. Hungerford was charter member, was held in the Blue Room last night, but, owing to the death of the grand master, did not transact any routine business. The worshipful master, Bro. John Lawson, in opening the lodge, spoke as follows: "Brethren,—Since you received your notices calling us together we met with a heavy loss, the death of our grand master, M. W. Bro. Hungerford, whom it has pleased God to take from our midst. It will be hard for me to eulogize such a noble character, who was universally beloved by those who had the good fortune to make his acquaintance. The world will never know the full-extent which this bereavement is to the Masonic fraternity, a loss to society in general, and, I might say, a loss to this coun-try. The ceasing of the beating of the noble heart of him who has gone from us will be the signal for widespread expressions of sorrow, which it has never before been our lot to bear from the death of one of our acquaintances. But we have one consolation, that if we try and live that blameless, pure life that our grand master has, we will meet him in the 'Great Beyond.'"
On motion of W. Bro. Stephen
Grant, seconded by W. Bro. R. D. A. tury will be the most successful in the Billier, the secretary was empowered to prepare and forward a letter of history of the association.
Yesterday afternoon for the first time the full programme of special atcondolence and sympathy with the widow and family of deceased, and forward the same, under the seal of the lodge. The principal chairs in the Blue Room have been draped and other mourning emblems have been placed on the altar and other fittings. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon, and will be conducted with Masonic honors, under the auspices of the grand lodge and its officers. Interment will be at Wood land Cemetery. It is understood that the Blue Lodges of the city will unite in a grand floral tribute to be placed upon the coffin of their departed brothe wonderful man who dislocates his ther, and arrangements are in progress to secure one befitting the occasion.

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottleful wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles, 25 cents.
