Berlin, June 24.-A dispatch from St. Petersburg via Edytkimen, Prussia, on the Russian frontier, says Prof. Leyden and Dr. Nothiagel report unfavorably upon the state of the health of the Czarewitch. They believe his recovery is very doubtful, and declare he is not in condition to risk the sea voyage which, it was suggested, might benefit. THE REVOLT IN MACEDONIA.

London, June 24.-A dispatch from Sofia to the Pall Mall Gazette says the Macedonian revolt is spreading rapidly between Vranja and Egrica, during which the rebels destroyed the railway communications with the Vorda Valley. Two bands of Bulgarians have crossed the frontier into Macedonia. The Cabinet are cowed by the warlike feeling of the populace and are undecided how to act. The Ministers have been threatened with assassination if they intervene in the revolutionary movement.

The Trawo (newspaper) states that the insurrection in Macedonia is spreading, and has extended to the country tetween Pshina and Kriva. Numerous insurgent bands, armed with Martini rifles, are fighting the troops. Three cartloads of the killed have arrived at Palanka. The heads of the rebels are displayed in the streets of Palanka. A body of insurgents surrounded the troops in the village of Gherman. The troops have been resisting for five days.

TAFFY FOR THE BRITISH. Kiel, June 25.-Emperor William, wearing the uniform of a British admiral, was the principal guest at a dinner given last evening on the warship Royal Sovereign, the flagship of the Pritish squadron that participated in the fetes here in connection with the cpening of Kaiser Wilhelm's canal. the flames would sweep that part of Prince Henry of Prussia, the Emperor's brother, and several German admirals, trol

Among other things he said: "Since the German navy began to exist, we have always tried to form our ideas and to learn from the British." The speceh was a short one, and consisted only of platitudes.

WONDERS OF PHOTOGRAPHY.

Colors Alleged to Be Reproduced in All The r Natural Beauty.

London, June 25.-Dr. Joly, of Dublin, at the soirce of the Royal Society the other day, laid claim to having discovered the solution of the problem of photography in natural colors. He exhibited a large number of photograppic transparencies upon glass plates representing various objects in matural colors. That every range of color and texture could be deart with was evident upon examination of the subjects portrayed. The portrait of a gentleman seated on a garden seat showed the flesh tints of the hands and face with great naturalness. The straw hat upon the knee, the buff lining partly revealed within, as well as the faint green reflection on the rim where this caught the greenish light reflected from the foliage among which he sat, appeared reproduced with fidelity and realistic Pansies of brilliant yellow and brown, deep purple, black, pale blue, snow white, and velvety brown, grouped in a painted china vase, appeared with equal fidelity in another ricture. Other photographs showed the exterior of the red brick building of Trinity College, Dublin, fronted by a lawn with hawthorns, and above the greenish slates of the roof, the pale blue sky, the reproduction of a water color drawing of an Irish peasant girl wearing a red handkerchief over a blue dress, the warm and somewhat sunburnt flesh tints matching the original drawing with almost raultless fidelity, the original being placed above for comparison; a delicately colored Indian china and blue china lacquered; a brass microscope with highly reflecting German silver and copper lacquered finishing, and a thin Uranium green glass tumbler with a subtle play of green and yellow light.

The audience was naturally amazed and belighted by what it saw. Dr. Joly explained, in general terms, the operations involved in the new method. A transparent glass plate, which, on first inspection appears to bear a uniform tint and to possess a somewhat silky texture, is placed in front of a sensitive film and in contact with it. When the latter is exposed in the camera an examination of this plate with a strong lens shows that it is not homogeneous, but is closely lined over with fine transrarent lines of three different colors, succeeding each other regularly over and over in close juxtaposition. The plates shown at the Royal Society were divided to a fineness of 200 lines to the inch, and practically accomplishes this, as was demonstrated on a photograph of a group of wall flowers. A plate which has been exposed under this screen is developed in the usual man-

Duke of Aosta, was married in St. Raphael's Cathedral, at Kingston-on-Thames, at 10:30 this morning to Princess Helen of Orleans, second daughter of the late Count of Paris. The Veteran Ex-Premier in Consultation With the Liberal Leaders.

Salisbury Likely to Demand Immedi ate Dissolution.

N THE HOUSE OF LORDS. London, June 24.—In the House of Lords Lord Rosebery said that after the vote in the House of Commons on Friday, practically censuring H. Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of State for War, upon the question of the estimates, when he had foreshadowed the Government's great scheme of military reorganization, the Ministry felt it to be their duty to resign. They would therefore hold office until their successors were appointed. The House then adjourned, after passing the Behring

SIR WM. HARCOURT'S VALEDIC-TORY.

In quitting office, Sir Wiliam Harcourt said, in the House of Commons,he relinquished a post which he had always regarded as a great responsibility as carrying with it higher obligations than that of any other position under the crown, and he had always desired -unequal to the task as he felt himself (Cries of "No, no!")-to maintain the ancient dignity of this famous Assembly in the performance of the duties of that arduous office. Under circumstances of no ordinary difficulty he had had great assistance, and he desired to tender to the gentlemen with whom he had the honor of acting his grateful thanks for their constant and unfailing support. He also desired to acknowledge the courtesy which had invariably been shown to him by his political opponents, and if it was not regarded as too presumptious in him to adopt the words of his predecessor, he would say that for every man who had taken part in the noble conflicts of Parliamentary life, the chiefest of all his ambitions had been to stand well with the House. Mr. Balfour said that everybody in the House had with sympathy and emotion heard the touching words with which Sir Wm. Harcourt had concluded. All must feel, he said, in a retrospect of the labors of the Chancellor the Exchequer, that the work he had done had not been in vain. Mr. Balfour then appealed to the members of the Opposition for an expression of their sympathy with what he had said, whatever they might think of the policy pursued by the Government. All of their political opponents recognized the Chancellor as one of the greatest ornaments of the House, and one who ever kept the dignity of the Assembly in view. While he (Mr. Balfour) recognized the fact that the members of the Government were the best judges of the question whether to continue to be responsible for the conduct of public affairs, he thought himself that the proper constitutional course to adopt would have been to dissolve Parliament. For a Government in the position of the present one to resign was practically equivalent to a determination on their part to put the burden of office upon the Opposition. It was not in accordance with the best traditions of the House. At the conclusion of Mr. Balfour's remarks, the Behring Sea Bill passed its third reading. Dr. Tanner, member for mid-Cork, alone objected on the ground that he would object to the passage of any measure by the House while the Irish Land Bill was dormant. The House then adjourned until tomorrow.

TOUCHING SCENE.

London, June 24.—Tears were in the eyes of Sir William when he uttered the last words. It was rumored shortly after the House of Commons adcourt will not present himself as a candidate for re-election, and that the con-today from the cruise to Kiel and else where, Mr. Gladstone communicated with Lord Rosebery, and accepted the latter's invitation to dine with him in Downing street. During the evening Herbert Asquith, the Home Secretary was summoned to a conference. Mr. Gladstone remained with Lord Rosebery until after 11 o'clock, breaking his physician's orders and his own rules. He then walked with Lord Tweedmouth -Lord of the Privy Seal-to the residence of Lord Rendel, in Carlton Garcens, where he is staying.

The Standard (Conservative) will say tomorrow: We understand that Lord Salisbury has conditionally consented to take office, and will proceed at once to form a Ministry. The official announcement of his acceptance will be the party leaders on both sides in regard to the winding up of business in the House of Commons previous to dissolution. Assurances have been asked from the Liberal leaders that they will discourage obstruction to the Appropriation Bill, which it is absolutely necesdelayed, pending negotiations between the party leaders on both sides in re-sary should be passed before the dis-solution of the House. The Liberal leaders have also been asked to assist generally in winding up the business of the House. We understand that while the Liberals are willing to assist in obtaining the necessary supply, they will not give any assurance as regards the future business of Parliament.

A PUBLIC WHIPPER

Needed for the Fay Boys of Montreal. Montral, June 24.—As the number of hoys arrested for theft, etc., is becom-ing greater every day, Mr. Marshall, the secretary of the S. P. W. He considers that a man whose duty it would be to administer a sound whipping to the offenders would do more good than all the reformatories in the country, except, of course, in the cases of old offenders.

"No," I could conscientiously assure. "You are looking very nice, and as sweet as a June rose, only much more stylish. Come along."

Then we started to cross the street, but stood back to escape the dust of a carriage that whirled rapidly around the corner. There were two occupants to that equipage-a stout, importantlooking lady, and a corpulent, important-looking coachman, wno would not take his eyes off his fat, shining, wellfed cattle long enough to glance at Queen Victoria; but the stout, important lady did not disdain to glance our way. Oh, no. She shifted her parasol, and refreshed herself with a long, slow, comprehensive stare at a little summer suit which the price of ther own lace-decked parasol would probably cover.

And so it was that whole afternoon.

"My lady in her carriage," and my lady footing it in the street, one and all did not disdain to show their interest in unknown women's dress either by a good slow stare, or the quick fleeting glance, which still bewell aware of the lamentable condi-tion of her health during the past six trays curiosity. When a woman allows her eves to roam with pleasure and curiosity over the details of another's dress, there is always a slight feeling of apprehension that she will presently be fingering what concerns her so mightily. The best way to avoid all appearance of the squaw-like is to be entirely unconscious of what people have on. It's no use to keep your eyes turned resolutely away from your friend's new spring costume if you're thinking about it all the while, for of course she'll know. And neither is it safe to take a little glance out of the corner of your eye, for the other woman usually has corners to her eyes, too; and is just as capable of playing at "puss in the cor-

A woman who is in earnest about something outside of herself and her own personal affairs will not be able to tell you how many yards Mrs. Jones-Robinson had in her skirt.

The Greatest Gas Well Yet Discovered.

Four Million Dollars' Worth Has Escaped So Far and It Cannot Be Controlled.

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 25.—The greatest gas well in the world is unquestionably the "Big Moses" well, struck last September on the Spencer farm, on Indian Creek, in Tyler county. The well was bored for oil, but before the proper sand was found a tremendous gas vein was struck. In a second the gas began to rush forth through as eighth-of-an-inch hole with such force that everything was carried before it. For nearly a quarter of a mile in every direction the earth trembled and the roar of the escaping gas could be heard at a distance of fifteen miles. The daily capacity of the well could not be computed, but it is estimated at over 100,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours. At an estimate by the market value of natural gas, up to this date over $4,000,000 worth has escaped, and nothing can be done to control or confine the fluid, although the owners have spent thousands of dollars in the at-

At one time a great frame of timbers was placed about the well, piling was driven into the earth, and the heavy timbers were bolted to them with immense iron bolts; an immense pump was then forced into the well, with the intention of forcing the gas back or downward into lateral fissures, so that the operators could

PUT DOWN A PACKER.

After the pump had been at work night and day for over five days, forcing a great volume of water down the throat of the monster, the gas suddenly came back with an irresistible force, tore the heavy framework into pieces, forced the water which had been injected into it in a great stream into the air hundreds of feet, while the pent-up gas, as if angry at the attempts to curb its freedom, tore its way through the earth in every direction, creating in-numerable geysers in all directions, many over half a mile distant from the well, and the roar of the escaping gas was so great that it was impossible to hear a word of conversation over a quarter of a mile away, even when the persons were standing side by side. The pressure ascertained by one experiment was fully 600 pounds to the square

During a heavy thunder storm the Big Moses was struck by lightning. The great column of gas was set on fire, the flames ascending hundreds of feet into the air, lighting up the surrounding country for a distance of OVER FIFTEEN MILES.

The sight was terrible and menacing. The flames leaped and twisted, shot straight upward and then waved to and fro with the well as an axis of a tremendous circle, while offshoots in great sheets of flame darted in every direction, but never closer than 50 feet of the earth.

It was both terrible and magnificent in its immensity. For miles around the people gathered about the well, as near as they safely could, to view the un-precedented sight. The owners, who had not given up the idea of gaining control of the well, were struck with consternation at the new complication. Millions of dollars' worth of gas had already been lost, and now the pros-and ruin of the well, but suddenly, as the light had flashed hundreds of feet into the air, the flames disappeared. The pressure was so immense that it actually had blown itself out. Such an awe-inspiring spectacle was never seen before. Now that the well had actually ceased to burn, the owners will again attempt to gain control over their white elephant. Immense machinery for the express purpose will be built, and the gas will either be forced downward or away, or if that fails an attempt will be made on an immense scale to control and utilize the gas, which, in case they succeed, will be piped to distant cities, where it will be used as fuel and for light.

Makes Them Happy and Strong! Bright and Vivacious!

Call and see our Embroideries. In Every Woman Should Try It!

The life of the nervous woman is a most unhappy one. She is continually miserable, and is frequently a burden to herself and family.

Nervousness is produced by a great variety of causes. Headaches, biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia, vertigo or giddiness, insomnia, despondency and a host of other ailments.
As a rule, the use of drugs and medicines containing strong narcotics, only cause afflicted ones to sink deeper in suffering and agony. Nature's true and permanent cure for all diseases is Paine's Celery Compound -a medicine now freely and wisely prescribed by the best physicians. The pro-prietors of Paine's Celery Compound l ave more testimonials from the women of Canada than have ever been given in favor of any other medicine in the world. Thousands have been saved who were once declared to be hopeless and incurable by the doctors.

Mrs. Joseph Valliant, of Cache Bay, Nipissing District, Ont., who was recently cure of nervous prostration and neuralgia of the heart, writes as fol-

"For a length of time I suffered very much from nervous prostration and neuralgia of the heart, and was unable to get regular sleep and rest. I used your great medicine, Paine's Celery Compound, with most beneficial results. I am happy to say that my condition of health is wonderfully improved; my sleep is sweet, and natural, and the pains and nervous fears that troubled me are banished. I cannot speak too lighly of Paine's Celery Compound."

TAMARACK FOR PAVEMENT.

Mr. Wm. Duffield Makes an Interesting Proposal.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": I beg to make the following suggestions in regard to the repaving of Duncas and Richmond streets:

I would advocate paving these streets with wood blocks made of tamarack, and not cedar or pine, such as has heretofore been used, which was done only for the reason, so far as I know, that it would not rot so quickly as other tim-Second growth tamarack timber, such as grows at Longwood Station and vicinity, is full of pitch, and is the firmest and most durable timber to wear that grows. It has only half an inch of bark and sap on it, which is taken off by the turning lathe, leaving the blocks uniform and round. I have no doubt myself that this timber would last, at least, ten years on thouroughfares having the greatest traffic.

new pavement there is simply the blocks and the laying of same to provide for, which would cost say 60 cents per yard, and even supposing the wood is good for only five years, we can have a new pavement every five years for the interest on the cost of brick or asphalt pavement. If these latter pavements cost $3 per yard, the interest on the outlay at 4 per cent per annum is 12 cents per yard per annum, which in five years costs us 60 cents, just the cost of the new wood pavement, provided we allow for it only the short life of five years, and proportionately less for each extra year it can be made to do service.

Every owner of property, who has to pay the whole cost of paving, would, with wood blocks, pay 12 cents per yard per year, and have a new pavement every fifth year, while with asphalt or

A DISTINGUISHED ANCESTRY.

A London Lady Who Can Trace Hers For

Three Centuries - A Military Family. Everyone has had ancestors, but there are few who have any records of them for more than three or four generations back. Mrs. F. J. Major, corner Simcoe and Clarence streets, has recently received an extract from Dun-can's History of the Royal Artillery which enables her to trace her forefathers for more than three centuries. Few can equal this. Mrs. Major, whose maiden name was Matilda F. Watson, is the daughter of Edward Watson, the son of Edward Jonas Watson, lieutenant-colonel of the Thirteenth Regiment and aide-de-camp to Edward Duke of Kent, who was godfather to Mrs. Major's father. Edward Jonas Watson fought at Bunker's Hill July 4, 1776, and was killed at Three Rocks, Wexford, in the rebellion, in May, 1783. He was buried at Corrig's Monument in Castle Brige Church. He was the son of Lovewith his wife in St. Peter's Church, Relief.

Worcester. Lovegood was the son of Jonas Watson, lieutenant-colonel of the Royal Arpect was the irretrievable destruction tillery, of whose life-sized portrait, taken in his regimentals, Mrs. Majo has a photographic copy. He (Jonas) was a most distinguished man. Duncan's history relates that he was babtized on July 4, 1663, at Great Stamford, Essex, on the same day that his father was buried. He erected an obe-lisk to his father's memory in the churchyard there. His mother, Rebecca, afterwards wedded Thomas Turpin -in 1666. Jonas was appointed chie bombardier of England by the Duke of Marlborough on Aug. 51, 1709, and was made lieutenant-colonel of the Royal Artillery on the formation of that corps on Nov. 1, 1727. He was killed at the siege of Carthagena, West Indies, in March, 1741, in his 78th year. He married Miriam West, and left two sons— Justly, director of engineers, and Lovegood, captain of the Sixty-fifth Regiment. As the history of the Royal Artillery probably begins about this time, Mrs. Major is not able to learn much of Jonas' predecessors, but the records tell her that he was the son of Jonas Wat-son, of Great Stamford, Essex, who died in 1663, and who in turn was the son of Benjamin Watson. This brings the genealogical tree back to the sixteenth Mrs. Major has an ancestry of which she may well be proud.

ROSEBERY RESIGNS.

Yesterday afternoon Sir Wm. Har-Liberal leader in the British of Commons, made the formal announcement that the Government took the adverse vote in the House on Friday night as a direct vote of want of confidence, and had therefore tendered their resignation to her Majesty, which had been accepted.

It is not often that a Government accepts the rejection of a minor budget proposal by the House as a vote of want of confidence, and though a majority of six was rendered against the Administration on this occasion, it looked very like a snap verdict, for only about a third of the House participated in the division. The Cabinet seems to have reached the conclusion, however, s better tactics to resign now, and let the coalition of the followers of Balfour and Chamberlain have a taste of governing with a thin majority or no majority at all before dissolution takes It may be that Premier Rosebery's health had something to do with the decision, but those who are acquainted with British politics know that there are advantages in the new situation which, some say unexpectedly. the Liberal leaders have created for their opponents. The parties as they now stand in the House are made up as

For some time back the nine Parnelltes have steadily voted with the Conservatives, thereby taking away from the Liberals the third of the majority with which they met Parliament in August, 1892, after the last general election. But even with this change, and the bye-elections going against them, as is invariably the case in British polities, the Liberals had a small majority in the House. But the Conservatives and their ill-assorted allies, Joseph Chamberlain and his followers, with the Parnellite nine, cannot muster among them a majority, and will remain at the mercy of the Liberals while the present Parliament sits, unless Lord Salisbury gets the immediate dissolution which he is reported to have re-

There would be small profit in speculating as to the result of the general election, which cannot long be delayed. One result will be to blot out the dissident Liberals as a body. The taking of office in the new Cabinet by Mr. Chamberlain, who is so very anxious to abolish the title "Conservative," and to have some word more congenial to him applied to the Conservative party while he consents to hold office in it, will once more divide the country into the two great parties, for it is no longer possible for Mr. Chamberlain and his associates to pose as Liberals, and ask for support as such. Their uniform opposition to Liberal measures which they formerly supported, that course being now dictated by the company they keep, has thoroughly exposed their position, and no Liberal will be misled by their pretensions, as in the last contest. The result of the elections may be the defeat of the party which held power in the Parliament now ending, as has almost invariably been the outcome of an appeal to the people for the last twenty years, or there may be a different verdict; but in any case, Great Britain will witness some lively campaigning during the next six

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST POISON. A young woman in Hamilton became fatigued while helping her brother to move from one house to another. She took out of a cupboard a bottle supposed to contain cordial, and drank some of the contents. It proved to be carbolic acid, and the mouth, throat and stomach of the victim were so terribly burned that she died in great agony within a few hours. These deaths from taking poisonous draughts by drinking from the wrong bottles are becoming so frequent as to call for some effective preventive. Some people can be trusted to be cautious always, but far too many jump at conclusions, and they need to be protected against their own shortsightedness. Our legislators have made laws to prevent the sale of poisons, except to responsible persons. It would be a good thing to pass an amendment to the Pharmacy Act prowiding that no poison should be sold except in a bottle or package of a particular make and color. This is already done by some druggists, but there should be uniformity.

POINTS.

"If the City Fathers of our Dominion sister will drop over to Buffalo we will show them the best pavement in the world, and it is asphalt pavement." This is what the Buffalo Times says of the proposal of the London Council to lay asphalt on the two principal streets of the city. Mayor Little examined the Buffalo streets some time ago, and found them very highly spoken of. Buffalo has over 180 miles of streets laid with asphalt.

The death of Senator Burns, or New Brunswick, makes eleven vacancies in the Dominion Second Chamber. It is months since Premier Bowell refused to entertain an application for an appointment to the Senate, on the ground that all the offices had been promised, but still only one of the appointments has been announced. Is it because a number of kicking M. P.s have been promised Senatorships on condition of faithful support to the end of the Parliament? The new Senator (Mr. Baird, of New Brunswick) has the qualification deemed the best by the men now in power. He has been twice rejected at the polls by the people.

"There is much less scandal talked in Toronto relatively than in Hamilton, less in Hamilton than in London the Less. We mention London as an example because it is a city of just that certain size small enough for one person to know every other person, but large enough to furnish ripe material for the chatterer and gossiper.'

Let us say that there is less scandal dissemination in this city than in any other place that we know of in Canada. This satisfactory condition of affairs probably arises from the fact that the person inclined to turn scandal-monger speedily finds that the temper of the community will not stand his or her malice. Scandal is bad in itself, but the scandal-monger finds it doubly bad, beause it brings disrepute to him.

ORDER AND DISORDER OF THE

Our Ottawa correspondent, telegraphing yesterday, reiterated the information previously sent by him that it is not the intention of the Dominion Government to follow up its "remedial order" regarding Manitoba schools with legislation this session. This accords with Mr. Foster's statement to the Liberal leaders ten days ago, when beseeching them for aid to bring the session to a close. He then said there would be no legislation outside that already provided for by bills before the

The Administration, by its foolish blundering in connection with the Manitoba school question, has landed itself in a quagmire of difficulty. It was open to the Government to have proceeded under the decision of the British Privy Council, with the utmost caution, and in such manner as to win the confidence of at least its own followers. It might have got rid of the whole trouble and have compelled Manitoba to take the initiative, if, when the official opinion of the British Privy Council reached Ottawa, it had sent the document on to Winnipeg, with some such simple reminder of the duty of the Manitoba Government as follows: "Here is the opinion of the highest court in the land. It is your duty, as Ministers of the Province, to observe it. Be good enough to make such changes in your legislation as is called for by this decision." By couching its communication as a reminder, and taking it for granted that Manitoba was just as anxious to do right as itself, the Ottawa Government would have put Manitoba on the defensive, and would have compelled the Legislature either to do something towards remedying the grievances of the minority, or to entirely refuse, thereby affording the opportunity for the Government at Ottawa to take the ground that it was compelled to act because of Manitoba's refusal. But when the British Privy Council's opinion was received several bye-elections were pending. A desperate attempt was deemed requisite to keep the constituency represented by the late Sir John Thompson from going Liberal and to carry Vercheres, Quebec. The olive branch was not held out to Manitoba. Instead of that an imperative demand was made that the schools of the minority, exactly as they existed prior to 1890, must be restored, no matter how ill-adapted they might be regarded for the changed needs of the country, and which, indeed, the British Privy Council declares is not called for. The byeelections went against the Administration. The "remedial order" could not overcome the general lack of confidence which the people have in the men now in power in Ottawa, and it was soon admitted by the more influential of the Conservative press that the issuing of the "order" was a blunder of the worst

This was further emphasized when the Legislature of Manitoba, by an overwhelming majority, refused to obey never intended that the "order" should be obeyed, but that something far short of its demands will be passed into law at Ottawa and imposed on the Province. How that can be brought about it is difficult to understand. The Dominion Parliament is invested with certain powers under the Confederation Act. Under certain conditions, it has jurisdiction in regard to the educational affairs in Manitoba. Having decreed by order-in-council that Manitoba shall do one thing, it cannot surely be contended Spanish-American woman, Madame E. that the Government can come to Par- De La Torre Bueno.

the order. Now it is said that it was I liament and ask that a law be passed ! to compel Manitoba to do something different. Only in so far as the Province declines to act can Parliament be requested to take up the question.

An amendment by Sir Charles Tupepr bringing within the meaning of the act persons who conduct or manage any scheme, contrivance or operation of any kind for the purpose of determining who, or holders of what lots, tickets, numbers, or chances are winners of any property so proposed to be advanced , loaned, given, sold or disposed of, was adopted by the committee. Amendments proposed to the Cruelty to Animals' Act were dropped, as they were calculated to complicate the working of the act.

In the House today Mr. Montague introduced a bill amending the Civil Service Act. It abolished third-class clerks, and takes authority to employ writers at a minimum of $400 and a maximum of $600. This does not affect third-class clerks now in the service. The bill was read for the first time.

Sir Hibbert Tupper secured the first reading of a bill amending the Peniten. tiary Act to facilitate the removal of penitentiary officers from one institution to another for purposes of efficiency and discipline.

In reply to Mr. Bruneau, the Minister of Public Works said no money was paid for the funeral of the late Hon. Thomas White, except the cost of a special train to Montreal, $754.

In committee on the bill respecting the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway, Mr. MacLean, of York, moved to insert a clause imposing a 2 cents a mile passenger rate and made an earnest appeal for its adoption. Mr. Mac-Lean was eloquently arguing that if they reduced railway passenger rates railway business would increase; lower the letter postage, and the postoffice business would increase, and lower the telegraph and the telegraph business would increase.

Dr. Landerkin here interjected: "Lower the tariff and trade will inrease," and the Opposition enjoyed a laugh on Mr. MacLean, who poses as a Protectionist on principle.

Col. Tisdale raised a point of order that a day's notice should be given of such an amendment. This annoyed Mr. MacLean, who threatened to talk out the hour devoted to private bills. Mr. Fraser, of Guysboro. brought up the claims of unpaid laborers and subcontractors who were left in the lurch by Bracey Bros., the main contractors, and several members claimed that before passing the bill these claims for wages and supplies should be protected. The committee rose and reported prog-

Mr. Mulock moved the second reading of a bill to reduce the salary of the Governor-General from $50,000 a year to $25,000. He read from a return showing that for 25 years, from Confederation to 1892, we had paid the following sums: Salary of Governors-General. $1,216,000; traveling expenses, $145,000; secretaries, $270,000; contingencies,$278,000; purchase of Rideau Hall, $82,000; repairs, maintenance and alterations of the hall, $547,000; furniture, $108,000; wages, $94,-000; fuel and light, $151,000: grand total of expenditure, $2,851,917, or an average annual expenditure of $114,000, which was $65,000 a year in excess of the excess of the expenditure for salary. Mr. Mulock condemned Canada's general expenses of government as too great, being about 80 per cent greater in the way of salaries to members of arious governments than the United States Government cost. Mr. Daly accused Mr Mulock of seek ng after a little cheap popularity with the Patrons of Industry, and opposed After a debate Sir James Grant moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned.

NOTES Mr. Haggart stated that $214,000 had teen paid for the construction of the Sheik's Island dam, and $27,000 was due.
Mr. Foster said that eight offers had been received for the steamship line between Canada and France. No decision had yet been reached.

Mr. Casey moved a resolution in favor of Government inspection of locomotive boilers, but withdrew it after Mr. Haggart had stated that they were now efficiently inspected by the officers of the various railway companies, and there was a question as to jurisdiction. A private telegram received tonight from Col. Henshaw, chairman of the council of the Dominion Rifle Association, states that the Montreal members of the association were willing to oblige their Ontario friends by changing the date for the opening of the annual matches from the first week in Septemler to Aug. 26. This practically settles the matter in favor of Aug. 26. Major Sam Hughes will inquire of the Ministry on Wednesday whether the attention of the Government has been drawn to the recently published communications of Bishop Gravel, of Nic-olet. The letter is then quoted, and will appear on the order paper in full. Continuing Mr. Hughes will ask whether it is the intention of the Government to direct the attention of the Govern ment of Great Britain to the letter, etc. Also, is it the intention of the Government to endeavor to ascertain how far Bishop Gravel, "the Sacred Congregation of the Propogation of the Faith. and Cardinal Vaughn were successful in the endeavor to improperly influence the judicial committee of the Privy Council of Great Britain.

MOUNT BRYDGES.

("Advertiser" Agent, T. Pearse, P.M.) June 24.-Mrs Dr. Weekes, of London, has returned home greatly benefited in health after spending a couple of weeks at the residence of Rev. G.

A telegram conveying the sad intelligence of the death of the only son of Mr. Wm. Francis, township treasurer, was received on Saturday. Deceased had been away in the Northwest for several years, and the sympathy of the community is expressed to the bereaved family, especially the mother, as she is and has been in very delicate ealth for over a year. Mr. G. N. Weekes, barrister, London, is to address an open meeting of the Methodist Sabbath school next Sunday afternoon. The public school of Mount Brydges held its annual picnic on Saturday on Seabrook's Flats, near Delaware, and the children enjoyed the day immensely, and came home in good time, no accident occurring to mar the happiness of both scholars and friends. The following programme was carried out, and a lot of nice prizes was awarded to the successful competitors:

The Queen's Avenue Church and Mr. Daniels-Mr. Cunningham Averse to Coming.

The Queen's Avenue Methodist pastorate trouble remains in statu quo, so far as any official action is concerned, but there is a well-authenticated opinion that Rev. Mr. Cunningham will decline to come to the church against the congregation's wishes. A reporter asked Rev. Walter Rigsby today as to the position of affairs. Mr. Rigsby alluded to the refusal of the trustee and quarterly boards to accept the compromise suggested by the special confrence committee. "The question is." he said, "what is to be done with Mr. Cunningham? Is he willing to go to Queen's Avenue under the circumstances? The probability is that he will not, though he has not definitely said so. There is no other place available for him but the Hamilton Road. But suppose the Hamilton Road people should follow example of Queen's Avenue and refuse to accept a pastor whom they had not called? However the special conference committee has taken no action yet, nor has it been president may convene it any day."

Mr. Rigsby pointed out that the action of the Chatham district committeemen in seeking to relieve the pressure there by allowing Mr. Daniels to leave Dresden to oblige Queen's Avenue, has caused difficulty in that district, the Blenheim congregation objecting to Mr.

McTavish's removal. A prominent layman suggested today that the best way to get over the difficulty would be for Mr. Cunningham to be given complete control of Queen's missions, permitting Mr. Daniels to be the pastor of Queen's Avenue Chur h. He argues in favor of conciliation all round, or, he asks, where is the itineracy?

SHE SUDDENLY TALKED.

A Case Which Puzzles the Staid People of Hami ton.

Hamilton, June 25 .- A girl named Maria Lamburgh turned up in the city some time ago seeking relief. She was apparently deaf and dumb, and gave Mayor Stewart and others to understand that her parents had died in Scotland a short time ago, and she had been sent to Canada by friends. The mayor sent her to the Deaf and Dumb Institute in Belleville. At the close of the term Maria was sent back to Hamilton, and since then charitably disposed persons have shell tered her in their homes. She refused to answer any questions as to her previous history. This morning she began to talk, and showed that she could hear as well. She ascribed her recovery to divine workings. Inquiries are being instituted as to her past. L. D. Trompour, jeweler, has removed to 397 Richmond street. Geo. W. Pitt has charge of the watch renairing de-

Lord Salisbury in a Tight Box Because of Joe Chamberlain.

Conference of Politicians Likely to Be in the New Ministry.

If Salisbury Accepts Office, Rosebery Is Not Bound to Help Him.

SALISBURY IN A TIGHT PLACE. London, June 25.—The Daily News says editorially: "If Lord Salisbury demands terms from Lord Rosebery, we trust the impudent request will be met with a peremptory refusal. If Lord Salisbury refuses to accept office he will play himself in the ludicrous and conspicuous position of one willing to wound yet afraid to strike. The fact is, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain has got Lord Salisbury in a mess, and the latter now calls upon Lord Rosebery to help him out of it. This is not Lord Rosebery's business. Lord Salisbury must either pluck up courage or exhibit a spectacle of impotence and poltroonery, of which we are sure he will shrink.' The Westminster Gazette says Lord Rosebery has not received any communication from Lord Salisbury in regard to the conditions of acceptance of office by the latter, reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

GOSSIP ABOUT GLADSTONE.

The Pall Mall Gazette says Mr. Gladstone, at his conference with Lord Rosebery last night, seriously questioned the wisdom of the resignation of the Ministry. Certain Liberals believe that Mr. Gladstone, having been physically fortified by his cruise in the North Sea, will throw the weight of his influence and eloquence upon the side of his old colleagues, but the ex-Premier's personal friends are strongly opposed to his taking any such course, fearing that the excitement and exertion might cause a physical reaction.

GETTING TOGETHER. The Liberal-Unionists held a con-ference at Lord Salisbury's house this morning at 11 o'clock. The Duke of Devonshire, Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Goschen and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach were present. Lord Salisbury went to Windsor again this afternoon. The Unionist conference came to an end at 11:30 a.m., and Lord Salisbury almost immediately afterwards took a train for Windsor. It is not known definitely whether he has decided to accpt office. GLADSTONE NOT IN IT. Herbert Gladstone this morning defi-nitely stated that his father would take no further part in political life.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS. The Pall Mall Gazette, referring to the Daily News' statement that if Lord Salisbury demand an agreement of support from the outgoing Government as a condition of his taking office, they will be refused, says: "If Lord Salisbury refuses to form a Ministry without terms, then Rosebery must again take up the responsibility, which none but a coward would ever have cast off on such a pretext as his. He ought to have dissolved Parliament instead of resigning." LORD SALISBURY ACCEPTS. London, June 25 .- Lord Salisbury has accepted the commission to form a Ministry, and kissed the Queen's hand upon being formally appointed Premier. The Central News says that Lord Salisbury informed her Majesty that he was ready to form a Ministry, and submitted the names of the members of the proposed Cabinet. Mr. Balfour, it is said, has accepted the post of First Lord of the Treasury, and Mr. Chamberlain that of Secretary of State for the Colonies.

MEETING OF THE COMMONS. The House of Commons met at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and after the transaction of minor business adjourned until noon tomorrow.

SOO CANAL SCANDAL.

Botched Work Which Was Well Paid For by the Country.

Crib Work Filled With Ice and Frozen Earth That Rose and Floated Away.

(Special to the "Advertiser.") Ottawa, June 25.-The investigation into the Soo Canal contracts was continued in the public accounts committee this afternoon by Mr. Lister, the first witness being Mr. Thompson, the superintending engineer of the canal, recalled. From his evidence it appeared that the 7,000 feet of crib work was a failure. It had not been properly filled in, some of the filling being ice and frozen earth, which subsequently rose to the surface and floated away, and the crib work, not being able to withstand the pressure on it, bulged out. The price paid for it was $450 a yard. Nobody was discharged for the botchwork. Ryan & Co., the contractors. received $90,000 bonus in order to have the canal ready for opening on July 1, 1894. He did not know if the canal was yet open, nor did he know that the tug Jessie had grounded there the other day in eight feet of water in the entrance. He advised the pier in the middle upon which the C. P. R. bridge rested. He did not think it was what Mr. Lister described it, "an engineering atrocity." There was a span of 150 feet across. There were other bridges with a single span across larger spaces. There was no pier on the American side. He did not know why the Government built this bridge for the C. P. R. It cost about $56,000, and was paid for by the Canadian Government. Witness was examined further by Mr. Gibson. who got out the fact that the blunder of the crib work required $66,000 to repair, in addition to a further sum for Mr. Hugh Ryan, head of the firm of contractors who built the lock, was examined by Mr. Haggart. The first charge was that he received $16 for masonry instead of the $11 for the 5.500 yards necessary for the enlargement of the canal. This was allowed. because the price of labor and mechanics had gone up considerably. While stone-masons were $2.50, they had to pay them $4 per day up there. Everything else was in proportion. Mr. Ryan swore that the bonus of $90,000 he received for hastening the completion of the canal did not compensate him, because he paid $64,000 for extra plant and calculated $16,000 for night work. There were other extra ex-"You must have lost a lot of money on that work," said Mr. Lister, and Mr. Ryan smiled at him. His ex-

NO LAWN WATERING.

The Prohibition in Force Until the Commissioners Give Notice.

The Colville Springs Ready - A Scheme to Save Street Watering.

The water in the Colville springs has now been collected in the pond and will be pumped into the city reservoir this afternoon. The springs have a good flow-in fact, the grounds seem to be full of them, and they can be seen bub-tling up all over. A great many people used their lawn services last night. Perhaps they were unaware that the prohibition of street and lawn watering is still in force. Neither will be permitted until the reservoir supply warrants it, and when it does the water commissioners will give the consumers notice.

Waterworks Engineer Moore has a plan which will save a waste of vast quantities of water now used for street watering. It has always seemed regrettable that the beautiful Springbank water should be thrown on the roads, when river water would serve the purpose equally as well. "As the Grand Trunk are now drawing their supply from the river," said Mr. Moore, "I pro-pose to take advantage of their pumping machinery and to erect three large tanks along the track—one at Richmond, one at Wellington and one at Ridout street-from which the street watering carts can be filled. One contractor told me that he filled 130 carts a day. As each cart holds 600 gallons, that means 78,000 gallons. There are seven contractors, and if each used the same thrown on the streets-but the average

Some vacation, think that Armour sold a big lot of September and broke the market, and bought July on the break, but the manipulation of the market is still a mystery. Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in reace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you," and from these words he delivered an eloquent sermon, delighted his hearers. ## The Secret Out.

her head rose and her lips grew firm till she grew absolutely masterful in her The coming of the servant with the articles necessary to complete his toilet, was like cold water dashed upon a man heated with fever. It righted him immediately. As he tied his necktie and fastened his gloves he felt himself to be no more a dreamer of nightmares, but Dr. Cameron, known throughout all the city for his practical commonsense and sound judgment. He even laughed in his old, easy fashion as he peered down the hall and saw the servant who had waited upon him walk up and knock with the utmost assurance on the door he had been so long and fearfully watching. Nor did he feel him-self to have been any the less a fool when in a moment later he beheld it open and caught a glimpse of his bride's white veil and sweeping train as she gave her answer to the man and then waited with the door half shut for the summons to descend. As he had promised himself it would be, all was cheer and hope again; nor in the bustle of preparation that presently followed did he become conscious of a thought out of harmony with the scene till, suddenly, as he was half way down the denly, as he was half way down the stairs, he felt his bride lean a little heavily on his arm, and, turning to look at her, perceived, not a woman, not an automaton even, but a specter, whose glassy eyes fixed upon vacancy, froze the blood in his veins.

What did it mean? Was she mad or was she—. He did not stop to finish his thought; he clutched her by the arm and gently but firmly spoke her name, A shiver seemed to go through her, then she turned her head, and slowly, painfully, under his gaze her lips took on the semblance of a smile so forced, so meaningless, that he stopped her where she was, and pointing to the surging sea of faces below, exclaimed:

They are waiting for us; the minister has his book open, and your parents are already standing on each side of him; but if you do not wish to marry me, if there is any impediment in the way, or if you feel I cannot be to you the husband you desire, say so, and we will turn back. No moment is too late before the minister has uttered the final words."

But her eyes, which had opened fear-fully as he began to speak, closed softly as he finished, and, murmuring coldiv, "Let us proceed," she stepped down

'I can bear anything."

His foot moved towards the edge of the step on which he stood.

"Genevieve?"

He had stopped again. "Yes," she murmured, wearily. "Do you love me "

Her form, which up to that moment had held itself erect by the mere force of a will exerted to the utmost, suddenly yielded and expressed in every curve a feminine softness.

"With all my heart." she murmured. "Then," said he, "I am content." And his foot passed over the edge of the

There was no further delay. In a moment they were at the foot of the stairs, and in another had entered the parlor under the gaze of five hundred pairs of eyes. As they did so a murmur expressive of something more than admiration arose behind them, and Dr. Cameron, tortured by anxiety, cast another look at his bride. She was pale and her eyes were surrounded by great circles, but it was a woman who moved beside him, and a determined woman, too, and the change brought comfort to his heart and made the rest of his walk down the room less of an ordeal than their entrance had been.

The clergyman was an old man, and had doubtless married a thousand To him there was nothing strange in a pallid and weary-looking bride and a nervous, deeply excited bridegroom. He gave them a benevolent glance, lifted his book and began the service. But there were some per sons present, relatives and friends of the contracting parties, who felt that there was something unusual in the affair, and craned their necks to get a glimpse of the bride's face, wholly forgetful of the splendor of her jewels, and the priceless lace of her veil, which under other circumstances would have attracted all their atention. The bride, however, did not lift her eyes, and when she spoke in answer to the minister's questions, the reply she gave was uttered in a voice so low that no one heard it but the bridegroom and the minis-But this is not unusual with brides, and the ceremony proceeded, and the time came for placing the ring

By request of the chairman the secretary read the following REPORT.

The directors of the Bank of Toronto beg to present to the stockholders the 39th annual report, accompanied by a statement of the affairs of the bank. The depression of trade referred to in the last report continued throughout the year, and, combined with a steady shrinkage in the values of commodities, caused a large falling off in the volume of business. The demand for money was lessened, and the resources of the bank could not be employed to advantage. In consequence of this the statement shows a decrease in the earnings for the year. The following is a summary of the result of the year's business:

FOUND HER PURSE IN HER HORSE'S HOOF.

Rochester, N. Y., June 23.-Mrs. Jacob Darue, living a few miles north of Canandaigua, drove to that town yesterday to do some trading. She tied her horse on Main street and made several purchases, but found that her pocketbook, containing $50, was missing. After searching carriage and stores she advertised in the evening paper, offering a reward. On her way home she noticed that the horse was somewhat lame, and the lameness increased, until she alighted from the vehicle and made an exam-The animal lifted his foot at her bidding, and Mrs. Darue was surprised when she found, firmly embedded in the hollow of the hoof, the missing purse with all the money. Mrs. Darue believes that in alighting from the carriage the purse fell from her dress and under the horse's feet.

A Good Story.

A story is going the rounds at the expense of one of the best known men of this place. We shall not mention his name, but you know him. Of rather determined mien, he has of late been showing signs of mental agitation. He wears a full beard, but a few days since, his wife, much to her alarm, him sharpening a razor. She thought his mind was unhinged, and went into hysterics. Explanations followed, and it was found that life had for him still some charm. He intended to use the razor upon painful corns. A friend who had used Putnam's Corn Extractor with success advised its use, with the following results: Man quire happy, wife ditto, razor sent away. Use Putnam's Corn Extractor.

denly of apoplexy on June 11. Deceased had just entered her 83rd year, was a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, and came to this locality in the spring of 1849. In 1851 she removed to London with her husband, who was at that time one of the leading contractors. Many of the old residents will remember Mr. Wm. Grant, who erected the City Hall, the market buildings and the stonework of the Tecumseh House, and in company with the late Mr. Screaton built the Queen's Avenue Methodist Church that was so recently destroyed by fire. Near the close of the Crimean war they re-turned to their farm near Granton, where they resided ever since. At that time this thriving village had not come into existence, nor was the first building erected until fully ten years later. Only three of her lady friends out of the many on the Jerman Line, who welcomed her 46 years ago, remain. These are Mrs. Wm. Levitt, Mrs. James Graot and Mrs. Albert Beatson. The deceased was physically and mentally strong up to the time of her death. She was a consistent member of the Presbyterian Church, kind and hospitable in her manner, and will be missed by a large circle of friends. She leaves a husband, son and daughter—William, on the homestead, and Mrs. W. B. Stewart, of Granton-to mourn her loss.
