The Business Outlook.

Two causes are especially adversely affecting the money market at the present time. There is the never-settled Turkish question, which may at any moment develop an acute crisis, and cause European nations no end of trouble. Then there is the uncertainty as to the outcome of the free silver agitation in the United States, which causes demoralization among one of the best buying populations in the world. Other movements which affect the situation are the placing of the currency of Russia on a gold basis; the completion of the Austrian movement of the same nature; the unrest of Africa, arising out of the Boer troubles, and the failure of Rhodes' schemes in newly-opened up Matabeland.

All these, the Montreal Journal of Commerce says, are grave elements in the present situation, pointing to such a policy being adopted by the Bank of England as will frighten the market. Canada in "the midst of alarms" suffers only from a prolongation of depression, which would have disappeared had outside conditions been more favorable. Our harvest has been a good average, our manufacturers are fairly well off, and they do not look for disturbing and revolutionary changes in the tariff. "Canada," says the Journal of Commerce, "has little to fear from the disturbances threatening Europe and the States if business is conducted with prudence, and expenditures, public and private, are restrained by strict economy."

"We are not among those, however, that believe that needed public work should be left undone in times of dull trade. It is better that such expenditures should be proceeded with when employment is scarce, and the circulation of money in ordinary channels is limited, than that they should be kept back till the ordinary avenues of industry are in a stimulated condition through a general revival of trade."

Meanwhile, there are good hopes for the future; we can all help the movement betterward.

Mr. Laurier is going to get himself into trouble unless he takes good care. He has actually committed himself to enact prohibition provided the people say they want it. If he does that, he can't expect the London Advertiser's support.—Kincaid Review.

Nonsense. The Advertiser recognizes, to as full an extent as does Premier Laurier, that the will of the people is supreme.

The Vice-Regal Visit.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen today returned to Ottawa after a most pleasant, though very busy, visit to London and the West. Their Excellencies have everywhere been received with the utmost cordiality by the populace.

The Governor-General's office has been regarded by many as a sinecure—a mere five years of dawdling away time. But the present representative of her Majesty is far from regarding it. At considerable personal inconvenience, he has made it his duty to see the country from one end to the other. He has studied the conditions of the people, and the capacity of the Dominion as a home for the ever-increasing crowd of old world residents who must seek a living outside of their motherland. As a practical agriculturist, he has greatly interested himself in the Canadian farmer and his products. By first visiting the great show of the West, the Western Fair, and subsequently the county exhibitions, Lord Aberdeen has been able to make such contrasts as will be of great use to him in saying a good word for Canada when he returns to Great Britain. We take it that Lord Aberdeen will do so, with even greater emphasis than his predecessors, for he is not only acquiring a thorough knowledge of our position as a land of homes, but he has shown a practical faith in the Dominion by himself purchasing and working a Canadian farm.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen will resume their visits in the West next week. British newspapers have recently forced a discussion on the question, "When should a woman marry?" It is all very foolish. A woman will marry when she gets the man who suits her, and not before, and no one can prevent her.

About Two Ministers.

In Mr. Dryden the farmers of Ontario have an admirable, some think, an ideal representative. Ever since he assumed charge of the department he has carried out a broad and liberal policy for the development of the agricultural resources of the Province.—Montreal Gazette.

This Conservative testimony to the good work done by the Ontario Minister of Agriculture is well merited. Mr. Dryden has proved a model leader in the work of helping the farmers to better results in their occupation. He is in every sense a practical farmer.

There are many reasons for the belief that what Mr. Dryden has been to Ontario, the new Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa, Hon. Sydney Fisher, will be to the Dominion. The Dominion and the Province of Ontario are fortunate in having secured for these departments the services of two eminent, practical, progressive farmers. What can fairly be done to advance the great staple industry of Canada will be undertaken by them.

The Carshops.

The Brantford Courier, referring to The Advertiser's comments on the letting of the contract for the construction of the new concentrated G. T. R. car shops in this city, says:

"The letting of the contract does not, of course, mean that the Brantford shops 'are coming to this city' but it has something to say about that."

Of course, the Brantford shops will not go. They will stay right in that place. But the men will come to London. That is all.

It is apparent that Japan has no undertakers' association. A middling funeral there costs $3 cents, an important one in style, with lunch for the pall-bearers, can be had for $1 25. These are positively killing rates, as the advertising man would say.

How to Get and Hold Markets.

The British newspapers continue to discuss the question of how the manufacturers of the motherland can best hold their own in the world's markets, and much good is likely to follow an earnest investigation into the competitive efforts of foreigners in neutral as well as in colonial fields. As a result of the inquiry set on foot by the Governor of Hong Kong, at the invitation of Hon. Mr. Chamberlain, it is pointed out that the displacement of British goods has been going on for some time. It has not been on a strikingly large scale, but it has been suggestive of the tactics which have to be met.

In China, foreign goods have entirely ousted British-made llama, braids and aniline dyes, and goods imported from Germany have taken the place of British-made Spanish stripes and broadcloths. The attempt to displace British smaller wares by foreign imitations, though persistent, has been much less successful. Chinese imports of "yellow metal" goods have fallen off, their place being taken by inferior German metal. The advantage is with Belgian manufacturers, who have cheaper production and lower freights. Once pig lead was almost entirely procured by China from Britain and Germany; now, through cheap production, it is imported from Australia. Belgian manufacturers pack their candles better than the British do, hence the Belgians have got the Chinese candle trade. Arms, ammunition and gunpowder from the European continent can be laid down cheaper than those from Britain. Continental manufacturers, therefore, get the trade.

The competition of Japan is just beginning, "but it promises to prove serious later on." United States cotton goods are finding a market in China because they are carried from New York to Hong Kong and Shanghai at 25 to 30s a ton, as compared with 75 to 80d from London and Liverpool outward. The same remarks apply to the shipment of machinery from the United States to China, the freight for which is about 40 per cent lower than that from British ports.

The causes to which the displacement of British goods is to be assigned are stated thus by the Hong Kong committee of inquiry: 1. Lower cost of production of rival foreign goods. 2. Discrimination of British manufacturers to study taste of consumers. 3. The steadily falling value of silver since 1873. 4. Lower freights outward from foreign as compared with British ports. 5. Cheaper railway transit to foreign ports of shipment. Great Britain is still in the lead for the trade of the nations of the earth, but it is apparent that if she is to hold her own, she must leave nothing undone to please her customers. British makers have lost trade by ignoring the desires of those who buy their wares, whereas the Germans and other keen competitors, instead of choosing for the buyer, have consulted his tastes and provided for him the article exactly as he desires it.

Canadians are looking for foreign trade. They have the raw materials, and they have the necessary shipping facilities to many ports. It would be interesting to know how far our manufacturers have consulted the wants of foreigners or anticipated brethren with whom they would like to trade. As the Iron and Coal Trades Review says, the average buyer does not greatly care whether the things he is about to buy are of English, Canadian, German, or United States origin. He wants them of a particular pattern, at a particular price, and as he pays the piper, he insists on choosing the tune, which is reasonable. If our manufacturers are to build up a successful trade with other countries—and in all industries where we have the raw material in abundance, we ought to be able to do so—they must study the wants of their customers, and give them the article at the lowest market price.

Jealousy is curable. Dr. Fleury, a French savant, announces there is a proper physical method of relieving this most unfortunate of maladies. True jealousy, he insists, is never the result of knowledge, but of doubt. The jealous man suspects; he does not know; hence this suspicious, weak state of mind is the very thing to foster the ailment. Defective brain nourishment can be met by stimulants and nutritives. All jealous persons have sensible intervals, the malady being in some degree a periodic one. Just like chills and fever. Dr. Fleury's treatment includes everything that can be done to give strength and confidence to the sufferer, to inspire him with a sense of his own power—to make a man of him. Modern study of the brain shows that sea-sickness may reasonably be said to be in the ear, being a reflex nervous disorder which starts from the shaking about of the liquid in the ear canals, thus producing a sensation of dizziness. Deaf people are less subject to sea-sickness than are the blind.

Dr. Drysdale, writing to the British Medical Journal, apropos of certain recently published statistics of smokers among the students of American colleges, recalls some facts discovered by Bertillon in 1855. He found on inquiry made by him concerning the pupils of the Polytechnic School of Paris that 108 of the pupils smoked and 52 did not smoke. He then arranged the 160 pupils into eight divisions according to the place they held in examination, 20 in each rank, and found that of the 20 who stood highest, 6 were smokers and 14 non-smokers. Of the next 20, 19 were smokers and 1 did not; of the next 20, 11 smoked and 9 did not; of the next 20, 10 smoked and 10 did not; of the next 20, 10 smoked and 10 did not; of the next 20, 10 smoked and 10 did not; of the next 20, 10 smoked and 10 did not; of the next 20, 10 smoked and 10 did not.

The working of the compulsory accident insurance in Germany is aptly illustrated by the case of the widows and orphans of the miners who perished in consequence of the explosion at the Kleophas pit, in Upper Silesia. The state guarantees each widow 10 per cent of her late husband's income. She further receives 15 per cent for each child, until the maximum of 60 per cent is reached. An article to be written by the mine agrees to pay half as much again, widows with three or more children receive 90 per cent of their late husband's earnings. Childless widows must content themselves with 20 per cent.

CANADA'S INTEREST IN ARBITRATION.

Montreal Witness.

If it is important for the United States to make friendly provision against war, especially with Great Britain, it is still more important for Canada to have such provision made. Canada is infinitely interested in the approaches which are going on between the two powers. To the whole world it might be spoken of as an unspeakable gain that these two powers, whose interests are all on one side of peace and progress, and who have nothing to gain from the overthrow of good government anywhere, should be so united that they could easily dictate peace on all shores; but not all existing people can be expected to contemplate such an alliance with the same heartiness that Canada of necessity must. While these two peoples are at one, her position between them is a happy safe, and hopeful one. Should they ever come to strife, it would be most of all she that would suffer. She would find herself between the upper and the nether millstone, and it is hard to say what her fate would be; but it would be a century before suffering hatred between her and her neighbors would be forgotten. Her place as a fragment of one empire and a neighbor of another is to act as a peacemaker and bond of union between them. While true to her loved allegiance, her voice must always be for peace and goodwill.

TOMBS THAT WILL TELL NO STORY.

If in our funeral customs we thought of posterity, the practice of honoring the dead with flowers—which in some recent funerals has prevailed on so extensive a scale—would give way to some more enduring tokens. "The flower fades," and, indeed, generally, how empty our tombs will be of archaeological interest to the antiquarians of future centuries! It is curious to reflect how much of our knowledge of antiquity and how many of our recovered treasures of ancient art are the result of the practice of burying trinkets and utensils with the dead. Ancient tombs are thus full of information—and, we may add, of puzzles—for the meaning of those exquisite little Tanagra figures found in Greek cemeteries has not yet been convincingly explained. The tombs of the modern world, when they are dug up by the curious of after ages, will contain no buried treasures. To the archaeologist they will be full only of emptiness, which, however, will itself carry its lesson with it—the lesson of the greater spirituality of the faiths of the modern world.

A Woman's Heart.

Derangement of the heart and nerves in women is followed by various nervous disorders, such as Hysteria, Melancholia, Neurasthenia, Sleeplessness, Irritability and Pains and Aches in various parts of the body. In such cases strengthen the heart and build up the nervous system by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

The old saying that a horse's head is the length of a four barrel is substantially true. The average horse's head is 27 inches long; an average four barrel is 29 inches.

Bank Advertising.

Some Cogent Reasons Why Financial Institutions Should Make Their Business Known to the Public.

The Detroit Tribune prints the following:

The art of newspaper advertising is one that bankers as a class do not seem to understand or appreciate. Comparatively few banks pay much attention to this means of reaching the public. Like physicians of the old school they are bound by a narrow code of ethics, and seem to consider it unprofessional to publish more than the bank's card in a few lines of small type, when they advertise at all. The banking laws obligate them to publish statements, but this is done for the protection and information of the public and not because bankers as a class acknowledge the benefits of newspaper advertising.

Among the 22 State and national banks of Detroit there are only half a dozen that make any pretense of regular advertising, and only two or three which do intelligent, systematic work, although quite a number issue leaflets for distribution among their customers, and occasionally put cards in the hands of their clients. The City Savings Bank, however, has been the most ingenious and systematic bank advertiser in Detroit. Every Saturday it takes up considerable space in the newspapers, using large display type, and giving the following copy: Here are some that have appeared during the past few weeks, coupled with the usual list of officers and directors:

Are your dollars dead or alive? If you carry them in your pocket they are dead. If you put them in the City Savings Bank they are alive, begin to grow and attract others to them. Try it and see if it isn't true. The growth of the world's wealth has been done by the savers, the thrifty, and those who have wasted their resources have been their slaves. Young man, young woman, don't become the slave of anyone; join the ranks of the savers in the City Savings Bank and be independent.

A rolling stone gathers no moss, and the idle dollar gathers no interest. If you consider the earning power of money, you will never let a dollar go idle, but would deposit it where it would draw interest. When you spend 20 cents a day unnecessarily you never consider it. But if you deposit it, it represents buried capital to you, which, if deposited at a fair rate of interest, would amount to $11,000 in 50 years. Put your idle dollars at work in the City Savings Bank.

"What a man I would be and what sights would I see if I had but a thousand a year." The City Savings Bank will put you in the way of being "the man" (or woman, either), and "seeing the sights." If you open a savings account and add to it systematically.

Money in the pocket grows less. You know that, don't you, but still you carry it there. Money in the bank increases. You know that, too, but neglect to do so. Be advised: in your own interest open a savings account now in the City Savings Bank.

"We don't want our children to be stingy"—an excuse, another writer says, given by many parents for teaching their children, by example, that money is an article to be spent only, not saved. And then he asks the question, "Do you want your children to be spendthrifts?" We say, if not, open a savings account for them in the City Savings Bank.

The nucleus of a fortune are the pennies you carry and spend. Spend on trifles, not knowing that 2 3/4 cents a day means $10 a year, but by accumulating it means a modest fortune in half the space of life—and a fortune is often saved than made in these days of great competition. Lay the foundation of your fortune now by opening an account in the City Savings Bank.

A little nest egg hatches wonderful things in the way of a fortune, properly set and tended. Set the nest egg with us at once, where it and the accumulation will draw a liberal rate of interest and interest regularly with a deposit of all your spare cash, and the City Savings Bank will do the rest for you. Try it.

Habit is man's best friend or his worst enemy. Why not drop the habit of spending money in useless ways and begin the saving habit, etc.

Money is power. A full purse never lacks friends. It gives endless opportunities for doing good, opens wide the door to education, art, music, society, travel and all culture. It gives you confidence in yourself and attracts the confidence of others. Begin filling your purse, etc.

These are samples of Mr. Angell's vigorous style of advertising. The first part is always set in large black display type, and is catching and ad, which never fails to hit the bull's-eye. Mr. Angell is setting a good example for other bankers to follow in the line of advertising.

THE TREADMILL.

The treadmill, or treadmill, as it is usually termed, its purpose generally having been for grinding corn or turning machinery was the invention of Mr. Cubitt, an engineer, of Lowestoft, England, the notion of such a piece of mechanism, owing its conception to an accident.

Twixt Love and Duty.

In the hall behind them, Katherine stood. The pallor of her face, the hopeless droop of her white shoulders and arms were visible in its gloomy shadows. Softly as a spirit she walked as she drew nearer to them.

"And the Englishman? Is he hurt?" "Killed. He has at least twenty wounds. Till morning he will not live. It was the Countess herself who separated the men."

"My good Joris, it was like him."

For a moment Katherine's consciousness recoiled. The ocean which girds our life round was in her ears, the feeling of chill and coldness at her heart. But with a supreme will she took possession of herself.

"Weak I will not be. All I will know. All I will suffer," and with these thoughts she went back to the room and took her place at the table. In a few minutes the rest followed.

Batavus did not speak to her. It was also something that she had that madam would not talk of the event. He did not think that Katherine deserved to have had her ill-regulated feelings so far considered, and he had almost a sense of personal injury in the restraint of the whole household.

He had anticipated madam's amazement and shock. He had felt a just satisfaction in the suffering he was bringing to Katherine. He had determined to point out to Joana the difference between herself and her sister, and the blessedness of her own lot in loving so respectfully and prudently as she had done. But nothing had happened as he expected. The meal, instead of being pleasantly lengthened over such dreadful intelligence, was hurried and silent. Katherine, instead of making herself an image of waiting or unconscious remorse, sat like other people at the table, and pretended to drink her tea.

It was some comfort that after it Joana and he could walk in the garden and talk the affair thoroughly over. Katherine watched them away, and then she fled to her room. A few moments later she heard her sorrow have way, and it would help her to bear the rest. And oh! how she wept! She took from their hiding-place the few letters her lover had written her, and she mourned over them, as women mourn in such extremities. She kissed the words with passionate love; she vowed, amid her broken ejaculations of tenderness, to be faithful to him if he lived, to be faithful to his memory if he died. She never thought of Nell; or, if she did, it was with an anger that frightened her.

In the full tide of her anguish, Lysbet stood at the door, and heard the inarticulate words of woe, and her heart ached for her child. She had followed her to give her comfort, to weep with her; but she felt that hour that Katherine was no more a child to be soothed with her mother's kisses. She had become a woman, and a woman's sorrow had found her.

It was near 10 o'clock when Joris came home. His face was troubled, his clothing disarranged, and blood-stained; and Lysbet never remembered to have seen him so completely exhausted. "Bram is with Nell," he said; "he will not be home."

"And then?" "I helped them carry the other. To the King's Arms we took him. A strong man was needed until their work the surgeons had done. I stayed; that is all."

"Live, will he?" "His left lung is pierced through. A bad wound in the throat he has. At death's door he is, from loss of blood. But then, youth he has, and a great spirit, and hope. I wish not for his death, my God knows."

"Nell, what of him?" "Unconscious he was when I left him at his home. I stayed not there. His father and his mother were at his side. Bram also. Does Katherine know?"

"She knows." "How then?" "Oh, Joris! If in her room thou couldst have heard her crying! My heart for her aches! The sorrowful one."

"See, then, that this lesson she miss not. It is a hard one, but learn it she must. If thy love would pass it by, think this for her good. It is many bitter things are in it. What unkind words will now be said! Also, my share in the matter I must tell."

"And thou?" "I helped them carry the other. To the King's Arms we took him. A strong man was needed until their work the surgeons had done. I stayed; that is all."

"And thou?" "I helped them carry the other. To the King's Arms we took him. A strong man was needed until their work the surgeons had done. I stayed; that is all."

"Live, will he?" "His left lung is pierced through. A bad wound in the throat he has. At death's door he is, from loss of blood. But then, youth he has, and a great spirit, and hope. I wish not for his death, my God knows."

"Nell, what of him?" "Unconscious he was when I left him at his home. I stayed not there. His father and his mother were at his side. Bram also. Does Katherine know?"

"She knows." "How then?" "Oh, Joris! If in her room thou couldst have heard her crying! My heart for her aches! The sorrowful one."

Trades and Labor

Resolutions Passed by the Dominion Congress.

Chinese Immigration, Present System of Taxation, Fast Atlantic Steamers.

Quebec, Sept. 17.—When the Trades and Labor Congress began its session at 9 o'clock, with President Jobin in the chair, a message was received from the Patrons of Industry, under the signature of Acting Grand Secretary Geo. Wrigley, of Toronto, as follows: "Accept Patron greeting. Time is auspicious for several reformers to unite. Call joint convention. Let farmers and workmen co-operate. The message was referred to a special committee."

The Congress, by a unanimous vote, adopted a strong resolution calling upon the Dominion Government to increase the tax on Chinese coolie laborers coming into Canada from $50 to $300 per head.

A number of Eastern delegates were in favor of a measure to total exclusion, but were overruled by the more temperate views of the delegates from the West.

In the debate confidence was expressed that Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, the Premier, would carry out his anti-Chinese policy, as expressed by Mr. K. C. McLogan, of Vancouver, to do in this matter according to the wishes of the people of British Columbia.

The deputation from British Columbia will bring a petition signed by 20,000 citizens of that province asking for this measure.

CUMULATIVE VOTING. At the afternoon session a large number of resolutions were adopted, including a motion in favor of cumulative voting and larger electoral districts, in favor of confining the teaching in reformatories to agriculture and the abrogation of the Masters' and Servants' Act of Quebec, also in favor of the land bill.

It was also resolved by the congress to petition the Government to continue the printing bureau at Ottawa, and to place only efficient tradesmen therein.

SYSTEM OF TAXATION. It was moved by D. A. Carey, seconded by M. J. O'Donoghue, and resolved: "That the congress protest against the present system of taxation, which discriminates unjustly against industry and in favor of speculation. We therefore instruct the legislative committee to call the attention of the Local Governments to this injustice, and to urge on these to rectify as quickly as possible a barrier to our prosperity, and to remove all assessments from improvement and to assess land by value."

It was also resolved by the congress to petition the Government to continue the printing bureau at Ottawa, and to place only efficient tradesmen therein.

Copyright Act. It was moved by Delegate Fitzpatrick and seconded by Delegate Cleary that it be an instruction to the committee to watch the proposed Copyright Act, in which it states that books may be printed from type or stereotype plates imported from Canada. Also, that they be instructed to prepare an amendment on the lines of "that the type shall be set in Canada and that plates shall be made from type set in Canada." Carried.

Moved by D. J. O'Donoghue, seconded by John Flett: "That this congress enters its strongest protest against the granting of any public lands of this country, by any of our Governments, Provincial or Federal, to any person or corporation for exclusive monopolistic or speculative purposes, or under any other conditions than those governing actual settlers." Carried.

THE UNION LABEL. Moved by Delegate Menard, seconded by T. Bernard, and resolved: "Whereas there is an organization, the International Union of Laborers, who have adopted a union label to be placed on their product as a guarantee of fair conditions as to wages and safeguard against prison, coolie, tenement house, and child labor, therefore be it resolved that this congress indorse said label, and all labels of organized labor, and recommends to our members that they use their influence to create a greater demand for said label."

Moved by D. J. O'Donoghue, seconded by J. Flett, that as the value of the ballot system depends upon the secrecy of the same, and as the Ontario Election Act provides for the ballot which admits of interested persons tracing the order of elections, resolved that it be an instruction to the Ontario Executive that it use its endeavors to secure such modification of the ballot in use as to make it absolutely secret." Carried.

Moved by Delegate H. L. Langevin, seconded by Delegate E. Jackson: "That this Trades and Labor Congress of Canada do petition the Dominion Government, indorsing a fast line of trans-Atlantic steamships of 20 knots and Europe and Canada, so as to compete with other countries, but without any financial aid from Government funds." Carried.

WHO WAS THE BRIDE? Detroit Youth Arrested for a Strange Offense.

Windsor, Sept. 18.—A few days ago a young lady and an elderly gentleman called on the city clerk and asked to see the marriage records for the month of July. The names of Jacob Maderoy, aged 23, and Jennie Hiron, aged 22, of Detroit, were found registered, and Rev. J. R. Gundy performed the ceremony. The young lady said she was Miss Hiron, but that she had never been married to the man, and had in fact never been to Windsor before. She said that Maderoy had kept company with her, but she had never encouraged his attentions. He had been absent for a few days about the time the alleged marriage took place, and when he returned he went to the home of her parents and made a demand for his wife. She was as much surprised as her parents when the man told her story. She said that some woman must have impersonated her.

Wednesday night Maderoy and Miss Hiron came over from Detroit to see if she could be identified as the woman who took part in the ceremony. Almost immediately on landing Maderoy was arrested and locked up on a charge of perjury.

His friends claim that he was made the victim of a plot hatched up to get him on Canadian soil, where an officer, armed with a warrant, was waiting for him.

New York, Too.

The Empire State Democracy Indorse Bryan and Free Silver.

John Boyd Thatcher Nominated for Governor—John Sheehan Bolts.

Buffalo, Sept. 18.—At the State Democratic convention yesterday, Hosea H. Rockwell, of Chemung, was chosen permanent chairman, and made a speech advocating bimetalism at 10 to 1. The platform adopted begins as follows: "The Democratic party of the State of New York, in convention assembled, unreservedly indorses the platform adopted by the Democratic party at the national convention held in Chicago on July 7, 1896, and cordially approves the nominations there made, pledges to William J. Bryan and Arthur Sewall its hearty and active support, and declares as its deliberate judgment that never in the history of the Democratic party has a platform been better calculated to embody more completely the interests of the whole people as distinguished from those who seek legislation for private benefit than that given to the country by the national Democratic convention of 1896."

The platform denounces the Rains law, arraigns the administration of Gov. Morton and the recent Republican Legislature for extravagance; charges John C. Sheehan, sent to prison for a corrupt regime, public works of public decency, and discusses other State issues.

Boyd Thatcher was nominated for governor on the first ballot. Wilbur P. Porter was nominated for lieutenant-governor by acclamation.

John C. Sheehan's resignation as a member of the Democratic national committee.

THE MAINE ELECTIONS. Portland, Me., Sept. 18.—Complete returns of Monday's election give Powers $3,573; Frank, $4,841. The Republican plurality is 48,732. In 1892 the Republican plurality was 15,503; Republican gain in 1896, 33,229.

NICELY CAUGHT. Though He Did His Stealing in a Very Clever Way.

Brantford, Sept. 18.—Frederick A. Knowles, of Wolveston, was arrested on complaint of Ezra Knechtel, of the firm of Koehler & Knechtel, charged with theft, and pleaded guilty. Knowles was employed as a jeweler for some time by Schaefer Bros. Being in need of funds, he devised a very clever scheme to replenish his exchequer. While the members of the firm were in the workshop above the store, Knowles proceeded to tap the money drawer, which he had fastened with a padlock, and he was detected by the alarm on the cash box.

After Mr. Koehler discovered a $5 bill missing, and it was decided to trap for the thief, so on Monday last all the bills left in the money drawer were marked. The prisoner went through the same motion, and when he was searched the marked money was found on his person.

CAPT. STAMOUR MISSING. Wallaceburg, Ont., Sept. 17.—Capt. E. E. Stamour, of the steamer City of Montreal, left here on Aug. 24 to join his boat at Port Stanley, where it had been for some weeks previous, running excursions. He talked with the mate of the boat, Port Stanley from St. Thomas by telephone on Aug. 25, signifying his return, but the mate of the boat, since that time he has not been heard from, and his whereabouts is a mystery. His boat, the Mount Clemens, was taken over by the mate of the City of Montreal, who is naturally very anxious about him, fearing that some accident has befallen him. He has always been considered a sober and reliable man.
