FRENCH PREMIER EXPRESSES HIS CONFIDENCE IN LEAGUE

Paris, Nov. 8.—France has shown the same ardor in her work of reconstruction as she did in the war, and has successfully crossed the passage from war to peace, which is always difficult for victors, says Premier Leygues in an interview printed today by the Petit Parisien. Discussing his foreign policy, the premier declares the Government will seek to maintain and strengthen its alliances, and will examine in utmost sincerity of spirit all questions arising between France and Germany. Belief is expressed by M Leygues that the league of nations must become a great force and a strong barrier against a return of imperialism and militarism. He declares the Government's program is to so enforce execution of the Versailles Treaty that national reconstitution and the organization of work and production may be advanced.

FUTURE OF WORLD IN

Each One Should Choose Worthy Purpose, Says Rev. D. C. MacGregor.

"The future of the world rests with the young man of today," said Rev. D. C. MacGregor to a large congregation of young men last evening at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. "Each

By doing that he will cultivate self-reliance, and, above all, he will remember that life is his one opportunity of making character. 'As we sow so shall we reap.' Each and every old person should set an example for the young.

"The lesson is that as years advance the less likely are we to make any great adventure of faith. Gladstone was a success in his old age because in his young life he had prepared for it. Lord Rosebery was a disappointment because he was unwilling to endure the discouragements necessary to equip him for heavy responsibilities. We wanted to win the reward without running the race, and this is the very thing several of the young men of today are doing. It is in youth that we was present from Hamilton, Miss Mona Metalephin of the Imperial' Cotton running the race, and this is the very thing several of the young men of today are doing. It is in youth that we must prepare and determine what we are going to do in our old age, and if we don't we will experience bitter with the control of the imperial control of the

The city of London is better than fending himself while doing his duty.

Rev. Pescott in his sermon Sunday evering said that the public had to evering said that the public had to ever the facts and not lay down on the job. The rum runners and the vice of the world could be cleared out if everyone would halp. "It is everyone's duty to do so. By lying down is not the way in which we can meet the issues of the hour. We are dispirited over the things that affront us," he stated.

Mrs May R. Thornley, past president of the W. C. T. U., stated that are as she knew Spracklin was a far as she knew Spracklin was a courageous man. He apparently shot in defending himself while defart of the W. C. T. of the star as she knew Spracklin was a courageous man. He apparently shot this man in defending himself while defing his duty. She said that she considered the liquor traffic a crime, and that Spracklin was doing his duty.

Prof. James H. Bowman summed the whole situation up in very few words. "According to press reports the hotel proprietor held a pistol against Spracklin's stomach, and he was forced to reply. He did. Mr. Spracklin was only doing his duty at the time," Prof. Bowman stated.

That is the cry heard everywhere. Production is the all-important thing. Individual employees usually signify nothing. "Tis true, that some progressive factories are carrying on a splendid work along the line of considering the individual employee, but these are only some.

"Shortening of hours and other changes in the labor laws should be made Dominion wide, not just provincial. For if Ontario went ahead along these lines and Quebec remained backward, Ontario would be dragged back commercially by the bad conditions in

Earlier in the year before service charges were inaugurated, the company told the city council that it would not make any extensions whatever. Since obtaining additional revenue in this manner, however, it is willing to consider some necessary extensions to the system.

Before concluding her talk, Miss Mc-Laughlin referred to the hard times facing the manufacturers at the present time, which would also affect the factory employees, "The manufacturers are really facing a condition of lessened production today," she said. "And this will have to be followed by a laying off of hands. I really cannot see how the manufacturers are going to face the winter and the slump which has already begun to come," she concluded.

RAIDED COOPS TO PROVIDE FOR PUPS

Her Best for Starving Family.

Retribution moved swiftly upon the head of a gaunt Irish terrier in the east end of London on Saturday. On circumstantial evidence it was convicted by George Tustin, the humane inspector, of killing chickens. It gave its life as a penalty.

Despite its crimes the sympathy of those who disposed of the dog went out to it. It was a mother-dog with a litter of mongrel pups, hardly old enough to open their eyes. Having no one to care for her, to feed her while she nursed the puppies, she was forced to shift for herself. Half-starved she raided chicken houses in the neighborhood d chicken houses in the neighborhood Eva and Brydges streets, night after

By searching all the abandoned corners in the neighborhood, Mr. Tustin, into whose hand the case had been placed, discovered the dog shivering beneath an empty house.

B. E. Beamish, 360 Eva street, was the third person to report the loss of chickens. On Friday night birds valued at $40 was killed. Investigations carried on in his coop led to the discovery of the dog.

License Inspector Tells Dramatic Story of Killing At Inquest-Long Standing Feud Had Existed Between the Dead Man and Fighting Parson — Bootleggers Had Made Four Attempts To "Get" Free Lance Inspector Who Was Interfering With Illicit Trade.

[By Staff Correspondent.] Windsor, Nov. 7.—"Now, Spracklin, amn you, I've got you where I want damn you, I've got you where I want you, and I'm going to kill you! With his gun touching my stomach, I felt it was his life or mine. Even then I hesitated. It seemed like hours. Then, as he pushed the gun, which was at cock, further into my clothing, I fired. He turned and walked away, and I backed out, my gun still at my hip."

Calmily and without apparent effort, Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin told the above dramatic story of the shooting of Beverley (Babe) Trumble, proprietor of the Chappel House, at the inquest at Sandwich court house last night.

Trumble's widow gave directly contradictory evidence. "My husband had no gun. He had only a cigarette in his hand when he went out to meet Mr. Spracklin," she swore.

Stories differ as to whether Trumble had a revolver, and first threatened the minister or not.

Widely Different.

Spracklin claims that his men were beaten up by Trumble and some of his guests, hurled over chairs, on the floor, and one inspector thrown out a door. Two witnesses, both Mr. Spracklin's aides, corroborated the pastor-inspector. Mrs. Trumble's testimony was not corroborated. None of those in the hotel before the shooting saw Trumble with a gun. They did not see the shooting.

in the legal fight to free him, no matter what the charge may be that will be preferred following the continuance of the inquest Monday night at Sandwich. R. L. Brackin of Chatham has been retained to defend the pastor, and, it became known tonight, will move for a change of venue for the hearing, on the ground that feeling on the border would be inimical to the interests of his client. Stories regarding the shooting differ widely, contradictions among witnesses being the feature of the case to date. Many of those giving stories, later deny their own versions of the affair. This much, however, is established. Spracklin, returning with four of his aides from an excursion into the county in the early hours of Saturday morning, while passing the Chappell House came upon Ernest Deslippe, a habitue of the place, in front of the building with his face badly smashed and blood streaming over his clothes.

Trumble Was There.

With him was Beverly Trumble, owner of the roadhouse. Spracklin appeared for Mr. Spracklin procuping to tell his story practically without interruptions from Crown Attorney Rodd.

You know of men well up in years who are still "drudging along". They cannot stop if they would, but must go on to the end of their days working for a living. You can avoid that.

Why Not Pension Yourself?

Why not "take stock" of your present financial position—to size up your personal affairs and decide on a plan for the future?

Our New Pension Plan

guarantees that upon reaching a certain age in life, you will receive a monthly cheque for $50.00, $100, $200, $250—as you may now decide—and this monthly payment cannot cease as long as you live.

An Income for Life

Think what it may mean to you to be certain of an income right up to the end of life, when you consider that 97% of people in their later years are partially or wholly dependent upon others for support.

When they were younger they did not have the chance now offered you. It was not then possible to secure such a convenient and certain provision as this Monthly Pension Plan.

And This is Not All

Suppose some day before you reach age sixty you meet with a mishap and become totally and permanently lisabled through accident, illness or any cause. (Such a thing has happened soon after men have secured this new policy of the Canada Life.) Immediately, the payment of further premiums would be cancelled. The Canada Life would become responsible for sending you $50.00, $100, $200, $250, a month, as arranged, for the rest of your life.

There are many other benefits.

An average deposit of only a few dollars a month will return you $50.00 a month later on.

The Bahais came teaching tolerance and unity, but the Bab himself had declared that all believers were to be driven out of sacred places. The history of the Bahai movement during the last half of the nineteenth century was outlined. Rival successors had arisen to the Bab, one of whom was Baha'o'llah, and a new division had followed the latter's death. The present Abdul Baha (the "slave of Allah," Mr. Armitage interpreted it) was one of these.

THE DREAD PYORRHEA BEGINS WITH BLEEDING GUMS

Medical science has proven this. Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable : trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, emia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection. And watch your gums yourself. Pyor-rhea, which afflicts four out of five ple over forty, begins with tender people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums re-cede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base.

Velled Circumstances.

The Bahai movement had come subtly and under veiled circumstances to establish a new religion to supplant all other religions, including Christianity, he said. It had first been introduced into the Maritime Provinces by a woman from the United States, and now it had come continued Mr. Armitage, "to our own fair city."

Christians might entertain sympathy for the Bahais in Persia as a people who had risen in protest against orthodox Mohammedanism.

Delving into eastern religious history of the past centuries, Mr. Armitage intimated that the Bahai movetage intimated that the Bahai movement originated in a schism of the Mohammedan faith, some of the Mohammedans desiring a hereditary successor to Mohammet, and others inclining to an elective successor. Charges that the Bahais in Persia are still intolerant were made by Mr. Armitage, and the Bab was quoted as saying early in the last century that whosoever approaches God must do so through him. -Sergt. Everson, English Cornet Player, Scores

The Grand Theatre was packed from pit to the very celling of the second balcony last night for the premiere concert of the Princess Patricia Band, under the leadership of Lieut. T. W. James. This band, although but a few months organized, is already whispered to be the first in Canada. And this could well be believed after the superior program rendered last night "As Britishers, we would never dream of entering a meeting to hear De Valera expound the doctrines on which the Irish republic is based. We would never dream of having anything to do with the Sinn Feln movement. Why, then should we, as loyal citizens of the Kingdom of God, become interested in a new religion whose doctrines are at variance with what we believe?"

With these words, Rev. W. Leslie Armitage, rector of St. James' Anglican Church, cautioned his parishioners to have nothing to do with the Bahai movement, which was introduced into London a few days ago.

Rev. Mr. Armitage preached Sunday evening from the text found in the twelfth verse of the Apostles: "Neither is there salvation in any other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."

tor's baton. The result was delicate shading and precision of attack and releases.

Some very fine work was done by the clarinets and flute and piccalo, and by the sadder-toned but beautifully melodious French horns. The cornets were also a beautiful part of the ensemble numbers, but when one of them sang alone, its marvelous silver tones mounting to the very roof, at the will of Sergt. R. W. Everson, the distinguished English player, while the concerted instruments of the band played softly in the background, the pinnacle of the evening's enjoyment was reached. First came "Softly Awakes My Heart" from Samson and Delilah, and then, as encore after encore were demanded, "Berceuse" (Joselyn), and finally "The Bells of St. Marys." Sergt. Everson has wonderfud control of his instrument, which he plays with depth of feeling, achieving a result which is both artistic and moving.

Then there was the deep-throbbing bass horns, the lovely-toned fiddle and the loud-sounding trombones, while rolling in the background were the big and little drums. A delightful feature of the concert was the xylophone solo by the little drummer, W. Sadler. The tinkling of the rosewood keys at the touch of this artist was something which rose high above the music ordinarily rendered by this instrument.

Some of the most beautiful selections from "Pinafore" and "Romeo and Juliet" were given on last night's program, as was the lovely suite from Luigini's "Ballet Egyptian" and Auber's magnificent overture, "The Bronze Horse."

A vocal solo by Miss Beryl Wainwright "Open, Gates of the Temple" accompanied by A. D. Jordan, was the only other number on the program, which proved so enjoyable that another like it is promised for next Sunday evening.

Bahaism in teaching a God who is "Pure Essence," and cannot be said to be anywhere or in any place," was declared to be "pure Pantheism." If one accepted it, he must bow down to every stick and stone he met, said Mr. Armitage. And yet it was supposed to be a religion free from dogma. In closing, he said that Bahaism denied the suppremacy of Christ and illustrated how its acceptance would conflict with the continued holding of various theological doctrines taught by the Christian church.

Silence.

"There are two different kinds of silences, involuntary and voluntary. When we are alone and have nothing to think about it what is called involuntary silence. As a rule, when we are sick and lying in bed and the nurse is out of the room we cannot help but think of the wrong things we have done in the past and how repentant we are when we realize that we have sinned. There is the stillness of sorrow that is also involuntary. When a loved one is taken from us we are still and everything seems deserted about us.

"Voluntary silence may be seen mostly in the country by some winding brook on a hot summer's day. We cast all of our city activities aside and go to the country for a day of rest. TRYING TO FOOL THE FARMERS. Conservatives are now saving that the election of Harding means a higher protective tariff for the United States, and that this is a reason why the Canadian tariff should not be lowered.

Conservatives in 1912 said that the election of Wilson was a proof of Canada's wisdom in rejecting reciprocity, because it meant that the tariff for the United States would be lowered, and, therefore, there was no need for reciprocity. A lower American tariff is an argument for a high tariff in Canada and a higher American tariff is an argument for a higher tariff in Canada, if we are to believe the Con-

For those who will ballot in the by-election, and for that other federal pollings, the big question, the one that lies beneath a mass issues that have been raised, is whether we shall return to power a government that has arrogantly refused to permit the people of this country to rule themselves, or shall a parliament be elected made up of men who will act directly for the people. Do the electors of East Elgin desire more of this reactionary type of rule, or do they wish to have a say in the governing of the country

A PROMISING MOVE.

"The announcement from Toronto that a royal commission has been appointed by the Provincial Government to inquire into the financial affairs of the universities of Ontario will not be unwelcome to this section of the province. For some time there has been a growing feeling among thoughtful men not alone in Eastern Ontario but in all Ontario outside of Tomonto, that there has been an inequitable distribution of provincial funds for educational purposes throughout the province. While other versities have been obliged practically to crawl on their hands and knees to the Government for assistance to carry on educational work which is necessary if the communities which these universities serve are to be properly cared for in an educational way, the Provincial University has coolly proceeded to demand as of right grants to that institution which to the men of the outside have seemed quite out of proportion to the work which that university is doing as compared with other universities."

If the Royal Commission is "not unwelcome" to the eastern part of Ontario, it is much less unwelcome to the West. Queen's University got three times as much money last year from the Provincial Government as Western did, neither got nearly what it should, as compared with Toronto, and this part of Ontario is far more populous than either the centre or the east. The crowd demand for a fisheries college in the East, and of freshmen that have this year and last made their way into the limited accommodations of the basic industries, and in this city, which is "the recognized eastern centre of the industry."

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OF LIFE INSURANCE.

George T. Wight, manager of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, has issued his call for their next meeting to be held in Nev York City on the 9th and 10th of December. The following comments of the United States Review are interesting and instructive:

But notwithstanding the extent and value of its past excellent work, it is likely to be overshadowed in stimulating influence and moral effect by the proceedings of the coming convention, because of the theme that has been chosen as the rallying cry of the occasion, viz.: Seventy-five years of American Life Insurance-A History and Prophecy of the Nation's Growth." Obviously the subject is replete with interest and significance in the economic ife of the American public. No other line of financial enterpise, probably, has wrought so much for the direct material benefit of the people as that of life insurance in its various forms. Every intelligent observer well under-stands that in its far-reaching ramifications it ranks as one of the foremost branches of business enterprise of which the country is able to

But seventy-five years does not cover, of course, the entire period of American development along that line. The Mutual Life, for instance, is now in its seventy-eighth year of continuous active and highly honorable existence, while the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund, of this city, the oldest life insurance organiza-tion in the United States, has an unbroken and most creditable career to its credit covering more than one hundred and sixty years, although only during the past quarter of a century has it acquired a position of recognized importance among the companies transacting a regular life insurance business with the general public. Accordingly, therefore, the intent program of the coming convention is not the celebration of what American life insurance has accomplished in its total experience, but rather of what it has done during the last seventy-five years, both to the credit of itself and for the greatest advantage to the nation

Some of the declarations set forth by Manager Wight in his circular announcement of the December convention, are particularly pointed and merit special notice, notwithstanding their prior appearance in our news collast week. Thus, he truly states that the growth and service of life insurance "have been coincident with the periods of greatest stress and progress in the nation"; that the late was and its inevitable readjustments have emphasized to the public in general "its adaptability to meet national crisis as well as to contribute steadily to the general welfare and advanceis more family protection outstanding in th United States than in all the rest of the world": while to the above he adds a series of striking and incontestable claims for the business that cannot but appeal with renewed inspiring force country who may chance to read and fully ap preciate what they really mean. We quote:

"No period of the nation's life records greater achievement than these years of life insurance expansion. Their significance is accentuated in their contribution to national growth materially and to individual growth morally, through principles of unselfishness, social responsibility and cardinal tenets of self-denial, thrift and preparedness for the exigencies of later years. American life insurance has developed, its relation and obligation to the public have been twofold-famly protection and safety through underwriting and national development through its investment operations. Geographically these twin benefits have been widespread, every section of the country, however remote, having its

The problem of Constantinopie has been allowed ties of the Russian situation. So long as Russia is blockaded, Stamboul is relatively unimportant. PECULIAR DEMANDS.

No strikers ever presented such a complicated list of demands as those of the Paris Opera, who have been on strike for nearly a month. Two of the principal claims are that of a kind of soviet of musicians and singers should have the right to criticise and judge the merit of their conductor, and that the number of foreign artists engaged each year should be limited. Here are some others:

Musicians of the orchestra have drawn up a Then you can come down

Musicians of the orchestra have drawn up a barometer of payments which they think should be paid according to the difficulty and rarity of their instruments. Thus, the players of the hackelphone and the tuba, and the players of the cians of such an ordinary sort as violinists. Wagner especially is likely to cost the opera dear, for special especially is likely to cost the opera dear, for special charges of thirty francs are demanded for those who play the French horn in "Siegfried" and the English horn in "Tristan." If the musicians play on the stage, as in "Faust," when they are used to increase the volume of the "Soldiers' Chorus." another supplementary charge is asked of ten francs for the trouble of getting into costume.

Even more intricate are the demands of the actors, chorus and "supers." And one who has to stain his or her body to play the part of a megro is to have an extra indemnity, but herein lies a further complication that negro girls will get only three francs, while a man will get five francs. Those who have to use blue dye, as in "Salome," will also get five francs extra, as blue is more difficult to wash off than black or brown. No provision is made for those who have to stain themselves red, as no opera played at the national home of French musi

Other extra payments are demanded for those who play the part of courtesans in the second act of "Rigoletto," for those who play the parts of aged people, and for those who take the place of heres and heroines when any special performance such as a display of strength is needed, which actors and cannot themselves undertake. Operatic angels, too, are clamoring for an increase in wages. To be dangled about on stage clouds at the end of a wire rope they consider sufficiently uncomfortable to entitle them to an extra five rancs at every performance.

Most of these special claims the director of th opera is disposed to grant, but the main points of the strike are as yet far from being settled,

Did the circumstances justify a closer approach with the object of overhearing the conversation?

Before he could shout a warning they had closed in silently a warning they had closed in silently and swiftly upon the unsuspecting occupants. The girl's cry was smothered by one assaliant and Stiles was struggling desperately with the other. It happened so unexpectedly that Kendrick stood for an instant, held by a mazement. Then without a sound he sped across the street, vaulted the iron fence and charged into the middle of the excitement with ready fists. The man who had Stiles down was the nearest and Phil paused long enough to send him reeling with a well-directed blow on the side of the head. He leaped the overturned bench, and made for the

It was equally apparent that she had no intention of mentioning Jimmy Stiles, and he was half inclined to regret the lead he had given her in this connection. Why had she here so eager to misrepresent the she been so eager to misrepresent the situation? Why had Stiles disappeared so suddenly? What was the meaning of the attack by these two ruffians? Was the robbery really the motive, or

Jimmy Stiles was stepping out with the briskness of one who knows exactly where he is going and is in a hurry to get there. He did not alter his stride for perhaps twent minutes; but as they swung down towards Allan Gardens has pace became more leisurely, and opposite the park itself he abruptly halted, looking this way and that as if expecting to meet some thoughts as he tried to decide wether he had better shatter that self-contained keep-your-distance attitude of hers with plain questions. He would have to right-about-face on the whole he abruptly halted, looking this way and that as if expecting to meet some-body here. In further support of this interpretation he began to stroll slowly back and forth, occasionally glancing at his watch.

Kendrick took up a position in the shadows where he could look on without danger of observation, and waited patiently. Before long a young woman approached from a sidestreet. Stiles raised his hat and the two went into the park and sat down on a bench, where they soon became lost in conversation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. No Tapeworms Need Apply.

What are the first symptoms of stapeworm? (D. E. M.)

Answer—The person who harbors stapeworm usually experiences no symptoms, not even the enormous apsymptoms, not even the enormous appetite popularly deemed a sign of such infestation. Tapeworm hosts are usually normal in weight or overweight, not skinny, as the popular notion has it. The diagnosis of tapeworm infestation is made by finding segments of the worm or tapeworm eggs (microscopic), and no other symptoms warrant the diagnoses. The most efficacious vermifuges against this parasite happen to be poisons to the toms warrant the diagnoses. The most efficacious vermituges against this parasite happen to be poisons to the human host and therefore the treatment demands the skill of a physician. Blindness has been caused by the incautious use of remedies against tape-worm. Worse still, disastrous poisoning has been produced by ill-advised self-treatment, when as a matter of fact, no parasite was present at all.

"You—you really think he stole that money?" For a moment I had forgotten my enmity for Julie. We were two women in trouble. That drew me temporarily toward her.

She raised her eyebrows, and her hands, pursing up her red lips oddly. "Who can say, my dear? This sudden rush to Canada—well—It looks suspicious. And did I not hear him say that he no longer needs the fifteen hundred dollars you were to lend him?"

I nodded.

hundred dollars you were to lend him?"

I nodded.

"That, too, is bad. It sounds as though he knew you had not got it." Her eyes gleamed in her pretty, ardificial little face. "The wicked Fred!"

I leaned forward toward her.

"You love him, Julie? You cannot love him?" I was trembling.

She shrugged her shoulders.

"Love? Poof! A foolish emotion! What is love?"

"But—Julie—you spoke of marrying him?" Curiosity to get at the psychology of this woman spurred me on.

"Oh, marriage! That is different. There is the marriage-of-convenience! Your Fred and 1—we suit each other—we understand the make-up of each other. That is all."

I stared at her, aghast. She could calmly contemplate Fred as a gay deceiver, a rascal, a thief—and yet speak of marrying him!

"Julie, are you insane?" I touched her on the shoulder.

She gave a harsh laugh.

"More sane than you, cherie."

"But—Julie—you would never know a moment's happiness!"

Again she shrugged slim shoulders.

"Happy? Who is happy?"

"I—I want to be. I hope to be. My lips were trembling.

"And you will be, little Anne." Her voice softened for a moment. "Folly or no folly, you deserve to be. But"—the

"Useful? How?" "Useful? How?"
"Beauty is useful, little Anne. Useful in business as in pleasure. I can attract his friends, to spend their money in Fred's business. The spider and the flies, you know—"

I shuddered. They were going to be a pair of crooks, these two—perhaps already were!

"And I have charm, and 'savoir faire,'" proceeded Julie blithely.

"These are useful assets in a wife. Oh, and knowledge of the world! And a wide acquaintance with rich men—"

"Why don't you marry one of them, in preference to Fred?" I blurted out. Was it not my duty to save Julie from her fate?

She laughed, rather gratingly.

"And—and your side of the business, "And—and your side of the business, Julie? What of it?"

"I'm lonely," she said, frankly, "I want companionship. It isn't so easy to get hold of a man these days. Competition's keen! Besides, Freds chic and handsome, I adore to be seen about with a chic and handsome man. He sets me off. Moreover, he said to graham Nut Bread.

The same curious coincidence is true of no other feminine name in the English language, and her whole etymological history makes an interesting circle within a circle. Dalsy is either the endearing diminutive for Marguerite or the little white list close association with the moon—since Marguerite is unmistakably French, and Margaret, the proper English form, carries a subtle hint of dignity and reserve. It is easy, therefore, to understand its vogue in this country, which is given to contractions and diminutives. Indeed, Henry James' much-discussed novel. 'Dalsy Miller.'

VARSITY STADIUM, Nov. 6 .-Argos won the interprovincial chamionship today by downing Ottawa, 6 to 5. It was the most stubborny-contested game of the year, and ly-contested game of the year, and the issue was in doubt until the final whistle blew.

Ottawa's performance was much better than that of either Tigers or M. A. A. They had weight on the line and brains, kicking and running ability on the half line. Their wing line was a stonewall, and Argos seldom failed to penetrate it, although they rounded the ends on several occasion. Ottawa were a rough and ready team, and tore into the Argos like wild men, and in the first half it was reminiscent of pre-war battles, where every man whacked his check for all he was worth. Mike Rodden got into two jams in the second quarter, and was banished for the rest of the game, making Argos play a man short until the end.

Batstone was the whole works for until the end.

Batstone was the whole works for Argos, and stood a tough gruelling. Ottawa piled on him, but it seemed to make no impression. Munro ably seconded his efforts and took many a bump. The officials, Tom Riddle and Ben Simpson, stood for wide open interference, and Ottawa took full advantage of it. Through the first half Ottawa just waded through Argos' line, but in the second Argos tightened up, and Ottawas were stopped.

tightened up, and Ottawas were stopped.

Argos led at half time 6 to 5, and there was no scoring in the second half. Ottawa pressed through the whole period, but Batstone ran the ball out a half dozen times. Tubman, Joe Smith and McCann easily stood out for Ottawa, while Batstone, Munro and Britnell were the best for Argos. The Argo wing line deserved all the credit in the world for their work in the last half, and had Argos' back division made one misplay in the last thirty mintes, Ottawa would have emerged winners.

The Manufacturers' League made a great come-back last year after several years' idleness, and this year's circuit should be still better. Are you rushing on to disaster?

TRAIN, marine, street car—in fact, all disasters are on the decrease, largely due to educational propaganda preventing carelessness. The toll of human life through ill health and disease is also on the decrease. People of the 20th century are realising more and more the necessity of keeping themselves fit and well, for without health they can never attain their ambitions.

There are still some, however, who ignore a vital factor in preserving their health and strength. They ignore medical scientists who tell us the necessity of repairing the ravishes on the heart and nerve centres. These are the people who fail to wake up one morning; the people who drop dead in the street, in the car or train, and just at a critical time when they are specially needed by friends and dependents.

ARE YOU IN THESE RANKS, inviting disaster? Do you ever feel that your work is proving a slight strain upon you? Enthusiasm of Regiment Is Justified in R. C. R. Team, Who Are Husky and Fast-No Scoring in First Half.

The enthusiasm of the R. C. R.'s in their soccer eleven was fully justifled Saturday afternoon at Carling Heights as they defeated Pats, 4-0, in a hard ninety-minute struggle. The elevens had not met since rest periods of the 7th Brigade in France and there were many meetings amongst the players. The fact that the two teams represent the only two infantry units of Canada, precipitates the old army rivairy and the veteran unit won the argument for Saturday unit won the argument for Saturday anyway.

K. C. R.'s had a wonderful soccer career since peace conditions have returned and white stationed at Valcariter last summer, met the famous Czecho-Slovakian team, possessed of the fastest forward line in Canada, eight times. They won four, drew one and lost three.

As the visitors Saturday will shortly enter the London football field, the critics took a good look at them Saturday and the verdict was entirely favorable to the newcomers. They are

A party of up patients from the military ward of Victoria Hospital attended the game.

Pats started off the game with their usual terrific pace and Harber's great run down and hard shot, which forced the R.C.R. custodian to give a corner, was the first break. Harber was put out of the game shortly after with an injury and Pats still pressed strong with ten men. The R.C.R.'s came back strong with wing rushes, Sergeants with ten men. The R.C.R.'s came back strong with wing rushes. Sergeants Tingeman and Wright, leading the attacks. Play went from end to end, both sides having hard luck in not scoring, but half time whistle came with a scoreless tie.

Good football opened the second half, but the Pats slackened down considerably. They allowed the visitors' heavy backs entirely too much rope, and the R. C. R. forwards were able to wear them down. The visitors' clever centre pivot secured two goals and (Tubbie) Turner and Lingeman each secured one.

In the meeting between the teams in Toronto, McGill's weakness on the back division enabled Varsity to score a creditable victory. In that game the McGill halves fumbled and messed up their plays, the errors being costly almost all times. MOUNT HOLLY, N.J., Nov. 7.—
Frank J. James and Raymond W. Schuck, both of Camden, confessed to-day, according to the police, that they killed David S. Paul, the Camden bank runner, robbed him of $40,000 in cash and buried the body in the Jersey pines new Tabernacle. The money was buried in Evergreen Cemetery in Camden, and most of it has been recovered, the officials stated tonight.

The alleged confessions were given

County jail here, where both men are prisoners. The disappearance of Paul on October 5, furnished the New Jersey authorities with one of the deepest mysteries with which they have had to contend for years. First reports given out by the police were that he had absconded with approximately $70,-600 in cash and checks, and a wide-spread search was conducted for him. Eleven days later his body with the head crushed was found buried in a shallow grave near Tabernacle. The checks were found intact, but the cash was missing. Physicians who examined the body said Paul had been dead only about 24 hours. Footprints. motor car tracks and a piece of the covering of an automobile seat found near the grave gave the authorities their first definite clue. A few days later James was taken into custody, but not arrested. He was held under detention for more than a week before he formally was charged with the killing and lodged in the Mount Holly jail.

It was during the presentation to the grand jury of evidence which the police claimed connected James with the case that Shuck was called. He was ordered taken into custody by the grand jury after a number of witnesses had been heard. He and James are said to be close friends.

BOILS SO BAD HAD TO

on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. Finally I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without beneft. At last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone. It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well."

B. B. B. is put up only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Lter in the evening a hostile crowd assembled in Waterloo Square, a Sinn Fein thoroughfare, and had to be dispersed by the military. Even after the curfew hour there was almost unceasing revolver and rifle fire for two hours or more, with occasional sounds like explosions of bombs.

A number of armed men passed along William street, smashing windows with the butt ends of rifles, destroying the lamps on the electric standards by rifle fire and plunging the whole street into darkness. Two premises were set on fire, one being a garage which was completely destroyed. A number of domestic animals were burned to death,

Upon this coming generation depends largely whether these nations will be healthy and right-minded or a hot-bed of anarchy and degeneracy-a menace to the world.

It has been found by experience that the cost of caring for a waif child is approximately three dollars per month; that of the supplies that are required by imports about one dollar is needed; and therefore the dollar that we provide, together with the local support of local governments, local municipalities, local charities and local services practically preserves the life of

A fire brigade called to fires in William street had a thrilling experience. Before starting, the firemen appealed to the military for aid, and a number of armed soldiers traveled on the engines. Motherhood is the companion theme to spiritualism in the play. It might be said that motherhood virtually is the leading theme, for it is the tremendous urge of matheriove that enables Miss Rambeau as Renee Browning, the much-sinned against heroine, to score so majestically in the great psychic scene of "The Fortunte Teller," a picture which should be seen for its educational, as well as its entertainment qualities.

The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small, so goes the old saying, and one sees the truth in it in one case at least in the story of the quack doctor in "Open Your Eyes." Flaming with truth, it is a dramatic thunderbolt of youth distillusioned and love betrayed. Wonderful scenes, thrilling story, exceptional entertainment, you will see much that is interesting in "Open Your Eyes," but it is the wish of the Government that all should realize the sort of picture they are going to see before they purchase their tickets—and furtherthat no one under sixteen, under any that no one under sixteen, under any circumstances, be allowed to see it.

She puts up one of the most thrilling underwater fights ever witnessed on the screen, and altogether keeps you in a state between death by loss of breath and exhaustion by laughingitis. You will also get a very special treat in scenic effects in "What Women Love," for the picture was made on the fashionable beaches of Hawaii, Walkiki and Honolulu. AT LOEW'S.

Psychic phenomena has been written and talked about since the days of the Old Testament.
