Tork Courses & Enquirer, dated from Constantiaople, will be found interesting just now:—

Physical power, rather than social amelioration is the prime end of the present Government. The major in the regular army consists of about 100,000 then, but it is now rapidly increasing by large conscriptions made all over the country to resist the threatened aggressions of Russia. The pay of the soldiers is about ninety cents a month; their uniform is no longer Turkish, but consists of a red Fez cap, blue jucket, and blue or white pantaloons. The men are generally eider than other European soldiers, but yet appear like stout hardy fellows. Though they have many European officers, their field discipline is very imperate, and their march anything but soldierly. They are well clothed, well: equipped, and particularly well lodged; better barracks I have seen no where. The artillery is exceedingly well appointed; its stock of field pieces is immense, and constantly increasing. The very day of my arrival, every shore was ringing with the first trials of 150 new briss cannon. The Turkish navy contains the first un largest three-deckers in the world; and its strength is at every shost interest reinforced by the launching of some splendid war steamer. But all the vessels are poorly manued; their crews are made up chiefly of raw conscripts from the country, who hardly know a rudder from a plough-fail.

After all, these efforts of Turkey to get up a martial and swashing outside? remind one of an impotent old dotard creeping into fine armor and strutting under borrowed plumes. The Ottoman Empire has lost its virility, and does not contain within itself a single element of National greatment that their days are well-nigh numbered; and on account of this they bury their dead on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus. A book which they regard as canonical and holy, predicts the downfall of the Western Empire 400 years after its establishment, which period, reckoning in lunar years, the Mahomedan mode of computing time, will expire in 1893.

ADVICE TO GREEN MINERS .- Our late epic ADVICE TO GREEN MINERS.—Our late epistolatory agent at the mines has not exhibited his usual promptitude and punctuality touching his advice to green miners, promised in his communication of the 22nd ultime. The following morcess was handed to us only last evening, and from the crumpled condition of the paper, and the Virginia fence style of the manuscript, every word of which appears to be flying off at a tangent from the plane of the horison, as if "the man with the pokes" was after it, we infer that the author has been indulging in what he classically terms a jew & spres. Some portions of the chirography are almost illegible, and exhale a strong alcoholic oder, from which we infer that the author, in the "excitement of composition," occasionally dipped to the chirography into the color gless instead of the ink-

CREDIT RATES OF PREMIUM.

THE great and decided success which has attended this Institution has induced the Directors to REDUCE the RATES originally required in British North America to the ordinary European Rates. The result of such Reduction is to enable parties to avail themselves of the important benefits of Life Assurance at much lower Rates of Premium than those of any other Assurance Company transacting business in Canada.

The Directors have also resolved to extend to British Rorth America the advantages afforded by the HALF CREDIT RATES of PREMIUM which have been so highly approved and are so generally adopted by Policy Holders in the United Kingdom. The most liberal conditions are likewise offered to "he Assured in the limits to which they may proceed by sen or land, to other parts they may proceed by sea or land, to other parts of North America without affecting their Interest
