ISLAND ONLY A MIRAGE.

Arctic Explorers Floated Directly Through Location.

Keenan Land, which is charted on maps of the Arctic region, it now appears, is no land at all, but just deep sea. According to the testimony of Storker Storkersen, second in command of Vilhjalmur Stefansson's Arctic expedition, organized by the Canadian Government, this so-called "land" is non-existent, the whalers who thought they had discovered it some fifty years ago having seen an illusive Arctic mirage.

As represented on the chart of the Arctic region, Keenan Land apparently is about fifty square miles in extent, but, while drifting on a huge ice floe and buffeted by variable winds, Storkersen and his comrades floated directly through the space whereon the mythical Keenan Land was supposed to be. "Evidently," said the explorer, "it was only a mirage, for instead of land there we found very deep water. We made soundings of 3,000 metres without finding bottom."

So Keenan Land must be banished from the maps, along with that other mythical place, Crocker Land, which Peary thought he had sighted in the north years ago, but which upon investigation by Donald MacMillan proved also to be merely a mirage, an illusion of the Far North which often baffles explorers and navigators in those frigid seas.

Storkersen and his associates were adrift eight months on their ice floe, which was about fifteen miles long by seven wide. Finally the ocean froze, permitting them to make a dash to the mainland across the virgin ice. During the time they were marooned on the huge raft of ice they made many soundings. "The greatest depths we found," said Storkersen, "were 4,500 metres, or about three miles. Because of the fact that we lost much of our sounding wire, most of our recorded soundings were 3,000 metres and no bottom."

Altogether, Storkersen says, he explored a region of about 45,000 miles while cruising on the giant ice cake, making, all told, for the Canadian Government Arctic expedition a record of exploration covering approximately 250,000 square miles. After drifting at the caprice of the shifting winds for six months the explorers found themselves fifty-five miles from their starting point on the Northern Alaska coast, north by east. "The drift of the ice," said Storkersen, "is governed by the direction of the wind, as proven by our adventure on the ice floe."

"Our object was to determine the currents in Beaufort Sea, to take a line of soundings and to try to discover uncharted land, if any existed. I consider that man happiest who conducts an uneventful expedition, because an adventurous trip is often a sign of incompetence. We had no thrills and we made our journey in comparative comfort and without hardship."

Romance in History.

It was in June, 1671, that the French took over the northern portion of the Province of Ontario. Most Canadians are still interested in the exploits of the coureur des bois, and in the adventures of Perrot, the most picturesque figure in the ceremony of June, 1671, when the Deputy Governor, "in the name of the High, Most Powerful, and Most Redoubtable Monarch, Louis XIV. of France, most Christian King of France and Navarre," took possession of "St. Marie du Sault, as also Lakes Huron and Superior, the Island of Manitoulin, and of all the lands, rivers, lakes, and streams contiguous to and adjacent here as well discovered or to be discovered which are bounded on the one side by the seas of the north and on the other side by the seas of the south—in its whole length and breadth."

The Most High, Most Powerful, and Most Redoubtable Louis and his successors held the lands about the lakes for less than a century after their annexation, but among the men who carried the badge of Canada on the fields of France these last five years were hundreds who could have traced their descent directly from the hawk-eyed coureurs des bois who stood about Perrot on the day when a great province was added to New France.

His Difficulty.

At a training camp during the war the officer of the day was making the rounds of the post. It was during challenging time. He seated himself on the corner post of a fence and waited for the sentry. The sentry, a raw recruit from the woods came slowly up and stopped only a few feet from the O. D. After waiting in silence for a few moments the officer asked: "Well, what are you going to say?" "Durned if I know what to say," drawled the recruit. "If you were walking I'd say 'Halt!'"

THE SALT OF THE EARTH.

High Praise Given to the Soldier Settlers.

The British Columbia Farmer estimates that 6,000 returned soldiers will settle on the land in that province with the assistance of the Soldier Settlement Board. While it is not expected that all will make good, the writer predicts that at least 85 per cent. will do so. He says:

"There may be many among this 85 per cent. whose success will only be comparative, but I am convinced that among them there will be a much higher average of real successes than there are among farmers as a class, or in any other calling."

"I am chiefly convinced that this is so for a number of reasons, but chiefly from the actual knowledge I have of what the men we have already placed are doing. Our supervisors are keeping accurate tab on what the men have done, and the reports that are coming in are most encouraging. Our qualification boards are composed of practical men. They have real knowledge of the lands of the province, and are able to give enquiring applicants information of value about conditions that prevail in the various districts, and the qualifications which are necessary. These men take no arbitrary stand or make no decided effort to change the plans of any applicant, even if they believe him to be making a mistake, but they do not fail to give the young men the benefit of their advice, and in many cases prospective errors are avoided."

"Then," continued the speaker, "these men by the assistance rendered them by the Settlement Board, are placed in a position that in many cases would take them four or five years' of their lives to secure. In fact, if the assistance had not been extended it is practically certain that in hundreds of cases the opportunity to get into this great producing industry, but would have gravitated to the cities, or into some non-producing activity. The small amount of money most of the men are able to put into the business would be utterly inadequate to give them the start. They are placed almost immediately in the producing class. How many men the Settlement Board will place in this province before the applications cease I could not hazard a guess, but the number will not be less than 6,000, and they will be settlers of the very salt of the earth. In no other way would it be possible for any Government to secure such a splendid class of settlers. In fact, viewing the wonderful success of the movement to secure the establishment of the soldier on the land, and the great demand there is among the men to get on the land, one is almost convinced that it would be a good idea for the Government to extend the scope of the land settlement plan to include classes other than soldiers."

Revisiting No Man's Land.

Many a Canadian who fought in the war is wondering what the front looks like now, a year and more after the last shot was fired.

A newspaper writer, who was recently over the ground, states that one actually sees much less change than would be expected. It is so easy to destroy, so difficult to restore.

From the Ypres-Bailleul road, from Hell Fire Corner, from the La Bassée-Lens road, from the Arras-Douai road, and from many other such points, one might almost imagine that the armies had withdrawn but yesterday from their lines.

Everything easily lifted has been picked up and carried away by the seekers of souvenirs, but the change that most impresses the soldier is the silence, the now vacant highways once crowded with war traffic. The noise of war is gone, and the color of khaki is seldom seen. You look out over regions that seem to be forever reduced to silence and sterility.

The restoration of France and Belgium is going to be a long job. Those know best how complete the destruction was who were present and saw it done.

Girl Trade Unionists.

Eight thousand girl workers are members of the trade union movement in Toronto. The membership is drawn chiefly from among the female stenographers, clerks and accountants in the railway offices.

James Higginson, Sr.

This week we are called upon to record the death of one of Waterdown's oldest and most highly respected citizens in the person of Mr. James Higginson, Sr., which occurred at his home here on Thursday, Feb. 19th. He was in his 89th year at the time of his death and had resided here for the past twenty years. About two weeks ago he contracted a severe cold which gradually developed into pneumonia which ultimately caused his death.

Deceased was the fourth son of the late Thomas and Mary Higginson, and was born at Vankleek Hill, Que. in 1831. He received his early education at the schools in that town. At an early age he engaged in the store business in Prescott, and when the Fenian Raid broke out he was one of the first to volunteer his services and enlisted in the Prescott Battalion of which later he was made captain. He was justly proud of the Veteran's medal which he had in his possession. He remained in Prescott a few years and then moved to Wentworth county settling on the 4th concession where he engaged in farming for a number of years. Feeling the cares and worries of farm life weighing heavily upon him he decided to live a retired life and removed to Waterdown to enjoy a well earned rest, his youngest daughter being his favorite companion during his declining years.

On February 21st, 1865 deceased married Eliza Feilde, nine children blessing the union. In religion he was a devout member of the Anglican church, and when his health permitted was a regular attendant at the services of his church. He was a man of high moral character, kind and possessing a lovable disposition. These and other noble traits of character endeared him to a large circle of friends who will deeply regret his death and extend to sorrowing relatives and friends deep sympathy.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Jas. E. Eager and Miss Alice Waterdown, and five sons, James of East Flamboro, Frederick, George, Albert and Herbert of Alberta.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon last at Grace church, Inverness being the cemetery adjoining the church. The pallbearers were Dr. Jos. E. Eager, L. J. Mullock, and Edward, Albert, Stewart, and Harry Feilde, nephews of deceased. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. H. J. Leake, Hamilton.

THE JEWISH PEOPLE

Always Believed That They Would Possess Homeland Again.

The Jews are the only race, so far as history records, that have carried with them through centuries of dispersion what they firmly believed to be a divine promise...

That this long-deferred hope promises ere long to reach its realization is evident from a written statement from Lord Curzon, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs...

About two years ago, and a year before final victory was assured the allied forces, Arthur J. Balfour, the then Secretary of Foreign Affairs...

When, however, the matter came up before the Peace Conference for adjudication both Syrians and Arabs set up an insistent claim for possession of the original homeland of the Jewish people...

portant, showing as it does that the British Government is insistent on the terms of the Peace Conference being carried to a successful issue.

The territory embraced by this Jewish homeland is 140 miles long and from 70 to 100 miles in width and is practically an isolated oasis, but relatively small, as Palestine is characterized by a wide range of climate...

Approximately three thousand years have elapsed since the Jews, by David's capture of Jerusalem, came into full possession of Palestine...

According to a statement made public during the first year of the war, the Jew is prepared to colonize the land, to develop it, and to make life there healthy and prosperous on a scale which no other nation is likely to attempt.

It does not follow, however, that for at least a long time to come, Palestine will become in the true sense of the term, politically independent. In fact, there are few, if any, Jews advocating it. Palestine, in all its history, has seldom been a nation in its own right...

An ancient story of the greed of kings has been resurrected by an erudite member of the Institute de France, Mr. Adrien Blanchet.

The fact is there is some prospective work on hand for the utilization of the Phone water power. Thus do ancient history and modern enterprise come to hobnob in the revue des etudes antiques.

Shaddock.

Florida, the land of sunshine and perpetual summer, is noted for its pine apples and oranges, but many tourists do not know that there grows in the land that Ponce de Leon discovered a gigantic orangekite fruit which sometimes weighs ten pounds.

This fruit has not the orange flavor, but is similar to the grapefruit, which is sometimes called "pomelo," and it looks so nearly like a grapefruit that one who is not an expert cannot tell the difference.

All shaddock does not grow to weigh ten pounds, but many a one can be purchased in the markets of Florida which will easily tip the scales at half that weight, and if one wants to go out in the Everglades he can easily gather all the shaddock he cares to eat or ship back up North to his friends there, as these shaddock trees have been growing there for hundreds of years, and have no owners, save the beasts of the jungle-like hummocks and the Seminole Indians, who still roam the Everglades undisputed by the white man.

THEIR FINAL DANCE.

Vernon Castle's Last With His Wife.

"I have taken out all that seemed too sacred to be made public and locked it tightly in my heart." These words appear in the preface of a poignant human document, "My Husband," written by Irene Castle, the dancing partner of young Vernon Castle, who sacrificed a salary of $5,000 a week, and later his life, to serve his country in the Royal Flying Corps.

Vernon Castle, whose sunny nature won him friends in all parts of the world, was killed in Texas in February, 1918, at the age of 29, while attempting to save the life of a flying pupil he was instructing.

In the story of his life, written by his widow, Vernon Castle appears in the role of the ideal lover. The young couple started life together practically penniless, their only asset being their art. From a varied career in dingy cabarets in Paris, the couple danced their way to fame and fortune, which was at its height when war and separation came.

Here is the account of the great parting:

"Swallowing hard, I waved feebly out of the window as the train moved from the platform, leaving him standing at the salute, every bit a soldier. Once out of sight I sobbed to my heart's content, and as the fields and hills rolled by hastily I wrote this little prayer for him. It's poor, I know, but I quote it because he wore it tied around his neck with a dirty little string for the next nine months:

"Almighty God, if Thou art there, Listen to my humble prayer, And keep him safe. Keep him in your care always, Watch o'er him this weary day, And keep him safe. Make him feel my love and sorrow, Bring him back some near to-morrow, And keep him safe."

The last dance of the dancing partners took place while Vernon Castle

ULTIMATUM BY WILSON ON ADRIATIC QUESTION

President's Note Says U. S. Will Withdraw From Pact if Present Plans Stand

Officially Disclaimed as a Threat, But the Meaning is Clear

Washington Despatch — President Wilson in his note to the Allies on the Fiume question, has, after all, informed them that if they proceed with their settlement of the Adriatic situation he would consider the withdrawal of the Peace Treaty from the Senate.

While the President's action has been officially disclaimed as a threat, the fact remains that he set forth specifically to the Allies the full consequences of any action taken on the Fiume matter without his knowledge or consent.

The President's note was not made public at either the White House or the State Department today. In addition to mentioning the Peace Treaty, however, it is understood that he may have indicated to France a similar necessity that would compel him likewise to withdraw from the Senate the Franco-American defensive alliance pact, wherein the United States promises to go to France's protection in case of an unwarranted attack against her by Germany.

All told, the President's action, which, with the exception of the text of the note, was revealed almost entirely to-day—is the strongest move he has yet made to impress Europe with the knowledge that he has not given up the treaty fight, that he does not concede the treaty beaten, and, furthermore, that he will not accept ratification of the treaty unless Article X is intact.

His note, in brief, informs the Allies that he will not brook any action at this time, without either his knowledge, consent or approval, which may later, on the assumption that the United States will ultimately be a member of the League of Nations, commit this country to responsibility in connection with upholding decisions to which it was not a party.

OUTLOOK NOT HOPEFUL.
Washington Despatch — The best friends of the peace treaty in Washington were not very hopeful to-day of the possibility of agreement between Republicans and Democrats in the Senate on the reservations.

"It looks as though we might come out at the same hole as we went in," was the description applied to the situation by Senator Hitchcock, Democratic leader in the Senate. He added that the Republicans evidently wished to avoid any compromise on the matter. On the other hand, he declared that there would be no ratification unless there was first a compromise.

It is generally agreed that the debate will be allowed to run its full course without any effort to hasten a roll call on ratification.

COUNCIL FRAMES REPLY.

London Cable — The American Embassy is engaged to-night in coding and forwarding to Washington the reply of the Supreme Council to President Wilson's Adriatic note, which will be in the hands of the Washington Government tomorrow.

The Council made it known in its daily semi-official communication to the newspapers that it does not propose to make public the correspondence, so that the question of whether the text of the notes will be given to the world, rests with President Wilson.

Since the main facts are public property, namely that the President strongly objects to the solution of the Italian-Jugo Slav problem by the application of the treaty of London thereto, and objects so strongly as to contemplate America's withdrawal from the Versailles compact as a possibility, and that the Council objects to the re-opening of the question, the arguments exchanged shall be published while the controversy is hot on the anvil.

The statement from Washington confirming the first reports that the President had intimated that rejection of his policy might be followed by diplomatic reprisals furnished another surprise to the politicians and the public, who outside of a small but important circle which meets twice daily in Downing Street, and the advisers in the confidence of this group experienced the greatest surprise because it came close on the heels of other Washington messages, intimating that only American retirement from its part in policing the Adriatic was intended.

The council issued an emphatic denial on its own behalf of French newspaper reports that it was persuaded to modify and soften the first draft of the note to President Wilson by intervention exercised by Viscount Grey, Lord Robert Cecil and Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer. The susceptibilities of the non-British members of the council were one of the factors behind this denial because the story was calculated to give the impression on the continent that the British were dominating the conference.

The feeling at Italian headquarters in London with respect to the President's action is strong. Unofficially it is spoken of as an attack upon Italy, and his memorandum is described as an ultimatum. The Italians also feel that Italy's claims to consideration for her part of the war and the sacrifices made have never been quite appreciated by her allies.

The feeling in the Jugo-Slav camp is equally strong, but has the element of elation that the Slavs have a strong champion. They feel that they are at a disadvantage because Minister Trupbitch is outside the councils of the powers, and, like the Italians, have their own grievance in that they consider that the fact they were in the war from the start and that their country was practically ruined is not to be given the weight it deserves.

There is no more effective vermifuge on the market than Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the defecative system and maintaining it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

DRIVEN OUT OF IRKUTSK

Bolsheviki Ousted By Czechs On Jan. 30.

Interfered With Czecho- Slovak Evacuation.

Vladivostok Cable — Consular officials report that, because the Bolsheviki forces interfered with the evacuation of the Czecho-Slovaks from Irkutsk, the city was taken over by the Czechs on Jan. 30.

The Bolsheviki forces took Admiral Kolchak as their prisoner with them when they were driven out, but left the State gold treasure behind.

Gen. Voltzokoffsky, with a remnant of the Kolchak army, has reached Irkutsk, and Gen. Semenov, commander-in-chief of the all-Russian forces, was reported by the consuls as sending reinforcements and supplies from Chita, his present headquarters.

Reports received by the Vladivostok headquarters of the Czecho-Slovaks from Irkutsk since Feb. 1 confirmed the foregoing advices, their reports being that all was quiet in Irkutsk, the city remaining in their hands, and their evacuation proceeding orderly.

The British mission arriving here Feb. 4 reported Gen. Voltzokoffsky 200 versts west of Irkutsk.

The local revolutionary staff announced the following wireless despatch had been received from Irkutsk, via Ootok:

"Armistice with Czechs signed by regular army Soviet Government of Russia. The last Czech eschelon left Salari, westward of Irkutsk, Voltzokoffsky taken prisoner, army nearly annihilated, many prisoners, cannon and machine guns captured. Everybody in Irkutsk taking arms, exceptional enthusiasm. All shops and warehouses closed. Everybody joining army. Red army Irkutsk communicating directly with Soviet Russia. Decrees and instructions being received from Moscow. Signed Sosonoff."

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—In some factories and work-shops carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not scar the skin or burn the flesh. There is no other Oil that has its curative qualities.

POLICING THE DARDANELLES

Details Not Worked Out By Supreme Council.

Bosphorous Also to Be In- ternationalized.

London Cable — The internationalization of the Dardanelles, which has been forecast, was decided upon definitely by the Allied Supreme Council to-day. The details of the control of the waterways, however, have not been worked out.

One of the big questions to be decided is the policing of the Straits, and a knotty problem is as to who will furnish the necessary troops. Further than deciding that Constantinople is to remain under Turkish control, the Council has not drawn a definite boundary line. Details such as the exact frontiers remain to be decided.

Three commissions were set up by the council to-day in connection with the Turkish peace. One is to decide upon the boundaries of the Armenian Republic, another is to report on the Turkish finances, and the third is to examine into the Greek claims in the Smyrna territory, which were dwelt upon at length by Premier Venizelos in his statement of yesterday. All the commissions are expected to report to the council the latter part of the week.

At the afternoon session the council decided that the Bosphorus should be internationalized the same as the Dardanelles.

The preliminary consideration of the whole Turkish question was completed to-day and the drafting of the treaty will be started immediately. Many deaths yet remain to be cleared up, as had been forecast, and the reports of the commission appointed to-day to investigate certain phases of the peace problem.

A Pill That is Prized.—There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but none has endured so long or met with so much favor as Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem, they now rank without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

WILSON WANTS TO TAKE HELM

May Call Cabinet Any Day Now.

Doctors Disagree As to Physical Ability.

Washington Despatch — The fact that President Wilson has thrown his hat in the ring—not as a third-term candidate—but as the principal performer in the most sensational "come-back" staged in the history of the nation, kept official and political circles in Washington agog with interest to-day.

All eyes were on the White House, and every person entering through the main gates or by way of the Executive offices was watched and questioned. Reports were going about that the resignations of other Cabinet officers might be expected, as an aftermath of the Lansing incident.

Two other points of interest in the unusual situation were in the foreground, namely, whether the President would call a meeting of his Cabinet to-morrow or Friday, and the real status of the President's health. Up to a late hour no definite information could be obtained at the White House concerning the chances of a Cabinet meeting being held to-morrow.

If the President had his way there would be no doubt about how quickly the next Cabinet meeting would be staged. Unofficial reports are to the effect he feels he is fit to plunge into the exacting work of taking over the full direction of governmental affairs. But that his physicians are willing to have him do so is another question.

No one seems to doubt, however, that the President will be openly in full charge again within a short time.

Dr. Dercum, of Philadelphia, visited President Wilson on Saturday and was quoted as saying that the President was mentally fit. Admiral Grayson said that Dr. Dercum was "very much pleased with the President's condition and progress toward complete recovery." On the other hand, Dr. Arthur D. Bevan, of Chicago, is quoted as stating that the "disease of the arteries is a permanent and not a temporary condition," and that a patient in this condition "should under no circumstances be permitted to resume the work of such a strenuous position as that of President."

This led to speculation as to the desirer of the President suffering a relapse.

Official circles were kept in a turmoil of emotion and the situation which has been created formed the principal topic for a discussion that extended from the White House to Capitol Hill and into the cloakrooms of the Senate and House of Representatives. That the President has been deeply stirred by some information which his investigations lately have brought him, is pretty generally accepted.

Dread of Asthma makes countless thousands miserable. Night after night the attacks return and even when brief respite is given the mind is still in torment from continual anticipation. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy changes all this. Relief comes, and at once, while future attacks are warded off, leaving the afflicted one in a state of peace and happiness he once believed he could never enjoy. Inexpensive and sold almost everywhere.

TOBACCO GOES UP IN BRITAIN

Sewing Cotton Also, and Taxi Fares Likely.

Parcel-Post Rates Expected to Go Up.

London Cable — An actual and prospective increase in prices announced to-day include one penny to two pence increase on cigars and an ounce of tobacco and a half-penny increase on a package of cigarettes. Sewing cotton is increased 2 3-4 pence a reel.

The recent increase in the price of petrol, which caused a one day's strike of taxicab drivers, is expected to bring an announcement of higher fares to-morrow, when the Home Secretary will receive a deputation representing the taximen.

In consequence of the increase in railway freights, the belief is growing that parcels post charges will be raised in the near future. The postal employees demand higher wages, involving an aggregate of about £11,000,000 yearly, and it is expected that a half-penny extra will be placed on letter postage.

Men, Are You In Doubt

As to your trouble? Have you some skin eruption that is stubborn, has resisted treatment? Is there a nervous condition which does not improve in spite of rest, diet and medicine. Are you going down hill steadily? ARE YOU NERVOUS and despondent, weak and debilitated; tired mornings; no ambition—lifeless; memory gone; easily fatigued; excitable and irritable; lack of energy and confidence? Is there falling power, a drain on the system? Consult the old reliable specialists.

SYMPTOMS OF VARIOUS AILMENTS

Weak and relaxed state of the body, nervousness, despondency, poor memory, lack of will power, timid, listless disposition, diminished power of application, energy and concentration, fear of impending danger or misfortune, drowsiness and tendency to sleep, unrefreshing sleep, dark rings under eyes, weakness or pain in back, limbs, dizziness, constipation, headache, loss of weight, insomnia. Dr. Ward gives you the benefit of 15 years' continuous practice in the treatment of all chronic, nervous, blood and skin diseases. The above symptoms, and many others not mentioned, show plainly that something is wrong with your physical condition and that you need expert attention.

Men, why suffer longer? Let me make you a vigorous man. Let me restore your physical condition to full strength. Don't be a weakling any longer. Make up your mind to come to me and I will give you the best treatment known to science—the one successful treatment based on the experience of 15 years in treating men and their ailments.

Dr. Ward's Methods Unrivaled, Thorough and Permanent.

Do you realize that you have only one life to live—do you realize that you are missing most of that life by ill health? A life worth living is a healthy life. Neglect of one's health has put many a man in his grave.

I have been telling men these things for many years but still there are thousands of victims who, for various reasons, have not had the good sense to come and get well.

AIRMEN GUARD PERSIAN ZONES

Britain Relies On Planes to Keep Out Bolsheviki

From Mesopotamia and Its District.

Washington Despatch—Great Britain relies largely upon her air forces for the defence of Persia and Mesopotamia, according to official advices received here. Winston Churchill, British War Minister, recently informed Parliament that air bases have been established at Bagdad and Karachi, the latter a port on the Arabian Sea, and the terminus of an important railway.

Military experts here attach great importance to this announcement, because it is an innovation in military strategy in two important particulars. It is the first time, authorities say, that air forces have been relied upon to so large a degree purely for defence. Also, the impossibility of conducting operations in desert regions has been overcome by carrying on the operations in the air.

British authorities have feared that Bolsheviki troops, which have penetrated Turkestan, might enter Afghanistan and attack Persia from the flank. It is believed that the aerial forces have been organized partially to meet this threatened danger.

LOCAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carter have returned after a pleasant visit at their former home in Blithe.

Miss C. Brooks, of Hamilton, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Drummond on Tuesday last.

The many friends of Dr. Vance will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his recent illness.

Mrs. A. Atkinson and Mrs. Roy Alton, of Appleby, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. F. Breckon.

County Clerk J. F. Vance, who was confined to his bed with a severe attack of rheumatism, is again able to be around.

Mrs. C. E. Cust, of Hamilton, and Miss Myrtle Betheran, of Waterford, were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. A. Newell on Wednesday of this week.

Mr. W. S. Featherston is giving up the retail part of his baking business and intends renting his shop. He will not discontinue the baking of bread and after this week will have it on sale at Mr. A. Featherston.

The Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. W. G. Spence on Wednesday afternoon, March 3rd at 2.30. Papers by Mrs. C. Everitt on Saving Steps, and by Mrs. Albert Slater on The Stranger Within Our Gates will be given. Mrs. Palmer will also give a paper on Method of Cooking Meat. The music will be furnished by Miss B. Little and Mrs. A. E. Alton.

Our energetic Reeve is not allowing any grass to grow under his feet when the welfare of the town is at stake. When it became known that the C. P. R. would raise the fare to Hamilton, he immediately got in touch with the railway officials with the view of having a reconsideration at least so far as Waterdown is concerned. In a letter received yesterday the Company states that the matter is in the hands of the Railway Commission. Dick does not intend to take no for an answer and will shortly go to Toronto to try and have something done to check the approaching isolation.

Law-Belbeck Wedding

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Manse, Hamilton by Rev. J. A. Wilson on Wednesday February 18th, at 4 p. m. when Eveline J., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Belbeck, of Hamilton was united in holy bonds of matrimony to J. Wilber, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Law, Flamboro Centre. The bride looked charming attired in a dainty costume of blue satin trimmed with georgette crepe and was attended by her only sister, Miss Lena, who was gowned in plaid silk. The groom was ably supported by his chum, Mr. Stewart R. Wyatt, of Flamboro Centre. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the bride's home where a dainty repast was served.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome set of furs, to the bridesmaid a ring set with pearls and to the best man a tie pin set with pearls. The happy young couple left amid showers of confetti on the evening train for points in the West. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Flamboro Centre. Mr. and Mrs. Law will be at home to their friends after March 1st.

Solicitor for the Executrix

Christian Davids

Christian Davids, one of the oldest inmates of the House of Refuge, Dundas, died in the home on Tuesday last in his 98th year. He was born in Germany in 1822, but had been living in Canada for the greater part of his life. For many years he was a resident of this village. He was married sixty-six years ago, and is survived by his wife, who lived with him in the House of Refuge. Two sons are also left to mourn his death. Interment will be in Grace church cemetery, Waterdown.

Millgrove

A judging course in live stock will be held at Millgrove on March 1st, 2nd and 4th. On Monday Dr. Baker, of Hamilton, has been secured to lecture on horses. The morning period from 10 to 12 will be occupied by a lecture on the "Diseases of Stock". In the afternoon judging work will be conducted. On Tuesday J. O. Duke, a prominent breeder from Essex county, will lecture on feeding and management of hogs. The same work in judging hogs will occupy the afternoon. On Wednesday the judging of sheep will be taken up at Carlisle. The general management and judging of dairy cattle will be dealt with by R. S. Stevenson, the well known Holstein breeder from Ancaster. The work on beef cattle will be taken up at Carlisle on Friday by J. M. Gardhouse of Westover. Local committees are in charge of the course as regards securing the necessary stock and getting the lecturers. An interesting and profitable course will result if as many as possible can will show their interest and co-operation by attending the lectures.

The County of Wentworth is becoming known throughout Ontario as the breeding ground of good live stock, and yet there is great improvement. That this fact is realized is evidenced by the fact that there are already at least four associations in the county. Among the most recent of organizations is the Wentworth County Holstein Breeders Association. Mr. H. Dymont, a prominent breeder and exhibitor from Dundas, is the president, and already steps are being taken to hold a consignment sale of choice stock. At the present time the first Holstein cow to produce over 30 lbs. of butter in 7 days for five consecutive years is the property of a Wentworth breeder, and the champion cow at Toronto National for two years is also in the county. The general quality and breeding of Wentworth Holsteins is comparable to that of any in America. The object of Breed Associations is of course to promote the breeding of better live stock and to facilitate marketing.

Chatham, Ont.—"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble and I tried many remedies but they seemed to be a failure—my stomach seemed to be getting worse instead of better. One day I came in possession of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took it. My stomach seemed completely cured. I have great faith in this medicine and hope any sufferer that reads this will give the Discovery a trial. Once tried, you will never be without it."—C. TITUS, Jr., 28 Duke St.

New Wiltshire, P. E. I.—"I suffered three years with bronchial asthma. I was so weak I could hardly walk three steps at a time. I could not sleep so would get up and stay up the rest of the night. One day a friend advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery so I sent my druggist for a bottle and when I had taken half of it I felt a great deal better. When I used that bottle I sent for two more, and when I finished the third bottle I was completely cured. It is over two years since I first took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I have not been troubled a day with asthma since."—ALEX. McLEOD.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered with rheumatism for the last five years and have only taken three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets and three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and am nearly cured. I also had that dread disease, Spanish Influenza, leaving me in a terrible condition. Only those who have had it know what an awful condition it leaves one in. I am sure if it had not been for Dr. Pierce's medicines and advice I certainly would have died. I want to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to any sufferer with kidney trouble or to anyone run down after having the 'Flu'. Also try Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation."—MRS. EST. ELA GRANBY, 64 1/2 James St. North.

Lesson IX. Feb. 28, 1920.

Peter writes about Christian Living. Temperance lesson.

1. Peter 2:1-5, 11, 12-19-25.

COMMENTARY—1. Growth in Grace (vs. 1-5). 1. wherefore—This word connects what the apostle is about to say with the preceding chapter. The eternity and potency of the word (1 Peter 1:25) is the foundation for exhortations which follow. Laying aside—Put off once for all, as one lays aside a garment that is discarded. Malice—A disposition to injure another to gratify personal anger, hatred or jealousy. This and the other dispositions or acts mentioned in this verse are utterly out of harmony with the love to which we are exhorted in v. 22 of the preceding chapter. Guile—The disposition to practice deception. Hypocrites—Acts of deception. Envy—Envy is ill-will toward another because of his superior ability or possessions. Evil speakings—Malice delights in another's hurt; envy pines at another's good; guile imparts duplicity to the heart; hypocrisy (flattery) imparts duplicity to the tongue; evil-speakings wound the character of another—Augustine, 2.

As newborn babes—Christians have been born again, as told in v. 23 of the preceding chapter. Desire—Long for. Sincere milk of the word—The infant desire the nourishment that nature provides for it, so they who are born of the Spirit long for, and are nourished by, the word of God. That ye may grow hereby—It is God's plan that His children should grow in grace, and he has fully provided for that growth. It only remains for them to co-operate sincerely with Him in that plan. 3. If so be ye have tasted—As they were born of God, and had tasted His goodness, they would naturally desire the same pure, unadulterated milk of the word.—Clarke, 4.

To whom coming—Coming to Christ; not once for all, but continually coming to him for the supply of spiritual needs, a living stone, disallowed indeed of men—Reference is here made to Isa. 28:16. Christ, the only sure foundation, was rejected by those whom he came to save (John 1:11). Chosen of God—God's only-begotten Son. Precious—Christ was despised and rejected by the world, but in the sight of the Father most precious, and the time will come when before Him every knee shall bow. He now has a name which is above every other name. He is precious because of His deity, precious because of His condescension, precious because of the glory He will share with His redeemed ones. 5. We also, as lively stones—Ye also, as living stones.—R. V. They who are born again partake of the nature of their divine Master. They are spiritually alive and are built into Christ's spiritual temple of which He is "the chief corner stone."

II. Christian Temperance (vs. 11, 12). 11. Dearly beloved—Peter is about to exhort the church earnestly to show themselves genuine followers of Christ, and he addresses them with these endearing terms. Beseech—Entreat, urge. As strangers—As sojourners.—R. V. Christians are spoken of as being in a town or country not their own. They have no citizenship there, for they are citizens of the heavenly country. Pilgrims—Travelers. They are making their journey to Mount Zion. Abstain from fleshly lusts—These are enumerated in Gal. 5: 19-21. The child of God is warned against the gratification of every appetite to an extent that would be an hindrance to Him in the divine life, and against every course that would injure His soul. He should use moderation in things that are lawful and abstain from all that is harmful. This exhortation would prohibit the use of alcoholic liquors, tobacco and habit-forming drugs. War against the soul—The interests of the soul suffer when undue attention is paid to eating and drinking, and the gratification of other bodily appetites, and to the accumulation of wealth. 12. Conversation—Conduct, behavior. Honest—Proper, commendable. Among the Gentiles—The Christian is carefully watched, and his conduct will be scrutinized if it is Christlike. As Evil-doers—The pagans among whom Christians lived looked upon them as disregarding their customs, and hence they gave them the reputation of being lawless.

III.—Patient endurance (vs. 19-25). 19. thankworthy—Commendable, for conscience toward God—The Christian has high regard for the voice of conscience. He recognizes it as divinely given to guide him aright, endure grief, suffering wrongfully—One who obeys his conscience is liable to be misunderstood and misrepresented. Unnumbered thousands of God's saints have suffered at the hands of the enemies of Christ for no other reason than because they would obey the voice of God speaking through their consciences to do right. But God—The word means to strike with the hand or fist, to cuff or knock about, faults—Sins or wrong-doing, take it patiently—There is no "glory," or virtue, in enduring with patience the punishment that is deserved. This is acceptable with God—When one carefully and conscientiously obeys God, and because if this obedience suffering is inflicted upon him, and he bears it patiently, God is pleased with the course he has taken and will grant him his blessing. 21. even hereunto were ye called—The Christian is called into fellowship with Christ, to be like him in character and behavior and to share in his sufferings. He left us an example of patient endurance under suffering. 22. who did no sin—Christ was absolutely sinless. There was no guile in him, yet he suffered as an evil-doer. 23. when he was reviled—He was broken against during his ministry, during his trial and during his sufferings on the cross, reviled not again—He did not return evil for evil.

24. bare our sins in his own body—He had no sin for which he deserved to suffer, but he suffered the punishment for our sins, and on the cross paid out his precious life for us, being dead to sins—Having the life of sin destroyed, should live unto righteousness—He whose sins are pardoned through the atonement of Christ lives to please God. He lives in accordance with the principles of righteousness, by whose stripes we were healed—See Isa. 53: 4, 5. 25. as sheep going away—Those to whom Peter was writing were once wandering in ignorance and sin and doomed to be eternally lost. They then accepted no shepherding care. Shepherd and Bishop of your souls—Jesus is called "the good shepherd" because he has a tender care for his flock. The word bishop has in it the idea of oversight. Under Christ's protection, guidance and oversight his flock is secure.

Mitchell, Ind.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me so much during the time I was looking forward to the coming of my little one that I am recommending it to other expectant mothers. Before taking it, sometimes I suffered with neuralgia so badly that I thought I could not live, but after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was entirely relieved of neuralgia, I had gained in strength and was able to go around and do all my housework. My baby when seven months old weighed 19 pounds and I feel better than I have for a long time. Never had any medicine do me so much good."—Mrs. PEARL MONYHAR, Mitchell, Ind.

Good health during maternity is a most important factor to both mother and child, and many letters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., telling of health restored during this trying period by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

of spiritual life. 1. Spirituality. Christianity is distinctively a spiritual type of religion. Its essential experiences lie wholly within the spiritual domain of man's nature. It expresses itself through outward rites, but is essentially distinct from them all. The apostle places a moral resurrection at its threshold. "You hath he quickened." Believers are God's temple. He dwells in them (2 Cor. 6: 16). They are also a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices. God is not worshiped by the works of men's hands, but by the devotion of their hearts. "Abstain from fleshly lusts." Grace does not destroy, but regulates, restrains and directs natural impulses. A loose rein on physical appetites injures soul ruin. 2. Patience. The perfection of patience, i.e., the power to endure peacefully and quietly the unpleasant and afflictive experiences of life, involves the perfecting of all associate graces. "Tribulation worketh patience." 3. Growth. Progress is everywhere the law of created life. When development ceases, decay commences in individual or associated life.

II. Ideals for associated life. Christianity recognizes all the complex relations of human life and fulfills the obligations connected therewith. It teaches helpfulness and consideration for others in our relations with our fellows (Phil. 2: 4). The supremacy of the kingdom of God is the basis of suffering and service. Christianity teaches the purest and highest patriotism. It inculcates respect for properly constituted authority (vs. 12-15). We are commanded to pray for the rulers and those in authority. Christian liberty is not license, nor to be used "as an occasion to the flesh." The ideals of Christianity are the most elevated, its incentives the strongest and its results the most beneficent.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE THE REMEDY FOR KIDNEY ILLS.

Principal of Saskatchewan Schools Tells Out of His Own Experience What to do When the Kidneys are Diseased.

Webb, Sask., Feb. 23rd.—(Special.)—That there is one sovereign remedy for kidney disease and that remedy is Dodd's Kidney Pills is the outspoken opinion of Mr. George Hutchings, principal of the public schools here. "I suffered for two years from diseased kidneys," Principal Hutchings stated. "I was advised about a year ago to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have helped me more than any remedy I have ever tried. I find that my health has been greatly improved. I can conscientiously recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney disease. I would not be without them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They help the kidneys to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. The result is new health and energy. All over the body. Ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Medical historians, seeking traces of influenza epidemics back through the centuries, have gone back to 412 B.C. When there was an epidemic described by Hippocrates and Livius. After that time, however, there is a long break in the history of the disease, if it is the same malady which caused the old epidemics, and the next authentic record is dated 1173 A.D. in that year the illness spread over England, Germany and Italy. For fifty years the disease existed only in sporadic form or in mild epidemics, for it is not until 1229 that another severe epidemic occurred. Since that time there have been frequent visitations in every century and recorded in the histories of many nations.

In the chronicles of 1510 we find the first mention of a pandemic, which spread all over Europe. It had its apparent origin in Africa, and the illness of that year took only a mild form. In 1547 occurred the epidemic in the history of which is found the first mention of the spread of the disease to America. In 1580 there was another pandemic of especial virulence. There were several epidemics in the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. One of them ceased in 1737 and it was currently reported that the cessation was due to earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. In the seventeenth century a disease acquired the name by which it is best known, "influenza." The designation is of Italian origin and means simply "influence." The Italians ascribed the disease to the influence of certain malign stars. The French name, "la grippe," came into use in 1783, and the names "petite peste" and "petit courier" in 1762. Later, in 1780, the widespread character of the epidemic gave it the name "general." Ancient and medieval medical works contain accurate descriptions of the disease, with its symptoms, course and spread.

A curious fact that is recorded in the histories of influenza is its occurrence at sea, on ships and in fleets that had no recent communication with land. In 1782 the English squadron commanded by Admiral Richard Kempford, of the "sloop" which went down with the Royal George, had to return from the French coast to England because the influenza disabled so many members of the crew. Medical history says that the disease never disappears. It exists always, somewhere on earth, but some of the epidemics are far more severe than others. Probably the one that is best remembered by the present generation, before the one that is now scourging the United States and is probably its occurrence of 1918 was that of 1889-90, which spread itself all over the globe.

The disease was rife also in 1893-94 and in 1900 and some authorities say that these later visitations were only recurrences of the epidemic of 1889-90, not new epidemics. Between 1890 and 1891 there was a break which was caused, it is believed, by the summer weather. The great pandemic of 1889 and the subsequent years was often called "the Russian epidemic," because it began its course in Bokhara, in Asiatic Russia. From Bokhara it spread to Siberia, and then went eastward. It appeared in many cities simultaneously.

Cannot Demand Gold in Britain.

Mr. Knowall was heard to assert the other day that a person could legally demand gold for bank-notes from the Bank of England. He was wrong. You could do so before the war, because the gold standard was based on a rule which provided that the Bank of England note issue must be backed up by a certain amount of gold held by the bank. The gold standard, however, could not be observed when war broke out.

The bank is now under no obligation to redeem its notes in gold as was formerly the case, and the Treasury have issued Treasury Notes to the value of 316 millions, which are legal tender for the payment of debts. Neither can the holders of these demands that they should be redeemed in gold.

The gold standard received its final blow on April 1, 1919, when the export of gold was prohibited. Nations carry on their trade by barter. We send so much goods to the Argentine, for instance, and they send us so much goods. If there is a balance between the two, it is satisfied by the export of gold. Now that our gold reserves have fallen very low, it is estimated that at the moment they are only amount to some twenty million pounds—the Government has prohibited the export. Consequently, we must do our foreign business by the export of goods or on credit.—Tit-Bits.

A GRAVE STATEMENT.

(Halifax Recorder.) In a little town in Scotland the grave-digger has been induced to give up his habit of hard drinking. At a public meeting he related his experience. "I can honestly tell you," he said, "that for a whole month I have not touched a drop of anything. I saved enough to buy me a braw oak coffin, wif brass handles and brass nails—an' if I'm a teetotaler for another month I shall be wantin' it."

BIG GAME

(By Katharine Tyndal.)

The man who had been Mendick's prisoner simply happened to get 100 near the borders of Abyssinia, hunting lions in Somaliland, and was imprisoned for a month to teach him better manners. It was a very easy captivity, and he had a delightful goaler in an Abyssinian rank, who looked on his prisoner with an easy toleration. "What do you want to shoot tigers and lions for?" For the skin? I will send some of my hunters out, and they will bring you many skins." And again: "What do you want to shoot elephants for? For the tusks? Come with me, and I will show you many tusks." Saying which, he led him to a courtyard where there was a pile of elephant's tusks. "Any of these you can take away with you," he said.

A FOREST DINNER.

Once, when he was in the depths of Basutoland with a friend, they were told there was another white man lion-shooting, somewhere in the forests. They tracked him down with some difficulty, and found that he was a certain Russian, Prince Boris, shooting big game on his own, solitary except for his hunters. But they found him living in considerable luxury, carrying about with him the things that go to make up a civilized meal—table silver and linen, and some champagne. He gave them quite

SIR WILLIAM'S WILL

CHAPTER XXX.

The days, the weeks, the months, dragged along wearily for Jack, and he was given every opportunity of realizing the grim fact that success and wealth cannot of themselves bring happiness.

They had found gold in even larger quantities than Choche had expected, and Jack's third share already amounted to that which in less plethoric days than these would have been considered a fortune. Choche was, naturally, in a state of continual satisfaction, and every night, as they sat beside their fire and smoked, he indulged in the anticipatory joy of planning the delightful future which his wealth would secure for him. He was going back to England when all the gold had been got, going to have a high old time in London, then buy a farm and settle down as a country gentleman.

"I suppose you'll do the same kind of thing, Douglas," he remarked one night. "A man can't do better with his money than settle down in the dear old country, and you're just cut out for that line; you're a gentleman already made, whereas I shall have to learn the part. I can see you in a big old mansion of a place, married to a nobleman's daughter, or some such kind of swell, hunting the hounds and sitting on the Bench. Yes, you will be in your proper place, then."

Jack always evaded these questions with a shrug of the shoulders, and deftly changed the subject. He knew that no return to England was possible for him, and that he should probably end his days at Parraluna or Silver Ridge; he would never go back to claim Clytie, to exact of her the consequences of her sacrifice.

Jack was not given to brooding at the worst of times—few healthy men are—and, indeed, there was too much occupation for his mind to permit of much brooding. The work was incessant, and the overseeing of it, which he shared with Choche, entailed a large responsibility; and, in addition to the ordinary cares of so great an undertaking, the two men were harassed by a larger influx of lawless and rowdy element to Red Gulch. Against this large number of desperadoes the Silver Ridge men had all they could do to hold their own. Depredations were frequent, and theft, large and small, was always occurring; sometimes the offenders were captured in the act, and Jack and Choche were compelled, by the necessity of the case, to see that justice was promptly done.

There was a kind of guerrilla warfare between the two camps. The ruffian Snyder, with whom Jack had thrice come in contact, had disappeared; but other ringleaders had taken his place, and had, so to speak, organized the villainy of Red Gulch. Jack had found his greatest difficulty to lie in the conveyance of stores, machinery and similar things from Parraluna to Silver Ridge.

It was not always possible to send sufficient escort to protect them from parties of the Red Gulch desperadoes, who somehow or other contrived to learn the dates on which the stores were dispatched, and now and again succeeded in intercepting the wagons and making off with the more portable property. Jack and Choche had issued a notice, in the shape of a warning, that these highwaymen of the backwoods would, if caught in the act, and in the event of their offering any resistance, be shot on the spot; and the notice had, for a time, restrained the gang. Great caution was used also in starting the wagons secretly, so that a large escort should not be necessary, for every man was wanted at the digging. And Jack was beginning to flatter himself that no further attempt need be made to hold up the supply.

But his confidence was rudely dispelled. One evening, just as the men had knocked off, Choche came into the but with a disturbed countenance which told Jack that something was the matter.

"Anything wrong?"

"Yes," replied Choche, going for his gun and hurriedly putting on his riding-boots. "Those fellows at Red Gulch have found out by some means or other that the wagon started last night. Teddy brought me the news. Sharp lad, that boy. He was scouting round their camp before dawn this morning, and he saw four men, the worst of them, ride out of the camp. They went eastward, but today, knowing that they could have no business in that direction, started to strike the Parraluna road, and presently he saw my gentlemen coming out to it; they had made a round to divert suspicion. Teddy made for home for all he was worth, and has just brought me the news. The boy was pretty high worn out, and I gave him some grub and made him turn in. Teddy will find his wages raised from next Saturday, eh, Douglas?"

"There is a future before Teddy," said Jack, quietly, as he got his gun and filled his cartridge-belt.

"I told them to get your horse ready," said Choche; "and I've got two men, old Parraluna hands, waiting with it under the clump of trees in the hollow. And I told them to hold their tongues. We want to work this little affair quietly, and to down these fellows red-handed. We'll tie 'em up and send them to the nearest magistrate."

"It's rather a heavy lot of supplies we expected, isn't it?" said Jack.

Choche nodded gravely. "Yes, things we want badly. Are you ready?"

"Quite," said Jack, cheerfully, "and I'm looking forward to the fun. We don't get too much diversion, as the Irishman would call it, and it will be a pleasant change."

They found the two Parraluna men waiting for them under the trees, and, almost in silence, they rode in the direction of Parraluna. It was the long before they came here, and they put their horses to a quicker pace. They were running over with suppressed excitement, but presently they received a check. The horse of one of the Parraluna men went lame, and grumbling and swearing fearfully, the man had to return to the camp.

"Three will be enough," remarked Choche, with unabated cheerfulness.

Jack rode by his side, the cool night air fanning his cheeks. For the moment he had forgotten the work in which he was engaged, and was feeling the soft breeze of the Cornish coast, as it filled the sail of the boat in which Clytie sat so close to him that he could touch her. His thought of her was very vivid that night, and he started from his dream of that happy past, when Choche exclaimed, as he bent forward in his saddle and peered through the mist:

"There are the wagons!"

They rode up quickly, then pulled up aghast. The wagons were there right enough, but they were huddled together; some of the horses were browsing on the short turf with their cut harness hanging to them, and a group of men were bending over something lying in their midst. Jack rode up to them and they sprang up from their knees.

"What's happened?" he asked, as he dropped from his horse.

"We've been held up, Mr. Douglas," said one of the men. "Took by surprise coming through the trees there, or they wouldn't have got the best of it. We put up a right, but they'd drawn on us first, and one of us was shot."

Jack knelt beside the man who had been wounded and examined him. He was unconscious.

"I don't know this man," said Jack.

"No, sir," was the reply. "He is a stranger; he came with the ladies."

"Ladies? What ladies?" Jack asked, glancing toward one of the wagons which had a tilt to it.

Three ladies from Parraluna, replied the man. "They were coming out to Silver Ridge with him."

"Oh?" said Jack. "They are in that wagon, I suppose? I'll go and speak to them; they will be frightened out of their lives."

"They are not there," said the man, reddening and biting his lip. "They've been carried off."

Jack, who had taken a step or two in the direction of the wagon, pulled up short.

"Carried off!" he said. "Who were they—Mrs. Jarrow—"

"No, Mr. Douglas," replied the man; "three lady visitors, from England. I think. They came with this man." Jack leaped on his horse and went to Choche, who was examining the wagons and the harness.

"They have got the money, the money I wanted to pay the men," began Choche; but Jack cut him short.

"They've taken three women," he said. "We must be after them at once, Choche. You and I will be enough; the others can help with the wagon. The hurt man must be put in the tilt one. There is no time to lose; three women and those devils!"

Choche looked up at the sky with the sharp gaze of an experienced scout.

"There is just light enough to track them," he said. "Come in!"

They had to proceed slowly at first, for the mass of footmarks around the spot where the fight had taken place made the track difficult; but they spotted it presently, and were soon keen upon it.

"The old hut!" said Jack, meaning a hut which had been used by outriders. Choche nodded. "It's almost possible for us to get there before they do," he said. "Who are the women?"

Jack shook his head. "I don't know," he replied; "some of the diggers' sweethearts or wives, I expect. These scoundrels will hold them up for ransom."

"Or worse," said Choche, between his teeth.

After a while the ground grew broken, and they had to go cautiously. They were passing through a pine-wood when Jack laid his hand on Choche's arm, for Jack's quick ear had caught the sound of the tap-tap of horses in the open space beyond the wood. The stopped to listen, and a faint cry, in a woman's voice, for help, was wafted toward them. With a rush, they got clear of the wood, and there, in the plain below them, they saw a group of riders, consisting of four men and three women; one man was riding some little distance in advance, leading a horse with a woman on it; behind the other two women were led and guarded by the three men.

"We've got 'em!" said Choche, exultantly. "You take one of the men to the left, and I'll take the one on the right; shoot your man or his horse. I don't care which; it's no time to stand on etiquette; they deserve all they'll get."

He fired almost as he spoke; his man reeled in the saddle and yelled, but kept his seat. Jack fired and brought down the horse of one of the other men. Cries for help rose from the two women, mingled with yells of alarm and warning from the men. Jack raised his gun again; then dropped it suddenly from his shoulder and uttered a cry of amazement and incredulity.

"I know them—the women!" he said brokenly. "One of them is Mary Heaton, the other is—Merciful Heaven, what does it mean!"

He struck his spurs into his horse and tore toward the group. Choche shouted in a kind of frenzy. The three men, no doubt thinking that their pursuers outnumbered them, released the horses of their prisoners and took to flight; but the man who was in advance, looking over his shoulder and seeing that only two men emerged from the wood, still held his captive's bridle, and, urging the horses to their topmost speed, kept on his course.

Jack was the first to come up to the two women, who had been released for Choche had waited a moment or two to take aim at the ruffian in front, but missed him. The two women had slipped from their horses and were clinging together, and Jack almost rode onto them, for he was scarcely conscious of what he was doing.

"Mollie!" he cried. "Mollie! You here! Am I mad! Mary!"

Mollie flung herself upon him, half-frantic with terror, but not on her own account.

"Jack! Jack!" she cried. "Yes, we are here! We came to you! But Clytie!" She looked in the direction in which Clytie had almost disappeared, and wrung her hands.

"Clytie!" he echoed hoarsely, his eyes following hers. Then, springing on his horse and shouting over his shoulder to Choche, "Take them back to the wagon to Parraluna!" he started in pursuit of Clytie and her captor, feeling as if he were moving, acting, like a man in a nightmare; and with only one desire, a desire that burnt in every fibre of his being like a consuming fire—to gain her side, to save her.

Studying Far-off Nyanza.

Rev. John Roscoe, for many years a missionary in Uganda and author of two standard works on the people of the region, left England last April to conduct an expedition into the territory west of Victoria Nyanza, for the purpose especially of studying the various pastoral tribes that occupy the elevated grasslands between Victoria Nyanza and the Western Rift Valley. The cannibal tribes about Mt. Elgon may also be visited. The expedition is expected to be in the field for two years. It will be supervised by a committee of the Royal Society. Mr. James G. F. Zor, the eminent anthropologist and folklorist, has been the leading spirit in launching this undertaking.

THE BEST TONIC FOR NERVOUS PEOPLE

Increase Your Nervous Energy by Building Up the Blood With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Nervous people who have not yet developed a disease that can be recognized and treated by the medical profession have the greatest trouble in finding relief. Irritation, headache, sleeplessness, nervous indigestion, all these discomforts make life miserable but are endured rather than run a doctor's bill without hope of recovery.

Every such sufferer should know the danger of such a condition to the nervous system. Nervous debility and even paralysis may result if the tone of the nerves is not restored by building up the blood. As a tonic for the blood and nerves Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been used with the greatest success. They have a direct action on the blood and therefore enable it to carry to the nerves the elements they need to fully restore their normal function—and at the same time improve the general health. The benefits that follow the use of this medicine is shown by the statement of Mrs. Jenny Marr, R.R. No. 3, Port Rowan, a well known school teacher, who says: "Some years ago I became greatly run down, and was in this condition for nearly a year. A doctor whom I called in said I was suffering from complete nervous prostration. It would hardly be possible to tell all the symptoms of my case, but anyone who has passed through a nervous breakdown will know what I suffered. As I did not seem to improve under the doctor's treatment, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the decision was a fortunate one for me, as I soon found some relief through the use of the pills, and after taking eight boxes I am fully restored to health. To-day I am strong and hearty, without an ache or pain, and feel I am indebted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and can heartily recommend them to anyone suffering from nervous troubles."

You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Some Desert Reptiles.

Quaint and curious are the ways of some reptiles of the desert as revealed by the famous naturalist, Mr. C. L. Camp, who has been studying them in the Colorado Desert.

He tells of some reptiles—the burrowing snake sonora, the gridiron-tailed lizard, the ocellated sand-lizard, and the desert "horned toad"—which actually swim into the loose sand by the strong lateral movements of their heads. The gridiron-tailed lizard is very swift and agile, and when chased will race over the sand at fifteen miles an hour.

Most of the desert reptiles of the Colorado Desert are colored like their surroundings and are difficult to detect. Others can change their colors to suit their surroundings, while not a few of the desert lizards are able to part with their tails very rapidly when they are seized.

There is humor in the ways of desert tortoises. When one meets another—unless both are males, when a fight invariably takes place—each nods its head rapidly up and down as though in salutation, and sometimes noses are touched as they pass.

DISHES FOR INVALIDS

It is not an easy thing to tempt the appetite of the invalid, because the diet of the convalescent is naturally restricted to simple dishes, but variety is just as essential on the invalid's tray as on the dinner table, so here are a few suggestions that may make the lot of the home nurse a bit easier for another week of convalescence:

HAMBURG CREAM.

A dainty dessert is this made from the yolk of an egg, one and a half tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Cook all this over boiling water or in a double boiler until it thickens and add the beaten white of the egg. Serve cool.

HOT CHOCOLATE.

So often hot chocolate, though a very soothing drink for invalids, cannot be served because the boiled milk has a tendency to constipate. Here is a way to make it so that it will not have any harmful effect: Boil about half a cup of water and add to it a teaspoonful of cocoa and one of sugar, mixed thoroughly. Let this all boil up well, add a pinch of salt and a dash of nutmeg, and lastly the cup of milk. Don't let the milk come to a boil, but remove it just before the boiling point. If the milk is not rich enough add a small lump of butter to the boiling water, sugar and cocoa. Instead of nutmeg, a few drops of vanilla will make it very tasty.

ORANGE MILK AND EGG.

A refreshing and nourishing drink for between meals is made in this way: Squeeze the juice of one orange into a glass, beat up the yolk of one egg with a teaspoonful of sugar, add half a cup of milk and add to it the orange juice in the glass. Now add the beaten white of the egg, mix it very carefully through the rest of the liquid. Pour into a fresh glass and serve cool, but not too cold.

BAKED APPLE SURPRISE.

Peel a medium-sized apple very thin, remove the core carefully so that there is not a bit of the hard tissue left. Let the apple bake slowly, sprinkling just a bit of sugar over it to make a syrup. When finished, spoon the space left by the core put a spoonful of orange marmalade or currant jelly, and top the apple with a dab of whipped cream and a candied cherry.

SPANISH SALAD.

Peel and slice one large Spanish onion and one fresh cucumber; slice three tomatoes, and take out the seeds; arrange carefully in a shallow earthen pan, tier upon tier, salting and peppering each to taste, pouring in plenty of oil and vinegar. Last of all, let the salad lie in a cool spot for an hour or two, then sprinkle over it two handfuls of bread crumbs.

EFFECTS OF FROST ON FOOD.

and breaks its shell. Apples contract so much that a full barrel will shrink until the top layer is a foot below the chine. When the frost is drawn out the apples assume their normal size and fill the barrel again. Certain varieties are not appreciably injured by being frozen. If the frost is drawn out gradually, Apples will carry safely in a refrigerating car while the mercury is registering fully 20 degrees below zero.

Potatoes, being so largely composed of water, are easily frozen. Once touched by frost they are ruined.

A MAN OF PARTS.

Census Taker—"What's your husband's business?" Mrs. Dibkins (who takes in washing)—"A contractor."

Census Taker—"What line?" Mrs. Dibkins—"He contracts debts, colds and a jaw whenever he gets a chance."

A NIGHTMARE.

Ethel—"Look there goes Fred. He called me a dream last night."

Bertha—"How funny! It was only last week that Fred was telling me what awful dreams he had."

PAT'S ERROR.

Hogan—"Phwats become as Pat? Hogan—"The poor felly mistook an auto horn for the noon whistle an' stopped work crossing the strata."

WATERDOWN,

ONTARIO

Bell's Early Rival.

The first patent for a practical telephone was granted to Alexander Graham Bell by the United States Patent Office in 1876, but Bell had a close rival for the honors in Elisha Gray, of Boston, whose caveat for an invention "to transmit the tones of the human voice through a telegraphic circuit" was filed a few hours after the Scotchman's application for a patent. Gray had described his invention in a paper communicated the previous year to the American Electrical Society. The Gray and Bell telephones were similar in many particulars, and if Gray had been a few hours earlier in filing his caveat he might have won the honor of being the pioneer of the telephone. After a memorable litigation, however, the honor was awarded by the courts to Prof. Bell. Gray contributed many other important inventions to mankind.

A Painter of History.

Mr. Robert Harris, C.M.G., who died in Montreal recently, had a long and distinguished career, chiefly as a figure and portrait painter. One of his best known works was "The Fathers of Confederation," executed under a commission from the Dominion Government. It contained the figures of thirty-three Canadian statesmen, and was regarded as an accurate representation of them and of great historical value. Unfortunately this painting, which hung for many years in the lobby at the main entrance to the House of Parliament, Ottawa, was destroyed in the fire. Among the offices which he held were President of the Royal Canadian Academy, 1893-1906; president of the Ontario Society of Artists and Director of the Art School, Montreal Art Association, 1883-87. He was created a C.M.G. in 1902.

Dry Dock in St. John, N.B.

Work is being pushed on the Courtenay Bay dry dock and breakwater by the St. John Dry Dock & Shipbuilding Co. An appropriation of £700,000 for the contract has just been made by Parliament. It is anticipated that a British shipbuilding firm will establish a mammoth plant in the vicinity of the dry dock.

Bears Kill Trees.

Hundreds of trees in the Northwest, including Douglas fir, white fir and western white pine—the wood in airplane construction—have been seriously damaged by bears peeling the bark. About 100 trees to the square mile have been peeled.

Scarcity of Pulp Wood.

The bulk of the world's supply of paper is made from spruce and other soft woods, the supplies of which are steadily diminishing. The quantities of soft woods available within the Empire are comparatively small, and so it has come about that the Empire is largely dependent on foreign countries, especially Scandinavia, for its supplies of paper or the wood pulp from which it is made, the chief source of supply within the Empire being Newfoundland and Canada. The Imperial Institute has therefore given special attention to the possible substitutes for wood which are to be found in the grasses growing in tropical and sub-tropical countries. Among these is the tambookie grass of South Africa. This, on examination at the Imperial Institute, was found to give a yield of about 32 per cent. of paper of excellent quality, and the prospects of a paper industry in South Africa based on this material are now being carefully considered. Tambookie grass is by no means the only paper-making material obtained in South Africa, and from the information available it seems likely that the range of materials will enable several classes of paper to be made.—Family Herald.
