By a new act of the Ontario Legislature, those serving on juries of coroners' inquests receive $1 instead of 50 cents for each sitting, they are also allowed 10 cents per mile for travelling expenses.

The delegates to the Provincial Sabbath School Convention, which meets in Brockville from Oct. 23-26, are billeted on the Harvard plan, so the general committee have arranged with the Ladies' Aid of George St. Methodist church to serve meals each day of the convention.

A meeting of Farmers Bank depositors is to be held in the town hall Athens on Friday, Oct. 20, in connection with the attempt to secure aid from the Dominion Government. A petition for this purpose has been signed by local depositors. The amount on deposit here totalled over $19,000.

It is almost a certainty that one of the first requests put before the new Borden cabinet will come from the shareholders and creditors of the defunct Farmers' Bank, in the shape of an application for a royal commission to investigate the origin and dealings of the institution whose wrecking made poor men of a great number of Ontario farmers.

Mr Roy Knowlton left on Tuesday for his home at Athabaska Landing. He will spend a few days in Toronto buying goods before starting for the far north. He expects to cover a part of the distance from Edmonton on the new railway running to the Landing. It is now extremely probable that within a year the Landing will be entered by three railway lines.

Very interesting and profitable services were conducted in St. Paul's Presbyterian church on Sunday last, in commemoration of the 24th anniversary of the church. There was a very large congregation at both the morning and evening service and the able sermons delivered by the Rev. C. E. A. Pocock of Lyn were thoroughly enjoyed. A bright choral service was rendered, in which the choir was assisted by Miss Lee and Mr E. S. Clow.

The Gouverneur correspondent of the Ogdensburg Advance writes: Canada seems to be suffering already from its late vote on reciprocity, as cheese took a tumble there while it was gaining on this side." The Hammond correspondent of the same journal says: "The price of milk advanced from $1.40 to $1.60 per hundred pounds on October 1st. Farmers generally are pleased with the result of the election in Canada going against reciprocity."

In the Ontario Legislature the parties stand. Conservatives 87; Liberals 18; Labour 1. Ten seats of these are vacant,—seven Conservatives and three Liberals. A brief consideration of the power of this great majority will serve to show why the three-fifths clause remains and why people in rural school sections are obliged to pay high salaries to young untrained and unqualified boys and girls for attempting to teach the country children.

Recent New Orleans papers announce that Mr J. B. Bellamy, a few years ago junior clerk in the store of Mr H. H. Arnold, has been appointed to the office of Assistant General Manager in the departmental store of The D. H. Holmes Company, Limited. This is one of the largest stores in the South, and the position provides for a maximum salary of $6,000 per year. Jack's many friends here will be pleased to learn of his preferment.

Chief Burke, of Brockville has instructed his officers to confiscate all toy pistols found on children and to inquire where the purchase of each was made. The statutes forbid the sale of such toys. Twice ever thus. When a smallpox scare strikes a town it is the poor children that have to suffer the pains of vaccination while the dirty adults are allowed to go free. When an agitation against dangerous weapons results in a prohibitory law being placed on the statute books, the children are deprived of their toy pistols and air guns while bare-brained duds and blustering bullies are allowed to stalk around with real guns in their hip pockets. Poor kids!

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

A meeting of the Athens Public Library Board was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening to make arrangements for opening the library and reading room.

Present: Reeve Holmes, (Chairman), G. F. Donnelley, (Secretary), G. W. Beach, M. C. Arnold, T. S. Kendrick, J. H. Sexton (Directors).

The board of directors (excepting Mr Morton) was appointed a board of management, of which Mr Holmes was elected president and Mr M. C. Arnold secretary-treasurer.

On motion, Messrs J. H. Sexton, F. H. Barlow, S. A. Hitsman, Rev. Patterson, Miss Robertson and Mr R. O. White were appointed associate librarians.

The membership fee was fixed at 50c per annum, the payment of this fee now to make a member "good on the books" until the end of December, 1912. The reading room is to be free to all.

On motion, it was resolved that the board of management ask the co-operation of the W.C.T.U. in soliciting members for the library.

After discussion of the whole matter the meeting adjourned until Friday evening, October the 27th. It is thought that in the meantime such progress can be made as will enable the board to open both the library and reading room on November 1.

TELEPHONE FEDERATION

A meeting of representatives of the Leeds and Grenville Rural Telephone Federation was held at the Armstrong House, Athens on Saturday afternoon last.

The President, Mr George Tackaberry, presided, and Mr S. Hollingsworth acted as Secretary.

The following representatives of different companies were present:—

Plan Hollow—Geo. Tackaberry, S. Hollingsworth.

A. G. & R.—Geo. Taplin.
Seeley's Bay—J. A. Steacy.
Lyndhurst—Ziba Jackson, E. J. Suffer.

Kitley—C. A. Wood.
Many matters of interest to the federated lines were discussed, the chief being that of establishing the connecting link between the Addison and Mallorytown lines. This matter has been in abeyance for some time, and while the Mallorytown people have been willing to do their part Addison company have balked, thus defeating the object aimed at by the Federation.

Various ways of securing the desired connection were discussed and the suggestion was finally made that, instead of a trunk line between the two centrals, two party lines be connected up.

This matter was referred to Mr Taylor of Lyn who said he thought the Mallorytown company would accept it as a temporary expedient, providing there was an assurance that a proper connection would be made later.

Mr Taplin said he would refer this proposal to the Addison company and thought the connection might be made this fall.

The matter rested there, but not to the satisfaction of several of the delegates, who claimed that the Addison company had enjoyed in an especial manner the benefits of the Federation, and condemned most vigorously the attitude they had assumed towards this project.

MAKE THE BEST OF IT

The gathering and storing of this season's root crop will be of first importance, especially to farmers in Ontario. Reports received from not a few districts indicate a real scarcity of rough feed. Farmers so situated will have to husband their resources very carefully or live stock will not fare very well the coming winter. And the root crop is not anything to brag about either in many places. The warm weather which we have had during the past few weeks will help roots considerably, and it will pay farmers to let them grow as much as possible before harvesting. Then they should be carefully put away for the winter. The effect of the feed scarcity is noticeable in the increasing number of lean cattle that are arriving on the market. It is useless to advise the farmers to keep these cattle at home until they are better fitted. If the feed supply is scarce he has to do something, and moves along the line of least resistance.

THE WHITE PLAQUE

Consumption in Rural Quebec Very Prevalent.

Royal Commission's Report Concerning Disease.

Montreal, Oct. 16. Striking statements concerning the spread of the "white plague" in this province are contained in the report of the Royal Commission on Tuberculosis, which has just been established. The report includes the following features:

That the death rate from tuberculosis is higher in Quebec than in Ontario or the adjacent states.

That while in other countries the death rate decreased from 40 to 50 per cent. as a result of a well organized campaign, it remained stationary in Quebec.

That the death rate in the rural districts in Quebec nearly equals that of the cities.

That in most cases the victims range between 20 and 45 years of age, when human life is of the most value.

That tuberculosis, like all infectious diseases, can be prevented.

The general cause of tuberculosis is given as the general ignorance of the nature of the disease; contagion in families, in collective life in schools, boarding schools, offices, and workshops; unhealthy dwellings, alcoholism, premature labor of children, excessive labor, and in certain industries, and dusty work.

The measures against tuberculosis itself include an educational campaign showing people that tuberculosis is infectious and is avoidable; compulsory disinfection of dwellings, because it is proved that an infected house can transmit the disease; enforcement of by-laws forbidding expectoration in public places; the creation of anti-tuberculosis dispensaries and isolation of open cases of tuberculosis because the infection of man by man is the chief cause of the spread of the disease.

G. T. R. PLANS

Embrace Many Great Improvements at Brantford.

Brantford, Oct. 16. The elimination of twenty level crossings, the shortening of the route between Brantford and Tilsonburg by about three miles, the establishment of one Grand Trunk terminal depot for all lines, and an industrial switch for Holmedale section will follow from the plans approved by the Dominion Railway Commission at Hamilton on Wednesday. Assurances were given Mayor Bastall by the Grand Trunk Company that work on the cut-off will commence immediately. It is the most important plan of railway construction since the diversion of the main line to this city. The cut-off will traverse the Ontario Institute for the Blind grounds and the waterworks property where a new bridge over the Grand River will be built. At present the Brantford & Tilsonburg line makes a circle of the entire city. This will be eliminated.

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT, Canada's new Governor-General.

WELCOMED ON CANADA'S SHORE

Arrival of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

Addresses of Welcome to Governor-General.

His Royal Highness Makes Gracious Replies.

Quebec despatch: The Duke and Duchess of Connaught, who are to preside over Rideau Hall at Ottawa as representatives of King George for the next few years, arrived at Quebec last evening and landed this morning. They were accorded just such a reception as might be expected from loyal Canadians to members of the Royal household. The streets were joyfully decorated for the occasion and everywhere was manifested the liveliest interest in the reception to the new Governor-General.

His Excellency was received by the Deputy Governor-General, the members of the Dominion Cabinet, the Inspector-General of Militia, the Director of the Naval Service, the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, the Prime Minister of the Province, and the members of the Provincial Cabinet.

As he stepped from the boat the band again broke into the National Anthem, and cheers were given by the thousands who had assembled to do honor to the representative of Great Britain's ruler. A salute of 21 guns was given and as the guns boomed and the band played His Royal Highness was escorted to the carriages which were to convey him and his party to the Parliament building.

The usual ceremonies of installation took place in the legislative council room, and were impressive.

At the appointed time Captain Pellier entered the chamber and introduced to the Under Secretary of State the arrival of their Royal Highnesses and suite and retinue. On the entry of their Royal Highnesses and suite the assembly arose.

His Royal Highness had no sooner seated himself than he rose again and Mrs. Borden came forward and presented the Duchess with a bouquet. The Duke was formally sworn in and upon taking his seat a Royal salute of 21 guns was fired announcing the installation of the new Governor-General. After Lady Groulx had presented a bouquet to the Duchess, Sir Lomer Gouin read an address of welcome followed by the Mayor of Quebec with an address to the citizens.

The Duke replied as follows: "Mr. Prime Minister and Gentlemen: I thank you for the hearty and loyal welcome which in the name of the Province of Quebec you have extended to the Duchess and myself. Your province, rich in historical memories, is usually first to welcome the new Governor-General and bid him God-speed at the end of his term of office. Thus first and last impressions of Canada are fraught with the atmosphere of prosperity and progress, which characterize your beloved land. In days gone by it was the fusion of French and English races which made the greatness of England. Here again history repeats itself and it is their memory which makes your own greatness."

"From Saxon and Norman stock England drew qualities of courage, perseverance and strength, which raised her to her proud position among nations. Here under the wise rule of statesmen, sometimes of British and sometimes of French descent, Canada has achieved an era of development which is the envy of the world."

"I am proud and happy to have been selected by my King to fill the high office of Governor-General and to thus be in a position to follow and promote the remarkable progress of your country. That this progress may, under the protection of Divine Providence, be continued and ever increasing, is my most heartfelt wish, and I am glad to have the opportunity of expressing it to you on my arrival."

Replying to the address of the officers, H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught said:

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart for the cordial welcome. In the name of the Duchess, I also thank you for the graceful expressions with which you have greeted us on arrival in Canadian soil. I shall have pleasure in submitting to the King and Queen your assurances of loyalty and attachment to the Crown. Our stay in Quebec is necessarily short, but we hope to spend a portion of each year of my stay in Canada in your beautiful city."

"Many years have passed since my first visit to Canada. Here long ago I came as a soldier at the outset of my military career, to which I have devoted my life."

"It will be a great pleasure to renew associations of my youth. Although the country has changed, I know Canadian hearts have not changed, and I rejoice to think that in coming here I shall find among you some of the old comrades of my time as a subaltern, with whom I passed many happy hours."

THE ECUMENICAL

Use of Lay Agencies, and Woman's Claims.

Toronto despatch: With the close of the Ecumenical Methodist Conference but four days away, many delegates already are leaving the city, as scores of ministers planned to occupy their pulpits in the United States and Canada on Sunday. A majority of the delegates from other countries will remain throughout the sessions and a number of them will visit American cities to study various phases of church and social work.

Two subjects assigned for to-day's meetings are: "The larger use of lay agencies" and "Woman's claims and responsibilities."

The speakers on the programme included Prof. S. G. Atkins, of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, on "The Laymen's Movement"; Norman T. C. Sargent, of London, Eng., on "Laymen and Home Evangelization"; Richard Lee, of Wigan, Eng., on "Methodism and the Women's Movement"; Mrs. Lucy R. Meyer, of Chicago, Ill., on "Deaconesses and Sisterhood"; and Mrs. George O. Robinson, of Detroit, Mich., on "Woman's Work in the Church."

The problem of retaining the interests of the young people is one of the most frequently discussed at informal meetings in connection with the conference.

Rev. Wm. Bradfield, of Ilexy, Eng., believes that modern children are being brought up too much outside the home. They have all too often no place in their hearts for their parents," he said, "I wish to protest against the somewhat abdication of man in relating to the mother the entire religious training of the child."

MAY BE LYNCHING

Farmers With Ropes Chase Negro Thieves.

Butler, Pa., Oct. 16. — Two negroes early to-day stole into the farmhouse of Mrs. Thos. Watson, in a lonely spot near here, and began to loot the place. Mrs. Watson detected them. They beat the women brutally, leaving her unconscious. Then they went upstairs to search for money. Mrs. Watson revived and, seizing a shotgun, shot one of the negroes in the leg. His companion carried him off to the woods. The woman then telephoned to neighboring farmers.

In less than an hour a posse of one hundred armed farmers was pursuing the negroes. About a dozen farmers in the posse have ropes. It is feared that there will be a lynching if the men are caught. The posse last night came upon a crimson trail in the forest and believe they will have the fugitives shortly.

GIRL KILLED

Dragged at Heels of Frightened Horse.

St. Eugene despatch: Pearl Heustin, the fifteen-year-old daughter of William Heustin, living three miles from here, was accidentally killed this afternoon while leading a horse from a nearby pasture to her home. The young girl had fastened a rope around the animal's neck with a snap, and apparently the end of the rope which she held got tangled round her body, when the horse got frightened and ran away, dragging her some distance under its feet until the snap broke.

She was found by her father with the rope still fastened around her body, her clothing torn and her head split by the horse's shoes.

DOG ATTACKS BURGLAR.

London, Ont. despatch: An Irish setter, belonging to Mr. A. E. Ferte, a well-known resident of Hellmuth avenue, attacked a burglar on the verandah as the intruder attempted to gain entrance to the house early this morning. The dog aroused the family, but the man escaped after lashing the dog ferociously.

WOMEN WIN.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 16. — Overcoming an adverse majority of 16,000 in this city and Oakland, the voters of country districts have given victory to the cause of women suffrage by a margin of something more than 2,000. With returns missing from 400 precincts, suffrage has a majority of about 1,900 which is gaining steadily as the figures come in.

RUSSIAN CORN WARNS TURKEY

Russia's Corn Cargoes Not Subject to Capture

Under Certain Conditions Laid Down by Her.

Depends on Declarations of Paris and London.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 16. — The text of the Russian note to Turkey regarding the free port of Russian corn was made public to-day. In reply to a verbal remonstrance, Turkey had said that she intended to act according to the Declaration of London in 1909.

As this was considered unsatisfactory to Russia, this government presented a written demand, wherein it was pointed out that Russia basing her position upon the Declaration of Paris of 1856 and articles 24 and 33, in the Declaration of London, considered that cargoes of corn were subject neither to arrest nor confiscation when addressed to Russian ports in the Black Sea or to Italian ports, so long as the cargoes were not destined for the Italian field forces or Italian official consignees.

The note includes: "Any attempt to arrest and confiscate the above-mentioned cargoes Russia will regard as a violation of the rights of Russia, and the government gives warning of the heavy responsibility Turkey will incur in such cases."

Turkey has not replied, but as the ships with corn have not been unloaded it is presumed that the Ottoman government intends to observe article 31 of the Declaration of London.

Article 24 of the Declaration of London deserves articles including foodstuffs and grain which may be treated as conditional contraband of war. Article 33 explains "conditional contraband" as articles liable to capture if shown to be destined to be used for the purposes of a war in progress. Article 34 sets forth that the destination referred to in the preceding article is presumed to exist if the shipments are consigned to an enemy or the contractor of an enemy, but where these presumptions do not arise.

ITALY HAS MORE TO SEND.

Rome, via frontier, Oct. 16. — Although the government considers that the present expedition of 40,000 men will be sufficient for the complete occupation of Tripoli, the Minister of War has prepared for an additional expenditure in case of need.

This is composed of six regiments of foot soldiers, including two from the regular infantry, two from the Alpine district and two sharpshooters, with a contingent of cavalry and artillery, numbering in all 50,000. This reserve force is prepared to reach Tripoli within forty-eight hours.

A report from Tripoli says that General Caneva, commander-in-chief of the Italian forces in Tripoli, is awaiting the arrival of the final contingent of the first expedition before he begins an immediate march into the interior.

Four aeroplanes have arrived from France. They will be sent to Tripoli, where it is proposed to make the first experiments in the use of flying machines in actual warfare. They will be piloted by Italian officers, who will undertake to drop bombs into the enemy's encampment.

WOMEN REJOICE

Dr. Shaw, and Mrs. Pankhurst on California.

New York, Oct. 16. — The National headquarters of the Women's Suffrage organizations are in gala dress to-day over the news of their victory in California.

"We are gloriously happy," declared Dr. Anna Shaw, National President of the Suffrage party. "This is the beginning of the end. The victory in California gives to the cause as many votes as in the five other States where we have previously won. Kansas, Oregon, Wisconsin and other western States are bound to follow the lead at the next election."

"The woman suffrage party is soon to be a great power in the political campaign in fact has become so now. That California is won, President Taft this week made his first speech about woman suffrage and spoke in favor of it."

Mrs. Pankhurst, the English suffragette leader, declared: "The news is worthy of great rejoicing. English women will be particularly glad because it will be a great help in our campaign."

GIFT FOR OTTAWA

Ottawa, Oct. 16. — Sir Sandford Fleming has written the city offering to secure as a gift to the city the material which composed the gateway to the home of Champlain at Bronage, France, and have it brought to Ottawa if a suitable memorial park will be laid out along the Ottawa River.

BLACK KNIGHT STOVE POLISH

It used to be that the dirtiest and hardest work a woman had to do about the house was polishing the stoves.

"Black Knight" Stove Polish has made it so work and no muss at all.

"Black Knight" is a smooth paste, that is spread easily with a cloth or brush and shines like a black diamond after a few gentle rubs.

It cleans as it polishes—keeps the stoves fresh and bright, with almost as little trouble as polishing one's shoes.

See, buys a big can of "Black Knight,"—at your dealer's, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.

MEN—YOU NEED NERVE

EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that debilitates them will weaken all organs of the system. Early Indiscretions and Excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural Drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weaklings, mentally, physically and sexually. How do you feel? Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, debilitating dreams, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

This is the condition our New Method Treatment is GUARANTEED TO CURE. We have treated Diseases of Men for almost a lifetime and do not have to experiment. Consult us FREE OF CHARGE and we will tell you whether you are curable or not. We guarantee curable cases of NERVOUS DEBILITY, VARICOSE VEINS, BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES, GLEET, BLADDER URINARY AND KIDNEY COMPLAINTS. Free Booklet on Diseases of Men. A 'CROSS COUNTER TALK

Customer: "How do you know the colors in Sherwin-Williams Paint, Prepared, are durable?"
Dealer: "The colors in S.W.P. are durable and lasting because of the high qualities of raw materials used, the care taken in manufacture and the skill employed in mixing and grinding. The S.W. Co. has its own dry color plant and produces dry colors second to none for brilliancy and strength; operates its own linseed oil mill and manufactures all pure linseed oil for S.W. Products; has its own lead and zinc mines, and employs a large staff of chemists to maintain the standard of all raw materials and finished products."
"With materials of such quality, combined with the thorough assimilating they receive in mixing and grinding, it is insured the most permanent and durable colors it is possible to manufacture. S.W.P. wears as long as any paint can wear and retains its brightness and freshness for the greatest possible time."

PROTECTING THE FISH

Canada Has a Fleet of Sixteen Little Vessels.

In order to protect Canadian fisheries from the encroachment of foreign fishermen, and to protect insular waters from poaching, illegal fishing, and the use of prohibitive tackle and gear, the Dominion Government maintain a little navy of some sixteen vessels, of which little is known to the ordinary citizen. Armed with one or two quick-firing guns and searchlights, these little craft patrol their respective waters, and, besides their fishery protection duties, they are also the embodiment of Dominion law among the many citizens of the fishing world. With the Grand Bank fleet, the sealers, and the lobstermen of the east coast, and the white fish trawlers of the Lakes and the salmon, herring and halibut fishermen of the Pacific, there is always to be seen trim little yellow-funnelled steamers cruising among the fishing craft pursuing their vocations. They are ubiquitous, and have an unhappy knack of turning up in unexpected places—a fact which makes the fish poacher's work exciting, and causes him to keep a watchful eye upon the horizon. As soon as the tell-tale smudge of smoke smears the sea line, he prefers to abandon trawls, seines and gear, and fly, to ranging on and trusting that the steamer's identity may be other than that of a fishery cruiser.

The finest vessel of the Protective fleet is the "Canada"—a small, third-class cruiser. She was the first vessel of Canada's navy, and is a twin screw vessel. Her speed is 17 knots, which makes her especially feared, as no sailing schooner or fast steam trawler can get away from her, and, besides, she has other arguments in the shape of four 1-1/2 pound automatic quick-firing guns.

Her station is principally off the Nova Scotia coast and in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

The cruiser Vigilant is employed upon the Great Lakes, and has been the means of capturing many of them while fishing within the three-mile limits. The Vigilant carries a crew of 30 officers and men.

In the Gulf and River St. Lawrence the cruiser Progress makes her patrols. The Curlew is also employed patrolling the Gulf of St. Lawrence and New Brunswick waters. And the Constance—a similar vessel to the Curlew—is employed around Prince Edward Island. She was built at Owen Sound in 1891.

The east coast of Nova Scotia station and Cape Breton Island is patrolled by the cruiser Petrel—a vessel of similar dimensions to the Curlew and Constance. During the season of 1909 she boarded American fishing vessels over one hundred and thirty times, and seized over five thousand miles while on patrol.

Smaller vessels patrolling inshore waters of the east coast are the Hudson, 34 tons; Nelson, 19 tons; Thirty-Three, 79 tons; and the Ostrera, which is employed in the Prince Edward Island oyster culture service.

Upon the waters of Lake Winnipeg the screw steamer Lady of the Lake maintains the fishery laws. Upon the Pacific waters of Canada are five fishery protection vessels, the largest of which is the wooden screw steamer Kestrel, built at Vancouver in 1908. She is 126 feet long, 24 feet beam, 19 feet deep, and 311 tons gross, with a mean sea speed of 10 knots. Although she is assisted by the smaller steamers Falcon, Georgia, Restless, and Alcedo, the Kestrel is probably the hardest worked fishery cruiser in the service. Not only employed in protecting the fisheries, the little cruiser is kept busy preventing smuggling, assisting at strandings, locating sunken wrecks, and inspecting life-saving stations and local customs houses along a mighty stretch of dangerous coast. It is to the credit of her officers and crew that in all her seven years' commission she has never had an accident.—Canadian Courier.

'Twas His Brother.

Hon. J. J. Foy is Attorney-General for Ontario, and his brother, "Gus," is a police court clerk for Toronto.

It came to the ears of the police officials of Toronto that some of the city's Jews were got out summonses, were making offers to the summoned ones to not press cases if money were paid to those who had got out the much-feared papers. That using of the papers as a club had to be stopped. The police officials decided that summonses would not be issued unless there was some clear evidence of the need for giving out the papers.

To "Gus" Foy fell the duty of refusing some of the men who wanted a summons. To the ones who were refused, that looked like injustice, so they got a deputation together, saw Hon. Mr. Foy and asked him to remove "that man" who refused to issue summonses. The Attorney-General listened carefully to the complaint and promised to look into it.

"Jackie" Cohen, one of Toronto's best known Jews, is a police magistrate for the city and knows well the condition of the Jews who believe they have occasion to go to the police court clerk.

So the Attorney-General had "Jackie" go to see him and explain matters.

"By the way, who is 'that man' they want removed?" asked Mr. Foy.

"Why," he said, "that's 'Gus'—Canadian Courier.

PIONEER ON PRAIRIES.

Archibald McDonald Was a Power With the Indians.

With the retirement from the service of the Hudson Bay Co. of Mr. Archibald McDonald, chief factor at Fort Qu'Appelle, there disappears the last officer of the old company to bear the title with which readers of books of northern travel and of northwest history are so familiar. As for many years there have been no resident commissioners of the H. B. Co., so, in future, there will be no chief factors. They will be known in future as managers or agents. Mr. McDonald is a veritable pioneer among pioneers. He is believed to have lived longer in the region which is now known as the Province of Saskatchewan than any other white man now living, and as such was accorded special honor at the inauguration of the new province. He is also the oldest member of the Manitoba Club, Winnipeg, having joined it in 1874, the year of its formation.

Mr. McDonald is a native of Inverness, Scotland, and came to Canada by way of Hudson Bay fifty-seven years ago. He was on the site of what is now the city of Winnipeg in the winter of 1854, and before the beginning of the "sixties" had travelled over all the trade routes in the far West. Before 1870 he made thirteen trips with York boats from Lake Winnipeg to York Factory on Hudson Bay, taking down furs for export to England and carrying back supplies for the posts along the Saskatchewan and in the Red River Valley. When Wolsey's expedition went out to the Red River settlement in 1870, to put down the first Riel uprising, Mr. McDonald was already considered an "old-timer," and his services in keeping the Indian tribes in the Qu'Appelle Valley quiet were acknowledged.

When General Middleton, in 1855, organized at Qu'Appelle the little force with which he smashed Riel's last rebellion, he naturally depended much for advice upon the old Chief Factor at the H. B. Co. fort, and the veteran's advice was sound. Mr. McDonald has always exercised great influence over the Indians, to such an extent, in fact, that Lord Strathcona is credited with having remarked that Mr. McDonald's presence at Qu'Appelle was worth 1,000 additional men in the field. Mr. McDonald was present at Fort Qu'Appelle in 1874, when Treaty Number One was negotiated with the Indians. This was the first of the Canadian treaties with the natives of the Northwest, and considerable diplomacy was necessary to obtain the consent of the Indians, for the Dominion Government was an unknown institution to them, and the treatment meted out to their brothers in the U. S. made them suspicious of every body but the British Government and H. B. Co. There were assembled at Fort Qu'Appelle to discuss this treaty no less than 5,000 Indians, and the Canadian Commissioners were Lieutenant-Governor Morris, of Manitoba, and the Hon. David Laird, afterwards Governor of the Northwest Territories. The Northwest Mounted Police had not yet been organized, and as an escort for the commissioners a portion of the Canadian permanent corps, then in garrison at Garry, was marched across the prairie. That the treaty was successful was largely ascribed to the influence exercised over the Indians by Mr. McDonald and his brother Chief Factor, Mr. J. W. McLean. The territory ceded by the Indians under this treaty included the western part of Manitoba, and practically the whole of the present province of Saskatchewan. Surely Mr. McDonald is entitled to be classed among the makers of the Canadian West.—Charterfield in Family Herald and Weekly Star.

Doukhobors Doing Well.

This year the Doukhobor colony at Verigin has ten thousand acres in crop, seven thousand in oats, and three thousand in wheat. Flax is also grown to some extent. Horse ranching as an industry has also grown to considerable proportions. A few years ago cattle and sheep farming was an important factor, but the Doukhobors felt that such a practice was inconsistent with their religion, which forbids the taking of life. Now only enough cattle and sheep are kept to supply milk and wool to the colony. This spring Mr. Verigin intimated that all the men between the ages of 18 and 60, except those needed for the manning of the brickyard, etc., should go out among "the English" and bring back this fall each $200 to his own village. Of course they went. "Their not to make reply."

The brick yard employs 14 men, and this season will export 1,000,000 bricks. Into the great mixing bins the clay is dumped where the power of the great engines mixes it freely. Then into the moulds and on to the trays it goes, after which the formed bricks are shipped along the trolleys to the drying sheds. After so many days there, according "as the sun she is," they are carried to the immense kilns where for nine days and nights 235,000 are at one time kept under steady fire.—Manitoba Free Press.

Tablets For Cabinets.

Tablets giving the names of the members of the Cabinets of Ontario Confederation are to be placed in the new library wing of the Parliament Buildings at Toronto. They will be placed in the corridor leading from the main staircase in the old building to this new wing to the north. It is understood that it is proposed to erect tablets giving the names of the members of the Legislatures since 1867. But it is feared that there is not sufficient space for this big undertaking.

George W. Gounlock, the architect of the new wing, confidently expects to have it ready for occupation by the New Year. The stone work is now complete, save for the carving. The roof is now on and the floors are all in now.

The whole building is absolutely fireproof. The outside window casings are all metal, the window glass is wire meshed and fireproof and each window has a metal curtain which drops automatically when fire breaks out. The library will have fireproof fittings as well as the various offices on the ground floor.

TOMB IN A TOWER.

A Remarkable Edifice, the Whim of a Wealthy Tea Planter.

Near the well known seaport of Southampton, England, there is a remarkable edifice known as Petersen's tower. The erection is all the more singular because it marks the burying place of a certain John Petersen, a wealthy tea planter.

The man appears to have been rather an eccentric individual, and in order to prove to the world his belief in concrete as a building material set about the construction of this great tower. The building took many years to complete, but is entirely of concrete and by the time the final layers had been placed had reached an altitude of more than 300 feet.

As has been indicated, Petersen left instructions that his body should be placed under the tower, and this was accordingly carried out. Another desire that the chamber at the summit should contain a light was defeated by the firm stand which Trinity House, the lighthouse authority, took on the matter.

PULLING THE COURT'S LEG.

A Practice the English Judge Did His Best to Discourage.

The following remarkable judgment was delivered some years ago by a magistrate in one of the English colonies: "Pachus is hereby charged with having on the 11th of January followed the court on its rising and while said court was in the act of mounting into its buggy came from behind and, setting the court's dangling leg, the other foot being on the step, forcibly pulled back the court, frightened the horse and nearly caused an accident.

Strange to relate, the Lieutenant governor of the province on reading this sentence felt it necessary to intimate to the magistrate that neither the sentence itself nor the peculiar phraseology in which it was couched was calculated to meet with approval from minds running in legal grooves.

Berne and Its Bears.

Berne is surrounded by the blue green river Aare, and seven bridges cross into the picturesque suburbs; the view of the Alps is one of the finest to be had. One may walk through the streets of Berne, writes an American visitor, and find constant surprises. The odd fountains will be observed with interest. They were mostly built in the sixteenth century.

When the Guitar Arrived.

The advent of the English guitar in the eighteenth century caused the disappearance of bandores, pollphants and similar wire strung instruments, or rather, it supplanted them, for, owing to the use of fingers, the English guitar, though smaller, could be used for accompanying the voice as well as for solo performances.

Fish Delusions.

There are two popular delusions about fish—one that they cannot live out of water and the other that they can live in any pure water, the food supply taking care of itself. As a matter of fact, there are fish in Africa which, having no exist in absolutely dry rivers for a portion of the year, have developed lungs, while in many an amateur's aquarium fish cannot live in the water provided owing to lack of food.

Suspicious.

"Very suspicious man, they say." "Very. Bought a dictionary last week, and now he's counting the words to see if it contains as many as the publishers claim."

True Courage.

True courage has so little to do with anger that there lies always the strongest suspicion against it where this passion is highest. True courage is cool and calm.

Cheerful.

"She's of a very cheerful disposition, isn't she?" "Yes, indeed. She even sings while washing dishes."—Detroit Free Press

W. J. CURLE, Sup.

Sweet Miss Margery

What explanation would she give him? Perhaps none; and he had no right to demand any. The difficulties of the situation seemed to become greater and greater as he pondered it in his mind. He moved from the window, and walked slowly up and down the room. Margery the girl he was about to see in a far-distant clime, was under the same roof with him at that very instant, the wife of his host, the Earl of Court. It was inexplicable. His mind could find no solution to the problem; he could but wait for morning light.

Stuart was not the only one who was awake and disturbed that night. Margery, clad in a silk dressing gown as white as her cheeks, was pacing the floor of her chamber. She had pleaded illness, and begged to be left with Pauline; and, once alone, she sent her maid into the dressing room and sought the battle with herself in solitude. If sorrow, despair, anguish, had come to her before, they visited her now with redoubled force. It seemed to her the very irony of fate, a mockery of her good intentions, that she should be so blind at such a moment—a moment when she had thought herself a conqueror over her weakness. Of what avail had been her struggles, her earnest prayers, her resolutions? The sight of Stuart's grave, handsome face, the intoxication of his presence, had left her weak; the memory of his insults, his deceit, had banished everything but the knowledge that she loved him still. She longed for the weary night to pass, yet dreaded the coming of morning, when she must meet him, speak to him, when his every word would be as a dagger thrust into her heart.

Dawn was creeping over the sky when, thoroughly wearied and ill, she flung herself upon her bed. As she lay, her eyes, on the apparition ring that she wore, and the memory of Edith—her patient, her suffering, her courage—came into her heart. Then her mind wandered to her husband, and to all his great goodness; and, remembering this, she sent up a fervid prayer for strength to do her duty to this man; and, as the shining plea left her heart, she grew comforted.

"And grief shall endure not forever, I know; As things that are not still these things be; We shall live through seasons of sun and of snow, And none be grievous as this to me. We shall hear, as one in a trance that hears The sound of time, the rhyme of the years; Wrecked hope and passionate pain will grow As tender things of a springtide sea."

Stuart left his room early, and, despite the cold, gloomy morning, made his way into the grounds to think, and nerve himself for the coming ordeal. He looked pale and wan; his eyes had never closed all night; his thoughts had never left him. His task was ended, he told himself—his cousin was found. He must just state the truth, and then go away from her fair, false sweetness, back to the long, straight path of duty, back to the woman who had loved him so long and so well, back to his pledged word and the burden of life.

He was walking on, and beneath the leafless trees, his heart almost as dead and withered as the leaves beneath his feet, when a cheery voice hailed him, and, turning, he saw the earl.

"You are out early, Crosbie," called Lord Court, as he approached. "I saw you from my windows." Then, in a tone of surprise, he added: "But you look ill; is anything the matter?"

"I did not sleep well," returned Stuart, hurriedly, "for I have had a shock. I am going to tell you all about it."

"A shock," repeated the earl, with a smile. "Don't say the matter is haunted. I believe it is most unorthodox not to have a family ghost, but I have never heard yet that you have one."

"It is not a ghost; it is a reality. I meant to have spoken to you last night, but I was so surprised that I could hardly realize the truth of what I saw. I will explain now."

"Come indoors," said Lord Court, looking a little bewildered; "it is scarcely suitably out here. Now, Crosbie, I am all attention—begin." As they entered the house.

slowly; "the news is rather sudden." He passed for a little. "There is no mistake—you are sure?"

"I am sure," answered Stuart, emphatically. "The earl was silent for a minute, then his face cleared and brightened. He put out his hand to Stuart, who grasped it silently."

"I can think and speak now. My darling has found her rights, and she is your cousin. The feeling of friendship for you which came so strongly to me, Crosbie, has now a solid basis beneath it. How happy she will be! And yet it is sad, at one and the same moment, almost, to find a father and lose him. Fate must have led her to his bedside on that day. Thank Heaven he saw her once before he died! Come—let us go in and tell her. Words seem so feeble to-day that I can not express half what I feel. The mystery of her birth has hung over my darling like a dark cloud; and now by Heaven's mercy it is gone, and she will be free and happy."

They turned and walked in silence along the hall, Pauline was tripping down the stairs.

"Mhadi is in the south room—she would attend the dejeuner," the girl said; and the earl walked quickly down a long corridor to a door hung with heavy curtains.

"We will tell her now," he whispered; and in another moment they were in the room.

Stuart's vision was obscured for the first few seconds, then it cleared, and he saw a slender, graceful girl with fair pale cheeks and a wreath of red gold curls before him. She had her hand clasped in the earl's, and, as his senses returned, Stuart saw her deep-blue eyes grow dark with surprise, and her face become whiter than the folds of the heavy serge gown that draped her.

In a soft, low voice, tender and passionate, the earl told her; and Margery stood beside him, hearing nothing save the words: "We will tell her now," saying to the earl, "Tell me every thing."

Lord Court put his lips to her hand. "Crosbie will do that, my darling; he is your cousin now, you must remember. Give him your hand, and bid him welcome to your home as your kinsman and your friend; you were too ill last night to do so."

Margery's heart seemed to stand still, then, nerving herself for the effort, she stretched out her hand.

"You are welcome, cousin," she said, in a faint voice.

Their fingers met for an instant, then dropped apart; and Margery turned away, feeling that the agony of this meeting was almost greater than she could bear.

The earl drew her gently toward him, and, standing with her husband's arm around her, Margery heard the story of her father's sorrow and her mother's martyrdom slowly but distinctly from Stuart, Crosbie's lips. The words went home to her heart; the despair, the misery, caused her unspoken pain; and tears rained from her eyes.

obliged to confess that he was quite exhausted and could walk no further. The earl was full of contrition for his thoughtlessness.

"Come back to the house. Would you prefer to go to your own room? If not, rest in my den. I can answer for its silence and coziness."

Stuart preferred the "den"; the mystery of the previous night haunted him—he hated the thought of his luxurious bedroom. The earl led the way to the north wing of the house, and, going to the extreme end of a corridor, pushed open the door of an apartment that seemed to be quiet and quaint, and at the end branched off into another room which led through a long French window to the grounds. Lord Court closed the door between the two rooms, and, pushing a chair to the fire, made his guest comfortable, handing him at the same time the batch of newspapers that had just arrived from London.

"Now you are settled," he said, generally. "You look as if sleep would not come amiss; and, such being the case, I shall have no hesitation in leaving you. I must drive to Beverley Town, a good distance away; I have an important interview on hand with a troublesome tenant. I shall be back, however, before dinner. Are you sure you would be bored?"

Stuart replied in the negative, and, after seeing him cosily ensconced, Lord Court quitted the room, and made his way to the stables.

Left to himself, Stuart leaned back wearily, and gave way to thought. Once again the struggle raged between duty and desire. The love that he had thought was treated only for his ideal lived for the woman who had deceived him, and swept away all memory of that other girl who through all her trouble and sorrow had soothed and helped him. There was everything to call him away, yet he felt he could not go until he had gazed once more on the delicate beauty that had seemed to him the personification of truth and sweetness in the summer that was gone. There was something altogether strange and incomprehensible in Margery's marriage. The earl had casually mentioned the love that his dead sister had had for his wife, and Stuart would have followed up the remark in order to learn how it was that the village girl had become the Countess of Court; but the earl would talk of nothing but Sir Douglas Gerant and the wonderful discovery of his daughter.

Stuart tooped up his paper and forced himself to read; but the words seemed to run into each other, and his mind refused to be diverted from the mystery and perplexity that tormented him. As he lay back wearily gazing into the glowing coals, he saw his duty clearly—he must leave the manor and put every barrier between Margery and himself. Vane had been true, faithful, devoted; to her he would return, and by earnestness and determination try to thrust out all remembrance of his false love from his heart, and forget that she ever existed.

The struggle was clear and well defined. A sense of peace stole over him; the fire-light flickered amid the fast-growing shadows. Stuart's head drooped, his eyes closed, and his troubled spirit was soothed in slumber.

The afternoon grew into winter dusk; the fire had settled in a glowing mass of red embers, and not a sound disturbed the silence. Presently the door was opened gently, a white hand pushed aside the curtain, and Margery stood in the chair.

"I was dreaming," he answered, hurriedly; "but I am awake now, Lady Court."

The color faded from Margery's face. "Your husband has gone to Beverley Town," Stuart continued, in a voice that sounded strange in his own ears. "He settled me comfortably in his own den" before starting, and told me that he would be home to dinner."

Margery bowed her head, and turned toward the door, when Stuart moved forward as if to arrest her.

"As I shall leave you this evening," he said, hurriedly, "I will take the present opportunity of informing you that the letter and proofs I spoke of this morning shall be sent to you as soon as possible."

"You are very kind," responded Margery, "if possible; thank you for all you have done."

When Nostrils Are Plugged Your Catarrh Is Bad

BY ACTING TO-DAY YOU CAN QUICKLY CURE CATARRH AND AVOID BRONCHITIS, PER-HAPS CONSUMPTION.

Most Agreeable and Surest Cure is Catarrhazone, Which Cures Every Curable Case.

Catarrhazone prove especially good in those chronic cases where mucous drops down the throat, sickens the stomach, and pollutes the breath. When the nostrils are stuffed, only a few breaths through the inhaler are needed to clear the passages, and where there is coughing and sore bronchial tubes the soothing, healing properties of Catarrhazone act almost as magic.

Once you stop taking medicine into the stomach and get the healing oils and pure balsams of Catarrhazone at work you can be sure of quick and weak cures, bronchitis, and speaker's sore throat.

13 YEARS OF CATARRH CURED. "As Catarrhazone has cured me of a Catarrhal Cough and Asthma that has lasted thirteen years, I feel I can honestly recommend it. I really used all kinds of medicine, but Catarrhazone was the only one that did any real good. I am entirely cured—have no cough, no bad breathing spells, not a sign of a cold or catarrh about me. But I will always occasionally use 'Catarrhazone,' I prize it so highly."

Mrs. E. L. Gogood, Johnson, P. O., Ont. The complete $1.00 outfit of Catarrhazone is sufficient for two months' treatment, and is guaranteed. Smaller size, 50c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhazone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Stuart's hand fell; and he bowed his head to the arm of the chair.

"You are ill!" Margery went on, quickly. "Let me—"

Stuart raised his head and rose to his feet, steadying himself with one hand on the table, and the other on his head, and then he said: "Deceived you? What do you mean?"

Stuart met her clear blue eyes, started, and stammered feebly.

"Why do you say such wicked, such cruel things of me?" she asked.

Stuart hesitated for a moment; a sudden strange fear crept into his heart.

"On my give them other names," he said, huskily. "I call it deceit, I call it wickedness to act as you did— to laugh at me, to send false tender messages, to tell me you were fond of another man, and suddenly to leave me— to leave for him, forgetting me and all the words you had spoken only three days before."

Margery had moved slowly to the table. She still wore the long robe of white serge that she had donned in the morning. She looked up at Stuart, mystified and pained by his words. She put one hand on the table and gazed at her old lover whose arms were still folded across his breast.

"I do not understand," she said, distinctly yet faintly. "You accuse me of deceit."

Rossini settled himself in his easy chair with his feet on another and placed a huge handkerchief over his eyes. Poniatowski sat down to the piano and worked away lustily for an hour. When almost exhausted and bathed in perspiration, he was about to begin on the second opera, Rossini awoke from a doze into which he had fallen and touched him lightly on the shoulder so as to arrest his progress.

"Now, my good friend, I can advise you," he said sleepily; "have the other opera performed."

A kindred joke was tried on Liszt, who had just played one of his so-called symphonic poems to Rossini.

"I prefer the other," said Rossini, emphatically. Liszt naturally asked, "which other?"

"The chaos in Haydn's 'Creation,'" was the withering reply.

On one occasion a gentleman called upon him to enlist his aid in procuring for him an engagement at the opera. He was a drummer, and had taken the precaution to bring his instrument. Rossini said he would hear him play, and it was agreed that he should show off in the orchestra "Seminamide." Now, the very first bar of the overture contains a tremolo for the drum, and when this had been performed the player remarked: "Now I have a rest of 78 bars; those, of course, I will skip."

"This was too good a chance to be lost," Rossini said to the composer, "by all means count the 78 bars; I particularly want to hear those."

Rossini's whimsicality extended even to his birthday. Having been born on February 29, in leap year, he had, of course, a birthday only once in four years, and when he was 72 he facetiously invited his friends to celebrate his eighteenth birthday.

The late Sir Arthur Sullivan made his acquaintance in Paris. One morning when Sullivan called to see him he found him trying over a small piece of music.

"What is that?" asked Sullivan.

"It is my dog's birthday," he replied, very seriously, "and I write a little piece for him every year."

All his life he had a dread of the number 13, as well as of Fridays. He never would invite more than 12 to dinner, and once when he had 14 he made sure of an understudy, who would, at a moment's notice, have been ready to come should one guest have missed.

And, though this was a double superstition, he died on Friday, November 13.

When Rossini was rehearsing one of his operas in a small theatre in Italy he noticed that the horn was out of tune.

ST. VITUS DANCE

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Chorea, or as it is more generally known, St. Vitus dance, is a disease that usually attacks the young children, though older persons may be attacked with it. Its most common symptoms are a twitching of the muscles of the face and limbs. As the disease progresses this twitching takes the form of spasms in which the jerking motion may be confined to the head, or all the limbs may be affected. The patient is frequently unable to hold anything in the hands or to walk steadily, and in severe cases even the speech is affected. The disease is due to debility of the nerves and is always cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich the blood, tone and strengthen the nerves and thus restore the sufferer to good health. The following is a striking instance of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do in this trouble. Mrs. Charles Phipps, Pelee Island, Ont., says: "At the age of fourteen my eldest daughter, Edith, was taken down, and the trouble developed in St. Vitus' dance. First her left arm became affected, then her left leg and entire left side. She grew so bad that she actually could not hold anything in her hand, and could only go about with a sliding, jerking motion. Notwithstanding that we were giving her medicine, she seemed to be growing worse, and finally her speech became much affected. We became so much alarmed about her that finally her father got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and we began giving her these. In the course of a few weeks she was much better, and before all the pills were gone she was again enjoying perfect health. This was in 1908, and she has not had a symptom of the trouble since I feel justified in saying the cure is permanent."

Be sure you get the genuine pills, which are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LATE INVENTIONS. An electric meter has been invented for measuring the flow of steam in pipes.

Artificial wood for matches made from straw, has been invented by a Frenchman.

To a Massachusetts man has been granted a patent for a electric lamp and reflector for inspecting the inside of shoes.

In France there has been invented a flourless bread-making machine that transforms the whole wheat into dough.

A swiveled clamp by which a tunnel may be fastened to a bottle to leave one hand free when liquids are poured is a Californian's invention.

The bottom and sides separate and can be adjusted to any size desired in a baking pan invented by a Pennsylvania man.

A barrel-shaped packing case that has been patented by an Illinois man can be folded for transportation when empty and used many times.

A Pennsylvania has equipped the head of a piano tuning hammer with a ratchet so that it will not have to be lifted from a peg every time it is turned.

A California inventor's wave power motor consists of a small truck with a broad tail. A wave, striking the tail, pushes the affair up a track, and a piston in the head of the truck compresses air in a cylinder.

DROPPED ALL OTHERS. "I dropped all liniments, but Nerviline, because I found Nerviline the quickest to relieve pain," writes E. S. Benton of St. John's. "If my children are croupy or sick, Nerviline cures them. If a case of cramps or stomach ache turns up, Nerviline is ever ready. We use Nerviline for neuralgia, rheumatism and all kinds of aches and pains; it's as good as any doctor." The Nerviline remedy for the past fifty years has made Polson's Nerviline—nothing better made.

CLEAN MONEY AS AN "AD." One of the big, successful hotels in this big, successful town has the custom of never returning as change to patrons paper money in anything but crisp, brand-new bills, right off the government printing press. By an arrangement with a nearby bank, it always has an ample supply of bills of all denominations in the original bands in which they come from the United States treasury; also new, bright smelling coins. All the people in all the dining rooms of the establishment might give odd, old, soiled notes in payment of checks, but all change would come back to every customer's son in glittering coin and immaculate, crinkly bills, the old, soiled money received by the cashier being put aside for deposit. Tip noticed this the second or third time he dined in the big hotel; he never realized what a neat advertisement it was till he heard it spoken of approvingly in the south and west and even in Canada.

A STRETCHING EXERCISE It imparts elasticity. And it is good for one. It will lift the vital organs. It gives strength and poise to the body. The clothing must be loose and comfortable. To begin any exercise one must stand erect. The chest should be high, the head up, and the chin in. The body should rest on the balls of the feet, not on the heels. At first it may be enough to breathe deeply and slowly (mouth closed) standing thus. This alone is a fine thing if practiced in the open air, or before a window open top and bottom, for five or ten minutes twice a day. Now for the stretching: sweep the arms slowly outward and upward until they touch above the head, lifting until the chest walls and stretching the arms. Lower the arms with the same sweep, stretching them all the time. Five times will be enough at first, breathing deeply and slowly all the time. The fellow who expects the rest of us to be all-wise.

THE BEST WAY.

To clean a gas mantle, is to remove the globe, get a salt shaker and shake all the salt on it that it will hold, turn on the gaslight, and let it burn until all black is off, turn off the light, replace the globe and light it the usual way, and you will find the light restored to its former brilliancy. Try this if the mantle is black and it burns poorly.

To clean white furs, mouton, rabbit, swan's down and ermine, first beat out all the dust, gently but thoroughly, then lay the article upon a table covered with a clean white cloth and saturate it with a mixture of grain alcohol, three parts, and other one part. With a clean whisk work the fluid into every hair and down to the skin. Then sift into the fur all the boracic talcum it will hold, letting the fur so that the powder reaches the roots. Then put into a closed box and leave for three days. Take out the furs, shake out the powder, removing that which cannot be so easily dislodged by brushing with a perfectly clean whisk. Then put the furs well on the wrong side to raise the nap.

To press woollen clothes, lay the garment over a heavy strip of tan linen and to the skin. Then sift into the wool, and the neps with a hot iron. Do not dampen the article itself.

EVERY PLACE ON THE WIDE PRAIRIES

Tells of cures made by Dodds' Kidney Pills.

Thos. Griffin, of Peace River Landing, Tells How He Got Rid of His Rheumatism — Honestly Earned Popularity.

Gold Springs, Peace River Landing, Alta., Oct. 10.—(Special).—Just why Dodds' Kidney Pills retain their wonderful popularity is easily shown by a trip across the prairies. Every town, village and post office has at least one man or woman who is ready to tell of pains relieved and health restored by the great Canadian Kidney Remedy. Let Thos. Griffin, of this place, add his statement to the hosts already published.

"When I came to this part of the country," says Mr. Griffin, "I was troubled with a bad back and rheumatism in my shoulders and hips. I sent for six boxes of Dodds' Kidney Pills and they gave me relief at once. I also recommended them to my eldest son, who was confined to his bed from rheumatism. Now I know that Dodds' Kidney Pills are the best medicine for rheumatism and the kidneys. I recommend them to every person I hear complaining of not feeling well."

THE WIT OF ROSSINI.

Wagner and Liszt Among Those Who Felt the Sting of His Tongue.

Although Rossini seldom went to the opera he could not resist the temptation of hearing one of Wagner's works, says a writer in Musical Opinion. It was "Tannhauser." Afterward, when asked to give his opinion of the opera, he said:

"It is too important and too elaborate a work to be judged after a single hearing, but I shall not give it a second."

Somebody once handed him a score of one of Wagner's latest music dramas and presently remarked that he was holding it upside a box. "Well," said Rossini, "I have already read it the other way and am trying this as I really can make nothing of it."

Rossini had scant patience with amateur composers. One such once accompanied the manuscript of his latest composition with a Stilton cheese, of which he knew Rossini to be fond. He hoped, of course, to have a letter praising his work. A letter came, but all it said was: "Thanks! I like the cheese very much."

Prince Poniatowski, the composer of the popular "Yeoman's Wedding Song," had written two operas and wanted very much to have Rossini's opinion as to which of the two he should choose for production in public. Rossini fought shy of the matter for a long time, but Poniatowski's impatience at last prevailed. Highly elated he accompanied Rossini home.

St. James Methodist church and grounds in Montreal are about to be sold for $2,000,000. The church had the largest seating accommodation of any Methodist auditorium in Canada. Many rumors have been current as to the location of the Canadian Northern terminal, but the present transaction seems to settle that problem.

The cider mills in Ontario are reported to be doing a big business this year and the brand turned out is said to be the best manufactured in twenty five years. During the recent wind storm when the velocity of the wind reached forty and fifty miles an hour hundreds of bushels of choice apples were hurled to the ground which rendered them unfit for the market. As a consequence the cider mills are benefiting.

The annual Baptist Convention, which may be regarded as the parliament of the Baptist Churches of Quebec and Ontario provinces, and representative of 100,000 communicants, is being held at Olivet Baptist Church Montreal, during this week.

Bellville Ontario:—Something new in fire escapes is to be tried at the Provincial Institution for the Deaf and Dumb here. They are known as a spiral glide escape, and consist of a steel cylinder, adjoining the building, in which, instead of stairs, are smooth and polished "glides". At each floor there is a platform from a window to the enclosure, and in escaping from the fire the inmates will simply enter the enclosure and slide to the bottom. Once started there is no stopping, and it is claimed there is no possibility of a blockade, and consequent crushing. The contracts have been let by the Ontario Government.

It's queer what a good head a man can have for business until he goes into one for himself.

Among the places where local option will be voted upon at the coming municipal election 's Chesterville.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Who pays the enormous expense of these show-rooms in our towns and cities? Is it not the people who buy pianos there?

Why buy from them when you can get just as good, and in many cases better, from me, delivered Free from the factory to your door? This is one of the reasons I can sell you a piano for less money than you pay at any show-room.

All kinds of instruments taken in exchange. We defy competition for the money in all grades. Get my prices before purchasing, for they are certainly very low for strictly high grade pianos.

Also agent for Raymond, New Williams, and New Home Sewing Machines.

P. S.—Pianos sold on instalment plan when wished.
