

DOMINION DAY

Today is the forty-fifth anniversary of the Confederation of the provinces of the Dominion of Canada. On July 1, 1867, the four provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, were united by the British North America Act. Prince Edward Island came in as a province two years later; Manitoba in 1870 and British Columbia the same year. The provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan were formed in 1905 from the original North West Territories. The arch of nine provinces which now extends from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans and which occupies more than half of the continent of America, has had an especially prosperous half century of history. Of the fathers of Confederation, but two are left: Sir Charles Tupper, who a few days ago celebrated his 81st birthday; and Sir Richard Cartwright. Today Canadians, will, irrespective of color, race or creed, join in celebrating Canada's natal day, and sing of: "The Maple Leaf Forever" will resound from ocean to ocean. In Calgary the day will be celebrated by patriotic addresses, at the fair grounds and by a great gathering of school children. If, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: "The Nineteenth century belonged to the United States, the Twentieth Century belongs to Canada," Canadians can look forward with hope and confidence to what the century holds for them in the matter of development of the great country which is their heritage and which is attracting people from every part of the world.

ELEVENTH YEAR—No. 104

TORNADO SWEEPS CITY OF REGINA; FIVE HUNDRED KILLED OR MAIMED

With all telegraph wires down at Regina as a result of havoc wrought by a cyclone which completely destroyed the greater part of the business section of the Saskatchewan Capital City, causing a loss of life the extent of which it was impossible to estimate last night, communication with the East was completely cut off for several hours and the receiving instrument in the office of The Morning Albertan was silent. The news first came by way of The Albertan's special wire to Vancouver, in the form of a brief dispatch stating that a great part of Regina had been destroyed. It was not until midnight that the following full account of the awful calamity was secured.

REGINA, Sask., June 30--With half the business section of the city lying in wreckage and street after street throughout the southern and central residential sections razed to the ground for blocks at a time, Regina is tonight a city of mourning, where but a few hours before a scene of almost gorgeous display in preparation for the celebration of Dominion Day.

Bunting and flags covered buildings everywhere and networks of colored electric lights glinting in the sunshine were strung ready for illumination on Dominion Day.

In the space of half an hour little was to be seen in many sections but building after building lying in ruins on the ground and scattered over the streets, swathed in their shrouds of gayly colored bunting. Early estimates place the loss at between four and five millions, while 500 killed and injured is only a hazy guess.

TORNADO CUTS SWATH SEVERAL BLOCKS WIDE RIGHT INTO HEART OF CITY, LAYING BUILDINGS FLAT IN ITS TERRIBLE WAKE

No idea can be obtained of the actual number of deaths. Every ambulance in the city has been working since six o'clock, carrying the bodies to the hospitals, which were filled earlier in the evening and to a number of improvised hospitals in some of the larger buildings left standing. Crowds of volunteers all over the city are assisting in the work of clearing up the wreckage and bodies of the killed and injured are being uncovered every minute. The streets are full of hurrying men and women, speeding on their errands of mercy.

Injured Everywhere

Everywhere are men and women with heads and hands swathed in bandages but all seem to be thinking of others' troubles, forgetful of their own.

It was five o'clock in the afternoon when the cyclone struck the city and in the history of the west, no such storm has ever been known.

Coming from the south, it dropped just a few blocks north of the southern city limits, cutting a swath several streets wide, right down into the centre of the city, laying buildings flat in its wake. The Methodist and Baptist and Knox churches, all magnificent structures, were the first of the larger buildings struck. The former went with a crash that hardly sounded above the howling of the storm and the roar of the cloudburst that accompanied the wind.

Blew Roof Off

The greater part of the roof was removed from the latter structure and the storm moved across Victoria Square, removing the walls and roof from the Y.W.C.A., notably wrecking the magnificent new public library, both new this year, and passing thence to the Presbyterian church, which was but little better off than the Methodist. The Y.M.C.A. was next in line and half of the building was demolished in an instant. A few small buildings were moved from their locations, some being carried across the street, and the Masonic Temple was next attacked and just about razed.

In the next block to the west and one farther north, the telephone exchange stood apart by itself except for a few smaller buildings. Upon this the force of the storm had instantaneous effect, laying the building a flat mass of wreckage under which the girls were imprisoned for over an hour.

The Massey-Harris offices and warehouses, standing beside the C.P.R. yards, were practically demolished, and of the row of grain elevators upon which the farmers of the district are depending for the storage of their crop this season, but one remains, and that much the worse for wear.

No Estimate of Loss

Over on the north side of the tracks, warehouses were destroyed right and left. Up until late in the evening absolutely no attempt was made to estimate the loss of property.

The work of lifesaving will probably be continued until late in the morning, and possibly all tomorrow.

Except where it is necessary for the rescue of bodies the rubbish and ruins are lying where they fell.

Few people have thought to eat. Looking south from Lorne street hardly a residence is left standing, and on Victoria Square are the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches, all of which are ruined, the Y.W.C.A., the new public library and several smaller buildings are practically destroyed. The street is flat, almost from end to end.

The C.P.R. yards are a flat expanse of ruined shops and trains, hardly a car remaining whole. Several were picked up bodily and carried distances in the air. One was carried right through the freight sheds.

Razed North Side

The whole north side of the city is practically wiped out. No one knows how many are dead on this side of the city.

A canoe was carried from Wascana lake a distance of three-quarters of a mile to Victoria park and dropped there. Others, together with dinghies and even small sailing vessels, lie strewn over the southern section of the city, at distances varying up to half a mile from the lake.

About half past eight in the evening, some clerks were working in the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, seeing that everything was all right, when some men finding the door open walked in and demanded the money in their accounts.

The electricians have been wandering through the devastated section, cutting live wires. Power came on about 9 o'clock after being off since the storm.

The most marvelous part of the whole disaster was that not a single building took fire, though for half an hour after the storm struck the power came on and off, and wires were spluttering dangerously among the ruins.

Husbands are hunting for their wives, mothers for their children. Men stop from time to time in their work of rescue to ask acquaintances passing for news of friends and relatives.

Five Drown in Lake

Many families were separated at the time of the storm as the day was a hot one and some sought comfort in the parks while others remained at home. Numbers were out on the waters of Wascana lake. Five are known to be drowned, falling to reach shore in time.

Every house in the city that is standing has been thrown open to the homeless.

One of the large grain elevators was picked up and thrown a distance of fifty feet from its foundation, falling on a freight train of box and cattle cars.

One house barely on the edge of the storm was picked off its foundations and that next it was settled squarely on the vacant site. A roof carried three blocks was poked cornerwise through the roof of the residence of one of Regina's prominent business men and remains there.

Mounted Police to Rescue

Lour livery stables have lost everything. Hardly a horse has been saved and the buildings and contents are total losses. Early in the evening the mounted police, at their barracks two and one half miles west of the city, were apprised of the disaster and the whole force, one hundred and fifty men, came immediately to the city and supervised the work of rescue throughout the night.

Buildings but a block from the scene of the devastation were left practically untouched having a few windows broken at the worst.

Three girls from the telephone exchange appeared in the doorway of one of the morning papers, telling that the building was flat and they were not believed at first but repeated their tale of how they came through from the second storey, carried down by the weight of a fifteen ton switchboard. Miraculously they were but little injured and escaped from a basement window.

Newspaper Men Rescue Girls

A relief party of some half dozen newspaper men started out through the storm of rain and flying bricks and glass and at once commenced the work of rescue of the many girls remaining in the building buried in heaps of brick and timbers knotted together with coils of lead and steel. The storm ceased at once and soon two hundred were on hand clearing up the wreckage.

Meanwhile small parties were at work on the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A. and other buildings in the downtown district.

The residential district was found to be even more serious and here the majority of the deaths were found. None of the girls in the telephone exchange were killed, although some were seriously injured, it is impossible to find as yet to what extent. All night long the telegraph offices were besieged with people sending messages to relatives in the outside world.

Six hundred families are homeless. The mayor and city council have started a fund and are providing for them.

Rumors of Disaster Elsewhere

Rumors are flying abroad in the city of disasters elsewhere, and many who escaped here are almost hysterical through their ignorance of the fate of friends throughout the province.

A hundred special constables have been sworn in. It is impossible to contemplate calmly what the storm will mean to the city. It was so absolutely unexpected as to stagger the coolest minded.

No one is even worrying about the financial loss. For the present the cry is, "On with the work of rescue."

BIG FAIR STARTS SPLENDIDLY; SIR RICHARD MCBRIDE MAKES FORMAL OPENING

Exhibits Are Far and Away the Best Ever Shown Locally; a Thrill in Every Heat of the Harness Races; Running Races Excellent

TRIBUTE TO THE RESOURCES OF WESTERN CANADA

Display of Exhibits Evidences that Western Canada is Keeping Pace With the March of Civilization; Good Racing Card for Today

TWO thousand persons witnessed the opening of the five days race meet at Victoria Park yesterday, and incidentally some good clean sport. There was a thrill in every heat of the harness events and excitement in plenty in the running races. Perhaps the surprise of the afternoon was the victory of Nellie G. in the 2:10 pace. The Indian, a speedy bay stallion owned by C. W. Wright, of Edmonton, was installed favorite at the outset, and rewarded his followers by capturing the first two heats in clever fashion. Rator nicely by his driver and owner, The Indian allowed Nellie G. to make the pace. Coming into the stretch, Wright called upon the stallion and in two pretty stretch drives The Indian outfooted the black leader and won handsily. But Nellie G. was still to be reckoned with. The Indian appeared to have his bolt in the first stretch on Page 4).

CALGARY'S great Industrial Exhibition was thrown open to the public Saturday afternoon by Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, in the presence of a large crowd. It is the greatest fair ever held in western Canada and is more than one-third larger than last year's exhibition. The Calgary Exhibition is more than an ordinary exhibition. It is a remarkable testimonial to the wonderful resources of the province of Alberta and a tribute to the greatness of western Canada generally. Persons whose homes have been in Alberta for five or more years were perhaps more impressed with the advancement that was shown by the exhibits than those who have come to this country since the beginning of its recent rapid development. Time was in the western provinces of the Dominion when provincial

GOVERNMENT SUBSCRIBES $25,000 FOR RELIEF

Regina, June 30.—Early this evening Mayor McAra and the civic authorities and a number of prominent citizens started a relief organization. Temporary hospitals were organized in the immigration hall and some of the city blocks, where doctors and volunteers attended to the injured as they were brought in on improvised ambulances. Premier Scott early conferred with Mayor McAra, and after being informed as to the extent of the disaster, stated that the provincial government would place $25,000 at the disposal of the city authorities first thing Monday morning, and that, if necessary, more would be forthcoming. Steps have been taken to recall the local militia from Sewell camp and meanwhile a cordon has been drawn around the ruined strip to prevent pilage of the ruined property. Strong feeling prevails that so far as Regina city is concerned the election should be postponed and steps may be taken to this end.

CARLOAD OF YAK FOR FAIR

A carload of the sacred yak of India, a gift to the Dominion government from the Duke of Bedford, will be on exhibition at the exhibition beginning Tuesday. General Manager Richardson received a telegram yesterday stating that the animals would arrive in Calgary today en route to the national park at Banff. Through the courtesy of the park commission, able to have the yak exhibited at the fair. The animals will be quartered in a corral between horse barns 2 and 2, at Victoria Park

CROPS ARE THREE WEEKS IN ADVANCE OF ANY FORMER YEAR; THE OUTLOOK IS MOST ENCOURAGING; WEATHER FINE

An Abundance of Rain in the Southern Country Assures a Bumper Yield of Grain; the Farmers are Most Optimistic; a Great Year in Prospect

THE week end crop reports received by the C.P.R. from its agents in every part of Western Canada, are of the most encouraging kind. In the south country where there is supposed to be a partial drought at this season, there has been abundance of rain and every district has had plenty of moisture.

East of Calgary the Irrigation company has not yet been called on to supply moisture, the rainfall being sufficient for the crops. The rain of Saturday night was general over the whole province and was especially welcome in the south country. The farmers who are in the city attending the fair and the Panama canal conference are all very optimistic in regard to the outlook.

The reports from the south read: "Prospects excellent and plenty of moisture." From the north country, around Didsbury and Red Deer, the reports are: "A super-abundance of moisture and vegetation very rapid. Want a few days cooler weather."

Along the Wetaskiwin branch the spring grain is heading out and the harvest will be three weeks earlier than in any former year. The crop outlook as a whole is the most encouraging that has been received over the C.P.R. wires for years and if the outlook is fulfilled, this will be the greatest year in the agricultural history of Alberta.

With the added prices for grain it is estimated that the grain crop of Alberta will this year exceed the $10,000,000 mark.

SIMPLY GREAT, EXCLAIMS MY LORD ON RETURN FROM THE WEST

Montreal, June 28.—Delighted with the results of his several weeks tour in the Far West, Lord Montague of Beaulieu, a baron of Scotland, is in the city today, preparatory to the immediate continuation of his journey to New York and thence to London.

"I believe in the business efficiency of the motor car. It will, in my opinion, always beat railway and electric traction."

Asked about his tour, Lord Montague said:

"The West is simply great. Prices for land are high, almost prohibitive. But I do not fear a slump, because the development there must continue."

INSPECTOR HARRIGAN TO BE SUPERINTENDENT N.W.P.

Ottawa, Ont., June 28.—An order-in-council has been passed making Inspector Harrigan of the Northwest Mounted Police a superintendent. It is probable that Supt. Harrigan will shortly be transferred to one of the larger districts in Saskatchewan or Alberta.

SILVER SCRAPS WITH NIGHT CLERK AND GETS WORST OF THE BOUT

A man named Samuel Silver was taken to Dr. Mackid and had three stitches put in his head last night as the result of a row with Frank Scott, the night clerk at the Palace rooming house.

Silver alleges that Scott hit him over the head with a long piece of tin, and from his appearance it would seem he had contacted with the big end of something. Silver was taken to the doctor by Sergeant Mackid, and Scott was later arrested and charged with assault.

WOULD NEITHER CONFIRM NOR DENY RUMORED APPOINTMENT

Toronto, June 28.—Corporation Counsel Drayton got back from Ottawa this morning, where he was reported to have been yesterday closeted with the minister of railways regarding his rumored appointment as chairman of the Dominion railway board.

Mr. Drayton would not give out any information as to his probable acceptance or refusal of the late Judge Macbee's job.

"Are you going to take the chairmanship?" he was asked.

"It has never been offered me," he replied.

ARGUMENT PROCEEDS IN SUIT TO DISSOLVE TRUST

Cleveland, Ohio, June 28.—Declarations that the Great Lakes Towing Company's profits had averaged only a fraction over four per cent, and that it had never cut towing rates until competition forced it to do so, were made by Attorney Kelly for the defense, when the second day of arguments in the government suit to dissolve the company as a trust began here today.

Kelly said that only two of the hundreds of whom the company bought property has anything to say against the company, and that one of them is a chronic litigant. He denied the Standard Oil Company's alleged connection with the towing company.

MEETING OF CIVIC PROBE COMMITTEE HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The meeting of the investigation committee, which was to have been held yesterday for the purpose of giving the engineer and commissioners an opportunity to make any statement they wished regarding the report of the experts on city paving, which threw the whole weight of responsibility for the defects upon the city, was postponed owing to the absence from the city of Chairman Horsey and other members of the committee.

While it is just possible that a meeting may be called today it is more likely that nothing will be done until Tuesday.

HIS NAME IS LEE AND HE IS POSSESSED OF THE BOOST SPIRIT

He is Mayor of New Westminster and Knows How to Say the Word for His City

His Town Hopes to be One of the Clearing Places for Alberta's Big Crop

On His Way to London to Arrange for New Westminster's Finances

Passing through on his way to London to arrange for New Westminster's financial future, Mayor John A. Lee of that city was interviewed Friday by a representative of The Albertan. Mr. Lee has already made himself well known to the public of Calgary, by his rousing speech on New Westminster's great harbor scheme, which he delivered at Friday's Panama convention, and his striking personality is apparent in his emphatic conversation.

"The scheme which we have now before the public for making a fresh water harbor at New Westminster provides to a great extent the solution of the problem of the transportation of Alberta's wheat via the Pacific ports and the Panama canal, to the markets of Europe. How great that trade will be but few of us realize, but our plans as drawn will make provision for an immeasurably great shipping trade with railway terminal facilities of the very best kind. The beauty of our scheme is its simplicity and the fact that it can be added to at any time to meet the needs of the future as they arise. The plans provide for the docking in quiet water, and without the assistance of tugs, of the greatest ships of the Pacific coast.

"Asked as to railway transportation, Mayor Lee stated that already New Westminster is served by three systems, the C.P.R., the G.N.R., and the B. C. Electric railway, these three roads already having something like eighty miles of tracks along the banks of the Fraser River.

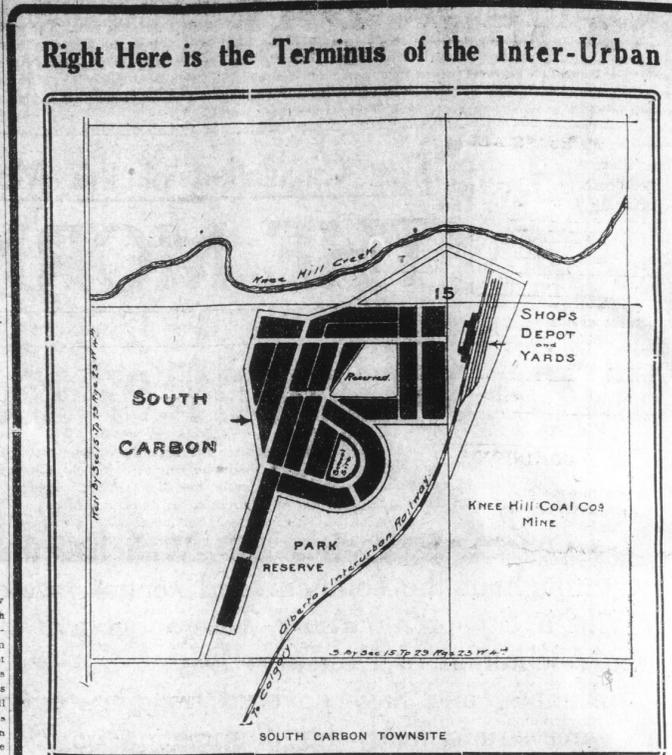

Perhaps C.N.R. Terminal

"We also hope," said Mayor Lee, "that the C.N.R. is going to make its terminal in our city. I have had several interviews with Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann. Both are enthusiastic about the possibilities existing on the Fraser and in New Westminster and now that our citizens have voted the money for the first part of the scheme, our hopes will almost certainly be realized. It is in fact over a year ago that the C.N.R. purchased little short of a million dollars' worth of property in the heart of New Westminster.

New Westminster's other delegate to the convention is Mr. K. Myers, secretary of the New Westminster Producers' association. He was here yesterday he departed from the harbor plans for a moment and spoke of the satisfactory financial position of New Westminster today. "New Westminster's standing in the London market is unequalled," he said, "by any other western city; it might almost be said by any other Canadian city. In the spring, the city sold its 4-1/2 per cent bonds to the well known firm of Stimson and Company for 95 net at New Westminster. The bonds were put on the London market at a time when other Canadian cities of good repute were afraid even to risk a flotation. They sold for 91. Since then these same bonds have been quoted at a fraction over par, at which figure they stand today.

Other interesting figures were given showing the sound position occupied by this city, which is aiming at being the fresh water grain exporting port of the west of Canada. The city owns its water and electric light plant, and operated these last year at a profit of $20,000 for the one, at $30,000 for the other. With a full assessment of $22,000,000 this year as compared with only about $13,000,000 last year the taxes are levied only on unimproved property assessed at about $19,000,000. The city is also within its borrowing powers by about two millions, said Mr. Myers, and its assets exceed its liabilities, including its bonded indebtedness, by about $644,000.

The harbor improvement of national importance planned by the mayor and council, and which will almost certainly be taken up by the Dominion government will make the future of our city assured."

SOUTH CARBON

HAS now been in the limelight for a week—only a week. Yet its advantages, prospects, and worth are so well known that it has attracted the attention of investors everywhere.

Many Lots Have Been Sold—nearly half of them. They will be all sold before the Inter-Urban reaches there—long before. Construction of the railroad is proceeding with all possible despatch. It should reach the terminus at South Carbon before winter sets in.

When It Does Reach There an awakening may be expected that will demonstrate the wisdom of locating the terminus there—the far-sightedness of those who purchase there.

Natural Resources Enough to keep the railroad busy for all time, a growth and development that will make South Carbon the most important feeder that Calgary has. Good coal enough to supply the whole province, including the railroads. It is quite a few miles to South Carbon, but it is not far for railroads to go after the coal they need and other business there is for them all along the route.

South Carbon Lots Are Certain to grow in value as the railroad approaches its destination.

Opening Prices Are:
 FOR BUSINESS LOTS - - $400 to $900
 FOR RESIDENCE LOTS - $150 to $300
 The terms are: One-fourth cash, balance in 6, 12 and 18 months.

VISITORS!

Our Cordial Welcome to Calgary, The "Mail Order Centre" of Western Canada

PRYCE JONES "The Mail Order House"

During exhibition week, we hope to welcome many of our out-of-town customers at their "shopping headquarters." It will be a good time for you to get in personal touch with this store, which is as truly the "Mail Order Centre" as it is "The Metropolitan Store" for Calgary and the Last West.

Those of you who were here a year ago will find a vast improvement in our store facilities—the completion of the building then in course of erection has made possible the addition of several new departments, as well as the expansion of those already established, and at the present time this store is thoroughly up-to-date in service and efficiency.

Could there be a more striking epitome of Calgary's rapid growth and progress than this store, which opened its doors to the public a bare 18 months ago, built a large addition before it had been established a twelve-month, and is today the chief supply centre, not only for this business metropolis, but for a clientele representative of practically every section of these Western Provinces.

The C. P. R. dining car department have a rather novel idea for the commemorating of Dominion Day.

On that day they will present to each guest having luncheon on the dining cars a very appropriate souvenir, consisting of a small box tied with red, white and blue ribbon, containing a maple leaf made out of native maple sugar. Enclosed with the maple leaf is a miniature flag, the emblem of the Dominion of Canada, also a slip on which is printed the words of our national song, "The Maple Leaf Forever."

MONDAY, JULY 1, 1912
DOMINION DAY

Today this youthful but vigorous member of the great Imperial family celebrates another birthday. The people of the Dominion may well feel thankful for the astonishing progress that has marked a brief but none the less glorious past.

The past is rich in achievement, the future bright with the promise of greater things. Sons of the Land of the Maple Leaf may well feel proud of their country, for no pride of citizenship ever rested on ground less open to challenge.

The future holds its problems which will call for solution, for no nation can grow great in ease. Progress such as that with which Canada has been blessed will test with the utmost severity the soundness of the nation's heart. The very rapidity with which our population is increasing, by drawing upon all the countries of the world, in itself presents a problem which demands the most careful treatment.

Met in the spirit of courage directed by high intelligence, this and all other problems may be solved in a manner that will serve only to contribute to the greatness of the Canadian people.

THE EVILS OF THE BONUS

The Toronto Star enters a strenuous protest against the practice of bonusing industries, suggested by the decision of the city of Berlin, Ontario, to submit to the ratepayers a bylaw granting $25,000 and a fixed assessment to the rubber factory.

No language can be used that will be too strong in condemnation of this evil. While the cash bonus fortunately does not exist in this province, other forms of the evil scarcely less objectionable, are to be found. Nothing can be said in defence of the practice and there is a crying need for such legislation as will make it impossible.

The new industry which is intelligently directed will be established in the town or city where conditions are most favorable to its growth. It may be questioned whether the heads of such a concern are ever much influenced when seeking a site by the inducements offered by the competing municipalities. While choosing the most suitable location, however, it cannot be expected that they will neglect the opportunity, afforded by the eagerness of competing cities, to secure valuable concessions from the one which they have chosen.

Their negotiations with the various municipalities constitute a game of skill in which they are certain winners. The amount of their gains is determined only by the limit of their skill. The competing centres are the victims of their own greed for growth. The merest suggestion that time to cause a stampee in the city which conanother site may be chosen is sufficient at any time the site actually selected, and to draw from it every concession the law will allow.

What is needed is such legislation as will protect the towns and cities from themselves. Let manufacturers seek the location most suitable to the growth of their business. In the conditions where they are under no temptation to go elsewhere the results will be better for themselves, for the city in which they establish their business, and for the consumers of their goods. There are too many "pap fed" industries living under the protection of the Dominion government to make it advisable to allow each of the municipalities to undertake the duties of wet nurse to others.

THE FRENCH IN CANADA

Speeches delivered at the recent congress of French-Canadians in Quebec were rich with declarations of love for Canada and appreciations of the liberties enjoyed under the aegis of the Union Jack, but there were nevertheless utterances not a few which breathed a spirit not altogether consistent with these professions.

One speaker suggested the formation of an organization to include all the French speaking peoples on the continent with the view to guarding their interests against encroachment by the English speaking peoples. If correctly reported, this speaker was unnecessarily belligerent in his attitude, declaring that if the English speaking peoples did not like it they could themselves form a similar alliance, and adding that the best way to ensure peace was to prepare for war.

One French speaking bishop at the gathering exhorted the French-Canadians who left Quebec for the purpose of settling in the West, to isolate themselves as much as possible from the English speaking peoples and to preserve both their language and religion from the touch of any foreign influence. No one will quarrel with the French-Canadians for their desire to preserve either their language or their religion. Any effort, however, to line them up in opposition to their fellow countrymen who speak the English tongue is to be deprecated, no matter by what motive it may be dictated. Such utterances as that of the Bishop of Regina suggest that the declarations of loyalty to the British flag and love for Canada are merely rhetorical flourishes which serve the purpose of distracting attention from an underlying race hostility. We want in Canada not two nations but one. Unity results from understanding and understanding from communion. For any one section to deliberately isolate itself from all contact with the other would be fatal to unity, and it is the emptiest insincerity to say "We are all one happy family" while saying to one section, of the other, "Hold no converse with them."

A WORD OF WARNING

Upon the organization of a National Housing association for Canada, The Toronto Star has the following comment, which is not without significance in view of the fact that a few days ago the same paper published photographs of children from Toronto's slums, with an appeal for money to enable them to breathe for a short time, and for the first time in their lives, the fresh, pure air of the country.

"A National Housing association for Canada was inaugurated at a meeting held in Hamilton this week. There will be a conference in the autumn, at which experts on housing in Great Britain, Germany and the United States will deliver addresses.

It is well that Canada should take up this question at this comparatively early stage of its career. We have now a small population, yet we have some cities in which slums exist, and in which the housing problem demands solution. It has been predicted that Canada may have eighty million people before the close of another century. Such a prediction ought to make us think rather than boast. It suggests a tremendous responsibility. Excuses may be offered for older countries, which have drifted into slums and congestion for lack of experience and warning. No excuse will be available for Canada, which has the map of the world and the pages of history under its eyes, and which can draw upon experience and benefit from expert advice.

"At the close of the century there will be a score of Canadian cities like Toronto and Montreal, may be centres of thought and examples of free and noble living, or they may be collections of human beings living together under conditions of anarchy. We are making the choice now.

"House-building has not kept pace with the other arts of civilization. Those who can afford to engage architects and spend money on fancies may be comfortably and even luxuriously housed, but a large part of the house-building, especially of houses intended to be rented, is haphazard and unscientific. Civilization should concentrate its brains and its heart on this question."

MORE POOR TO WATCH THE RICH ENJOY THEMSELVES

That is Statement of Mallock, the Well-known Authority on Labor Questions

Labor Unrest Has Its Origin in Exaggerated Expectations of the Mind

Increased Travelling Facilities Also Have Their Disturbing Effect

London, June 28.—Mr. W. H. Mallock, the well known authority on labor questions, says that the universal labor unrest is like an optical illusion similar to that experienced by the traveller, who imagines his train is moving when another train starts from a neighboring line. Put briefly, his argument is this:

In proportion, there are no more rich than there used to be, and no more poor. But as the numbers of both have increased absolutely, there are more poor to watch the rich enjoying themselves, and therefore more discontent.

Or, to quote one of Mr. Mallock's own examples: If the Bishop of Birmingham, who has been advocating the labor claims, has a shilling, while eleven other men have sixpence, the Bishop might be regarded as robbing them each of a halfpenny; but if, while the Bishop has a shilling, there are twenty-three men with only sixpence, the number of complaints between him and the rest is double, though the maximum of which he could be regarded as robbing each of them would be in this case no more than a farthing.

Modern labor unrest, according to Mr. Mallock, has its origin in "exaggerated expectations of the mind," in "illusory conceptions of the mind," in "the play of the labor of the average man in the productive process of today."

One point to remember in particular is the fact that many of the rich who live in this country do not derive their wealth from English labor, but from foreign investments.

Of the income produced in the United Kingdom, 87 per cent are under $4,000 a year and only 4 per cent exceed $25,000.

If the entire income of the nation were divided equally among all, the majority of the colliers lately on strike (even allowing only two wage-earners per household) would find that their earnings at the time of the strike were 30 to 100 per cent higher than they would get under the equal division.

Two other causes of unrest, according to Mr. Mallock, are increased travelling facilities, with their disturbing effect, and a system of popular education, based, not on what will enable the man to make his way in the world, but on what would get under the equal division.

"The attention of the management is called in particular to a certain 'show' where dating and disgusting pictorial advertisements, not to speak of the exhibit, should not be tolerated in any decent community. There is no need of being either Puritanical or profane in regard to exhibition, but the price paid in a prayer meeting compared with this thing. June 29, 1912. A. D. McDONALD.

only have some idea as to where it was 'grown and brought' whose hands it may have passed, but should assure themselves before eating it that it has been thoroughly washed in running water."

The list of guests for the Royal Garden party at Windsor on July 18, will not be so large as at first expected. The visitors for the most part will be confined to the personal friends of their majesties, together with the members of the official and diplomatic service. Their majesties will receive their guests on the terrace, two of the Guards' bands will be on duty and there will be a variety of entertainment provided for the guests.

The grumbler insists that the busiest part of the London season is always reserved for taking the streets up, and he finds little consolation in the country, for the same rule seems to prevail with regard to the roads, which appear to be always most under repair at Easter, Whitsuntide, and during August and September, the periods when there is most traffic. There are road improvements going on all over the country, and in the course of time the taxation of motorists will provide smoother roadways and less dust. Until that is done the motorist who raises dust storms can only console himself for being a nuisance by the reflection that he pays the money and it is not his fault if it be not effectively applied. But if the road authorities could manage to get the new metal down and rolled in the intervals between the holiday seasons it would be a great boon.

ATTACK $10,000,000 WILL

A Son of Charles Clark of St. Louis Dissatisfied With $6,000 Annuity

St. Louis, June 26.—Louis Vaughan Clark, New York broker and son of the late multi-millionaire, Charles Clark, is in St. Louis to consider plans for contesting his father's will. The will out-Vaughan Clark off with $6,000 a year annuity provided that unless the son restores certain pictures to Mrs. Grace Wilson Clark, his wife, within sixty days after the father's death, the first year's $6,000 is to be turned to the wife.

Letters to the Editor

Excludes Questionable Shows Editor, Albertan.—

In view of the excellent general arrangements made regarding the exhibition, it certainly seems a pity that more care was not taken to exclude all each penny feature and side show of a questionable character from the grounds. It is required that in addition to the ordinary attractions in connection with the agricultural, industrial and animal exhibits, it is necessary to provide a certain amount of fun and amusement; but there seems no reason why these amusements should not have some educational or other value aside from profit to the manipulator. The attention of the management is called in particular to a certain 'show' where dating and disgusting pictorial advertisements, not to speak of the exhibit, should not be tolerated in any decent community. There is no need of being either Puritanical or profane in regard to exhibition, but the price paid in a prayer meeting compared with this thing. June 29, 1912. A. D. McDONALD.

UNCLE WALT

The Past Philosopher.

HUMAN NATURE When I am well I 'osh the doc, and say his pills are vain. 'You have no dope,' so runs my talk, 'that cures an ache or pain. When I am loaded down with ills and feel extremely punk, you give me plaster paris pills, or try to heal with bunk. Your boasted silence is a fake and in the dark you grope; you never stopped a duk man ache by handing out poultice. And as I talk I really think that what ails my right leg, that pills are classed with writing ink when one is in a plight. For skepticism is the stuff in life made up below; we think we cannot knock enough to show how much we know. As when in health we skip and jump, and life is full of fun, we send religion to the dump and say all creeds are dreams. But when Old Death comes round to chew the rag, with fears increased we raise a painful howdydo, and clamor for a priest. And thus, when I am taken sick, I lean upon the doc, and take his pills, nor make a kick should all those pills be chalk. Ah, then he seems to lose his strength, his science something fine; but when I'm on my feet at length, I wind these lumps of mine, and rattle 'em, his based-on pills in all the haunts of men, and kick about his modest bills—until I'm sick again.

IDEAS OF A PLAIN MAN

By Dr. Frank Crane

HENRY VIII. This is the birthday of Henry the Eighth of England, who rose to fame and got a permanent place in history by being one of the most versatile and restless husbands on record.

Henry the Eighth was the son of old man Henry, the Seventh, and lived in the 16th century when facilities for getting divorced were no scarce and crude, that common men had to worry through an entire lifetime with the same wife, and even Kings preferred an axe to divorce, although the former method was much more messy and disagreeable. Henry VIII began his matrimonial career early and was married to Catharine of Aragon by the government. For eighteen years he enjoyed life without noting that he was married, and it was only called to his attention when he fell in love with Anne Boleyn. He then applied to the Pope for a divorce by return mail, but continued married to his distressed. However, Henry was a determined monarch, and finding that the Catholic religion wanted to confine him to one wife for the rest of his days, he rejected it from England and founded a new church which is still giving good satisfaction, though not in the matter of divorces.

Henry got his divorce and married Anne Boleyn, which was as fatal to her as a case of spinal meningitis. For in a short time he fell in love with Jane Seymour, and shuddering at the idea of dragging poor Anne into the divorce court, he had her beheaded quietly and painlessly.

Henry then indulged in a great variety of wives and used the divorce court and the axe alternately with great impartiality in getting rid of them. He was a methodical monarch and nothing irritated him so much as to discover that the court headman was having his day off at the precise time when it was necessary for him to become a widower again. In a few years almost every lady in England had a husband who had been in the cellar while Henry was a widower and absent minded. Henry got to sending out fine presents and memorial flowers in the same package.

Finally Henry married Catherine Howard and just as he was looking

MOTORMAN BROKE RANKS OF SOLDIERS AND WAS ARRESTED
Edmonton, Alta., June 30.—As the 101st Infantry was crossing the street car line on Jasper avenue this forenoon from McDougall street on their return from the camp at Calgary, a street car of the municipal system broke through the ranks, the conductor declining to obey Lieut.-Col. Constable in charge of the regiment, who signalled for the car to be stopped. Col. Constable thereupon ordered the windows of the car with his cane and ordered members of the regiment to arrest the motorman and conductor, which was done. It is expected that a warrant will be issued in the police court on Tuesday when information will be laid against motorman Arthur Elliott and Conductor Walter Stark.

CHANGE IN CAR SERVICE TO EXHIBITION WILL BE MADE TODAY

Superintendent Thomas H. McCauley, of the Municipal Electric Railway company announced last night that a complete change in the car service to Victoria Park would be effective today, commencing at noon. Cars on the red line, the 15th, 17th, 19th, 21st and 23rd, and blue line Crescent Heights and Eighth Avenue West lines will run direct to the fair grounds from Eighth avenue, thus doing away with the necessity of transferring. This will be a marked improvement and will add to the convenience of the passengers as well as save considerable time.

The new routing of the cars will be in effect today from noon until 12:30 a.m. and during the remaining days of the fair will be in effect from 7 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. A two minute service will be in effect during the rush hours. Ticket sales Saturday were the heaviest in the history of the local street railway company, $2,350 worth of tickets being sold during the day.

Nothing is too good for this continent, nothing too good for the west, especially Western Canada. "We cannot have too close a connection with our cousins across the water. Calgary men have shown us how to make things go, by their movements in this direction. For an example there are these delightful and enterprising ladies of the band. They represent one of the foremost bands of the United States. Trouble and expense has not been spared in procuring them for this occasion.

Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen, I take great pleasure in the opportunity afforded me of being present today, and it is with great pleasure that I declare this exhibition formally open.

Perhaps the most interesting collection of exhibits is to be found in the industrial building. The large structure, was thronged from early morning until late at night by thousands of spectators, not merely those who came to look out of sheer curiosity but persons who came to study and to learn. Entering the industrial building from the south side the first exhibit which draws attention is the large booth occupied by Price Jones (Canada Ltd.).

In their exhibit they have a furnished bedroom, a living room with a display of fancy china, an exhibit of footwear and also ladies' and gentlemen's fur coats.

WE ARE AFTER MEN AND WOMEN

There are men and women who know things which could be made tremendously valuable to the business world.
There are those who have learned of ways of working which double business efficiency, help sales, promote business and increase happiness.

We want them to tell their story through the columns of The Commercial Review.
The Commercial Review is the business paper of Canada's real west. Its field is Alberta and British Columbia. Its objects are: the development of Inter-Provincial trade between these two great Provinces; the adoption of better methods of merchandising and the resultant national development which must accrue from the consummation of these desires.

We want contributors—those who are keen to sense the worth and value to themselves and others of this work.
We want to hear from those who can write and from those who want to become writers.
To those who contribute suitable articles we will pay fair prices but the work to the writer will be valuable aside from the money received.

Articles which would occupy one or two columns of newspaper space are best, but if you can give real worth in less space or more, do so.

Any business subject is suitable, but as a suggestion to help your selection of subjects, we mention the following:
1. Increasing the efficiency of the sales force.
2. Short cuts and labor saving methods in store keeping.
3. Improving the relationships between employer and clerk.

It is not necessary to confine yourself to these subjects. Any business subject will be suitable.
The Commercial Review is published on the 15th and 30th of each month. Price $1.00 a year. Send for sample copy. Write the nearest office.

REFUSE APPLICATION TO DIVIDE RESERVE STOCK

Montreal, June 28.—Judge Demers, of the superior court, this morning rendered judgment upholding decisions of the lower courts in throwing out the application of six members of the original Crown Reserve Mining syndicate to complete the division between the members of the syndicate of 231,000 shares of Crown Reserve stock, held in trust by the directors of the present Crown Reserve Mining Company.

Held in Trust The directors and trustees hold the stock in question in trust for development purposes, and repeated efforts have been made to cause a distribution, the allegation being that the stock would never be necessary for development purposes. The directors claimed that the trust was not terminable, and Judge Demers' decision upholds this view and also sustains previous decisions rendered by Judges Teiller and Fortin.

MENTION OF TITANIC

In Year's Report of International Mercantile Marine Company

J. Bruce Ismay, president of the International Mercantile Marine company, in his annual report to the stockholders speaks as follows regarding the Titanic:

Your directors with great regret record the loss of the steamship Titanic on April 14, 1912, on her maiden voyage from Southampton to New York. The steamer collided with an iceberg and foundered shortly thereafter and a most serious and deplorable loss of life resulted, for which your directors record their profound sorrow, and also their deepest sympathy with the relatives and friends of the passengers, officers and crew, to whom this disaster has brought great bereavement.

No estimate of the financial loss to the company through the sinking of the Titanic is given, as the report is for the year ended December 31, 1911. No further mention of the Titanic is contained in the report. The company's surplus for the year after meeting all fixed charges and operating expenses is slightly below that of 1910, being $4,509,270 or 8.71 per cent on the $51,730,970 outstanding preferred stock, as compared with $4,849,850 the previous year, equivalent to 9.37 per cent on the same amount of stock. From the total surplus of the company $4,557,856 is charged off, $3,738,793 for depreciation of steamships, leaving a total profit of $821,052 to be carried over, as compared with $48,385 carried over from 1910.

The gross voyage earnings increased, being $28,923,845, as compared with $26,848,284 for 1910. The total earnings were $29,163,348, against $28,073,586 the previous year.

The operating expenses also increased, however, being $31,070,784 compared with the previous $28,778,390, so that the net earnings this year were slightly less. They were $3,082,560 in 1911, $3,285,496.

This income account does not include the operation of the Leyland and National lines, in which the company has important holdings. The Leyland line shows profits for the year of $247,948 as against $191,322 in 1910; the National $3,306, as against $2,905 in 1910.

One of the interesting points of the report shows the preparation of a company for the Panama canal trade, Mr. Ismay says:

Your directors are so confident that there will be a very large business to be done from coast to coast through the Panama Canal that it has been thought desirable to re-transfer the American built steamers Finland and Kroonland to the American flag, and thus make them available for this business, for which they are especially well suited.

WOMAN EXPLORER STARTS

Will Survey Ross Glacier on Chinese Frontier

Bombay, India, June 29.—Mrs. Bullock Workman, the Himalayan explorer, with an Anglo-Indian agent and two Baluchis orderlies from the Royal Indian army, has started for Kashmir. She intends to finance and lead an expedition to the Karakoram side of the Chinese frontier to make a complete topographical survey of the Ross glacier, the largest and longest in Asia, and establish if possible its relation to the Oprang valley on the Turkestan side.

She will be accompanied by Dr. W. Hunter Workman, F. R. G. S., who will devote his attention to photography and glaciological investigations; by C. Grant Peterkin, surveyor and diplomatist of the London Royal Geographical Society, and by a native Indian helper by the name of Ganga.

The expedition will be separated for ten weeks from the last native village by thirty miles of glacier and a snow pass of 19,000 feet.

Mrs. Bullock Workman hopes, with the Baluchis orderlies, to lead the caravans undertaking the upper triangulation work above 18,000 feet, in order to make sure the coolies laden with supplies don't lose courage and desert. She has been selecting her native attendants, negotiating for large supplies of flour and superintending the minutest details of equipment for the last two months. In order to carry out in the best manner the topographical work of this mountain area.

LOCAL MERCHANTS DO NOT WANT HOLIDAY ON WEDNESDAY

Decide to Keep Stores Open; All Ready for Big Retailers' Convention

The suggestion that Wednesday next be declared a public holiday does not meet with the approval of the local merchants, who at a meeting of the Business Men's Association held in the board of trade rooms Friday evening decided to keep their stores open on that day.

This action was taken in view of the fact that Monday will be observed as a public holiday, and the merchants disapprove of two holidays following so closely in succession.

Ready for Convention Final arrangements for the first provincial convention of Alberta retailers, to be held here on Tuesday next, were discussed, and Mr. Cope, secretary of the association, was able to state that in all probability fifty delegates would be present.

The convention is called for the purpose of discussing matters of special interest to retailers and also to organize a provincial association of retailers. Delegates will be sought from every important centre in the province. Mayor Mitchell will be present at the opening session to welcome visitors to the city.

The board of trade will entertain them at a luncheon.

GAVE UP HIS CHANCE OF LIFE TO MAKE THAT OF OTHERS SURE

St. John, N. B., June 29.—A despatch from Dr. R. W. Brock, of the geological survey, to the family of J. Douglas Trueman, who was drowned while on a scientific expedition in the Rainy River district of Ontario, indicates that he died a hero's death.

Trueman, a man named Knox and Dr. Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian institute, were in a canoe below the Steep Rock falls, near Rock Lake, when the canoe upset. Walcott could not swim, and Trueman and Knox got him on top of the canoe. Apparently fearing that there were too many to hold the frail craft, Trueman let loose to swim ashore, but had not gone far when he called back for Knox. Knox left to aid him, but before reaching him Trueman sank in thirty fathoms of water.

WILL FOUND IN A BOOK

Scrubbed on Loose Leaf—Disposes of $3,500,000

London, June 29.—It is alleged today that the will of the late Henry Thomas Coghlan, who died in 1892 leaving an estate of $3,500,000, for which a reward of $12,500 was offered, has been found in quite the manner of a sensational novel.

The Daily News is responsible for a story, according to which a Mrs. Sprague, a resident of East Molesey, accidentally found written in a blank page of an old copy of a life of Bishop Heber, which she bought at a second-hand store, some writing in a shaking hand with ink that had almost faded.

"Edge Park Gardens." This is my last will. I leave my whole fortune to Emma Broughton.

The date is obscure, but the writing is fairly readable and it was written on the day preceding Coghlan's death. Emma Broughton was the maiden name of Coghlan's mother, but just here there is a flaw in the story, as his mother died in 1820 and no person of the name of Emma Broughton has so far been mentioned in connection with the estate.

WANTS HEART BALM

Tacoma, Wash., June 29.—A suit for $20,000 as heart balm for alleged breach of promise was yesterday filed in the superior court against E. T. Brown, a saloon man of Kapowah, by Adelaide Russell, now living in British Columbia. The complaint was filed by her counsel, Attorney J. W. Golden. Miss Russell alleges that she met Brown's first husband in Tacoma three or four years ago to marry Brown and that he had since refused to hold to his promise.

HERE'S REAL BRYAN STORY

It's About a Woman Who Tried to Get Aboard of a Train

Baltimore, June 29.—One mighty Bryan man, who addresses Mr. Bryan by his first name, was asked today whether the Nebraska leader would look upon the presidential nomination with the love light in his eyes if it were to loom up again for the fourth time.

"Let me tell you a story which—" began the Bryanite.

"Answer yes or no," he was interrupted.

"Now, keep your shirt on," commanded the Bryanite.

"Let me tell you a story that Mr. Bryan told himself not long ago when the same question was put to him at a dinner at the L. L. ranch, at a story, but maybe it will have some bearing on what you want to know.

"The story is about a woman who had the habit of getting off at the backward. When the train came to the station where she thought she ought to get off she did so, stepping down to the platform backward as usual. But the crowd thought from the direction she was facing that she wanted to board the train instead of getting off, and they all rushed out and hustled her aboard at the last minute before she could stop them. And so it went to the next station and the next. The crowd would hustle her aboard each time she stepped off backward.

"What happened when the train was starting out the fourth time?" the Bryanite was asked. "Did they hustle her on to the train again?"

PINERO ESPOUSES THE CAUSE OF THE STAGE

English Dramatist Attacks Idea That Kitty Melrose's Story is Typical of the Footlights

More Freedom Now But Those Who Look Askance Fail to Understand Conditions

London, June 27.—The recent suicide of Miss Kitty Melrose, who, it is generally believed, took her life in despair of a happy termination to her love affair with a certain Lawson Johnston, has provoked a storm of discussion in theatrical and artistic circles here.

The climax to the controversy, however, comes with a significant commentary from Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, the dramatist, whose comedy, "The Mink-the-Paint Girl," is a study of the environment of which Miss Melrose is regarded as a victim.

She Arthur takes issue with those who have pronounced Miss Melrose's case typical of stage life, and his defense of the stage, coming from one who was for several years an actor himself and knows whereof he speaks, is vented in the following authority.

Not a Typical Case "The case of this unfortunate young lady is a very sad one," he said, "It appears that marriage was impossible, will do so without regret, but such a tragic ending is very exceptional.

"If you press me for an opinion, I should rather say that the case of my heroine in 'The Mink-the-Paint Girl' is the typical one. I tried to depict her with the idealities and imperfections of her up-bringing and surroundings, but, as the story shows, she is none the less a very fine girl.

"The actor who acts across life constantly in the limelight, and their doings acquire an importance which is often in distorted focus.

"I was destined to study law, but at the age of 19 I felt the strongest inclination to go on the stage. I must say that I found both men and women most honest people, leading clean, brave and healthy lives. If there were ever a period when it was otherwise, it has now passed. No my experience, I know that there are persons, who, upon hearing of this death, will say, 'Oh! those theatre people,' but they will do so without realizing that has the theatre especially to do with it?

There is, perhaps, more freedom between actors and actresses nowadays than was formerly the case, but this is inevitable from the very conditions of their work, and people who look on as disinterested and misinterpret this freedom, which is a great relief to them, as a sign of immorality.

"Of course, there are still foolish young men who haunt the stage door, and some of them run into perils, don't you know; but then human nature is very human, and who can change it? And look what a number of most happy marriages have been made by those who have been fortunate enough to secure bright and charming actresses for their wives.

The Actor a Good Citizen "I think it is time that people began to recognize that the followers of the histrionic art are in every way as virtuous and as good citizens as any other section of the community. They work very hard indeed, and take, as they must do, their work very seriously.

"And who has not recognized, and so generous as the actor or actress?" said Sir Arthur, as he terminated the interview. "Their impulsive generosity is felt, but not fully recognized, in the cause of charity, in aid of the sick, poor and suffering, who is the first called upon almost as a right, but the famous and beautiful actresses. And she gives her services gladly and willingly; indeed, she often proffers them before they are asked, or invites some charitable scheme quite independently, and while other people have not begun to stir in the matter."

A STIRRING PATRIOTIC SERMON BY REV. MARSHALL

Love of Country is One of the Primal Duties of Mankind

Dominion of Canada Born of Peace and Not Amid Threats of Revolution

Opposing Parties Were United in Patriotic Resolve to Form New Nation

A stirring, patriotic sermon was delivered last evening in Central Methodist church to an audience that completely filled both the church and Sunday school auditorium, by the pastor, Rev. J. S. Marshall, on "Our Canadian Nationality."

"Patriotism is a noble word, and it stands for a grand quality," said the preacher in opening. A love of country is one of the primal duties of mankind, one of the very conditions of national existence.

Examples of Jewish patriots were given from the Bible, a lesson for all lands and all ages in love of country. While rejoicing in our attachment to the British crown, yet we desire to develop a national sentiment for ourselves, and how this could be best developed was discussed by the speaker.

The war was by mistaking a sense of historic continuity with the Mother Land across the sea. In all her heroic traditions we have a share—in the warrior memories of Oxford and Mithridates in the victories of the British flag in many lands and on every sea, and in the more glorious victories of peace, in the growth of her institutions and in the former fruitage of the literature.

"I count it an omen of brightest promise for this young Dominion of Canada, that it was born, not amid the throes of revolution or the agonies of war, but that it was a peaceful 'evolution' for opposing parties united in a patriotic resolve to form a new nation that should perpetuate British institutions benefit the folk of that red cross flag on the northern half of this continent. Van Wart, at the exhibition grounds, to The Morning Albertan by Aviator "Jimmie" Ward, in a Curtiss bi-plane. It will be the first time in the history of this province that a letter has been delivered by a flying machine.

Aviator Ward will receive the message from President Van Wart shortly before four o'clock this afternoon and will leave a few minutes later on his journey to The Albertan office. By means of an equilibrator of Ward's own design, the letter will be deposited safely at the door of The Albertan office as the youthful aviator skims over the office building in his bi-plane.

The text of the message was made public last night by President Van Wart, and is reproduced in this issue of The Morning Albertan from an aeroplane by "Jimmie" Ward this afternoon.

Aviator "Jimmie" Ward, who is making flights at Victoria Park is not quite 23 years of age, but has been flying for five years. He has been associated with Glenn Curtiss in the construction of flying machines and for two years was chief inspector at the Curtiss factory. Ward is recognized as a fearless aviator and has had no accident during his flying career. This was at St. Louis when he drove his ship into a steam roller to avoid striking a group of people who had crowded out upon the course.

Ward was formerly a jockey and later drove racing automobiles and just now is an ardent motorcyclist in addition to a birdman.

"It is a dangerous game," admitted Ward yesterday, "but the chance of being killed is materially lessened by quick-thinking and steady nerves. Many an aviator has gone to his death because he failed to control his ship at the very time when he should have been bending every effort to guiding his craft. I usually fly at an altitude of 1,000 feet or more as it is safer. Should my engine stop I have a much better chance to vtolplane to a place of safety."

Ward is a very much boy, is a modest little chap and has nothing of the "up-stage" effect about him.

On this, the anniversary of the birthday of the Dominion, the fairest of all the daughters of the British Empire, loyal Canadians throughout the vast area which stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific, are rejoicing as the y pass to look back on a period of growth without parallel in the life of the nation.

A forward glance reveals a vista of possibilities unrivaled in splendour. It has been well said that the twentieth century belongs to Canada, and of all the provinces which made up this great Dominion there is none that may look forward into the immediate future with higher hopes than this fair province of Alberta.

The board of directors of the Calgary Industrial Exhibition conveys its greetings to the people of Alberta, and invites them to witness at Western Canada's greatest fair, some of the evidences of the growth of the province in the various departments of activity in which its people are engaged.

I. S. G. Van Wart, President.

DEADLOCK STILL HOLDS AT CONVENTION AND NO BREAK IS IN SIGHT
 Convention Adjourns Till Monday After Twenty-Seventh Ballot; Little Change

Interest Centres in Personal Controversy Between Clark and Bryan
 With Two or Three More Ballots Unchanged Underwood May Get a Chance

No Show for Dark Horse Candidates Until the Leaders Have Failed

Baltimore, June 30.—Hops of nominating on the twenty-seventh ballot for president virtually was abandoned tonight by the Democratic leaders.

When the National convention adjourned for Sunday, it was believed that some solution of the deadlock would result from the action between the champions of the three leading candidates, but it developed at the time had not arrived for the nomination, either of Clark, or Wilson, or Underwood.

The Personal Controversy. Campaign managers might, however, have reached some agreement of interest in the deadlock, but they were dwarfed by the personal controversies between William Jennings Bryan and Speaker Clark. The visit of Mr. Clark to Baltimore in the evening indicated himself before the convention, over-shadowed everything else as a subject of Sunday gossip.

Party leaders generally took the position, notwithstanding the Missouri Impassioned denial of Mr. Bryan's position that he was being in the event of a majority, probably had reached the crest of his strength.

Wilson, although climbing steadily apparently was bitterly opposed by delegates who resented the general impression that Colonel Bryan had the veto power, although he lacked the votes necessary to control the nomination. These delegates believed that the New Jersey governor would continue to gain until he could not break a majority, but that he could not break the Clark strength, which was said to be determined that Bryan should not win through a combination of any kind.

Should Clark and Wilson fail on the first two or three ballots, it was predicted that there would be a show-up again with Clark and Underwood, who had his nominal vote from first to last. The Underwood party were watching for any opportunity and claimed to be prepared to take full advantage of it.

Can He Win? Whether the Alabama candidate could win was the subject of much speculation, but outside of the delegates who had voted for him on the twenty-sixth ballot, there did not appear to be much enthusiasm. Genuine attempts at compromise are likely to be made if Clark and Underwood should follow Clark in the wave of votes, and still fail to get the necessary two-thirds, but it was not expected that any of the "Dark Horse" candidates will stand much show until the three leaders have tried and failed.

Many rumors were current in hotel lobbies, one was that the leaders had agreed upon the adjournment of the two-thirds rule after the first ballot had been cast, while there was another report that an adjournment would be taken after ten additional ballots had been cast, and that the convention would adjourn in August. None of these rumors were based upon anything more than idle gossip.

Eleven States Friday. Baltimore, Md., June 29.—After taking eleven ballots since four o'clock Friday night, the Democratic national convention had not decided upon a candidate for president at 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

ready to stand by Clark if his forces could be concentrated in the field, but not to remain with him indefinitely in a prolonged contest.

Outside the New York acquisition, the main body of Clark's men were held together well, although it was said some of them who have formerly had strong Bryan sympathies might develop a tendency to try Wilson if the contest was prolonged. These considerations led the Clark men to head all their energies to finishing the contest quickly.

The Underwood forces were looked on as playing an important part in the present critical stage of the balloting. They were standing solidly, with no evidence of wavering, during the early hours, but their 123 votes on the twelfth ballot made them in a sense the key to the Clark situation, for with them the Clark total would be augmented to 250 votes, and the Underwood two-thirds. But at the Underwood headquarters there was not the slightest indication of directing the vote as a business of power among the other candidates. The sole idea was to keep the Underwood force together in the event of a split.

Baltimore, Md., June 29.—So far from chastising William Jennings Bryan severely for his attempt to dictate the temporary chairmanship of the Democratic national convention and his announced determination to continue along dictatorship lines while there is dictating to do in Baltimore, the Democrats yesterday contented themselves—and had to—with slapping him on the wrist in a polite but somewhat emphatic manner, and asking him to please to behave.

Inasmuch as the proceedings at Chicago demonstrated that the party opposed to Bryan—meaning all the old guard—think this is the open season for shattering idols, these leaders had to be slapped to get them to be contenting themselves. They started out full of hope and with the shattering prospect of seeing Bryan elected, but suddenly enough Mr. Bryan refused to be shattered. Having been an idol for many years, he declined to recognize any such thing as a "shattering" belonging to the leaders. The upshot of it all was that while Mr. Bryan, as an idol, was not cracked and chipped a bit, he was not shattered or tottered from his base.

What happened to him proved, in a sense, a great triumph. Under the circumstances arise, this convention will not nominate Bryan for president and thus lifted a deal of the load from the many Democrats who feared such a contingency.

Opposition Disappointed. What happened also proved rather conclusively that Bryan, as a candidate applying to the nomination, that candidate will have a hard time getting enough votes in the event of a split. Bryan's leadership expected to defeat him, but they expected to defeat him more decisively than they did.

After the roll call was over these leaders patted themselves on the chest and said they had more votes at their disposal than they had. They could have defeated him in a more decisive fashion, to be sure, but they didn't think it worth the effort. It was harder, a condition which may or may not have accounted for their agitation and nervousness and fright while the roll call was in progress. They could have defeated him in a more decisive fashion, to be sure, but they didn't think it worth the effort. It was harder, a condition which may or may not have accounted for their agitation and nervousness and fright while the roll call was in progress.

Clark, having failed to nominate for the seventh ballot, after the roll call a majority, probably had reached the crest of his strength.

Wilson, although climbing steadily apparently was bitterly opposed by delegates who resented the general impression that Colonel Bryan had the veto power, although he lacked the votes necessary to control the nomination. These delegates believed that the New Jersey governor would continue to gain until he could not break a majority, but that he could not break the Clark strength, which was said to be determined that Bryan should not win through a combination of any kind.

Can He Win? Whether the Alabama candidate could win was the subject of much speculation, but outside of the delegates who had voted for him on the twenty-sixth ballot, there did not appear to be much enthusiasm. Genuine attempts at compromise are likely to be made if Clark and Underwood should follow Clark in the wave of votes, and still fail to get the necessary two-thirds, but it was not expected that any of the "Dark Horse" candidates will stand much show until the three leaders have tried and failed.

hind every phase of the situation is Bryan, now, right and a fairly good fighter in his way.

The only safe prediction is that this convention is not in a temper to name a conservative candidate. The conservative interests have held tenaciously to the idea of a conservative candidate for a long time, but they are afraid to work to that end, for the work they must do would be surely detected and there is a haven of refuge for radical Democrats in the new third party movement.

The men who are trying to lead this convention are in a situation that demands not only a good knowledge of the principles and practice of politics but that requires a fair amount of courage and patriotism and party loyalty.

All they have to do to win, it seems certain, is to name a candidate who holds the normal Democratic vote, but to hold that vote they must name the right man, not a man wanted by a faction, or by an interest, or by their own selfish personal considerations.

Stage Well Set. The stage was well set for Mr. Bryan yesterday. There never has been a better order of things in a Democratic convention hall than that provided by the people of Baltimore. The spectators were largely sympathetic.

Baltimore, Md., June 29.—So far from chastising William Jennings Bryan severely for his attempt to dictate the temporary chairmanship of the Democratic national convention and his announced determination to continue along dictatorship lines while there is dictating to do in Baltimore, the Democrats yesterday contented themselves—and had to—with slapping him on the wrist in a polite but somewhat emphatic manner, and asking him to please to behave.

Inasmuch as the proceedings at Chicago demonstrated that the party opposed to Bryan—meaning all the old guard—think this is the open season for shattering idols, these leaders had to be slapped to get them to be contenting themselves. They started out full of hope and with the shattering prospect of seeing Bryan elected, but suddenly enough Mr. Bryan refused to be shattered. Having been an idol for many years, he declined to recognize any such thing as a "shattering" belonging to the leaders. The upshot of it all was that while Mr. Bryan, as an idol, was not cracked and chipped a bit, he was not shattered or tottered from his base.

What happened to him proved, in a sense, a great triumph. Under the circumstances arise, this convention will not nominate Bryan for president and thus lifted a deal of the load from the many Democrats who feared such a contingency.

Opposition Disappointed. What happened also proved rather conclusively that Bryan, as a candidate applying to the nomination, that candidate will have a hard time getting enough votes in the event of a split. Bryan's leadership expected to defeat him, but they expected to defeat him more decisively than they did.

After the roll call was over these leaders patted themselves on the chest and said they had more votes at their disposal than they had. They could have defeated him in a more decisive fashion, to be sure, but they didn't think it worth the effort. It was harder, a condition which may or may not have accounted for their agitation and nervousness and fright while the roll call was in progress. They could have defeated him in a more decisive fashion, to be sure, but they didn't think it worth the effort.

Clark, having failed to nominate for the seventh ballot, after the roll call a majority, probably had reached the crest of his strength.

Wilson, although climbing steadily apparently was bitterly opposed by delegates who resented the general impression that Colonel Bryan had the veto power, although he lacked the votes necessary to control the nomination. These delegates believed that the New Jersey governor would continue to gain until he could not break a majority, but that he could not break the Clark strength, which was said to be determined that Bryan should not win through a combination of any kind.

mitting himself as to his actions after that."
 The anti-Bryan leaders grinned at this. They had Mr. Bryan where they wanted him and they were anxious to begin the roll call in order that he be shown his proper place, which, in their estimation, was an inconspicuous rear seat. The roll call started off with Parker in the lead. Presently Mr. Bryan began to come along, and he came along to such an extent that the anti-Bryan leaders, who had thought to do some lustrous shattering of the idol, wondered if the thing would not work with the reverse result.

They pulled through and Parker was declared the choice of the convention for temporary chairman, while Mr. Bryan remained on the platform wearing a stern and lookabound expression and exuded a few lamentations to the sad and ultimate fate of his pet Democracy.

They made Parker's selection unanimous, and the New Yorker came forward to speak. Not many persons evinced a strong desire to hear him keynote the situation, and nearly everybody started to leave the hall. Thinking it useless to keynote to 14,000 people who were crowding toward the door and wondering how they would get home in the rain without spoiling their coats, a recess was taken until 5 o'clock, when Parker keynoted to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. It was 8 o'clock.

Skillful Work Essential. Last night's session was one on ways and means. It is apparent that, with the two-thirds rule, there must be a good deal of elimination before a candidate can be selected. Numerous discordant elements must be brought into harmonious relations. The ticket must be balanced skilfully enough to hold the entire Democratic vote.

Big factors which, although not Democratic in nature, will influence Democratic politics must be consulted. The leaders have a hard job before them. Bryan is there, not eliminated, but still a factor. He is powerful and determined. So are his opponents.

Defeat can as easily come out of this convention as victory. The Republican party has no monopoly on international disension. The Democratic party is as radical in its radical wing and as conservative in its conservative wing as the Republican party. Harmony is a mere name, but it is a difficult attainment.

The spectators were noisy and demonstrative, but the delegates seemed to have themselves well in hand. It was only four o'clock of the evening, but while it is easy to stampede galleries at a national convention, it is difficult to stampede a platform. The delegates to be put on a platform and talk to 14,000 people impressed itself on various spellbinders and they got up the platform entirely by the use of interest of freedom of speech, by the way, and talked, not by, but at the 14,000.

14,000 Has Its Own Ideas. The 14,000 devised ways of its own to keep from hearing what was going on. Of course, all this time there was a commotion. The orators were speaking to a mass meeting, as no organization had been perfected. Still, the delegates must be preserved at all hazards at a Democratic convention. Noting the fact that the men who decorated the hall had grabbed off George Washington as the original Democrat, the democracy of that eminent citizen and of Thomas Jefferson was loudly extolled and applied to the case in hand. All of the orators took warning at Mr. Bryan's slip.

Mr. Bryan, pausing after an exceedingly complimentary reference to Senator Stone, asked: "What better man can be named?" and was promptly answered by about 10,000 persons, who told him loudly and persistently that Parker was a better man, to Mr. Bryan's evident annoyance.

Presently Mr. Bryan confided that he had tried to get Ollie Jones and Senator O'Grady to go to the front in the fight before he was elected as Senator Clark and that both James and O'Grady had political views which were entirely in line with his own. Inasmuch as Senator Kern seemed insensible to the high honor which Mr. Bryan sought to confer on him, it became the bounden duty of the subscriber, William Jennings Bryan, to take over the job himself, and he declared himself the leader of the crusade until the crisis had been criticized, and not commended.
