FORESEES BOOM IN SUB-ARCTIC

Railway Extension May Lead to Rich Fields, Long Unknown — Potentialities in North.

(Toronto Globe)
Will Cochrane develop into another Winnipeg as a result of the contract let last week for the extension of the Ontario government railway northward from Cochrane toward Moose Factory? Certain enthusiasts pin their faith in the development of a second Winnipeg to this and prospective further extensions of railways, combined with the natural resources in the Hudson's Bay district, according to R. E. Hore, consulting geologist, of this city, who has studied Hudson's Bay conditions.
Mr. Hore outlined for The Globe several conditions pointing to the probability that the future will see great strides in the development of this central area of Canada, of which good use has not been made hitherto.
The awakening of interest and appreciation in the potentialities of this district is not confined to Ontario, but is very live in the west and in Quebec.

Not So Remote, Either.
"Owing to the fact that Hudson's Bay is not easily accessible," states Mr. Hore, "there has long been a disposition to ignore the geographical facts and to assume that the Bay is very far from civilization. Ask the average man to draw a map of North America and you will get evidence that he thinks Hudson's Bay is much farther north than it is.

The National Transcontinental is at Cochrane, only 120 miles from Moose Factory, the Hudson's Bay post at the mouth of Moose River. This fact is now likely to become more generally realized since a contract was let last week for an extension of the Ontario government railway for seventy miles northwards toward Moose Factory. In this connection it is to be noted the reported statement of Chairman Lee of the Tinkham & Northern Railway Commission, predicting that by the time the present contract for construction is completed, conditions and explorations will warrant letting another contract for the remaining ninety miles to James Bay. The commission is evidently well pleased with the prospects of the country to be served and is undoubtedly planning to provide and is undoubtedly planning to provide railway transportation to the Bay within a very short time. The completion of the railway will be an event of great importance, and will lead to great development.

But Ontario is not the only province interested in Hudson Bay. The western provinces and Quebec have interests there. The building of a railway from the Pass to Port Nelson was begun some years ago and, while operations were suspended, there can be little doubt that it will be completed. Evidently the desire for this was expressed at the convention of United Farmers of Manitoba last week. The convention made the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway a plank in its platform, adding, as an amendment, the suggestion that the three western provinces consider ways and means of carrying the work to its finish, if the federal government refused to go ahead.
Quebec also is interested in Hudson's Bay. This province has a vast territory tributary to the Bay and the development of this territory will require a northern railway. This will possibly be developed by private interest in the re-creation of the fact that forest stations are to be established on Hudson's Bay which will serve as bases for explorations by forest engineers with a view to obtaining information which will be of value in developing the resources as well as in protecting the forests.

Development Tardy.
A century ago Hudson's Bay was better known than many of the areas which have since been developed into thriving communities by the establishment of industries which the construction of railroads made possible. The early employers and fur traders coming in their ships from England and Scotland had many romantic experiences. These stories of the hardy mariners, explorers and traders are very interesting. They are invaluable records of the work of the intrepid pioneers who paved the way for development and settlement. But owing to conditions there has been an extraordinary lapse of time between the establishment of the fur trading industry in Hudson Bay and the general development of the area. With the improvement in transportation facilities there should come a rapid change in popular opinions as to the nature of the area. The snow and ice and the cold will not be changed, but there will be other things to attract attention and by the Hudson Bay will in mind be brought a long distance south.
The located route of the railway extension, the contract for construction of which was let by the Ontario government on January 9, is north from Cochrane through Clerkmeier and Blount townships, crossing the Abitibi about ten miles out of Cochrane. Then the line turns westerly and crosses the Abitibi River again at the Carrying Places. Thence the line runs northerly down the west side of the river to Burntwood Portage, a few miles above New Post, a Hudson's Bay station on the Abitibi. This is to be completed by the end of next year.

"Explorations of the area to be served by the railway have shown that in the most part, good agricultural land.

The soil is chiefly clay, and it is worthy of note that the soil is not deficient in lime, as are the soils farther south. It is a soil very similar in character to that of the area between Lake Huron and Lake Ontario. A thick mass of lime-bearing clay, which was doubtless formed from erosion of the limestone areas farther north, has covered the archaic rocks north of Cochrane as with a blanket and has given the area a soil quite like that of our best southern agricultural districts, and quite unlike that of the intervening area.
"The shortness of the growing season is a disadvantage that may easily be overstressed. It is well to remember that New Post, at the end of the line, is on the same latitude as Winnipeg and south of large areas in which grain is successfully grown in the west. Because of the good soil there is reason to be hopeful that agriculture will flourish in spite of the severity of the winter season and the late and early frosts. It is on the character of the soil that enthusiasts pin their faith that Cochrane will develop into another Winnipeg.

"Next to the soil the chief known natural resources of the area are the forests and the water powers. The value of such forests has been demonstrated in recent years and we may expect to see the area contribute large quantities of material for pulp and paper industries as well as timber and lumber for construction. There can be little doubt that the railway will find for some time its chief source of revenue in the forest industries. The clearing of the forests will make the agricultural development possible, and will for some time be the chief occupation of the settlers. While the tilling of the land cannot proceed with the rapidity that it has done in the prairies, there is compensation to be found in the forest wealth and the employment that will be found in wood-cutting operations.
"The water powers are of importance to the railway and to the industries of the north. Power for electric operation of the railway; power for pulp and paper mills, and for mining operations, can be made available by developing the water powers along the part of the Abitibi River reached by the railway. The harnessing of these water powers will be an important factor in the development of the north.

"While much has yet to be learned regarding the resources of the area around Hudson Bay, it is apparent that this step northward from Cochrane is not a step in the dark. It is a venture into a promising country from which have come good reports, a country known well by very few, and yet a country which is believed by many to be well worth exploring.

LAWYER A SUICIDE, RUINED BY CLIENT

J. Frank Wheaton, a Negro, Gave $10,000 Bail for Man Who Disappeared — Tried to Find Slayer Boddy.

(New York Times)
J. Frank Wheaton, a leader in the activities of New York negroes, committed suicide in his home, 208 West 187th street, yesterday because the absconding of a client of his own race for whom he had provided $10,000 bail had brought him to the verge of ruin. The negro for whom he had gone security was Jerry Garrier, the nature of whose offense was not learned last night. Garrier's case had been called frequently, but postponed out of consideration for the high standing of his counsel. A final week had been allowed Wheaton in which to produce him. Wheaton, according to a note he left for his wife, had combated Harlem in vain, and had been despaired of finding his man. It was respect Wheaton during his career of almost twenty years here, both as a lawyer and as a graduate in law. He is the only negro who ever served in the Minnesota Legislature.
Wheaton came to public attention only recently when he used all his influence and his intimate knowledge of the districts inhabited by members of his race in an effort to aid the police in capturing Luther Boddy, who killed two detectives in Harlem and was caught in Philadelphia.
Besides having been a leader in Democratic politics in New York, Wheaton had been Grand Exalted Ruler of Manhattan Lodge, 45, of Colored Elks. He served for a time as Assistant District Attorney under Edward Swann. He organized the Equity Congress, which was influential in having the Fifteenth negro infantry legalized as part of the National Guard.
Wheaton is survived by three sons, Richard, a student at Columbus University, who found his father's body in a gas-filled bathroom; Frank, Jr., a New York Dental College. He is to be buried next Thursday from St. Benedict's Roman Catholic church, in which he was a communicant.

Alexandria Lodge, No. 4, of the Knights Templars, held a session last evening in their building and, after a short business conference, an enjoyable smoker was held, at which an entertaining programme was carried out. Refreshments were served towards the close.

LUMINOUS RADIIUM USED TO SAVE LIFE. Danger Points of Machinery, High Pressure Gauges and Fire Defenses Shine in Dark.

(New York Times) While radium is best known for its widely heralded curative properties in the treatment of cancer, its role in industry as a lifesaver is also important. It is especially important in the case of the miner, where its use in industrial institutions where darkness signifies danger may be eliminated in the future through development of the newest invention of science—luminous material.

Radium illuminated watches are familiar articles. Radium luminous material is being shown in this year's automobile show, used on gasoline gauges and other automobile parts to render them visible in the dark, obviating the necessity and danger of lighting a match.

The same material that illuminates the face of the watch is now being employed in the factory or power-line switches, where climbing might mean death to the operator by electrocution. High-pressure gauges, which are installed as an insurance against dangers, are deprived of a great deal of their safety value through inconstant lighting. Their dependability as indicators is increased tremendously through making them safe twenty-four hours a day by the application of radium luminous material.

Electric switches are often set in places which are unlit. This includes electric lighting equipment which is usually visible only after the light it controls has been turned on. A spot of radium luminous material on the button or switch makes them easily located.

Likewise a fire alarm or a fire extinguisher is deprived of a good deal of its efficiency through being invisible in the dark. Radium luminous material acts as a quick locator for them. Telephones, which often must be found quickly in the dark in emergencies, various emergency call bells and receivers are often more useful if illuminated. Gun sights, illuminated, insure accuracy in aim in the dark. The need of illuminating piston bottles, so that they may stand out warningly in the dark, has been demonstrated too often to need further dwelling on. An interesting safety device is the safe combination whose dial is radium illuminated, so that no artificial light need be used for it.

The industrial uses of radium luminous material are many. Bolts that are necessarily attached to the dark under- portions of machines, and components are being touched with luminous material, with a consequent great saving of life and limb. In mines, where the carrying of oil lamps or the placing of electric lighting equipment is not feasible, radium has been found to be a boon to humanity.

The value of radium to mariners is beginning to be recognized. Not only

COMPULSION IN SOCIAL SERVICE

System Similar to Impaneling for Jury Work was Advocated.

Lecture on Poverty — Secretary of Buffalo C.O.S. Contended Poverty as Social Disease Could be Eradicated.

(Montreal Gazette) Drafting by the state of men for military service on the same principle as that advocated by Frederick Lamy, of Buffalo, secretary of the Charity Organization Society of that city, in an address delivered yesterday afternoon before students of the Department of Social Service of McGill University, "in some places," said the lecturer, "they draft men for social service. I would like to see them drafted just as much for this as for military service. For centuries we have drafted men for jury service, and in Germany for sixty years they have drafted for volunteer visiting service among the poor. That system was begun in 1882 and was known as the Ellerfeld plan. Why should we not draft men for social service if our social enemies are more dangerous than our military enemies?"

In his lecture on "Poverty: a Social Disease," Mr. Almy first asserted that it was such that it was communicable, curable and preventable. "We fight disease," he said, "it takes lives; and we must fight poverty. Ignorance, disease and sin are the chief elements in poverty, and if we want to combat poverty, we must fight them all."

Mr. Almy referred to the Great War and the fact that there had been pacifists and shirkers who had failed to do their bit in it. "I do not see the day when I can almost lynch a shirker and a slacker in our social war. I want to see the day when one committee for social work," Mr. Almy went on to argue that if there was taxation for the purposes of public education and public health and recreation, he did not see why the com-

WHAT THEY TALK ABOUT IN LONDON

Earl Cavan Chief of Imperial General Staff.

Christmas in Chibland of Empire Metropolis—Gossip in Political Circles—Cabinet Minister Predicts Better Times.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) London, Dec. 28.—Earl Cavan's appointment as chief of the imperial general staff in place of Sir Henry Wilson, retired, marks the return of the war office to the traditions of the pre-war regime. Everybody respects the gallant earl, and recognizes his good service in many arenas of the war, but it can scarcely be pretended that as a scientific soldier, apart from his high social degree, the new chief of staff quite ranks with some other distinguished commanders who won their spurs on the western front.

Christmas in Chibland.

Apart from matters of such perennial interest as the doings of royalty, chibland is mainly occupied at the moment in discussing Christmas and Christmas fare, for some of the clubs still keep up old customs and annually inflict on their members whole barons of beef and gargantuan plum puddings. So far as the barons of beef are concerned, considerable difficulty is always experienced in disposing of the residue. I know of one very exclusive and somewhat expensive institution, where, for the two or three days which have elapsed since Christmas, you have been able to obtain a plate of the most excellent cold roast beef for the modest sum of 10d. Apart from these festivities there are the serenades of the ever-increasing extent are patronized by members who seek in this way to show their appreciation of the work of the staff.

write M. P. after his name. In old times, when this rule was made, it worked out fairly satisfactorily.

It was Lord Robert Cecil, I think, who declared some time ago that the lower house, as it present constituted, consisted in respect of three-fourths of its membership of hard-faced gentlemen who had done well out of the war. These same gentlemen were in the happy position of being able to make their pick of the cream of the clubs of Pall Mall, and, being blessed with any amount of money, they scarcely troubled to pick or choose at all, but "joined the whole blizzard" in. Their accession to the smoking-room may have swelled the demand for big cigars, but has scarcely contributed to the social amenities of the club lounge, and the trouble is that it is quite impossible to get rid of them.

Troubled Waters.

In these same political clubs there is much getting into corners and whisperings in progress. The impression is that the Gladstone report is going to be published very soon and that very quickly thereafter Lloyd George will go to the country upon it, hoping to sweep everything before him by exploiting the anti-waste cry. Labor, on its part, would make a great effort to put unemployment in the forefront of the campaign; but the prime minister thinks that the economy ticket will bring him back to power. Whatever happens in regard to Labor, the Unionist dis-hardy thinks, without reason, that they are in danger of being swamped unless in the interval they can find a leader who will command votes in the country. The names talked about are still Lord Birkenhead and Winston Churchill. Lord Birkenhead is credited, cabinet and confirmed by membership of the House of Lords. Nor is there any immediate prospect of his release from duress.

Great efforts are being made to hurry forward a reform of the upper house which would enable its individual members to sit or vote in the Commons after the preliminary of obtaining the suffrages of the intelligent electors of Puddington-on-Med. But these efforts are not likely to be crowned with success this side of the general election. There remains Mr. Churchill. From all accounts he is not very happy about the Irish settlement. But I happen to know that Mr. Churchill was sounded on this very subject of leadership at the height of the Irish crisis. He shook his head. The reasons he urged against it were personal and entirely to his credit. He recalled that when his sheer boredom of performing humdrum military duties at the front, with no apparent prospect of military advancement commensurate with his gifts, was driving him to distraction, Lloyd George had lifted him out of the Slog of Despond and taken him into the cabinet. The man who told me this commented that Lloyd George probably knew his job and his man. He thought that Winston would be much safer inside the House than throwing stones at the windows from the outside. That is not Winston's view. He still looks upon the prime minister's action with feelings of genuine gratitude.

MISS MARJORIE HUME, The Well-known Film Star, writes—

"I have for long been a constant user of Phosferine, which is a really wonderful nerve tonic, and I cannot speak too highly of its recuperative effects. My work for the stage and screen has for some time past been very strenuous, and, in addition, I am very fond of various kinds of sport, riding and boating and tennis, etc., and thanks to Phosferine I am able to keep all these going during my spare time, and turn up fresh and energetic at all engagements and rehearsals. A course of Phosferine makes me feel able to concentrate effectively, either mentally or physically, upon anything I undertake. Certainly the feeling of vigour makes one thoroughly enjoy either work or play, and one understands more fully what it is to really appear at one's best." 31st July, 1921.

This beautiful young Film favourite is fully assured that the greater part of her success in work and pastimes is due to the additional nerve force derived from Phosferine.—Phosferine ensures you have a perfectly healthy condition of her nerve organisms that she always possesses the vitality to look, and do her best, with that distinction she characteristic of all the undertakes.

little to the festive occasion by taking a sincerely and convincingly cheerful view of the outlook for the new year generally. In his opinion the worst of the catastrophic effects of the war which at one time threatened our western civilization far more critically than most people were aware have now been weathered. We have survived the most serious perils that followed in the trail of the great world upheaval, and may now look forward more hopefully to steadier, more prosperous, and happier times. Just as we were all disposed to be unduly optimistic directly after the war, so now we are rather prone to be unduly gloomy. In the deliberate view of the distinguished authority whom I am quoting, we have now reached comparatively smooth waters politically and have every prospect of soon doing the same thing economically. This is distinctly good news, coming from so eminent and intelligent a source.

Let my Christmas was spent in the vivacious company of a cabinet minister off duty, who added not a the world's speed record by the English Baniel aeroplane, certain French sportsmen are trying to cast doubts on the genuineness of the tests. For the last two years at least everyone knew that we possessed the fastest aeroplane in the world, first the Martinsyde "Scimitar" and then the Gloucestershire "Baniel," but sheer bad luck has prevented vindicating the claim against the French record-holders. So the builders and pilot of the "Baniel" determined to submit the machine to the rigorous and impartial government test at Martlesham Heath, from which the aerogal indisputably the fastest thing in the air.

An Awkward Doublet.

An interesting fact the London Journalists seem not to have discovered is that Mr. De Valera has a "doublet" in London who is, though more thoroughly Irish than the famous Sinn Fein chieftain, not even distantly related to him. This gentleman, who holds a secular appointment connected with the Westminister diocese, is tall, thin, sallow, wears the same distinctive horn-rim spectacles, possesses a pronounced Irish brogue, and in fact figure and gait more exactly resembles De Valera than can easily be imagined. Mr. De Valera and his "doublet" are, I understand, not personally acquainted, but Irishmen who happen to know them both find it very hard to tell one from the other. When the Sinn Fein president was over in London making those long impassioned speeches to Lloyd George across the tea table at 10 Downing Street, his Westminister "doublet" had a most embarrassing time. He could not show his nose out of doors without being instantly identified on all sides as "De Valera" and encountering disconcerting attentions as well as difficult predicaments. The famous Dolly Sisters are more easily told apart. It may have been this Westminister "doublet" who unwittingly gave rise to the prevalent rumor in London at the time of the negotiations proper that Mr. De Valera had come over to consult with his plenipotentiaries.

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1922

THE ENGINEERING INSTITUTE DISCUSSES HYDRO PROBLEMS

Rumors That Water Supply Might Not Be Sufficient Are Dealt With—Mr. Kirby Confirms Estimate That Rates to Consumers Could Be Cut in Two—The Matter of Distribution.

Considerable new light was thrown on the subject of the hydro-electric development project and the problems of local distribution at the regular meeting of the St. John branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, which was held last evening in the Orange Hall, Germain street, with the chairman, F. P. Vaughan, presiding. The meeting was devoted to a consideration of hydro matters and valuable contributions to the discussion were made by Herbert Phillips, C. C. Kirby, C. O. Foss and the other speakers. An interesting feature of the meeting was the manner in which several rumors which have been circulated about the city, notably the story that there would not be sufficient water to make the power dependable, were dealt with. Independent figures presented by Mr. Kirby, who confirmed the estimate that by economical distribution the current could be delivered to the consumers at less than half the present rates also formed an interesting feature of the discussion. In his address, Mr. Phillips told of rumors in circulation in regard to lack of water at Musquash. This was a serious statement. It was not conceivable, he said, that reliable data was not examined by the engineers before the project was undertaken. The engineers had proper data that had been gathered by the waterways branch of the department of the interior and there was no doubt but that it was reliable. The Leprard was gauged for a four-year period and the Musquash for one year. Both gauges had checked closely, considering the difference in the size of the valleys. They could expect 270 cubic second feet per minute the year around. The figure of 180 had been adopted by the engineers to be conservative. Another argument raised was that the power was dear because of construction at peak prices. This argument should not appeal to any engineer. Some prices might have been high, but an error of judgment by the engineers or contractors could have had a much greater effect. The St. John price of 1.2 cents per k.w.h. was not very high, as compared with Ontario prices of .75 cents. Engineers had advised the city to get out from under. This was not warranted. The citizens paid $569,000 to the company in 1920 for 12,000,000 k.w.h. The speaker figured that the city could distribute 12,000,000 k.w.h. at a total cost of $280,000 to the citizens. He was safe in saying that the price to the consumer could be reduced at least one-half of the present rates. C. C. Kirby started a technical discussion on the water available and it was shown by C. O. Foss that there were 2,250,000,000 cubic feet of storage, with storage facilities not nearly exhausted.

placed the figure at $75,000 in order to be on the safe side. Mr. Foss also said that the price of 1.2 cents per k.w.h. to the city might be lower. The commission had said that the price would not exceed that figure. In reply to G. N. Hatfield, Mr. Weston said that the office of the commission was open at all times to the public and the engineers would be pleased to show any figures on the water available or anything else they wanted to see. And if any one wanted to inspect the dams he would take them there. Mr. Foss said that the office belonged to the public and contracts and everything else were available.

New Offer to City.

In reply to a question if the commissioner had made a new offer to the city, Mr. Foss said that he had not. He replied that he had agreed to defer depreciation and sinking fund charges and the royalty for such a period as was necessary for the city to dispose of the power, such a period not to exceed three years. At the end of the period, however, the charges would have to be made up.

H. R. McLellan, who was present as a guest, asked Mr. Foss if the city did not take all the power available would the commission sell the balance to any one in the city, especially the power company.

Mr. Foss replied that 21,000,000 k.w.h. would be developed. A minimum amount of 10,000,000 k.w.h. was offered to the city, but it could take all if it wished. If the city took 10,000,000 k.w.h., between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 would be sold along the line to Moncton and the remaining 5,000,000 probably would be sold to the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company. Mr. Foss asserted that if the power company got any it would have to get it through the city.

Mr. McLellan said that the Nashwaak company might not take any power. In that case the commission could not refuse to sell to the company.

Mr. Kirby agreed with this and said that the commission could not discriminate against the company. Mr. McLellan said that the only thing to be done was for the city to take all the power and then sell the required amount to the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company. That would be the only safe way. If the company got, say, 10,000,000 k.w.h., it would be in a position to fight the city on business. It was moved by Mr. Waring, seconded by Mr. Hatfield, and unanimously carried that a vote of thanks be extended to those who had taken part in the discussion and for the information received. The chairman, in a fitting manner, tendered the vote to those who had spoken. Mr. Kirby's Figures. It was figured out by Mr. Kirby that the city could pay $182,000 to the power commission for the power and distribute 9,500,000 k. w. h. at an average rate of 3.75 cents, including all charges and taxes paid by the company to the city. If more than this amount was distributed the price would be proportionately reduced. The present average cost was more than eight cents per k. w. h. This price would have to be divided into power and light and a lower rate given to power users and the rate slightly increased to light users. This would make cheap power available.

The question of the city distributing the power was one of policy, Mr. Kirby said. He read a lengthy and enlightening paper in regard to the position of the power company and described what would happen if the city took over the power. The company would lose by such an action, and if the company delivered it the citizens would suffer. He suggested that the company be reorganized, its capital stock a public director placed in control by the city, the company to distribute the power, the price to be as low as possible. There could be a reduction of rates under these conditions.

Speaking for the Citizens' Committee, Mr. Phillips said that there was no particular animosity against the company, but public utilities became necessities by and to provide these was the work of the government. He believed that it was wrong for private rights to control necessities, especially when the government had originally promoted the proposition. He asked if the company would accept Mr. Kirby's proposition. Mr. Kirby replied that no deal would be possible with the company until the city council had passed a resolution to take the power. Then the company could be brought to terms.

Mr. Waring said that it was the same question that arose in connection with the Portland power plant.

In reply to questions about the condition of the dams, Mr. Weston said that there were twenty-two dams and all were "O. K." except two of these. In one there was a slight seepage through the concrete. The contractor had offered to repair this but the engineers wanted to let it alone to see what the action of the winter on it would be. There was another, a hardwood dam, with which there had been trouble, but it had been completely repaired. Out of twenty-two dams this was not a serious matter.

DUKE OF YORK TO WED LADY MASHLEY

(Canadian Press Despatch.) Toronto, Jan. 19.—A Mail and Empire cable from London says: At the wedding of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles next month the announcement will be made of the engagement of the Duke of York to Lady Mary Ashley, daughter of Lady Shaftesbury, who is lady in waiting to the Queen, persons in high standing at the court say.

FOUR LIFE MEMBERSHIPS.

The Missionary Aid Society of the Tabernacle Baptist church met last evening with Mrs. R. D. Goggin in the chair. After the opening devotions a duet was sung by the little Misses Gladys and Doris Patterson. Rev. A. L. Tedford followed with a reading and the remainder of the programme was as follows: Exercise, Miss Nellie Owen, Miss S. Lunn, Miss A. Armstrong, Miss Florence Allon, reading, Miss Mary Owens; "India," by Rev. Mr. Tedford; solo, Peter Murray; reading, Miss L. Fletcher. Four members were given life membership certificates. They were Mrs. H. Litus, Mrs. Bertha Patterson, Miss Nellie Owens, Miss L. Young. Refreshments were served at the close by Mrs. T. Owens and Mrs. Gray.

INQUEST ON DEATH AT PENITENTIARY

Dorchester, Jan. 19.—The death of a prisoner named John White at the maritime penitentiary on Monday, was made the subject of enquiry by a coroner's jury. The prisoner, who was about twenty-eight years old, belonged to Pictou (N. S.), and was brought to the penitentiary last year to serve a four years sentence. He had been ill about a week and the jury after hearing evidence, including the medical testimony of Dr. A. R. Myers, of Moncton, found that the man's death was due to natural causes. About forty members of the Dominion Lodge, L. O. G. T., No. 445, attended the annual sleigh drive on Wednesday evening and went out to Torryburn. On returning to the Lodge Hall in Murray street refreshments were served by an able committee under the connership of Mrs. T. B. Brown, assisted by Mrs. B. L. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Jones. Games were indulged in afterwards and the evening very pleasantly spent. The members of the sleigh committee were George Kelly and Ernest Chapman.

LAUNDRY SLED DAMAGED.
A rather startling street accident occurred about ten o'clock this morning in Canterbury street, when one of the delivery sleds belonging to Ungar's Laundry skidded at the corner of Princess street, frightening the horse and making him run away. Just as the horse started the driver jumped out and immediately afterwards the sled overturned. The horse kept on his way down Canterbury street, turning into the sidewalk along which he continued until the sled, now on its side, hooked around a telephone pole and the animal was brought abruptly to a stop. The sled was somewhat broken, especially the top where it hit the pole, but the driver, named Fishman, and the horse, escaped apparently without injury.

THOMAS CAMPBELL.
The death of Thomas Campbell occurred at his residence, 301 Union street, last evening. ### Urge Fair Play For Maritime Industries Manufacturers Present Their Case Before Board of Railway Commissioners

Hearing in Investigation Regarding Equalization of Freight Rates Continued in This City Yesterday —Basis of Agreement for Overhead Crossing in Douglas Avenue Discussed—Lumbermen Present Applications.

The Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners, in session in the city yesterday heard evidence in the general investigation regarding the equalization of eastern and western freight rates. The hearing was a continuation of a previous session in Halifax and the arguments in the matter will be heard at a sitting of the board in Ottawa on February 15. The case for the maritime provinces was conducted by I. C. Rand of Moncton and a large number of the local manufacturers filed their statements and appeared on their own behalf. The heavy handicap which the maritime manufacturers suffer through high freight rates was pointed out and a return to the former arbitrariness was urged, as well as special commodity rates.

Markets Needed.

The imperative need for a western market for maritime industries was argued, not primarily as a source of profit but more particularly as a means of obtaining necessary expansion. The C. Manufacturers' Association each had representation at the meeting and the counsel for the two railway companies conducted a sharp examination. Arguments in connection with an application for reduction of the freight rate on fertilizer and crushed lime in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island were heard also.

and was not speaking in his official capacity, as minister of public works of the province, pointed out that under the highway act neither federal aid nor highway money could be used within the limits of a city or incorporated town. Dr. Baxter announced that a conference of the engineers of the various parties concerned in the erection of the bridge would be arranged immediately. Equalization of Rates. A general investigation regarding the equalization of eastern and western freight rates was then commenced, with I. C. Rand representing the maritime provinces and introducing the various representatives of the manufacturers. J. B. Kuchly represented the Canadian Manufacturers' Association; F. H. Kreidler, the C. P. R., and Allison Fraser, the C. N. R. Mr. Rand explained that he was considering the hearing as a continuation of the Halifax session and would not elaborate the position of the maritime interests, but he would like the board to bear in mind the limited population of these provinces and the fact that any industry here started with a handicap. An expanded market was necessary and the industry was the only one available. He admitted that it was uneconomical, but said that the whole system of the country was uneconomical geographically. The manufacturers sent shipments to the west to relieve their overhead charges and not primarily for profit. He did not think the victims here would present any difficulty. He understood that he was suffering from an unfair disadvantage. The arbitrariness of 1914 in relation to the maritime provinces should have been allowed to remain, but had been violently changed and nothing had occurred to justify the change. The conditions were such as to deter any expansion and to induce a removal to more accessible markets. He understood that he was suffering from an unfair disadvantage. My Experience as a nurse has been that there is nothing known to medical science that can compare with Zam-Buk for the treatment of skin troubles or injuries. This is the opinion of Miss J. Keith, professional nurse, of Olds, Alta. She continues: "I have tested Zam-Buk personally, and have used it for my patients in a great number of cases—always with the same satisfactory results. 'Speaking professionally,' Miss Keith concludes, 'my advice to all sufferers from eczema or any other skin trouble is to use Zam-Buk freely and regularly. I am confident that this treatment will be found sufficient to cure even the most stubborn cases.' Zam-Buk, being composed solely of natural substances, is so refined that it penetrates to the underlying tissues, which is where skin diseases have their roots. Unless a salve is capable of penetrating to the root of the disease it cannot permanently heal. This is why ordinary ointments which, owing to their coarse ingredients, never get beneath the surface, either do not heal at all or only heal over the outside. Zam-Buk cures, on the contrary, stay cures. Zam-Buk is also unequalled for cuts, burns, scalds, and other injuries. When Zam-Buk is applied, there is no danger of setting in, and the skin ends pain and heals so quickly."

QUICKLY HEALS!

The freight rate for his goods had advanced from 1 1/2 cents in 1914 to 19 cents. Western shipments were twenty per cent. and Ontario shipments fifteen per cent. of the goods bought in St. John and Gloucester from Ontario, and about one-third of the goods bought in the west were re-shipped to the west in the manufactured product. He did not complain of the classification of his goods, but desired an arbitrary lower than the class rate. There had been a commodity rate on confectionery to Montreal which judgment of the railway board in 1916. The firm's business in 1921 was a gross total business some years ago than it was today. The business' turnover year had been 1913, and while now thirty per cent. of its total output went west of the Lakes, in 1913 the percentage had been higher. Freight rates worked a hardship in two directions, on raw material and on the outgoing finished goods. Competition from Quebec and Ontario was very keen.

It cost $1.21 to ship 100 pounds of nails to Van Buren in Aroostook county (Me.) Commissioner Carvell said that the matter was not so much a question of how freight rates affected local conditions as whether a redistribution of rates should be made between east and west and he asked Mr. Elkin what he would suggest be done in order to aid manufacturing in the east. Suggests Survey. Mr. Elkin said he believed a survey should be made of the conditions of the industries. Freight rates should be reconstructed on a basis of Montreal and Toronto and differentials for the reasons with some consideration of the profit and the tonnage of the business concerned. He would suggest commodity rates on a Montreal basis. Railroads must have some income, he realized, but he thought that the rates should be every mile of road. They could make up in the centres where there was crowded traffic, but he thought that if a mileage basis was used industries with a long haul must go down. He approved of a commodity rate but the difficulty in getting a commodity rate depended upon the personality of the freight agent and the state of mind of the freight agent, and unless a basis was established there always would be an inequality. Mr. Carvell asked if Mr. Elkin would suggest a general reduction of all commodity rates. Mr. Elkin said that he would. Mr. Carvell asked if he was not seeking an arbitrary rate for shipping into Montreal. Mr. Elkin said that he was not. Mr. Rand said that the maritime provinces wanted what was placed on an arbitrary rate. Mr. Elkin said that he had no objection to that. "After the depressing effects of influenza, the restorative properties of Hall's Wine are simply marvellous."

"Hall's Wine has done me up so effectively that I have gained my health since."

"As a rapid and permanent tonic for influenza and debility, Hall's Wine is invaluable."

"In general weakness and nervousness, I have taken Hall's Wine and have been recommended to be particularly efficacious. I have recommended it to my friends."

"In cases of Neurasthenic Debility following Influenza, Hall's Wine works wonders. Shall always recommend it."

"Hall's Wine is invaluable where the vitality is low or the nerves are shattered."

Evidence.

OUR claims for Hall's Wine rest not upon what we say of it, but upon the abundant testimony of medical men. Among these letters of appreciation are many asking for specific supplies for urgent cases, others praising its worth, as proved in their daily practice or in their own homes. Countless numbers of other letters come from nurses and patients, but the most convincing evidence of all in favour of Hall's Wine is medical opinion.

A well-known doctor says:—"In cases of mental and physical exhaustion, I know of nothing better than Hall's Wine."

Another says:—"She is suffering from a condition of blood and nerves which would be much benefited by taking Hall's Wine."

The extracts shown are from a few of the letters on our files. If published these latter would fill many volumes, and would form a striking tribute to the wonderful results achieved by Hall's Wine.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at Regina P. H. Auld, deputy minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, expressed the belief that the business of the province and for a relatively greater purchasing power on the part of farmers, are distinctly better off in 1921. A greater stability in farm produce markets in 1922 is looked for by Mr. Auld as a result of the passing of war-time restrictions and the disposal of government stores of meat, butter and other farm products. An increase in value is not to be expected; but a gradual improvement in the farmer's position, it he brought about by increased purchasing power rather than higher prices, may be anticipated. The purchasing power of grain and live stock in comparison with wholesale and retail prices of other commodities has, in Mr. Auld's opinion, reached its lowest point, and will begin to improve.

HOCKEY.

Moncton Defeated.
In the Independent Hockey League game last night at New Glasgow the home team defeated Moncton by a score of 8 to 6 after playing ten minutes overtime on account of a tie at the end of the third period, 6 to 6. About 600 people watched the game which was hard, fast and clean throughout.

St. John Team Loses.
The Shelton team, leaders in the Northern section of the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island league, won the first hockey game played in St. John for some time yesterday on the East End Grounds from the local team, of the western section of the league, by a score of two to one. There was lack of combination play especially on the part of the local aggregation although some good individual plays were made. G. G. Gilbert refereed the game.

WHAT HYDRO DOES FOR THE PEOPLE
(Toronto Globe).
A prominent Toronto builder put up a handsome home, and is going to let a lot of electrical contractors, dealers and appliance manufacturers use it to teach Toronto people the advantages of modern electrical devices.

Torontonians are to be shown how to wash dishes, sweep carpets, sew, cook and do other things in a more efficient way. These dealers and appliance manufacturers along with the Toronto Hydro-electric System thought that it would be better if they could show in a real way just how a home looks and runs who electricity is the handmaid.

They also knew that a much better idea of the usefulness of a washing machine, for instance, could be given if the machine was fitted up in the home laundry instead of in a store window, where there isn't room to move about.

An electric range will be there, and a dish washer and a water heater, which, if it isn't convenient to have it in the kitchen, then have it in the cellar, but a switch up in the kitchen starts it going and stops it.

A sewing machine, a glow heater, an electric ironing machine, and sparking appliances on the dining room table will be present. From top to bottom this will be an electric house. Although such prosaic things as washing machines will be in evidence, yet the dimmest of little lamps and the most artistic of floor lamps will furnish illumination. Hints will be given as to the correct method of wiring and the best system of illumination.

This house will be open to the public for two weeks. There will be no admission charge, and none of the articles displayed will be for sale.

N. Y. POLICEMAN IS KILLED BY A CRAZED NEGRO
New York, Jan. 20.—A crazed negro, awaiting examination as to his sanity last night shot and mortally wounded Patrolman Motz in a rear room of the West 123rd street police station. Motz, who had a wife and two children, died in less than an hour. He had been shot with his own gun.

A second killing was averted when the gun misfired. Patrolman Magrath was the second intended victim. He leaped at the negro as he stood over his victim's body. The negro was subdued after a terrific fight in which half a score of policemen beat him down.

WASHING THE FACE OF "BIG BEN"

A striking photograph showing the cleaning and painting of the original "Big Ben." The famous clock of the Houses of Parliament in London. The huge hands have been removed and workmen are engaged in scrubbing away dirt that has accumulated during and since the war.

have been addressed by such speakers as H. Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times. "The Maple Leaf," a monthly magazine, which is the official organ of the club, has been revived, and it is hoped that will make it of interest to other than members of the Canadian Club. It is primarily designed to serve the purpose of keeping the non-resident members in touch with the club and its activities.

During the year the club has been very active in relief work. The Canadian Club was one of the first organizations in the United States to telegraph $1,000 to the governor of Colorado at the time of the Pueblo disaster, but the greatest need of the moment is for the alleviation of distress among the many Canadian ex-soldiers and other otherwise stranded in New York, without funds or employment. It has proved a very serious and difficult problem, with which the Canadian Club has been grappling.

In this connection the president recently issued the following individual appeal to each member of the club: "There are many hundreds of Canadian ex-soldiers in New York, not only out of employment, but in real need of shelter and clothing. As the winter grows more severe, their needs will become the more acute. I therefore, desire to personally call your attention to these conditions in order to enlist your support and co-operation."

"An immediate urgent need is clothing—partially overcoats. Many of our fellow Canadians in search of food and employment are out in the present weather without sufficient clothing, and I appeal for your contributions of any spare clothing you may have.

"I enlist your help in alleviating conditions which are bound to become more serious, even though it might entail the side-tracking of some personal comfort or pleasure. Over forty men a day are being dealt with, and I cannot over-emphasize the urgency of this appeal."

Work or Relief.
The actual work of relief is being splendidly carried on by the B. G. W. V. of America in New York, who have now established a bureau for the issue of clothing and subsistence and the finding of employment.

The Canadian Club of New York has maintained its place as the largest, most representative and influential Canadian organization in the United States, and it is living up to its objects as expressed in article 11 of the constitution, which reads:

"The objects of the club shall be to promote friendly and social intercourse among Canadians in this vicinity; the entertainment of prominent Canadians and other distinguished visitors; to encourage amicable relations between the peoples of the United States and Canada; the dissemination of data bearing upon the industrial, commercial and literary resources of Canada, and to provide relief for those in need of assistance."

A committee is considering the question of a permanent home for the club. The lease on its present quarters in the Hotel Belmont expires in two years, and it is felt that a home with a separate identity and character should be secured. Such a building would be more consistent with the dignity and importance of Canadian interests in New York. It is felt, too, that there cannot be a real club atmosphere until the quarters are removed from a hotel. The present location of the club, however, is a great asset and convenience to Canadian non-resident members visiting in New York, as they can cross direct from the Grand Central Station to the club, with its guest rooms, bath and dining room and every conceivable facility for comfort.

During the past year many hundreds of Canadians, who are non-resident members of the club or their friends have stayed at the club during their visit to New York.

GOOD TEETH VITAL TO GOOD HEALTH

Many Ailments Now Traced by the X-Ray to Abscesses on the Jaw—Care of Mouth Essential.

(New York Times.)

It is only recently that the teeth and mouth have been suspected of being a source of a number of serious infectious diseases, especially diseases of the heart, blood, kidney, and joints. The development of X-ray photography, particularly the celluloid film, which has made the making of X-ray pictures of the teeth most convenient, has shown infected roots of the teeth to be the cause of many obscure "rheumatic" and other joint troubles.

Careful examination of many skulls in the national museums show the inferiority of the teeth of our present white races as compared with those of ancient times or those of the present who continue to live under primitive conditions, and the United States Public Health Service, in a discussion of the care of teeth, points out that the teeth have responded to the laws of nature just as have other organs and other tissues. The teeth of the present-day Eskimo, for example, are still in the stage of improvement.

The Eskimo did not choose the extreme North as his place of abode because of his fondness for the intense cold. Not being a wasteful person, he gradually worked as far North as man can exist in an endeavor to escape the raids of the more warlike Indian tribes. Living thus he has had to exist on the coarsest of foods. Besides this, since his tools and implements are few and simple, he has often been compelled to use his teeth as both tools and implements. He chews his moosuin strings to make them pliable.

With our white races, whose habits of life are such that little hard usage is demanded of the teeth, we find that the teeth and bony structures have degenerated, and some persons have assumed that in a comparatively few thousand years our civilized races will no longer possess any dental organs. In telling of the care necessary for the teeth, the service says that in addition to careful attention to proper food to build strong and healthy teeth, it is important to make sure that everything is done to prevent decay.

"Decay of the teeth," it continues, "spoken of as 'dental caries,' is caused by the action of germs which lodge upon the exposed parts of a tooth. As a result of their growth the tooth structure is softened, allowing the succeeding generations of bacteria to penetrate further into the tissues of the tooth. It will be noticed that decay usually begins either in the little grooves upon the surface used in chewing, or else at the point where one tooth adjoins another. This point also fails to receive the scouring which the more exposed parts of a tooth receive. In some of the ancient skulls examined it was found that the surfaces which made contact with other teeth in the same jaw were highly polished by the slight motion of each tooth in its socket as hard pressure was brought to bear upon it and it was thus rubbed against its neighbor. Therefore, to reduce or prevent decay of the teeth we must work along two lines; to polish all surfaces of the teeth as far as possible and to reduce the number of bacteria to a minimum.

"Smearing the nails with clay or vaseline and endeavoring to cleanse them with an old tooth brush will enable one to form an opinion as to the most effective method of brushing the teeth. Brushing across the nails will leave material along the sides of each nail; brushing up and down the nail will leave the cleaned; but if the brush be used in a rotary manner, the bristles describing a small circle upon the nail, it will be found that all the material will be removed. For the inner side of the teeth, the brush is used as one would use a hoe, as the rotary motion is impracticable, but in using this motion the brush should not be pushed back, as this will tend to carry germs beneath the gum margin.

"If the gums bleed when the teeth are brushed, some abnormal condition exists, and a competent dentist should be once consulted. A healthy gum is not easily injured. A thorough rinsing of the mouth should follow to remove such materials as has been dislodged by the previous process. The use of a tooth powder, tooth paste, or other dentifrice is desirable and there is no particular choice in the selection except that it should not be gritty. Ordinarily lime water is excellent for cleaning the teeth, for it dissolves the mucous film which often covers the teeth.

"The use of the toothpick is generally condemned, as in its use many persons injure the delicate gum tissue which extends in a crescent-shaped mass between the teeth. The preservation of this tissue is very desirable. Dental floss is very valuable in cleansing the surfaces between the teeth, but care should be taken in its use.

"The teeth should be carefully brushed after each meal. When this is impracticable, the teeth should be at least brushed on arising in the morning and before retiring at night, and thorough rinsing of the mouth and gargling of the throat should be practiced after each meal. The gums may also be cleansed with the brush, but not with as hard usage as when polishing the teeth.

"The first sign of tartar is a slight roughness, felt usually on the inside of the lower front teeth. This is caused by deposits from the saliva of a hard, chalky substance. If you find that your teeth have tartar deposits, go immediately to your dentist and have him remove the deposits and give the teeth a thorough cleaning and polishing. The clean condition of the mouth resulting from tartar deposits is a common cause of 'bad breath.'

"An accumulation of tartar where the teeth join the gums is a contributing cause, but not the only cause of pyorrhea, or Riga's disease. The gums become irritated and infected by disease-producing germs, the tissues are broken down and pus forms. Unless the pyorrhea sufferer is prompt in getting his case in the hands of a dentist the infection continues, rapidly dissolving the soft bone surrounding the teeth, which is called the alveolar process, and destroying the attachment of the soft tissues of the gums to the teeth. In severe cases the teeth become loose and eventually are lost.

"There is no dental disease in the treatment of which it is so important for the dentist to have the hearty cooperation and support of the patient as in the treatment of pyorrhea. No medi-icine has ever been suggested which will cure pyorrhea, and the sooner this fact is recognized by both dentist and patient the better for all concerned. The only known remedy is the thorough removal of all irritating substances of whatever nature and the polishing of all exposed tooth surfaces by the dentist, and the subsequent proper use of tooth brush, powder or paste to keep the teeth and gums in a healthy condition.

HICKORY SHORTAGE Hickory timber has become so scarce, although held in seemingly vast amount by the forests of the country, that it may soon become insufficient to meet American manufacturing and woodworking needs. The country's present supply of hickory, according to figures compiled by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, is distributed over 200,000,000 acres of forest, or a total of 15,784,000,000 board feet. Of this the Central States have 6,791,000,000 feet, the lower Mississippi States 5,171,000,000 feet, the South Atlantic and

East Gulf States 3,183,000,000 feet, the Middle Atlantic States 412,000,000 board feet, the Lake States 197,000,000 feet, and the New England States 40,000,000 feet. One of the uses to which hickory is put is the manufacture of spokes for automobile wheels. Vehicle and agricultural implement industries compete with the hickory industry for hickory and ash. These are located in the Middle West, but now derive most of their wood supplies from the south. A large number of far-sighted organizations purchased more or less extensive hardwood tracts some years ago, from which they are now able to draw at least a part of their wood supplies. To secure hickory, which grows scatteringly over large areas, the vehicle and agricultural implement industries originally maintained extensive buying, logging and milling organizations in the South. Makers of automobile wheels say that they still can get the material required if they make sufficient effort and pay the price, but it is necessary to go further and further away for it. Hickory is often referred to as if it were a single species, like red gum or yellow poplar. In reality there are ten different kinds of hickory trees. For hickory handle classes of tool handles, such as the ax, ad, pick, hammer and hatchet. There are most valuable. The pecan hickories include the water, nutmeg and bitter nut varieties. The true hickories comprise shagbark, pig shellbark, pignut and snocker nut. The handle industry is largely dependent on this last group of trees for its raw material. The annual consumption of hickory by the handle trade is something over 120,000,000 feet board measure. The wood of the butt of a young hickory tree is of greater average toughness than it is when the tree is old. Hickory is the best known material for certain classes of tool handles, such as the ax, ad, pick, hammer and hatchet. There is certain strength, toughness and elasticity to hickory which nature has denied to other commercial woods. Hickory, due to its unvaried properties of great strength, elasticity and resiliency, is used exclusively in the manufacture of handles for golf clubs. The constant increasing popularity of this sport has placed an other demand on the hickory supply.
