SLAVERY EXISTS IN PORTUGUESE AFRICA

Boer Commandant Tells of What He Saw.

Natives are Deceived into Making Contracts and are Forced to Work
Like Cattle.

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 27.—Mr. Pienaar, who was formerly a commandant with the Boers, and subsequently settled in Angola, is contributing a series of articles to the Cape Times descriptive of his experience in Portuguese West Africa. He declares that a system of slavery exists in all the Portuguese West African islands, and also on the mainland.

"Men and women are brought from the interior, shackled together in some instances by wooden shackles, in baskets of four, being driven like cattle for weeks in this position without any consideration for age or sex. They are brought in this way to the coast, where a certain formula is gone through to legalize this vicious trade in human flesh. A Portuguese official gets upon a box and reads a paper which binds them for a certain period to the islands or the cocoa plantations for a certain remuneration. They then get a little tin box containing a copy of the contract, which is held around their necks.

"This document appears to be in order and according to law, but I am not under the impression that the men and women do not understand a single word of what is read to them, nor is it intended that they should.

"I have had hot arguments about this matter, and have been told that the natives are free to return to their native country at the expiration of their contract, but I am quite sure they have actually returned."

ROBBERY OF $193,000
IN ST. PETERSBURG

Bombs Thrown at Officers Guarding a Wagon of Gold But They Fired on Their Assaultants.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 27.—A daring robbery was committed at about noon today in the centre of this city, by which a number of highwaymen got away with $193,000 from a wagon which was conveying the cash from the customs department, to the state treasury. Two bombs were thrown in quick succession at the vehicle as it was passing close to branch of the city at the wagon by a number of armed men who after exchanging a hot fire with the gendarmes managed to secure the booty and fled across a small foot bridge over the Ekaterinsk Canal, leaving five of their number in the hands of the police.

C., and for Manila, and also for the City of San Francisco, will have general supervision of the work. As consultants of the most famous artists and architects of the world will be asked to come to Chicago.

BRITISH STEAMER WAS BURNED AT SEA

CAPE TOWN, S. A., Oct. 27.—The British steamer Haversham Grange, from New York, Sept. 23, was abandoned on fire October 24th. The passengers and crew were all saved and landed here by the steamer Melatus. The Haversham Grange was bound for Australia and was owned by the Empire Transportation Company, a British concern.

Manager Ellis, of the Ellis Stock Co., now playing at the Opera House, came in on the C. P. R. today. He was accompanied by the two new members of the company who have been engaged to play here.

In the circuit court this morning the case of Howard Willis vs. the St. John Iron Works was continued. One witness was recalled and examined at some length by the defence, after which on request of counsel for the plaintiff the jurors were taken to the St. John Iron Works to examine the machinery which had caused the alleged injury. The court adjourned until Tuesday morning, when Mr. Baxter's argument in the Clarke case will be heard.

BRITAIN, FRANCE AND ITALY SAID TO HAVE FORMED A TRIPLE ALLIANCE

Report is Not Officially Confirmed---Combination Would Hold the Balance of Power in Europe---King Edward the Originator of the Treaty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—A London despatch to the Sun says that close secrecy which for a considerable time has surrounded an event of the first magnitude in international politics was broken by an announcement that into effect as yet, but in reality it is already an almost deminating factor in the European situation. It becomes operative whenever the triple alliance between Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Italy, or rather the three treaties usually grouped under that designation, shall expire "either by expiration of time or by other cause."

This removal of great powers is a natural outcome of the destruction of the balance of power in Europe consequent upon the annihilation of Russia in the Japanese war. It is said important step formation of a league of peace, the great object of which King Edward has labored to achieve ever since he came to the throne of Great Britain. It has behind the cordial support of Spain and Portugal. There is good reason for believing that it commands also the sympathy of the United States Government, which has been well aware of its inception and purpose.

The creation of this new international compact has been accompanied and followed by serious difficulties and even dangers. First and obviously was the fact that Germany would regard it not only with natural resentment but a direct injury to her interests. It can hardly be denied that it was designed to some extent to act in restraint of Germany at that time.

It is, however, in every respect non-aggressive, and it was and is impossible for the German Emperor to criticize it except for abandoning his oft professed love of peace. The political situation in Europe as a whole is more satisfactory today than it has for several years. Pessimists point to the fact that the death of the Sultan must be expected within a few months, and that the demise of Em-keeps Sunderland House, London, and her own dowry, but is precluded from going to Blenheim. The document, it was added, was signed October 23. The Duke is now at Blenheim and the Duchess is staying at Sunderland House.

He Speaks of the Necessity for a Department of Labor in France.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—When President Fallieres received the members of the new cabinet shortly after its formation he made the following statement to M. Viviani, the minister of labor:

"No doctrine, no reform, no matter how bold, frightens me. The government as constituted must march at the head of the democracy. Consequently I look with pleasure on the creation of the ministry of labor, in the present state of economic evolution in France such a ministry is absolutely necessary."

MARLBOROUGHS ARE LEGALLY SEPARATED

The Duke Stays at Blenheim Castle While
Consuelo Goes to Sunderland House.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The afternoon papers quoted the Manchester Guardian as saying that a deed of separation between Duke and Duchess of Marlborough had been signed on the grounds of incompatibility of temper, by the provisions of which the Duchess of the Salvation Army held a meeting. A review of the work done by the Army during the past year was given by the Commissioner Coombs, president and was the chief speaker. He said that the Salvation Army of Canada was today in a better condition than it ever was. The commissioner spoke of the work in Upper Canada, and said that there were great opportunities in the West. Commissioner Coombs has traveled extensively over the country, and he states that the maritime division of the Army is doing fine, and the officers and soldiers alike are working their best for the good cause.

The commissioner looks forward to a busy winter, and it is expected that an unusually large number of immigrants will be brought out from England.

Last winter one-eight of the immigrants who landed in England were brought out under the auspices of the Salvation Army.

Great credit is due the St. John officers who had a lot of work on their hands, as the majority of the immigrants landed here.

The property increase in the Army for the coming year will amount to at least $5,000. Commissioner Coombs said that he was glad to see such a large number of delegates present. He had reason to say that, as the hall was crowded and a more enthusiastic meeting was never held in it.

Major Phillips spoke a few words after Commissioner Coombs was through. The major announced that several meetings and hoped that they would be well attended.

The commissioner is greatly interested in the growth of the Canadian West, and says that the Salvation Army is well established there.

After this morning's meeting the Gloucester brass band marched to the barracks and escorted the delegates to dinner. The band, which is composed of musicians from the old country, attracted considerable attention, and the army of small boys was as usual in evidence.

Tonight a conference will be held between the officers and soldiers.

THEY THOUGHT IT WAS AN ANIMAL

Boys Fired at an Object on the Side of the Road

But it Was a Drunken Man, Whose Body
Was Found Next Morning—Death
Was Not Due to Wounds.

WAITSFIELD, Vt., Oct. 25.—The autopsy over the body of Henry Tracy, who was found yesterday morning dead by a roadside in North Fayston, with four bullet wounds in his head and trunk, was held today under the direction of Dr. R. J. Howe, health officer of this village, assisted by Dr. Stone, of Burlington. According to Dr. Howe, the examination did not show conclusively that the man's death was due to the bullet wounds. His heart, kidneys and lungs were found to be in a weakened and diseased condition, such as might be caused by excessive use of liquor, and though the wounds he received were undoubtedly a contributory cause of his death, they are not regarded as the sole cause.

The examination indicated that Tracy was under the influence of liquor on Wednesday night when the shooting took place. It is believed that while driving along the road in a wagon, he became stupefied and losing his balance, fell from the wagon near the farm house of Benjamin Corless, the father of Harrison Corless, the 17 year old youth who is under arrest for the shooting.

According to the story told by young Corless, and corroborated by other of the Corless family, the boy heard strange sounds that evening proceeding from a point a few rods down the road from his home and believing the sounds were made by some wild animal, he went into the house and got a shot gun. His brother Valentine, and his cousin, Perry Corless, both younger than himself, accompanied him back to the road. They could see dimly a person, who carried the gun, aimed and fired.

The noises which they heard ceased after the shots were fired, but the boys say they did not go near to see what they had shot, but suddenly possessed by a feeling of terror, they ran back to the house and remained until morning when the body of Tracy was discovered. During the investigation which followed, the boy admitted the shooting, but maintained that they supposed they were shooting at a wild animal. The younger boys were not arrested but Harrison was put under surveillance and today was removed to the jail in Montpelier as a prisoner pending further investigation.

One of the shots penetrated Tracy's skull but did not enter the brain, while another grazed the base of the lung. Neither of these in the opinion of the physicians, was sufficient to cause death, and the other two shot wounds were even less serious than these.

The neighborhood where the shooting occurred is rather isolated and inhabited by farmers, most of whom are far from being prosperous. The body of Tracy has been removed to Watsfield where it will be subjected to further examination by the physicians.

THREE VICTIMS CLAIMED BY APACHE VENDETTA

Members of Thug Society of Paris Kill Two Men and Wound a Third.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—A desperate Apache vendetta is proceeding in Montmartre, in which two notorious Apache leaders have been murdered since Sunday night, and a third wounded.

The vendetta is believed to be a revival of the celebrated feud between the Apache chiefs, Mandia and Luceo, who fought for the love of Mlle. Casque d'Or several years ago.

On Sunday night a number of Apaches walked into a little cafe in the Boulevard de Cliechy, and shot dead an Apache known as "Le Demicheur," who was sitting at one of the tables.

The murderer, known as "Luluces," escaped, but last night he was shot through the head by a friend of "Le Demicheur" as he was leaving the cafe in the Rue Couson, a tiny thoroughfare frequented by the worst type of Apache.

MARGARET ANGLIN WINS SUIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—After remaining out an hour the jury in the United States Circuit court yesterday brought in a verdict awarding Miss Margaret Anglin, the actress, a verdict of $5,000 damages against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway Company. Miss Anglin sued for $50,000 damages, contending that the injuries she received by the engine in July, 1905, were worth that sum. The actress' arm was broken. The railway company will appeal the case.

TRACES OF BARBARISM.

We are all barbarians, more or less, and underneath our few centuries of effacement polish there is the thick layer of semi-civilization which works its way to the surface every here and there and makes us wonder where we ever got the idea that we are a cultured people. We persuade ourselves that all the heathenish habits of our ancestors have been relegated to the forgotten past, and that our everyday walk and life is centuries in advance of that of the people we refer to as barbarians. Usually we are mistaken, for any day of the week or any hour of the day, if we stop to consider it, we find ourselves practicing those same old customs, the existence of which, among former nations, make us refer to them as semi-civilized. We are careless, heedless, ignorant, boastful, stubborn, fond of ostentation and display—most of us—and in our blindness we consider ourselves the chosen people. We think we are well bred, yet in our daily life we do things altogether contrary to common decency and against all rules of manners. We imagine we have good taste, yet we follow the somewhat ludicrous example of barbaric races—not in such an expensive style of course—and deck our bodies with gaudy ornaments to an extent which is little less than funny. Of course we can't help it. Everyone, or nearly everyone, does the same, and no person has any right to criticize anyone else. It is merely the age in which we live, an age half way between ignorance and refinement, between barbarism and civilization. Go to the theatre, to church, to any private assembly and look at what is worn by the ladies. Diamonds, heaps of them, and other jewels too numerous to be counted. Women can be seen, even when shopping on the streets, their fingers fairly covered with flashing gems, where the costume worn is altogether out of keeping. Shirt waist suits and diamond necklaces are found in combination everywhere; outing costumes and ruby-studded stirrups. Get on a street car and you will find the front sign "smoking on the four rear seats only." How many men pay attention to it until they are spoken to by the conductor. They deliberately smoke in all parts of the car, they spit on the floor, and act just as they fancy, not as they should do. And the women—they see the sign as well, but half of them, avoiding vacant seats in the forward portion deliberately select the rear end of the car and then complain of the smoke which is blown in their eyes. This is pure senselessness.

Why do men smoke anyway? Kipling gives an answer in the Jungle Book, "the man pack play with their mouths, and at any rate it is true. We do play with our mouths, and we are, only in animal on the earth today that does. When we are not smoking, which is seldom—we are chewing gum or nibbling at something else, we are sucking toothpicks, or toying with our mustaches. The man who can keep his hands away from his face, and go through life using his mouth for its proper purposes of eating and talking, is an oddity. Smoking is no good anyway, it is not a benefit to a man, it is merely a habit, which, having been adopted, is continued under the delusion that it is nice. Our forefathers, who strolled about the country in string smocks and girdles of skin, killing rabbits by throwing stones at them, and living in caves, played with their mouths because they had nothing else to do. We cultivate the same habit because it has come down to us through thousands of years.

Go on the street and watch how many people look at you. Every man, woman or child in this city and in every other city knows what it is to have passers-by turn and stare at him or her, in a very rude manner, and exactly the same number of people do exactly the same thing themselves. They scarcely realize the fact, but it is true just the same, as they will find out if they bother noticing. Nothing could show ignorance and rudeness more, yet we all do it and never imagine it is wrong. Our grandfathers' grandfathers did the like, and we have not improved.

These are only trifling instances of practices which are as common as the day is long. Why do we continue them? We don't know very well. They just stay with us, like the poor.

The villain drops his cigarette, B-b-bang! As down his corpse they let, He reaches for his cigarette. Though dying he does not forget To gamely puff his cigarette!

FOLLOWED BY FROST.

A young gentleman with an unusual voice insisted upon singing at a social gathering. "What does he call that?" inquired a disgusted guest. "The Tempest," I think," answered another. "Don't be alarmed," said an old sea captain present. "That's no tempest; it is only a squall and will soon be over."

Little May—Yes, he must be. Mama says she thinks he's the nicest man she ever met.

SAM'S AS FATHER.

In a London street a girl of twelve and a boy of ten were playing a family drama of "mother and father," and Bobby was being instructed in his role.

"Now, Bob," said the girl, "you just walk up to her corner and wait there till we tell you to go. When we say 'go' you get dinner ready, and when we yell 'yer' yer ter come 'ome and chuck 'em all away."

"Ho!" said Bobby. "Come 'ome drunk, do I? And why for?"

"Why for?" she asked, "I started the stiv, with a glance of mingled scorn and pity. 'Ain't it Saturday?"

MIGHT BE IMPROVED.

Harry Bulger, who is making good in "The Man from Now," was reminiscing on his past in Browne's the other night.

"Used to live with a chap," said Mr. Bulger, "who was phenomenally absent-minded. One night, dressing for dinner, he encountered trouble with his tie, which would not keep a satisfactory set. Finally, however, he arranged it, gravely donned his waist coat and dinner coat and turned to me for approval.

"Harry, do I look all right?" he demanded.

"Yes," I replied, "but if you will pardon the suggestion, I think the effect would be better if you were to put on your trousers."

GOOD COVER.

Captain (conducting examination)—Supposing you were leading a detachment across a river and you were suddenly attacked by the enemy, how would you make up for the absence of cover?

GOOD POLITICS.

Larry—I'll never vote for 'im!
Ward Heeler—What difference do you think that makes?
Larry—It makes a split in th' pairty, be Jarge!

The first Friday ladies' night at St. Andrew's Rollway was a great success, judging by the many expressions of approval heard from the large crowd of both spectators and skaters who were present. While somewhat different from the popular "ladies' night," all the skaters enjoyed the chance. During the first few bands the gentlemen, as on Tuesday nights, skated with the ladies. The sixth band the gentlemen retired from the floor and the ladies skated that band alone, either singly or together, and it was somewhat surprising to see the many graceful lady skaters there. The eighth band the ladies retired and gave the gentlemen a chance to show their graceful, but speed. The eighth to the tenth band, including intermissions, all the skaters reversed, and judging from the noise which the skaters learned "the new way," as they called it, it will not be long before skating to the left will be as easy as skating to the right.

DEATHS.

SATURDAY SERMONETTE.

BOOKS.

I used to provide myself with a readable book when I took a railway journey. I don't do it now, there is no need, there are always books on the train, even though the news agent has none. The more passengers there are the more books you have to read for every passenger is a book.

The books all have different bindings—there are no sets—some are bound in moose, some in calf, some in pig and some in donkey. What are some are light and hard to read. Some are light and frivolous. Some are interesting, others are dull and commonplace and you yawn as you read them.

It took twenty, fifty years to write some of them, and there is one dangling in the seat in front of you that must have taken eighty years to write that one. How wrinkled and yellow and shrunken it looks. What a story in that old book, if we could only read it, for each year is a chapter.

There is a tiny book across the aisle, laughing and crowing in a mother's arms. Not one chapter has been written, only two or three pages—a month for a page—and yet how these careless boys and girls toss away the book, only to get a new one.

On the shelf just behind you are two books in showy cheap binding trying to attract your attention. You turn over a few leaves but there doesn't seem to be a sensible thought. It is dress and bells, balls and beaux on every page.

There is splendid reading in some of these books. There is one over there, the binding is not new neither is it old, and a poorly half worn volume more than ornament. What splendid stories are written there of well fought battles and hardly won victories. A book to stir one to brave deeds.

Look at that book over there. It is old and shabby but it is a gem. It tells of struggle and toil and hard times and death, and a thought that will live at the last, too late to make one glad.

And here is a book that has been beaten by storm and tossed by winds into the mire and gutters of the street. It has been beautifully bound, but there is no beauty about it now. The covers are half torn off, the beautiful binding is defaced past repair. How sad the story this battered book tells of a wasted, ruined life that involves others in ruin, friend, mother and wife.

The most of the books seem sad. There is no joy, no helpfulness in reading them. But now and then there are books that do help you. Healthy books that give you strength for your work. Books we are all writing, each book is half torn off, the beautiful binding is defaced past repair. How sad the story this battered book tells of a wasted, ruined life that involves others in ruin, friend, mother and wife.

CANADA'S EXPORT BACON TRADE HAS RECEIVED SETBACK

Strong Effort Required to Recover Lost Business.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—The Globe this morning, referring to the decline in exports of canned meats, says: The startling drop is, of course, directly due to the strong feeling in Great Britain against canned goods, caused by Chicago packing scandals. The representative of one of the most prominent local packing houses says they have had considerable stock in Britain for some months they have been unable to get rid of. The British public refusing to use canned goods, irrespective of what country they came from.

The decrease in the canned goods export trade, however, bothers Canadian packing houses very little. The great bulk of their trade is the Dominion itself, and their export trade, to a large extent, is their surplus.

It is expected, too, that when the present feeling in Britain against canned meats moderates, as it is bound to do, there will be a splendid field for Canadian exporters of canned meats. But, while the drop in canned meats is due to lessened demand, the decrease in exports of bacon and pork is due to an entirely different cause. British demands for Canadian bacon is capable of handling all Canada can supply. The trouble is directly due to decrease in number of hogs raised in the country.

About two and a half years ago, after holding strong for half a dozen years, hog prices became somewhat easier. A number of farmers came to the conclusion they were not getting enough return, and stopped raising them.

This movement was not felt until about a year or eighteen months ago. Since then, and until a short while ago, there has been a steady decrease in the number of hogs available for packers.

The last month or two, however, has shown some improvement, for with the strengthening of prices caused by the shortage, farmers are raising more hogs. Packers state, however, that the Canadian export bacon trade has received a set back, as it will require strong efforts to recover their position in British and other markets.

To get trade back she will have to outbid those countries which have captured the markets she could not supply, other countries being principally the States, Denmark and Ireland.

The market for Canadian bacon, packers fear, may be somewhat restricted for a while at least. They anticipate that a largely increased supply of hogs will come upon the Canadian market.

While, if given this market could easily handle the increased offerings, the temporary set back in the export

British Companies Have Paid Out Very Large Sums, and More is Still to Come.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The total loss of property caused by the disastrous fire which followed the earthquake at San Francisco has now been arrived at with a near approach to accuracy. The completed assessments show that insurances to the amount of $20,000,000 had been effected, while the total loss of property was $50,000,000. The companies which did not repudiate liability have already paid out rather more than $10,000,000, while the salvage has varied from 5 to 10 per cent. of the face value of the policies.

LOVESICK COUPLE FOLLOWED EVERYWHERE BY SPIES

SHE RESTS BESIDE QUEEN GUINEVERE Lady Campbell - Bannerman Interred in Meigle Churchyard

Wife of Russian General Who Eloped Tells of Her Experiences in Trying to Elude the Agents Sent Out by Her Husband.

GLASGOW, Oct. 27.—The burial of Lady Campbell-Bannerman in Meigle churchyard might well have drawn more attention than it has done to a curious and interesting tradition of the spot. That tradition, shortly stated, is that the dust of Guinevere, spouse of the famous King Arthur, lies in the churchyard. By the villagers, who repeat the tradition, she is called Guinevere, or Vanoza, but there is no doubt as to the person intended. A long low mound among the graves beside the church is pointed out as the actual spot where she lies, and certain of the strange carved stones which once stood in the churchyard and are now preserved in the old village school are said to commemorate her end.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Madame Ouchakoff, the wife of General Ouchakoff, and Capt. Gabriel Tsiparin, who were refused admission to the United States, are still being pursued by the Russian general, who has sworn to kill the lieutenant. They claim that they are being dogged by Russian spies all around the world. Interviewed during a motor car flight from London, Madame Ouchakoff admitted that she had grievously wronged her husband. Though worn with anxiety she remains a handsome woman of refinement and distinction.

ONE OF THE CONTESTANTS IN BALLOON RACE, COMTE DE LA VAULX, STARTING FROM PARIS

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The snapshot shows the Comte Henri de la Vaulx, the well-known aeronaut, as he was leaving the Tuileries Gardens in this city, in his balloon, the "Walhalla," with his friend and assistant, Comte D'Intremont, for the great balloon race the other day.

"featuring" M. Antoine, who has accomplished one or two revolutions on the stage already, has just carried quietly through one more, and abolished the "vedette" altogether. The vedette is the actor or actress whose name is displayed in the largest type on the bills. But M. Antoine has just pasted up the posters of the Odeon which will reopen shortly under his management, and therein displays no name. That is to say, every member of the company, from the "gentleman" upwards, is in the same type. No list, and all in the same type. One may now count upon being "featured" at the Odeon. Even the order in which the names are printed is cruelly indistinctive. M. Antoine has dramatized the alphabet, without himself at the top, however, as he cannot act in a state theatre which he directs. This Mlle. B. has her former to come after Mlle. A., though the third understudy of a sourette. The innovation of a company list in alphabetical order on the bills has revolutionized green rooms more than dramatist could have done by writing the masterpiece of the act. It is believed the new method will be an excellent preventive against quarrels.

her brother-in-law were tempted to go to New York and meet "G. James Cromwell," who wrote the letters. He showed them a sample of what looked like gold as big as a tennis ball. Thomas, he said, had seventy-three sacks of similar stuff, valued at $1,500,000. It then appeared that the vein of gold encroached on adjoining property, but the owner was unware of it, so they had to go cautiously to work and purchase the land from him. The man only wanted a modest $35,000 for land to get this sum. Their banker, however, asked them the reason for drawing such a large sum, and his suspicions saved them being duped. "Truth" states that this swindle is being tried on somebody in Great Britain almost every day with a sufficient percentage of successes to make it highly profitable.

CATTLE FOR GERMANY.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 27.—It is understood from a good source that the Dutch minister to Berlin has been instructed by the government to try to obtain an open door for the importation of cattle, which is presently forbidden under all kinds of pleas. Considering that the German meat famine continues unabated, these endeavors are likely to succeed.

PICTURE TAKEN OF THE DREADNAUGHT AS SHE WAS STARTING ON HER SPEED TRIALS

impossible about the tradition that Guinevere ended her days at Meigle. When it is remembered that the Picts were Arthur's enemies—their capital was at Perth, on the Earn, near Perth—it seems natural enough that the erring Queen should have fled into their country, fearing the vengeance of her lord. Meigle is said to be the oldest village in Scotland, its carved stones are among the most curious of these monuments which strew Strathmore, and the possibility, to say the least, that its churchyard holds the dust of the far-famed Guinevere does not lessen the strange interest of the spot.

"I was so indignant that I rose as he sat down near me and said: 'I do not eat with spies.' The rest of the guests expected a violent scene, but the man merely smiled, and next day, when the captain approached him in the garden, he hurriedly disappeared, and we saw him no more.

VICTIMS OF NATIVE REVOLT ARE UNBURIED

Districts in Which Disturbances Occurred are Desolate—People Almost Starving.

DURBAN, Oct. 27.—A missionary who has travelled through the greater part of the territory covered by the rebellion reports that the bodies of the natives slain in the operations are still unburied, in accordance with the gruesome and offensive native superstition against touching the dead. "The regions visited are described as desolate. The chief crops have gone and food is so scarce that some of the people are gathering edible leaves. The natives cannot yield any supplies for five months. Many of the men and boys, who but for the rebellion would be earning a subsistence for their families, have been killed or imprisoned.

The fugitives have sought for a northern port, the destination of which is kept a secret.

FASHIONABLE GOODS FOR AFTERNOON DRESSES

BROADCLOTH heads the list of fabrics this fall as it did last winter for the dressier sort of suits—those you wear to afternoon receptions and teas, and for any thing else that calls itself a daytime affair. Plenty of the whole costumes, which Paris has decreed for this winter are made of it; more of them, though, of marquisette—that wonderful stuff that is like a grenadine etherized. Marquisette, by the way, came, in last spring, but so late that it practically missed the season, and so starts off this fall like something brand new. All the treatments possible to grenadine, and, on the other hand, to chiffon (over which Paris was waxed so enthusiastic as to raise serious doubts in the minds of other nations as to her sanity in dress), are possible with marquisette, and a few others which are practically impossible with any other material. Voile-chiffon—or chiffon-voile, for they're alike in spite of pretended differences—is another material that promises well for this winter. It has just a little more body than has chiffon, both, and consequently the beautiful draping and lining in which it falls, last fall. It is another of the all-silk dress stuffs which take on a curious, shimmering effect, unlike silk in that it seems to hold the light instead of reflecting it in the slightest degree. The open mesh which stamps it as voile half blurs the color, but makes it only the more mysteriously beautiful. Hand-embroidered robes—almost magnificent in the lavish way embroidery is applied—are of broadcloth, or of cologne, or of the softest of mesaline, with lace, dyed to tone in exquisitely with the foundation let into the design. Eolienne, by the way, holds its own this fall, every grade of it, from the expensive cotton stuff that makes up interesting little gowns at nominal cost, to the all-silk stuffs, with many a stop in between at all-wool and silk-and-wool varieties. A new stuff, somewhat like poplin, but as much lighter than poplin as chiffon is than silk, comes by the name of camie. But the list of new names and new stuffs is formidable. Several characteristics mark them all, though: an adaptability that is like chiffon—is derived from chiffon, in fact, and a softening of color everywhere. Not that the good, rich shades are abolished—far from it. These are the days when garnet and wine and dahlia shades are brought mightily to the fore, each in new shades. Wine, for instance, may mean anything from the deep, soft red note that has gone by that name for years and years to a beautiful purplish tint, dignified by the title of "Bordeaux." And the dahlia shades are even more varied and more elusive. In fact, the color range of these three alone is almost kaleidoscopic in its many changes. But gray—the silvery shade known as "argent" on through the whole shadow-world of shades to the deep, strong street colors—is more interesting than ever, and as popular as it was last spring, when, for a little while, it looked as though nothing else would be worn. Of course, such stuffs as marquisette, and voile-chiffon, and the rest of 'em, must be made up over silk—almost everything is insistent in its demands for silk. And silk linings add one more shimmering touch of enchantment to them.

Lace Keeps Its Popularity

LACE shows no decline in popularity, in spite of the dire prophecies of failure made by certain depressing mortals. And the old rule of imitations affecting the popularity of the real has been proved as false in its way—never has anything been so imitated and travestied as has Irish lace. Yet it holds its own, and promises this winter to be even more extravagantly used than it was last year.

THE "SCOTCH CRAZE" HOLDS SWAY OVER PARIS FASHIONS

PARIS, Sept. 30. THIS is the season dear to the heart of the great Paris designer—days that find Paris transformed by travelers to an American city, and when good, wholesome American English comes as natural to the ear in a promenade on the boulevards as it would on Broadway. It is many a year, now since the tailor and hatter first began to chafe windows devoted to costumes for the French hunting season with styles appropriate for an autumn voyage; so many years, indeed, that the hunting costume is now frequently relegated to a very small corner. And mounting the steps to those "chic" counteries of the Rue de la Paix, who would scorn the publicity of a shop window, one finds the salons crowded with Americans, for whom these winter models have been prepared so much in advance of their season. Last news of all, the Scotch craze. Hats, turbans for women and caps for boys and girls; raincoats of Scotch check; separate kilted skirts of Scotch plaid; and, finally, the Highlander's entire costume—not for the little's boy, as we have grown accustomed to seeing it in London, but for grown women— young women, let us hope, and always very slender ones, for the jaunty charm would easily become ridiculous with any but the freshest type of face and figure. When properly worn, it is best described by that beloved Parisian word which in plain English is ravishing. Not only can this be asserted upon the proof of a pretty mannaquin tripping across an Empire salon, but by a more substantial test, for the very legitimate chance of which a slim little brown-haired girl blessed Jupiter Pluvius with all her big American heart. It was a cool, rainy night, and every eye in the Cafe de Paris was turned to regard a very delightful

TOQUES AND TURBANS FOR MORNING WEAR

TOQUES and turbans and well-fitting small hats that, with all their smallness, are almost invariably the uncoupled kind far cry from the tiny, tip-tilted things that took us so long to get used to, are all in high favor for morning wear. And certain adaptations of the sailor—chiefly when trimmed with the tartan plaids that have taken the world of fashion by storm—make mighty trifles to a smart walking-suit. Mushroom shapes are in, but will probably only last a short while, although the drooping brim they introduced has found its way to many another radically different "creation." Instead of the trimming at the back of the hat, forcing it up at an absurd angle, there is very little tilt permitted at all, the trimming, which still remains well-massaged at the back under the brim, being brought down over the hair in a way as becoming to the average warm tones. They are not only worn to match a costume of like color, but as often in the strongest sort of contrast. And fruits trim some of the prettiest hats, one bunch matching the felt, another the velvet, softening and harmonizing the contrast without ridding it of its definiteness.

S. S. CONVENTION ENDED YESTERDAY

Field Secretary Will Attend Meeting in Rome.

Diplomas Presented to a Large Number of Young Teachers—Several Interesting Discussions.

At the afternoon session of the Maritime Sunday School Convention yesterday, a number of interesting discussions took place. Mr. Meredith led a conference on music, and said that it was the greatest of the fine arts. In Sunday schools everywhere who can should sing and the teachers should set a good example to the scholars by enthusiastically entering into the service of praise. T. S. Simms, chairman of the executive committee, proposed this class, who were pledged by delegates to help pay for the trip. Three hundred dollars will be needed and the balance will be paid by the schools later. Rev. D. Hutchinson spoke on "Missions and the Sunday School Work." He spoke favorably of the good done by the mission bands which exist in nearly every Sunday school. The conference on temperance was led by Rev. A. Lucas. Several delegates took part in the discussion. Mr. Pearce spoke at some length on county organization. He was a strong believer in printer's ink, and thought it was not used enough in the work. A. H. Chapman read the treasurer's report which was incomplete and was referred to the executive. The final session of the convention was held last evening. Several short addresses were given by the officers. E. R. Macdonald presented the report of the teacher training department. Rev. G. M. Campbell presented diplomas to the graduates of this class: Helen A. McMurray, Ethel G. Hannah, St. John; A. Maude Doucet, Lewisville; John; Jessie Maclaughlin, Murray's Corner; N. B.; Sadie M. TOY MAKER ARRESTED FOR STEALING FROM HARVARD

GARDNER, MASS., Oct. 26.—On suspicion of being implicated in the larceny of jewelry and clothing from Harvard University dormitories in Peabody, 106, Lester Lake, aged 25, employed in the toy factory of A. O. Spear, was arrested tonight at the request of Cambridge officers. Lake accompanied Captain Hurley and Inspector Sheehan, of Cambridge, to Peabody tonight. He denied knowledge of the thefts. According to the Cambridge police articles stolen to the value of $1200 were stolen from Harvard dormitories in a series of robberies early last year, and a watch was bought here in connection with the Boston pawnshop list in his arrest. For each guest he provided one and a half pounds of beef, one pound of veal, half pound of mutton, and half a fowl, with an unlimited supply of vegetables, bread, wine and beer. The guests rose to the occasion and consumed: 1,500 pounds of beef, 1,200 pounds of pork; 900 pounds of veal; 600 pounds of mutton, 250 chickens, 100 geese, 100 ducks, 100 turkeys, 350 loaves of bread. GERMANY UNFAVORABLE TO CUBAN ANNEXATION BERLIN, Oct. 27.—German comment on the proposition of the annexation of Cuba by America is generally unfriendly, revealing an antipathy toward the United States. The motives of the American Government are described as base and selfish and inconsistent with those noble principles which are theoretically supposed to animate the American people. The two main features of the comment are the conviction that the American occupation will be permanent, and the belief that the American annexation will promote the commercial interests of the United States to such an extent that European exporters may abandon all hopes of successful operations in Cuba.

JAPANESE SQUADRON WILL TOUR THE WORLD PARIS, Oct. 26.—The "Figaro" states that the Japanese Government has decided to send a squadron round the world to visit the different nations during the next year. INFATUATED COUPLE DIED TOGETHER

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Louis G. Hampton, assistant secretary of the United States Trust Co., of this city, shot and killed Victoria I. Tackow, a beautiful young woman, in the Hotel Griffin in West Ninth street last night and then committed suicide. Hampton was infatuated with the woman and they had been seen together many times during the past month. They had been at the hotel where the tragedy occurred since early yesterday. Whether it was the result of a pact between the man and woman to die together has not been determined, but the circumstances seem to show that the young man had agreed to die with her companion. Hampton leaves a wife and two children. Miss Tackow was 29 years old and lived with her father and invalid mother. She was employed in a Fifth avenue department store. The United States Trust Company, of which L. G. Hampton was assistant secretary, is one of the largest and strongest trust companies in New York. Ex-secretary of the U. S. treasury Lyman J. Gage, was its president until recently.

A TICKLISH QUESTION FOR THE VATICAN TO DECIDE

ROME, Oct. 26.—Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state, today returned Herr Von Tschitschak's visit of Thursday, and they conferred at length on the German order to teach children in German-Polish religion in the German tongue, which has brought forth a strong protest from Archbishop Stankewicz of Posen. The Vatican is said to be considerably embarrassed over this question, wishing to retain Germany's friendship and yet not desiring to disavow Archbishop Stankewicz's protest.

FRENCH CABINET'S PLAN TO CONQUER THE CLERGY

Any Persons Holding Office Under a Foreign Government May Lose Their Rights of Citizenship.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—A dramatic measure against the rebellious clergy, according to well informed persons, has been decided upon by the cabinet, which intends to deal with them as foreign officials. It is understood that the Government declaration at the reassembling of parliament, Nov. 5, will contain a proposition to extend to the clergy the clause of the enactment dated June 25, 1888, which declares that Frenchmen holding permanent office under a foreign government lose their French nationality and right of citizenship if they refuse to resign within a fixed period when called on to do so by the French Government. Should parliamentary powers to this effect be obtained, these persons say, it is not the intention of the government to apply them unless acts by the clergy assume the character of open rebellion or are of a really grave nature. Their simple refusal to form cultural associations will not be considered a sufficient motive for proceeding to the extreme limits of the measure.

It is stated that the Sarrien cabinet, before its resignation had fully agreed upon the proposal of this measure, but hitherto the secret has been closely guarded. In clerical circles it is understood that the Government's action is intended for the purpose of promoting a schismatic movement in the church.

A Little Journey to Mars.

It was all on account of that rickety old Smith's. Smith had tried it a hundred times, and each time it had some down lengths from the starting platform, so this time we had a lot of pneumatic cushions strapped around us—highly poor equipment for such a journey as we were to make.

On this particular occasion the zinc didn't come down here. On the contrary, she went up gear-walls, and up and up and up, until the world was as much as a ball to us.

The cushions came in handy when we landed. As the Martians pounced on us...

"Bump bust," said Mars. "You have one for a collar isn't some Martians, haven't you?"

TROPICS ARE MOVING NORTH

Warm Ocean Currents May Change Our Climate

Scientists Believe that Maritime Provinces May be Placed in the Banana Belt Eventually

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 16.—Another event has occurred which tends to confirm the belief of a large number of scientific men that the ocean currents along the Atlantic coast of Canada are changing and the colder waters are being replaced by warmer.

Other warm water fish received in Canadian waters by the marine biological experts in the last few years are Spanish mackerel, sword fish, tunny and other tropical sharks.

A change has been observed in the annual movement of ice towards the Gulf of St. Lawrence. It has become more irregular. All these things are held to be evidences of a change which may bring the Maritime Provinces under the influence of warm currents and quality that portion of Canada to claim a place in the banana belt.

The Grand Trunk Railway proposes to ask an amendment to its charter which will enable it to establish a pension or superannuation fund for the benefit of its employees and to use money of the company to start a fund.

Mrs. Wm. A large and select audience was present at the York Theatre last night when the Scarlet Mysteries gave another of their concerts. Every member of the company is an artist, and there is not a weak number in their delightful repertoire. A large crowd attended this afternoon's matinee and it is expected that the house will be filled at tonight's performance.

An excited woman arrived at the police court this morning and said that she had come from Golden Grove, that her brother was raising a disturbance in the house by beating her sister. She requested that a policeman be immediately sent to the Golden Grove home to eject the objectionable brother. The woman was forced to leave without the aid of a blue coat who might teach a golden rule to a Golden Grove brother. The disturbance was apparently too far for a cop to walk and being outside the city the injured sister will have to look to a county constable for a rolling pin to bring the brother to order.

Alphonse Wanger, the French painter who a few weeks ago tried to take charge of a couple of houses and was sent for two months with the chain gang, who escaped and left himself liable if captured to a term in Dorchester, who then struck terror to the residents of Penobscot, was arrested and jailed at Sussex, given transportation to Moncton, again jailed and given free transportation to St. John and landed in the central police station again early this morning. The police knew he was an escaped convict and supposed to be insane, but he was only treated as a protectionist, given a night's lodging and allowed to leave the station about six o'clock this morning like the ordinary tramp.

POLICE COURT IS NO HONDURAS LOTTERY

Aud Peg-Leg Nickerson Was Not Given a Chance.

Dime Novel Boy's Charge Against Companions Dismissed—Several Other Cases.

There was considerable business transacted before Magistrate Ritchie this morning. There were two drunks gathered in last night. One was Benjamin Sealey, who pleaded guilty to being drunk on the street. He was registered as sixty-eight years of age, and strongly pointed out that it was his fine time in the pocket, and thinking of the police. Under the circumstances a fine of $2 was allowed to stand against him.

The second name called was that of Thomas Nickerson, better known as Peg-leg, and he asked when called if it was his first offence. "Say, yer Honor," said Nickerson, "if you give me a chance I'll leave town. I haven't bothered you since last spring. The magistrate informed the prisoner that he was old enough to know that the police court was no Honduras lottery, and there were no chances. Nickerson had been ejected from a British street house and was sent to jail for two months in default of paying a fine of $8.

Six boys, Arthur Ellis, James Powers, John Mooney, Vincent McNeil, Thomas Morrissey and Teddy McMahon were asked what they had to say to assaulting and beating another boy named George Wilson. They all claimed that they were in the Queen Square playing "puppets" but none pled on Wilson. He dropped a five cent novel from his pocket and was told to get it. He began to cry. The blood and thunder literature was returned to him and then he began to laugh. The crowd called him a snigger, but did not assault him. As there was no person in court to contradict their statements, they were discharged. Shortly after they left Mrs. Wilson and her son entered the court and the woman claimed that her son was too late as she would have liked to have given evidence against the boys.

James Bryson who a few days ago was remanded on the charge of stealing a $13 scarf pin from a guest's room in the Victoria Hotel was taken into the court and explained that he found the pin on the floor, kept it for five days, no person claimed it, and he then sold it to a waiter in the hotel for 25 cents as he did not think it of much value.

The owner of the pin, Mr. Ed. Kitchingham, informed the court that he believed the boy, for Mrs. Kitchingham when leaving the hotel probably dropped the pin. King did not miss it until some time after. The magistrate remarked that the waiter who was older than the prisoner, should not have purchased the pin, but reported the matter to the hotel management. He allowed young Bryson to go after giving him a good lecture on "Honesty is the best policy."

A young man named Quigley arrested a few days ago on the charge of being drunk and fighting on St. David's street, was fined $5 two months in jail for drunkenness, and was remanded to jail on the fighting charge. The magistrate said he would deal with the four fighters on Monday morning.

MERCALF ST. PEOPLE RACED FOR WARRANTS King and Waycock Families in a Quarrel Which Will be Aired Later.

There is trouble between two Mercalf street families, viz. Henry King and George Waycock, and it was a close race between King and Mrs. Waycock to the police court this morning for warrants. King won out and was successful in making information against Mr. Waycock, who, he claims, called him bad names, among which was "an idiot." About the time King was signing his name to the information Mrs. King stepped forward to the clerk's desk and asked for a warrant for King's arrest, as she claimed that King of Mercalf street had called her some nasty names. The clerk of the court informed the woman that King had no children and annoyed his wife. "That is not true," said Mrs. Waycock, "for I have neither chick nor child."

King retained J. H. M. Baxter, and the case will be heard Monday morning.

LOCAL. Nine deaths occurred in the city during the past week, resulting from the following causes: Consumption, two; pneumonia, two; typhoid fever, two; fracture of spine, one; chronic gastritis, one; and valvular disease of heart, one.

How Mr. Smith Did Not Succeed in Properly Managing His New Auto.

An automobile which was brought here recently by a gentleman from Maine was sold on Wednesday to Charles Smith, the well known mill owner. Mr. Smith was not acquainted with the art of running an auto, so he hired a young machinist to accompany him on his first expedition. Early Wednesday morning the two started out the Loch Leam road. On the way back Mr. Smith took the throttle. When the machine was coming down a steep hill near Westmorland road, the car took a sudden turn to the right. The machinist jumped out, but Mr. Smith was carried into the ditch. The car came in contact with a fence and the whole top was torn off. Mr. Smith was only slightly bruised.
