Kennedy has opened the building formerly called the "International," on Water Street, opposite the Manchester House. The hotel has been newly painted and papered, and a large ell erected, which affords increased accommodation. As usual, this house is supplied with the best from Provincial and United States markets. The popular character of KENNEDY'S HOTEL will be maintained; and the genial disposition of its proprietor, will render his household deserving of patronage as heretofore, as he spares neither pains nor expense to accommodate his guests. my21-4y.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.
Special telegram to STANDARD.
Fredericton, April 6.
The House was occupied nearly all day in discussion on the following resolution moved by Mr. Ritchie:
Resolved—That in the opinion of this House, it would be in the general interests to have the Supreme Courts of Law and Equity located in the City of St. John, and that this House would approve of the Government taking such action as would lead to such location of said Courts.

To which Mr. Davidson moved the following amendment.—To strike out all after word be, and insert—desirable that the Government should take into consideration the propriety of adopting such action as would lead to the holding of Equity sittings in the City of St. John, and other portions of the Province.
Blair, Frazer, McManus, and Kenny opposed, and Wedderburn, Marshall and Rider favored it. Those in favor argued that four fifths of legal business came from St. John, and the whole people will be accommodated by the change.

TITLES IN CANADA.
[Toronto Telegram.]
The patrons of H. M. S. "Parliament" always applaud Alexander Macleod's way of life as he is nothing but a plain man, and has no wish for a title. He may well say so, when he sees the way in which the noble knights at Ottawa engage in rough and tumble fights, and call each other bad names—of very knightly or dignified work for titled gentlemen to be at, or even for gentlemen who are not titled. Some persons seem to think that the refusal of knighthood by Messrs. Blake, Mackenzie and Brown was a bit of unjustifiable rudeness, not at all complimentary to the Queen. But as a matter of fact there was no rudeness about it. Mr. Gladstone was asked to accept a title, and declined, and to go further back, Pitt, the younger, who was called the great commoner, also declined knighthood, although it was pressed upon him. These gentlemen were not anxious for titles, and nobody could blame them. In the case of Canadian public men there is much stronger ground for declining, for, however suited to the old world, high sounding titles may be, they are out of place on this side of the water, where feudalism has no foothold and a land of democracy is unknown.

Canada seems to take kindly to American members. An editor was shot in Toronto yesterday with as little ceremony as he could have received the courtesy in Colorado.—Boston Transcript.

There is a wide field for the President to open his civil service order in Louisiana. Of the ninety six members of the Republican Central Committee of that State who were met and named a time for the State convention, sixty one were officeholders.—N. Y. Post.

Professor Maskelyne, who not long ago announced the failure of Mr. James MacFen's attempt to make diamonds, now says that another Glasgow gentleman, Mr. J. Ballantine Hannay, has fully succeeded in his attempt. He has produced some small crystallized particles presenting exactly the appearance of fragments of a broken diamond, and satisfying the characteristic tests of that substance. "I here is no doubt whatever," says Prof. Maskelyne in a letter to the London Times, "that Mr. Hannay has succeeded in solving this problem."

THE MEGANTIC RAILWAY.
It has been our aim on all occasions to be a faithful chronicler in all references to the Megantic Railroad, and to avoid creating false expectations and misrepresentation as to its progress, having unbounded faith in the line being built, notwithstanding the occasional drawbacks it has encountered, like every other similar work while in course of construction. It is with no small share of gratification, we can state without fear of successful contradiction, that the STANDARD was the first to advocate the building of railways in Canada, notably a railway from St. Andrews to Quebec, as can be shown by reference to articles on the project copied from such leading journals as the N. York Albion, N. Y. Advertiser, Quebec Gazette, Montreal Herald, St. John Courier, Halifax Nova Scotian, and others, approving of the undertaking. And it has lived to see its predictions fulfilled, and the writer has ridden over some of the roads.

We feel the more encouraged to allude to the progress being made with the Megantic, at present, from the fact that a Canadian gentleman arrived last week for the purpose of examining the inner and outer harbors, to ascertain the best site for a deep water terminus, and as he is to return here in a short time, we deem it proper not to refer at further length to the object of his visit.

From U. S. papers we learn, that the Megantic Co. have resolved to build a line instead of complying with exorbitant demand of the Piscataquis railroad Company, which means that part of the line "which crosses the State of Maine. The Duluth News states "the line is being pushed on at the West, by building what is known as the South Shore Railroad, which runs along the shore of Lake Superior, and will give connection by way of the straits of Mackinaw and the Michigan lines with Detroit, and by the Sault and the proposed Canadian roads, with Montreal, and thence to the Maritime Province of New Brunswick.

The fact is, the Upper Provinces want winter seaports, and must have them for their large and increasing trade which will include the proposed West Indian and South American trade, for which a line of steamers has been subsidized by the Dominion Government.

It is to be hoped that every facility will be extended to the Megantic Company, in form of a free grant of location for a deep water terminus, and also that the Parisiens interested, viz.—St. Andrews, St. Croix, and St. David will assist themselves to build a link from this town to connect with the Megantic, by the most direct route—through St. Croix and St. David, and thus secure a terminus at this Port.

OBITUARY.—It becomes our melancholy duty to record the death of one of Saint Andrews' most promising, worthy and popular young men, universally respected in the community.—Mr. Geo. F. POLLEYS. He was an excellent mechanic, very industrious, and was steadily employed in the machine shops of the N. B. & C. Railway from the time he attained his majority up to the 25th March, when he was taken ill. We extend to his bereaved young widow, his aged mother, sister and brothers, our warmest sympathy in their affliction.

ARRIVAL OF NEW STEAMER.—The Frontier Steamboat Company new steamer for this route, the "Charles Houghton," chartered by them to run on this river, arrived here on Friday afternoon, commanded by Capt. Ryan, so favorably known as commander of the "Belle Brown." After remaining the usual time, during which she was inspected by several of the townspeople, she proceeded to Calais. On Monday morning last, she commenced her regular season trips. She is somewhat larger and faster than the old steamer. It is reported that the Company purpose building a new steamer for this route during the present season.

MILITARY FUNERAL.

On Sunday last, the remains of the late George F. Polleys, were interred with military honors by St. Andrews Battery, of which he was a sergeant. After a short service at his late residence, the casket was placed in the hearse, covered with a flag, on which were laid a wreath of flowers, the deceased's cap and sword, and the procession formed, composed of the clergymen, followed by the hearse, the pall bearers being sergeants, and the Battery with reversed arms; then the mourners, and a large representation of the inhabitants. On arrival at the Presbyterian Church, the casket was brought into the building, amid the solemn tones of a requiem from the Organ. Rev. Mr. McCullagh gave out the 53d Psalm, and after singing, read Job 14 c. followed by prayer. Then a favorite hymn of the deceased was sung, "It is well with my soul." The 15th chap. 1st Corinthians was read, followed by the hymn "Waiting and Waiting." The minister announced that he would reserve remarks for evening service, and pronounced the benediction.

The funeral cortege was formed, and proceeded to the place of interment, in the cemetery, where the clergyman offered up prayer. The Battery fired three volleys, and the mortal remains of their late comrade were committed to the tomb, "earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust."

At the evening service, the church was again well filled, and the Pastor preached an impressive discourse from Job 14, v. 14. "If a man die shall he live again. All the days of my appointed time will I wait till my change come." He concluded with a tribute to the memory of Mr. Polleys, whom he said was a consistent member of the church—a true friend and did his duty manfully—a dutiful son, an affectionate husband, and kind brother; he was likewise an example to the young men of this town. That he would be missed in the church, and domestic life. "Though dead he yet speaketh."

TEMPERANCE AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE.—The W. C. T. U. of Moncton, petitioned the Lieut. Governor to banish liquors from Government House. The reply was brief and courteous. His Honor says—"While not prepared to go to the full extent of total abstinence on all occasions, he will at all times endeavor to further the principles of temperance and sobriety." Any one acquainted with Gov. Wilmet knows him to be a moderate man, and no hypocrite. It is probable that like the great temperance demagogues, he would accept votes from those who imbibe, as well as teetotalers. It looks very like presumption to request any gentleman how to order the affairs of his own household to suit the hobby of any body of women.

Capt. Howard Campbell of the Canadian Steamship line, arrived here on Friday last, and his brother, Mr. Campbell of the Bank of New Brunswick, St. John, on Saturday. These gentlemen are paying a short visit to their parents, our respected Postmaster and Mrs. Campbell.

Our predictions last month have been fulfilled, and the Baconfield Government has been beaten at the British elections. It seems we can read the signs of the times even while standing alone. The re-organements on this side the water, which will spare a like defeat on appeal to the country.

INDUCTION SERVICE AT SCOTCH RIDGE.

On Tuesday 30th ult., according to appointment of Presbytery, public service was held at St. James, Rev. W. P. Begg as Moderator of Session presided. He preached an able discourse from Heb. 22 v. 6 to 9, after which he put the usual questions, and gave the right hand of fellowship and introduced Mr. SUTHERLAND to the congregation of St. James. In the absence of Rev. W. Willen who had to attend a funeral, the Rev. W. McCullagh addressed the minister on the subjects of Preaching, Pastoral Visitation and Example, founding his remarks on St. Paul's exhortation to Timothy, as contained in the 1st and 2nd Epistles.

He then addressed the people from Deut. 3 chap., 28 v., and showed how they could encourage their minister by punctual and regular attendance at public worship, by making an effort to attend the prayer meeting, by sending their children to two Sabbath School and Bible Class, by using their influence to induce young men and women to join the Church, and by contributing to their utmost ability to all the schemes of the Church. He also showed how they could strengthen their minister by a suitable maintenance, by speaking well of him and sympathizing with him and not exacting too much of his time, especially by earnest prayer on his behalf, by adorning the doctrine of God their Saviour, by a consistent walk and conversation, and by remembering him on the return of each anniversary.

Although the deep snow rendered travelling difficult, there was a fair representation of the congregation present. The manse has been reshingled and painted, and made comfortable for Mr. Sutherland and his family. We wish him and his amiable partner, a long and happy pastorate, and that abundant success may attend his labors at St. James.—Com.

FIRE IN HOULTON.—A fire took place in Houlton on the 1st instant, which consumed several buildings, among them the Exchange Hotel, Bradburn's saloon, Staples' building occupied as dry goods store by J. A. Brown, French's drug store, Rose's harness shop, Kenney's house, the Pioneer office and house, and Sweetney Bros. dwelling. Loss estimated at $38,000. Insurance $18,000.

The Legislature.
(Special Correspondence.)

Dear Standard.—Your readers in Charlotte, more especially those of St. George, were no doubt gratified to hear of the success that the Bill to extend the charter of the Grand Southern, had met with, having passed the House with such a handsome majority. The debate extended over Thursday and Friday last, and was quite warm and exciting. Mr. Lynott in introducing made a short speech pointing out the injustice of refusing to grant an extension and referring to the several industries that the railway would foster, and the general benefit it would prove to the country through which it runs. Mr. Hill also ably supported the bill, disposing of the arguments brought forward by some opponents of the Railway pretty thoroughly, showing that the mineral wealth and natural resources of the County would be developed and made more accessible, and that both the fisheries and mines (which promised great things) would contribute largely to the trade of the road, in spite of the assertion that there were more than one railway, the products of these industries would still be carried off by vessels. Mr. Cotterell also urged the passage of the bill, and altogether the Charlotte members did themselves justice and made out a good case.

The principal arguments adduced by the opponents to the bill, was that the road when built would never pay and therefore the payment of the remaining subsidy would be wasting a large amount of money and involving the Province hopelessly in debt. The Atty. Genl. in his speech going thoroughly into the subject, must have set the fears of at least some of them at rest. The bill, with various amendments and additions, to which the mover assented, and whose object was particularly to make provision for the regular running of trains, was finally passed by a vote of 24 to 16. It has yet to be sanctioned by the upper House, but there is not much doubt as to its successful passage. Mr. Hibbard is its champion there. I notice he has presented petitions in favor of the bill from the principal parishes and the three towns of Charlotte.

Quite a lively discussion took place on Saturday, when Mr. Hutchison introduced his bill providing that the House should meet not later than 31st Jan. each year. Most of the members are decidedly in favor of holding the session earlier in the year than it has usually been, arguing that they would be better able to give their whole attention to Legislative matters, their business in nearly every case demanding their closer attention as spring approached. In opposing the Bill the Atty. Genl. contended that it would be an interference with the prerogatives of the Lt. Governor, and moreover that as the Govt. wanted to have the end of the fiscal year changed to 31st Dec., in that case it would be impossible to get the accounts and reports ready for the House in so short a time. Some of the lawyers took part against the Atty. Genl. respecting the legality of the change, showing that the sections in the B. N. A. act, quoted by him, referred only to the abolition of the Lt. Governor's office, which the Legislature had not power to do away with. There is a large majority in favor of the Bill, and though there be doubt as to whether the House could or should set a fixed time, there is none as to the advisability of holding the session at a time more suitable to the whole House, when every member could give his undivided attention to the business of the country. There is no doubt that much of the faulty legislation of late years would have been avoided, had not members been impatient to get home where their business demanded their attention.

Agricultural matters are likely to receive considerable attention, and it is probable the policy of the Government in regard to this subject, will take a new turn. It is generally agreed that the improvement of agricultural affairs should be given to a Board whose head would be member of the Executive. The Committee on Agriculture, (which is mostly composed of farmers) have not yet made known their opinion to the House, awaiting the announcement of the Government policy in this respect.

The vote on Mr. Ritchie's resolution for removal of the Courts to St. John, and Mr. Davidson's amendment thereto, will be telegraphed to-morrow.

The Financial Statement of past year and Estimates for 1880, were submitted on Thursday last, by the Provincial Secretary. It is pretty certain that nothing will be done this session towards abolishing the Legislative Council.

Tuesday, April 6. PHILLOS.
By special Telegraph, April 7.

Amendment to Ritchie's motion, respecting removal of Law Courts to St. John, was carried 24 to 16. Supply comes on to-day.

What to Do in Case of Fire.

The loose garments worn by women and children expose them to especial danger from fire.

If the fire starts from the bottom of the dress, the natural upward tendency of the flame soon envelops the whole person, unless by self-control and presence of mind the necessary care be taken by the sufferer...

To obey the first impulse and open the doors and rush out, is sure destruction. The only safety is to fall down instantly on the floor, and roll over on the fire, snatching a woolen shawl or rug, if near, to wrap round the body.

One is comparatively safe by rolling over and over, for the flames will not rise to the face, and the lungs and breathing will be less likely to be injured.

Those who may be in the room, or may come in, have their work plainly before them. Keep doors and windows closed; snatch the first woolen thing to be found—a table cover—without thinking of the works of art on it. Pull it off! Who cares where the bric-a-brac rolls to? It is a human life in danger.

Or snatch a woolen shawl from a chair, a curtain or a rug, anything but that one human form is valuable. Wrap the sufferer instantly in something that is woolen—the coat from your back, if nothing else offers—and thus closely wrapped roll her on the floor in the folds. Scores of lives have been saved in this way, scores lost for want of such immediate action.

In case the house is on fire, should be one "captain," if possible, who can lead the less self-possessed out of the burning building. Every door, window or aperture through which air can find entrance should be closely shut, except during egress.

There are always eight or ten inches of pure air close to the floor, and if one cannot walk erect through the smoke, he should, as soon as enveloped in some woolen article, drop on the floor on the hands and knees and crawl out. A silk handkerchief, or piece of flannel or woolen stocking, wet and put over the face, will enable one to breathe in dense smoke.

What is a Grain of Wheat?

People handle a large amount of wheat, and yet very few know what it really is, and no doubt will be surprised when we tell them that it is a little sack which has many coatings.

The grain of wheat, besides which is a mineral principle, besides which it has a glutinous covering, which contains nitrogen. Again, there are very minute compartments, which contain starch. At the end is a little germ, which is double, one part of which is called the radicle; this is the future root of the plant; the other is called the plumula and is the future stem of the plant. In this is contained the future stem of the grain, although the future stem is only made visible by the aid of a most powerful microscope.

Then, by the aid of heat and moisture, the starch, by the active agency of a very small amount of substance known as diastase, which is very similar in character to yeast, starts a process of fermentation, which converts the starch into sugar, and this is food for the small root till it becomes large enough to extract nourishment from the soil.

In the meantime, the plumula, or future stem, is pushing its way through the outer covering, and from that through the soil to daylight, when it begins to extract carbonic acid from the atmosphere, and perhaps nitrogen.

The grain of wheat is very small, but on that little seed volume might be written, and generations will come and go before the last sentence could be completed.

Fashion Notes.

Large buttons are more worn than small ones.

Buttons with invisible eyes will be much used.

Gray and purple are favorite combinations of color in new silk brocades.

Watteur and Marie Antoinette styles will prevail for dresses made of foulards.

Heliotrope-colored cashmere and satin of the same color make an elegant costume.

Dark claret velvet and satin are used to brighten up ecru and almond-colored pongees.

Foulard and pongee dresses will be much worn in place of light checked and striped summer silks.

The favorite style of make-up for handkerchief dresses is with a plaited sash and a Tallon overskirt.

Jet fringes and passementeries and the new "blackberry" buttons are used on the richer black summer toilettes.

Satin finished foulards in illuminated designs are combined with other foulards in solid colors of various shades.

Claret-colored bunting is combined with a fabric of the same color, with white outline figures on it in a variety of effective costumes.

Breakfast caps are often made of colored foulards and fancy handkerchiefs than of white tulle or capelins, the frills, however, are of white lace.

Almond-colored and ecru pongee makes a beautiful overdress and basque or polonaise to wear over a checked colored or brown corduroy velvet skirt.

Picture dresses are made of pale blue French bunting and cashmeres, with borderings and trimmings of cretonnes, with white grounds, covered with Japanese figures.

Spanish styles are represented in importations of black dresses of fine thin all-wool tulle repousse, or wool tulle, trimmed with black open-work silk embroideries, or black Normandy or black Spanish lace.

A Generous Reward.

In one of the hotly-contested fights in Virginia, during the war, a Federal officer fell in front of the Confederate works.

While lying there, wounded, and crying for water, a Confederate soldier (James Moore, of Burke county, N. C.) declared his intention of supplying him with a drink.

The bullets were flying thick on both sides, and Moore's friends endeavored to dissuade him from such a hazardous enterprise.

Despite remonstrances and danger, however, Moore leaped the breastworks, canteen in hand, reached his wounded enemy, and gave him drink.

The Federal, under a sense of gratitude for the timely service, took out his gold watch and offered it to his benefactor, but it was refused.

The officer then asked the name of the man who had braved such danger to succor him. The name was given, and Moore returned to his position behind the embankment.

They saw nothing more of each other. Moore was subsequently wounded, and lost a limb in one of the engagements in Virginia, and returned to his home in Burke county.

A few days ago he received a communication from the Federal soldier to whom he had given the "cup of cold water," announcing that he had settled on him the sum of $10,000.

to be paid in four annual installments of $2,500 each. Investigation has established the fact that there is no mistake or deception in the matter.—Baptist Weekly.

The Hero a Bull-Fighter is in Spain. Speaking of the fete held in Paris for the relief of the Murcia sufferers, a correspondent of the London Truth writes:

Of all the innumerable lions at the Hippodrome, the espadas, or professional bull-fighters, were the most lionized. In Spain their yearly earnings range from $20,000 to $30,000 a year, and no prince daunt receives handsomer presents from male enthusiasts and female admirers.

If they were customary for them to go in their bare feet, they would, I dare say, wear diamonds in their toes as well as on their fingers, which are covered with those sparkling gems. They have double buttons of diamonds, large as marrowfat peas, and wear their shirt-collars, and rows of smaller ones fastening their embroidered linen breast-fronts.

In the rosettes of their shoes are stones of the finest water. Spanish ladies of rank are not ashamed to write love letters to espadas. The espada is a dandy without being a fop. If he chooses, he can pass his evenings in the company of grandees. If he is ill, the king sends daily to inquire after the state of his health, and he must be a careless dandy if he is not able to retire in the prime of life from the arena on a good fortune.

Paris has 602 painters in oil, 193 miniature painters, 597 paint and varnish painters, 107 sculptors, and 754 molders, not counting the many photographers, decorators, colorists, etc.
