Mr. Gladstone May Possibly Reappear in Politics.

Hon, Edward Blake Invited to Visit India.

Toronto Scored by the London Financial News.

The Anniversary of Parnell's Death Improssively Commemorated .-Trouble in Portugal-State of the Czar's Health.

The G. O. M.

LONDON, Oct. 7 .- Intimate friends of Mr. Gladstone say that the Grand Old Man's restored vigor may justify his reappearance in politics.

Decrease in British Trade.

London, Oct. 7 .- The returns issued by the Board of Trade for September show that the imports decreased £1,130,000, and the exports decreased £830,000 during that month, as compared with those for the corresponding month last year.

No Pay, No Fight.

London, Oct 6 .- It is reported in Shanghai that 2,000 soldiers of Li Hung Chang's crack corps, now in Corea, have deserted in consequence of their having received no pay for some time. It is believed that the deserters have joined the enemy's

The Antidote for Diphtheria.

BERLIN, Oct. 7 .- Behring's anti-diphtheria serum is offered for sale at 15 marks per small tube, The price is virtually prohibitive. A fund has been started to give Berlin's poor children the advantages of treatment with serum, and several large contributions have been received.

The French in Madagascar.

Paris, Oct. 7 .- The French residentgeneral left Antanarivo, capitol of Madagascar late in September in obedience to instructions from home, and sailed from Tamatave on the 30th. He has telegraphed from Zanzibar that all the French residents of the interior of Madagascar except the missionaries have arrived on the coast.

Retailation Threatened.

BERLIN, Oct. 7 .- The United Press respondent is informed officially that the citement prevails at the capital of Portugal. Government is determined not to allow the It is stated that a large number of Portu-United States to treat Germany as the least | guese naval officers, aggrieved at a certain favored nation in the matter of the sugar schedule. If the Germany protest should not be heeded in Washington the German Government would take steps to retaliate. Missionaries' Families Leaving Tien

Tsin. London, Oct. 7 .- The London Missionary Society has received a cablegram from the missionaries under its charge located in Tien Tsin and vicinity, stating that they are well but that their families are leaving for Pekin fearing the result of the antiforeign feeling which has made itself manifest on the part of the natives.

Mr. Blake Wanted in India. London, Oct. 7 .- The British committee of the Indian National Congress has invited the Hon. Edward Blake, M.P., who is now in Canada, to preside at the coming meeting in Madras. If Mr. Blake declines Michael Davitt or John Dillon will be invited to preside. The Indian Nationalists desire to associate their egitation with that of the Irish as representing the same principle.

National Liberal Congress.

BERLIN, Oct. 7 .- The National Liberal Congress has sat for three days at Frankfort on the Main. The debates have been private, but their tendency had been disclosed by talkative delegates, who endeavor to show that the Conservative element in the party is in the ascendancy, and is pushing the whole organization away from the Radicals and Radical Unionists, who for many years have had hopes of restoring the unity of all German Liberal parties.

Down Goes the Price of Wheat.

Wheat is going from bad to worse, says G. W. Smalley's cablegram. The official price for English supply has again been making new lowest records. The foreign supply is also quoted lower in London, but the downward movement has now been checked by the political scare and by the prevalence of contrary winds which have peen keeping back cargoes due to arrive. Liverpool prices are slightly hardened on Victory for the Dutch.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 7 .- A dispatch to the Algemen Handelsblad from the Island of Lombok says that the Dutch forces have entered Mattaram, the capital of the island which was held by the rebellious Balinese. The troops, upon searching the city, found 300 barrels of smckeless powder, a large number of cartridges and a great quantity of explosives. The dispatch says that the Du'ch flag is flying over the Jakara Negara, and that several of the Balinese chiets have surrendered.

Toronto Taken to Task.

London, Oct. 7 .- The Financial News says: "The good people of Toronto seem to have a very high opinion of their credit. Being in want of a trifling loan of a million, they mivited tenders for that amount, offering to pay 3 per cent and fixing the minimum price at 91. It is not surprising that they received no tenders, nor are they likely to receive any on such terms, while Toronto's 31 per cent bonds are quoted at 334. It was an open secret that the greater part of Toronto's last loan still remains in the hands of the Bank of Montreal."

Severe Fighting in the Congo. LONDON, Oct. 7 .- According to advices received here serious fighting has occurred in the Congo State between the Belgians and Arabs. One story has it that after a truce had been declared the Belgian troops surrounded the Arabs and shot them down, granting no quarter.

Another statement is that Chief Rumiliza, commanding the Arabs, after fierce fighting, agreed to a proposal for a conferance mad- by the Belgians. Shortly after respondent in Rome says: It is semi-the conference was opened the Arab officially announced that the Italian Mippowder magazine exploded, and both sides | ister in Pekin has offered the Chinese | Ladies' Aid will meet on Wednesday afterexpecting treachery, the battle was renewed. The Arabs were completely surrounded and most of them were killed. Chief Rumiliza, however, escaped, but over 30 other chiefs were among the killed. Three hundred thousand lakhs was captured by the Belgians. Anniversary of Parnell's Death.

Dublin, Oct. 7 .- The anniversary of Charles Stewart Parnell's death was celebrated impressively here today. No such crowd has been in Glasnevin Cemetery since the day of his funeral. Special trains came from all parts of Ireland, bringing thousands of the dead leader's admirers. The procession was marshaled by Timothy Harrington and was punctual and orderly from beginning to end. The memorial car contained countless wreaths and designs in flowers from Ireland, America, Australia, India and several continental countries.

The Bicycle in the Army.

BERLIN, Oct. 7 .- The military authorities are dissatisfied with the work of the bicyclists' detachment in the recent East Prussian maneuvers. The bicyclists did good service in reconnoitering on the dry high roads, but on cross country work and on wet roads they accomplished nothing. One army corps had good luck with the bicyclists when using them in a compact detachment against cavalry. In this case the ground was distinctly unfavorable to hersef, and the bicyclists after advancing through a concentrated fire drove back the Bad for Grouse, but Good for Girls.

London, Oct. 7.-In reference to some recent remarks here about the poor matrimonial results of the last London season, it is learned that match-making parents are deriving much consolation from the almost phenomenal activity of what is known as the counting-house season. The weather has been bad for grouse shooting and other sport, compelling the young men to spend more time than usual indoors in the society of the ladies. The gratifying result is said to be the engagement of about 200 fashionable girls to an equal number of fashionable young men since the parliamentary recess commenced. The bridegrooms include some half dozen of the eldest sons of neers, among them the Marquis c' Hamilton. The heir of the Duke of Abercorn, who will marry the daughter of the Earl of Lucan. There is also one divorced man, Lord Connemara, who caused a grave scandal when Governor of Madeas. He is to marry a widow, Mrs. Coleman, and polite society wonder what priest or parson will have the courage to perform the ceremony.

Trouble in Portugal.

MADRID, Oct. 7 .- According to advices received here from Lisbon, the greatest expassage in the speech which the king recently made at the opening of the Portuguese Cortes, drew up a manifesto in the form of a protest addressed to the nation. No names were attached to this document, but its authors are known to be men of high position and influence. The police have arrested the man who printed the manifesto, and the greatest excitement has been caused at Lisbon by this action upon the part of the dissatisfied naval officers. In connection with the disturbance it is reported that the Minister of Marine, J. A. De Brissac Dos Neves Ferreira, will tender his resignation. The Portuguese authorities, according to the advices received here, have refused to allow any news regarding the action of the naval officers and its probable consequences to be telegraphed abroad, and the result is that this information had to be sent here by mail from Lis-

The Czar's Ailment.

BERLIN, Oct. 7 .- A correspondent of the Associated Press has had an interview with Prof. Leyden, the distinguished specialist, who has just returned from Spala, where he has been in attendance upon the Czar in conjunction with Prof. Zacharia. Prof. Leyden, replying to the request of the Associated Press for a statement as to the nature of the illness of the Czar, said distinotly: "His Majesty is suffering from Bright's disease." He added, however: "But the disease is yet in a mild form, though complicated with diabetes. The latter is causing difficulty in breathing."

LONDON, Oct. 7 .- Queen Victoria receives frequent reports on the condition of the Czar, and imparts the news freely to the court. A special courier arrived at Balmoral on Wednesday with an autograph letter from the Czarina. The sum of the authentic news is that the Czar is suffering from granular contracted kidneys, with functional disorder of the heart, occasional oppression of breathing and insomnia. He is not confined to bed, transacts business and takes a moderate amount of exercise. He has been assured that his life will be prolonged a couple of years, but that absoute recovery is doubtful. Although the reports that the Czarewitch is to be made regent are declared to be without foundation, it is probable that the physicians will insist upon the Czar's abstaining for a certain period from all wark. The Coster Marquis.

LONDON, Oct. 7 .- When Lord Bruce took over the titles, honors and estates of the Marquisate of Ailesbury on the death of his childless nephew, the "Coster Marquis," he found many valuable heir looms missing. Thereupon he spent money lavishly in advertising, and employed several detectives. The result is now announced that most of the property has been traced. The heircome are in the hands of various people, including pawn brokers, collectors and disreputable women. The late marquis, it seems, had treated them as available assets and distributed them freely among his friends and hangers-on, male and female, the majority of whom pledged or sold them speedily for cash. Some of the possessors have readily agreed to return the treasures on reasonable terms. Others have put fancy prices upon them, and a few have refused to part with them on any consideration. Lawsuits will therefore be necessary, and the recalcitrant holders will have to prove how they obtained the heirlooms, what they paid for them and also show that the purchases were made in the open market.

China and Japan,

BERLIN, Oct. 7 .- The United Press correspondent was informed by high authority today that concerted action of the neutral powers to protect foreigners in China is Government Italy's mediation in the questions at issue between China and Japan. The cruiser Umbria has started from Spezzia for China. The Daily Graphic prints a dispatch from Shanghai saying that Japanese transports have landed a large force at Talien Wan on the Chinese coast northeast of Port Arthur. Dispatches from Pekin say that the Board of Foreign Affairs has issued a note to the representatives of the foreign powers concerning the rights of to London. neutrals. The note indicates China's intention to limit these rights as far as the freedom of navigation in Corean waters is and Italian representatives decline to accede to China's wishes in this respect.

The Tien Tsin correspondent of the Times telegraphs: The Japanese are pursuing the campaign toward Moukden, cautiously avoiding all dashing enterprises. Japanese cruisers are closely watching the Chinese fleet in the Gulf of Pe Chi Li. Ping Yang fugitives describe the Japanese tactics at the battle as most scientific, and the Japanese weapons as perfect, while the Chinese operations were conducted in antiquated fashion. The Japanese by paying for supplies and keeping discipline are gaining the sympathies of the Coreans. The French admiral is here.

The French warships Isly, Alger, Duguay-Trouin and Lutin have been ordered to Chinese waters.

A Farewell at the Barracks-Hospital Sunday at St. James'-Presentations to Miss McLood-Many Items of Interest.

Rev. M. P. Talling, of St. James' Presbyterian Church, dealt with hospital work in an interesting and instructive way during his sermon Sunda, evening. He directed attention to the many charitable institutions and organizations in the city and incidentally spoke of Dr. Eccles' recent address on hospital matters, warmly commending the spirit of it. He pointed out that Old London had more than 100 hospitals, supported at an expense of more than $5,000,000 annually. London Hospital alone maintained 6,300 in-patients and 46,000 out-patients, at a cost of over $200,000 per annum. obtained chiefly by voluntary contributions. Since 1873 Old London had taken a collection in the churches on a Sunday in June known as "Hospital Sunday." That taken in June, 1877, realized $125,000. Our London had two hospitals, homes for prayers, it was now the speaker's hope and the aged, for orphans, for the incurable, a expectation to meet her and his loving and rescue home, and others. Why should not faithful wife in heaven. After a ter-we have a Hospital Sunday too? It was rible arraignment of the drink traffic not the money clone that was a benefit, but it attracted attention to the sick and suffering, and cultivated the sympathies of those who could visit and aid such.

Rev. E. B. Lanceley, city, will preach the anniversary sermons of the Exeter Methodist Church on Sunday next. Rev. G. F. Sherwood, of Huron College, London, will conduct service at Port Rowan on Sunday next. Mr. Sherwood has been appointed by the bishop to visit the different parishes of Huron diocese on behalf of the educational work of the church.

Rev. S. H. Goold, assistant minister of the Memorial Church, has resigned that Major Calhoun has not received his inposition in order to attend the Queen's University, Kingston, where he will study for the sphere of a medical missionary. Rev. W. L. Armitage has been appointed ham; Clark, Petrolea; Hendricks, Strathto the vacancy.

In view of the fact that Miss Lottie McLeod will shortly leave for the mission field of Telugu, India, the "open" Sabbath school meeting held on Sunday afternoon in Adelaide Street Baptist Church was deeply interesting. It was devoted to the subject of missions. In the absense through illness of Superintendent Bayley. Mr. Arthur Woodburn, assistant army in Newfoundland. It is eight years superintendent, presided. After singing since Mr. Booth was last here. He will and prayer, the pastor of the church, Rev. D. M. Mihell gave a very interesting address in relation to the people of India, dealing largely with the subject of "Caste." Mr. Mihell illustrated his remarks in a clear and forcible way by the use of a number of images representing the dress and general appearance of the different classes of natives in India. "The Beacon Light" was then sung with excellent effect by a male quartet, including Messrs. Maynard, Drewe, Moorhead and Freeland, and a series of original responsive readings was given, led by Mr. Walter Clark, in which the religious needs of the various divisions of the world were shown Church. in startling figures. A vocal selection by the infant class, under the leadership of Miss Edith Hartson, and a hymn by the entire school followed, and then Miss Mc-Lead was called upon for an address. Miss McLeod took for her theme the words of John, "Little children, keep yourselves from idols," showing that idol-worship is not confined to heathen lands, but that here at home pleasure, money, dress, self. and even our friends, may take the place which should be God's alone. Miss Mc-Leod's remarks were full of force and feeling. When she sat down, Mr. A. J. Clark. on behalf of the school, spoke a kind goodbye to Miss McLeod, expressing the regret they felt at losing her invaluable services as a teacher and at the same time their pleasure that one of their number had been called to such a noble work.
At this point Miss Jennie McKerricher stepped forward and handed Miss McLeod a purse of money which, Mr. Clark explained, had been contributed by the school as a token of esteem and was intended for the purchase of such books as she would need for her studies in India. Singing and the benediction then brought this interesting meeting to a close. The new $40,000 Presbyterian Church at Paris was opened Sunday, Principal Grant preaching. Rev. W. J. Clark, London, will preach twice next Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Cullen, of London, will conduct the missionary service in the Methodist Church on Oct. 14. This gentleman is one of the ablest ministers in the Methodist denomination, and a very interesting and estructive sermon may be expected .-Ailsa Craig Banner.

The Bishop of Huron will preach at the anniversary services in connection with Trinity Church, Blythe, Sunday, Oct. 21, The week day services in most of the city churches now begin at 7:30 p.m. Tomorrow night in Dandas Street Methodist Church the Rev. S. Card, chaplain of Penetanguishene Reformatory, will lecture on "Juvenile Criminals." The lecture noon and report on the success of the dining hall at the Western Fair. The extensions to the King Street Presbyteria Church are being pushed forward by the contractors, and will probably be completed in a month. Yesterday morning, prior to the celebration of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper in Dundas Street Center Methodiet Church, Rev. Mr. Lanceley gave the right hand of fallowship to 30 new members. A considerable number of them were new-comers

At the Thursday evening meeting of the Woman's Mission Circle of Adelaide Street Baptist Church Miss McLeod was preconcerned. The British, Russian, French | sented by her associates with a valuable edition (in two volumes) of the "Encyclopadia of Modern Missions." The gift was intended as a token of the esteem felt for Miss McLeod by the members of the circle, of which she has been secretary almost ever since its formation. Mr. E. B. Smith, eldest son of Rural Dean Smith, of Morpeth, has entered Huron College here. Rev. W. J. Clark yesterday morning based his remarks on Saul's visit to the Witch of Endor and the appearance of Samuel. He did not believe it was in the woman's power to call up the spirit of anyone, but God, in his own wise providence, let Samuel be shown unto Saul. Speaking of modern spiritualism he inferred from the Scriptures that the stamp of God's disapproval rested upon all such things. God had given them a record quite sufficient to lead them in the right way and no better help could be obtained from outside Another large audience filled the Opera House yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting. As usual the musical part of the service was excellent. In addition to that furnished by the orchestra which was of a very high order, Mr. J. W. Fetherston sang a solo in excellent voice and the Harmony Vocal Male Quartot rendered "Lead Kindly Light" in a highly creditable manner. The musical service is one of the most pleasing and acceptable feaures of these popular meetings and is always greatly appreciated by the audience, Mr. Fred Heath occupied the chair and introduced the speaker, Mr. H. O. Wills, the converted gambler of Detroit, who gave an illustrated address, largely dealing with his pass life. Born in Troy, N. Y., he became a thief when 6 years old, and at the age of 15 was sent to prison for four years. On his release, finding it impossible to get honest work, he began to steal on a larger scale in different parts of the States, and served several more terms in other prisons. But he was converted eleven years ago. Saved by a mother's as legalized by the Government, the speaker closed an address that bristled with good plain common sense and truthful warnings against the curse of drunkenness, with a strong pies to the unsaved in the audience to turn right about and serve the Lord Jesus Christ. Jos. Gibson, of Ingersoll, will be the speaker next Sunday.

The Christian Endeavor Society of St James' Presbyterian Church will hold social for the young people of the church Tuesday evening.

Major and Mrs. Calhoun farewelled at Salvation Citadel Sunday. Ensign Lowry, a Winnipeg woman, comes to London, structions where to proceed as yet. Between the present time and Oct. 21 Ensigns Moore, Windsor; Miller, Chatroy, and Gale, Woodstock, will bid farewell to their respective charges and be moved to different portions of the Province, just where is not known as yet at the Provincial headquarters here. General William Booth, of London, England, will be here from Jan. 16 to 29, 1895. He was in Montreal on Saturday and Sunday and has just finished a tour of the probably speak in the Opera House. Dr. Wild preached to large congregations in the First Congregational Church Sunday. In the morning he spoke of the lessons of a vacation, and in the evening "The Atonement" was his subject. Next Sunday evening the dector will preach a sermon on the present Japan-Chinese war, and he advises the timid to stay at home. Tonight Rev. Mr. Adams, the assistant pastor, will be ordained, and tomorrow night there will be a tea meeting and reception to Dr. Wild. The doctor announced on Sunday night that he had become the regular pastor of the First Congregational

Two very large congregations attended the harvest thanksgiving service in Christ Church yesterday. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers, fruit and grain, and special music was rendered by the choir. Their singing reflects great credit on the organist, Miss Brown, who, with the chair, must have worked very hard to obtain this result. In the morning Mr. A. F. Wicks sang the solo "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" in a very pleasing manner. In the evening Miss M. Hughes, who is staying in the city on a pleasure trip from London, England, sang Handel's "I know that my Redeemer liveth" in a very finished style. She has a very sweet and clear voice and thorough knowledge of her subject. The rector, Rev. J. H. Moorehouse took as his texts: Morning, Isaiah, ix., 3; evening, Psalms, zcii., 1, preaching from them two eloquent sermons in his usual very impressive style. The singing of the choir in Queen's Avenue Church last evening was unusually fine, and was complimented by Ray. Mr. Cullen, who was preaching.

MASSAGE TREATMENT.

A Beautiful Captive.

The Subject of Dr. Talmage's Sermon Last Sunday.

tions and Triumphed at Last. An Example That Will Last Through

All Generations. BROOKLYN, Oct. 8, 1894.-Rev. Dr. Talmage, who is still absent on his roundthe-world tour, selected as the subject of yesterday's sermon, through the press:

"Hadassah," the text chosen being Esther A beautiful child was born in the capital of Persia. She was an orphan and a captive, her parents having been stolen from their Israelitish home and carried to Shushan, and had died, leaving their daughter poor and in a strange land. But an Israelite who had been carried into the same captivity was attracted by the case of the orphan. He educated her in his holy religion, and under the roof of that good man this adopted child began to develop a sweetness and excellency of character if ever equaled, certainly never surpassed. Beautifu! Hadassah! Could that adopted father ever spare her from his household? Alas! Worse than anything that the father expects happens to his adopted child. Anasuerus, a princely scoundrel, demands that Hadassah, the fairest one in all the kingdom, become his wife. Worse than death was marriage to such a monster of iniquity! How great the change when this young woman left the home where God was worshiped and religion honored, to enter a palace devoted to pride, idolatry and sensuality! "As a lamb to the slaughter !" Ahasuerus knew not that his wife was a Jewess. At the instigation of the infamous prime minister the king decreed that all the Jews in the land should be slain. Hadassah pleads the cause of her people, breaking through the rules of the court, presenting herself in the very face of death, crying, "If I perish, I perish." Oh, it was a sad time among that enslaved people! They had all heard the decree concerning their death. Sorrow, gaunt and ghastly, sat in thousands of households, and mothers wildly pressed their infants to their breasts as the days of massacre hastened on, praying that the same swordstroke which slew the mother might also tions to pride, and arbitraryness, and slay the child, rosebud and bud perishing in the same blast. But Hadassah is busy at court. The hard heart of the king is touched by her story, and although he could not reverse mules, on dromedaries, messengers sped patches, and a shout of joy went up from mangled corpses sounded the triumph of the delivered Jews, and their enthusiasm was as when the Highlanders came to the relief of Lucknow, and the English army, which stood in the very jaws of death, at the sudden hope of assistance and rescue, lifted the shout above belching cannon and the death-groan of hosts, crying, "We are saved! We are saved!" My subject affords me opportunity of illustrating what Christian character may be under the greatest disadvantages. In the first place, our subject is an illustra-long story about Hadassah. "She had in Sodom, or Jeremiah in Jerusalem, or neither father nor mother." A nobleman had become her guardian, but there is no one who can take the place of a parent. Who so able at night to hear a child's tion Hadassah exhibited ! Though father and mother were gone, grace had triumphed over all disadvantages. Her willingness to self-sacrifice; her control over the king; her humility; her faithful worship of God, show her to have been one of the best of the world's Christians. There are those who did not enjoy remarkable early privileges. Perhaps, like the beautiful captive of the text, you were an orphan. God's grace will triumph if you seek it. He knows what obstacles you have fought against, and the more trial the more help. After all, there are no orphans in the world, for the great God is the father of us all.

Again, our subject is an illustration of what religion may be under the pressure of poverty. In the humble home of Mordecai, her adopted father, Hadassah was a light that illumed every privation. In some period in almost every man's life there comes a season of strained circumstances, when the severest calculation and most scraping economy are necessary in order to subsistence and respectability. To such I bear a message of good cheer. You say it is a hard thing for you to be a Christian. This constant anxiety, this unresting calculation, wear out the buoyancy of your spirit, and although you have told perhaps no one about it, cannot I tell that this is the very trouble which keeps you from being what you ought to be? Sometimes you sit down discouraged and almost wish you were dead. Christians in satin slippers, with their feet on damask ottoman, may scout at such a class of temptations, but those who themselves have been in the struggle and grip of hard misfortune can appreciate the power of these evils to dissuade the soul away from religious duties. We admit the strength of the temptation, but then we point to Hadassah, her poverty equaled by her piety. Courage, down there in the battle! Hurl away your disappointment! Men of half your heart have through Christ been more than conquerors. In the name of God, come out of that! The religion of Christ is just what you want out there among the empty flour barrels and beside the cold hearths. You have never told anyone of what a hard time you have had. but God knows it as well as you know it. Your easy times will come after a while. Do not let your spirits break down mid-life. What if your coat is thin? Run fast enough to keep warm. What if you have no luxuries on your table? High expectations will make your blood tingle better than the best Maderia. It does not require extravagant wardrobe, and palatial residence, and dashing equipage to make a man rich. The heart right the estate is right. A new heart is worth the world's wealth in one roll of bank bills; worth all scepters of earthly power bound in one sheef; worth all crowns expressed in one coronet. Many man without a farthing in his pocket has been rich enough to buy the world out and

are exhibitions of heroism and endurance uch as you may never have imseined. Again, our subject illustrates what religion may be when in a strange land, or far from home. Hadassah was a stranger in Shushan. Perhaps brought up in the quiet of rural scenes, she was now surrounded by the dazzle of a city. Heads such as hers had been turned by the transit from country to city. More than that she was in a strange land. Yet in that loneliness she kept the Christian integrity, and was as consistent among the allurements of Shushan as among the kindred of her father's house. Perhaps I address some who are now far away from the home of their fathers. You came across the seas. The sepulchres of your dead are far away. Whatever may be the comfort and adornment of your present home, you cannot forget the place of your birth, though it may have been lowly and unhonored. Far away the kirk! Far away the homestead! Far away the town! Have you formed habits which would not have seemed right in the places and times of which we speak? Have you built an altar in your present abode? Is the religion of olden time, once planted in your heart, come up in glorious harvest? Is your present home an eulogy upon that from which you were transplanted? Then are yeworthy companions of Hadassah, the stranger, as holy in Shushan as in Jerusalem. Again, our subject illustrates what religion may be under the temptation of personal attractiveness. The inspired record says of the heroine of my text, "She was fair and beautiful." Her very name signified, "A myrtle." Yet the admiration, and praise, and flattery of the world did not blight her humility. The simplicity of her manners and behavior equaled her extraordinary attractions. Japonicas, anemones and heliotropes never swagger at the beauty which God planted in their very leaf, sepal, axil and stamen. There are many flowers that bow down so modestly you cannot see the color in their cheek until they lift up their head, putting your hand under their round chin. Indeed, any kind of personal attractions, whether they be those of the body, the mind, or the heart, may become tempta-

foolish assumption. Again, our subject exhibits what religion may be under bad domestic influences. Hadassah was snatched from the godly home into which she had been his decree for the slaying of the Jews, he adopted, and introduced into the abominsent forth an order that they should arm able associations of which wicked Ahasuthemselves for defense. On horseback, on erus was the center. What a whirl of blasphemy, and drunkenness and licenthrough the land, bearing the king's dis | tiousness! No altar, no prayer, no Sabbath, no God! If this captive girl can be a that enslaved people at the faint hope of Christian there, then it is possible to be a success. The day of execution dawned. Christian anywhere. There are many Government efficials, armed and drilled, of the best people of the world cowed before the battle shout of the op- who are obliged to contend with pressed people. The cry of defeat rang the most adverse domestic influences, back to the palaces, but above the moun children who have grown up into the ains of dead, above 75,000 crushed and love of God under the frown of parents and under the discouragement of bad example. Some sister of the family having professed the faith of Jesus is the subject of unbounded satire inflicted by brothers and sisters. Yea, Hadassah was not the only Christian who had a queer husband. It is no easy matter to maintain correct Christian principles when there is a companion disposed to scoff at them, and to ascribe every imperfection of character to hypocrisy. Do I speak to any laboring under these blighting disadvantages? My subject is full of encouragement. Respontion of what Christian character may be sibilities rest upon you. Be faithful, under orphanage. This Bible line tells a though you stand as much alone as did Lot

Jonah in Nineveh, or Hadassah in the court of Ahasuerus. Finally, our subject illustrates what religion may be in high worldly position. prayer; or at twilight to chide youthful The last we see in the Bible of Hadassah is wanderings, or to soothe youthful sorrows? | that she has become the Queen of Persia. And yet behold what a nobility of disposi- Prepare now to see the departure of her humility, and self-sacrifice, and religious principle. As she goes up you may expect Grace to go down. It is easier to be humble in the obscure house of her adopted father than on a throne of dominion. But you misjudge this noble woman. What she was before, she is now-the myrtle. Applauded for her beauty and her crown, she forgets not the cause of her suffering people, and with all simplicity of heart. still remains a worshiper of the God of heaven.

Noble examples followed only by a very few. I address some who, through the goodness of God, have risen to positions of influence in the community where you live. In law, in merchandise, in medicine in mechanics, and in other useful occupations and professions you hold an influence for good, or for evil. Let us see whether, like Hadassah, you can stand elevation. Have you as much simplicity of character as once you evidenced? Do you feel as much dependence upon God; as much your own weakness; as much your accountability for talents intrusted? Or are you proud and over-demanding, and ungrateful, and unsympathetic, and worldly, and sensual, and devilish? Then you have been spoiled by your success, and you shall not sit on this throne with the heroine of my text. In the day when Hadassah shall come to the grander coronation, in the presence of Christ and the bannered hosts of the redeemed, you will be poor indeed. Ch, there are thousands of men who can easily endure to be knocked down of misfortune, who are utterly destroyed if lifted up of success. Satan rakes them to the top of the pinnacle of the temple and shoves them off. Their head begins to whirl and they lose their balance and down they go.

My friends, "God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace to the humble." Take from my subject encouragement. Attempt the service of God, whatever your disadvantages, and whatever our lot, let us seek that grace which outshone all the splendors of the places of Shushan.

A RAT IN HER TRUNK

Made Jess So Crazy that She Nearly Wrecked the Circus.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The reason for the strange actions of Jess, the circus elephant, which went on a rampage early yesterday morning, and after breaking her fastenings and nearly wrecking the circus, roamed through the streets of San Francisco, has been discovered. Jess has always been perfectly docile and could be handled by any of the circus people. While she was being pursued through the streets this morning by her keepers they noticed that the animal acted as if frenzied by fright. Finally when she allowed them to come near one of the keepers noticed something protruding from the end of her trunk. He pulled it out and found that it was a live rat. The elephant had been lying on the ground asleep, with her trunk stretched out in front of her, and it is supposed the rat ran up her trunk. The elephant contracted the muscles of her trunk and held the rodent fast. When the rat had been removed the elephant gave signs of great satisfaction and made no further resistance to being led back to the circus tent.

Grave Character of the Present Situation.

Collapse of the Chinese Government Not Improbable.

Concerted Action to be Taken by the European Powers.

England, France, Germany and Russia in Accord-Missionaries Decline to Desert Their Posts.

THE POWERS WILL INTERFERE. LONDON, Oct. 6.-It can be stated on authority that the developments of the past week in Eastern affairs will lead to concerted action on the part of the European powers. On Monday last N. R. O'Connor, the British minister at Pekin, warned the Foreign Office by cable that the condition of affairs in China was such that the Government was not able to guarantee protection to the foreign residents at the treaty ports and the missionaries in the interior of the country. The minister in the same dispatch stated that the Chinese Imperial Council was disorganized and that the collapse of the Government was not looked upon as an impossibility. He advised that instant action be taken for the protection of the lives and property of British subjects in China. The substance of this dispatch was at once communicated by Lord Rosebery to the Governments of France, Russia and Germany, with the suggestion that the powers co-operate in increasing the guard at the treaty ports and in the measures for the protection of the missionaries. When the Cabinet met on Thursday friendly responses from all three of the powers named had been received, and this so thoroughly

CLEARED UP THE SITUATION as to enable the Ministers to give the Premier and the Earl of Kimberley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a free hand to take whatever steps in the matter they consider necessary. No question of intervention between Japan and China has arisen, however. It is reported that preparations are being made to send 10,000 troops to occupy the leading treaty ports. and if the present intention is carried out Parliament on reassembling will be asked to grant a credit of £4,000,000 to cover the expenses of the expedition. Since the holding of the Cabinet council instructions have been cabled to the British Minister at Pekin and to the British consuls at all the treaty ports to send to the mission stations in the interior imperative instructions for WITHDRAWAL OF ALL THE MISSIONARIES to the protected coast districts. The consuls are empowered by their instructions to call for assistance upon Vice Admiral Freemantle, commanding the British fleet in Chinese waters, who is authorized to send gunboats to any possible distance if such action be deemed necessary to cover the withdrawal of the missionaries. The instructions also direct that all missionaries, without regard to nationality, shall be protected. The few and meagre telegrams thus far received by the Minister and consuls from the nearest mission stations indicate that the missionaries there are determined not to desert their posts, buses continue their work in the face of all risks.

AN EXPLANATION. Private advices to the Army and Navy Gazette explain away the Japanese charge that Vice Admiral Freemantle signalled to the Chinese the approach of the Japanese fleet. The British vessels, it is said, used their search lights in order to reveal their nationality, and thus prevent an assault on them by mistake.

THE TALK OF MEDIATION. The offers of mediation between China and Japan are all widely divergent. The truth of the matter is that it is the general belief in official circles that the members of the Cabinet are unanimously against any foreign interference, and so far as Great Britain is concerned, favor allowing the Japanese to reap the full fruit of their victories, unless, of course, they seek to injure the commercial interests of Europe.

THE MISSIONARY INTEREST. The largest Protestant inland mission in China is engaged in the Provinces of Se Chuen and Hu Pei, in which provinces anti foreign riots have most often occurred. The managers of this station, instead of supervision, are sending tresh drafts of misdistrict, they having received advice that sleep about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, from there is no more cause for fear of ill treat. which he never awoke. The same may be said publican governor of Pennsylvania, and of the Catholic missionaries, whose numbers | served in that capacity throughout the war. are largely in excess of the Protestants. In | Succeeding Grant's election Gov. Curtin New Chwang and Mcukden, which are was appointed Minister to Russia and near the center of the district, where the war is now being carried on, there was stationed 23 Catholic and 17 Protestant missionaries, The latest mail advices received from these points state that the churches and houses of native converts have been pillaged and burned, but that the foreign residents have meanwhile remained unharmed. DISPOSAL OF THE BRITISH FORCES. The position of affairs debars the Adposts, but Vice Admiral Freemantle has been advised to station gunboats at Choo Foo, Ichang and Hankow, and also at the furthest inland port, Chung King. At Shanghai the Indo-European police force will be increased on representations made by British shippers there. USELESS CHINESE FORTS. A letter from Pekin published in the Standard says reports have been recived from all parts of the Chinese Empire and notably from Foo Chow, that the forts are useless as means of defense and that the guns in them are not fit for use.

GERMANY READY TO CO-OPERATE WITH ENGLAND. BERLIN, Oct. 7.—Under the approval of the Emperor, Chancellor Von Caprivi has telegraphed to Lord Kimberiey, British Foreign Minister, informing him that the German squadron will co-operate with the English fleet to protect Europeans at Chinese ports, and requesting a mutual entente on the part of England whereby the British squadron shall protect German subjects and the German fleet protect British subjects.

"To cough up the cash" is a collequialism that is "all the go" in the States. William Corbett, a Western Ontario man, swallowed a copper 14 years ago. He coughed it up the other day, but the newspaper dispatch did not state whether it was stringency of the money market or a relaxation of the

The little boy was dressed in Fauntleroy costume, and he parried one arm under his jacket while the empty sleeve bobbed airily about. Big tears stood out of his eyes as his mother lifted him carefully up to the seat. A little girl brought up the rear, and she looked as if some dreadful tragedy had just been enacted and she had been an involuntary witness of it. The car had stopped in front of a doctor's office to let them on, and the air of misery that accompanied them excited general pity and interest.

"Poor little fellow," said one matronlylooking woman to an elderly lady; "I wonder how he broke it."

"I dare say the little dear has had his arm scalded badly," suggested the young woman with glasses. The sympathizers would undoubtedly have imagined that little Fauntleroy's arm was off at the shoulder if the car had not stonned.

"Now, be careful of your vaccination, Freddie, dear," said the mother as Freddie clambered out, "and he sure you don't rub it off. There's a good boy,

A couple of feeble gasps followed this announcement, and as the car went on there was an amused smile on the features of two men, while a hurt look lingered about the faces of the sympathetic women.

::: I was sitting in the park one morning last week, when I was approached by a comparatively well-dressed man. He was very unsteady in his gait and carried a well-developed "jag" that might have cost anywhere from $15 to $25 during the dry season. In his hand he held a orumpled piece of paper which he insisted on showing to me as soon as he had assured himself that his seat was as steady as it looked. "Wasser think of that? (hic). B'lieve it's so?" he asked in a husky voice, as he turned his leary eyes in my direction.

I found that he had got possession of a torn piece of newspaper on which was printed in startling lines: OFF ITS NUT.

He looked around to see that we were not overhead, and then he whispered confidentially: "I've noticed it meself. (Hic.) It was wobbling just now. Noticed it last night and haven't been home since." Inquiringly: "Do you think my wife could be induced to b'lieve it?"

"Undoubtedly," I said, "providing you produce the necessary document." He laughed softly, and folding the paper carefully he once more launched out into uncertainty.

Late that night I saw him again and he did not look at all joyful. I asked him what success he had met with. He became very talkative and told me that his wife had greeted him with "Drunk again, you horrid thing !" "No'm," he answered stolidiy, as he fumbled for his paper. "I deny the acquisition. Great discovery. Last night's paper. Earth wobbles. There!" Then she looked at me and said, 'Got em again?' and went home to her mother's. Say, ain't got 10 cents to buy a stick to help steady the wobbling, have you?"

So delicately adjusted are the scales of weal and woe for the great powers of the old world that either eventuality portends almost incalculable consequences. The two combined have produced the nearest approach to a war panic which has been known since the sword was last sheathed in Europe. It is still futile to speculate about the real significance of events, known and unknown, in the East and far East, but the field may be partially cleared by a process of elimination. It can now be said positively that there is no question between France and England in an acute stage. The unprecedented action of the British Admiralty in sending the Channel squadron on a cruise to the Western Mediterranean with aversion reduced to hisses, following instead of Atlantic waters during the winter does not signify a suspi-cion of hostile designs by France. Madagascan affairs are not for the moment an important factor in the situation. Turning attention to the east, it is undoubtedly true that England is as much concerned in the attitude of Russia as in that of the two belligerents. Every hour makes it more clear that a crisis is rapidly approaching. The thing most greatly feared at this moment is a sudden massacre of foreigners in some Chinese treaty port. The danger of this atrocity is undoubtedly great. The European powers are not yet able to prevent it with the means at hand, and the problem how to deal with such an emergency is a difficult one. The conviction is now universal in Europe that China is practically at the mercy of the Japanese forces. The news of a decisive blow struck at the heart of the Celestial Empire is expected any day. Therefore, if there is to be European intervention in the war in the east the time for it is close at

There can be no doubt that this question is being earnestly considered by the great powers. It is impossible, however, to gain Supreme Court, was nominated for justice the slightest information upon which to base a forecast of the decision. Rumors Gaynor, who was withdrawn by the State without end, both pro and con, have been in circulation in the last few days. At one moment it is confidently asserted that England and Russia have a close understanding on this subject. Perhaps the best answer to this is the reply given yeste alay by the Japanese Minister in London to a friend who asked him if he believed such agreement existed. "Will oil and water mix ?" was the answer of this astute diplomat. The belief grows stronger, on the other hand, that the cause of the English Government's sudden alarm this week was the discovery that Japan and Russia have been working in secret harmony since the outset of the trouble; that in fact the Emperor of Japan has been the cat's paw of the Czar. If this is true, Japan is no longer in the position of a cat's paw, and the illness of the Czar is sufficient to cancel any plan which has been made. A Very Grave Situation.

The new and genuine fear is springing up in Europe that Japan's easy success will make it impossible to limit the gratification of her ambitions without interference to drastic as to amount to another war with European powers. The latter eventuality would be full of incalculable dangers. The the gravest nature. two weeks spent by the imperial family at Spala, in spite of the attempts to give the visit a holiday air, were most melancholy. Hunting parties took place daily, and the Czar himself appeared two or three times. His enjoyment was curtailed by a sad accident in the first week. The Czarewitch mistook the movements of a beater in the underbrush for a deer and fired. The man was badly hurt and died next day. The Czar appeared only once at the table. He always dined in his own room. The Empress and Grand Duke Michael, his favorite son, stayed with him. He arose early, as is the habit at St. Petersburg. Seven o'clock found him looking over his mail. After 11 o'clock he took a short walk in the park, and werked again from 3 to 6 in his cabinet. Prof. Leyden remained two days at Spala. The two medical authorities were said not to have agreed at first as to the treatment to be pursued. During the last few days of his stay the Czar used a cane while walking and always remained near the palace. The anxiety increased when the Empress suddenly fellill. She had remained seated too long on a stone bench in the park and took cold, but the attack soon passed off. Dr. Popcoffaccompanied the Czar to the Crimes. Commercial and other circles may expect frequent repetitions of the false report of the death of the Czar unless the policy of secrecy regarding the progress of the disease be abandoned.

Meat by Sample. Lively agitation is proceeding in the Central meat market here, which also supplies the provinces largely, over the proposal to sell American meat by sample. The majority of the salesmen refuse to have anything to do with such a new fangled system on the ground that it is impossible to apply it to a perishable article like meat, and the markets committee of the corporation have been requested to prohibit it. The committee will probably accede to the salesmen's wishes, at any rate until the completion of the vast cold storage building about to be erected in the adjacent market by one of the great dock companies.

Will Write No More. German newspapers state that the future will probably not see another opera from Rubenstein's pen. The failure of "Kinder der Naide," recently given at Dresden, in which the German critics failed to discover any merit, and which the audience regarded upon the exceedingly cold reception given to "The Demon" at the Royal Italian Opera -even though Mme. Albani appeared as the heroine—has so disgueted the great Russian that he has announced his resolution to "write no more opera for an ungrateful world."

Representative Lockwood were formally notified of their nominations in the party headquarters. Hill and The most telling point in Senator Hill's reply was that while the nomination came to him unsought and undesired he could not, at this time refuse his acceptance of it from the party which had always honored him in the days of its sunshine and prosperity. This provoked cheers. Representative Lockwood also spoke. He intimated that the support of the Administration at Washington could be depended

The committee appointed at the recent Democratic State convention to fill vacancies and notify candidates performed both duties and selected Charles F. Brown, of Newburgh, to fill the vacancy on the State ticket caused by the declination of Justice Gaynor, of Brooklyn, for justice of the Court of Appeals. The nomination was unanimous.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A Gun Explosion May Cost George Nixon His Life.

Purely Accidental—He Left a Cartridge in the Weapon.

Another accident, which plainly demonstrates the great danger of leaving a charge in a gun when not in use, happened about 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, and George S. Nixon-not yet out of his teens-lies at the point of death at his mother's home, 23

Askin street, South London. Nixon is an employe at the Dominion Steam Laundry. He quit work about 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and with Joseph and Francis Marconia (two Italian fellow-workmen) started out for a little sport. A rig was secured and the young men took with them a double and a singlebarreled breech-loading gun with plenty of ammunition. The afternoon was spent in the vicinity of Byron, but the only game bagged was one black squirrel. The day was a pleasant one, however, and Nixon and the Marconias returned to the city in the best of spirits. They reached Dufton's livery about o'clock, and after driving in Nixon alighted and assisted in unhitching the horse. He was working about the bridle and was facing towards the rig, when Joseph Marconia went behind the buggy and took out the single-barreled gun. Then he undertook to remove the doublebarreled weapon. He was drawing it out from under the seat with the butt next him and the barrel pointing in the direction of Nixon, when through some unknown cause (supposed to be the striking of the hammer on the box), a cartridge which had been left in the gun exploded. Nixon fell to the floor with a moan-the full charge of shot had struck him in the center of the forehead about an inch and a half above the eyes. The shot carved its way upwards, and emerged at the top of the unfortunate man's head near the ridge of the skull, lodging in the ceiling of the stable. Blood was flowing from the wound, and the sight almost paralyzed his companions. They hardly knew what to do, but on recovering themselves sent for Drs. Teasdale and Fraser. Nixon was picked up as dead, but soon gave evidence of life. The wound was examined, and two pieces of the skull, each about an inch and a quarter in length, and which had been pressed into the brain, were removed, leaving a wound about four inches long, two inches wide and about an inch deep, and exposing the brain. The ambulance was sent for, and in a few minutes the injured man was on his way

Mrs. Nixon had heard of the accident in to the hospital. the meantime, and overtook the ambulance before it reached its destination. She refused to allow her son to be removed to the institution and had him taken home, where everything possible was done to alleviate his sufferings. Yesterday morning Nixon regained consciousness and remained so all day. Part of the brain is gone, and inflammation may set in at any time. Marconia is also laid up with nervous prostration as a result of the acci dent. When he saw what had happened Marconia fell in a swoon, and a ha f hour elapsed before he could be removed to his home on Queen's avenue. Detective Rider was early on the scene and took the two guns and Nixon's hat to the Police Station. The hat was badly battered. A hole about as large as a silver dollar was blown in the front, while the crown was almost completely torn out. Physicans state that Nixon's chances of recovery are very slight.

LONDON VS. GUELPH.

There is an inspiration in local surroundings. Fired by the enthusiasm of sympathetic rooters, the Maple Leais turned around Saturday and licked the Alerts, who the Saturday previous had whipped sulting in favor of the Galts by 5 to 0. the Leafs under the same conditions. It was a great game, worthy of the occasion, which was a benefit to Chamberlain, the clever manager of the Guelphs, and worthy of the champion nines whose struggles this season have been brilliant and close enough to remind cranks of the palmy and historic days of the rivalry in the 70's.

The crowd was large and enthusiastic, as Guelph crowds always are. The enthusiasm did not have a chance to work until the sixth. The Alerts had secured a lead of three runs through steady hitting, while their opponents were blanked. In the sixth misses by Ball and Hind and a hit or two enabled the Leafs to tie the score amid a racket from the grand stand. In the seventh the Leafs carned a run and a low throw of a grounder by Player gave them another. The Alerts tied the score in their half of the ninth after two men were out. Hynd secured first on Snyder's error. Sippi followed with a hit and Hynd took third. Sippi reached second on a dropped ball by Snyder. The latter threw wild to the plate to cut off Hind and both Hynd and Sippi scored.

Excitement was at fever heat when the Leafs went in. Benzie and Hewer went out in succession. Then the venerable Daddy Downs got in one of his three-baggers and made the winning run on Congalton's pop fly behind Player.

Both Hiscott and Bradford pitched splendidly. Bradford struck out ten men and once, with three men on bases and none out, retired the side, a feat which was warmly applauded. But Hiscott's work was steadier, if not as sensational. The Alerts' infield, with one exception, played grandly. Sippi and Burton especially distinguished themselves, the former at bat as well as in the field. The score: ALERTS.

THE LONDONS WIN AT PETROLEA.

(Associated Press Dispatch.) PETROLEA, Oct. 7 .- A game in the Rugby Union intermediate series was played here yesterday. The teams lined up at 3:30. Captain Pope, winning the toss, selected to defend the southern goal. After ten minutes of rather open play Marquis scored a touch-down for Petrolea from a pass by Captain McDonald which Anderson failed to convert into a goal.

London scored after twenty minutes' play, when McDonald rouged from a long kick by Pope. After the kickout Auld and Leckie carried the ball up to the London goal line, when on a scrimmage being formed a penalty kick was awarded London. The pigskin was in short order returned to Patrolea territory, and Anderson was forced to rouge. London again scored promptly, securing a try, which Hope easily converted.

HENRY OF NAVARRE WON. NEW YORK, Och. 7 .- Henry of Navarre won the great race at Morris Park against Clifford and Domino. Just before the race the betting stood Domino 4 to 5, Clifford 9 to 5, while Heary of Navarre was quite unsupported at 3 to 1. As the bugle sounded to post, at 4:25, the betting had changed to Demino 11 to 10, Clifford 8 to 5, and Henry of Navarre 3 to 1. Domino had the rall, Clifford the outside, Henry of Navarre being in the middle. They were sent away precisely at 4:30. The start was perfect. Domine poked his head in front when they were well in stride and led Navarre by that distance going past the quarter post, Clifford being third, at Navarre's heels. There was practically no change until three quarters of a mile had been covered. Then Henry of Navarre made his effort, as did also Clifford, and Domino, the pride of the east, was seen to falter and then to drop out of it. The crowd took up the cry, "Domino is beaten!"

Down the home stretch Henry of Navarre showed the way to Clifford, first being a neck and then a length ahead. Clifford was spurred mercilessly, but Navarre had the foot of him, and won cleverly by length. Domino was beaten of fifteen lengths. Navarre covered the distance in 1:521, three-quarters of a second behind Tristan's great record.

RACE FOR $35,000. NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—At Morris Park yesterday the Matron stakes brought out the large field of sixteen 2-year-olds to run for the $35,000 stakes. In the betting there was little to choose between Brandywine and Agitator, though at the end the former had a shade the better of it in the books. In the last furlong Agitator came out with a rush and won well in hand. Then came the Manhattan handicap, in which Sir Walter was the favorite, with Sir Essex second and the rest friendless. Sir Essex got away first and stayed in that position to the end. Other winners: Iola, Urania, Sir Essex, Buckrene, Velvet Rose.

LOWELL, Mass., Oct. 7. - The great cricket event, the attraction for New England cricketers yesterday and Monday, opened on one of the most beautiful days of the autumnal season in the presence of a gathering of the most prominent cricketers of New England at the oval of the Lowell Cricket Athletic Association in Dracut. Uncle Sam has just lost the biggest lump of land which he said he thought was in his possessions. No longer can the United States claim to hold the biggest mountain in North America. The tallest bit of territory this side the North Atlantic has been adjudged the property of Great Britain. Mount St. Elias, the snow-crowned monarch of the Alaskan Mountains, no longer stands upon American soil.

The members of the United States coast survey party sent this summer to confer with representatives of the State Department of England, with a view to effectually locating the boundary line of Alaska have returned to Washington. The division has been definitely fixed at the 141st meridian of longitude. Mount St. Elias stands just half a degree east of this, and, therefore, is within the British posses-

In 1867, when the United States bought the vast country of Alaska from Russia at a price of less than half a cent an acre, it was believed that the famous peak of the Cordilleran Mountains was part of a job-lot. Although the land is barren and unproductive, it has a coastline of over eighteen thousand miles, which is more than all the rest of the United States put together can boast, and with pinnacle reaching nearer heaven than any other spot where the stars and stripes might be planted, it was not thought a bad bargain. But ever since trouble has arisen with England as to liberty commenced. Now this is settled, mountain.

Behring the navigator first sighted the "Bolshoi Shopka," or "Great Peak," on St. Elias day, 1741. Hence its name. Since to scale its snowy heights. As yet no intrepid traveler has reached its summit. In 1891 Prof. I. C. Russell, in the inter-

The intermission on of America, succeeded in reaching an eleover three thousand feet taller than Mount Blane, the king of the Alps in Europe. And it may become still higher. When Mr. Bussell lectured before the National Geographical Society upon his exploration, Prof. Gilbert, the geologist, came to the conclusion that the mountains of Alaska are very young; that is, of comparatively recent formation. He based this opinion on the fact of the existence in the mountain formation of shells identical with those in the waters of Alaska Gulf to-day. He inferred that the process of mountainmaking was not so ancient as is supposed, and that their upheaval belonged to our present geological period. Surely if Mount St. Elias is still very young, it may grow. As a rule mountains on this continent have a tenden y to go back upon the estimates of their altitudes made by early surveyors. Mount Hood, in Oregon, provides a case in point. It was originally set down as 17,000 feet in height, but by recent observers it has gradually been written down to 12,000. A farmer who lives at the foot of Mount Hood was lately much annoyed at the belittling of his pet earth-heap. He said that if scientific men kept pegging away at the mountain the summit would soon become nothing more than a hole in the ground. Now that Uncle Sam has lost St. Elias he must drop his pride some 2,000 odd feet in the matter of mountains and fall back upon Mount Brown of the Rockies. Here he may whittle his stick at an altitude of 15,000 feet, and brag that he is 119 feet

The decision is one which will be approciated in British Columbia and will give her a greater coast line and more open ports than Port Simpson without going through Yankee territory.

A Canadian expert recently reported to the government that the Yukon country is rich with gold and that in time the interior will be of much commercial importance. It will now be more easily developed as a British possession.

The New York World thus consoles itself for the loss of this territory thus: Any way, it is satisfactory to have arrived at a thorough definition of our boundary line, and it is perhaps little known that Alaska, as now fixed, is nine times the size of the New England States, twice the size of Texas and three times as large as California. It stretches more than 1.000 miles from north to south, and the Aleutian Islands make the central or halfway point of a straight line across the United States a little west of San Francisco. Point Barrow in the north and Cape Fox in the south are as as far distant from each other as the north of Maine and the end of Florida.

SHALL WE FOSTER THE WAR SPIRIT? (Canada Baptist.)

Is there any one of our readers who is willing to have the susceptible imagination of his or her belowed boy, who should be trained for the noblest Christian manhood, filled with military notions before he is old enough to understand clearly the terrible meaning of war? It the Prince of Peace is our model and ideal, can we conceive of him as looking with approval en the scene when hundreds of school children are brought together to perform their mimic soldiering and exult over a victory whose memory ought to have been buried too deep for resurrection during the long intervening years of peaceful intercourse with our neighbors, who are of the same speech and race as ourselves, and multitudes of whom are striving for the propagation of the same gospel of peace and universal brotherhood by which we profess to be ruled. Depend upon it, the boy is father to the man. If the boy grows up cherishing soldierly ambitions and feeding his imagination with images of glory to be won on the battlefield, the spirit of the man will be of the same hue. The supply creates the demand, as well as the demand the supply. Military training begets the desire for war, just as war makes a demand for soldiers. The war spirit is the curse of the civilized world today. To caltivate that spirit in the next generation is the aim and effect of the military mimicries which Christian parents are approving or permitting their children to take part in today. The matter is in the bands of the parents thomselves. There is too much tendency to give over the training of our children, morally as well mentally, into the hands of trustees and education departments. Let every parent insist upon his right to have a voice in all such matters, affecting as they do the most vital interests of the child, for the life that now is and for that which is to come. If a number of Christian parents would frown on these jiugoistic affairs, and refuse to allow their children to take part in them, the effect would be most salutary. Can it be that they do not disapprove? Or are they too much ab-

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative : effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

MR. LAURIER IN MANITCHA.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier opened the campaign in Manitoba most auspiciously at Virden on Saturday. Notwithstanding that there was a blinding snow storm throughout the day, the telegraph informs us that the meeting was one of the largest that the leader has addressed in the west. outside of the cities, and nowhere has it been exceeded in enthusiasm. Mr. Laurier was first received by Mayor Kennedy, of Virden, Reeve Crosby, of Wallace, and Reeve Forke, of Pipestone, the municipalities that comprise the county of Dennis. On behalf of the county the mayor read an address to the leader, couched in appreciative language. The hall, large though it was, could not accommodate all who wished to hear the gifted leader. Mr. Laurier made a most effective presentation of the principles of his party, and amid the cheers ef the audience demonstrated that the hope of the west is in the policy of freedom of trade. Interesting speeches were made by Mr. Fisher, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Frases and Mr. Sutherland, M.P'a.

Cornelius Mulligan Arrested in the Court Room.

Charged With Stabbing Temple in the Breast-Clemason Held for Cutting Him in the Hip-Charged With Non-Support.

At the Police Court this morning the magistrate went into the charge of stabbing preferred by Wallacce Temple against Frank Clemason, the Swede. Temple appeared in the box in the clothes he wore on the night that the affair occurred. A large football clubs in the city. cut slanted across the left breast and several smaller holes were cut in the cloth beneath the larger rent. Three slashes were made in the bottom of the coat where Temple was stabbed in the left hip. Temple said that he was crossing the Grand Trunk platform on the night of Sept. 20, about 12:30 o'clock. He saw Hugh Semple, James Mansell and a man named McKenzie standing at the east end of the platform, and cried: "Come on home, you fellows." Just then two men came across the street. One was Cornelius Mulligan and the other an unknown man.

"What's the matter with you?" one of them asked. "Do you see anything the matter with me?' queried Temple. "Go on about your business or I'll kick your head off," replied the unknown as he rushed for Temple's legs. Temple knocked him down and then grappled with Mulligan. Clemson now came across the street, and someone said:

LOOK OUT, WALLACE, HE HAS A KNIFE." Temple claims that Clemason then stabbed him on the hip, and seeing that he was outclassed he ran up Clarence to York street. His hip pained him so that he slowed up to a walk. At Slater's storage Clemason, Mulligan and two other men caught up to him again and set on him. He backed up against the wall and fought. Mr. Meredith tried to get witness to admit that he had crossed the road and picked the quarrel, but Temple stuck to his story. He denied that he had been turned off the station platform that night for disorderly conduct and said that he did not know the general character of the young fellows he met at the end of the platform.

MULLIGAN ARRESTED IN COURT. This finished the examination and then matters took an unexpected turn. Mulligan had been sitting among the spectators and witnesses while a little sheet of paper had been flitting between the clerk and the magistrate. It was quietly sworn to by Temple and handed to Detective Rider. Mr. Rider went over to where Mulligan was sitting and sat down next to him and read a warrant for his arrest. TANGLED -THREADS

"Goodness, no, madam!" was Lake's anewer, who was apt to be outspoken, even to her imperious mistress. "Things were being got ready for a month beforehand; and my master would have gone to church to give Miss Bessy away himself, but for not being well. All us servants went to see it."

Little by little, madam heard every detail. Captain Bohun was best man; Mr. Richard took out Miss Adair, who was bridesmaid, and looked lovely. The bride and bridegroom drove right away from the church door. Captain Bohun went back in the carriage with Miss Adair; Mr. Richard went off on foot to the works. Miss Bessy - leastways Mrs. Oliver Rane now - had had some furniture sent to her new home from the Hall, and Molly Green was there as housemaid. That Lake should glow with intense gratification as being enabled to tell all this, was only in accordance with frail humanity; she knew what a dose it was for madam; and madam was disliked in the household more than poison. But Lake was hardly prepared for the ashy tint that spread over madam's features, when she came to the part that told of the homeward drive of her son with Ellen Adair.

The girl was in the midst of her descripwhen Arthur Bohun came in. Madam saw him sauntering lazily up the gravel drive, and swept down in her fine Parisian costume of white-and-black brocaded silk, lappets of lace floating from her hair. They met in the Hall.

"Why! is it you, mother?" cried Arthur in surprise — for he had no idea the invasion might be expected so soon. "Have you

He advanced to kiss her. Striving to be as dutiful as she would allow him to be, he was willing to observe all ordinary relations between mother and son; but of affection there existed none. Mrs. North drew back from the offered embrace, and hautily motioned him to the drawing-room. Matilda sat there, sullen and listless; she was angry at being brought away summarily from

"Why did I assist at Bessy's wedding?" replied Arthur, parrying the attack with light good humor, as he invariably strove to do on these occasions. "Because I liked it. It was great fun. Especially to see Rane hunting in every pocket for the ring, and turning as red as a salamander." "What business had you to do such a thing?" retorted madam, her face dark with the passion she was supressing. "How dared you do it?" "Do what, madam?"

Madam stamped a little. "You know without asking, sir; personally countenance the wedding.

'Was there any reason why I should not do so? Bessy stands to me as a sister; and I like her. I am glad she is married, and I hope sincerely they'll have the best of luck. "I had ferbidden the union with Oliver Rane," stamped madam. "Do you hear?— forbidden it. You knew that as well as she

"But then, don't you see, mother mine, you had no particular right to forbid; it. If Matilda, there, took it it into her head to marry some knight or other, you would have a voice in the matter, for or against; but sy was responsible to her father only." 'Don't bring my name into your nonsense, Arthur." struck in Matilda, with a frown. Madam, looking from one to the other, was biting her lips. away that it might be got over quietly," resumed Arthur, in his laughing way, deter mined not to give in an inch, even though he had to tell a home truth or two. "For my part, mother, I have never understood what possible objection you could have to Rane. "That is my business," spoke Mrs. North. "I wish he and those Cumberland people were all at the bottom of the sea. How dared you disgrace yourself, Arthur Bohun!"

"Disgrace myself?" "You did. You, a Bohun, to descend to companionship with them! Fig upon you! And you have been said to inherit your father's pride. "As I hope I do, in all proper things. I am unable to understand your distinctions, madam," he added, laughingly. "Rane is as good as Bessy, for all I see. As good as we Madam caught up a hand screen, as if she would have liked to throw it at him. Her hand trembled, with emotion or temper, "There's some girl living with them. They tell me you went home with her in the car-Arthur Bohun suddenly turned his back upon them, as if to see who might be coming, for distant footsteps were heard advancing. But for that, madam might have seen a hot flush illumine his face. "Well? What else, mother? Of course I took her home - Miss Adair. "In the face and eyes of Dallory!"

"Certainly. And we had faces and eyes out that morning, I can tell you. It is not every day a Miss North gets married." 'How came you to take her home?"

"Dick asked me to do so. There was no one else to ask, you see. Mrs. Gass cheered us in going by, as if we had been an election. She had a shining yellow gown on and white bows in her cap." His suavity was so great, his determina-tion not to be ruffled so evident, that Mrs. North felt partly foiled. It was not often she attacked Arthur; he always met it in this way, and no satisfaction came of it. She could have struck him as he stood.

"What is the true tale about the ring, Arthur?" asked Matilda, in the silence come to by Mrs. North. "Lake says Oliver Rane really lost it."

"Really and truly, Matty." "Were they married without a ring?" "Some one present produced one," he re-plied carelessly, in his invincible dislike to mention E en Adair before his mother and sister; a dislike that had ever clung to him. Did it arise from the reticence that invariably attends love, this feeling? - or could it have been some foreshadowing, some dread instinct of what the future was to bring

"How came Dr. Rane to lose the ring?"
"Carelessness, I suppose. We found it in the carriage, going home. He must have dropped it accidentally."

"Peace. Matilda! Keep your foolish questions for a fitting time," stormed madam. How dare you turn your back upon me, Arthur? What money has gone out with the Arthur turned to answer. In spite of his careless manner, he was biting his lips with shame and vexation. It was so often he had to blush for his mother.

"I'm sure I don't know, if you mean with Bessy; it is not my business that I should presume to ask. Here comes Dick; I thought it was his step. You can inquire of him,

Richard North looked into the drawingroom, unconscious of the storm awaiting Matilda sat in an easy chair tapping her foot discontentedly; Arthur Bohun toyed with a rose at the windaw; madam, stand-ing upright by the beautiful inlaid table, her train sweeping the rich carpet, confronted

But there was something about Richard North that instinctively subdued madam; she had never domineered over him as she did over her husband, and Bessy, and Arthur; and at him she did not rave and rant. Calm always, sufficiently courteous to her, and yet holding his own in self-respect. Richard and madam seldom came to an issue. But she attacked him now; demanding why this iniquity — the wedding — had been allowed to be enacted,

"Pardon me, Mrs. North, if I meet your question by another," calmly spoke Richard. You complain of my sister's marriage as though it were a wrong against yourself. What is your reason?"

"I said it should not take place."
"Will you tell me why you oppose it?" "No. It is sufficient that, to my mind, it did not present itself as suitable. I have resolutely set my face against Dr. Rane and his statue of a mother, who presumes to call the Master of Dallory Hall John! And I forbade Bessy to think of him."
"But — pardon me, Mrs. North — Bessy was not bound to obey you. Her father and I saw no objection to Dr. Rane." "Was it right, was it honorable, that you should seize upon my absence to marry her in this indecent manner-before Edmund was cold in his grave?" "Circumstances control cases," said Richard. "As for marrying her whilst you were away, it was done in the interests of peace Your opposition, had you been at home would not have prevented the marriage; it was therefore, as well to get it over in quiet-

A bold avowal. Richard stood before madam when he made it, upright as herself. She saw it was useless to contend; and all the abuse in the world would not undo it

"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia."-Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1834 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever except boiled milk and bread; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size; all hopes of my recovery were given up, and I quite expected death within a few weeks. Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles, my Dyspepsia and Dropsy are cured. Although now 79 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. -There has been more than one complaint recently of rowdy ism and petty robbery in the south end, near the hospital. Women dare not walk unprotected in many parts after nightfall. Some bold thieves secured an entrance to Jennings' botel, Blackfriars street, London West, early yesterday morning. The proprietor was awakened about 2 o'clock by parties talking in front of the building, but he thought nothing of it, and again was soon fast asleep. When he went to the cellar about 7 o'clock Mr. Jennings found that a large quantity of liquor was missing and that he was a loser to a considerable extent. The visitors had gained an entrance by tearing up a portion of the sidewalk and forcing the cellar window. The bar, in which was upwards of $60, had been untouched. Mr. Jennings recognized the voices of the men, and arrests will likely follow. The hotel has been broken into on several occasions in the same way.

The Gas Smothered Him. William Kennedy, a witness in the Biddulph shooting case, was nearly asphyxiated by gas in his room at Jerry McDonald's hotel on Saturday night. Kennedy, who is a middle-aged man, had been in St. Thomas during the day and returned late. When he went to bed he turned out the day morning the women of the house smelled the odor and heard the man groaning. The door was broken open, and Kennedy carried into another room. He could articulate feebly, but could not move hand or foot. He afterwards said that he felt as if he was in a dream. Dr.

"Williams' Royal Crown Remedy Saved John Weir's Life."

May be seen in large letters on the covers of the horses that precede the handsome Royal Crown Remedy wagon at Toronto and Western Fairs. To a Globe reporter, Mr. Weir said: "This is a most marvelous cure. I became pale as a corpse; my blood segmed to be turned to water. I had dizziness and a ringing noise in my head; my hands and feet were cold all the time, and my limbs were completely swoolen up to the body. Some doctors called it consumption of the blood. I got so weak that I could not walk, and finally took to my bed." Mrs. Weir says: "All M. Weir has told you is true, At times he lay for days unconscious and unable to take nourishment of any kind, and was reduced to a mere skeleton of 84 pounds; and I fully believe that if we had been one day later in getting Williams' Royal Crown Remedy he would be in his grave to-day. So it may well be said "Williams' Royal Crown Remedy saved John Weir's life. The best druggists keep Royal Crown Remedy, but if your druggist does not, remit direct to Isaac Williams Company. > DENOUNCED AS A FRAUD. Serious Charge Against a Young Woman-Her Methods of Raising

Morey. To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: There is a young woman, by name Annie Craik, collecting money in the name of the King's Daughters. She has no authority for doing so and is obtaining money under false pretenses. If she says she belongs to the order, it is false, as her name is not on our membership list. She may have found a cross that some one has lost. I warn the public for the third time through your columns not to give money to anyone collecting in the name of the King's Daughters unless they have a letter signed by my name as president of the city union and also by the leader of the circle that wishes to collect for a case of great need. Hoping the public will note this word of warning. Believe me, dear Mr. Editor, Yours sincerely,

ELIZABETH M. TILLEY, President of the City Union of the King's Daughters and Sons. P. S .- The girl Annie Craik lives on Adelaide street and oarries a card about with these words on it, "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." Anyone who gives money to her is aiding the lowest kind of swindling. She collected in the same way two years ago and I personally warned her not to do so. When I wrote to the papers at that time I spared her name, with the hope that she would reform, but it has had no effect upon her.

AFTER THE FOX.

The Master's First "At Home" at Glenmore-A Fox Chase-Broke His Arm.

Mr. Adam Beck, the new master of the London Hunt, was "at home" Saturday for the first time, and a stylish crowd from the city attended his reception at Glenmore. Refroshments were served and music was added to the charms of the surroundings, The regular run was livelier than usual, the hounds being given a live fox to chase instead of a trail of the seed bag, conveniently arranged over even ground and easy fences. Reynard set a lively pace through uncertain territory, and near Gough's farm landed his pursuers in a nasty swamp, from which they emerged, however, slightly disfigured, but still in full cry. The wary fox was finally run down, and Master Kuox Niven secured the brush and Master Elliot Fraser the mask. Mr. George C. Gibbons was a close third. The mounts were: Mr. Beck (master), Master G. Gibbons, Major A. M. Smith, Major Denison, Mr. Piggott, Col. Dawson, Dr. Niven, Mr. G. C. Gibbons, Mr. Widder, W. Wilson, Mr. H. R. Abbott, W. T. Strong, Dr. G. H. Wilson, Mr. P. Smith, Master A. Brown, Col. Gartshore, Knox Niven and Elliet Fraser. Mr. W. T. Strong while riding to the kennels was thrown through his horse stumbling. Though suffering pain he joined in the run, on Saturday afternoon to attend the laying gas, but turned the cock completely around and was surprised afterwards to find that
