Dea'is Caused by Fifteen Waterspout.

Five Persons Perish by the Capsizing of a Boat.

TERRIBLE WATERSPOUT. St. Louis, Mo., July 11 .- A special to the Republic from Cuba, Mo., says a waterspout at Steeleville, Mo., Friday morning almost swept away the town and drowned thirteen people.

FIVE DROWNED. Portland, Me., July 11.—By the cap-sizing of a carboat in Portland harbor on Saturday five lives were lost. They were: Wm. O'Donnell, 26 years old: Charles Sullivan, 18; James McAuley of Barse, Vt.; Wm. Mitchell, 17; Ed-ward Vayo, 16, with the exception of McAuley, all belonged to Portland.

RANCHER LOST HIS LIFE. Winnipeg, July 11.—Antoine Day, a prominent rancher, of Battleford, N. W. T. 25 years of age, was drowned on Thursday night while crossing cattle over the Saskatchewan River. On entering the river his horse missed its footing, and probably struck him, as, although one of the men threw him a rope, he made little or no attempt to

A SARNIA PEG-LEG

Constables After a Tramp in the Swamp.

Think He Is Toohey's Murderer-Dis-

Sarnia, July 10.-It is suspected that the murderer of Policeman Toohey is in the neighborhood of Sarnia, in the big swamp. A posse of local police are searching for the man, and he is very likely to be run to earth in a short time.

The news of the peg-legged tramp's presence in the swamp was brought to Sarnia this afternoon. A well-known farmer named Henderson was the informant. Henderson was looking for some stray cows, he told the police, and came suddenly across two tramps. One of these he recognized as probably the murderer of the London police man. He had a peg-leg and resembled the description of the murderer. The farmer spoke to the tramps, but they did not answer him, and he passed on, rather pleased that they did not attempt to molest him.

The swamp begins about a mile and a half from town, in a northeasterly direction, and extends to the lake front. It is about half a mile east of the cem-

Five constables, well armed, left here for that portion of the swamp where the men had been seen. This they intended to guard all night, to prevent the tramps from reaching the highway to the lake or getting onto the railway track. A string of freight cars extends from near Sarnia to Blackwell, a short distance east, and these will be searched. It is impossible for human beings to sleep in the swamp. They would be eaten up by mosquitoes.

Nothing Short of Unconditional Surrender Will Be Accepted.

Camara's Squadron Trying to Find a Place of Safety.

Off Juragua July 10, by the Associated Press dispatch boat Wanda, via Port Antonio, July 11.-Six troopships, carrying 2,500 men, six batteries of artilery and a large quantity of ammunition and supplies, arrived here at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The transports took the troops and equipjoined by their convoy at Key West.

possible. SHAFTER, major-general. SPANIARDS OPEN FIRE. Washington, July 11.-Shortly after midnight the department gave out the following dispatch from Gen. Shafter: Playa del Este, July 10.-Adjutantgeneral, Washington - Heaquarters Fifth Army Corps, July 10.-Enemy opened fire a few minutes past 4 with light guns, which were soon silenced by Very little musketry firing, and the enemy kept entirely in their entrenchments. Three men slightly wounded. Will have considerable forces tomorrow, enough to completely block all the roads on the northwest. I am quite well. Gen. Garcia reports that the enemy evacuated a little town called Des Canines, about three miles from Santiago, and near the bay. (Signed) SHAFTER.

A NICE PROPOSAL. Washington, July 10 .- The great battle expected on Saturday did not take place, although the armistice expired at noon, with the forces on both sides at Santiago lined up for battle. The reason was that the Spanish commander, who had been in correspondence by telegraph with his home government, was seeking to make terms with Gen. Shafter, by which he might save his army from capture. He was willing to give up Santiago without resistance if allowed to retreat with all of his men and arms across the island, but this idea was not entertained for a moment by our government. To have allowed them to make their way unmolested into the interior would have amounted simply to reinforcement of difficulties of the Americans before the garrison of Havana by these thousands of trained soldiers, who had proved their courage as worthy foemen in the fighting in the trenches. On the other hand, to compel them to surrender, it was believed, would certainly produce an enormus moral effect both in Havana and in Spain itself, and thus tend to the early conclusion of the war. SEEKING SAFETY. New York July 11.—A dispatch to the World from Madrid says: Capt. Aunon, the Spanish minister of marine, says: It will take Admiral Camara's warships (the Pelayo and the Emperador Carlos V.) ten days to reach Cartagena, where there is more safety than at Cadiz. The torpedo boat destroyers (the Ozeda, the Proserpina and the Audaz). and the auxiliary cruisers (Patriota, Rapido, Buenos 'Ayres and Isla De Panay) will be back sooner and will go to Cadiz and Ferrol. The present danger is that ! America dispatches her fast cruisers with

SURVIVORS OF CERVERA'S CA-TASTROPHE REACH SANTIAGO. Havana, July 11.—On July 8, 133 sailors and officers of the different ships of Admiral Cervera's fleet, including Navarre, arrived at Santiago. All the officers of the Santiago garrison, in spite of the bloody engagements fought aiready, and the prospect of today's encounter, are animated with the determination to fight to the end, and declare their willingness to seal with their blood another of the glorious pages in their country's history. They have a quantity of provisions and ammunition. SANTIAGO WILL TELL THE STORY London, July 11.—A special dispatch from Madrid says: All the talk of peace seems up to the present to have led to no tangible results. The sail of Santiago will convince the most sanguine of the hopelessness of the struggle, and will give the government desired opportunity at least to suggest an armistice for the discussion of terms. The circumstantial statements are already in circulation, to the effect that the war is effectually ended, and that the government has actually opened peace negotiations, but they cannot be verified.

SPANISH LOSSES. A detailed account has been published of Spain's naval losses-21 warships ments aboard at Tampa, and were and 21 merchants, as against practically no loss on the American side. This tends to convince the most rabid cate, and as for a arrived off Juragua early Saturday past, the whole commercial and industrial interests of Spain are bringing morning. As the men on the Gate City strong influences to bear in favor of were trying to make out the lines of peace. Every day that passes without the building ashore, four dead bodies disturbances strengthens the peace drifted past the ship. They were evidently the victims of Admired Courses. dently the victims of Admiral Cervera's of continuing the war, and the attitude ships. The Newark was the first to of the Carlists and Republicans causes greet the arrival of the recruits. The landing of the men and stores was deferred until Sunday morning.

Washington, July 11.—The war department posted this bulletin yesterday:

Siboney via Havti 5.55 and July 12. peal from Spanish mothers, calling for the regeneration of the country on the base of the army, and crying "Down with the bribed politicians and a bought press." Four mission copies of this manifesto have been distributed throughout Spain, and it is attracting considerable attention. TALK OF SUING FOR PEACE. New York, July 11 .- A dispatch to the World from Madrid says: The gov-ernment's plan is to sue for peace whenever the war situation, according to Spanish authorities, will permit The proposal will be made directly to the United States, but the cabinet is laboring to have powerful European patrons ready "to make President Mc-Kinley understand that he must not be too exacting" to use the words of the representative in Madrid of a great continental power. Premier Sagasta is more confident now of being able to prolong his stay in office. LET SAGASTA SHOULDER THE

LOAD There is a growing disposition all round to let his government perform the galling task of negotiating peace. None of the Opposition leaders or ties want to do it, while the public is fast taking the position that Sagasta is responsible for bringing on the war with America and should be held responsible for putting an end to it. The foreign minister, the Duke of Almedovar, continues his negotiations with the German and Austrian ambassadors. Great reserve is maintain-

DECIDED BY THE GUN. London, July 11 .- The Times in an article this morning reviewing the war, enters into a minute criticism of the naval battle of Santiago de Cuba, and arrives at the conclusion that 'either the gunnery of the Spaniards afloat, as on shore, must be hopelessly incompetent, or their ammunition must be nearly worthless." It thinks that the fire of the Chinese was relatively excellent. "Both squadrons." tinues the writer, "carried torpedoes, but these might as well have been on shore, for the six American ships had no possible inducement to close into torpedo range, and the Spanish ships, receiving continuous punishment, were unable to do so. The action was therefore decided by the gun, which will continue to be the dominant weapon in naval warfare."

VALUE OF SIDE ARMOR. "Upon the question of value of side armor, as compared with protective decks for cruisers," the Times says, "no light is at present forthcoming. The fate of the torpedo boat destroyers Furor and Pluton, is not worthy, as such vessels carry little combustible material. The reports that they were set afire may have been due to the ap-pearance of the flames and damaged The fact remains that the sea craft, which had been claimed as dangerous antagonists, were hopeless ly wrecked by an armored yacht, which possessed nominally far inferior speed It appears indisputable that the devotion Admiral Cervera's seamen displayed in continuing a hopeless struggle till the last was worthy of the loftiest traditions of the Spanish people." THE CRIMEA RECALLED. Regarding General Shafter's expedition, the Times' article says: It recalls in many respects England's experiences in the Crimea; but the lack of science and of organization have resulted in a fresh demonstration of the admirable fighting qualities of the Americans.

THE SANTIAGO SITUATION. With reference to the actual position at Santiago, the Times article observes: The United States seems naturally to have decided that the terms of surrender should be unconditional, and in the circumstances, permission to evacuate could not reasonably be expected. The idea mooted in New York that the Spanish garrison can escape if chooses appears to have little foundation. Escape in the face of an active enemy at close quarters is not an easy operation, and although Gen. Shafter is not prepared for pursuit, his right wing probably be able to hold the Spaniards while the latter, without transport or food, and liable to guerilla attacks of the Cubans, would ex-perience great difficulties.

There is nothing now to justify a further expenditure of life upon either the capture or the defense of Santiago. If it be true that Admiral Sampson declines to send ships into the harbor, his decision cannot be too strongly commended. Warships have no business in cramped waters where the fire of one or two guns may disable them. With reference to Admiral Camara's movement the writer says: His costiy

THE SPANISH TERMS. General Shafter held a conference with the American generals at the front concerning the offer made by the Spanish commander, Gen. Toral, to surrender Santiago de Cuba if the Spanish garrison is allowed to march with ite side arms, and have 20 miles start without molestation. Gen. Toral agreed that if this were accepted he would not destroy the ships in the harbor, the guns and ammunition in the forts, or the buildings in the city. A majority of the generals, General Wheeler leading, were in favor of the acceptance of these ards could march out of the westward anyhow, and could burn the city and destroy all the vessels, guns and ammunition before leaving.

CHOCKING SLAUGHTER. London, July 11.-The fighting on the Albanian and Montenegrin frontiers was after all not such a trifling matter as was at first represented. It is reported on good authority that hardly less than 300 people were killed and wounded on both sides, that 960 houses of Christians were burned down and domestic animals to the value of 3,000,-000 Turkish plasters were destroyed or carried off. The houses are to be rebuilt before the autumn at the expense of the Turkish state, and the damage will be made good.

The sovernment conciliator is now arranging a Meanwhile, the agreement come to yesterday by the Miners' National Federation for regulation of wages, in the conference of employes, secured two years' truce from coal strikes in all districts except South HAWAII.

London, July 11.—The Manchester Guardian says: "One can imagine the way in which Washington or Franklin would have regarded the series of actions concerning the seizure of Ha-wall by an act as violent and illegal as the Jamieson raid; the imposition upon 100,000 persons of a government in which only 3,000 had a share, and the transfer of the islands and people, like a farm, with the stock and cattle, from the oligarchy which seized them to the foreign government which cov-eted them. The American imperialist, with a smile of indulgent, rather than apologetic compassion for his parents, who clung to the highest ideals, does not censure Washington or Franklin, but makes great allowance for them, and s persuaded as firmly as Englishmen, or Frenchmen, or Germans, that he intends to go on doing as he chooses to any people whose land comes in his way, and has not yet been appropri-ated by any other philanthropists."

SHOCKING ACCIDENT. London, July 11 .- While the steamer Manitoha which was chased by the United States Government from the Atlantic Transport Line, was loading at Albert Docks, a case of cartridges which was being carried aboard exploded. Five workmen were killed, all of them literally blown to atoms, and fifteen others were terribly injured. Several of the injured had their arms blown off, others had their legs shattered to pieces, and all were so badly hurt as to render their survival very doubt-The injured were taken to the Seamen's Hospital. The cartridges which exploded were of the type known as the safety cart-ridge. They were shipped as merchandize and not as explosives. The case that exploded was dropped accidentally. The Manitoba was greatly damaged by the explosion, and will have to undergo repairs.

CARLISM ON THE INCREASE. Berlin, July 11.-Private advices received here from Madrid show that the dissatisfaction in the Spanish army and in government and political circles with the dynasty and cabinet is greatly increasing, and is assuming threatening proportions. Carlism is reported to be steadily increasing, particularly in the army, and many people expect a revolution. Strong pressure is being brought to bear on King Leopold, of Belgium to expel Don Carlos from his kingdom on the ground that the pretender is "an of-Censive foreigner." Both Emperor William of Germany and Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria have joined in these representations, but thus far they have been unavailing. A Spanish diplomat informs the correspond-ent here of the Associated Press that were it not for the influence of Don

London, July 11.—Most of the European governments have been constantly advised that the pope's health is now so serious that a fatal termination may come at any moment, this despite that his holiness tries to transact business and receive visitors. His recent trouble has been weakness of the heart and poor circulation. It is now complicated by peculiarly obstinate intestinal catarrh, which is extremely difficult to deal with. The pope's physician, Dr. Caponi, has thought it advisable to call the assistance of the famous Dr. Marchiafavi and two other experts, who have unanimously warned the pope that he must implicitly follow their directions if he wants to live to see peace between the United States and Spain. As that happens to be the pope's most ardent wish the warning has had some effect. The pope's latest move in behalf of peace was made in the beginning of last week, when he instructed the papal nuncio at Madrid to urge certain fiery Spanish prelates to refrain from advocating the continuance of the

A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT. London, July 11.-There is yet a startling tale to be told of the Jamieson raid, if the little group of men who know of it ever receive sufficient inducement to tell. Last week another little corner of the veil was drawn aside by a report of the House of Commons committee on public accounts. The report contains the surprising information that the British officers taking part in the raid, though struck off the army list, have been awarded substantial allowances-$1,500 annually of retired pay to Col. Rhodes, and gratuities of $6,000 to Capt. White, $8,000 to Capt. Raleigh Grey, $8,750 to Major White, and $5,655 to Major Willoughby. These items provoked a heated battle between the commons committee and the ministry, which believers in colonial office complicity in the raid will find most suggestive. The committee held that misconduct wiped out all claims. The secretary of war politely told the committee to mind their own business. He meant to deal with the affair in his own way. So the committee award the payments, but publicly protest against "dangerous precedent," and the straining of the royal warrant to meet an "exceptional case." PRESS CRITICISM OF THE AM-ERICAN NAVY.

London, July 11 .- Since the American victory the continental press has been abruptly reversing itself in belated and effusive expressions of sympathy for America. This transformation scene is most theatrical in Germany, where the editors have been actually tumbling over themselves in their eagerness to explain away the presence of squadron at Manila. It is in England, where there has been genuine friendship for America, that the opinion of the Santiago operations is most critical. This is natural and not unfriendly Englshmen are in the habit of criti cising sharply their own military and naval processes, and claim the same right when the campaign is in progress in Cuba. The work of Sampson's flee was not so thorough and scientific that nothing can be said in criticism, exce that it was pitted against an inferio fleet, manned by crews ignorant of the mechanical art of naval warfare Naval experts on reflection find more to learn from this sea fight than the were willing to admit at first. The are amazed at the rapidity at which the Spanish cruisers were hammered to pieces by accurate gun fire, and also by the facility with which th torpedo boat destroyers were beaten of and disabled by a pleasure yacht. The are convinced that the American navy by virtue of alertness in maneuverin and systematic gun practice, is the most formidable on the seas.

Berlin. July 11.-The statement cable by the correspondent here of the Associated Press on July 2 that he has learned on the best authority that Ge many, France and Russia had reache an understanding relative to the Phi ippine Islands, by which, when hosti ties ceased, they will combine to pr vent the United States or Great Brita gaining possession of the Philippi Islands, and that, when the war is over an international congress will be proposed, similar to the Berlin congress of 1878, to settle all questions connected with the war, at which meeting Germany will demand a slice of the Phil-Islands or other compensation in the far east, remains true, notwithstanding the carefully worded denial semi-officially issued by a news bureau here on July 3. As a matter of fact, the correspondent of the Associated Press has secured corresponding details showing that the negotiations between the three powers are still proceeding, and that while it is not intended to exclude Great Britain, Austria and Italy from the congress, Russia, France and Germany will take the initiative, provided. naturally, that the situation at the close of the war seems to them to call for a settlement of the Philippines question by an international council. The government press, of course, is furious at this important news leaking out prematurely, and some of these papers have gone to the length of threatening the correspondent of the Associatmany. On the other hand, some government papers now admit the truth of the news cabled to the Associated Press. The Paris correspondent of the Kreuz Zeitung significantly says: "It is feared in Paris that delicate and difficult negotiations are necessary between the powers in regard to the Philippines question, and it will be almost impossible to maintain much longer the neutrality hitherto observed." The Kreuz Zeitung, which has the closest relations with the courts and foreign office here, editorially confirms the above, and several other directly inspired foreign office papers express themselves in a similar sense, though very guardedly

In this connection, it is remarkable that the Deutsche Zeitung, in an editorial. deprecates the German foreign office's recently adopted habit of denying all intention of profiting b- the situation created by the war to the extent "of taking what can be gotten."

Salesmen Do Not Agree to Buyers Proposition to Sell Only at the Board-Offerings Very Large.

The proposed new rules between the buyers and sellers caused a deadlock on the London cheese board on Satbers to agree to them. The war and the hostilities leading up to it, have cut off the two chief source of the world's tobacco supply. Cigar manufacturers and cigar porters have hitherto depended on Havana and Manila for their raw materials. In other countries certain inferior varieties of the weed are grown for plug tobacco, but the col-onies of Spain have hitherto possessed a monopoly of the special species of which cigars are made. The tobacco crop is sown in the autumn and cut in spring under normal conditions. but this year there will be practically no crop from Cuba and the Philippines. The insurrection in both countries and consent to give the scheme a trial. seriously interfered with the autumn sowing, and the subsequent war has practically put an end to the harvest. This condition will not only create a dearth of Havana and Manila cigars, bers in conversation after the meeting but also of domestic cigars, for the Canadian manufacturers are dependporarily, while some thought that more ent on the imported leaf for their raw

JOHN MORLEY

Some Novel Ideas on the Use of Newspapers.

People Do Not Read Them Properly-Recommends Newspaper Classes in Free Libraries.

Mr John Morley made a speech two weeks ago at the opening of a free library at Arbroath, Scotland, in the course of which he said: He was not going to attempt to expatiate upon the delights of the use of books and of reading. Nearly all that Peter Carling, of Ingersoll, was cut- could be said upon that great and admirable subject had been do for them if rightly used; how they enriched life, how they refreshed it, how they consoled it. They had been tutlons in London, and he understood no class had been more popular and nothing had added more to the attractions and usefulness of the instituture did for them, what books could shown that after the first absolute necessities of life had been satisfied then the taste for wise reading and the cultivation of habits of reading was almost the next quality to a full and well-lived life. From books, and books alone, from libraries rightly used, and from them alone, they could have the quickening of the intelligence, the wakening up of drowsy thoughts and slumbering impulses. He would only say one thing more, and some day or another, if they would allow him, he would come to Arbroath and deal make a cut 100 feet long. with it a little more fully-and as he was now a life member of the library he had plenty of time-he would show them what, after all, was the real purpose of being what was called a well-read man. Show him a man or woman whose reading had made him or her tolerant, patient, candid, a truth seeker, a truth lover, then he would show them a well-read man. He had always thought that an admirletters years ago, when he said their object was to bring more sunshine into the lives of our fellow-countrymen, more good will, more good humor, and more of the habit of being pleased with one another. He would make a little addition to that—namely, "the purpose is to bring sunshine into the hearts and to drive moonshine out of our heads." Mr. Morley put in a word for newspaper reading, rightly done:

Of course, they must not believe all that they read in newspapers, and if they read a paragraph about a quiet, peaceable member of parliament changing his faith (an absurd rumor that Mr. Morley had turned Catholic had been printed) they should hesitate before they accepted it. When he was told that there were four persons going into a newsroom for one that went into a library to get a book or consult a book, he was not discouraged. It was a very fair proportion and division of interest, because there could be no more keen and wholesome curiosity than curiosity about our own times. It would be absurd to suppose that the only times in which they were not to take a serious interest were the times in which they happened to live. Newspapers did some of the best work that used to be done by books, and they did it extraordinarily well. He could recollect when the Times newspaper of London never thought of having a notion of a book. Today not only the Times, but all the great daily prints devoted a large space to the doings of the literary world, and he was assur-The Fly is a bald-headed tast.

that people read so much out of newspapers, but did not get as much out of newspaper reading as they might. That was to say, they did not follow up the really interesting things which a newspaper suggested. He was amazed that people were content not to know where the places were that they read about, when a man that they read about was born, and where he was born, and what a word meant, when there was in the next room, or in the next street at all events, some dictionary or encyclopedia, which would at once tell them all that they ought to know. He suggested not long ago that an excellent institution would be a newspaper class in connection with a free library, where they would have somebody who could impartially—neither a Whig nor a Tory—he did not know such a man, and he did not want to-but he meant one who for this purpose would be neither Whig nor Tory, but who could simply explain and elucidate from books of travel or dictionaries and encyclopedias the events of the day which they had read er man than he could pretend to hint which he threw out some months be. Victory was with the Grips in the game of baseball played by the commercial travelers at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon. The fifth inning placed the palm securely in their hands, and the sixth made assurance doubly sure. The Trunks got an early start, and it seemed for a time that handling the sphere was right in their line, but subsequent proceedings demonstrated that it was only a "side line" with them, while the Grips had, comparatively speaking, been brought up in the trade. Quite a number of spectators, including many of the fair sex, witnessed the game and inspired, applauded and criticised the players. There was no lack of interest. Features were continually cropping up, and the brilliant plays-and misplays-of both sides were lustily and impartially appreclated. The members of the London baseball club were on the stand in full force, having attended to pick up pointers, a fact which they tried to disguise by pretending to give advice. It was a rare chance for them to criticise their critics, but in justice to their magnanimity, be it said, it was chance that they did not take advantage of-more than a little. There was quite a charm about the costumes of the players—quite an interesting variety. In one respect, however, they wore uniforms. All wore caps lettered "The Cow Brand." and if anyone interpreted the inscription to be a covert apology for "butter-fingers" he made a mistake. The outfield work was quite exceptional, and Nichols made the star of the day. There can be no question about it being so, for it was the only one. It was a great mistake helders did not have their grips with them. They might have been utilized with good effect. McLennan was presented with a slight token, in the shape of a bouquet of corn-stalks, and responded with a home run. Pitcher Crowe, of the Londons, umpired the game quite satisfactorily. The only one inclined to "beef" about his decisions was Doc Sippi, which, of course, was strange, and Mr. Crowe inflicted some heavy fines. Following is the score:

MEETING IN LONDON. The Hamilton Herald says: A meeting will be held in London at noon on Monday, at which the future of the league will be discussed and decided. The Canadian clubs have been the mainstay of the organization since its inception, and the demand from London that the guarantee of the Michigan clubs be divided among them, thus partially recouping them for what they have paid out, has some show of justice. However, it is propable that only the deposit of Port Huron will be sub-

disbanding of the Michigan ball teams is the amount of money they received from the Canadian cities. Bay City was the first team to be announced as a quitter. Three weeks after the season opened rumors were passed around that they could not keep up the pace. As it happened they were carried over the first crisis by the large haul in London on Queen's birthday. Almost $500 was their share of the two games. In Hamilton, on Dominion Day, it is stated that Manager Stroud offered Lowney a check for $1,000 the evening before for his share of the receipts. Stroud would have been out of pocket, as the morning game was attended by only 600 people on account of a rainy morn ing. In the afternoon the Bay City team received about $350, or almost as much for the day as they received in London. Thus the Bay City club in two holidays received nearly $1,000 in London and Hamilton. No wonder they could pay the players in full to July American bombastic baseball. Another reason why the Michigan clubs held together so long as they did was on account of the schedule. The draft, as prepared and published in The Advertiser, had the Can-adian teams opening in Michigan, and then changing to Canada. As it turned out. London had Saginaw here three times, Bay City twice, Port Huron twice, Hamilton and St. Thomas once It will be easily seen that the Michigan teams were cute enough to work the Canadian end of the management for the first half of the season. How much easier the disbanding of the Michigan teams could be borne if they had appeared in London but one trip each, and the Canadian teams received the bulk of the percentage money! It has been a lesson to the minor magnates in Canada that Michigan is useless for baseball. WHEEL. MARTIN AND DECKER WON. Fall River, Mass., July 11.-Interest between Edde McDuffee and Clint Colter against "Plugger Bill" Martin and William B. Decker. > THE KENNEL. DERBY ENTRIES.

The entries for the Derby stakes of the International Field Trials have all been handed in to the secretary Mr. W. B. Wells, and are exceedingly full and promising. It is the largest entry list since 1894, and comprises some of the most promising canines that have yet competed in this stake. The scene of the trials this fall will be at Mitchell's Bay, where birds are reported to be very plentiful, and there is every prospect for a successful meet. The time for the closing of the entries for the all-aged stake is not until Nov. 1. but already numerous competing canines are nominated for a share of the prize money, and interest in the contests is very keen. The following is a full list of the Derby entries:

Have Nothing but Words of Praise for Doan's Kidney Pills.

They're Curing Backache and Al Forms of Kidney Disease.

Plenty of Peterboro people have been cured of their pains and aches by Doan's Kidney Pills, the conquerors kidney ills. One of these is Mrs. Sarah Henderson, of 392 McDonnel street. For a number of years she suffered greatly from pain in the back and terrible headaches. At times she got quite dizzy and a mist would come before eyes, so that she could scarcely see. Her hands and arms would swell and puff, and she was in a condition of great misery, unable to work, and almost in despair.

"I doctored a great deal," said Mrs. Henderson, "and took many medi-cines, but everything I tried failed. "Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I got a box. The first few doses seemed to lift a load from my aching back, and after taking three boxes I can conscientiously say that I am perfectly cured of all my complaints. I cannot too highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills." Doan's Kidney Pills are the only reliable remedy in the world for Back-

Britain in Egypt.

When we indulge in forecasts as to the future, we are sometimes met with the cynical advice "Don't prophesy unless you know," and in many circumstances it is well to heed that warning and acknowledge that in prophecy as in other things, there is a time when discretion is the better part of valor But men who have faith must some times prophesy, and we are glad to be able to give an interesting illustration of this in connection with what the North American Review calls "An Object Lesson in Anglo-Saxon Rule."

In the year 1845 Eliot Warburton published a volume entitled "The Crescent and the Cross; or Romance and Realities of Eastern Travel," and in it he used the words: "When the old man who has bravely won this fertile province ceases to exist, let his selfish power perish with him. Let England not prostitute her influence to restore emancipated Egypt to the imbecile tyranny of the Porte; but endeavor to infuse into the country of her adoption the principles, together with the privileges, of freedom. Let her lay aside all double-dealing and mock-modesty-as disreputable in the case of nations as of individuals-and boldly assist her 'right of way' through Egypt to India, while she leaves unquestioned that of France through Algiers to Timbuctoo. English capital and industry would make Egypt garden; English rule would make the fellah a free man; English principles would teach him honesty and truth; and as to the comparative advantage of Turkish and English politics, let the world be the judge between Asia Minor, and North America, between the influences of the Crescent and the Cross.

day remarked: "We will not seriously inveigh against a suggestion put forward as a mere piece of chat, in the course of a traveler's narrative; but, thinking that the indulgence of national covetousness at the expense of friendly states is of itself an evil thought never actually fulfilled, we would willingly chill this ardor for the spoliation of a Mohammedan prince," etc. (Quarterly Review, March, 1845.) Yet, strange to say, such is the romance of history that the traveler's "mere piece of chat" has became sober history, and the Englishman's confidence amply fulfilled. For the fulfillment it is still open to the traveler to visit the land of the Pharaohs, but for our present purpose the article by Ralph Richardson (honorary secretary of the Royal Scottish Geographical Society) in the North American Review for July will serve admirably. Mr. Richardson's essay is in a measure a reply to a "remarkable article" by Mr. Pennfield, which appeared in the same journal last December; but we shall not concern ourselves with the points in controversy, as our present purpose is simply to point to the blessings of British rule in that ancient land. The facts of Britain's "magnificent work" in Egypt since 1882 are pretty well known to the world, but as an answer to the three French newspapers in Cairo which daily abuse the British administration, Mr. Richardson quotes from a pamphlet written by a young Egyptian who thus replies to their oriticisms:

On this the Quarterly Review of that

"No matter what incendiary and fanatical journals assert in order in incite the fellah against the British occupa-tion, this is what the fellah replies: 'You say and repeat that the British bear us ill-will; that they cause us much evil; that they will soon establish protectorate over us, etc. Well, what does that matter to us now, seeing that before the British came we were tion to the fellah: 'Do you like the What do wou think of them?" all my heart, as much as I love my

Then to show that this is not mere emotion or prejudice on the part of the Egyptian peasant, Ahmed Mokbel gives a list of reasons which are so forcible and pathetic that we are tempted to reproduce them in full:

"(1) The British abolished for me the accursed torture of the combache. enabling me to live longer for my children than my unfortunate father was able to live for me and my brothers. "(2) The British have protected me from tyrants. "(3) Thanks to them, I pay no taxes which I ought not to pay. "(4) I am no more harnessed to the plow, as I formerly was, to gratify the caprice and pleasure of the cruel Turks. "(5) Thanks to the British, I no longer behold lying on the ground, bathed in blood, the body of my beloved wife, the innocent companion of my misfortunes and sufferings—a homicide which was formerly committed with impunity and relish throughout Egypt. The only re-life then was to let my heart weep, for I dared not weep publicly.

"(6) Thanks to the British I enjoy my frugal evening meal surrounded by my children, and I am clad in winter better than in summer '(7) Thanks to the British, my young cotton plants do not perish for want of water as formerly, when water was tors at a high price, while we poor Annual Church Parade to St. devils of fellaheen, having nothing to offer, saw our plants dying of drought "In one word, I prefer the British to all others, and, that being the case, would it be reasonable for me to complain of them?' This is native testimony, and that of the American critic is: "For half a dczen years Egypt has fairly bristled with prosperity. The story of that country's emergence from practical bankruptcy until its securities are quoted nearly as high as English consols reads like a romance; and there is no better example of economical progress, through administrative reform,

The fact is, the British are in Egypt not as the result of a deliberate policy of grab, but in pursuit of a duty that was forced upon them by the inexoralogic of events, and the French who refused-fortunately for all concerned, we think-to share the responsibility at the critical hour, and who have reaped most largely of the blessings of this beneficent rule, have been the fiercest and most malignant critics. It may have been a mistaken policy not to make English the official language, but it is a sign of the patience that goes along wih real strength that French newspapers are allowed to do their best or worst towards fomenting discontent. Mr. Richardson's article refuses to be summarized—it is itself an able summary of the benefits of British rule in a land which had so long been cruelly oppressed. It is the glory of Britain to have produced such able and discreet administrators as Lord Cromer, a man with keen discernment to find out ability in young men and appoint each man to his proper post. Under his wise rule the native officials have had the best that was in them brought into full play. It is indeed "an object lesson in Anglo-Saxon rule," and if Spain had made any such showing in Cuba and her other colonies, for foolish boasting but men who are loyal to the British Empire will surely read such things with real gratitude

Immense Population of the Empire-Peland the Most Densely Settled.

In 1870 the population of Russia in Europe was 65,700,559, or about 35 souls to the square mile of territory. If Poland and Finland be included, the total population will be increased to 73,- they would permit. In every society 504,592, but the density of population there are found the ignoble, and the will not be changed, as the dense settlement of Poland is neutralized by the sparse population of Finland. In 1897 the total population had increased to 106,159,141, of which 94,188,750 were assigned to Russia in Europe, and the density of the population had risen to 51 to the square mile. The returns or Russia in Asia are naturally imperfect, but the census of 1897 gave 23,052,000 souls, and the density of population, about 4 to the square mile. For the whole empire the density is 15 souls to the square mile. This low figure is due to Sheria, where only 1.2 marks the population to the square mile, and to Central Asia, which gave only 5.6 to the same territory. Poland is the most densely settled, 192 to the square mile, and Caucasia does not greatly differ from the average for European Russia, 53.3 to the square mile. If these figures be compared with the returns of the United States census it will be seen that European Asia has more than twice the density of population of the United States, 21.3; that Poland is as thickly settled as New Jersey, 193.8; and that New Mexico equals Siberia in sparseness of inhabitants.—From "The Question of Wheat," by W. C. Ford, in Appleton's Popular Science Monthly, for July.

COST OF FIRING BIG GUNS. A correspondent calculates that since the estimate for the cost of firing a round from a big modern gun is $1,000 and 1,500 shots were fired at the forts of Santiago in one day, the bombardment cost the country $1,500,000. This calculation is defective. In the British navy, where huge guns, after about 100 discharges, begin to sag at the muzzle, the calculation was fairly accurate, but since our guns show an entirely different "life," the figures will stand some revision.— St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Lodges Represented-Sermon by Rev. Geo. B. Sage-Half the Collection for the Orphans' Home.

The annual church parade of the Loyal Orange Lodges of London district took place yesterday afternoon. when about 250 marched to St. George's Episcopal Church, West London. The weather was perfect. The sun shone brightly; cool, refreshing breezes fanned the brows of the brethren, but the dust on all the streets traversed was most trying, and when disturbed, rose in smothering clouds, and was promiscuously distributed John E. Showler, d. by the wind. than is presented by Egypt under Britdistrict deputy grand master, was director of ceremonies, and performed the duties of marshal in an efficient manner. The lodges formed up in procession at 3:30 at the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets; and, headed by Musical Society Band, under the leadership of Mr. Fred Evans, marched by way of Dundas street and Wharncliffe to St. George's Church. Here an appropriate sermon was delivered to the brethren by the Rev. George B. Sage. The following lodges were represented in the procession: Boyne, L. O. L., No. 298, Hamilton Ramsey master; Forest City Lodge, No. 762, W. Johnston, master; Hacket Lodge, No. 805, W. Fox, master; True Blue Lodge, No. 11, Robert Harper, master; Ahoghill Lodge, Royal Black Knights of Ireland, No. 230, George Geoghegan, master; Covenant Preceptory, No. 346, Royal Black Knights, McDonald, worshipful preceptor. The ladies' lodges represented were Victoria, No. 2, Mrs. S. Perkins, worshipful mistress; and Lady Stanley, No. 4, Mrs. A. Dulmage, worshipful mistress.

On arrival at the church the ladies took their places in the front seats of the edifice, and the men filled the remainder of the center of the church to overflowing. The side seats were

Rev. Mr. Sage took for the subject of his discourse Judges, vii., 20-"And the three companies blew the trumpets and brake the pitcher, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal, and they cried, 'The sword of the Lord and of Gideon." The plain of Jezreel, the speaker said, had been fitly called the battlefield of nations. Nations, peoples and tongues, had striven for its mastery; kings, princes, potentates, councils, judges and generals had sought to get possession of beautiful strip of land, that had glittered with spears, the battle axe and the Roman broadsword. Never in the history of the many conflicts recorded was any to be compared with she would not have had to meet the the story of the battle in the seventh chapter of Judges, when the Midianites and the Amalekites, as upon her now. This is not a matter as the sands of the sea, were beaten and routed by 300 Gideonites. speaker spoke of the 32,000 Israelites who were culled and reculled until only 300 were left. They were men of restraint, dignified, and had the true instincts of soldiers, whose character shone forth in their lives, and they were the only ones qualified to fight the fight of the God of Gideon. Orangemen need not depend on their own strength to fit themselves as soldiers of Christ. Napoleon had said that God was always on the side of the strongest battalions, but that was not so. The Holy Spirit was on the side of holy men-men in whom was found brotherly love, sympathy and righteousness, and who displayed the same feeling of unity that had caused them to gather together at divine service. God would use them only so far as man who did everything but live up to the high principles of the orders to which they pledged themselves. There was the slanderer, for instance, found in all organizations, and he knew of no stronger condemnation of his than the words of the poet:

And leaves me poor, indeed. He hoped that the bond of love and sympathy which bound them together would be lasting, and that they might prove a powerful instrument in the hands of God as did the Gideonites. He pointed out that the work of the many falls as a burden on the few. In a congregation of 200 there was, as a rule, only 30 or 40 to do the work. In the lodge, the work fell, as a rule, upon the trusted and tried. He encouraged his hearers to emulate Gideon's men, for, saith the Lord, "If ye will obey my voice and keep my covenant, then shall ye be a peculiar treasure unto me above all the people, for all the earth is mine.'

One-half the collection will go to the Protestant Orphans' Home and the remainder to the church.

GREAT LUMBER FIRE

At Pentwater, Mich.-Loss Over $200. 000.

Pentwater, Mich., July 11.—Fire was discovered at 2:20 a.m. Saturday in Sands & Maxwell's lumber yards and at 9 p.m. the yards were a mass of 000,000 feet of the finest furniture lumber in Michigan has been supported by 1.000,000 shingles and 200 cords of wood. When first discovered the fire had gained considerable headway. The yards are divided into two sections— east and west. The fire started in the west section. In two hours it was seen that this part was doomed. About 4 o'clock a light northeast breeze sprung up. The fire spread to the east part. By heroic efforts of the firemen the half of this section was saved. The mill. situated directly between the two divisions, was also saved. The lumber was mostly maple, beech, basswood, hemlock and pine, with some ash and Casualities were few. One man was severely injured on the head. The estimated loss is between 200,000 and $250,000. ENGLISH ARMY GROG

Interesting Result of Experiments is Total Abstinence.

[From the Boston Watchman.] It is not generally known that Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, the British commander-in-chief, has instituted careful and exhaustive experiments, with a view to ascertaining the relative effects of alcohol and of total abstinence upon the physical endurance and staying qualities of the troops. A writer in the Chicago Thibune gives an extended account of these experiats, which we summarize. Advantage has been taken both of the annual maneuvers, as well as or the petty wars of which England has a few on hand in one part or another of the world almost all the time, to examine carefully the question. One regiment would be deprived of every drop of stimulant, while another if the same brigade, would be allowed to purchase as usual its mait liquors at the canteen, and a third, probably a Highland corps, would receive a sailor's ration of grog in the form of whisky. In each instance the experiment went to show that whereas at first the corps which had received an allowance of grog surpassed the others in dash and impetuosity of attack, yet after the third or fourth day its members began to show notable signs of lassitude and a lack of spirit and endurance. The same manifestations. though in a minor and slower degree, were apparent in the regiments stricted to malt liquors, whereas the men who had been kept from every kind of stimulant increased in staying power, alertness and vigor every day. The results of these experiments the British war department to decide, not on the ground of principle, but solesake of maintaining the for the powers of endurance of the troops now engaged in the Soudan campaign, not to permit a single drop of stimulant in camp, save for hospital use. Spirits, wine, and malt liquors have been barred from the officers' mess tables, as well as from the regimental canteen. and from generals in command down to the drummer boys, and the camp followers' liquid refreshments have been restricted to tea and oatmeal water. Thanks to total abstinence, the men have been able to make forced marches of the most extraordinary character across the burning desert and under a blazing sun, the heat of whose rays can only be appreciated by those who have lived under the equator. Indeed, what aroused most admiration at the battle of Atbara was the calm and collected manner in which the Highland ness as if they had merely been on the drill ground The British admiralty has not as ve followed the example of the United States, which has abandoned the daily grog ration, and prohibits the use of stimulants on board when at sea; but orders have recently been issued that in action not a drop or alcoholic liquor to be allowed on the day when any fighting is to be done. It is no longer fierceness, fury and reckless dash that are required of the men, but calmness and collectedness.

still under negotiations.

About ten years ago I felt the be ginnings of what is commonly known as Eczema. The disease commenced in my ears and spread entirely over both sides of my head and also developed on my hards. During those ten years I was a great sufferer. Specialists on skin diseases treated me. As I write this I am just commencing on the fifth box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and, judging from the rapid improvement ef-fected, I am certain that before the box is used I shall be completely cured. CHARLES FISH, Wethodist minister,

Dunn avenue, Toronto. A heavy electrical storm passed over the Alvinston section of the country on Friday afternoon. The barn belonging to Isaac Stubbs, a farmer, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Loss about $600. LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson

Cameron writes: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good. Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial.

It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

The Remarkable Affliction of a London Railway Man.

A Cold Caused Loss of Voice and Then Closed Up the Air Passages-Operated on in New York-Is in Good Health.

Mr. John Dean, of Smith stret, East London, has recently returned from New York city, where he was the subject of a most remarkable surgical operation. In the known annals of medical science, the wide world over, there are not more than two dozen cases similar to his on record. His respiratory organs are partially of no service to him. All the air he breahees enters his lungs directly through a silver tube. The case is a most interesting one, and fully warrants giving the particulars of the case in detail.

Mr. Dean, who is 34 years of age, was born in London, and his father, a shoemaker, died here recently. The subject of this sketch commenced to work on the Grand Trunk Railway when a boy, and was 20 years in the employ of the company, eventually rising to the position of fireman. The first symptoms of his peculiar physical trouble developed in 1894. He acquired a cold while working on the snowplow, and first noticed a partial loss of his voice. His trouble developed so that he could not speak above a whisper, and that only with extreme difficulty. This went on for two years, during which time he was off work seven months. Two years ago he went to Cayuga as pumping engineer, but later resigned his position, and on Jan. 28 this year left for New York, and entered the Presbyterian hospital. On Jan 31 the doctors performed an operation on his throat. They imagined at first that he was afflicted with tuberculosis, but could find no symptoms of such on exsion that the throat had grown down to the larynx-in other words, that the air passages had grown together.

It would soon have been impossible for the man to breathe, either through mouth or nostrils, and after the opera-tion the doctors placed a double silver sheep, $4 25 to $4 60; culls and common tube in his throat just below the larynx and entering the lungs directly. That is what Mr. Dean breathes through. He can speak in a whisper only by closing the tube with his finger. Respiration is painless although his throat is still sore

At first when the tube was put in, a canopy was placed over the patient's bed, and he inhaled steam and hot air for six weeks. To have inhaled cold air would have proved fatal. He became gradually accustomed to a moderate temperature until able to go out in the open air. He was for five months in the hospital before being able to return to his home here. In appearance, Mr. Dean is a healthy man. He has no other ailment, and eats and sleeps well. He is unable to do any regular work, because he dare not expose himself to the winter air, and while advised by his doctors not permit him to do so. Mr. Dean desires to express his gratitude for the many kindnesses shown him by the members of Chorizan Lodge, I. O. O. F., and by former fellow-employes on the G. T. R. He goes tomorrow to St. Thomas accompanied by his wife and two children.

Second Day of the Great Convention at Nashville, Tenn.

Nashville, Tenn, July 11.-Many enthusiastic meetings marked the sec-ond day of the Christian Endeavor convention, and all were well attended. In the afternoon two great services were held at Hall Williston and the Auditorium, and at both meetings speeches of high order were deliver-ed. At night equally as well attended meetings were held in the same halls. One of the notable features of the day was the Canadian national rally, held by the delegates from Canada in Grace Church. After stirring speeches. resolutions were adopted which advocated closer relations of all kinds between Anglo-Saxon nations.

Astonishing Discovery on an Anciens Papyrus Dug Up at Jerusalem-

The Saviour's Handwriting. Can it be possible that a manuscript really written by the sacred hand of the Saviour has been found? Have we of the nineteenth century lived to see the signature of the Saviour affixed to a prayer written by His own hand, and now unearthed on a flimsy parchment, dug up in the ruins of ancient Jerusalem? That both of these intensely important questions may be answered in the affirm. stive is the contention of the eminent archaeologist and explorer, Dr. Bruesselbach of Waidbroel, Germany. Dr. Brues. selbach is the greatest living expert in the field of Biblical investigation. Recently he reported another remarkable discovery, the diary of the gatekeeper of Jerusalem, noting the arrival and departure of Jesus, the "God Man." This was the first authenticated instance of a record of the Saviour's movements that has ever been brought to light. But, far more valuable, and from a religious point of view far more precious, is this discovery by Dr. Bruesselbach of a papyrus in the handwriting of Jesus, and signed by Him. Never before has the modern world seen a single word from the pen of Jesus. We have not even seen any writing in Aramaic of the first century, the language in which the papyrus

In a pamphlet published by G. A. Hohns, Crefeld, Germany, Dr. Bruesel bach tells the story of the discovery. He says: "When I went to Palestine a short time ago to broaden and deepen my understanding of the Bible, I became convinced that many of the most remarkable antiquities were being discovered daily by the Fellaheen roaming over the land, and especially by those digging deep bevarious Palestine exploration societies At Jerusalem and Lachish they have brought up from the depths of the earth many finds, announced all over the world, but none, it seems to me, so important as this bit of manuscript bearing the impress of the Saviour. "This manuscript is a small quarto page, written on both sides. The writing is almost entirely effaced, or so imperfect as to render a complete translation out of the question. This much, however, can be established with certainty, that it is the prayer of an oppressed and persecuted spirit, written in Aramaic. The writing is peculiar in being inscribed below in-"The best preserved section is given here in fac-simile. It is signed by the name of the Saviour, spelled precisely as upon the record of the gatekeeper at Jerusalem, published lately. "On the margin of the manuscript another hand, using the square Galilean characters, has written the word 'Saviour,' showing that its first owner considered this the manuscript of Jesus. The word Saviour in the Galilean Aramaic of that time, is expressed Hoseach. This writing belongs to the first century, as will be admitted by all scholars. "The manuscript is very brittle. Line three of the fac-simile may be rendered, 'and still another stigma as a stain, in meekness under (persecution).' The whole is a plaint concerning persecution, that everything and every one is against him who has the divine treasure and stands alone. Every one misrepresents the words he utters he is trodden down like dust and ashes; darkness is round about him." The "Palestine Exploration Fund," which is supported in England and America, has made many discoveries during the past few years at the sites mentioned by Dr. Bruesselbach. The uncovering of the ruins of Lachish by Dr. Bliss has been one of the most interest. ing of modern excavations, for he had found in that mound, called "Lell Hesy" by the Arabs, no less than eight cities. built one on the ruins of the other, going back to about 3000, B.C., before the time when the Israelites came to Palestine. Here was found a bit of parchment ascribed to Moses, certainly a very likely place for it. no matter when it was taken there. The manuscript looks very much like an Egyptian papyrus-but upon examining the inscription it is found to be like no other hitherto known. It is written in the primitive Hebrew script. The first line of the heading of this article is the signature of the Saivour in Aramaic.

The International Baseball League No More-London, Chatham, St. Thomas and Hamilton the Teams.

BASEBALL.

The International Baseball League quently applauded. The car service magnates met in secret conclave this afternoon at the Tecumseh House for the purpose of repairing the "busted" league. Those present were D. J. Lewis, Bay City; George Black, Saginaw; Charles Collins and Wm. Stroud, Ham-Alton; W. J. Reid and Bert Sheere, London; Mr. Robertson, St. Thomas; and Mr. McBryan, of Chatham. At 3 o'clock little was known of what was likely to come up. As a preliminary, the franchise of Port Huron was transferred to Chatham. The result will be a four-club Canadian league—Chatham, London, St. Thomas and Hamilton. D. J. Lewis kicked vigorously over the guarantee money. His claim is that Bay City and Saginaw are both entitled to their $200 forfeit money. Neither club, he says, has been disbanded, and all the men are under salary. He opposed allowing London and Hamilton to vote on the question of the transfer of the franchise to Chatham, as these teams had no right to any guarantee money, having failed to stand by the constitution.

Black is negotiating with McBrayne for the management of the Chatham team. As the matter stands, Bay City and Saginaw are still in it, but if Black is successful in his negotiations with the Chathamites both will drop out of

Everything Prepared for the Final Assault

On the Enemy's Works at Santiago.

Barly Capture of the City Looked for by Gen. Shafter.

SPANISH PROPOSALS REJECTED. Gen. Shafter's headquarters near Santiago, July 10, via Port Antonio, per the Associated Press dispatch boat Dandy, July 11 .- At 11:30 this morning Gen. Shafter notified Gen. Toral, the Spanish commander, that by President McKinley's direction, the Spanish proposition to surrender if the garrison was allowed to leave Santiago with its side-arms was rejected, and that the United States would accept no terms but immediate and unconditional surrender. Gen. Toral at 2:45 replied in a brief note, rejected President Mc-Kinley's proposal, and would discuss no other terms than those suggested by himself. At 3:15 Gen. Shafter notified Gen. Toral that the armistice would be terminated, and that hostilities would be resumed at 4 o'clock. At the same time he issued instructions to each of the division commanders to prepare for a fresh attack on the Spanish works. These orders have been promulgated from Aguadores to Caney. When the courier left with this dispatch, just before 4 o'clock, the artillery was pre paring to open on the Spaniards at the end of the armistice. The dynamite gun had been trained on the Spanish blockhouse with such absolute precision that the first shot would obliterate it. Gen. Shafter said to a correspondent of the Associated Press this afternoon: "I shall not be surprised if we have Santiago in three days. TEN THOUSAND MISERABLE RE-FUGEES.

At El Caney there are 10,000 miserable refugees from Santiago, old men, women and children, whom the Spaniards have permitted to go to our lines to get food. The plight of these helpless people is heartrending. The Americans are doing all they can for them. MORTALITY AT GUANTANAMO.

Advices received by Commander Mc-Culla, of the Marblehead, from the city of Guantanamo show that the deaths from starvation there average fifteen daily. Ben. Perez, the commander of Guantanamo, has given up hope of succor, and the town should readily be taken were it worth while to risk the lives of the American troops.

Post Captain Fernandez, of Baracao, with three officers, was captured by Commander McCalla as they ran into the shore for news. He did not see the American flag until too late.
Thousands of Cubans, some esti mates placing the number at 20,000are being fed at the camp on the west side of the harbor with supplies furnished by the Red Cross Society. The health of the marines at Guantanamo is good, but the same cannot be said of those at Baiquiri, where 40 of the hundred men are on sick report, suffering from low fever.

PRISONERS AT PORTSMOUTH. Portsmouth, July 11.-The auxiliary cruiser St. Louis with more than 800 Spanish prisoners, arrived in Portsmouth harbor yesterday morning. The big liner left Guantanamo at 6 p.m. Tuesday, July 5. Including the prisoners, there are 1,036 people on the boat, and of this number there were Concerts at Springbank Every Even-91 sick and wounded Spaniards under the care of surgeons. the Spanish Government will probably deck the new pavilion, make the scene telegraph Captain-General Blanco that Spain would reap great advantages by negotiating for peace before Santiago, Manila and perhaps Porto Rico are captured. ANOTHER CAPTURE. New York, July 11.-A dispatch to the Journal from Aguadores says: The steamer Bratton, a Norwegian freighter, was chased and captured this morning by the Brooklyn: She had on board a cargo of supplies sent to Santiago on speculation by merchants at Kingston and Port Antonio. She has been tied up until the fleet enters Santiago har-

SUNDAY'S CASUALTIES. Washington, July 11 .- The war depatch from General Shafter: Playa del Este, July 11.—Adjutant-General, Washington: Headquarters, She near Santiago, July 11.—Following is report of casualties in the first division yesterday afternoon just received: Killed — Captain Charles W. Rowell, Second Infantry, and Private Peter Nelson, Company A, Second Infantry. Wounded-Lieut, N. J. Lutz, Second Infantry: Private Charles Jenks, Company A, Second Infantry; Private Chas. Lenki, Company B, Second Infantry, and Private Nelson Gilbert, jun., Twenty-first Infantry.

THE U. S. WOUNDED CARED FOR. Siboney, Province of Santiago de Cuba, July 10, via Playa Del Este, by the Associated Press dispatch boat Cynthia, July 11.—There are only 75 wounded men in the hospital here who are being treated for serious amputations or bone fractures. In the hospitals at the front there are no wounded soldiers. The serious cases and all the rest of the wounded are on board the hospital ship Relief, or on the transports bound north. situation, from a sanitary point of view is capable of much improvement. The landing of reinforcements is progressing rapidly. All the men of the Firt Illinois Regiment, six batteries of light artillery and 851 recruits for the regular infantry are ashore, and it is probable the Eighth Ohio Regiment, from the St. Paul. will be landed tomorrow.

PROBABLE SPLIT IN THE SPAN-ISH CABINET. Madrid, July 10, via Hendaye, France. July 11.-While public opinion is divided, it is inclining rapidly in favor of peace, the people becoming more con-vinced every day of the impossibility of withstanding the power of the United States. The peace party in the cabinet is urging immediate negotiations looking to peace. and Senor Gamazo, the minister of public instruction, threatens to resign if the war party outweighs his influence. The war party, however, urges a continuance of the struggle "to convince America that it is difficult to obtain a prompt triumph for her army and thus secure for Spain better terms. There is a split in the cabinet which will probably result in its resignation and the formation of an intermediary government, because Senor Silveta and the Conservatives are unwilling to incur the responsibility of the peace negotiations. The best obtainable terms are certain to be trying to Spanish pride, which will demand a scapegoat. The increasing unpopularity of Senor Sagasta's government is supported by the majority of public opinion. The situation is most trying to the queenregent, who is suffering more keenly than her subjects. Swayed by outside counsels, and by the divided opinion of the cabinet and nation, her majesty must soon decide upon some course of action, and will probably form a government with a strong military element and including the most popular polticians. She began consulting on the subject today, and had a long conference with Romero y Robledo.

Over $1,000,000 have now been invested in the grounds and home of the club. The stables are marvels of comfort, and the lawn, the paddock and the interior of the club represent in attractiveness all that wealth can do. But, more than these, the presence of Tod Sloan, whose riding in England made him world-famous, added an interest to the "American Derby" of 1898. Although Bromley & Co.'s stable, which was at Washington Park Club this year, had the first call on Taral and the Cariboo-H. +0+0+0+0+0+0+0+0+0+0+0+0+0+ He was awakened by a chorus of birds. He tried to move and could not. opening his eyes, and lifting his sun-swept landscape, rejoicing in all the gladness of a summer morning in the country. The sickening sense of his condition returned upon him, and he was about thrusting his head out farther to find, if possible, where he was, when he heard voices talking. Quickly resuming his former position he listened.

It was a fresh, girlish voice that spoke, with laughter between the words; and the rough voice of an old woman answered. They were quite near and the driver of the cart exchanged a salutation with them. They must have almost passed, when the girl spoke

"See, Chiara; there is a man asleep under the hogsheads. And, see—one of his hands is all red." The bitterness of death swept over Bruno's soul. He seemed to be floating on a great tide that tossed him to and fro, and stifled him. Gasping for breath, he lifted his face after a minute and looked out. Rosa and Chiara were at some dis tance, just entering the gates of the Villa Frattitna. He had believed that he was going towards Albano; and instead of that he had gone into the very jaws of the lion! All the frenzy of his first flight possessed him again. Extricating himself from his hiding place he dropped out into the road, tossed his purse to the river, and plunged into the path which Marco and Vittorio had taken the day before. At first he ran, then he advanced more warily, avoiding the cab-ins of the guardians, and making for a wooded ravine not far distant. He had reached it, and was about btting himself down the rocks, when he came face to face with an old woman. She stared at him, uttered a faint scream, and dropped a bundle of green herbs she had in her apron. Bruno turned from her without a sound, and fied in another direction. He from the highway, but it was impossible to turn back. A great wheat field he slipped into i This field was a sea of splendid, rolllet popples, and it soared far over him as he crawled carefully in till ce could see nothing on all sides but the myriad slender stems of the ripe grain. Then he sank down and listened, panting, and yet trying to hush his heavy breaths.

He crouched on the ground till his limbs felt cramped; then he sat. The sun ran over the wheat fields, rose higher, and a dazzling rain began to sift through the stems. Bruno's heart was thumping hard and fast in his breast, and his thoughts started out like sparks from an anvil. Marco would come black to Palestrina; Rosa would know, and would tell of the man with the red hands hidden among the wine hogsheads; they would find the driver, would learn the path he had taken, would question the old woman he had met, and-there they were now!

There was a sound of men's voices, but they were quiet and far away, and someone was singing a vintage song. Not vet!

He lay down, stretched at length, to feel the coolness of the earth, and be out of the sun for a little while longer. Ah! why had he left Rome? There was safety, a thousand hiding places, and friends at hand who were bound to protect him. He saw now what a fatal error his fright had led him into, and he knew not how to remedy it, even if he could have eccaped into some other Why had he not run into one palace itself and claimed protection? He had his story all ready to tell. They were always prepared, and no event could be unforeseen to them. He was prepared, then, "in case any accident should happen to Vittorio," or others. Of course, it meant that Vittorio or one of those certain others might attack him and force him to defend himself. How red the poppies were! How horribly they sprinkled drop by drop, all the ground about. And his hands—he tried to wipe them; but Dives himself could not have found a drop of water there, and the stains would cling. And presently there was a sound, faint and thin, no sound of voice or step of man or song of bird, but most like a faint ntermittent whistling of wind in the rigging of a ship at sea, when the spirits of the air go before a tempest. It was sharp and thin, and it came from right and left and from before Bruno raised himself on his hands and knees and gazed sout; but saw

The sun slanted toward the west a little, blazing down with its long rays. The reapers began again, and he crawled inch by inch away from the sound of them. How he hated the daylight with all its blinding red and gold! His head was swimming with the heat, and with hunger and thirst, too; but he did not think of that. He could hear the severed handfuls of wheat drop on the pile, and fancied that he could see dank blotches of human forms through the

He was longing to look out, to see the path, to look up to Palestrina, which he knew would be just above him: and to see how far he was from the highway; but he dared not. The vines did not grow thickly enough; the wheat was golden, the light was rosy, and his his head was black—so black! And how did he know but a knife was waiting for it to be thrust out?

At the other side of the path were wine-laden trees thinly set, and a small wheat field that had all been reaped. An old woman was going about, gathering up the scattered stalks, and lay-ing them on a yellow wall of wheat that stretched along the field. It was the woman he had met in th

Nearly all the city was in a clear pale light, only the higher points being still red. There was a movement along the road of men and women and animals going up to the town after their day's work, as they used to do when he was a boy. On the mountain-top the hamlet of San Pietro blazed out like a beacon. As he tooked voices came up the path. He drew quickly back and peep-

The girls carried large baskets of clean without touching a hand to them; and they laughed and jested and stepped but of the path to break off the fresh vine-tendrils and eat them. MINES IN A HARBOR

Two Kinds, Observation and Electro Contract, Are Used.

The Way in Which They Are Planted and Methods by Which They Are Exploded-Uses of the Signal and the Firing Electricial Current.

In fortifying a harbor against attack by an enemy's fleet the British engineers would use today submarine mines of two general classes-the "observation" and the "electro contact." The observation mine, so called because its action is directed by an observer or operator stationed on shore, is a convex ended cylinder of Staffordshire plate three-sixteenths of an inch in thickness, measuring 34 inches in depth and about 32 inches in diameter. Within the cylinder and surrounded by an air chamber is a core, composed of 22 separate copper cases, containing in all 500 pounds of wet gun cotton. The central case of the 22 is arranged to receive the "primertin," a little box holding two detonators, or fuses, imbedded in dry gun cotton, from which electric wires pass to the insulator at the mouth of the mine.

For harbor defense the engineers would lay observation mines in groups of at least six, placed in a mathematically straight line at intervals of 180 feet, and preferably in about 50 feet of water. One main electric cable, starting from the operator's station on shore, would connect with and govern each mine of the six, reaching it by a fork or branch running to its insulator. This main cable would be close to the harbor bed, but the mines themselves, whose buoyancy is considerable, would float 12 feet or more above, each anchoral by a stout steel wire mooring rope to a wrought iron sinker of 500 pounds weight, disk shaped, with a concave lower surface to give the additional hold of suction. At about 60 feet from the outer and inner ends of the mine line mark buoys would be set to guide the eve of the shore operator, while various other buoys would be scattered around the field in order to mystify the enemy.

For the operator's station the two great requirements are a clear sweep of vision over the minefields and invisibility. A little cave dug in a hillside or embankment and disguised with bushes, vines or whatever is the common foliage of the spot is the ideal arrangement, but if necessity forces the selection of flat and barren ground a hut may be rendered inconspicuous by a coat of paint of the color of the earth about it. Here the observer sits, his glass trained on the two range buoys of his special group of mines and his battery and firing key within easy reach. enemy's ship or ships cross his sight line he presses the key, and in an almost incalculably small fraction of a second the whole group of mines is exploded. The fatal area of each individual mine of the 'observation' type covers a circle 60 feet in diameter. Reckoning with the breadth of beam of the average warship as a factor, it thence appears that the series of six will clear a channel about 720 feet broad of any vessels unfortunate enough to be there.

The "electro contact" differs from the observation mine in that it is meant to explode on actual contact with the ship's bottom, not at some distance beneath. It is used in deeper water than is the other variety and is fitted with a much higher charge, since 75 pounds of gun cotton detonated against the hull of the strongest vessel built is quite sufficient to disable if not to destroy her. This mine, like the species previously described, is contained in a convex ended iron cylinder, its charge, as in the former case, packed in a nest of copper boxes, the central box holding the primer tin with its two detonators and their electro wire connection. One "leg" of the wire necessary to complete the firing circuit runs, however, not directly to its detonator, but to the top of the mine as it lies afloat, there entering an ingenious contrivance called a circuit closer. The mine cannot explode until the circuit closer comes into action, and the circuit closer will act only when struck by the hull of a ship. Electro contact mines are commonly laid in several connected groups of three. Each individual in each trio has its own electric cable, about 100 yards in length, the three cables converging at their lower ends to enter a "disconnector box." disconnector in turn sends down a single 200 yard cable to a "multiple junction box," within which it meets similar cables from the disconnectors of all the other trios in the series, and with them is joined to a main cable running to the battery in the operator's station on shore. The operator has it in his power to put first thing that human beings want to the whole series instantly out of play and to return it as instantly to service, and by do, after they learn to eat, is to dig. means of the disconnectors any trio which cheapest and most satisfying play-things in the world. It is worth a having been exploded, has become an inthe circuit.

cumbrance to the rest may be cut out of A ground mine, like the observation mine, is laid in relatively shallow watera depth of 50 feet by choice—and has a cable connection with an operator's battery on shore. Attached by cable to the mine and floating above it at such a point as to be likely to be struck by any passing ves-sel is a buoy containing an electric appa-ratus with a circuit closer. When the operator turns a strong electric current into the main cable, the touch of a ship's hull on the buoy is sufficient to detonate the mine. This powerful force is put in action at night or at any time when the enemy's ships alone are expected to be in the harbor. On all other occasions the current is maintained at a very low ebb, when a pressure on the buoy would not fire the mine, but would merely telegraph a signal to the shore station, indicating to the observer there which particular buoy had been struck. The change from signal current to firing current may be made in an instant, so that in the event of a harbor engagement between friendly and hostile fleets a home vessel may be allowed to pass unscathed over the mine, while the enemy's ship, touching the buoy immediafterward, will be wrecked on the spot. The ground mine is not, however, dependent for its explosive power on the collision of a ship with the buoy. The shore operator may explode it at volition whenever, in his opinion, occasion arises, but it is always difficult to tell exactly what point on the range line a crossing vessel occupies, and for that reason the mines are laid in groups of three, all three to be fired simultaneously in case of "judgment action." "The great desideratum in efficient mining," says a recent authority, "is not so much perfection in construction as absolute secrecy in the plan of laying. If the plan of the mines' position is kept secret, they constitute a far more efficient protection to a harbor than any amount of forts and guns. * * * An opposing fleet might easily bring itself to attack a flotilla of torpedo vessels, but it would hesitate very seriously before risking its vitals over a minefield."-Catherine Prence in New York Post.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Rev. Dr. Proudfoot Talks of His First Pastoral Charge-Interesting Reminiscences.

Interesting services marked the 50th anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church at St. Marys last week. Rev. T. A. Cosgrove, the pastor, presided over the jubilee, and in briefly reviewing the history of the church, said that in the past 50 years there had been six pastors: Dr. Proudfoot, for three years; Dr. Caven, for fourteen years; the late Dr. Waters for five years; Rev. John McAlpine, who was prevented by sci-atica from being present at the jubilee; Rev. Mr. Turnbull, and the speaker. Rev. Dr. Proudfoot, of London, on being introduced, at once called up recollections of the early days of his pastorate. It was next to impossible, he said, in those days to get accommodation. For three months at least he came out from London every Saturday afternoon, going to Downie Sunday morning and St. Marys, afternoon, leaving for London next morning. As there were no liveries in London, this had to be done on horseback. The exposure and fatigue at the end of three months brought on a fever. The roads in those days were almost impassable. For several reasons he did not venture to purchase either a cutter or a buggy. Reaching the village of St. Marys one Saturday night and stopping with the leading miller, a 'Methodist, he started out again in the morning on horseback and as the next night drew on he sought lodgings at a farm ouse, and learned he had traveled but six miles that whole day, while he had to tear up his bandanna handkerchief to bind the wounds on his horse's legs. 'At that time the Proof Line road was built satisfactorily, but it was next to impossible to get from St. Marys to it.

The speaker continued to describe the condition of the country, and the settlers, as he knew them half a century ago, and dwelt upon the distress of poverty in those early days. In closing,
