FINGAL MAN GIVES CLUE TO BARTLETT CASE CAME TO THIS COUNTRY WITH ALFRED

Advertiser Given Most Tangible Clue in the Mystery By Companion of Dead Englishman.

If the story told by Thomas Charles of Fingal, is true, then The Advertiser is able to give what is probably a definite clue to the whereabouts of the famous Alfred Brown, the man forged order for Bartlett's money.

Charles is employed by a farmer named Allen Hamilton, on a farm about a mile east of Fingal, which is about eight miles west of St. Thomas.

This morning Charles came into the mill owned by Mr. J. A. Young, of Fingal, and in conversation, the Bartlett case came up. They ascussed it some time, and Charles made the remark that he thought he knew something of the case. An Advertiser was produced, and Charles said he was confident that he knew both Brown and Bartlett.

All Came Out Together.

He declared that he came out to Englishmen, named Bartlett, Baker, ett with collecting money for the ployed together for some time, but separated. Mr. Young called up The Advertiser and told the above story.

This clue is the most tangible any yet given, and corroborates the Watford story that Bart'ett had several companions, among whom was the man supposed to be Brown.

Mr. Charles' Story. Mr. Charles readily consented to be interviewed by The Advertiser.

When we came to Canada we knocked around at different places in Western Ontario. Up till August last we worked on the Michigan Central with the steel gang laying rails. Brown and Bartlett were friends of mine, but they frequently quarreled. In August we separated, I went to St. Thomas, and I heard Brown went to Baker and Martin. Describes Brown.

Alfred Brown was a man about 20 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height, hair of a medium color, neither dark nor light, with a florid complexion and a fresh look in his skin. He weighed erably addicted to drink and was very ugly at times. I don't know Martin's first name, but Baker's first name was left the steel gang. We all boarded in Hagersville with a Mrs. Nickel, who kept a boarding-house there.

"After reading the descriptions in The Advertiser of the man who cashed the faked money order for Bartlett's wages, I am convinced that it tallies with the Alfred Brown I knew Candidates Initiated Into Mysteries of Inner Circle Amid Foreign Sounds.

Yesterday was a gala day for the nomads who are charter members of Mocha Temple.

The occasion was one of special importance, in that it marked the inauguration of Mocha Temple, and also because of the fact that the sands were heated for the benefit of no less than 116 candidates

Early yesterday morning the incoming caravans brought tidings that many nobles were coming from afar to the Oasis of London, in the Desert of Ontario, to take part in the ceremonies attendant on the inauguration of Mocha Temple.

With them came many pilgrims who found the sands hot and the way weary, and who finished the journey tired and thirsty after their long tramp over the desert.

From "Tall Minarets."

Many camels came in laden with the footsore and the weary.

Early yesterday morning the muezzin's voice sounded, calling the faithful to prayer, and in a short time they came forth with the noise of the bulbul and the hew-gag.

Clothed in the garb of the east, they wended their way to all the paths leading in from the desert to meet the incoming hordes of swarthy Arabs.

Proudly did they bear aloft the banner of the prophet, guarded by many a flashing scimitar. Many, indeed, were the nobles who journeyed to meet the caravanserai in which was Imperial Potentate Harry A. Collins, of Toronto, who bore the message from the prophet by which Mocha Temple was created. While the Franks gazed in stupid wonder, each Moslem made his salaam, and the caravanserai moved in majestic splendor to the temple, where he was greeted by Illustrious Potentate A. L. Davis, of Mocha Temple, and many nobles.

On the green spot in the desert they found rest. The sandals of many were burnt by the hot simoon, and they found their throats parched. Many also found the camels hard to ride, and the goats exceeding hard to tame, but they all persev-ered, and when the voice of the illustrious potentate was raised in blessing it was found that all who had set out upon the journey to the Oasis had found the way in safety. All the evening there was earnest onsultation within the palm groves. Sounds of strife and other weird voices were heard by the unfaithful. Hilarious noises were also noted, and it was foresooth discovered that the pilgrims were finding the way thermometer at the local observatory for very rough, and the sands very hot. the 24 hours ended at 8 p.m. yesterday However, each was delivered of his troubles, and soon the sounds of revelry would be heard from afar. Welcomed the Moslems.

At this juncture Ald. Ferguson, one of the nobles, bade welcome to the Cloudy delegates to the Oasis of London, remarking that the key of the city had been lost somewhere in the sands, and placing the hospital, the jail, the city hall, and other restful places, at the disposal of the nobles of Mocha Shrine and their visitors.

Then the nobles were led through a winding maze into a cool spot, where were spread the tables laden with all things good to look upon. Gott's milk, camel's milk, pomegranates, rice and many viands were spread there in profusion, and Illustrious Potentate A. L. Davis invited

A CIVIL SERVICE REVOLUTION.

The main recommendations of the civil service commission are revolu- lous opposition will be shown. tionary. The overshadowing feature of its report is the proposal to place the system of appointments to the public service upon a new basis, which will eliminate party pull and patronage. The service, says the commission, should be entirely free from political favoritism or patronage, and appointments should only be made by merit, after competitive examination. The machinery suggested for the new system is a permanent commission of three members to supervise examinations for candidates, to determine appointments, and to make periodical inspections of every department of government.

The commissioners are unsparing in denunciation of the methods of appointment to public office which have curse of the civil service." They allege that politics not only governs appointments, but promotions; that the absence of a system of promotions based on merit, and the inadequate scale of salaries, have discouraged younger officials; and that "the political element has steadily tended to deteriorate the public service." On this point the commissioners moralize as follows:

"Without going so far as to say that the official who has been apnot amenable to discipline, the commissioners have found in certain instances that officials appointed by remaining under its aegis have taken to themselves the idea that their services are altogether beyond the control of the higher officials: that. in fact, except in the matter of the disputed. observance of office hours, their country or their chief is of no consideration: that the annual increase will follow as a matter of course. they were disobedient. The com- brated firm of accountants, missioners agree that in the expansion that has occurred in Canada in arrivals do not actively respond to the regulations laid down for the government of the several departments. An official entering the public service should be made to understand fully that when he becomes an official any attempt to obtain or use political influence must be abandoned.

"As a rule the commissioners found in the outside service that politics enter into every appointment and that politicians on the spot interest themselves not only in the appointments, but in the subsequent promotions of the officers. While at Ottawa the departments generally are administered with a good consideration for the public interests. yet in the outside service the politics of the party is of greater importance in making appointments and promotions than the public interests of the Dominion, Promotion in that part of the service has become almost a nullity. In the outside service those who have a political pull use it for all it is worth. They pass by their superior officers, and bring pressure to bear to procure anything that may prove to their advantage. As a rule the officials in the outside service are without hope and the majority of them

The recommendations of the commissioners, though revolutionary, are The first party leader to advocate civil service reform was Hon. George Graday it received the weighty indorsation of Hon. Clifford Sifton.

The examination is not an infallible exiterion of fitness. The candidate for public office who could make the highest number of marks in a written test might prove a misfit in his practical duties. The one undeniable advantage of the plan would be the removal of the apparatus of patronage, which is a millstone around the neck of the conscientious public men, and is unquestionably an incentive to pernicious forms of party activity.

THE FIFTY YEARS' RECORD

This is no exaggeration. "Somebody may think too much is being claimed for Psychine. The Dr. Slocum Company stands ready to donate $1,000 to any charitable institution if any statement or testimonial given concerning this great remedy cannot be verified, or is not found to be absolutely truthful and genuine.

is one continuous series of triumphs over disease. So wonderful has been that record that has never been told." Large numbers of people, many of them prominent in business and social circles, whose lives physicians had despaired of, have been permanently cured by PSYCHINE, but do not wish to have their names published. They faithfully recommend it, however, to their friends Let us mention a few of an innumerable host of volunteer witnesses to the power of PSYCHINE to cure when all other means were unavailing and, in some cases, where hope had fied:

R. DAVENPORT, Toronto, pronounced hopelessly incurable with tuberculosis by three prominent Toronto physicians, and sent by them to Weston Sanatorium for advanced cases of Consumption, cured by Psychine.

MRS. BURRELL, wife of Rev. C. E. Burrell, Baptist minister, Forest, was pronounced incurable. Her physician told Mr. Burrell that "the next dress he would have for the second form." he would buy for her would be a shroud." Permanently cured by Psy-

JOHN A. GALBRAITH, Forest, Ont., pronounced incurable from pneumonia and tuberculosis; physicians said he could live only a few weeks at most; cured by Psychine. A wonderful case. Facts vouched for by his pastor, Rev. C. E. Burrell; Baptist minister; Ralph E. Scott, druggist, Forest, and H. J. Pettypiece, ex-M.P.P., publisher Forest Free Press, who was so impressed with the cure that he personally interviewed Mr. Galbraith, and said the cure is regarded as a miracle by those who regarded as a miracle by those who know the facts.

BRYCE ALLAN, Jarvis, Ont., county councilor, says: "I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but got no relief from lung and stomach troubles. After two months' use of Psychine I am as sound as a bell. I give Psychine all the credit."

IMMIE REYNOLDS, the famous pedestrain, of Port Hope, says: "I was a martyr to catarrh of head, throat and stomach. Several physicians feared stomach. Several physicians feared consumption, but could give me no relief. Other remedies failed. I tried Psychine, and it cured me. It is the greatest medicine the world has ever known.

These are a few of tens of thousands of such cases. The evidence is overwhelming that PSYCHINE cures when physicians and all other remedies fail. All Throat, Lung and Stomach troubles must yield to the curative powers of PSYCHINE. Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Night Sweats, weak and run-down conditions and nervous exhaustion—the nerve avenues to Consumption and Death—are being cured in multitudes of cases while you are reading this. SAVE WHILE YOU EARN

Don't forget that each day brings you nearer to the time when your talents will no longer serve you as a money-earner while you earn—prepare for the future. Even the money of millionaires has to work for them -indeed, if they had not early put it to k they probably would not have been millionaires at all. In any case, your money should be working for you, and you may begin a savings account here with as small a sum as you please. It will earn 31/2 per cent interest. I will work for you.

SAYS HE WILL WIN

No Matter Who Runs Against Him

Hon. Adam Beck was present at the weekly whist meeting of the Conserv ative Club last night, and delivered a speech to the faithful. He intimated, during the course of it, that the elections would shortly be held, and also intimated that he would be an aspirant for the nomination of the Conservative party. Mr. Beck was confident that he would be elected, no matter who ran, or how many.

Mr. A. C. Pratt, M. P. P., for Norfolk, also spoke, and dealt with provincial issues at considerable length. He declared that the country was behind Hon. Adam Beck in his campaign for cheap power, and was confident that if he was defeated in London, there would be many constituencies that would be willing to have Mr. Beck represent them. Mr. Pratt thought the Government should be congratulated, not condemned, because it sent the Beck horses to England. Mr. T, G. Meredith, K. C., spoke on the power question, and declared that the Whitney Government was prevented from buying the Electrical Development Company because the Ross Government had promised the company not to enter into competition with them. This meant competition in the development, not the transmission, of power.

Mr. T. W. McFarland, president of the club, occupied the chair. A NEW CHURCH

FOR THE EAST END Methodists Will Build One at Pottersburg.

Rev. E. B. Lanceley, of Dundas Street Center Church, visited Pottersburg on Thursday evening and took charge of a meeting that was neld there to consider the building of a Methodist church. There are now over 700 people in the village and it is growing steadily.

At present there is only one church, which is of the Presbyterian denomination, and can only accommodate, at the outside, 300 people. In Potters-

The opportunity came soon, for Baldassarre forced himself into a gathering in the Rucellai palace, and there tried to tell his story. But the privations of his slavery and escape had worn his mind sadly. More and more often during his wanderings he had felt himself forgetting his learning strangely. And now, when Tito denied him and Bernardo Rucellai held out a Greek book to him and asked him to prove his claim that he was the scholar Baldassarre, the once familiar characters meant nothing to him. He looked around in a lost way, gave a great cry and fled.

If any at the gathering still suspected that the strange old man was not entirely mad they gave little thought to it, since they needed the supple, cunning Greek in the deadly game of politics that they were playing to bring the Medici back to power.

One of their plots was to assassinate Savonarola, who had become the greatest danger they had to fear. He had won the people over and had advanced from pulpit prophecy and denunciation to political activity. To Tito fell the task of luring the friar outside of the walls. With habitual prudence he fulfilled his duty wellbut at the same time he took pains to warn the priest not to venture without an escort. Thus, whichever side won, he had the confidence of

An accident disclosed his plotting, though not the full measure of his duplicity, to Romola. Hardly had she recovered from the shock before Baldassarre came to her and told her his story in a way not to be disbelieved. "They would not believe me," said he, "because he lied and said I was mad. And my knowledge is gone -all gone. I am old. My mind will not come back. But you will help me! He has been false to you, too. He has another wife and children."

Stumblingly, brokenly, he told her about Tessa, whose story he had learned easily after Tito's appearance at the little home. Romola thrust some money into his hand and went home stunned.

She had not yet gathered her thoughts to some semblance of clearness before a new and far more terrible blow fell upon her. Her godfather, Bernardo del Nero, was arrested with other members of his party and charged with high treason -and Tito, who had been one of the plotters, was the man who had rayed them in return for a high offishly and devotedly in its service. Romola never looked on Tito again, turned to stone. She heard him rise but fled to the Mediterranean. Fresh stock is made twice a week in summer, once a week in winter, of fresh bones, well cracked, and lean meat chopped. Fresh vegetables are added, and the soup kettle is thoroughly cleansed. A certain quantity of the new stock is strained and set aside for clear soups. The rest is the foundation of savory broths, etc. Left-overs of such vegetables as turnips, onlons and cabbage, of which but a "dab" remains, go into the stock pot. Use of Disinfectants

VERY household needs disinfecting, and the proper use of the ordinary deodorizers is knowfedge that every good housen er should have. Not only do these useful things make a house pleasanter to live in, but they also make it healthful. So many good disinfectants are on the market at the present time that there is a wide choice for the careful woman. They are classed under three headings:

Disinfectants which purify the water, air, clothes, etc.; antiseptica that arrest nutrefaction, and deodorizers that destroy disagreeable smells. Heat, of course, is a powerful disinfectant, and boiling water may be used when it is practicable and possible to reach the spot to be disinfected. When obliterating traces of disease -measles, scarlet fever, typhoid, diphtheria-burn sulphur in the room after stopping all cracks and crevices with newspapers, so that it will be airtight. During the illness a sheet saturated with a solution of carbolic acid should be hung over the doorways, even when the doors are shut, to protect the other members of the fam: ily from possible contagion.

Cleaning Glass Bottles

wash glass bottles or decanters the best method is to half fill them with cold water and then add potato peelings, tea leaves or shot. Shake them for a few minutes, then pour out the cold water and half fill with warm and a few drops of ammonia, rinse well, leave to drain and then polish with a soft cloth. Some women prefer a handful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. The mixture is poured into the bottle and allowed to stand. Then it is shaken until all marks are removed, when it is rinsed in cold water, dried and polished.

To Wash a Chamois

O wash a chamois make a lather of good white soap in soft water and stir, but do not rub. Then rinse in cold water, shake out, pull it into shape and lay to dry. When repeat the process until the chamois is quite dry and ready for use, otherwise it will stiffen.

THE HOUSEMOTHERS' EXCHANGE

As I write a boy is singing that whider my window, and I take up the refrain. Mine may seem an ignoble woe to those who are in real affliction. It is no slight matter to me. Dare I hope that you will lend a sympathizing ear?

I was brought up in the country, and kept very closely at home. My children have been educated far beyond what I ever dreamed of being. My sons, now that they are grown associate with lawyers, doctors, etc., and wish to bring them here some-Outside of what I read in your corner and in books upon social usages and the like. I know no more how to behave in company than my 4-year-old girl does. Are you too busy to tell me how to act in cer-tain circumstances, as you would a little child?

begin with, my eldest daughter and

To begin with, my eldest daughter and I do all the housework. You may not know how hard it is to entertain company in such circumstances. But I don't want my boys to be driven to seek home comfort elsewhere. And I don't want them to be ashamed of their mother and home ways.

1. Our family want to have their coffee poured after they sit down. I can't make the book teachings mix with our old ways. The table gets so crowded when everything is put on, yet we have no waltress.

2. Our hall is narrow. How shall I act when I go to the door? In simmer I go ahead into the parlor with the caller. How about winter, or in coel weather, when the door must be shut after the caller comes in?

3. The new friends whom we have had sit down to table with us are so little! Relatives and family eat heartily, as if the cooking were O. K. Should we insist upon visitors taking that which they refused?

4. In receiving an introduction what reply should I make when the other person says: "Pleased to meet you"? My 16-year-old girl says she never catches the mames in her fear lest the other may say: "I am pleased to meet you" before she has a chance to get it out.

Please instruct me as you would a little child.

My boys could entertain their new acquaintances at a hotel, but my girls, when they get older, could not.
I am afraid I have not expressed myself plainly. My education was limited, you see, and I have not much choice of words.

PERPLEXED HOUSEMOTHER (Buffalo, N. Y.).

Let me set your mind at rest on one point: you have told your tale of woe well, with no waste of words, and even graphically. I comprehend your position all the better because I have heard the same story from other housemothers, and seen it illustrated in homes from which no complaint has come. Our country is full of households in which the children have risen above their parents, so far as schooling and external refinement stand for superiority. When -as happens in eighty per cent. of such cases-the parents have forgetten how to learn new ways, and lost the power of adaptation to changed conditions, heartaches are inevitable and humiliations many.

There need be none of these with you. You wish to learn, and are not "set in your ways."

Take your queries in detail: 1. Have the coffee equipage on the table. Arrange the cups, etc., upon a tray at the head of the table, and set the coffee pot with them, covering it with a wadded "cozy" to keep it hot.

2. Step to the rear of the visitor, with a pleasant word of explanation, close the door and, still chatting, precede her to the parlor. I knew one cottage dweller whose staircase ran down so near to the front door that she had to step upon the bottom stair to let her callers pass into the house after she opened the door. She made a jest of the situation, even declaring to me that she "rather liked it! It offered a peg upon which to hang conversation."

3. The few friends honored by the invitation to sit at your hospitable board would have showed better breeding if they had pretended hunger when they did not feel it. I feel strongly upon this subject, so strongly as to assert here and elsewhere that "finical" eaters should stay at home at mealtimes, or go to hotels. When a woman asks me to take a meal in her house, it is my duty to eat of that which is set before me, whether I like it or not. I owe it to the genius of hospitality to sacrifice personal caprice to the comfort of my hosts. You proved yourself the truer lady -gentlewoman-in not pressing upon them the food they rejected. They were not obliged to partake of each dish. It was downright rudeness to refuse a majority of them.

4. When the other party to the introduction forestalls you in the conventional "I am happy to meet you!" reply simply, "Thank you! and I am glad to meet you!" emphasizing the last word slightly. Or a gracious intonation of the simple "Thank you!" is usually sufficient. Avoid stiffness on the one side and familiarity on the other. Above all, do not try so hard to seem at ease with the stranger as to become patronizing. That is the rock upon which many novices in social usages split. Patronage of anybody-be it President or bootblack -is underbred Finally, keep your eyes and ears open and put into practice what you learn. It is plain to read between the lines of your letter that you are at heart a gentlewoman. Rest serenely upon this persuasion, and ingraft upon the customs of your modest home such new "ways" as are compatible with even-empered living. Don't ape the fashione of people who-albeit no better born or bred than yourself-have more money to spend upon the appointments and habits of house and table. Wet your hands with cold water, and form the dough into eggshaped pones, tossing back and forth until you have the right form. Set a greased pan on top of the stove, Lay the pones in it, and leave it there until it is browned underneath. Then set upon the upper grating of the oven and brown quickly. Cornbread baked slowly is "soggy." Regulate the quantity of boiling water by the quality of meal used. Greem, or pearl, meal requires less. If scalded too much, the meal will be gummy, If too little, it will not mix and be bard to handle. Mrs. W. L. C. (Walthali Miss.).

Brightening Willow Chairs

Kindly aid a perplexed housewife by inserting in the Exchange directions for washing or brightening willow chairs. Mine is perfectly good, but soiled by being stored a long time. I should prefer to wash it, but if this may not be done satisfactorily how shall I color it? Or is there a varnish that is not sticky? I shall watch the Exchange for a reply. I am anxious to do it Mrs. G. (Selma, Ga.).

Dust the chair carefully with a soft cloth. Then, with another wrung out in kerosene, go all over it, not skipping a single cane or curve. If this does not clean it, have it painted, then varnished by a man who knows his business. I have a pair of lounging chairs of willowware which were painted and varnished twenty years partly dry rub between the hands and ago, and have not needed retouching since, although in active use for six

"Few failors make as good a garment as Progress Brand, but none at the price-none better at any price."

The chief reason why custom tailors can't give you the same value for the money as you get in Progress Brand, is because they won't go to the same expense in perfecting the details of every garment.

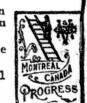

Progress Brand Suits and Overcoats are sewn with "Gilt Edge" Silk-the best pure dyed silk, which costs about twice what the usual tailors' silk costs.

Progress Brand Garments are made with finest Irish Linen Duck-thoroughly shrunken. Non-shrinkable Linen Tape stays the edges and prevents the coats from wrinkling in front. This tape costs three times at much as ordinary tape.

The makers of Progress Brand use more Haircloth and canvas than any other manufacturer of clothing in the country.

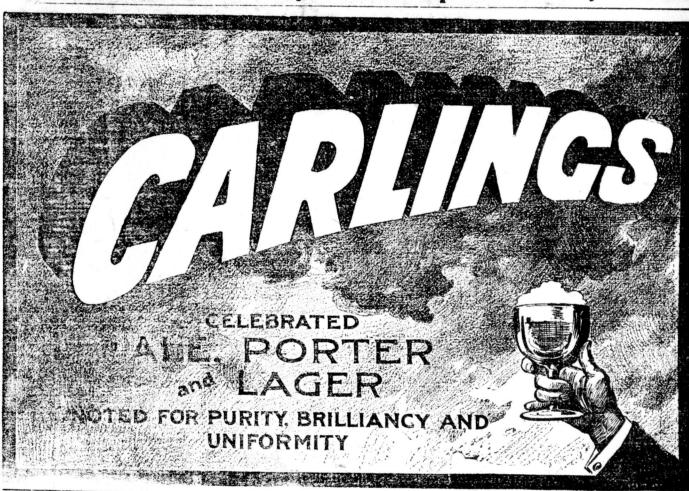

It is only by buying in enormous quantities, that the makers of Progress Brand can these expensive materials and still sell the finished garments at from 20% to 30% I.ESS than the tailors would have to charge for the same quality.

Add famous designers—skilled workmen—a model tailorey—and you can readily see why Progress Brand Clothing, AT ITS PRICE, stands matchless in Canada.

For A Million of Money BY ARTHUR W. MARCHMONT

She was at the window at the mo ment, and suddenly a plan occurred to her. To appeal for help to the young secretary who had been making signs to her, But unfortunately, he was not there that morning, for the first time since her inprisonment. She scanned all the other houses in the hope of seeing someone But every window was blank.

Every few minutes for the rest of the day she was at the window looking out for the secretary's return; and in the meantime, devising a scheme by which she could get a message to him.

The two rows of houses were separated by very short gardens; so short she was confident she could throw a stone from her window into his garden; and she looked anxiously round the room for some small heavy object to which she could attach a paper. She gave a little cry of delight as she found two small, glass paper weights, exactly suited for the purpose. With a paper tied carefully around one of them, she could easily throw it the requisite Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often effecting a permament cure.

Mrs. C. Townsend, Lockport, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of my experience with Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Cure for Drunkenness

Orrine Treatment to Be Used at Home Without Publicity or Loss of Time From Business.

The best aid to temperance is something that will strengthen the drunkard's wrecked nervous system and cure his unnatural craving for drink. We believe that any man who really desires to be cured of the liquor habit can cure himself by using Orrine. This remarkable treatment has made so many cures that we are glad to sell it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

It is in two forms: No. 1, that can be given secretly, and No. 2, for those who wish to be cured. It is not only the most reliable treatment known, but it is also "I am Olive Parmenter, and in up some needlework. tween the fact and the theory of heredity. No one doubts the fact, but scientists have not reached any agreement as to theory. The fact may be expressed thus: There is a biological law found operating throughout the whole organic world whereby beings tend to repeat themselves in their descendants, or whereby an individual receives from his parents his chief vital forces and tendencies his physi-

About this fact a vast amount of popular misunderstanding has gathered. Men and women settle down in fatalistic fashion under moral and physical weaknesses on the plea that these things are inherited from some ancestor who was a hard drinker and perhaps amused himself by beating his wife! In reality, a little exercise of the will, a strong appeal to dormant energies, would suffice to shake off these disabilities and restore normal health. Or again, people argue, "Like father, like son"; if the father has tuberculosis his child will fall a victim to the same disease. It should be clearly understood that the most recent researches disprove this notion.

What the father transmits to his child is not a disease; it is a condition of nervous instability which may predispose to, but does not necessitate, this or that disease. What we inherit may be described as instability of the nerve tissue whereby we have less of power of resistance against the various stresses and troubles of life.

Now, it is generally admitted that one of the main factors in producing nervous troubles is the predisposicion with which people are born. One individual comes into the world with a nervous troubles is the predisposition than is the case with others. He is not responsible for this fact; it is an original element in his particular con-

NERVOUS DEBILITY Thousands of young and middle aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through EARLY INDISCRETIONS, EXCESSES AND BLOOD DISEASES. If you have any of the following symptoms consult us before it is too late. Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes, with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, dreams and losses, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks careworn expression, poor memory. lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, weak manhood, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, sore throat etc.

BLOOD POISONS Blood Poisons are the most prevalent and most serious diseases. They sap the very life blood of the victim, and unless entirely cradicated from the system may affect the future generation. Beware of Mercury. It only suppresses the symptoms—OUR NEW METHOD cures them.

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT alone can cure you, and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches, and ulcers disappear, the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency vanish, the eye becomes bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical, and vital systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. Dont let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard carned dollars. We will oure you or no pay.

The first glance at your designs left me with a sense of disappointment, but every time I looked them over I became more and more conscious of the effort you had made. You have accomplished enough to make me very sorry that more did not undertake the lesson. A few of those who receive honor-

None are quite up to the necessary standard, but they can be brought up

After I speak of the general errors, I shall criticize the six best, so as to help you to feel what is or is not harmonious, and to enable you to criticize your own work to better purpose.

To the six best I will also give a personal criticism, if they will come to The Advertiser office after 4 o'clock next Wednesday, the first of April.

Their designs are full of possibilities and I imagine that I can see in each case just what they were striving for. At any rate I have many suggestions to make to them, and after they have worked their covers out

Don't neglect class criticism. All of these shortcomings would have been detected had the first rough sketches been put up before the class. Many, in fact more than half, trembled on the verge of being good.

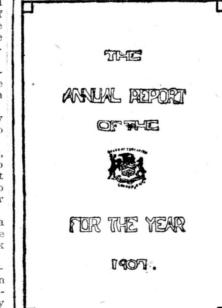

One cover showed a reversion to the old meaningless lines, which I thought you had outgrown. I was glad to see it, because it gave me fresh courage. for it measured the progress you have already made. Most of you have turned the corner a long way ahead of that pupil. He had better catch up. You can never make up for bad placing by filling up the unoccupied spaces with lines and flourishes.
