FARMERS ARE CALLING INDIGNATION MEETING

Brantford Township Residents Object To Being Side-Tracked For Hydro.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 22.—Warden Greenwood announced today that an indignation meeting will be called because of the failure to have Brantford Township in the list of twelve townships in which rural hydro lines will be constructed under the new deal, whereby the province pays half the construction cost.

The locals have been agitating for service for over a year, and before the bonusing was considered.

The separate school board has engaged Misses Lynch of Campbellford and Corrigan of Mount Forest, in addition to the four lady teachers of last year.

Vacant lots are a drug on the market here, house sales are few, but there is considerable demand for farms near the city. One agent has six city men who would exchange city property to get back on the farms, where they are assured of at least three meals a day.

The concrete foundation on the upper reaches of Brant avenue is so shallow that it is likely that the whole will have to be torn up or the level of the street raised. The surface is so shallow that the old surface will be removed.

Seasonable Rations For Farmers

USE BALANCED RATION FOR FEEDING POULTRY

To Attain Success It Is Necessary To Use Various Substances—Elements of Nutrition Must Be Present in Due Proportions.

The feeding of poultry is more or less like the feeding of any other stock, and the ration used must be varied according to the purpose for which it is intended. For successful feeding it is necessary to use grains, both whole and ground, green food, animal food, water liberally supplied, and grit and oyster shells. Charcoal may also be used to advantage.

These feeds must not only be supplied, but they must be excellently balanced so that they form a ration suited to the purpose for which it is intended. Such a ration is called a balanced ration.

A balanced ration is one that contains the elements of nutrition in the proper proportion required for the maintenance and activities of the animal to which it is fed.

Protein is the nitrogenous part of the food, and is largely used for growth, the repairing of waste tissue, and for production. The production of largely on the protein in the feed.

Carbohydrates are largely starches and sugars, and are used for the supplying of bodily heat and energy.

Fats are frequently classed as carbohydrates, but are more highly concentrated.

An overplus of protein in a ration may be used to replace a shortage of carbohydrates and fat, but as protein is the most expensive element to supply, it is not economical to use it for this purpose. Carbohydrates and fat, on the other hand, cannot take the place of protein, so that a ration deficient in protein, no matter how rich in carbohydrates and fat, cannot give good results.

Beside the three fore-mentioned elements, ash, which is the term used to designate the mineral compounds, is also of importance, as it enters largely in the formation of bones and eggshells, but as it is present in all or nearly all feeds, it is not necessary to supply it in any special quantity by the addition of grit, bones or oyster shells, very little attention need be given to it.

Grain Feeds and Their Products.

The grains most popular are wheat, corn and oats. Barley and buckwheat

HARVESTING IN WESTERN ONTARIO

Harvesting White Burley At Harrow Tobacco Station

The Split-Stalk Method Has Proven Best—Curing Method Much Shortened by Using This Process.

Of the various methods followed in harvesting tobacco, all of which have been tested on the Harrow tobacco station, the split-stalk method has proven to be the best, both from the standpoint of economy and the color of the cured leaf.

In following this method the procedure is as follows: Several days before harvesting the tobacco plants are distributed along every fourth row in the field; then when the tobacco is ripe it is harvested by splitting the stalk from the top of the plant to within about two inches of the bottom; the plant is then cut off and allowed to lie where it falls until wilted enough to handle without breaking. After it has wilted sufficiently, each harvester walks between two rows, placing the plants on the lath by merely slipping the lath in between the split halves of the plant. When the lath is in this manner, the plants will not fall off during the curing season and can be removed more easily and with less breakage after being cured than plants which have been cut.

It has been found on the station that men who have never followed this method could learn it with half an hour's practice and readily harvest more tobacco in a given time than by any other method.

By splitting the stalk the surface of the leaf is exposed to the sun and the curing process is shortened; and since the color of any cured tobacco depends upon the rapidity with which the moisture can be expelled at certain times in the curing process, it is obvious that splitting the stalk is an important factor in obtaining a satisfactory cure.

It has been found that the curing period of Burley was shortened from three to five weeks by splitting the stalk as compared with Burley which was not split; there were much fewer swollen stems in poor curing seasons, and, too, there was less danger of damage from pole-burn.

Hauling to Barn.

Due to the changeable weather which usually prevails at harvesting time, it is usually safest to haul the tobacco to the barn the same day it is harvested, or as soon as it is thoroughly wilted. However, in fair weather the tobacco may be scolded in the field or placed in small piles, after being struck on the lath, for about three days with safety, and frequently a quicker cure and better color is obtained by following that procedure. It is possible to haul the tobacco more closely in the barn, without danger of pole-burn after it has been placed on the lath for a few days; if left out too long the leaves exposed to the wind and sun get a weather-beaten appearance, which is never overcome.

Tobacco should be hauled to the barn on a wagon rack so constructed that the stalks hang on the rack in the same manner in which they hang in the barn. This practice eliminates crushing and also keeps the leaves separate, instead of packing them together, as is the case when hauled in on a flat rack. There is much less danger from pole-burn.

Tobacco should not be hung too closely in the barn. The leaves should barely touch, and while the distance between them will vary, according to size and the thoroughness with which it has been cleaned, it is usually best to use the right distance for the average crop.

D. D. Digges, superintendent, Harrow Tobacco Station.

Farmer and Banker Both Keenly Concerned in Crops

American Corn Yield Has Important Bearing on the Hog Market—Some Aspects of Agriculture South of the Border.

The skillful corn belt farmer stands, not in the traditional relation of agriculturist to banker, but in the relation of manufacturer to banker. Since the major portion of the American corn crop is marketed in the form of hogs, and hence ultimately as pork products, he is not primarily the producer of a raw material, but the maker of a highly finished product.

A result of this clean-cut relation of the farmer to his banker, whereby he is a borrower on a short time basis and against self-liquidating assets, is the extension of the use of bank checks. This has reached proportions undreamed of by the dweller in large cities. This substitution of bank credit for cash in country communities is one of the great accomplishments of American banking.

The period of unusual agricultural prosperity which terminated with the price declines of 1920, afforded an opportunity for the entire corn-belt to establish itself on the satisfactory financial basis of the older parts of the country. This in large measure it failed to do.

Failure to take advantage of a favorable situation was not through lack of desire to do so, but failure to understand how it could best be done. The great prosperity of the war years, the latter part of 1919, and the first five months of 1920, was quite as new an experience to country bankers as it was to the farmers who were their customers.

Opportunities Missed.

Farmer and country bankers did not differ from other large sections of the business community in their lack of knowledge of how to take advantage of prosperity. The form of investment they knew best was investment in land. Efforts on the part of farmers to invest their capital in secure corn land which promised good profits because of high prices resulted in speculation in farm lands, which has left the country face to face with a farm mortgage problem.

LISTLESS, PEEVISH GIRLS

When a girl in her teens becomes listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and dainties do not tempt her appetite, you may be certain she needs medicine. It is not that her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches, and breathlessness and heart palpitation will confirm that she is anemic. Many mothers as the result of their own girlhood experience can promptly detect the early signs of anemia, and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop further, but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renew the blood supply and banish anemia before it has obtained a hold upon the system.

Out of their experience thousands of mothers know that anemia is the sure road to worse ills. They know the difference the good red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every gasp for breath that follows the slightest exertion by the anemic girl, every pain she suffers in her back and limbs are reproaches if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood, and the only sure way to do so is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

New, rich red blood is infused into the system by every dose of these pills. From this new rich blood springs good health, an increased appetite, new energy, high spirits and perfect womanly development. Give your daughter Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and take them yourself, and note how promptly their influence is felt in better health.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail post-paid at 60 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Another Enemy of the Farmer

Sir,—Your recent article in The Advertiser on the potato beetle is timely, as it shows what can be done to stay the destructive march of most of the farmers' enemies. If the proper precautions are taken in time, in my opinion the potato beetle will not now on will have a more destructive pest to combat, judging by the work it is doing this year, than the potato beetle ever was, by nearly 100 per cent.

You state that it was a great pity that the agricultural department adopt some method, even if it should be drastic, to stop the onward march of the borer. Our latest information is that the department officials are still experimenting on ways to control or destroy it, and they have been experimenting for the past two or three years, and each year the pest is spreading over a larger territory, and will be more costly to combat. I have personally examined the corn on twelve different farms this year, and each field was more or less infested, two of them so badly that 50 per cent of the stalks will be of no value by cutting time.

It has been said, and truly, that criticism is all right if constructive and not foolish enough to expect war prices for their products, but they think they are entitled, at least, to war prices.

My suggestion is this: The Provincial Government should pass a law authorizing all township councils to appoint an inspector (the same as a weed inspector) to inspect all corn fields in his township; fields that are badly infested to be cut and burned as soon as dry, and the owner to receive a percentage of the cost, the same as in a case of tuberculosis in cattle. Why not a law that the owner of a field who is only slightly infested, the owner should be compelled to go through and cut all stalks infested and to burn them.

In my opinion this is the outline of the best plan that will check or effectively combat it. In conclusion, I would ask that if anyone else has a better remedy, just trot it out. It is time we got busy.

Hoping this little note or takes up too much of your valuable space, I am, yours truly, F. E. ADAMS.

R. R. 2, Gleanworth.

HOW TO PREVENT DISEASE IN HIVE

American and European Foul-Brood Ought To Be Carefully Guarded Against.

HOW TO PREVENT—FARMING

Beekeepers will very shortly begin to take off the crop. Extracted honey producers, who have disease in their yards or in the district, and who do not intend the brood nest for four-brood before removing the crop should number each super the same as the hive-stand number, and should further number each frame in each hive body and set to it that every frame gets back into its own super, or at least into a super which has the same number as the hive-stand it came from. If this precaution were taken the beekeeper who finds disease in his brood next after the supers have been removed and honey extracted would know which supers to destroy. He would also know that the combs from the diseased colony were not distributed among the supers of several other colonies, as is many times the case.

This shifting of combs from super to super in extracting is one of the foul-brood. It is a disadvantage which is not encountered in the production of comb-honey and for that reason some of our extracted-honey producers, who are in badly infested areas are turning to the production of comb-honey. It is also good policy to allow a limited number of colonies to do all of the cleaning up of combs after extracting, in this way limiting the probability of spread of disease. The disease problem has arrived to the point where it is necessary for every honey producer to exercise his best judgment and utmost care in every manipulation. No matter how much money is appropriated for disease eradication, the ultimate success of the project lies in strict co-operation by the beekeepers themselves.

EARLIEST HARVEST IN THE MEMORY OF FARMERS

A Considerable Quantity of Grain Has Been Threshed in Fields.

Following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The harvesting season is said to be the earliest in the memory of Ontario farmers. Some have already completed the cutting of their grain, although others are now engaged with their cuts. A considerable quantity of grain is being threshed in the fields.

What barley and oats have been threshed has been a disappointment. The general yield is below the average and in the case of oats much of it is light in weight. Rust is also reported. Very little grain so far has been marketed.

Corn is likely to be the most satisfactory crop of the season for both the crib and the silo, although Lambton reports the presence of considerable smut.

Wheat speaks encouragingly of the prospects of the bean crop.

Buckwheat is in full bloom, and at present promises a generous yield.

Potatoes as a rule are yielding poorly, although in a few good fields have been reported.

Most of the sales of hay during the week were made around $20 a ton for this year's cut.

Do Not Set Out Fire Without a Permit

THE welfare of new agricultural communities in this Province requires that land clearing be done with the cheapest agent at hand—Fire. Therefore, restrictions must hamper settlers as little as is consistent with safety to lives and property. Disastrous experience proves that in hot, dry weather unregulated use of fire in thickly wooded Northern Ontario means a menace to the lives and property of settlers and destruction of the provincial forest resources upon which a large part of Ontario's revenue and the livelihood of thousands of her citizens depend.

That is why Ontario adopted a "Close Season" and the "Permit System" for setting out fire. But, remember, whether you have a permit or not, you are responsible for damages caused by any fire you light. Be careful!

Save Ontario's Forests They're Yours

The "Close Season" for setting out fire in Northern Ontario is from April 15th to September 30th. During that time within the Permit Area no one may set out fire for clearing land, disposing of debris or other inflammable waste, or for any industrial purpose, without first obtaining a written fire permit from a Fire Ranger. This applies not only to settlers but to railway section crews, camp and mill crews, road builders, including Government employees, and all other persons.

The remainder of the Province forms the Exempt Area. Within the sparsely populated Exempt Area no permits are generally issued, but those setting out fires in the "Close Season" are required to exercise every reasonable precaution and a Chief Fire Ranger, if he deems it wise, may serve a Prohibitory Notice and require a person to take out a permit.

The Fire Ranger does his best to follow the happy medium between the desire of the settler to "get a good burn" and the requirements of Public Safety. Help him all you can.

COMMISSION DECLARES PROPOSED HYDRO-RADIALS ECONOMICALLY UNSOUND

Expenditure of $45,000,000 Would Be Unwise in View of Rapidly Mounting Debt of the Province—Minority Report Favors Going On With Work.

London, Aug. 12.—The system of electric railways which the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is proposed to construct at a cost of $45,000,000 is declared by the Sutherland minority committee, which sat 112 days and took 13,376 pages of evidence, to be "unwise and economically unsound." The commission calls attention to the rapidly mounting debt of the province and the position of the province and the position of the province and the position of the province.

strongly advised to discontinue indexing hydro-radial bonds, and thus avoid possible serious financial difficulties. The majority report is signed by Hon. Mr. Justice Sutherland, chairman of the commission; Brig.-Gen. C. H. Mitchell, W. A. Amos and A. P. McCullum, C. O. Not So Gloomy. A less gloomy pronouncement is found in the minority report signed by Fred Bancroft, the remaining member of the commission. He accepts the estimates of the hydro commission's engineers that the radials would be self-supporting, and recommends that an early start be made on construction work. He mentions the unemployment situation in Canada, and declares that the hydro commission's estimates of the cost of construction are "unrealistic and exaggerated." He also declares that the hydro commission's estimates of the cost of construction are "unrealistic and exaggerated."

What to Use and Avoid On Faces That Perspire

Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It must expel its waste material. Certain cream powders clog the pores, interfering with elimination and breathing. If women understood this, there would be fewer skin-ruined complexions. They would use ordinary mercerized soap. This remarkable substance gently absorbs bad skin, also unsealing the pores. Result: The fresher, younger under-skin is permitted to breathe. The complexion gradually peeps out, free from any appearance of artificiality. Obtain an ounce of mercerized soap from your druggist and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream for a week or two, washing it off mornings. It removes wrinkles, here's a miraculously effective treatment, which acts naturally and harmlessly, gives an ounce of powdered sassafras, half-pint which hazel and use as a wash.

ORLS! LEMON JUICE BLEACHES FRECKLES

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a glass containing three ounces of hard water. Which any drug store supply for a few cents, shake well. You have a quarter pint of the best skin and tan lotion, and complexion tender.

CORNS

Get Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly the corn stops hurting, then shortly you get it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

properly be called an essential public utility or real necessity. "One of the things that attracted our attention was the apparent inequities in the division of apportionment among the municipalities of the capital cost in connection with the proposed system of electric railways. The large amounts allotted to some of the townships which had a comparatively small population to be served and benefited seemed difficult of explanation."

More Than Trebled. The majority report then calls attention to the rapidly mounting debt of both the Dominion and of Ontario. In the case of Ontario the debt had grown from $30,000,000 in 1915 to $157,000,000 in 1920.

Responsibility for the purchase of the proposed hydro-radial bonds is next dealt with. After learning that the hydro commission had issued bonds to the extent of $12,500,000 on account of the Port Credit and St. Catharines line, all of which were said to have been guaranteed by the province, the Sutherland commission asked the attorney-general for a statement of all moneys advanced by the province on account of the hydro commission's bonds, and the extent to which the Port Credit and St. Catharines bonds had been indorsed and sold.

Somewhat Previous. In reply details were received of an expenditure of $1,254,311 on account of the proposed hydro-radial bonds, notwithstanding the fact that the question of whether the province would or would not indorse the hydro commission's electric power commission, for the scheme had not as yet been determined. The commission found that this expenditure had been made on authority of an order-in-council by the late Governor in Council, providing for the issue of bonds from time to time "on account of the Port Credit and St. Catharines undertakings."

Could Be Sold. The report adds: "If our view as to the inadvisability of the construction of the project is given effect, then the question of these expenditures so far as the province is concerned, is closed. The rights-of-way could, no doubt, be sold for substantial sums or the hydro commission could be liquidated for the $23,548,235 for, said to have been contracted for before July 21, could no longer be paid for by the province. The Government would have to deal with the question of any deficiency or loss in the whole matter, and also with the disposition of the balance of the bonds, namely, $10,160,360, which are said to be in the vaults of the Bank of Montreal, and which, unless and unless, and according to the present Government, not available for expenditure unless it decides to proceed with the work."

After Questioning the Reliability of the hydro estimates of construction costs and possible revenue, the report continues: "The hydro-electric power commission in fact seems to have consulted no man of operating experience, but relied mainly on their own officials who were inexperienced in this particular kind of work. Questioning the advisability of building new railways in Western Ontario the report doubts whether any other section of Canada or the United States is better served by railways."

The reports holds that the success of the power enterprise is no guide in estimating the outlook for radials because the field for power was open and non-competitive. The proposal of the hydro commission to build roads to carry traffic from forty to sixty miles an hour is also deemed unwise and unnecessarily costly. Toronto, the report says, does not require a suburban service exceeding twenty miles an hour. The hydro commission, it is said, is much too optimistic regard to the possible passenger revenue. The estimates are alleged to be based on population figures which do not exist. The hydro commission's expectation of an operating ratio of 55.7, the report holds, is unattainable.

Offers Suggestion. In conclusion, the majority report presents a suggestion of a radial scheme for Toronto district. Some of the outstanding points in the Bancroft minority report are that the proposed radials could not be financed advantageously without the guarantee of the province that there should be complete harmony between the hydro commission and the Government, that the radials should be regarded as supplementary to the steam railways, that the radials would not suffer from competition with motor truck traffic, and that the hydro estimates were not successfully attacked in the course of the investigation.

May Call Meeting. TORONTO, Aug. 12.—"From conversations I have had with the executive I have no doubt instructions will immediately be given to call a meeting of the Hydro Radial Association as soon as possible," said T. J. Hannigan, secretary of the Ontario Hydro Radial Railway Association, tonight regarding the report of the Sutherland hydro radial commission. "The executive will meet at once and a certain notice must be given to the municipalities. The matter will be taken up vigorously."

Hannigan Surprised. "It is a corker," added Mr. Hannigan, when the various objections raised by the commission were read to him. "They said the same thing about light and power, but the municipalities feel they have made quite a success of public ownership along those lines. The same thing should be true of radials. Let the people know that we will meet what course to follow, and when we meet we shall fight." Premier Drury, communicated with over the telephone at his home at Crown Hill, stated that he would not say anything for publication regarding the report until he returned to his office at Queen's Park. He added that he expected to be back in Toronto on Tuesday, and would then most probably make a statement to issue regarding the findings of the commission and the intentions of the Government in consequence.

FREIGHT RATES ON LIVESTOCK WILL BE GREATLY REDUCED

New Tariffs Are Practically Same As Pre-War Figures.

MONTEAL, Aug. 12.—Freight rates on livestock will be reduced practically to pre-war levels when the new tariffs of the Canadian Pacific Railway go into effect on Monday next, it was stated by the transportation bureau of the board of trade today. Last January five per cent was cut off the 40 per cent increase granted a year ago and the new rates will wipe out the other 35 per cent. It was also stated that the reduction was part of the general policy of the railways to reduce freight rates wherever possible and it is anticipated that before long there will be similar reductions in other products. It was pointed out that these reductions will be a great help to farmers shipping stock into Montreal, and that it might have some effect in slightly lowering market prices.

DETROIT, Aug. 12.—Seventy-five troops from the Michigan State Constabulary of Lansing reported for duty tonight to the Michigan Public Safety Commission. The detachment will be divided into patrols, operating along the American side of the Detroit River and portions of Lake St. Clair for the purpose of suppressing the wholesale influx of Canadian beer which is much in evidence since the decision of Magistrate Gandy allowing export to United States without interference by the Canadian authorities. The troops are to "get every bottle of beer and whiskey that is brought over from Canada."

HARRISTON HOME IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

HARRISTON, Aug. 12.—Fire broke out this afternoon in the home of John Reeves on King street, and partially gutted the house and contents. The cause of the fire is not known. The fire brigade responded to the first alarm, but in a manner unsatisfactory to Fire Marshal Bishop, who was in town at the time. This town does not support a permanent fire brigade, but a volunteer brigade, at a small salary, and when this fire occurred several of the members were employed some distance from the scene of the conflagration. There was a small insurance on the property. The remains of Melvin Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gibson of Drew, arrived here on Friday via C. P. R. from the west, where he died, accompanied by his mother, who had gone to Calgary a few days ago. The funeral will take place to Harriston Cemetery on Saturday afternoon. The return baseball game between Durham and Harriston will be played in the former town on Monday instead of Friday. The locals are going up, with Durham leading by one run.

ART AND RELIGION.

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul, As the swift seasons roll, Leave thy low vaulted past!"

The meaning of the term art varies with almost every definition. Twenty lines of Webster hardly suffice for bare outlines. There are arts useful and arts aesthetic—musical art, literary art and dramatic art.

Art is not religion, but is closely allied to the spiritual and religious. Hence it is proper and important to consider its relation with religion and its value as an expression and a teacher of Christian truths.

The Soviet Government has reported that there are 27,000 cases of cholera, and this may be regarded as a conservative estimate of the number of victims of the dreadful malady.

The Supreme Council of the Allies is now considering remedial action, including preventive measures for the spread of the cholera to the overseas dominions, and it is incumbent on the dominions themselves to ardently co-operate in the action which may be taken.

THE FASHIONS

A TRIO OF FALL HATS.

Although the Spanish influences are the strongest note of the season about to be inaugurated, there are other types offered in millinery, among these being the beret and the large hand-blocked hat, with its clear-cut lines and often irregular brims.

Definite line spaces. The comment has been made by one of the high-class importers that the soft hat will be dropped this season for the shape with the very definite lines.

Of course, the soft hat will always have its place for certain types in sport lines and for the coming embroidery and novelty tams, but for the dressy hat there must be a distinctness of line.

The leading French modistes have worked along the line of the clear-cut hat, and even the crown has been the result of this, for there is not nearly as much of the draping as has been evidenced in past seasons. But to return to the fascinating subject of things novelty tams, but for the dressy hat there must be a distinctness of line.

small and indefinite pattern, and in the same color as the leather itself.

Colored Spanish Combs. There are more and more Spanish combs seen in model hats, quite a few of these in the imitation tortoise shell. It is in the brilliant colors such as the jade and rose tones and the soft hyacinth blue that these are employed, probably for the reason that the bright colors distinguish the pin as an ornament rather than a hair dress. Peacock fancies are in great demand and are included in a goodly portion. There are very long peacock floss that are made into fancies in the silvered effects.

AT CUPID'S CALL

BY MAY CHRISTIE. Copyright, 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

LI.—THE NET TIGHTENS.

Eve was losing heavily at cards. The country neighbor and she were playing with Julian Vandave and her brother, and were being badly beaten.

Eve did not know that Julian earned a quite remunerative living at this quiet quarter.

The game went on. Things went from bad to worse. Eve—flushed, rather bad of eye, her mouth drawn into a thin, unbecoming line—played desperately.

"Heaven alone knows how I'll meet my debts!" thought Eve, distracted.

At that moment she felt she hated Carrington Bellairs, her cautious guardian. He was so rich, so prosperous. Five hundred dollars would cover several evenings' losses, including tonight's disaster.

A vague thought began to form in Eve's active brain. "I would not let her have the money, she must take it! She was not going to be disgraced—marked down as a defaulter—in the eyes of all her friends."

Julian Vandave could exact payment of some sort—she knew it. She did not wish to be indebted to him. Besides—if she didn't pay up, she might lose him. He would think she was too poor for him to condescend to—utterly beneath his notice.

At midnight the game stopped, and Eve and her partner surveyed each other ruefully.

"My gods! What a whacking!" The neighbors seemed only slightly depressed. "But, never mind, Miss Eve. We'll have our revenge tomorrow evening. We won't let these two 'sharks' get off scot-free. We won't!"

There is so much of the "sporting" in her laugh rang hollow. Julian Vandave was smiling a peculiar smile. His hold on this young girl was doubly strengthened now. The game was surely his.

The four of them shook hands and parted with a show of heartiness. Poor Eve!

Her chaperone was still sitting in the far corner of the hall, where Mary Drew had left her. Eve strolled over to say good-night.

And then her eye rested on a small, shining object lying on the floor beside the sofa. She stooped and picked it up. Her aunt failed to notice the movement.

The object proved to be a cheap little pearl brooch. Eve recognized it as the property of Mary Drew. Mary's handkerchief, initialed, lay on the floor beside the brooch.

Without a word, Eve picked the two articles up and slipped them into her bodice. She bade her chaperone a careless good-night and strolled up to bed.

But, once alone in the privacy of her own room, she examined the handkerchief and the little brooch with eager eyes. Yes, they both belonged to Mary Drew—without a doubt.

"I'll risk it!" Eve's mouth tightened into a hard, determined line. "No possible suspicion could fall upon my head."

She waited until the house was wrapped in silence. She heard her guardian going to his room, the closing of his door.

Eve's ethics held more than one curious "kink." "Doing evil that good might come of it—stealing in order to 'pay up'—robbing her guardian's safe in order to be classed as 'honest'—according to Eve's code, all this was perfectly legitimate."

How silent the whole house lay. A clock struck the hour of 1 a.m.

Noislessly she opened her bedroom door and listened. Silence everywhere! She found the safe electric lock, and very stealthily proceeded down the corridor, having first removed her slippers.

If anyone should discover her peregrinations she could easily say that she had "found" something in the hall, and was going down to collect her lost property.

One must always keep one's head. If Carrington Bellairs should actually find her tampering with his safe it was not likely that he would summon the police. Her father had been a bosom friend of his—and for his friend's sake he would let her go.

WINDSOR, Aug. 12—Because sure-ty to sundown is stipulated by the Canada customs act as the hours for the raising of the sun on cars going intended for export to the United States, this regulation can in no way affect night running of beer from the Windsor border shores to the United States. A. T. Montreuil, collector of customs and excise at this port, intimated today.

JEWEL CARMEN AS A ROLE OF 'THE SILVER LINING' AT LOEW'S THEATRE.

Something unique in the line of picture plays will be presented at the Loew's Theatre next Thursday when 'The Silver Lining' a Metro release, starring Jewel Carmen, will begin a three-day run. The novel manner in which this gripping story, founded upon real life, is presented adds attraction to the picture in which appears a cast famous in both the stage and screen world. 'The Silver Lining' is a story which deals with the widely divergent careers of two girls, one brought up as a crook and the other as a society belle. As the lovely crook girl who wins some ways and keeps with a ready soul for her victims, Jewel Carmen gives a wonderfully attractive portrayal. Leslie Austen as the much-sought-after author disposes of her chapters, startlingly different from the usual view. The famous dancers, Carl Haysen and Dorothy Dickson, add a popular feature. Virginia Vail, Julia Swayne Gordon, J. Herbert Frank, Edwards Davis, Marjorie Covard, Charles Theodor, Babcock, Charles Wellesley, Henry Seelye, Julie Powers, Arthur Donaldson and Paul Everton are others in this noted cast.

DOWNFALL IN PRICE OF WHEAT OCCURS IN LAST HOUR ON BOARD

Bearish Crop Estimates From France and Canada Depress Market.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Bearish crop estimates from France and Canada tended somewhat to depress the wheat market today. Prices closed unsettled, 1/2¢ to 2¢ net lower, with September $1.23 1/2@1.23 3/4, and December $1.25 1/2@1.25 3/4. Corn lost 1/2¢ to 1c, and soybeans 1/4¢ to 1/2¢. In provisions the outcome varied from a decline to a rise of 2 1/2¢.

Fluctuations in the price of wheat took place chiefly during the last hour of trading, the market earlier having been steadied by commission house demand based to a large extent on the assumption that sooner or later export business would develop a sufficient volume to absorb all the wheat surplus in this country and Canada. Confidence in this view, however, received an unexpected jolt from a statement by the French minister of agriculture putting the yield of wheat this season in France at 40,000,000 bushels above current trade figures and asserting that foreign purchases had exceeded the country's requirements by 25,000,000 bushels. The Canadian crop was officially estimated at 288,000,000 bushels as against 262,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Late reports from Ontario, York that England had bought 800,000 bushels failed to rally the market and so, too, did annual meat trade exporters had taken 300,000 bushels here.

Liberal country offerings weakened corn, December touching the lowest level yet this season. Oats, like corn, lacked support.

Provisions average lower as a result of scattered selling, which more than counterbalanced the effect of higher quotations on hogs.

NO CLEARANCE PAPERS ISSUED AT SARNIA

Brewers' Agents Are Awaiting Instructions Before Making Shipments.

SARNIA, Aug. 12.—According to information received from the local customs officials, no clearance papers have been given out at this port to owners of speed boats for the purpose of taking liquor over the St. Clair River into the state of Michigan. Port Huron authorities announced tonight that they would be on the watch for all such cargoes, and that if attempts were made to land them there they would be seized and held pending the action of a Port Huron court decision.

Sarnia officials announced that they had no official statement to make concerning the issue, and it was stated that no action would be taken until some person applied for the necessary clearance papers. There are brewery agencies here, but they have not received notices from their head offices and like the custom officials they are waiting information. According to these in touch with the situation in this district, there is little likelihood of much "wet goods" being shipped out of Sarnia over the St. Clair River.

POLICE SAY GIRL ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

WINDSOR, Aug. 12.—First aid treatment administered by police officers at headquarters shortly before 1 o'clock this morning saved the life of 19-year-old Verona Badger, 313 Wyandotte street east, who, police say, attempted to do away with herself by swallowing 15 cents worth of poison, which she purchased late yesterday.

Sergeant John Burns found the girl in a weak condition at Langlois avenue and Wyandotte street east. The officer said she confessed swallowing the poison when brooding over the horror of approaching ill-health.

The girl comes from Chatham, where her home is said to be at 68 St. Clara street. She is being held by the police, who are charging her with attempted suicide.

"SILENT REVOLUTION" IN GREAT BRITAIN; RESULT OF CONFERENCE

Sir Philip Gibbs Says Council of Dominion Chiefs Accomplished Quiet Upheaval of Empire - Sees Hopes in Shaking Off by Insular Britain of Burdens Too Heavy For One People To Bear - Europe Must Save Russia in Order To Save Herself.

BY SIR PHILIP GIBBS, (Special To The Advertiser.) LONDON, Aug. 13.—I don't know how far my readers understand the historical change that has happened in England during the weeks that England during the imperial premiers returned home after their conference in London.

It is certain that the English people themselves, who are forgetting, or are trying to forget, life's worries in a holiday spirit, were sea horses come riding below white cliffs, do not realize yet that something of their power has passed, and that their little island, so passed, and its history, has surrendered its absolute authority over the countries bounded by the spirit of their race.

Yet that is what happened in its revolution, though beyond calculation in future consequences. In a recent article I pointed out that the British dominions and South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, no longer subordinate and subservient to Britain, but are on an equality with free peoples, with freedom in judgment and action in all policies which affect the common interests of the British family of peoples and their own self-government. This is now being stated officially in London, though the British Empire has not been embodied in any standing order which may yet be passed.

Gloomy Forecasts. There are many who will see in this change the beginning of the break-up of the British Empire, and who will rejoice accordingly if they have a grudge against it. In London the old fogies, deep in civic traditions, shake their heads mournfully and say: "Our sun is setting. Old England has lost her place."

But I see no more cause for sadness. There is no one to whom I feel any longer bound to be obedient to his slightest nod, no longer willing to accept his word as law, and I believe that timely recognition of this altered relationship by British statesmen will save the British Empire from speedy disintegration and decay at the heart, which is England.

I believe it will be a revitalizing spirit, good for the peace and progress of humanity, especially in a closer relationship of nations, as seems likely now with the people of the United States working for the same purpose. England's Burden. I confess that a long time after the war I held gloomy views about the future of Great Britain, unless there was a new spirit at work, for with us the boundary now subject to the question to the council of the League of Nations, which consists of representatives of the four countries, in addition to representatives of Brazil, China and Spain.

Report Findings. The eight members of the league council are requested to report back their findings to the four members of the supreme council for final judgment. Friends of the League of Nations expressed delight tonight over the reference of what is deemed the most difficult and dangerous question in European politics to the League of Nations, a fortnight before the assembly in Geneva, and the three principal powers of Europe, thus recognizing the high authority of the league.

Others with less confidence in the league doubt the probability of being able to agree upon a boundary line any more than the prime ministers. The last session of the supreme council will be held tomorrow morning. It is expected to last only a few hours. Lord Curzon, with the remainder of the British delegation, will leave Paris shortly after noon.

Much To Be Done. The inter-allied military commission, which is sitting at Versailles, under the chairmanship of Marshal Foch, reported today to the supreme council that much still remains to be done as regards the disarmament of Germany and the control of her armaments. The decision to refer the Upper Silesian boundary to the council of the League of Nations was reached today after it had become evident to Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Briand that it was impossible to reach a compromise between the British and French viewpoints. A meeting of the supreme council was immediately summoned, and the Premier Brian, who had been in London, had arisen between the British and French and had been decided to refer the whole question to the league council for present action. Mr. Lloyd George asserted that he was in full accord with the proposal, and that he had agreed last night with Mr. Briand that this was the proper course.

No Disagreement. "This is not a disagreement between Great Britain and France," said Mr. Lloyd George. "The Italian experts take the same as the Japanese contact. This is no reflection on the French Government and its experts and it is important to say the British experts are pressing their single view on France. The difference is due, not to the problem itself, but to the excited state of public opinion and therefore we have the right to seek some other tribunal, although a majority of the council call one view and France is alone in taking another."

Mr. Lloyd George declared it was not for the Supreme Council to say how the league should handle the question, but that the whole council should refer the matter and not a single power. "We have made concessions in the hope of a settlement," Mr. Lloyd George continued, "but the league, of course, cannot be bound by these. They must review the whole matter from top to bottom and we shall accept the decision without demur."

M. Briand on behalf of the French Government, then asserted that France also would accept the decision of the league council with a few exceptions. Signor Bonomi, the Italian Premier, approved the plan. He said Italy was ready to send reinforcements, pending the decision of the league. Baron Hayashai of the Japanese delegation, declared that he agreed with the others that reference to the league council was the correct thing to do.

Dover Township Farmer Fought Animal For Half An Hour. [Special To The Advertiser.] WALLACEBURG, Aug. 12.—While William Robertson was driving in his cattle to his farm between the 13th and 14th concessions, Dover Township, today a huge Durham bull suddenly became infuriated and turned on him. Mr. Robertson hung onto the bull by the ring in its nose for nearly an hour, but was finally thrown by the bull's horns. A Belgian passing by saw the fight and ran to the rescue with a pitchfork. Mr. Robertson sustained a broken collarbone and three broken ribs. He was greatly weakened by his battle for life and is suffering greatly from shock.
