Rain and Cold Retards Operations, But the Russians Appear To Be on the Offensive.

RUSSIAN CRUISER BAYARIN REPORTED DESTROYED

Mukden, Oct. 19, 5 a.m.—Yesterday passed off quietly. No firing was heard last night. The Japanese appear to be slowly falling back. A glare seen above their encampments may indicate that they are burning their stores prior to withdrawal.

This morning broke chilly, but clear So soon as the roads are dryer a resumption of the battle is probable, as the Russians everywhere are in close touch with the Japanese.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19.—The Emperor has received from General Kuropatkin under date of Oct. 18, the following dispatch: During the night the Japanese attacked our advanced positions at Lone Tree Hill, but they were repulsed. No reports have been received of any other engagements. Everything was quiet at all our positions up to 10 o'clock this morning. Rain fell all night, and the roads have been greatly damaged.

A complete veil hides the movements east, but both Kuropatkin's and Sakharoff's representatives say there were collisions on that portion of the battle ground Monday or Tuesday. Field Marshal Oyama evidently considers that Lone Tree Hill from which Kuropatkin could pivot a turning movement against his left, to be of vital importance, as both Monday and Tuesday nights, the latter during a terrific storm, made desperate efforts to recapture it, accompanying the assaults with demonstrative attacks against other points. But all the efforts failed. Neither Kuropatkin nor Sakharoff, in the dispatches given out this morning, send details of the defeat of Yamada's column and the capture of the Japanese guns. Pitiful pictures are painted by the war correspondents of the shelterless troops bivouacking in the cold rain, the roads converted into quagmires and the streams flooded.

A Deadlock.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19, 1:45 p.m. — The flush of enthusiasm yesterday evening over the capture of Lone Tree Hill and Shakhe, the repulse of the attacks of the Japanese left, and the hard drubbing given General Yamada, with the capture of fourteen additional guns, has given way this morning to a calmer and more sober appraisement of these partial successes. There is no official confirmation of the report that General Kuropatkin had resumed a genuine offensive, that the rather general Japanese offense had exhausted itself and that the position of the armies is now a sort of deadlock, with the country rendered so sodden by the heavy rains as to compel a temporary suspension of general operations.

London, Wednesday, Oct. 19. — A dispatch from Shanghai to the Morning Post says it is reported there that the Japanese shells have sunk the cruiser Bayarin in the harbor of Port Arthur.

London, Wednesday, Oct. 19, 2:30 a.m. —St. Petersburg has been cheered by the report that Gen. Kuropatkin has resumed the offensive, and by the news of the defeat of the Japanese command of Gen. Yamada, and the capture of Lone Tree Hill, which is represented to be the key to the position in the southwest front's contending armies. If the report of the advance is authentic and the Russians have crossed the south side of the Shakhe River, a later rise in that stream may have produced conditions seriously threatening failure of Gen. Kuropatkin's plans for, it is believed, the advance force will be cut off from the reserves and the base of supplies and retreat rendered problematical. It is, however, questionable if the advance movement had proceeded to the point indicated. There seems no immediate prospect of a cessation of the fighting that has been in progress for the last ten days, although there are signs that on both sides the supply of ammunition is falling short, and that the limit of endurance in the troops must have been nearly reached. The dispatches leave little doubt that the Russians and Japanese are continuing the fight that has raged desperately for ten days. Marshal Oyama reports that on Monday night two fierce assaults were made on his left army and several lighter attacks on other portions of his line, all of which were repulsed, while St. Petersburg says that heavy cannonading continued throughout the night, presaging important movements Tuesday. Beyond the fact that the great battle has gone against the Russians, and that there have been detached engagements almost unrivaled in their bravery and desperateness on both sides, no new light is thrown on the general situation.

Kuropatkin's Reserves.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19.—The military critics are not yet satisfied that Oyama is ready to relinquish the offensive, expressing the opinion that he may still try to break through the Russian center in order to compel Kuropatkin to retire from the line of the Hun River, unless as they believe, he has become convinced that the superiority of the Russian numbers and reserves makes his withdrawal to the line of the Taitse River advisable. Gen. Geisman asserts positively that up to yesterday Kuropatkin had not brought anything like all the regiments of his reserves into action, and the number of fresh units behind which his battered troops could reform, accounts for Kuropatkin's ability to resume the offensive.

The line of battle thus far engaged, counting westward from the east, Gen. Geisman says, comprised Gen. Bilderling's Seventeenth European Corps, parts of Gen. Soboleff's Sixth East Siberian Corps, portions of Gen. Slochvitch's Tenth Corps. Gen. Meyendorff's First European Corps and Gen. Zassalitch's Second Siberian Corps. The extreme Russian left, which essayed a turning movement and was meeting with success, according to Russian accounts, until the situation at the right center compelled its withdrawal, consisted of Gen. Ivanoff's Third Corps and Gen Zaroubaieff's Fourth East Siberian Corps, the Third Corps bearing the brunt of the assaults on the grour of passes of the Tumin range. Therefore two complete corps, Gen. Stakelberg's First Corps and Gen. Dembowski's Fifth Siberian Corps, and parts of five other corps are still unused.

The Associated Press learns that the reports representing Emperor Nicholas as being despondent and depressed are far from the truth. Gen. Velitchko, who saw him Monday night, declares that while his majesty is greatly grieved at the terrible sacrifice of life, he is as firmly resolved as ever that the war must be prosecuted to a successful conclusion, and that he is by no means satisfied that Kuropatkin, in whom he expressed the fullest confidence would not be able to turn the tables on Oyama before the present engagement is ended. By General Velitchko, who returns at once to the front, the Emperor sent a personal message to Kuropatkin, renewing his expressions of faith and confidence, and announcing his readiness to send such reinforcements of men and guns as Kuropatkin might ask for.

Jap Flank Menaced.

A Mukden dispatch, dated Oct. 18, says: It is reported that the Russian army is advancing. News has just been received that the Japanese left flank has been driven back with heavy loss and its retreat cut off. A Russian regiment is now being hurried to the scene in the hope of completing the rout. An officer, who has just returned from Gen. Mistchenko's division, reports that a sanguinary fight has taken place at Laitkhezi, fifteen miles southeast of Shakhe, to which fort Gen. Mistchenko retired in order to preserve communication between the Russian center and eastern flank. The Japanese made a determined effort to cut the line of communication at this point and attacked under cover of a terrific cannonade. Out of one company of Russian rifle brigade, only 50 men were left. Two companies that had expended their ammunition prior to the last Japanese attack, lay in the trenches until the Japanese were within a few paces. Then the Russians hurled a volley of stones, charged and broke the attacking line, compelling the Japanese to flee. There was fighting today on both sides of the great Mandarin road. Gen. Kuropatkin is indefatigable, personally directing the forward operations. Nothing seems to affect him, but he wears his usual quiet smile under all circumstances. The last Japanese defenders of Lone Tree Hill, two artillery officers, refused quarter and died fighting with their swords beside their guns.

No, gentle reader; this is not a street fight or a football scrimmage. It represents the wild rush for the Conservative nomination.

MR. BLAIR EXPLICITLY DENIES REPORT HE WILL TAKE STUMP

Says He Will Be Professionally Employed—Will Not Return to New Brunswick.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The statement that Hon. A. G. Blair intends taking the stump against the Government in the present campaign is not correct. He made the explicit statement to your correspondent that he had no intention of going into politics. Asked if he was going to practice his profession he replied that he was going to be professionally employed.

In regard to the stand taken by Mr. Blair on the Grand Trunk, he said he stood alone, being in favor of neither political party.

That Mr. Blair intends going back to New Brunswick is also denied. When seen this morning Mr. Blair declared he would not be drawn into any controversy over what appears in the newspapers. He has made his statement, and he thinks it is sufficient. For the present he is going to act on the board until his resignation is accepted, although he will not hear any more cases. He will assist in preparing judgment in the cases that have been heard, that is, in all cases where the evidence is complete. This applies to the western cases.

Asked if he would share in the judgment in the disputes between the C. P. R. and the Canadian Northern over the proposed line between Sudbury and Toronto, Mr. Blair replied that he would not.

As to what position Mr. Blair intends accepting, there is some room for speculation, but after all not very much, as there are not many openings in Canada where a salary of $10,000 can be secured. His principal grievance against the present position was that the salary was too small.

RUMORED LOSS OF A CUNARDER

SS. Ultonia Said to Have Gone Down — Had 2,200 Aboard.

Fiume, Oct. 18.—It is rumored here that the Cunard Line steamer Ultonia, which sailed from this port for New York, with 2,200 emigrants on board, has sunk off the Spanish coast in a storm. The report cannot be confirmed.

London, Oct. 19. — At the offices here of the Cunard Steamship Company, a rumor that the steamer, Ultonia had sunk in a storm off the Spanish coast is entirely discredited.

The Ultonia, it is pointed out, passed Gibraltar Oct. 11, and the officials cannot see how she could be anywhere in the neighborhood of the Spanish coast. The vessel is due at New York Oct. 22.

SOO ELECTION CASES

Five Reported for Bribery Being Prosecuted.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 18. — Mr. Justice Osler is presiding at the fall assizes here, in which the prosecution of five persons, reported for political corruption at the recent trial, will take place. Mr. E. A. DuVernet, and not the Government, is pushing the charges. In his opening address Judge Osler expressed the hope that the grand jury would do their share to frown down corruption.

It is stated that in correspondence with Mr. DuVernet, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Attorney-General, said that he understood a client of the lawyer's was proceeding against the men, and as that client would, in the event of the conviction of the defendants, obtain half the fines, he had no desire to interfere. Furthermore, such private action would possibly serve the ends of justice. The Attorney-General added, however, that if it was desired that the Government should proceed with the prosecutions, Mr. DuVernet would have to provide him with more information, that to hand being quite inadequate for a prosecution.

TIBETANS LACK INDEMNITY MONEY

British Expedition May Remain in the Chumbi Valley Many Years.

London, Oct. 19. — The demand of Great Britain of an indemnity of $3,750,000 from the Tibetans appears likely to lead to a prolonged British occupation of the Chumbi Valley. The Tibetans declared their inability to pay the indemnity within the three years first stipulated and Great Britain has now proposed that the payments be made at the rate of $50,000 yearly and that until the whole sum is paid the British retain possession of this valley, which is the key to Tibet. The Tibetans are said to approve of the proposal, but China's opposition is increasing, creating fear that the Dalai Lama and his Russian associate may be induced to return to Lhassa and upset the British calculations.

BLAIR RETIRES FROM COMMISSION

Resigns Chairmanship to Resume Private Business.

IS DONE WITH PUBLIC LIFE

Believed He Is to Accept Solicitorship of a Big Transportation Corporation.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—Hon. A. G. Blair, chairman of the railway commission, has resigned. Today he notified Sir Wilfrid Laurier by wire of the step he had taken ,and forwarded his resignation by letter to the Governor-in-Council. At the close of this afternoon's session of the commission, Mr. Blair took his colleagues and the public into his confidence. He made the announcement that he had resigned,and it came as a complete surprise to everybody. From Mr. Blair's own statement it is apparent that he is about to accept a more remunerative position. What the position is, however, he declines to say. It is conjectured that he is accepting the position of solicitor to one of the large railway corporations, probably the C. P. R.

"What about the cases that are standing for judgment?" he was asked.

"The two remaining commissioners will deal with them."

To a friend Mr. Blair remarked, in effect, that he had something better in sight, which would enable him to provide for the future. His present position was only for ten years, and he could not look for reappointment at the expiration of that time, as he would be over the age limit, which is 71.

In answer to a question there was one response made tonight by Mr. Blair which was very emphatic. The question was, "Are you going into politics?" Mr. Blair said, very positively, "No."

Mr. Blair's statement to the board of his reasons for resigning was as follows: "Before the board adjourns I wish to make an announcement which is of a personal character, and which I think may very properly be made by me from my place as chairman of the board. The intimation I wish to have conveyed to the public is that this is the last session of the commission at which I shall occupy a place either as chairman or as a member of the board. I have felt myself compelled in my own interest to come to this decision with the utmost regret. I find the work of the board very congenial to me, but notwithstanding I have not found it sufficiently attractive to induce me to forego personal advantages which otherwise are open to me in other employment. It will be, I think, considered proper that I should state frankly the reason which has led me to pursue this course. I accepted a place on the commission with many misgivings. Since I have been a member of the board I have not found that these misgivings have been removed, but I think I may rather say that they have been intensified.

"I may say that at the present moment I have had presented to me for prompt determination the question as to whether I will turn my mind and my energies in another direction, which will be very much more profitable to me personally than the position which I now fill. I hope it will not be thought that in doing so I have pursued any other course than that which is proper and legitimate in a man who, if he does not consider his own interests, certainly cannot expect to have them considered by others. I make no complaints; I cast no reflections. I do not wish to intimate that I have any cause whatever to find fault.

"I am reaching the conclusion at which I have arrived purely for reasons that are personal to myself. If it were possible for me to have had a little longer period of service at the board I would have been glad to continue, because I feel that in a large measure the railway commission has been a creation of my own. I think I may claim the parentage of it to some considerable extent, at all events, and I feel that during the few months we have had an opportunity of demonstrating the usefulness of this board it has, I think, tended to satisfy the public that the tribunal is one capable of rendering substantial service."

The News at St. John.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 18. — Dispatches received here from Montreal tonight say Mr. Blair will likely open a law office in Montreal after the election, but that before closing his political career he will take the stump against the Grand Trunk Pacific bill and use every effort to arouse the country against it. In St. John the news created a great stir. It was discredited until the Evening Times appeared containing an authoritative announcement signed by Mr. Blair. Politicians are about divided on party lines in discussing it, and until it is publicly known that Mr. Blair will stump against the Government it will be hard to speak about the effect of the announcement on the province. In St. John city and county the impartial view is that it makes more probable the defeat of O'Brien and McKeown, whose chances were already impaired somewhat by party dissension following on Mr. Blair's resignation from the cabinet. The Telegraph and Times are out flatfooted against the G. T. P., but stick to that issue. Candidates are in the field in every county, except that Conservatives have not yet named men in Kent or Victoria, where they have no chance.

In a special edition tonight the Evening Times, David Russell's new paper, has the following: "Montreal, Oct. 18, —E. W. McCready, editor Telegraph, St. John: I authorize the announcement that I have resigned my position as chairman of the railway commission, and have notified the Premier that, beyond reaffirming my strong objection to the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme, I have no present intention of re-entering public life. (Signed), Andrew G. Blair."

Lady Curzon Better.

Walmer Castle, Oct. 19. — Lady Curzon is progressing so favorably, that, hereafter, only one bulletin will given out daily.

Mr. Lemieux in Nicolet.

Montreal, Oct. 18.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Solicitor-General, has decided to run in Nicolet against Mr. G. Pall, Conservative, as well as in Gaspe. As the election in Gaspe does not take place until after the general election, Mr. Lemieux will be able to carry on a campaign in both constituencies.

Hon. A. G. Blair

Who Has Resigned Chairmanship of Railway Commission. Will Devote His Time to Private Affairs.

MULOCK AGAIN CHOSEN

An Enthusiastic Convention Once More Nominates Him.

Newmarket, Oct. 18.—The long, happy relationship which has existed between Sir William Mulock and the Liberals of North York received an extension today, when the Postmaster-General was unanimously chosen as candidate in the worthcoming election. It scarcely needed a convention to demonstrate the mutual affection which exists between the minister and his constituents, but, once called, there were continuous evidence of the strength of the tie and Sir William's excellent address was constantly broken by bursts of cheers.

MR. DAVIS TO RETIRE

Will Leave Politics When Present Term of Legislature Expires.

Newmarket, Oct. 18. — The regular meeting of the executive of the North York Reform Association was held here this morning, and at it Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, announced that at the close of the present parliamentary term he intended to retire from politics. However, he made it plain that in the event of bye-elections being held, as seemed to be foreshadowed in the Premier's recent address, he proposed to take his customary active part in the campaign.

MONTREAL LABOR TROUBLE

The Dominion Metropolis Threatened With Strike of Building Laborers.

Montreal, Jue., Oct. 19.—A strike of building laborers is threatened in this city. There was trouble in the building labor field in September a year ago, when some 89 contractors agreed to pay the pick and shovel men seventeen cents per hour, and hodcarriers 20 cents. Peter Lyall, one of the largest contractors in the Dominion, stood out for the open labor market and no favors to union men. He was backed up by a number of other contractors, and ever since has maintained his stand. The union claims he is trying to crush the organization, and declares that it will fight the matter out to a finish now.

BAPTIST CONVENTION

Addresses Made by Two Peace Society Representatives.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 19.—At the Baptist convention of the Ontario and Quebec Union today Dr. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace Society, of Boston, and Dr. W. Evans Derby, secretary of the English society delegates to the Boston conference, delivered addresses. The edifice board, which has a fund of $9,000 for loaning in $500 lots at 2 per cent. for building purposes, reported that three churches had been thus aided. In all 97 churches at various times have been aided to the amount of $45,000. This year $1,638 was received and $248 distributed. The report from the Northwest missions showed 120 churches and 400 stations. The receipts were $13,357, of which $9,803 came from churches.

ROUSING MEETING FOR DR. JOHNSTON

Big Gathering at Wyoming Hears West Lambton Candidate's Stirring Speech.

Wyoming, Oct. 19.—A meeting in the interest of Dr. Johnston was held at the town hall last night. The hall was filled to its capacity. Dr. Harvey occupied the chair and speeches were delivered by Dr. Johnston and Mr. T. H. Purdom, K.C., of London. Dr. Johnston showed how the Laurier administration had handled the difficult question of oil so as to benefit the county of Lambton and reduce the duty to the consumers. His explanation of the matter was approved by the large meeting present, and there is no doubt that the return of Dr. Johnston will show an increased majority in the riding of West Lambton. The meeting broke up with cheers for the King, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Dr Johnston.

The Grain Standards

Toronto, Oct. 19. — Mr. E. F. Craig, grain inspector, has instructed the secretary of the board of trade to collect grain samples from shipping points in Ontario, and it is probable that the grain standard will be settled within ten days. This is reverting to the older but more satisfactory method of getting samples to establish the standards.

SIR WILFRID IN NORTH ONTARIO

Great Gathering at Uxbridge Listens to Premier.

STOUFFVILLE'S DEMONSTRATION

Station Platform Crowded by Many Hundreds to Hear Address From Liberal Leader.

Uxbridge, Oct. 18.—North Ontario, restored to its original boundaries as they were before the gerrymander of 1882 made it a supposedly safe Conservative seat, this evening welcomed Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lady Laurier with a reception such as it has not previously accorded a political leader. The electors marked their appreciation to the fulfillment of the pledge which the leader of the Government gave when in opposition to undo the legislation which divorced them from municipal associations with no uncertain sound. The Premier in his speech dealt with the transcontinental railway and the preferential tariff, reiterating the arguments he has presented so ably and well why the electors should indorse the progressive policy and honest and efficient administration of public affairs which have characterized his term of office, and give him a further renewal of that confidence which, given in 1896, was renewed with greater emphasis in 1900. At Stouffville the Premier and Lady Laurier were also given a flattering reception, where the train was held for a few minutes.

At Stouffville the train was held for five minutes for the purpose of allowing Sir Wilfrid to address a crowd, numbering fully 500, that had assembled at the station.

There were several hundred people at the station when the train reached Uxbridge. The following reception committee immediately boarded the car and welcomed the distinguished visitors: Mayor T. C. Nichols, H. J. Gould, I. J. Gould, George D. Grant, William Grey, W. S. Ormiston, Alex. Graham and Dr. D. A. Clark. A procession of carriages, headed by the Uxbridge Citizens' Band, was formed, and, amid cheers from the citizens lining the streets, the party proceeded to the Music Hall. The hall, which seats 800, was packed with the electors of the three constituencies—North and South Ontario and North York. Many of them had driven long distance or come in on the train. There were several hundred people in the hall as early as half past 6, and long before the advertised time of opening every inch of space, including the aisles, had been taken up, and scores were unable to obtain admission.

Dr. D. A. Clark, president of the Uxbridge Reform Association, was in the chair, and among those on the platform were Neil McPhaden, C. C. McPhaden, Asa Millard, Joseph Millard, Walter Lapp, George Lapp, C. E. Kyle, Rudolph Myers, John Parish, William McLaughlin, W. R. Gladstone, S. A. Flummerfelt, W. O. Law, John Flummerfelt, James Best, P. Pugh, O. E. Bagshaw, Henry Jones, A. Dobson, A. T. Button, W. H. Keller, J. F. Brownscombe, R. P. Harman, J. T. Valentine, Lady Laurier and Mrs. I. J. Gould and party, and Mrs. William Ross, Miss Ross, Miss Jones (Port Perry), and Mrs. Alex. Graham. Uxbridge occupied the boxes.

WANT CATHOLICS TO VOTE

Their Abstention in Italy May Hurt the Vatican.

Rome, Oct. 19. — Several bishops of North Italy, including Cardinal Ferrari, Archbishop of Milan, and a close friend of the Pope, have petitioned him personally to consider whether the moment has not yet arrived to allow Catholics to participate in the general elections. According to the petitioners, their abstention from voting during the last four years, has brought no advantage to the claims of the Vatican, while it has seriously endangered the interests of religion by intrusting power to the open enemies of the church, and they believe that if the Catholics are allowed to vote, if not for real 'clerical candidates, at least for Conservatives, it would insure the presence in the Chamber of Deputies of a strong party capable of preventing the passage of bills aimed against religion. The Pope has not yet taken a decision, but he has asked for the opinion of the most authoritative cardinals.

MANAGER HAYS CABLES DENIAL

Says Story of His Resigning From the G. T. R. Is Absolutely False.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 19. — The following cable from Mr. Charles M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway system, who is now in London, was received today by Mr Frank W. Morse, third vice-president of the system: "Cable reports received here this morning from Montreal and New York city to the effect that I have resigned are absolutely false and without foundation."

TENTS OF KHAKI

New Design To Be Adopted by the Medical Militia Department.

Ottawa, Oct. 19. — The medical department of the Canadian militia will shortly adopt the khaki-colored tents to replace the white canvas which has been used for all branches of the militia hitherto. It is claimed that when the summer sun is beating down, the khaki is not so warm as the white tent. A rectangular pattern also takes the place of the bell for the accommodation of the men who belong to the field hospital and bearer companies. This is done so that when necessary the sleeping tents for the men employed in the medical department can be used for the accommodation of the wounded.

Kuropatkin's Daughter In an American Convent

Supposed Drowned Child of the General Hides From Her Stepmother.

New York, Oct. 18.—That General Kuropatkin, the Russian commander has a daughter living secretly in an American convent, although he has mourned her as dead for twelve years in the belief that she was drowned in the Neva River at St. Petersburg, is the remarkable story told by Wolf von Schierbrand in the World. His authority for the statement is Mother Joseph Hartwell, superintendent of a religious order known as the Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart.

The mother house of Mother Joseph's order is in Baltimore, and she is indorsed by Cardinals Gibbons and Satolli. She has revealed the history of her protege in an effort to return the young woman to her father. The young recluse is a daughter by Gen. Kuropatkin's first wife. In Rome she was received into the Roman Catholic Church by Father Lambert, S. J., who now resides in Chicago.

While traveling in American with her daughter and servants, Mrs. Kuropatkin died under circumstances which aroused the suspicion of poisoning. In the party traveling in America was a companion of Mrs. Kuropatkin, and in course of time this companion became the second wife of Gen. Kuropatkin. She is said to be of Spanish gypsy blood. The stepmother made life unhappy for Miss Kuropatkin, who became terror-stricken.

It appears that the girl agreed to vanish forever from St. Petersburg, from her family circle, and from Russia, and that a plot was hatched to make it appear that she had met with a fatal accident. The story as given out was that she had been drowned accidentally in the Neva. Miss Kuropatkin, who was 18 years old then, fled to America and sought refuge in the convent.

To get that appetizing, brown appearance and outside crispyness on roasts of lamb, beef, etc.—to keep their goodness in them they must be basted. In the old style stove this necessitated reaching into the hot oven and moving the hot, heavy pan and holding it in the front of the oven while it was basted. A tedious performance with unsatisfactory results. The draw-out oven rack of the makes basting a simple and successful operation. Draw the handle in front of the oven forward and the rack brings the pan and its contents out of the oven where it may be thoroughly basted with the greatest ease. The Imperial Oxford Range lessens the labor of cooking and insures the most successful results.

HOT SHOT FOR RECREANT LOVER

Philandering Denounced by Judge Street in Court.

LECTURES WALLACEBURG MAN

Declares His Treatment of Lady to Whom He Was Engaged Was Most Abominable.

Toronto, Oct. 18. — No more scathing denunciation of an unfaithful lover could be imagined than that delivered by Mr. Justice Street this morning in giving judgment in a breach of promise suit brought before him in the assizes.

The claim against her former fiance as brought by Miss Emma Pollard, a dressmaker of this city, against Matthew Kennedy, a veterinary surgeon of Wallaceburg. The couple met while both were quite young, when Kennedy was a student at college in the city. The acquaintance was made through a brother-in-law of the plaintiff in 1900 and young Kennedy left college a year after. He went from here to Wingham and from there wrote many letters to his "Dear Em."

Then he removed to Wallaceburg, and in October of 1903 wrote the letter of engagement.

"You might easily have guessed," read the tender missive, "that ever since I first met you I have had an anxious desire that some day we might be married. Do you think you could leave your happy home for me? Em, I could make a comfortable home for you, and if you have no objections, Em, I want you to promise that you will be my wife some day."

She evidently had no objections, for she accepted.

But absence, in this case, did not make the heart grow fonder, for the "Anxious desire" faded, or was transferred to another object. Just three months after, he wrote, asking that the engagement be broken.

In the witness box this morning, Miss Pollard admitted that she had agreed to a breaking of the engagement, provided he returned her the letters and photographs she had sent him. This had not been done. No ring had been given her, she admitted, to Mr. T. Boultbee, counsel for the defendant, in cross-examination.

The plaintiff is a very good-looking girl, and the lawyer tried to make her admit that she was now keeping company with another man. This she denied.

When Kennedy took the stand, he admitted that when he went to Wallaceburg he met another girl, to whom he took a fancy. In three weeks they were engaged, and a week after were married. He said Miss Pollard had agreed to a breaking of the engagement, providing he returned or destroyed her letters and photographs. He had already burned them.

The judge found that the young woman had released the defendant, and that, therefore, the case must be dismissed, but he refused to allow the costs of the action to go with the judgment, because of what he styled his "abominable, rascally conduct."

"I think this defendant behaved in a most rascally manner," said his lordship. "He almost immediately after his engagement commenced to show attention to another girl, whom he has since married. He wrote her breaking off the engagement in his letter of the 12th of October, and she wrote him a letter which he burned, but which both describe. From the descriptions they give I think it really amounted to a release, an acquiescence in what he proposed. I take the letter to have been about of this kind: 'You have treated me very badly. I would have been willing to wait for you any reasonable time such as you propose, but it appears that you do not care for me any more, and I would rather have it broken off now than wait some months, or years, and have you break it off then. I would rather have it done now.'

"This is practically an acquiescence in the breaking off of the engagement," continued his lordship. "His conduct up to that time was bad enough, but not as scandalous as it has since become, when she brings action against him. He instructed his lawyer to set up a most unrighteous and improper defense in which he knows there is not one word of truth, in order to try and bring disgrace upon this girl, whom he has already treated so badly. I think his solicitor should have pointed out that no man calling himself a man, would or could have set up such a defense. I am obliged to dismiss this action, but I certainly will not give the defendant any costs. I hope that he will realize how abominally he has behaved."

SOO MURDERER MUST DIE DEC. 17

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 18. — Arthur Chartrand was placed on trial here today on the charge of murdering Provincial Constable Irving in June last.

Important evidence was given by eyewitnesses of the shooting on the train at Webbwood, and also by Provincial Detective Grier, who had traced the prisoner's career, following his movements from place to place for some time back. He was shown to have had no particular occupation, and traveled around considerably.

Chartrand also gave evidence on his own behalf, which largely corroborated the evidence of the crown witnesses, with the exception of how the shooting was done. According to Chartrand's story, he shot only to frighten the constable, and when Irving struck his arm after the first shot, the revolver accidentally went off, killing him. He admitted the act, but claimed only accident

Counsel for defense made an eloquent plea for mercy. The summing up of the prosecution, however, was also decisive.

The jury were addressed by Judge Osler, who covered the case generally, instructing on any points of law which may not have been clear. They retired at 5 p.m., and 6:30 returned with a verdict of guilty.

His honor then pronounced sentence that Arthur Chartrand be hanged on Dec. 17.

The crime was one of the most cold-blooded in the history of Algoma, the shooting of a provincial officer in discharge of his duty in broad daylight and in a car containing eyewitnesses. On the 17th of June last, Irving was informed by one Doyle, who had been one of the victims of Chartrand's robberies, that his man, for whom he had been searching for ten months, was on board the 9 o'clock train going east from Webbwood. He boarded the train and accosted Chartrand, who denied his identity. Irving, however, insisted on Chartrand accompanying him, and commenced taking him out of the car. When near the door, Chartrand pulled his revolver and fired three shots, the first two doing no damage, the third shooting the officer in the heart and he expired a few minutes afterward. The prisoner escaped. Parties were organized, and he was hunted for three days, finally being captured on the banks of Spanish River, covered up in mud. His preliminary hearing was given before the police magistrate at Webbwood, and he was committed to jail for the fall assizes, now being held. While repairs were being made in the court house and jail here, Chartrand was taken to Toronto, being returned about a week ago for his trial.

FOUND STRYCHNINE IN HIS STOMACH

Sensational Evidence at Inquest Over Body of Durham Man.

Ingersoll, Ont., Oct. 18. — The inquest regarding the death of William Dee, of Durham, was resumed in the town hall, Salford, last night. After five witnesses had been examined, and in the absence of the report of the analysis of the stomach, which will not be completed for a week, the inquest was adjourned until next Tuesday evening. Crown Attorney Ball, of Woodstock, attended in the interests of the crown, and J. L. Patterson, of Ingersoll, was present on behalf of Mrs. Dee, wife of deceased, who is under arrest on suspicion of poisoning her husband.

Dr. McKay, Ingersoll, read the report of the post-mortem examination which was performed by himself and Dr. Coleridge. The report was to the effect that the deceased had been a healthy man, and that his condition at the time of the post-mortem indicated strychnine poisoning.

Lorne R. Tune, a clerk at Gayfly's drug store, Ingersoll, swore that on Aug. 15 last he sold Mrs. Dee fifteen grains of strychnine. He identified Mrs. Dee at the inquest of the crown.

The other evidence was much the same as brought out when the inquest was first opened.

INVITATION TO REV. MR. BROWN

The quarterly official board of the Askin Street Methodist Church met last night and decided to extend an invitation to Rev. Alfred Brown, of Windsor, to become the pastor of the church for the term beginning July, 1905.

The board some time ago invited the present pastor, Rev. W. G. Howson, to remain for a fourth year, his three years' pastorate expiring in June next, but Mr. Howson last night informed the board that he had decided to accept a call to the pastorate of the church at Mitchell. This action on the part of Mr. Howson is much regretted by the official board and also by the members of the congregation generally, as he had made himself very popular during his residence among them.

FIREMEN ASKING FOR BETTER PAY

First-Year Men Think $1.25 a Day Is Not Enough Remuneration.

Something which has been long expected in fire brigade circles is about to come to a head at last—the matter of an increase in salary for the firemen. Already, it is understood, a petition is being circulated among the first-year men praying for an increase. It is pointed out that the firemen now start at about $1 23 a day for what is really 24 hours' work. Prices of living have gone up all along the line, and wages have gone up in all lines of business save the fire brigade. The men claim that it is next to impossible to live on the wages they now receive the first year, and but few will dispute the statement. True, since Chief Clark took hold of the brigade he has done his best to secure more clothing for the men, but even with this additional clothing the men are but poorly paid. A dollar and 23 cents a day is no inducement to any strong, healthy, intelligent man nowadays, and consequently the city has found no end of difficulty in inducing men to start at the minimum wage. It is pointed out by citizens who have given the matter thought that if first-class men are to be secured, better wages must be paid, and the sooner the increase is made the better.

The petition will be presented two weeks from tonight, when No. 3 committee will meet in regular session, the council not sitting, unless a special meeting is called, until Nov. 7.

In the running for the city clerkship today, Mr. James Bell, assistant treasurer of London, appears to have the best of the race. It is known that if the mayor and aldermen are willing, Mr. Bell stands ready to accept the position. We would be no stranger to the office, of course having frequently acted as city clerk during the absence of both Messrs. Edwards and Kingston. If Mr. Bell is made city clerk, a vacancy will be created in the treasurer's office, and it is likely that the present clerks will be moved up a notch. Treasurer Pope is very loth to part with Mr. Bell, but it is understood be will not stand in the way of his promotion.

Mayor Beck, accompanied by Mrs. Beck, left this afternoon at 2:20, via the G. T. R., for Old Point Comfort Va., where his worship will rest for some weeks.

Ald. Forristal was acting mayor today, and in the absence of Ald. Wyatt, is acting chairman of the board of works.

Ald. Forristal stated today that with possibly three exceptions, the residents of Dundas street, between Adelaide and Elizabeth, object to the council awarding the contract for a pavement to the highest bidder, as several of the ratepayers have asked the council to do

No. 3 committee of the city council holds a special meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock to open tenders for the alarm gongs for the firemen's houses.

The Montague Farce.

The proffer of the Conservative nomination to Dr. Montague is an insult to the city of London, which hundreds of the rank and file of the party will refuse to pocket.

Cases have not been rare where a local party organization has come to the rescue of some eminent public man who is unable to enter Parliament through the riding in which he makes his home; but where is there a parallel for the humiliating spectacle which the city of London is made to present by the conduct of the Conservative managers? Fancy a community of 40,000 people—a center of intelligence and education—an historic riding whose own sons—Meredith, Carling, Hyman—have risen to the highest places in the gift of the people; fancy such a community represented before the whole country as going down on its marrow-bones to a second-rate politician like Montague! Fancy the Conservative party in London begging a political refugee, who has been cast into outer darkness by the Conservatives of Haldimand and Hamilton, to carry its once proud and victorious banner!

Shades of the mighty! can it be
That this is all remains of thee?

And they still boast that London is "naturally a Conservative city!"

The nomination has been hawked around the city for weeks. It was offered to Major Beattie—to Mayor Beck—to Dr. Wilson—to Mr. A. T. McMahen—to Mr. John R. Minhinnick—to Mr. T. G. Meredith—to half a dozen others, any one of whom, like the gentlemen named, would have made a respectable candidate. Not a local Conservative of prominence could be induced to accept it. And still they boast that "London is naturally a Conservative city!"

Failing to find a local Conservative willing to face the music, it would be thought the managers of the party would submit to the situation with the best possible grace and allow Mr. Hyman to go in unopposed. His victory over any opponent is conceded, and there are scores and hundreds of Conservatives who would not begrudge him the honor of an election by acclamation. They will resent the decision of the local junta to import an outsider for a useless and factitious opposition, which can serve no purpose except to give Mr. Hyman the trouble of a contest and restrict his energies outside his own riding.

An Enemy of His Country.

A shameless campaign is being waged in Victoria and Haliburton by Sam Hughes. He is hard pressed by a popular opponent, and is resorting to the basest appeals to race and sectarian prejudice. We have before us a copy of a manifesto — printed on yellow paper, an appropriate color—with which he is flooding the back townships. An extract will serve to show its character:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers aim gradually, by 'evolution'—for there would be danger of some of them getting hurt by 'revolution'—at the independence of Canada.

"THIS RAILWAY FAD OF THEIRS, SO THEY BOAST IN QUEBEC, WOULD GIVE A BACKBONE OF SIR WILFRID'S FELLOW-COUNTRYMEN BEHIND OLD ONTARIO AND ASSIST IN THE PLAN.

"They demand independent treaty-making power.

"They demand abolition of legal appeals to the judicial committee of the Imperial Privy Council.

"They will not contribute to the imperial navy, but wish a Canadian navy under control of that 'warrior seaman,' Mr. Prefontaine.

"They have abolished the necessity of the Canadian general being a British-trained officer.

"They would abolish the office of Governor-General, and make a 'President.'

"Their whole policy is towards these ends.

"They dismissed Lord Dundonald for resenting the illegal actions of Mr. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, in meddling in militia affairs without authority more than any 'street sweeper' possessed.

"They have sought to establish the worst forms of 'militarism' in Canada, by trying to bring officers of the militia when not on duty or on service under the thumb of the minister.

"They have further sought to make it a serious offense for a Salvation Army soldier to wear his uniform.

This tissue of falsehoods is being circulated in a thinly-settled district, covering an enormous area, where the majority of the electors are remote from centers of population, and not in touch with the daily papers, and the ordinary channels of information. Such a riding lends itself to dark-lantern methods, and Hughes feels he can employ them with impunity. The circular from which we have quoted was not intended for the light of day. The country ought to ring with denunciation of these dastardly tactics, and of the author of them, who is one of the leaders and front-benchers of the Opposition. The Grand Trunk Pacific contract has been attacked on various grounds, but Hughes is the first man who has tried to make it a race issue. And this blatherskite and political incendiary was the parliamentary champion of Lord Dundonald!

With each copy of his mischievous screed is an engraving of Col. Sam Hughes in his regimentals, and a narrative of his performances in South Africa, his own version of which, in his letters to Canadian friends, excited the ridicule of the Canadian public. He poses as a British officer and disgraces his uniform by fighting his political battles with a poisoned sword. The warfare he is carrying on stamps him, not as a defender, but as an enemy of his country.

The Young Electors.

Next month a large number of young men will vote for the first time in a parliamentary election. In London alone, out of the 3,000 who registered last week, quite a proportion are young men just come to their majority. Upon these young voters rests a responsibility, which in the interests of their country, they must not shirk. They are selecting their party affiliations; and as they start in their political course the tendency will be to continue in the same associations. It is a serious matter how they shall act now. On them in the future will devolve the responsibility of preserving Canadian institutions, developing Canadian resources, and maintaining Canadian honor. Their choice today will influence for good or ill their course in time to come.

To the support of the young citizen the Liberal party has now, as it has always had, strong claims. The party in 1904 has at its head one who is not only a Canadian statesman, but a statesman of the larger empire. The name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is recognized wherever the Union Jack floats as that of one of the greatest empire builders of this or any generation; one who has done more to bring Britain's colonies in closer touch with the heart of the mother country than any other man; one who has promoted by his acts, and inspired by his eloquence, a truer imperialism than the people of Britain have ever yet conceived. And he is supported in the work of administration by a band of able associates—of whom the representative of London is not the least honored.

But that is not all; nor is it the most important consideration. The personality of those who administer our affairs is no trifling matter. But more serious is the policy that the administrators pursue. And Liberalism, whether its supporters be strong men or weak men, stands today, as it has always stood, for all that is best in a nation's politics. It stands for toleration in all questions of race and creed; for the highest grade of individual freedom, and the widest limits of civil liberty; it stands for the government of the people, by the people, for the people; it stands for clean administration, economic government, progressive legislation. Individual Liberals may fail to meet its high standard. Men are imperfect at best, and those who call themselves Liberals may show themselves unworthy of the name. But Liberalism, with its principles as illustrated, and its practices as controlled, by a long line of noble leaders in Canada from Baldwin to Laurier, offers to the young citizen an example and a study which he well may strive to emulate and to master.

Today we have in the Canadian Government a worthy successor to administrations that have achieved historic fame. It has developed Canada, and it has honored Canada. Under its legislation population has increased; new territory has been opened up; trade has grown; wealth has multiplied. Patriotism has been its inspiration. To bind in closest harmony the diverse races and creeds of the Dominion; to stimulate love for Canada by Canadians, joined with love for the larger Empire to which we belong, has been its aim, and its most successful work. Whatever Conservatism may have been in the past, when influenced by Liberal and broad ideas; whatever it may be in some distant day under other men, and with another policy; today, at all events, it is in the ranks of Liberalism that the young Canadian will find scope for his best work, and opportunity for the cultivation of his best ideals.

Let the young voter think carefully and well. He has duties to perform, and responsibilities to bear. We believe that in the support of the Liberal party he will best be able to perform the duties of citizenship. But his first duty is to learn for himself, and form an intelligent opinion for himself. Take no man's word for it; accept no political creed ready-made; use your own judgment. Choose your political affiliations intelligently, and work with them honestly, remembering always that our country is greater than any party, and that the party which deserves to endure is the party that serves the country best.

Mr Blair's Resignation.

Mr. Blair is credited with a remark that he could not look for reappointment to the railway commission upon the expiry of his term ten years hence when he would be 71 years of age, and he explains that in justice to his personal interests he intends taking a position of greater emolument, presumably with a railway corporation, though he does not admit this. He declares he will not re-enter public life at present, nor will he take the stump.

Mr. Blair is practically the creator of the railway commission, which, under his chairmanship, has already proved itself an efficient instrument. His withdrawal will be a distinct loss to the country. While he cannot be reproached for leaving this field of public usefulness for his private welfare, his action is another reminder of the fact—a disquieting one—that the great corporations are in a position to make the highest bids for the best talent, and that if public interests find able champions, it is because there are men who put the public interests above their own.

After all, we can't blame Peter Elson from refusing to meet J. M. McEvoy on the platform. There are many smarter men than Peter Elson who would be afraid to stand up against him in an argument or debate.

What a compliment to Mr. Hyman!

Will Montague buy the gold-brick?

That ought to be put in a gilt frame.

A London man is good enough for London.

"We Will Make Mince-Meat of Montague."

Talk about a drowning man catching at a straw!

"Come Over and Help Us!" cry the Tory Macedonians.

To think that London has to go to Hamilton for a political candidate!

No other riding will have Montague, but he is good enough for London, in the opinion of the Conservative Club.

The Free Press calls Montague "the eloquent and distinguished member of the Government of Sir Mackenzie Bowell." It ought to be ashamed to mention Montague and Bowell in the same paragraph.

The London Free Press is the only Canadian journal which pretends to credit the story that the Democrats of the United States subscribed half a million dollars for Laurier's campaign. Unlike the local Dogberry, the other papers hesitate about writing themselves down an ass.

Dr. Parkin doesn't like the cry, "Canada for the Canadians." Sir John A. Macdonald used it to boom the National Policy, and Mr. Borden is re-echoing it; but in the highest and best sense the sentiment is a good one, though it doesn't suit men like Parkin, who still regard Canada as an appendage.

MURDER MYSTERY; PETRIFIED CORPSE

Barre, Vt., Oct. 19.—The petrified body of a woman, who, scientists say, lived several thousand years before Indians inhabited America, has been found in Washington, this county, by Willard Clough, and will soon be placed on exhibition at the State Museum in Montpelier. Mr. Clough was constructing a small fish pond above what is known as Huntington's mill, when workmen removed the stump of a giant tree. About fifteen feet under the roots the men came upon what they thought was a rock, but the obstruction proved to be a petrified body in an excellent state of preservation.

As the head had been severed and there was deep scars upon the body, made by a dull instrument, there was considerable excitement, and Constable G. W. Downing and Dr. F. A. Warner were notified. The former viewed the body, and was about to hold an inquest according to law, when Dr. Warner declared that the body belonged to a prehistoric race, and that if the woman had been murdered the deed was committed at a time considerably antedating American law. Thereupon the inquest was called off, and Professor Charles H. Richardson, of Dartmouth College, was sent for.

After making a careful examination, Professor Richardson declared the find to be most extraordinary, and of great value to scientists. He said that the woman belonged to a race of which historians knew nothing, and evidently lived centuries before the Indian made his home on the North American Continent. The shape of the head he found to be entirely unlike that of any race living today, and was so strange in formation that it appeared to be almost inhuman. In fact, it seemed to belong more to the ape tribe than to man.

The cheek-bones are exceptionally high and prominent, and the forehead slopes back rapidly. The great oddity, however, is in the distance from the eyebrow to the crown of the head. This measures seven inches. The height of the body is 5 feet 10 inches, which is believed to have been about the height of the woman while in life. The chest is well developed, and the breadth of the back between the shoulders is eighteen inches. From the scars and the fact that the head was severed, the professor is disposed to think that the woman was murdered. He scoffs at the theory that mutilation may have been due to some antemortuary custom of the tribe which the woman belonged.

Where the head was cut off the vertebrae protrude and are plainly visible. The toes are plainly separated, as are the fingers, and all the features stand out in bold relief. One arm was broken off at the elbow, and the hand was clenched, as though to strike when death came. Otherwise the body was not dismembered below the neck.

The body weighed 350 pounds in its petrified state, and according to the professor the woman tipped the scales in life at about 125 pounds. The petrifaction occurred in quicksand, and the muck and the action of the preserving qualities in the soil were so perfect that the optic nerves are plainly discernible in both the eye sockets. The soil above the quicksand was marshy and supported the tree for over 100 years. The oldest inhabitant cannot remember when it was cut down, so the actual records of the case extend over two centuries.

ONLY LABORER; DIES HERO

Saves Children From Death, But Dies From Injuries Received.

New York, Oct. 18. — He was only a coal-heaver. No one knew anything about his antecedents. All that his companions around the Columbia Hotel, at One Hundred and Twenty-second street and Third avenue, where he lived, knew was that he was one who always bought when he "had the price," and who never drank with a fellow-man without regretting that he could not say "have another."

The "boys" counted him a good friend. He spent the evening with them around the lounging-room of the Columbia on Friday.

"I've got a job to shovel a little coal tomorrow," he told them as he bade them good-night. "I hate to leave so early, but, you know, I must have a little Sunday money."

He arose a little earlier than usual yesterday and went off to work.

His work ended, he threw his shovel over one shoulder and started for home—that is, the only home he knew—the place where he expected to meet "the boys," his friends of the night before.

It was near the noon hour as he approached the corner of One Hundred and Fourteenth street and Lenox avenue. The avenue was filled with nurse girls trundling infants. Little boys and girls blocked the sidewalk and made merry in the middle of the streets.

Suddenly there came a clattering of boots on the asphalt pavement. A shout of warning went up from half a hundred throats. The frightened children looked up and scampered right and left. They saw two maddened horses attached to a big brewery wagon bearing down upon them.

Six little girls were playing in the triangle formed by Lenox and St. Nicholas avenues, at the entrance to Central Park. They did not hear the warning. The man saw that there was only a moment left in which to act. Tossing his shovel away he ran into the middle of the street and grabbed the bridle of the off horse.

The runaway began to plunge, but he held on. The horses' hoofs tore the flesh of his legs, and must have sent excruciating pains coursing through his body. But the lives of half a dozen children were at stake and he clung on. Then, as the frightened horses were brought to a stop, at the park entrance at One Hundred and Tenth street, he fell exhausted.

Policeman Hauser, of the East One Hundred and Fourth street station, with many bystanders who had witnessed the brave act, ran up.

"Did I save them?" he gasped, looking up for an instant.

"Yes, they are safe," answered Hauser. "But who are you—what is your name?"

"Just put me down as James Leadwood, 48 years old. That's enough. No one cares to know more," he answered.

Dr. Schneuppel took the injured man to the Harlem Hospital. He was suffering from a fractured skull and broken legs and died an hour later.

James Webber, the driver, who had left his team unguarded while he went into a saloon, was arrested.

Leadwood's body is at the Harlem Hospital Morgue. Unless relatives claim it friends around the Columbia Hotel will see that it is given proper burial.

A TORONTO FIREMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

It is well known that many brave firemen are sufferers from kidney trouble through exposure during all kinds of weather while fighting fire. They are liable to get drenched with water at any time, whether the temperature is 90 above or 10 below, and as a result kidney troubles, lame back, rheumatism, etc., often follow. "C. D." has found the right remedy, and to use his own expression feels O. K. He recommends Bu-Ju Kidney Pills to his friends whenever he has an opportunity, and as a result many cases have been relieved through his advice. Read what he says:

Claflin Chemical Company, Windsor, Ont.:

Gentlemen,—I am highly pleased with the results from "Bu-Ju," as I had tried several other remedies which had done me no good, and now I feel O. K. after using about five boxes. I recommend them to my friends whenever I have an opportunity, but do not wish my name mentioned in print.

Yours truly, C. D.

HAD BLOOD POISON 12 YEARS
The New Method Treatment Cured Him after Drugs, Mercury, Hot Springs, &c., all failed.

After Treatment

Wm. H. Patterson, of Saginaw, Mich., relates his experience: "I do not like notoriety and especially of this kind, but I feel I owe this much to Drs. K. & K. for the great good they have done me. I had a serious blood disease when 24 years of age. The skin and blood symptoms gradually developed. Pimples and ulcers formed, running sores broke out, hair became loose, pains in the bones and joints, foul breath, itchy skin, etc. It is needless for me to say I tried doctors. I grew to hate the looks of one. I visited Hot Springs twice for four months each time. It helped me temporarily, but in six months after returning home I was as bad as ever. Finally a Doctor friend of mine advised me to see Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. He said he had known of them for over 20 years, and as they made a specialty of these diseases and treated the worst cases by the hundred they ought to be expert in curing them. I was afraid of advertising doctors, but I took his advice. They agreed to treat me under a guarantee or no pay. I investigated their financial standing and found they were perfectly responsible, so I commenced the new method Treatment. The eruptions disappeared in two weeks, the pains in four weeks and in four months I was entirely cured. Yes, sir, I can recommend the New Method Treatment for Blood and Skin Diseases."

MISS GARRATT, Sussex, N.B.

Mrs. William Garratt, Sussex, N. B., writes, May 24, 1904, an interesting letter regarding the cure of her daughter, 14 years ago, of Catarrh of the Throat:

"My daughter, when she was 5 years old, was troubled with a very bad cold for over six months.

She was short of breath, and seemed to be choked up all the time.

"The doctor said it was catarrh of the head and throat, and gave her medicine for it, but it gave no relief. Seeing Psychine advertised, I decided to try it, and before she had finished the first bottle she was as well as ever. The catarrh never returned, although 14 years have passed away since then, and she is now grown to young womanhood."—Mrs. Wm. Garratt.

The first stages of catarrh are commonly called catching cold. It may begin in the head, nose, throat, lungs, or stomach. In the majority of cases no attention is paid to a cold until serious complications set in. Neglect is a sin against yourself, your friends, and loved ones. Symptoms of catarrh, coughs, or colds are often cured with only one bottle of Psychine. Psychine can be purchased at any drug store, at $1.00 per bottle.

Coroner Piper and the jury empaneled to inquire into the cause of the death of Mrs. Sarah Wilson, who was killed by the falling of a tree in West London two weeks ago, continued the hearing of evidence last night. It will be remembered that a gang of workmen were cutting down a tree near the sidewalk and that some of its branches struck Mrs. Wilson and knocked her down, the shock bringing about her death in a short time.

The principal witness was Edward Collins, the foreman of the gang. He said that he had seen deceased going towards her home. He said that she had made some purchases at a farmer's wagon nearby, and had then turned and walked directly towards the tree which was on the point of falling. The shouts raised by the men failed to attract her attention to her danger, and one of the men had seized the falling trunk and succeeded in shoving it several feet to one side. But the branches had struck the old lady.

To the crown attorney witness said that the reason he had not stationed a man to warn people away from the tree was because it was such a small one.

Mr. Robert Venneng, the farmer from whom Mrs. Wilson had been buying vegetables, gave interesting testimony, and it conflicted in one important particular with that given by the members of the tree-cutting gang. While the latter all swore that Venneng was a block away when the tree fell, he himself asserted that he was only a few feet distant. Mrs. Wilson, who had been beside the wagon, had just moved away when the witness heard the shouts of the men, and turned around in time to see the tree fall. Witness was in no danger himself because he had driven several feet away before the fall came.

examined the witness Collins very Crown Attorney McKillop cross-searchingly. He said that it was manifest that the men of the gang had come to some understanding among themselves with regard to what they would say when examined. This, however, they all denied. Mr. McKillop thought that since the farmer had no particular interest in the affair his testimony should be relied upon.

Mr. W. J. Johnston, one of the city's inspectors, also gave evidence. The inquest was adjourned until tomorrow night, when other disinterested spectators of the fatal affair, namely, two girls, who were on the spot at the time, will be put in the box.

SAYS HE'S A THIEF

Montrealer in Chicago Gives Himself Up to the Police.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Crazed with liquor and remorse over the embezzlement of a large sum of money, Hector Moreau, well dressed, of middle age, stood before Mr. Justice Prindiville today and voluntarily told the court he was a thief.

"I stole $15,000 from the firm of Bennings & Barachinus, of Montreal," he said, "and I want to go back there and receive punishment for my crime." While telling his story the face of the prisoner twitched continuously and his hands trembled.

He arrived in Chicago several days ago and put up at the Grand Pacific Hotel, from which he was ejected yesterday because of his erratic actions. Today Moreau ran into the Harrison street station and demanded protection from two imaginary foes that he insanely thought were seeking his life. "They have followed me all the way from Montreal," he exclaimed, "and are going to shoot me. They are right outside now." Sergt Cannon, who was on duty, quickly ran to the door, but could see no one. Then he commenced to talk to Moreau and concluded that the man was in the first stages of delirium tremens, and suffering from hallucinations. The officer finally calmed his visitor, and then the latter stated that he was suffering from remorse as well as liquor. "I was the confidential clerk and bookkeeper of the firm of Bennings & Barachinus, in Montreal," he said. "Last September I stole $15,000 and decamped. Between speculation and carousing I have lost most of it. I can no longer stand the gnawings of my conscience, and want to go back and face the charges."

The police immediately telegraphed to the authorities at Montreal. In the meantime Moreau has been remanded until the Canadian officials are heard from.

BISHOPS ON DIVORCE

Episcopal House of Bishops Against Remarrying.

Boston, Oct 17. — The House of Bishops, one of the legislative bodies of the Episcopal General Convention, today adopted an amendment to the canon on marriage and divorce, forbidding the remarriage of any divorced person. The amendment was substantially the same as that which was rejected by the House of Deputies on Friday last. The action of the bishops was not unexpected as, the sentiment of that body was well known. In fact, a similar amendment was passed at the San Francisco convention three years ago, but failed, as was the case this year, to secure the support of the other house. A conference of committees, representing the bishops and the deputies, will be held to consider the disagreement, but leading clergymen do not anticipate that the deputies will recede from their vote of last week. Among the other amendments presented was one which provides that a divorced person shall not be admitted to the sacraments. There is a proviso, however, that the sacraments shall not be refused to a penitent person in imminent danger of death, nor to any person who shall solemnly aver that he or she was the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery. Another amendment sets forth the procedure to be followed in case a clergyman is in doubt concerning the marriage of any person, and lays the case before the bishops. These two amendments will be taken up tomorrow. Another amendment, which was adopted, compels all clergymen to observe closely the state law on marriage, and provides for the presence of at least two witnesses. The bishops voted to nominate missionary bishops for Cuba, Hankow, China and Salt Lake tomorrow.

FOOTBALL.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Jack Ramsay, the Tigers' star back player, who was injured in Saturday's game, is rapidly recovering, and is now out of all danger. The injury was not as serious as it was at first thought to be, and he will not be out of the game.

Practice was held last night again, and the boys are getting into better condition. The juniors turned out in better numbers than the seniors, but the latter will all be down tonight. Several of the boys get down late in the afternoon, and this is much the better time for those who can get away then, but as team work is more essential than individual kicking and playing, everybody is wanted down at 7:30.

The following senior men are expected out tonight: Edy, Bice, Labatt, Jacobs, Livingston, McCallum, Cal Brown, H. Brown, Girven, Peel, Dr. Scott, Crawford. Any others not mentioned are also requested to be down.

A strong team will go to Woodstock Saturday. The train leaves at 2:30, so that nearly all players can go.

The fact that youth is a great factor in the snapback rules was demonstrated by the Toronto Rugby Club on Saturday, when they fairly made their opponents from Peterboro look like selling platers. The Toronto team is without exception the youngest that is playing the senior series of the O. R. F. U., as the most of them are under 20. Seven of the twelve playing on the line-up played junior last season.—Toronto News.

It might be added that seven of the players who held the Hamilton Tigers down on Saturday for a full half hour to almost an even score, had never played the game until this season.

Another of the boys who should prove a good player, and who is wanted down at practice is Charles Smith, son of C. W. Smith. It is stated on pretty good authority that "Chuck" will get into the game if he is wanted.

A Guardianship Case.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 19.—A brother of Mrs. Shoreland, a former well-known resident of this place, with whom she now lives in Detroit, has applied in the Wayne County, Michigan, court, for guardianship papers over his sister. Mrs. Shoreland owns about $20,000 worth of property in this city. Her relatives here will contest her brother's actions. Charles Mahoney, of the provincial police, has been retained to look up evidence for the Canadian relatives. The latter claim that Mrs. Shoreland is perfectly capable of taking care of her affairs.

Take the first possible opportunity if you want one of these beautiful lots. This is one of the best opportunities the people in the vicinity of London have ever had to secure a home site or make a profitable investment. The terms and inducements offered on this property to home-seekers and investors has never been equaled in London. Take advantage of this opportunity to save your earnings and own your own home.

Advantages and Location.

You have never before been offered for so little money so much land of so desirable a character, with such remarkable terms and inducements. Remember that Glenwood has a frontage of 2,390 feet on Hamilton road, East street and Trafalgar street, with a schoolhouse on the property, and is within easy reach of the city.

LOCAL MARKET.

London, Wednesday, Oct. 19.

Sales were brisk for the 20 loads of hay that were on the stand today. Prices were unchanged at $7 to $8 per ton.

Oats were in good demand for the dozen loads that were offered. Prices ruled at 94c to 95c per cwt.

A couple of loads of straw sold at $5 per ton. There is a good demand.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The markets held during the past six days were fairly well attended. The smaller lines formed the bulk of the offerings, sales on the whole being fairly brisk. Prices did not fluctuate very much during the week.

Grain—Oats sell readily at 93c to 95c per cwt., mostly at the last-named figure. Wheat sells at $1 01 per bushel.

Hay and Straw—The delivery of hay during the week was about up to the average, so far as the number of loads is concerned. The demand is fairly brisk at $7 50 to $8 50 per ton, mostly at $8 per ton. Straw is scare and in good demand at $5 per ton.

Butter and Eggs—While there is no change in prices of butter, the market is a shade weaker; sales are fairly brisk at 17c to 18c for crocks, and 18c to 19c for pound rolls by the basket lot. Eggs are firmer, the demand being good. Prices are a trifle higher, at 19c to 20c per dozen, wholesale.

Fruits—Apples are the chief supply in this line; sales are slow at 90c to $1 per barrel for good stock, or 40c to 50c per bag. So far there has not been very much buying by the shippers, a few sales having been reported to have been made at 75c per barrel for choice stock. Grapes are dull at 20c per 10-pound basket. Pears, 50c to 80c per bushel. Chestnuts, $3 50 to $4 per bushel. Peaches are about done for this season.

Poultry—Sales are brisk in this line for good plump fowls. Prices rule at 45c to 60c per pair for live chickens and 50c to 80c per pair dressed. Ducks, dressed, 70c to $1 10 per pair, mostly at 80c to 90c per pair. Turkeys, dressed, 12c per pound for gobblers, and 13c to 14c for hens. There is much demand for turkeys

Dressed Hogs—Sales are brisk at $7 50 to $7 75 per cwt. Prices are expected to be lower.

Live Hogs—The price paid here on last Monday was $5 15 per cwt for selects, as prices in the leading markets are lower it is expected that about $5 00 per cwt will be the figures for next Monday's shipment.

Butchers' Meat—Sales are slow in this line. Prices rule at $5 00 to $6 50 per cwt for beef, $6 00 to $7 00 for mutton; lamb, 8c to 9c per pound; veal $7 per cwt.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stock broker, Bank of Commerce building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, Oct. 19. — The market opened irregular, but after a brief period of liquidation turned strong under the leadership of St. Paul, and the coalers. Atchison was again given considerable attention on more or less definite statements that the Union Pacific directors would shortly enter the Atchison board. Union Pacific made no particular gain, but holders are firm. It is said the annual report to be released tomorrow would show something over 11 per cent earned on the common stock. Sales to noon, 838,700.

HELPED HIMSELF TO PAIR OF SHOES

Young Fellow's Foolish Prank Got Him Into Trouble—A Lodger Bounced.

That the police magistrate knows when to temper justice with mercy was shown this morning, when he allowed William McKenzie to go on suspended sentence on a charge of stealing a pair of shoes from a down-town store. McKenzie had pleaded guilty to the charge and said that he had been drinking, and was not acountable. The magistrate said that this was no excuse, but as he heard good reports of McKenzie's character, he had concluded that the theft had been committed more in the nature of a prank than anything else. McKenzie had been living with an old couple, and the magistrate had heard that he had treated them so kindly that he did not believe there was anything the matter with him but a tendency for strong drink. He was let go on suspended sentence.

John McCann, who said that he came from Toronto, was remanded for a week on a charge of vagrancy. He had been sleeping in the police station for five nights past, and the police thought that it was becoming too much of a good thing.

William Bavin, 17 years of age, but older in ways that are dark than years, was up again. This time a charge being both drunk and a vagrant was laid against him. The magistrate said that anyone who gave liquor to a boy of his age should be severely punished. Bavin said that he had another job waiting for him, but that was too old an excuse to go with the magistrate, and he was remanded for a week for sentence.

One delinquent dog owner and two first-time drunks were let go.

SUICIDED BY THE MORPHINE ROUTE

Mason Norris, a London Barber, Becomes Despondent and Takes Life in Detroit.

Sad news was brought to the home of Mrs. Catherine Norris, of 185 Grey street, yesterday, in a telegram which announced that her son, Mason Norris, a barber, had committed suicide by taking a dose of morphine on Monday night. The unfortunate man's brother and sister have gone to Detroit to look after the remains.

Norris lived in this city until a few years ago, when he left for Michigan, intending to start a barber shop. He located in Eloise, and lived there until recently, when he removed to Detroit and opened a small shop. He was doing a fairly good business, but for the past few days he had been despondent. He took the morphine at 1643 Gratiot avenue, where he was living, and when discovered by friends was still alive. He acknowledged that he had taken the drug and said that he was sick of life. He was beyond aid, and died in a short time. Coroner Toepel was called, and he decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

None of Norris' friends in Detroit knew where his relatives were, but from papers in his pocket it was discovered that they lived in London, and they were immediately notified. Norris was a middle-aged man, unmarried, and was well known.

SAFEST FOOD

In Any Time of Trouble Is Grape-Nuts

Food to rebuild the strength and that is predigested must be selected when one is convalescent. At this time there is nothing so valuable as Grape-Nuts for the reason that this food is all nourishment and is also all digestible nourishment. A woman who used it says:

"Some time ago I was very ill with typhoid fever, so ill everyone thought I would die, even myself. It left me so weak I could not properly digest food of any kind and I also had much bowel trouble which left me a weak, helpless wreck.

"I needed nourisment as badly as anyone could, but none of the tonics helped me until I finally tried Grape-Nuts food morning and evening. This not only supplied food that I thought delicious as could be, but it also made me perfectly well and strong again so I can do all my housework, sleep well, can eat anything without any trace of bowel trouble and for that reason alone Grape-Nuts food is worth its weight in gold." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

Typhoid fever, like some other diseases attacks the bowels and frequently sets up bleeding and makes them for months incapable of digesting the starches and therefore predigested Grape-Nuts is invaluable for the well-known reason that in Grape-Nuts all the starches have been transformed into grape sugar. This means that the first stage of digestion has been mechanically accomplished in Grape-Nuts food at the factories, and therefore anyone, no matter how weak the stomach, can handle it and grow strong, for all the nourishment is still there.

There's a sound reason and 10 days trial proves.

FIRST CAR OVER NEW BELT LINE

Operation of South Street Belt Extension Is Not Likely to Begin at Once, However.

This morning the first car over the South street belt line was run. It was car No. 64, and is being used on the construction work, having been run onto the new line from the Hamilton road. It could go no further west than the L. and P. S. R. tracks, as the crossing has not yet been completed. A large gang of men are, however, working on it each day, and it will soon be in working order.

Tomorrow, the 20th of October, the company is bound to run cars if the city says so, but the line is not by any means in working shape yet.

Residents of the south end complain that a telegraph or telephone pole which had to be removed to make way for the care line at the corner of South and Wellington streets, has been placed right in the middle of the roadway on the north side of the track. The attention of City Engineer Graydon has been called to this matter.

CHARGE IS DENIED BY DR. MONTAGUE

Tells Hamilton Reporter He Will Not Be a Candidate in London.

It is somewhat difficult even for Conservatives to find out just where the local Conservatives are at in the matter of the nomination of Dr. Montague, of Hamilton, to oppose Hon. Mr. Hyman in this city. Some of the prominent members of the party declare the doctor will accept the nomination, while others are dubious on the subject.

In an interview with a reporter of the Hamilton Times, Dr. Montague yesterday denied that he is to be the Conservative candidate in this city, and declared that he knew nothing of the rumor that he was to run in London. It is well known, however, that the doctor was well aware yesterday that his name was to go before the Conservative convention, as he was in the city a couple of days ago, and held a conference with the local managers. Here is what the Hamilton Times says:

Yesterday's London Advertiser spoke of Hon. Dr. Montague as a possible candidate in London, where the Tories are having a hard time to find anyone to run against Hon. C. S. Hyman.

When interviewed at the Hamilton Club this morning by a Times reporter, the doctor denied the rumor that he would be the Tory standard-bearer in London.

"Such a rumor is going the rounds," he was told.

"I know nothing whatever about it," he said.

"Then it is not so."

"No; there is no truth in it."

SUIT AGAINST THE CITY AND RAILWAY

Joint Action Brought for Damages Owing to Accident Last Winter.

In the county civil court this morning, the case of Sellers vs. the city and the street railway company was begun. Plaintiff is suing to recover damages for losses occasioned by his horse running away on account, it is alleged, of the large piles of snow allowed to remain on the side of the street. Mr. E. Weld, for the plaintiff; Mr. T. G. Meredith, for the city, and Mr. Dromgole, for the railway company.

Mr. C. P. Sellers was the first and chief witness. He related that he had been driving in his cutter along the east side of Richmond street near Dundas, on Feb. 25 last, with his wife and child. He was driving the horse at a walk, but suddenly the cutter "slewed" over on to the east tracks of the street railway. The runners caught in the tracks, the horse became frightened and darted forward, and the cutter was soon upset. The snow, piled high along the east side of the tracks, was what had caused the cutter to slew, and finally to tip over. Witness had tried to stop the horse, and, at the same time, to balance the cutter, but without avail. When the spill occurred, Sellers had to jump in order not to fall on the other occupants of the rig. Witness held on to the reins, and was dragged about 50 feet. The horse made a break up Dundas street, and at one time it looked as if the frightened animal was going to dash into one of the store windows. However, it was brought to a standstill by slipping on the curb and falling on its side.

The snow, which had caused the runaway, had been swept off the car tracks by the machine, and was lying to the depth of twenty inches along either side of the road. The snow was, however, outside of the fifteen-foot strip over which the street railway company has control. It was on the city's ground. Thus both defendants were involved, the one for piling the snow, the other for letting it stay there.

Witness further said that there had been no snowfall for some time before the accident. The snow had been piled up for about a month.

"Can you suggest any way by which the defendants could have made the carriage way, where your cutter slipped, more secure?" asked Mr. Weld.

"Well, if they had let the snow lie as nature had put it, it would have been all ight. There would have been no slew-hole."

Plaintiff further told Mr. Weld that he sustained painful injuries on his thigh on acount of his mishap. He assessed his personal injuries at $25 damages. The horse was cut and bruised, and the harness was ruined. The horse had to be "sewed up" in three places, and it was unfit for duty for about four weeks. The damages to the horse and cutter were far greater than those to Sellers.

The main point at issue was whether plaintiff could not have kept far enough away from the tracks to prevent slipping into them. Plaintiff explained that the snow had an equally bad slope towards the curb. It was, therefore, a sort of balancing feat to keep on top of the ridge. Plaintiff had done his best to maintain the balance, but probably the horse was not up to the game. The latter had got a little too near the tracks and then the slipping business had begun.

WILL NOT HOLD JOINT MEETINGS

Mr. Peter Elson Refuses to Meet Mr. J. M. McEvoy on the Platform.

Mr. Peter Elson, the Conservative candidate for the east riding of Middlesex, will not meet the Liberal candidate, Mr. John M. McEvoy, on the platform and discuss the issues of the day.

Mr. McEvoy recently wrote to Mr. Elson, proposing that a series of joint meetings should be held throughout the riding, thus meaning a great saving of time, and also affording the electors a better opportunity to hear the public questions dealt with from both points of view.

The proposition of the Liberal candidate, however, has been declined by Mr. Elson. In a letter to Mr. McEvoy, he says that he cannot consent to joint meetings, owing to the lack of time at his disposal.

Mr. McEvoy holds a meeting at Belmont tonight.

Orange Meat

An Ideal Breakfast

The British Columbia Outlook.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 14. — With nearly all the candidates in the field the federal campaign in British Columbia is well under way. There are seven constituencies: Comox-Atlin, Kootenay, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Vancouver, Victoria and Yale-Cariboo—and in four of them, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Victoria and Vancouver, the result will be decided almost entirely by an urban vote. Tersely stated, the four chief towns of British Columbia will determine to a great extent which of the two political parties will secure provincial predominance in the Commons.

A dispassionate view of the situation will make the candid thinker admit unhesitatingly that is British Columbia is now Liberal in its federal representation, so it will remain.

Sir Wilfrid has added another meeting to his itinerary. He will speak on Saturday, Oct. 22, at 1:30 p.m. at Carleton Place, North Lanark, in the interest of Mr. T. B. Caldwell, the Liberal candidate.

Hon. Clifford Sifton has expressed his willingness to meet R. L. Richardson on the platform at Brandon on Oct. 31, in joint debate. Mr. Sifton will allow Mr. Richardson to name his own time of speaking.

The statement that the West Algoma election would be postponed seems to have been without foundation. The election will be held on Nov. 3. Mr. J. J. Kehoe, the Liberal candidate, is conducting a most energetic campaign. The date of the Dauphin election has been postponed. Nominations will take place on Nov. 7, and polling on the 14th. It is understood that the election in Mackenzie constituency will take place on the same day. Owing to the vast territory covered by both Mackenzie and Dauphin, it is impossible to get all the ballot boxes to the returning officers in time for election day on Nov. 3, hence the postponement.

Sweet as a Rose.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Sir Herrick is only just in time to save her; as it was, but for the intelligence of the colt, who, feeling her hand relax its hold upon the rein, stops short, she would have been under the horse's heels.

For a moment he thinks that she is dead; so white is the beautiful face, so still and lifeless the lithe girlish form.

"Oh, Heaven," he murmurs, "I have killed her—killed her!"

But almost before the dreadful words have left his lips, she opens her eyes and looks up at him vacantly.

"Bob," she murmurs, "it is quite true!" and the dull agony in the tone goes straight to his heart like a knife.

"Paula," he murmurs, hoarsely, as he sinks on to his knees, still holding her —"Paula, my darling, speak to me. It is Rick, not Bob."

Slowly his voice reaches her, and with a piteous gesture she puts up her hand as if to push him from her.

"Don't—don't touch me!" she murmurs quickly, and with an actual shudder. "Have you not gone? Where am I? Is it—is it morning? Have I been dreaming? Ah!"—a full consciousness rushes back upon her and she remembers all—"No, I remember"—with an awful look of misery—"I remember," and as she speaks she gently but firmly puts his arm from her and rises, her hand, cold and trembling, seeking the colt who stands eying them with a grave, stolid stare.

Sir Herrick stands for a moment silent as she puts her hand to her quivering lips and struggles, with heaving breast, for mental and physical strength.

Then he says in a low imploring voice:

"Paula, you will let me take your hand to the gate?"

She shakes her head.

"No, I am—am quite well now. It—it was the heat. If you will go, I will rest here for a little while."

He raises his head sadly.

"I cannot go and leave you here alone and ill. Oh, Paula"—piteously—"have some mercy on me; the worst criminal, the vilest sinner—there is mercy for all;" and his voice grows inaudible.

She looks at him with an awful touching sadness in her eyes that is more hopeless than the most fiery anger.

"Have I—have I been too hard?" she says faintly. "I am sorry. Yes, I am sorry. I did not mean to be. I will ask you to forgive me," and the tears rise to her gentle eyes.

"For heaven's sake, do not speak to me like that," he exclaims remorsefully. "Hard! No, you have not been hard enough. No punishment could be too hard for me. I deserve all—all you can say. And yet, Paula, if you would but listen to me, I would try and show you that I have not been quite so vile as—you deem me."

"Do not ask me," she says, as a big tear falls down her cheek unnoticed. "I cannot—dare not listen."

"Dare not?" he breathes, a sudden hope rising within him.

"Dare not," she repeats faintly, "if I listened I should yield. No, no, do not move, do not come near me. I should yield now and hate myself, and you, afterwards."

Her head falls.

"Do you not see," she says, her eyes fixed vacantly on the trees behind, as if she were communing with herself, "that all is over? That no explanation you could offer would alter the facts—the cruel, hard facts? Even if—if you still loved me."

"Still loved you!" he echoes with bitter irony.

"If—as you say—you say—you still loved me, that the dream is broken, the vase shattered. I could never trust you again—forgive me, I do not mean to be hard. No, no! I do not wish to say another hard word; it is you who force me."

"Go on," he says hopelessly "I would rather that you should say the bitterest words that could leave your lips, than not hear you."

"As I have said, I feel that you understand," she murmurs, "I am sorry—sorry — sorry that we met. If I had known I would have written to you——"

"I should have come to you!"

"It would have spared both of us this —this sad parting."

"It is a mad, a cruel mad parting," he says, bitterly, fiercely. "In time—in time to come you will see this. I cannot tell you now, you will not hear me, but in the future you will understand."

"In the future," she echoes, with a sad smile, "yes, perhaps, but the present is still so hard to bear. Will you go now? I—I have said that I bear you no ill-will—is not that the proper word?" and she smiles a smile more pitiful than a sob. "I—I shall alway 'be glad to hear—from others," quickly "that you—you are happy and prosperous! Perhaps, in that future you—you speak of, we shall meet as—as"—bitterly—"as friends."

"Never!" he says, hoarsely.

"It will be better not," she assents. "We will not meet, let us hope; and we will try and forget. The world will help you and she——"

He breaks in with a passionate fierceness.

"If you have ever had one kindly thought for me," he exclaime, with his hands clenched, "do not bring 'her' into the discussion."

"Well, I will not," she says meekly. "Poor girl! Yes, I can pity her, for she has been unhappy, and I—I know now what unhappiness means." Then for the last time she forgets mercy, and utters the cruelest speech she has yet vented. "Until you came I—I was happy; I se now how happy!"

He bites his lips until the blood starts.

"But"—she says, repenting her—"but I shall be happy again. I am not one to wear the willow. Bob—Bob!" faltering, "always said trouble would roll off me like water off a duck's back. Let us hope that it may. And—now—for the last time, 'Good-bye,'" and she forces herself to hold out her hand.

He takes it in both his; his are hot and burning, hers as cold as ice—and strikes through her to her heart; his eyes seek hers, and go to them with a passionate, humble supplication; but he knows it is hopeless; far more hopeless with that expression on her face than when it was flushed with indignation.

Slowly still looking at him, she draws her hand away, and with an inarticulate groan, he turns away and slowly disappears amidst the trees.

Paula watches him until the beloved form has completely vanished, then she leans her head on her hands upon the saddle, and lets the tears flow unchecked. It is fortunate that she can cry. Some hearts have broken under the strain of such agony as overwhelms her; but for this vent, the tortured soul would have been too hardly pressed.

THE TIME GROWS SHORT!

OUR lease will soon expire and much of Whiskard's stock remains unsold, so the knife must go deeper. The Sale has been a great success and many thousands of well pleased buyers have been served, but it requires a lot of selling to dispose of a stock so heavy in Silks, Satins, Ribbons, Laces, Embroideries, Wools, Chiffons, Etc. Bargains fully as good as those picked up still remain, and from Dundas Street to Carling Street on both sides of the store are opportunities for saving money, such as may not occur again for years. AND A DOLLAR SAVED IS A DOLLAR GAINED. This is the place and today is the time to save both dimes and dollars.

GOLF.

LONDON GOLFERS LOSE.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—A match was played between London and the Hunt Club lady golfers over the Hunt Club links today. Mrs. Barwick gave a luncheon for the London golfers, who are Miss Belton, Miss L. Hyman, Miss A. Hyman, Miss J. Hale, Miss Peters, Miss Beddome, Miss Scatcherd, Miss Puddicombe, Miss Magee, Miss L. Gibson. The visitors were defeated by 10 down. They will play St. Catharines and Buffalo before returning home.

CURLING.

ANNUAL MEET OF O. C. A.

Toronto, Oct. 18. — The annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association opened this morning. The officers elected are: President, W. B. McMurray, Toronto; first vice-president, T. O. Robson, St. Marys; second vice-president, Rev. R. N. Burns, Brampton; secretary, J. A. McFadden, Toronto. Several changes were made in the grouping, especially in the groups for the district cups, which were increased from four to six. Last year's executive committee was re-elected. The new president, W. B. McMurray, entertained the delegates at a luncheon, at which Lieut.-Gov. Clark was present.

WRESTLING.

MAUPUS DOWNED.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 18. — Charles ("Yankee") Rogers last night defeated Maupus, a Canadian wrestler, in two straight falls. Rogers won the first fall, catch-as-catch-can, in 11 minutes and 30 seconds, and the second, at Graeco-Roman, in 31 minutes and 10 seconds.

CARPETBALL.

A CLOSE GAME.

Court Brighton, A. O. F., was defeated in a carpetball match last night by Council No. 19, C. O. C. F., by a score of 36 to 32.

For that tight feeling in your chest

There is a remedy over 60 years old—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Of course you have heard of it, probably have used it. Once in the family, it stays; the one household remedy for coughs and hard colds on the chest. Ask your doctor about it. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

NO CAUSE FOR DISCOURAGEMENT

London's Game at Hamilton Should Not Dishearten the Boys.

London's game at Hamilton need in no way discourage the hopes of the team's well-wisher's here. An example of the uncertainty of the game is shown by the two matches between Brockville and Gananoque. In the game at Brockville on Oct. 1, the home team won by a score of 55 to 12, and in Gananoque last Saturday Brockville was defeated by 27 to 7.

The snap-back game requires very faithful practice. The team must play as one man, and not individually. The Tigers' system of combination work was very good at times last Saturday, while the London team practically did no passing at all. Condition counts in the long run, and with the amount of uncertainty in the new game the result of the contest is ever in doubt until the whistle blows.

In the senior series at present Toronto and Hamilton are leading, but the other teams are by no means out of the race.

In the junior series, section A, the Limestones have had it their own way so far. In section B, the Central Y. M. C. A. team have been successful in both games played, and look like winners. The fight in sections C and D will probably be close. Dundas is at present ahead, but has four games to play. Guelph and the Junior Tigers are showing up strong and will give the leaders a good run for first place.

London and Petrolea are tied in section D, London has two more games at home to play and one at Sarnia, and will win all three if the boys stay right with the game and practice hard. The contest in section D bids fair to be a lively one, as both Sarnia and Stratford, and especially the latter, are showing up strong.

	W.	L.	To play.
Hamilton	2	0	2
London	1	1	2
Victorias	0	2	2

JUNIOR O.R.F.U. STANDING.

	W.	L.	To play.
Petrolea	2	1	3
London	2	1	3
Sarnia	1	2	3
Stratford	1	2	3

SPEEDY WATERLOOS ARE IN LINE FOR THE SEASON

The Waterloos held a very enthusiastic meeting last evening. It was decided to enter a team in both the city leagues, junior and senior. Considering the successful years the Waterloos have had in the past, there is no reason why the succeeding one should not be more so. Most of last year's players are available with the exception of Art Reed, who is shortly leaving the city. Several new players were in attendance and signified their intention of turning out with the champions. The following officers were elected: Honorary president, M. Millman; president, A. Fisher; first vice-president, S. MacIntosh; second vice-president, L. Coughlin; treasurer, B. Fraser; secretary Waterloos I., N. Wollatt; secretary of Waterloos II., A. McLennan; manager Waterloos I., E. Fields; manager of Waterloos II., J. Grant; representatives to leagues, senior, H. Marshall, R. MacIntosh; junior, F. Phelps, C. Buller.

BOWLING.

LAST WAS A CLOSE ONE.

The last bowling game of the season was played yesterday between rinks from the Thistle and Asylum Clubs. The game resulted in a tie, both teams doing great work. The score:

Asylum.		Thistles.

Dr. Bell.		L. J. Walker.

TIE SCORE IN GAME FOR CUP

Collegiate and City Football Teams Meet for the First Time This Season.

The Collegiate Institute and city football teams met for the first time on the St. John's grounds last night in a regular scheduled game in the City League series. The students managed to have their full team on hand for the first time this season, and a most interesting game followed. It was rather expected that the Institute would prove easy victims for the stalwart Loudons, but the game looked as though it might end otherwise up to the last couple of minutes of the close of play, when the city got another goal an tied the score. During the first half neither side scored, the combination work of the city forwards being rather weak and ineffective. After half time they changed their line-up considerably and by so doing improved their forward line, but weakened their defense. The Londons scored first, then the Collegiate wakened up and assaulted the goal so vigorously that they soon scored. After ten minutes they scored a second time, and it looked for a time as though the Londons were doomed to defeat, but a couple of minutes before time they evened up the score of 2 all. Mr. Blackwell, of the Medical College, acted as referee, and gave good satisfaction, no rough or ungentlemanly conduct occurring during the game. All games so far, except one, have resulted in ties, and the second round in the series will prove a very interesting one both for players and spectators, as all teams are within winning range of the McCutcheon cup. The line-up follows:

L. C. I.		Londons.
MacKenzie	Goal	Couse
Campbell	Backs	Bryant
Downing	Backs	Wallace
Fredin	Half Backs	Crisp
J. Campbell	Half Backs	Irons
Bowes	Half Backs	Scott
Garrett	Forwards	Carter
W. Campbell	Forwards	Gilbert
Sage	Forwards	McWilliams
Parkinson	Forwards	Smith
Legg	Forwards	Jones

JOHNNIE K. LOWERS WAGON TRACK RECORD

The race held yesterday at Queen's Park for the Free Press cup was won by Johnnie K., owned by Mr. George McCormick. There were five starters, and Johnnie K. had to work hard for the honors, the field including Lady Black, the promising pacer owned by Dr. Fred Wood, and Sheik Indrum, the property of Mr. William Robinson, which cleared up everything in the local matinees in the spring and winter. In taking the cup, Mr. McCormick's horse lowered the wagon track record. The summaries:

Johnnie K., G. McCormick 1 1 1
Sheik Indrum, W. E. Robinson ..3 2 3
Lady Black, Dr. F. Wood 4 3 2
Mona B., G. McCormick 2 4 4
Dentist, Dr. J. Wood 5 5 5

Time, 1:09½, 1:10, 1:11.

THE RING.

BIG MATCH ARRANGED.

New York, Oct. 18.—A match for a $10,000 side bet was arranged today between Young Corbett (Wm. Rothwell) and Jabez White, the English lightweight champion. The fight will take place in London on Nov. 30. Charles Mitchell, the former heavy-weight prize-fighter, conducted the negotiations on behalf of White. An odd feature of the match is that Charles White, the American referee, will officiate. It was agreed that both sides would abide by his interpretation of the Queensbery rules. Mitchell demurred over Rothwell's programme for an earlier fight in California, but Rothwell declared that it would make no difference, and that he should insist on carrying out his plan to box Nelson first. Young Corbett will leave today for the Pacific coast to meet "Battling" Nelson in San Francisco next month.

CONDITION OF THE BISHOP OF HURON LESS FAVORABLE TODAY

Decided Change for the Worse This Morning—End Not Far Distant.

The citizens, and the people of Western Ontario at large, will be sorry to learn that the condition of the Bishop of Huron has taken a decided change for the worse. Early this morning the weakening of the respiration and the increased rapidity of the pulse were signs that the distinguished patient is much weaker than yesterday, and that his life is soon to go out.

His lordship may last until tomorrow, but it is improbable.

The attending physicians, Drs. Becher and Moorhouse, are suprised that his lordship has lingered as long as he has. They say that the bishop had a marvelous sturdy constitution, but that, so eager was he in the cause to which he had devoted his life, he did not take precautions to guard his health. His lordship could never find it in his heart to refuse any calls which were made upon him, and he would often conduct three services in one day. Hard work told upon a naturally fine constitution, and the arterial system lost its elasticity and became hardened. It was the rupture of an artery in the brain that brought about the present fatal stroke of paralysis.

Since last Friday nourishment has been administered artificially to the patient at "Bishopstowe," and he has had waves of vitality, which have carried him along for several days. But now the sad end of a noble life is believed to be close at hand. Rev. Day Baldwin, the bishop's only son, who returned to his charge in Montreal over Sunday, is again at his father's bedside.

CONSERVATIVES BEG DR. MONTAGUE TO TAKE NOMINATION FOR LONDON

Convention Held Last Night—Speeches by a Number of Local Workers.

The cut-and-dried programme for the nomination of Dr. Montague was carried out at the Conservative convention last night, in spite of a strong undercurrent of dissatisfaction which could not be suppressed.

Mr. T. G. Meredith was chosen chairman of the gathering, and with him were Mr. Wm. Gray, Major Beattie, ex-M. P., Dr. Roome, Mr. Ed Meredith, K. C., and Ald. Matthews. Mayor Beck was conspicuous by his absence.

When it came time to do or die Major Beattie arose, beamed upon his audience, and nominated Dr. Montague as the party candidate. He assured his hearers that Mr. Borden would be the next premier, and the doctor would be of great assistance to him as a cabinet minister.

Continuing, the major declared that Dr. Montague was a Middlesex boy. The doctor, being a fine speaker, would make the Liberals squirm.

Ald. Forristal, by pre-arrangement, seconded the nomination. "Work with a vim and shout hurrah," said Ald. Forristal, "and you'll be sure to win out."

"The foe was wily, the foe was unscrupulous, but the foe had been beaten in the past. And the foe coulfi be defeated now," concluded the alderman.

After Dr. John D. Wilson had told of how he knew Dr. Montague when the latter was a boy, he wanted to know what was the matter with Major Beattie? Why didn't he run? He would prefer him to Dr. Montague as a candidate. The major had fought valiantly before, and why not now? He therefore moved, seconded by Mr. McNee, that Major Beattie be the standard-bearer.

The major didn't say so, but it was evident he much preferred being a live citizen to a dead political hero. He declined Dr. Wilson's nomination, and in a few words again staked Dr. Montague for the martyrdom.

Then there were calls for Dr. Wilson and Ald. Becher, but the managers paid no attention.

Mr. T. G. Meredith next spoke, dealing with the Grand Trunk Pacific, and declaring that the Liberal party was going back—literally going to pieces.

Mr. William Gray next addressed the assemblage, and began to prophesy. All over the country he told his hearers, the signs are multiplying that the days of the Laurier Government are numbered. He warned all present to keep an eye peeled for ballot switchers, and all such gentry.

Mr. Ed Meredith came forth with a fighting speech, which sounded very much like Kuropatkin's address to his troops just before the Japs gave him the last drubbing. Mr. Meredith said the party in London was fighting in support of Conservative principles. They had against them, "the Laurier Government, and the rotten Ross Government." It was an awful combination, but fighting would overcome it. After Laurier had been downed; Ross would be dealt with. There was no reason to be afraid of Hyman. He was not invincible.

Ex-Mayor Essery said that in Dr. Montague was a candidate of whom all London Conservatives might feel proud. Then he turned his attention to Premier Laurier and rehashed the old story of the Saskatchewan musket. Laurier had boasted of his policy of "Laurier and Larger Canada," but who was it allowed a huge chunk of Canada to be lopped off and nailed on to Alaska? Ask Aylesworth, he said.

Mr. Essery also alluded to Lord Dundonald, and urged the electors to remember his said fate on election day. In conclusion, the speaker said: "The city can always be won by the Conservatives, if the party is united. We have nominated a full-fledged cabinet minister, a first-class workman. Let us pit him against the apprentice who is serving his time in the department of a sick man without the master being there to teach him."

Dr. Roome spoke briefly, referring to Dr. Montague as one of the first orators of Canada. And what the Conservatives needed badly at present was speakers to lay the Government's policy before the electors.

Ald. Judd adjured his hearers to pay no attention to any stories they might hear about Dr. Montague.

"You can't believe half you hear at election times, and you should not be ready to listen to what his opponents have to say against him. The object of the Reform party will be to lead you away from the issues of the day," he concluded. "The doctor will be the next member for London, and the first member to enter the Dominion Cabinet when Mr. Borden is premier."

Ald. Matthews asked the party to win another victory like that of the municipal elections.

The meeting was then brought to a close by Mr. T. G. Meredith calling for cheers for the candidate and Mr. Borden.

SOME INTERESTING OLD DOCUMENTS

The Historical Society Discusses Them at Opening Meeting of the Season.

The Historical Society of the County of Middlesex held its first session of the season in the public library rooms last evening. Mr. John Dearness, the president, was in the chair, and a good number of the members were in attendance. Some very interesting documents and relics were discussed. Among them was the series of papers, written by Capt. John Stevens, father of the late Richard Stevens, and grandfather of Roland Stevens, relating to the first settlers in this district. The first of these documents, read by Principal McQueen, of Victoria School, was a copy of a letter written by the founder of the Stevens family to England, in which are described very picturesquely all the adventures of that gentleman from the time when he first landed in 1818. He tells that he first of all had settled in Nissouri Township, whose only occupants at that time were Indians, and wild animals. Selling his farm for $600 in 1824, Capt. Stevens had removed to Westminster, where his descendants still remain.

Mr. McQueen read another paper which described a meeting of the London and Gore Railway Company in the year 1835. Lieut. Thomas Cronyn presided at the meeting and Mr. Wm. Robinson was secretary, and the object in view was the planning of a new line from London to Lake Ontario.

A most interesting survival of the past was an invitation to the festivities held in the Mansion Hotel on St. Patrick's night 1833.

A great deal of valuable information with regard to the Bureau of Archives of Ontario was given by Archivist Fraser of that department. Speaking with regard to the connection of the bureau and the historical societies of Ontario, Mr. Fraser said that the creation of this office evidenced the growing desire on the part of the people to know more about the history of their country. The composing of the Domes Day Book was one of the useful works which the bureau had on hand, and it would take many years.

Miss Mills sang very sweetly, to her own accompaniment, during the evening, which was a most pleasant and profitable one.
