Seattle, Washington, Aug. 23 .- Chas. W. Nordstrom was hanged here today for the muder, November 27, 1891, of William Mason.

Shortly after 9.30 Nordstrom was taken to a room adjoining the death chamber. He wept continually. It required the utmost efforts of four men to keep him on his feet. When he was taken into the death chamber he broke down entirely, crying in a childish voice and praying that his life be spared. Then he collapsed entirely and fell to the floor. Efforts to raise him and keep him on his feet were fruitless. Finally Sheriff Cuda- | side a fence corner and rested his hee ordered that a board be brought. officers took up the chase. HIS CONSCIENCE

Bell boy Took Money Six Years ago

Adrian, Michigan, Aug. 24.-Robert Eilenburg, of Montgomery, Ala., a musician, made a hurried visit to this city yesterday on a peculiar mission. Some six summers ago he was a guest at the Lawrence Hotel, and while there lost his pocketbook containing $240, in a toilet room. Last week a woman called at the hotel and asked if the address of the gentleman, who lost the money was known. Mr. Wyatt the landlord, in 1895, fished out the register, and lo-cated the loser in the sunny South. Meanwhile the woman, who proved to be the mother of a bell boy, George Umbacher, employed at the time of the disappearance, had prepared a statement, in which a daughter jo'ned, to the effect that the son had found the pocket-book and money, and had brought it home. He had induced the women to burn the book and had told them he was going to keep the money. o be the mother of a bell boy, George them he was going to keep the money, as the man could afford to lose it better than he, a poor bell-boy, could. He then purchased some real estate and some horse flesh. Then he got married. The statement goes on to say that they were sore troubled as to their consciences—hence the inquiry for the Montgomery man.

Hardly had Eilenburg appeared on the scene yesterday to lay claim to the treasure-trove when George Umbacher mysteriously disappeared. Eilenburg placed the matter in the hands of officers, and went to the Pan-American to cool off. The authorities, however, think there are too many fine points of law involved in the case, and refuse to issue a warthe case, and refuse to issue a rant for Umbacher.

HEROIC MOTHER

She Battled Despera'ely to save her Babe From an Eagle

Uniontown, Aug. 24.-Letters reeived here tell the story of the rescue of her child by Mrs. Annie Goulding, formerly of this county, from an eagle's nest in the Victor mountains, California.

On July 19, Mrs. Goulding, with her -months'-old babe, was in the yard of her home. Suddenly a huge bald eagle alighted and seized the babe in its talons slowly rose and made straight for mountains nine miles distant. Although nearly paralyzed with fear the mother mounted a mule which happened to be fastened nearby and at once gave chase to the monster bird which was carrying away her child. The weight of the child (20 odd lbs.) greatly retarded its flight across the arid and treeless plain, and she was able to keep it plainly in sight. As the base of the mountain was reached a growth of small scrubby bushes. caused the bird to rise higher until it slowly deposited its burden upon a shelving rock near the nest.

Mrs. Goulding at once tried to reach the high cliff, but found it impossi-ble, and returning to the mule she rode around the mountain, still as-cending where it was possible. At last she came where ascent was impossi-ble, and again she fastened the mule and began the ascent carrying with her a stout club, and also the long her a stout club, and also the long stake rope used in tying around the neck of stock while grazing. She was successful in finding a place where she could ascend to nearly where her child lay on the ledge just below her.

She fastened the end of the rope securely and then descended hand over hand until to her great joy she saw her child lying on the rock near the nest. She at once secured it and was trying to regain a little of her exhausted strength when to her horror she saw the hure bird dart from an she saw the hum bird dart from an adjoining cliff to attack her. A terrific fight ensued, the mother finally killing the eagle, and its mate, and returning, exhausted, with her babe uninjured save for a few scratches.

Mrs. Hannah Badger, of Hamilton, died as the result of burns sustained through the explosion of a stove.

Substitute Teacher Appointed-Oth Business Transacted at the Meeting.

Board was held last evening in the city council chambers. Those present were William Robertson, W. N. Morley, A. Thomson, Dr., R. V. Bray, John McCorvie, J. A. Wilson, Secretary T. C. Macnabb, and Inspector Robert Park,

The first thing dealt with was the question of substitutes to be engaged. Trustee Roberison, moved, seconder by Mr. Morley, that Miss Mabel Birch take Miss Barassin's -place during her absence,-Carried.

Miss Gordon wished to have her eave of absence made two month nstead of four.-Granted. Mr. Robertson moved, seconded by Mr. Morley, that Miss Marion McCawe be the substitute for Miss Gordon --The huestion of the boundary beween the schools was left until the registers of the teachers could be ob-

Mr. Thomson moved that the Payne school be closed and that the classes be put in the Central.-Carried.

Mr. Robertson moved, seconded by Mr. Morley, that Mr. Plewes be put in charge of Queen St. school as well as the Central, as he chought that better work could be done with both schools under one management. Mr. Morley said, in seconding the motion that it was a good idea. Mr. Wilson said the movement had not been made out of any non-confidence in Miss Dawson, the principal, but that the two schools could work better under Mr. Piewes' manage-

Mr. Wilson said, Mr. Fitzsimmons who has been janitor of Queen street school for some years, has been rather neglectful in his work of late, the grass being allowed to grow and, being otherwise unsatisfactory, it was found necessary by the managers of the school to engage a new janitor. Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. Morley, that they were justified in so doing.—Carried.

Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr.

McCorvie, that Chas. Moore be given the position with a new routine of work, fixed by the managers, at $23 per month, to begin Sept 1st.

Mr. McCorvie, in seconding the mo-tion, said he was glad to see the inerest and work the managers of the Queen street school were putting John Be I Attached his Body to Rail be fore Committing Suicide.

A coat, hat, and slipper lying on the dock at racted the attention of Frank Lyons when he came down to work on the steamer Sappho, at the foot of Brock street, Windsor, about 5 o'clock Friday morning. From a rail of the Grand Trunk switch was a small cord reaching over the edge of the dock into the water. Lyon's called Charles Yates from the ferry dock, and together they tugged at the rope, and a moment later were horrified to see a man's body appear at the surface of the water. It was John Bell, of 32 Arthur street. The rope was tied around the waist of the deceased.

Police officer Giles was called and he notified Dr. Bell coroner, who ordered the remains taken to George E. O'Dell's morgue.
It was about 1 o'clock this morning that Mrs. Bell was awakened by hear-ing her husband moving about the house. A few minutes later she noticed him going out, but was not alarmed, as he has frequently risen in the night of late, owing to a severe pain in his shoulder. At 5 o'clock when she arose to prepare her son's breakfast, she saw that her husband had not returned. Joseph started in search of his father, and, coming down town, learned of his death.

The deceased had been in the employ of the city for over 15 years, but because of his rheumatism stopped

CHATHAM'S POSTAL SERVICE.

A Montreal gentleman who is visit ing in this city calls the attention of The Planet to the unchanging regularity with which the local mails are handled.

"I visited the Post Office yesterday," he declared, "to ascertain the times for the arrival and departure of your mails. In the corridor I found the schedule posted in a conspicuous place on the notice board. The sched- hanging them. ule was dated June 10, 1898, and it struck me as being somewhat unique that your postal train service has never changed even a minute in over three vears."

The Planet was really under the impression that a few alterations had occurred in that time. But, of course, the Post Office authorities know best.

DECLINED WITH THANKS.

The Planet has received, in company with the Hamilton Spectator and other Canadian newspapers, from the American Transvaal league, M. Flipse, president, Passaic, N. J., and C. Poelstra (elegant "American" names), secretary, Paterson, N. J., a bunch of literature which we are asked to publish.

The stuff consists in storeis of the "brutality" of the British soldiers in South Africa, with no other guarantee of the truth than the fact that it is "published under the auspices of the American Transvaal League," an intimation that it is much more interested in securing American money for the support of its officers than it is in telling the truth.

The stories, if true, indicate that there is nearly as much lawlessness among the two hundred thousand British soldiers in South Africa as there is in any well regulated community of two hundred thousand in the United States of America.

But we don't believe the stories are true, and have good reason for our belief, and we respectfully decline to be used in slandering the brave British soldiers in South Africa.

BUILD IN CANADA.

A few adys ago Hon. Mr. Tarte stated at Ottawn that there were three huge dredges now in course of construction in Canada for Qanadian work; one on the Fraser river for use in the harbors and rivers of British Co, unibia; a second is under construction in the Polson shipyards at Toronto, intended for dredging operations in the St. Lawrence. It will be launched September 2. A third hydraulic dredge for the Maritime Provinces is in course of construction. Two wooden dredges, one for Ontario and the other for Quebec, have been finished.

Mr. Tarte said, "Canada has no need to go abroad for ships." "We can construct in this country all the vessels we require, and ought to do so. They can be built just as cheap-

The journey from Bude, Cornwall, to the city of Leicester takes about nine hours and includes two changes ! of trains-one at Okehampton in Devonshire, a small village containing the ruins of the old castle—and a two-hour wait in London. The twen-ty minutes' wait at the little Okehampton station was not of particular interest, nor, was the scenery any more beautiful from that town to London than the rock-bound coast, blue sea and the hills and valleys of Cornwall. The different colored soils of the various counties through which we passed interested me greatly, however. That of Cornwall is cho colate brown, of Devonshire a deep red, to-ward London grey, and then chalky. also noticed some particularly fine fields of red clover and that there was an enormous amount of wheat and oats quite ruined by yellow mustard. But once the suburbs of mighty London were reached, interest of the surroundings was unflagging.

First we saw several neat cottages, few fine residences, some new churches, and then fields again. Then another suburb town, more fields and then rows and rows of nothing but roofs and chimney pots, as our train whizzed past on its elevated rails. Then the Parliament Buildings and Big Ben, also St. Thomas Hospital, came in view, and in a few minutes more we glided into Waterloo station. other English railway stations its labrynth of platform and network of tracks is covered in by a glass roof. Here, too, is all the roa! of a large city. Trains whistle, omnibusses rattle, porters shout, luggage vans deposit great loads of boxtrunks, bags and all the travelling paraphernalia of a mighty throng of travellers, cabbies swear at one another, newsboys, match-g'rls and flower-girls cry their wares, throngs of people, like bees from a hive, with faces sad, merry, worried, weeping exterior, partly built of Roman brick and laughing, jostle against each othand laughing, jostle against each other—and this is Waterloo. Then we climbed on top of an omnibus—a splendid place to get a good view of all the sights—and were drawn along at a snail's pace toward St. Paneras. During this drive we saw several of the most noted buildings and sights old cottag—and the archway which During this drive we saw several of the most noted buildings and sights in the city—National Gallery, St. Paul's, Cleopatra's Needle, Hotel Cecil, Thames Embankment, Parliament Buildings, Trafalgar Square, Nelson's Monument and the Lions, Charing Cross Station, the Strand, High Holborn, and finally St. Paneras Station, from which fine station we departed for Leicester, and sped along through Leicester is a city with a popula tion about that of Detroit, Mich., and as it was founded by the Romans and was in those early times the headquarters of their armies and homes of their generals, councillors, etc., it may be imagined that several relics dear to the heart of the antiquarian have been found here. One of the most important discoveries ever made in this city was that of the Roman payement in 1832, and is the finest specimen of Roman tesselation in the world. It was found by workmen who were tearing down some old cot-tages and diging the foundations for other huildings. It was purchased by the Literary and Philosophical Socie-ty, who allowed the public to have access to it on payment of a small fee. Opposite are two strong oaken doors, leading, one into a nurrow cupboard, the other into a dark, rloomy cell, where the prisoners were kept to await trial, and a fireplace. At the other end of the room was gallery where Queen Elizabeth used to sit and watch Shakespearean plays enacted.

Behind and on a level with this gallery, is the "Free Library" with rows of old Latin volumns, paintings, of old Leicester mayors and cases full of black-letter," "silver-letter" and "treacle" bibles. While at Leicester, we spent a half ay at Lutterworth, a viaalage about twelve miles distant. This pretty old place contains John Wycliffe's church, n which is still to be seen the reat reformer's pulpit, the first Bible translated by him from the Latin to he English, what remains of his old westments, a large oaken table on which he used to feed the poor, the chair in the chancel in which he was sitting when seized with his fatal attack of apoplexy and on which he was carried through the tiny door at the side of the chancel called "the Priest's Doorway," and a curious old painting over the chancel archway representing the Judgment Day. A beautiful me-morial tablet of white alabaster is placed at one side of the church and its beautifully designed relief work shows John Wycliffe reading his bible to his devoetd followers.

Further down the village and at the base of a gentle hill runs a small stream over which is a stone bridge, This bridge is comparatively new and replaces the one from which the great eformer's enemies threw his asher into the stream below, they having dug up his bones and burned them. A strange legend is connected with this.

The room is lit by a row of ancient stained glass, windows, whose small panes bear ecclesiastical symbols of the Corpus Christi Guild. It was these windows which are thus spoken of in an old journal: "The Earl of Leicester's strollers did grievous hurt to the Mayor's windows in a frolic," and the little windows still bear teatimony to the rough usage they were subjected to. Behind the mayor's room is the court room, also long and narrow. At one end is the judge's bench on a rais-Mr. Phil. Owens, of So. One of the men who assisted in the dis-interring and burning ran back to the grave to make sure that no bones re-mained. He found a small one, and in his haste to throw it into the river with the ashes, fell, injuring himself so severely that he died shortly af-terward. From the spot where he fell there sprang a clear, never-filling well of water, known at "St. John's Well." This legend may or may not be true, but at all events 1' have both seen the well and drank from its Bolton, Lancashire, was the next town visited, and we found this to be a dark smoky place with a popu-lation about that of London, Ontario. This old town is in the centre of the cotton spinning manufactories and I was much interested in a visit to Barlow Jones Spinning Mills. The employees range from about fifteen years of age to eighty. One old man was tying the ends of thread together at 6d. per thousand knots, and it was calculated that his weekly wage would amount to not over 10 shil-lings. The ages of the little errand girls would range from eight to twelve. In this mill we watched the evolution of the raw cotton into the finest threads, and from these threads we watched towels, "shaker flannel' sheets, bed spreads, etc., woven. Some two miles from Bolton is a village called Barrewbridge or more commonly "the deserted village." It contains a very large spinning mill and the houses of the managers, cottages of the employees, large mill stables, offices and shops. But the mill, which was opened by Prince Consort, has not been working for years, its machinery is rusted and broken, windows smached, doors off, the cottages untenanted and only two of the tiny shops are doing busi-ness. The decline and fall of this mill is caused by the advent of the railway which ran through a different part of the town taking the trade entirely away from Barrow,bridge.

One of the most interesting places in Bolton is Deane church, built 800 years ago on the site of a still older The interior as well as the exterior of this church is ancient. Around the walls are paintings of the martyrs. The pulpit is exquisitely carved black oak, and in a glass case are several ancient Bibles. In the churchyard is a fine marble shaft in memory of George Marsh, at one time vicar of Deane church, who was burned at the stake a short distance from Bolton. The base of this me-morial is a huge block of stone formerly used by the Romans to mark the dividing line between two estates Near the church grows a yew tree planted when the building was first rected. It is here, too, that the following epitaph occurs on a grave-

"A dropsy for seven years I bore, Twenty-three times I tapped was; By these sad means to ease my pain Over 80 gallons was took alas.

From Bolton we journeyed to the tiny village of Glazebury. This place is remarkable for nothing very much that it manufactures peat from the moss beds by which it surrounded. The railway encounters several difficulties here, as the rails are laid over this moss bed, which sinks and has to be continually repaired. There is an old inn at Glazebury called "The Ravens Inn," which bears upon its sign board ainting of a raven beak a sword. Next to the inn is a field which was in olden days the ne of a battle-I could not find out what battle-and which is now cover ed with large mounds, the graves of heaps of the slain. There is a leg ected with this battle, and from this the little inn takes its name. Or the morning after a fierce fight a raven descended upon the bloody field and picking up a sword in its beak dropped at at the feet of the defeated eader, who was on the field attend ing to the wounded men. This so en couraged him that mustering his few remaining men together he marched o the camps of the enemy, surprised them and won the day.

We were only in Manchester for a we were only in Manchester for a few days, but while there saw most of the principal sights in this fine old city. Here is the old "Seven Stars fnn," the oldest licensed house in Great Britain, licensed for over 540 years, the magnificent old Manchester Cathedral, the Royal Exchange, which contains the largest room unsupport ed by pillars in the world. Here too is the finest canal in he world, the bridges being magnificent specimens of mechanical skill, and by which a canal runs across a swinging bridge which passes over another canal. When the bridge is swung, gates at each end are closed, thus allowing no water to escape from the bridge. Gates are also closed on the land sides of the canal and opened again when the bridge closes into its proper posi-

From Manchester we journeyed on to Hanley and Etruria, the heart of the Staffordshire pottery district. Etruria was the home of the famous Josiah Wedgewood, but he is buried Josiah Wedgewood, but he is buried in Stoke-on-Trent and a magnificent marble bust is placed to his memory in the pretty old Stoke-on-Trent church. It is remarkable that although Wedgewood china is still manufactured no person of that name has anything to do with its has anything to do with its manu-

We also visited the lovely village of Trentham for a fortnight and thoroughly enjoyed our stay in this bower of roses. Never before have I seen such roses or in such profusion. Your stomach can't stand much of some kinds of food this weather: if you give it more than enough to give it body energy it goes on strike-when nature goes on strike it hurts. For any stomach or bowel ailment you will get relief by taking Powley's Liquified Ozone. It restores the natural conditions to the body's organs promptly and effectively. Just I have suffered for over a year and a half with what the doctors call olic of the bow els. I was treated by the best physicians in the city but all failed to do me any good. At last I was advised to try Ozone, which I did. In about two weeks the pains started to go away. Before this I had been off work more than half my time, and I could not eat, nor sleep well at night. After taking two bottles of Ozone the pains are all gone and I am in good If any others are suffering as I was I advise them to take Powley's Liquified Ozone.

A TORONTO CASE

rcial Traveller of the Queen City

The City of Toronto health authoriies are no doubt as active and energetic as any on the continent. But dyspepsia, one of the most common of all diseases, is outside of their powers. Each citizen must take care of his own stomach, or suffer the consequences. In these days of hurry and rush, worry and push, complicated foods, and indigestible diets, it is no easy matter to take care of the stomach The stomach has to take care of itself, and if it fails so much the worse for the owner of it. It was to help the owners of weak stomachs that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets were invented. That they have already done much in that direction is shown by the thousands of letters like the one below. Commercial travellers, above all other people, should never have weak stomachs. That so many have got weak stomachs, only shows how severe is the strain of irregular eating and drinking associated with life on the road. Mr. G. H. Perrigo, the writer, is a commercial traveller, of Toron-

Last Toronto Match.

Toronto, Aug. 24. - The Western cricketers wound up their three days tour in Toronto yesterday by defeat-ing the strong Gordon, Mackay and Co.'s team by 37 runs. The game was played on a wet wicket, and between showers. The tourists have won one game and lost two on their trip to Toronto, and they are more than pleased with the experiment. As result a picked Western team is almost sure to visit Toronto again next year and play a whole week of cricket. The visitors were weak in bowl ing, but at least two of their men who were unable to come could have great

Yesterday the visitors went to bat first, and rolled up 108 runs. Dr. Dean 43, Dr. Williams 21, Guthrie 12, and Mercer 11 were the chief contributors. Gordon-Mackay secured 71, of which J. McMillan contributed 18 by splendid cricket, while Adams hit up

WHAT THEY DID

Recards of the Chatham Cricketers who took part in the Toronto Tour.

Four members of the city cricket club played with the western eleven, who toured Toronto this week, and played three matches. None of the Chatham men really played up to their customary standard, but the trip will doubtless prove a splendid experience.

In batting "Chum" Aitken, the popular young bowler, lead the Chatham representatives with an average of eight runs per innings, on the three matches. Mercer came second, with an average of seven, Richardson third with an average of six and a third, while Kenny only secured an average of two and two-thirds.

er, securing seven wickets for 96 runs, an average of 135-7 runs to al wicket. Kenny also did fairly well, securing ten wickets for 173 runs, and average of 173-10 runs to a wicket.

Neext year Chatham expects to send larger representation east.

In bowling also Aitken was the lead-

International Bible Lesson for To-Morrow-Abraham and Isaac - Gen.

Golden Text-Heb. 11, 17, "By faith

We have here a record of faith and bedience for heaven and earth, for all time. Isaac has learned, like his father, to yield obedience to God and parental rule, as all should do. Only father and son transact this sacrifice; their faith accounted God as ready to restore Isaac from death; another miracle would restore him to fulfil God's promises and purposes in him. See Heb. 11, 19. Thus faith triumphs over human feelings; divine love shed abroad in the heart controls natural affection and our lives. The whole incident was a prophetic tableau of the sacrifice of the Son of God, who, in our Lord Jesus Christ, was obedi-ence to the death of the cross for man's sin, God's Son, because the seed

There was a good sized market on the square this morning. Tomatoes were on plentifully, and (as one farmer said, if they ripen as fast in the next two weeks as they have in the last there will be no green tomatoes left, and all will have to be brought on the market. Water melons made their appearance to-day and according to reports there is a good crop this season. Crab apples also made their first appearance to-day, and sold at 25c, per peck. Potetoes were on quite plentifully and sold at from $1.50, to

A man talks about owning his busi-ness. But, as a matter of fact his owns him. His whole life is regulated by the demands of the business. The time at which he rises, his breakfast hour, the time given to meals, are all determined by business obligations. He rushes through lunch because he "can't spare the time from business" to eat leisurely. He won't take a rest because he is need-ed at the store or office. He is in fact an absolute slave to business. The results which follow this slavery are to be seen on every hand. dyspeptic, irritable, nervous, with drawn faces, and hollow eyes, sit at the desk or stand behind the counter until they collapse in a fit of sickness, or are taken away by heart failure. Those who cannot escape the exactions of business will find a friend in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, increases the action of the blood-making glands, increases the vitality and physical vigor. It makes men strong and prevents those business break-downs which so often terminate fatally.

Mr. Shackleton, of Chatham, who supplied for the Rev. Mr. Freeman on Sunday, laborered under difficul-ties that day. He drove up on Sun-Sunday, laborered under difficulday morning. At Louisville he wat-ered his horse. When a mile this side of Louisville he missed his coat. He drove back the mile, but could not find it, so he was forced to come along without it. The surplice hid the lack of the coat, but the coat contained the sermon; that was the aggravation, Mr. Shackleton rose to the occasion, however, and spoke upon the Sabbath school lesson.-Thamesville Herald showed that I was expected.

It was not long after this that what may be called an adjourned meeting of the man hunters took place in the depths of the swamp, near the creek which had played an important part in the cu-rious incidents. Cy Walters was pres-ent, as were Gabe Horner and the owner of the second hound that had departed this life. To express it mildly, a vein of dissatisfaction ran through the proceed-in it for a month." 'He hain't got the ammunition, "explained Archie Hunter, who grimly rubbed it into himself by explaining that the fugitive had stolen his pistol, but had no cartridges with him. "He has used most of the charges and must be or soon will be without any means of defending himself."

"He'll get what be wants from the darkies scattered through the swamp. "But they don't use revolvers." "They'll find some way of furnishing him with what he needs." "And then he'll go to killing dogs ag'in," was the disgusted comment of Gabe Horner. "It's a waste of raw material, gentlemen. "What do you propose?"

The knot of six men was added to antil all of the original party were present with the exceptions of the real Hank Beyer, myself, Landlord Bulfinch and Squire Gager. The last to arrive was the negro, Pete. He had gone up the creek, as directed by Cy Walters, but went only a little way when he became satisfied it was the wrong direction. He then turned about and took the same course as the veteran; not only that, but he went farther and discovered the dugout, which was caught fast by an overhanging limb, not far from where I had turned it adrift. He spent some time in looking for me, but, meeting with no success, made his way to the spot in the swamp where the others were assem-bled, being directed thisher by the sigmals sent out for that purpose.

Pete told nothing of his discovery and remained a silent participant in the proceedings. The same was true for a time of Cy Walters, who, however, listened closely to every word that was said. He desired to interpose, but appreciated the disadvantage in which he was placed. He and his stepson were under suspicion because of the escape of their prisoner, and to spring the assertion upon his neighbors that a mistake had been made by all and that I was not what I seemed would not receive a single believer. Jim Dungan was the most violent in his speech and more than once broadly hinted at treachery on the part of the jailers, despite the fact that he ran risk of being shot in his tracks by the fierce tempered veteran, who was never known to accept an insult from any one. Dungan's proposal was to gather more dogs and push the hunt relentlessly un-til I was run down or treed. He freely expressed his regret for his leniency of the preceding evening and was eager to make amends by the most vigorous pro-

Cy Walters remained glum and silent until this course was decided upon. Then he saw that it would not do to hold his peace any longer. That he possessed high courage was again proved by his action. Advancing to the middle of the group, he raised one hand with a commanding gesture.

"Gentlemen, I've fistened to every word that has been said here. Jim Dungan throwed out a slur or two that it gan threwed out a slur or two that it won't do fur him to repeat. I let 'em go 'cause I see he was excited and didn't weigh his words, but he mustn't speak 'em ag'in! If he had only said that Archie and me was the two all firedest fools in Mississippi, I'd have took off my hat and said 'Amen,' but the said 'Cause Mississippi, and the said 'Amen,' but that's all. Gentlemen, since sun up I've larned a thing which you oughter know. It's this—the chap that you're hunting fur ain't Hank Beyer!" It proved as Cy feared. His assertion was received with scorn and anger. Not even his own stepson would accept it. Your appeal to them for time ought to have been heeded."

"Nor so cruel. Even now you are in danger. They expect you to come here, and will follow you. I hope father will

For the first time she showed nervous ness, and, rising from her chair, walked to the window and looked down the highway. Nothing was observed, and she returned to her seat. "He heard of it last evening, and could scarcely believe it. There has never been a lynching in this part of the state, and it would have been horrible had an innocent man been the victim. Colonel Manaley's first belief was that it was Mr. Beyer who had taken his horse and been caught at it, and he was angry enough to express the wish to take part in his punishment. He, however, changed his mind."

I was hopeful that there would be some explanation of her visit to the inn. My curiosity was to know whether that remarkable call was made under the beremarkable call was made under the be-lief that the real Hank Beyer was in peril or whether from the first it had been her wish to save a guiltless man from punishment. I dared not ask the question, and she did not choose to enlighten me. "I have been wondering," I said after a moment's silence, "whether Mr. Beyer was not conscience smitten when he saw my peril and whether he would not take some steps to save me."

"Not he!" she exclaimed, with another flash of her black eyes. "Did he not have the opportunity and yet fail to use it?" Because it would have involved him in danger. But he could place himself beyond reach of the mob and then send word to them of the truth." She shook her head decisively. "A man who commits such a wrong as he did is not the one to correct it.'

"And yet the truth would be certain to come to light ere long. His and my identity would be established." "Still he could have escaped by placing himself at his own leisure beyond reach of the law. Do you not see also that if your mutual identity was made clear it would not have removed the from your name—that is, on the part of the unreasoning ones who accuse "Why not?" ish like that of a mirror, and I should

"The missing horse was in your pos-session. That is enough to condemn you with unthinking people. Mr. Beyer had only to deny the purchase as you explained it, and he would have been generally believed. It was a grave error on your part to humor the fancy that you were another person.

"I saw it when too late. I believe but for that I should have been able to clear myself. It was the testimony of the landlord and the squire that clinched matters against me. My explanation was too absurd to satisfy them.'

To who know little of his private life he is something to be worshipped To those who have become acquainted with the home life of Cheyne Row, chelsea, while the administration granted by the lesser mind to the greater undeniably belongs to Carlyle, all the love and sympathy go to her who bore his name. Being of peasant origin and acquiring acquiring and acquiring acquiring and acquiring acquiring acquiring and acquiring origia and accustomed to see the wo-men of the household uncomplainingly accept the loneliness and labor of a poor farmer's existence, Carlyle never seemed to think what a dreadful experience it would be for a bright attractive girl wholly unacoustomed to such privations. So, with thoughtlessness so often character stic of great minds, he took his young bride to a poor farm and left her to manage the place while he did his writing. Carlyle, while he truly toved the patient, gentle little woman that was his wife, never seemed be think that she might find her life lonely or have hard work to make both ends meet. His only thought on going to the farm was that he might himself enjoy quietness. And she with gentle patience made it her aim to see that he had the quietness. When in a few years they moved to London to the house in Cheyne Row, Chelsea, that he might be nearer his work, the whole responsibility fell on the "wee wifie." Nor was this her greatest trial. most popular remedy down here this last few years is undoubtedly Dodd's Kidney Pills. It is the only one of the Kidney Pills. It is the only one of the host advertised which universally shows that it may be relied upon.

Medicines for heart trouble have been advertised before in Newfoundland, but nobody placed any reliance in them. The trouble was they did not act at the root of the matter—the Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills are entirely different to any other treatment for heart trouble; they act on the kidneys first, and for that very reason neys first, and for that very reason

But she was too lean to kill and, as far as selling her was concerned, not one of the neighbors would take her in a gift. However, at this juncture a bright thought struck the captain—he is always coming into violent collision with bright thoughts—and one morning he rigged her out with a pair of green goggles, and led her out to the shed where he did his carpenter work, where she fed on shavings, under the impression that they were grass, to her heart's content. The results, to say the least, were startling, and showed of what immense importance the proper feeding of the cow is to the success of the dairy. For in a few days she yielded an abundant flow of sawdust, and next spring gave birth to a calf with pine legs and a hemlock tail. At least, so saith the captain.

ITALIAN KILLED

Murder in Arkansas may Develop Into International Strife.

Texarkana, Ark., August 22-An Italian named Ginggotti was killed near Ashdown, twenty miles north of here yesterday and the killing is liketo develop into an international affair. For some time the Kansas City South-ern railway has had a large force of Italian laborers at work on its line near Ashdown.

The trouble began with a fight between the Italians and an American crew. One Italian was knocked down withaclub by an American. The Italian drew a knife and stabbed his assailant. Subsequently an Italian foreman was attacked and badly beaten. Later a crowd of armed men, between 50 and 60, ordered the Italians from the cars, telling them to "line It was then that some one fired a Winchester, killing Ginggotti in-stantly. The dead man had nothing to do with the first fight and theiltal-

The Italian ambassador at Washington has been notified and further developments are expected.

SHAMROCK'S TRIAL:

Sir Thomas Lipton and Deto finish. Sir Thomas Lipton and Designer George L. Watson, both of whom were on board the yacht during her trial, expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with the result. In sailing about eight miles dead to windward against a two-knot tide, she covered the distance in 57 minutes, and the reach back of six miles in 40 minutes. The wind was fresh and fairly steady from about south by east, and of from 10 to 12 knots' strength. The yacht carried mainsail, working topsails, fore stay sails, jib.

After the yacht's anchor was down Sir Thomas Lipton boarded the Associated Press tug, and told the reporters that the Shamrock would go out for a long trial spin to-morrow, extending down to Sandy Hook, and perhaps, if there was clear weather and a good breeze, she might try to cover the America's Cup course outside the Hook or fifteen miles to windward and back. Sir Thomas, with a party of guests, will go to Oyster Bay in the Erin on Saturday to witness the races between the Constitution and Columbia on Long Island Sound, under the management of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club, whose guest he will be at dinner that night.

The Planet's Correspondent has Reached Portage La Prairie.

Portage La Prairie, Aug. 12, 1901 Tuesday, August 6th, bidding goodbye at Ottawa station to Rodney Smith and Alex. Ross, I started on my trip west in real earnest. I felt happy because now I was really going to see that country which I had often heard described as "the glorious west," "God's country," etc. I have already seen part of it and I must say that I have yet to be disappointed in my expectations. It is a grand country. grand country

The Imperial express, a through train from sea to sea, furnishes delightful means of travel. Th coaches are all handsomely fitted up and vestibuled. The train consists of a sleeper, a parlor car, a tourist coach, a first class day coach, and a colonist car, besides two baggage and express coaches. The travellers can enjoy the greatest comfort on these trains. Since leaving Ottawa I have travelled with six different C. P. R. conductors and I have never on any road met with so many nice They were all very courteou and kindly and pleasantly answered all the questions asked of them. It is a pleasure to travel with such men in charge of the train. The Imperial limited runs at good speed and it was really funny to see some farmers from Ohio holding their

R. follows the river through the beautiful Ottawa valley. Here you see prosper-ous looking farm houses and splendid barns. Towards the north the Lau-rentian Hills rise, and at their base the Ottawa river flows. Carleton Place, Almonte, Arnprior, Renfrew and Penbroke are the important places which the C. P. R. touches on its way to the west. They are all manufacturing towns, using for the breath and grasping the seats as the manufacturing towns, using for the most part water power.

It was quite late when we reached North Bay, and so T slumbered as the train passed through Sturgeon affls, a town called after the cataract in the river of that name. I awoke about six o'clock Wednesday morning. The day gave promise of being dreary and drizzling, but it cleared up towards noon. The land-scape looked so dismal in the rain scape looked so dismal in the rain that one perforce turned to his fellow travellers for companionship. Chapleau was the first station we passed through after I awoke. A man on the train, who apparently knew the country, said that this was the point farthest north on the C. P. R. in Ontario, and it was only 150 miles from James Bay. The scenery from Chapleau on proved very entrancing. The C. P. R. here passes through a land of hills and lakes. The hills are well wooded for the mest part and occasionally places the most part, and occasionally places will be seen where the fire has swept through and left nothing but bare and blackened tree trunks. The train would dash out from between two hills passed a sylvan lake and then through a level tract studded with huge boulders. The C. P.

This country seems to have been of volcanic formation and it looks as if a huge mass of molten stone had suddenly cooled. and secures a precarious life in this rough and rugged land.

Joseph Young, a namesake, but an Irishman, who went west from Huron county, Ontario, and prospered a sa Manitoba farmer was on the train. He Manitoba rarmer was on the data. So is colonization agent for the state of Ohio, and has his headquarters at Columbus. He had a party of American delegates from different places in that state, whom he was taking that state, whom he was taking the memwest to see the country. The mem-bers of the party were, M. E. Winter, Junction City, O., W. S. Chambers, Deshler, O., J. H. Heden, Sandusky, E. D. Herrick and W. H. Peabody, Oberlin, C. J. Petrie, and W. Workman, Cleveland, R. D. Woodmancer and O. L. Rowland, Columbus, H. W. Nieman and L. Going, Elmore, John Henderson and L. Going, Elmore, John Henderson and E. B. Traey, Gilboa, There was one lady in the party, Miss R. R. Shepherd, Junction City, quite an appropriate name. The delegates represented about 200 families altogegether. They were very enthusiastic about the west. Some of them talked of staying in the glorious land of the prairie and fine wheat. They carried prairie and fine wheat. They carried huge lunch baskets with them, and it was amusing to see how they enjoy-ed the trip. Joseph Young told me that the west was a great country and he wouldn't leave it to live in , ny country he knew of. When he went west he had no money, but borrowed $200 at 20 per cent, and thus got a start. Now he owns two large farms in the west country. There were other passengers on the train, though you might not believe it. One was Walter Maxfield, Beresfordd, Man., a returned South African sol-dier. Maxfield went on a visit to England. and from there went to Soiuth Africa, where he served for 15 months with the South African Light Horse. He said he thought that the British would get the country con-quered in time, but if Kitchener could not do it no one could, B. R. Sheridan, an Englishman, who had spent five years in South Africa, was also apassenger on the train. He was going to the coast. A South African colonial, from Edmonton, who had been with Burnham's Scouts, I did not meet. It is surprising the number of South African veterans in the west. I am meeting them every place I go.

Michigan City, Ind., August, 23. -John Fleming, a life convict, in the penitentiary, has been given a ten days' pardon by Gov. Durbin in order that he may visit his dying father at Kokomo. The officers have full confidence that he will return at the end of ten days. This is said to be the first case on record where a life convict has been permitted to leave the prison. C. C. RICHARDS & CO. Dear Sirs,—I have great faith in MINARD'S LINIMENT, as last year I cured a horse of Ringbone with five

NO JOY IN LIFE SO SAY THE SUFFERERS FROM

A Trouble That Makes the Life of its Victims Almost Unbearable—Causes Headaches, Heart Palpitation, Diz-ziness, a Feeling of Weariness, and

From "L'Avenir du Nord," St. Jerome,

Sufferers from dyspepsia or bad digestion are numerous in this coun-try. Almost daily one hears some one complaining of the tortures caused them by this malady, and it is no uncommon thing to hear a sufferer, say "I wish I was dead." And no wonder, the suffering caused by bad digestion cannot be imagined by anyone who has not suffered from it. The victim is a constant sufferer from headaches, heartburn, heart palpitation, and nausea. He has a bad taste in his mouth, is unable to obtain restful sleep and has always feeling of weariness and depression But there is a sure cure for this trouble and it is found in the greatest of all known medicines-Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Among those who have been cured of this distressing malady by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. Alfred Chasbot, a well known farmer living near St. Jerome, Que. To a re-porter of "L'Avenir du Nord," Mr. Chasbot told the following story of his illness and subsequent cure :-"For three years I was an almost continual sufferer from the tortures of bad digestion. After eating I felt as if some heavy weight was pressing against my chest. I was wracked with violent headaches; my temper became irritable; my appetite uncer tain; my nerves were a wreck and I was always troubled with a feeling of weariness. I was able to do very little work and sometimes none at Although I tried many remedies I was unsuccessful in my search for a cure until a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Any doubts I may have had as to the merits of these pills were soon dis-pelled, for I had not been taking them long before I noticed an improvement in my condition. I continued the use of the pills some weeks when I considered myself fully cured. To-day I am as well as I ever was in my life, and would strongly advise all similar sufferers to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and am sure that they will find them as beneficial as I have. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease They make new, rich, red blood strengthen the nerves and thus tone up the whole system. "I wish that you would make a correction to an article which appeared in the Banner last Friday," said Detective Skirving, of the L. E. & D. R. R., to The Planet last evening. "They stated that one of the mail bags had been stolen from the L. E. & D. R. R. train, the contents taken and the bag cut up and afterwards found on the track. This, however, is not true, and besides, reflects discredit upon the railway employes. As a matter of fact the mail bag was put on the train at the Eau and arriving at Chatham was put off at the G. T. R. Junction. Here it was noticed that the bag, which was a very old one, was slightly ripped. It was pinned up by the yard master and the conductor of the train, and put on the mail train which comes into Chatham from Ridgetown shortly after the Eau train comes in. Both the postmaster here and the postmaster at the Eau say that nothing was missing. The Bagnar did not correct the master here and the postmaster at the Eau say that nothing was miss-ing. The Banner did not correct the article, as they were asked to do, and we would like to have the public know that the story is false and that the railroad men were not guilty of any tardiness, as they certainly would have been if the bag had been stolen."

Surprising that values should be reversed during August. Instead of making a reasonable profit, trade conditions demand lowest prices-less than the cost of manufacture.
