IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR JULY 28 OBEYING GOD.

LESSON TEXTS—Matthew 4:18-22; John 1:22-24; James 1:22-27.
OLDEN TEXTS—If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments: John 14:15-17.
DEVOTIONAL READING—John 1:3-17.
FRAMER TOPIC—Loving God and doing His will.

Obedience is a vital part of our religion. The obedience of the Christian is not legal but filled. Eternal life is not secured through obedience, but obedience is the tangible evidence that one possesses it.

1. The Call of the First Disciples (Matt 4:18-22).
1. By whom—Jesus Christ (v. 18).
Jesus is the Son of God. Since he is equal with God, he has the right to call those who hear his call to leave instant and hearty obedience.

2. The Circumstances of their call (v. 18).
The call came to them while they were busy with their business interests. God always calls men who are vitally engaged in some business, not those in idleness.

3. The nature of (v. 19).
This was a definite call, in that definite men were called into a definite service.
(1) To follow Christ. We must follow Christ before we can serve him. Only Christians can do Christian work. We should follow him to be like him, in order to win others to him.

4. Response to Christ's call (v. 20-22).
(1) They left their business interests immediately.
(2) They not only left their business, but James and John left their father also. Following Jesus sometimes means turning one's back upon business interests and dearest friends and relations. Regardless of what it costs, men must leave all and follow Jesus. This is a fine case of promotion. Men catch fish to kill and feed upon them, but Christ's disciples catch men to make them alive and feed them.

5. The motive for Obedience (John 14:23-24).
The grand motive actuating obedience is love to Christ. The proof that we do love him is that we obey him. Even when we may not be conscious of unusual outpourings of the affection, the conclusive evidence that we love is that we obey. Keeping his commandments means such a regard for them that we highly treasure them as something precious. The reward for such obedience is to have Christ's Spirit upon us (John 14:16, 17). Then, too, the Father will love us, and he and the Son will take up their abode with us. This abode is not temporary but permanent.

6. The Kind of Obedience That Counts (James 1:22-27).
1. The obedience of deeds (v. 22-24).
Hearing God's Word will do no good unless it is accompanied with obedience. Hearing and not doing is as futile as beholding one's face in a looking glass and forgetting what manner of man he is. Calling Christ Lord, and not doing what he says, will avail nothing (John 7:24, 25). To pretend to know God and not keep his commandments is to lie (1 John 2:4).
2. The obedience of perseverance (v. 25).
We should not only look into God's Word and admire its perfections, but steadfastly and persistently do the things required. Only those who thus persevere shall be blessed in their deeds.
3. The obedience of speech (v. 26).
The one who has genuine religion will control his tongue. Just as the physical optician can diagnose the physical condition of the tongue, so the moral and spiritual condition of the individual can be determined by the speech of the individual. The one who does not control his tongue proves that his religion is empty and void.
4. The obedience of kindness (v. 27).
Those who have received the kindness of God will manifest that kindness in their lives. This kindness will express itself in ministering to the fatherless and widows.

The Need of the Hour
THE vital need of the hour is for economy!
We are urged to save, to conserve our resources. Nothing is so important, so pressing.
We must economize, we are told, in food, in fuel, in clothing, in railway travel—all along the line, in order that the war efforts of our Empire and its Allies may have a clear track to victory.
The telephone, by the very nature of the work it does, is a powerful agent making for economy and efficiency. Without it, business would slow down with a fatal reaction on war effort.
But the increasing scarcity of telephone material of all kinds, and of skilled labor demands that our subscribers should practice a rigid telephone economy.
That they should order only such telephone equipment as is indispensable—
That they should be careful of present telephone apparatus in home or office so as to avoid breakage and repairs—
That they should refrain from unnecessary telephone conversations and make their talks brief so as to keep the lines open for the next caller.
We ask your co-operation in our efforts to keep our service equal to war-time demands.

NORFOLK NEWS

POTATO CROP BLIGHTED?

Discouraging Reports Are Prevalent in Norfolk County

Simcoe, July 27.—(From Our Own Correspondent)—Reports came to hand yesterday regarding aphids on potato leaves in this district and our informant states that early varieties appear to suffer most. We cannot say that the setback is general. Cucumber picking is becoming almost general and the vines are reported developing splendidly and setting a record crop. Rev. A. B. Farney Called Out of Town. Rev. A. B. Farney received yesterday a phone message from his sister, Mrs. Tubman, of Elmvale, who she and Dr. McGuire had recently visited, stating that her youngest son, a young man of 22, had been injured on Thursday evening in a mix-up with his team, receiving injuries from which he died early yesterday morning. Mr. Farney left this morning to attend the funeral and Mr. Norman Andrews of Brantford will take morning service at Trinity Church to-morrow. The evening service will be cancelled. J. D. Christie is off on a holiday, having left yesterday. Morton Brown of Simcoe is taking services in the Waterford church in the absence of the rector on vacation. C. W. Butcher, formerly of the Simcoe High School staff, is performing like duties at Port Dover. Press Photographs. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Boomer and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Boomer, who have spent the week-end in town with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin. Our congratulations to Misses Bertha McKnight, Gladys Quamby and Ethel Andrews on their having successfully passed the Middle School Entrance to Normal examination as students of Simcoe High School. Farmers' Auto Trip. The only report we got of the farmers' observation auto trip of two days out through the Niagara Peninsula, indicated that few joint promoters and that those who did go had a pleasant and profitable outing. The trip, however, came too late, or rather the season this year is too early. Sylvester Palmerston unfortunately kept up his record and had another auto mix-up. No one was hurt.

Kosovo Day and the Serbians

DURING the last week of June the people on this continent joined others in observing the discovery of America.

In 1389 a great battle was fought between the Turks and the Serbs. The Turks won. The day has ever since been observed by the Serbs as a day of mourning. This year Americans helped the Serbs to keep it. It has taken Americans a long time to appreciate what Serbia has meant in history, but they are now beginning to appreciate her. Had it not been for Serbia, Turkey would have overrun Europe as far as Vienna sooner than she did. Had Serbia not been able to withstand the forces of Austria as she did, she would have been overwhelmed sooner than she was—and when she was, it would have done Germany and Bulgaria as well to do the work. Serbia, militarily and economically a prosperous country during the centuries preceding the battle of the plains of Kosovo (plain of the blackbirds), so exhausted the Turks in part, that they did not completely subdue Serbia for seventy years after.

In that battle both the Serbian King Lazar and the Turkish Sultan Murad lost their lives. The legend has it that on the eve of the battle the Serbian King dreamed that he was great earthly possessions as a reward for letting the Turks march through his territory, and he also saw a heavenly crown as a reward for resistance. He chose the latter and hence Kosovo Day has always had deep religious significance to the Serbs. It was appropriate, therefore, that a service was held in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, of New York City, in which the clergy of the Protestant Episcopal, Presbyterian, Serbian and Russian Churches took part. In his sermon, Dr. Robbins, dean of the cathedral, said: "Kosovo Day voices the cry of a race that more than five hundred years ago suffered martyrdom for freedom. Like Israel, Serbia stood in the way of a great and ruthless conqueror, seeking world dominion, and faced him in the name of freedom and faith. But Israel proved, and Serbia also proves, that there is something in the world stronger than brute force. It is that indestructible thing, the spirit of a nation that remembers. At Kosovo Serbia stood in the face of the Turks, between the Turk and Europe. She fell, but the Turk suffered so heavily that Europe had a breathing space and time to prepare. What Belgium did in the first month of the present war Serbia did on the field of Kosovo." The following day, at a celebration at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, Serbia was pictured resolutely to the fore by reason of the Serbian haki uniform with its feathered akoukane and with coats thrown back from the shoulder so as to display the scarlet shirt. Among other distinguished speakers was the Serbian Minister, Dr. Ljubomir Michaelovitch, who asserted: "The battle of Kosovo taught us the value of liberty and honor above everything else. Our people have again sacrificed all that a nation can sacrifice, but have saved their freedom."

The Minister added: "The liberty and union of the Polish, Czechoslovak, and Yugoslav nations is the surest guarantee of world peace and check to Pan-Germany." It is not only the Serbs of Serbia who are interested in Kosovo Day. The Serbians, about five millions in the Kingdom of Serbia, are but a part of the Yugoslav race, which also includes the Croats and Slovenes from Austria-Hungary. The three factions, together with the Serbs in Bosnia and elsewhere, number about thirteen millions. They stand not only for national independence but also for united endeavor with the Poles and the Czechoslovaks. Among all the Slavs, however, it will always be Serbia that will have peculiar prominence. This is not only because her geographical position barred the way to the Turks in their attempt to extend Greater Germany southward. It is, in the ultimate analysis, because of the spirit of a people that has known how, year by year, to keep Kosovo Day, a day of mourning, as a day of honor.

SATURDAY, JULY 27, 1918

THE SITUATION

The pressure of the Allies in the fighting on the Western front has been checked somewhat, as new German divisions have been thrown into the fray, but progress is still taking place. In the Marne salient the French have taken Oulchy le Chateau and recaptured Ville-Montoreux adding in the latter operation seven hundred prisoners to the already large total of 30,000 taken since the counter stroke commenced. The British are also advancing, and the forces of the Crown Prince continue to be in a very precarious condition indeed. Certain it is that the transport facilities of the Hun have been very badly hammered, and that the Allied pincers are closing in more and more each day.

The important announcement is made that Japan has decided to intervene with the Allies in Siberia on the basis of terms proposed by the United States. It has been quite generally understood that the Mikado would have taken action in the respect named long ere this had not Washington, for certain reasons, exercised a restraining hand, and the fact that a satisfactory basis has not been reached, will cause general satisfaction. The Czech-Slovaks, who will thus be helped, have been doing notable work, and it may be that co-operation of the Allies will render them the saviours of Russia from the hands of the ruthless Hun.

The fact that an army of U. S. harvesters will help in the garnering of Canadian grain, constitutes still one more evidence of the whole-hearted and co-operative way in which our neighbors in Siberia are working in connection with the great struggle. The arrangement is in recognition of the fact that so many of the men of the Dominion are in the fighting area on behalf of the common cause.

THE PREMIER'S ABSENCE

Quite a few papers, in a most pleasurable way, still continue to criticize Premier Borden because of his continued absence in the Old Land. They think his wrong hand is needed at home, although as before related, there is nothing to be gained from an entirely lacking regard to such an equipment. Sir Robert Borden is not overseas on any holiday jaunt or for the purpose of having a hilarious time. He is there not alone on behalf of Canadian interests, but together with other overseas leaders, in consultation with reference to matters of great Empire importance. Hon. Mr. Meighen, who has just returned from there, reports that the Premier is personally anxious to return home, but that Lloyd George and others consider that his presence is still desirable there for some time yet. To infer that the Ministers who remain are incapable of the efficient conduct of public affairs is to contend that such men as White, Foster, Carwell and the rest are a set of nincompoops. The vast majority of Canadians rightly think that Sir Robert did an eminently proper thing when he accepted the overseas invitation—in fact, Canada would have been justified had he not done so—and they are equally satisfied that he is not idling one moment of his time, or will stay one minute longer than the circumstances warrant. Meanwhile the anvil chorus are simply making an exhibition of themselves.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S LATEST

President Wilson, from the moment the United States definitely decided to enter the war, has given utterance to many notable views. In fact it may be safely affirmed that no other prominent man in the Allied countries has presented the case for democracy and against military tyranny more forcibly, not even Lloyd George. His latest appeal to his fellow citizens, in protest of mob spirit and mob action, is equally notable. He says, during the course of this deliverance:—
"I have called upon the nation to put its great energy into this war, and it has responded—responded with spirit and a genius for action which has thrilled the world. I have called upon it, upon its men and women everywhere, to see to it that its laws are kept inviolate, its fame untarnished. Let us show our utter contempt for the things that have made this war hideous among the wars of history by showing how those who love liberty and right and jus-

SITUATION TO-DAY

Shifting their blows to the southern area of the sector between Soissons and Rheims, the French have struck the German line at Port-a-Binson, on the south side of the Marne, and about a mile south of the village of Chatillon. It is officially reported from Paris that the French lines were advanced at that point.

Further east on the Champagne sector, the troops of General Gouraud have by a local operation south of Montagne Sans Nom (mountain without a name), pressed forward over half a mile along a front of almost two miles.

The advance east of Rheims was seemingly for the purpose of restoring the Allied line in that section of the battle front. The attack at Port-a-Binson, however, had another object. German troops were reported early in the week that the French lines were advanced at that point.

West of Port-a-Binson the Germans hold the north bank of the Marne for a considerable distance and the French have apparently struck at the angle between the Germans along the river and that from the Marne towards Rheims.

Along the western side of the German salient there is no official mention of events of special importance during the past night. It is reported that French and American were attacking the enemy this morning, continuing their efforts on the work of clearing the Germans out of the wooded areas to the west, and are willing to lay down their lives for them upon foreign fields, stand ready also to illustrate to all mankind their loyalty to all things at home which they wish to see established everywhere as a blessing and protection to the people who have never known the privilege of liberty and self-government.

These are ringing words, and they should be taken to heart by the peoples of all the Allies, as well as by those of the great Republic to the south of us.

NOTES AND COMMENTS
Instead of being at the gate of Paris, the Hun is still accelerating his gait from there. *****
Perhaps July is in this melting mood because of the cold weather served up in June.

Judging from the hysterics of the Toronto Globe, that journal has become seized with the idea that Borden is over in the Old Land for the purpose of betraying this Dominion. The organ ought to exercise a more common sense. *****
These are the days when the average human confers the order of the bath upon himself without waiting for King George to perform that office.

FRANCE CLAIMS DAMAGES.
By Courier Leased Wire.
Halifax, July 27.—The republic of France has issued a writ in the Admiralty Court against the Belgian relief steamer Imo for two million dollars, claiming this to be the value of the cargo of the French merchant ship, which was destroyed by an explosion in Halifax harbor on December 6 of last year after colliding with the Imo. The case will be heard in the Admiralty Court here at a date not yet announced. A counter claim has been lodged by the owners of the Imo.

OBSERVE SERBIA DAY
By Courier Leased Wire.
Washington, July 27.—The churches of America were called on to-day by Secretary Lansing to observe to-morrow, the fourth anniversary of Serbia's refusal to meet the demands made by Austria, as "Serbia Day," and to give "expression to their sympathy with this wronged people and their oppressed and dominated kindred in other lands, and to invoke the blessing of Almighty God upon them and the cause to which they are pledged."
In giving expression to sympathy for Serbia, Secretary Lansing urged the people to not forget the "kind people of the great Slavic race, who now dominated and oppressed by alien races, yearn for independence and national unity."

MAJOR LEAGUERS QUIT
By Courier Leased Wire.
Boston, July 27.—Arthur Nehf, pitcher, and "Al" Wickland, outfielder, of the Boston National League baseball club, will leave the team next week to take positions with an electrical company at Dayton, Ohio. It is announced to-day that "Heinie" Grob, infielder, of the Cincinnati club, which closed a series here yesterday, will work in the same plant. Wickland is the last of the Braves' original 1918 outfield. Nehf, a left-hander, is considered one of the leading pitchers in the league.

may be possible for the conference to have the benefit of his ripe experience and sane counsel.

"I have followed your deliberations with the keenest interest, and trust that they may be fruitful in solving many complex problems connected with defense, trade communications and other subjects of common interest relative to both the war and post-war periods that you have been called upon to consider and that it may tend to draw the empire into living more in self-supporting unity."

"You have met this year amid circumstances of anxiety which, as you said, your address is unparalleled. Your presence here in this crisis in the history of the empire has been a support and a encouragement for us amid the manifold cares and anxieties of the present time."

"I have seen for yourselves the tasks lying before us, both at the front and at home, have realized the difficulties and complexities of the problems that confront us, and have brought into personal contact with the statesmen and military of the different parts of my dominions."

"I spoke last year of the magnificent contributions by the overseas dominions and India. Since then, I have seen the progress you have made in the various fields, and have called an ever more lavish outpouring of all the resources of the Empire. The efforts you have put forth are a source of pride and triumph to me as they are a wonder to the whole world."

"The empire is founded on a rock of unity which no storms can shake. During my speech here, I referred to the happy memories of the Queen, and I cherished in connection with the visits that we were privileged to pay to the overseas Dominions and the hope I cherished was that the children would follow our footsteps in acquiring a similar practical experience."

MISTAKEN FOR POLICE
SHOT BY DEFAULTERS
Kingston, July 27.—While paddling from a civil engineering camp in the Province of Quebec several days ago to a little village called Lac Frontenac, F. C. Fleming, of Owaco Sound, and A. B. Garrett of Johnson street, this city, both Queen's University students, were made the targets of some defaulters who were hiding in that district. Dressed in khaki trousers and shirts, the young men were mistaken for military police, and after several attempts to shoot them, one of the bullets pierced Mr. Fleming's leg. He was taken to Sherbrooke, where he is now recovering.

WHISKEY SEIZED
By Courier Leased Wire.
Guelph, Ont., July 27.—A big seizure of bottled whiskey, probably the biggest individual one in Ontario since prohibition went into effect, was made here yesterday by the license inspector, when he took charge of 30 barrels of whiskey which had been shipped here from Quebec to be sold by the Imperial Mattress Company. The shipment came in a motor car and was detected by the C. P. R. station agent while being unloaded. It was ordered back to the car and License Inspector O'Brien seized the liquor, which is valued at $8,000.

CHAPTER XXV
Elsie's Dinner Party
I said I never before had seen the look in Bob's eyes which came to them when he heard Miss Keating's voice. I had seen it, or one very like it once before—when Donald was born.

I felt as if I were choking, and so had turned to John as a relief. "You are exquisite to-night, Mrs. Garrett," he said as we shook hands. "Am I not? I have a new dress-maker you see! I replied with a laugh. All the time trying not to turn around to watch Bob and Miss Keating. If you never have been placed in a position where you were wild to see and know what was going on behind you, yet compelled yourself not to turn, you can have no idea of how hard it is.

"It isn't all the dressmaker. Although I give her credit for turning out a masterpiece," he continued, "but you wear it so well, and it is so becoming."

"Bob said, There you have flattered me long enough. Tell me all about that Miss Keating. She is talking to Bob. What an exquisite voice she has."

"Her voice is only one of her charms. She is one of the most intelligent and wonderful women I ever have met."

"At each word of praise my conviction that in some way this woman was to hurt me increased. I now turned and she and Bob were talking in animated fashion, she gesturing, using her hands in a peculiar fashion which fascinated me. "She is some way—different, isn't she?" I asked John.

"You are right exactly. She is very different. That is one of her charms."

Just then dinner was announced. I was surprised and pleased that Mr. Lansing, who had consented to be an eleventh hour guest was to take me in. He was interesting, he would talk to me and perhaps I would forget the uncanny feeling of dis-ease I felt.

Bob took Miss Keating in. I had some way known all the time that he would. They sat where I could not see them very plainly; but often Bob's laugh would ring out in boyish fashion, showing he was at least interested.

The dinner was perfect, like everything Elsie attempted. But I scarcely knew what I was eating, although I tried to be attentive when Mr. Lansing talked. A very quiet man was on the other side of me, a famous somebody whom Elsie had placed on her right.

But he might as well have been the veriest nobody for all the interest I felt in him, and it was only my duty to Elsie as hostess, my fixed determination not to give Bob cause for complaint that kept me from bursting into tears. Every time Bob laughed it was like a knife thrust into my heart.

Once when the table was quiet, I heard her soft flute-like voice. It would be impossible even after all this time to explain how it affected me. I felt numb and cold, yet when Mr. Lansing spoke I forced myself to listen, and to answer.

It was with a sigh of relief that I saw Elsie give the signal to rise from the table. The long dinner had seemed interminable to me although judging by the hilarity, none of the others shared my opinion.

"You had been taken up and the floors cleared for dancing, as he had done once before, at Henry Greenmore's best-dressed dinner. Bob danced first with someone else. Then it had been Soma Wells. I wondered how I could ever have cared about that child. Now it was Charlotte Keating, and for the first time since I had married Robert Garrett I was jealous. Jealous of another woman, she danced, as she evidently did a number of things, perfectly. How I envied her dancing with Bob, who also danced so well. John Kendall and I danced that first dance together, and I was glad he was not expert. He was so busy watching himself, his steps, that he had no time to talk.

I tried to be my old sensible self, but I could not. Why should I suddenly become jealous? Bob was doing nothing he had not done many times before with others—dancing, laughing, talking. Yet as I tried to reason away my fears I realized that there was a difference, that some unknown quantity in this woman, some appeal she was making to Bob was making me afraid. But I knew I had acquitted myself well when Elsie whispered as I put on my wraps:—
"You both outdid and outshone yourself to-night. You'll win out I am sure."

"I never felt less sure," I replied, and then said good night to the others, including Miss Keating, paying no attention to Elsie's mysterious expression.

"Did you have a good time?" Bob asked on the way home.

"Yes, very. Did you?"

"Elsie—Elsie surely knows how to do things up brown," he said after a moment's hesitation. "And she always has interesting people."

RATE INCREASE IS CRITICISED
Railway Men Claim That It is Not High Enough

Montreal, July 27.—"Utterly inadequate" was the declaration of railway men to-day in respect of the 20 per cent. advance in rates granted by the Government in response to application of the railways.

"The Government could not possibly have done more at the moment that it has done," said J. E. Macdonald, vice-president in charge of traffic of the Grand Trunk, "but the amount now given would not satisfy, after deducting the extra wages now being paid, the additional expenses which are now required for the running of the system."

W. W. Wright, traffic manager of the C.P.R., said to-day that the company had received no official notification from the Government of the reported increase. There was an increase, of course, but 20 per cent. which had been demanded in the connection, would, in the opinion of the C.P.R., be quite inadequate for the purpose for which it was intended.

IDEAL CAINN LIFE

The log cabin camp hotels built by the Grand Trunk Railway in picturesque spots in Algonquin Park have become very popular with those who desire quiet, restful, exclusive accommodations for summer holidays. These log cabin hotels have a large central lodge or nesting place, and in close proximity are the log cabins, built of cedar logs with the bark on the outside. The central lodge and cabins are comfortably furnished and have modern conveniences, with bath-rooms and hot and cold water. Camp Minnesing, in Island Lake, ten miles from the Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, is situated in a delightful spot that pleases the heart of the lover of the outdoors. Limited accommodation at this Camp is available and full particulars can be had on application to any Grand Trunk Agent or to C. B. Horning, Union Station, Toronto.

DOLL SET.
By Anabel Worthington.
A complete set of clothes, from envelope combination to hat, is given in pattern No. 5593. It is intended for a little girl doll and includes just the sort of things that the little owner wears herself. The first thing is a little lace edged envelope chemise which buttons between the knees and again on each shoulder. Then there is a little short-sleeved petticoat which is straight and gathered to a band. The dress is a one piece model, buttoning down the front. The belt and tiny pockets are sewed together and then the belt is arranged over the dress. The little hat, with soft crown and floppy brim, is easy to make.

The doll set, No. 5593, is cut in seven sizes—14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24 and 26 inches. The dress in 24 inch size requires 3/4 yard 38 inch, with 3/4 yard 12 inch contrasting goods and 2 yards braid. The other requirements are given on the envelope.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents to The Courier office, or two for 25 cents.

A MONSTER LEAF.

A leaf fifteen and one-half inches by eighteen inches, taken from a basswood tree in front of the residence of Mr. C. L. Lakin, William street, was brought into The Courier office this morning.

BUILDING PERMIT.

A building permit was issued yesterday to Alex. Lamb for the erection of a brick dwelling, estimated to cost $1,900. The house is to be erected at 106 Murray.

THE "B" ON THE OATS.

Mrs. Henry Dampier writes to the Gossip Mercury: "I would like to say I am 87 years old and my husband is 76 and we both have seen that "B" on the oats ever since we can remember. So "don't worry," you can tell them. We live at Crewson's Corners. The people around here felt quite troubled about it."

WAR GARDEN THEFTS.

In some sections of the city considerable thieving is being done in the war garden plots. The thefts have been reported to the police, and the Thrift League will pay a reward for any information leading to the discovery of the perpetrators, who will be dealt with as severely as a vigorous prosecution by the Thrift League can secure.

BAND CONCERT.

Coats, starched collars and the other paraphernalia of conventionality were abandoned by the majority of those who attended the band concert given in Agricultural Park last night by the Dufferin Rifles band. The heat did not keep the crowd away, but it certainly boosted the trade done by refreshment vendors on the grounds during the evening.

WOMAN ON WHEEL.

A motor accident occurred this morning about 7 o'clock in the centre of Lorne bridge, which blocked the traffic for a block back. Mrs. Andrews, 249 Dufferin avenue, an employee of the Steel Co. of Canada, while riding to work on a bicycle, was struck by a farmer's motor truck. She was knocked unconscious for about 15 minutes, but after resting she was able to proceed to work, none the worse for the accident. Her wheel was badly damaged. The motorist got away, but his number was taken.

SLIGHTLY WOUNDED.

Official notification was received yesterday by Ald. and Mrs. J. J. Hurley, of the wounding of their son, James J. Hurley, of the Lewis Machine Gun Section of the 54th Battalion. Gunner Hurley went overseas with the 21st Battalion, and was formerly a student at the Collegiate Institute here, where he enjoyed wide popularity. He has been admitted to No. 7 Casualty Clearing Station, suffering from a puncture wound in the hip. Word received by his parents earlier in the week stated that his injuries were not serious.

LUCKY NUMBER.

The holder of ticket No. 51 is entitled to the jardiniere which was raffled at the French Red Cross bazaar two weeks ago, and may obtain the property at the home of Mrs. Livingston, 88 Brant Avenue.

POLICE COURT.

There was a tight bill at the police court this morning. Two men charged with failure to carry their registration cards were allowed to go after being severely warned and paying the costs of the court.

WANT INFORMATION.

The city clerk has been requested by the Superintendent of the Commercial Intelligence Branch at Ottawa to send him a list of the industries that have started in Brantford since the beginning of the war.

WATER IS POPULAR.

The city swimming pool on the west bank of the river, near Agricultural Park, is not being used exclusively by the kiddies during the present hot weather, for nearly every night there has been a sprinkling of adults or near adults enjoying themselves in the water quite as thoroughly as any of the youngsters. It is as cool a spot as can be found in town, though that's not saying much.

H.M.S. MARMORA REPORTED SUNK

Submarined by U-Boat, British Torpedo Boat Runs Ashore

London, July 27.—The British armored cruiser Marmora was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine on Tuesday, according to a dispatch from the Admiralty to-day. The Admiralty to-day. Ten members of the crew of the vessel are missing, and it is presumed they were killed. The Admiralty also announces that a British torpedo destroyer sank ashore yesterday and later sank. Thirteen of her crew are missing, and it is presumed they were drowned.

MUST QUIT BY SEPT 1ST.

Final Order in the States Regarding Professional Ball

Washington, July 27.—Professional baseball players were given until September 1 to seek employment or be enlisted in the army. The order, issued by Secretary of War Baker yesterday, denying the application of the National Baseball Commission to the effect that the "Work or Fight" regulations should be extended to the baseball industry by October 15.

Why Extension is Granted

The Secretary stated that the limited extension of time was given because of the representation made by baseball players that they were put in a less favorable position than others affected by the regulations, because of their reliance on his statement that the question of their inclusion in the terms of the order would not be decided until a case had arisen. He made it plain, however, that the War Department is interested in strengthening of the nation's military forces as the first consideration.

Midwest Baseball League

Privost Marshal Gen. Crowder, Mr. Baker said, had reported that it was not clear to him that the game would have to be discontinued even if the order were made immediately applicable, as only 237 major league players would be affected.

World Series is Now Uppermost

New York, July 27.—Expressing satisfaction at the action of Secretary of War Baker in compelling ball players from the "Work or Fight" edict until September 1, baseball officials in this city turned immediately to the question of whether the world series should be held, and, if so, when.

TO-MORROW the Hygienic Dairy Driver will be passing your door.

He has gone past your door every day now for weeks. Each time he goes by without calling he carries away with him three opportunities for you:

You cannot afford to neglect any one of these opportunities; they are health, economy and loyalty.

Don't trifle with this milk question. War has placed it in an unordinary position.

By using more milk you save meat, wheat, bacon and other foods. For milk is the one food that gives nourishment, energy, health, at the very lowest cost.

But safety and economy urge you to be careful in buying your milk. Choose your dairy by exacting standards—by those that prevail in the big cities where the Health Department supervises the dairies.

The Hygienic Dairy is modelled after such standards—it offers you safety to a degree that is nowhere excelled.

These Things Are Important --- They Mean SAFETY

Hygienic Dairy Milk comes to you from a modern, up-to-date dairy, scrupulously clean; splendidly equipped. This Dairy is always open to your inspection.

All milk we sell is made safe by scientific pasteurization—which is enforced in the big cities, but not in Brantford. Yet for five years we have been pasteurizing milk, because safety demands it.

Hygienic Dairy Milk comes to you in the modern, clean, safe way—bottled. But, more than this, every bottle is sterilized before use. We are the only dairy in Brantford taking this precaution.

We suggest that, instead of letting our driver pass to-morrow, you stop him. And double your ordinary supply.

TRAFFIC LAWS MUST BE OBSERVED

Will Be More Strictly Enforced in Future, Says Chief Slemm

Chief Slemm once more calls the attention of the public to the necessity of observing all sections of the traffic by-laws, and declares his intention of enforcing such regulations more strictly, as a measure of precaution against accidents. He emphasizes the following rules:

A vehicle shall keep as near the right-hand curb as possible, and while standing the wheels nearest the curb shall not be more than six inches therefrom.

A vehicle overtaking another shall pass on the left.

The vehicle turning into another street to the left, shall turn around the intersection of the two streets and keep to the right of the street into which it turns.

A vehicle turning into another street to the right, shall turn around the intersection of the two streets and keep to the right of the street into which it turns.

Vehicles going in a northerly or southerly direction shall have the right of way over vehicles going in an easterly or westerly direction.

The speed shall not exceed six miles an hour on the following streets:

Colborne street, between Brant and Murray street.
 George street, between Colborne street and the G. T. Railway.
 Dalhousie street, between Brant and Park avenue.
 Market street, between G. T. Railway and T. H. and B. Railway.

Not more than four miles an hour while crossing over at the intersection of any of these streets.

Not shall exceed four miles per hour while turning at the intersection of any other streets.

"With her frailty it was hardly credible that she should have weathered the storms of this war as she has done, or survived that retreat from Brussels across her husband's kingdom to this little out-of-the-way seaside resort," says Lady Byng. "Nobody but those who have seen her frailty know what her journey must have entailed in suffering and horror, as her motor threaded its way through troops advancing westwards to try to defend the country and hosts of terrified civilians fleeing westwards from the Germans behind them."

"So close on the Queen's heels were those brutal horrors that more than once, when she and her lady-in-waiting, Comtesse de Caraman Chlmay, left their motor at some point where they were making a lespatch rider would rush up with orders to resume the journey at once. Some day perhaps the world will hear all the details of that grim fight, and not only of that, but of the daily life of the Belgian sovereigns at La Panne.

BONUSES BESIDES
Temporary Men to Receive Latter, Government Had Decided Before Meeting

Ottawa, July 26.—Following a lengthy sitting of the Cabinet this afternoon a statement was given out regarding the salaries paid to letter carriers, porters, messengers and mail clerks employed by the Government. The Hon. Mr. Doherty, Acting Prime Minister, stated that instructions had been issued to postmasters to dispense with the services of those men who refused to return to work. This statement issued this evening follows:

"The salient facts regarding the salary of letter carriers, porters, messengers and mail transfer clerks, are as follows:

"When any one of these officials enters the service, he receives a salary of $2 per day for the first year, $2.25 for the second year, $2.50 for the third, $2.75 for the fourth year and $3 per day thereafter."

"There are in the whole of Canada 2,152 letter carriers, of whom 102 are in the $2 per day class, 63 in the $2.25 class, 61 in the $2.50 class, 142 in the $2.75 class, and 1,784 in the $3 class. Of porters there are 24, divided as follows: 39 in the $2 class, 31 in the $2.25 class, 39 in the $2.50 class, 68 in the $2.75 class, and 347 in the maximum class. Of messengers, there is a total of 44, divided as follows: Two in the $2 class, one in the $2.25 class, none in the $2.50 class, one in the $2.75 class and 40 in the $3 class. Of mail transfer clerks, there are 137, divided as follows: 20 in the $2 class, 19 in the $2.25 class, 15 in the $2.50 class, 17 in the $2.75 class, and 107 in the $3 class.

"It has been seen that out of 2,277 are in the maximum class, and only 163 in the minimum class. In addition to this there are a number of temporary men who have been receiving the $2.50 per day, regardless of duration of service."

Total Remuneration.
 "In all portions of Canada, west of Sault Ste. Marie, the officials in the minimum class receive as salary $626, and one in the maximum class receives a salary of $878. To these sums must be added the following sums: $100 bonus voted and paid in 1917, which is included in the estimate voted by Parliament, and is being paid for 1918; $150 extra for many years been paid to these officials west of Sault Ste. Marie, this making a total remuneration of class $1,006, and to men in the maximum class $1,208. To this must be added a sum for uniforms, consisting of suit, greatcoat, hat, esp. boots, and a pair of raincoats, which may be fairly estimated at $100, and which was admitted by the representatives of the men before the Government amount to that sum. In addition to this, they receive free transportation upon street car lines in Canada from their home to their work and while employed in their ordinary business, for which the Government of Canada pays an annual sum of $65,000."

Receiving More Than They Ask.
 "They demand a minimum salary of $1,000, and a maximum of $1,400 and it will thus be seen, including a reasonable amount for uniforms, they are now receiving more than they are demanding. The Government decided before the representatives met them on Wednesday of this week, that the temporary men were entitled to and would receive both bonuses, amounting to $250, as here before stated, as well as the $180 which has been paid to all employees for a long period of years."

"On this statement of facts the Government is willing and has appointed a committee of Council to confer with their employees, hear any representations the latter may desire to make, and fairly consider them."

Hear word returned Welsh Quarantine Station, afternoon at 4 p.m. Also Henry A. Adrian, "The Burbank Man," at Chautauqua Tent, C.S.B. grounds. Collection for Red Cross.

ALLIES CONTINUE ADVANCE
Everywhere Save on the Soissons Heights

London, July 26.—(Reuter's).—On all sides of the German salient, the Allies are reported to-day to be continuing to make progress except on the heights behind Soissons. The German resistance to the French pressure has been very determined in this latter sector. The advances reported elsewhere are for the most part slight.

On the other side of the salient, just to the west of Rheims, the Allies lost the town of Merry and Hill 204 to a German counter-attack, but retained Vignay and the greater part of the line thereabouts looking toward Fismes.

Between the Allies in this sector hold Martaux, Bouilly, St. Euphrasie and Courton Wood.

Between the Ourcq and Chateau Thierry the Franco-American line now shows an advance beyond the line of a week ago of from six to eight miles.

Poe Fought Well.
 London, July 26.—Reuter's correspondent with the American troops in France says: "German infantry, which had been pushed back from the Marne was hurried forward to check the Franco-American thrust toward Fore-en-Tardens on the southwest. The Germans fought well and checked the advance for some thirty-six hours and three times wrested the village of Eoleds from their determined opponents. In the meantime the village grew constantly smaller under the ceaseless bombardment from both sides and finally disappeared, not even a large pile of bricks being left behind."

When the village disappeared the Germans were in possession. The Americans tired of the ceaseless obd and flow of the fighting there, had taken the slopes on either flank and forced the Germans to make their final massed attack into the ruins of the village.

Meanwhile the Allied guns had been brought up beyond the crest of the hill and as soon as the Germans took possession of the village they until the place smoldered with the red dust as though a fire. When the guns ceased firing there were no Germans left to capture or even to bury.

At the edge of the wood beyond Trunzy, the correspondent adds, German machine guns stationed ten yards apart held up the advance a little longer. Making a feint frontal attack, however, the Americans overtook in front of the machine guns, and skirted all the guns. Afterward the pace of the advance quickened. All the high ground north of Eoleds was taken and the line carried beyond Courpel.

Lines Advanced.
 With the Americans on the Alsace-Marne front, July 26.—(2 p.m.)—Franco-American troops on the front northeast of Chateau Thierry moved their lines further forward to-day. The Allies along the front to the east likewise made progress at places. The Americans at one point obtaining an objective a kilometre distance.

Clinging desperately to the hills and woods, the Germans are using their machine guns, their artillery and their air forces and quantities of gas in an effort to hamper the advance.

Give Your Hair The Charm of Youth
Proper Shampooing With Velnor Will Keep Hair Healthy And Attractive

Attractive hair is a birthright you should keep "good to look upon." By regularly shampooing with Velnor, you will give it the charm, the healthful, richer hues of youth. You will keep the scalp healthy and the hair glossy and wavy.

A home-course in shampooing is made simple and quite inexpensive by using Velnor—an exquisite shampoo, just placed on the market. It comes in the form of a powder, unbelievably fine and possessing an elusive fragrance. It is daintily packaged in an attractive, houndoircarton that looks irreproachably correct on the toilet table.

Velnor shampoo is surprisingly economical and convenient. The houndoircarton contains six individual sachets, each of which when dissolved in warm water will make 4 ozs. of liquid shampoo. This is about the same quantity as one ordinarily gets in a bottle of liquid shampoo.

Proper shampooing is really quite a simple process, and with Velnor, delightfully refreshing and invigorating. Use a little of the liquid first to remove from the hair all grease and dust. Then rinse it off, and give a second application of liquid—a second application of instant, copious, creamy lather, which should be rubbed into the scalp with the finger-tips and then thoroughly rinsed out.

One carton of Velnor will make in all six times as much shampoo as can be purchased in the ordinary bottle of prepared liquid. Velnor shampoo is thus always fresh. Yet the houndoircarton costs only 50 cents at any drug store or hairdressers.

A simple test for proper sealing of ball top jars is to loosen the top ball and lift the jar by taking hold of the top with the fingers, says the National War Garden Commission of Washington. The internal suction should hold the top tightly in place when thus lifted. If the top comes off put on a new wet rubber and sterilize 15 minutes longer for vegetables and 5 minutes longer for fruits.

A DANGEROUS LAIR

A Story From the Western Front, of a Sniper and His Forethought

By Lieut. F. J. Sleath

"It's a most wonderful how snipers know what's no right," was the way old Dan Haggarty, the veteran sniping corporal of the Eastshires, muttered to the abnormally developed instinct which gives snipers an immunity from death that fills ordinary soldiers with amazement, and the sniping officer could give no other reason for feeling that his new sniping post was dangerous.

It was on the top of a ruined house which stood a few yards behind the British firing line. A shell burst inside the building, tumbling down all but the further gable. But the rafter that stood in such a solid jumble of woodwork on a fragment of the upper floor, that it had occurred to him as a suitable position for constructing a sniper's hiding place.

For days he studied its general appearance, and only the night before he had started working with his section. Carefully leaving his construction untouched, he built up his position, and so skillfully was it done that every man of the section was eager to be first occupying it.

There was reason for their eagerness. Sniping opportunities had been rare in the past few days, as the Germans were keeping slightly down beneath the level of their parapet. But from the top of this house a sniper could look right into the enemy trenches in places, and the rivalry among the various snipers as to who should have the leading score was intense. A day in such a position would give the occupant a commanding lead over his fellows. When the choice was made they went off to their posts with a keenness born of the desire to lose no opportunities which would lessen their lucky comrade's chance of forging ahead.

With the first light of the morning the officer stood in the firing line intently examining the new position. It was then that the premonition came to him that the post was unsafe. The sniper was already in occupation, and apart though the distance was, the officer could not detect the slightest trace of him. Rack his brains as he might he could not fix on a single point which would lead the German to suspect the change that had been made. But there the feeling was.

He called his sergeant and corporal to have a look at the place. "You are not sure about it, sir," suggested the sergeant, sensing his officer's uneasiness immediately, although the latter had carefully avoided saying anything about it. "I am not, sergeant."

"Then order MacDonald out of it, sir, until we see if the Germans tumble to it," said the sergeant decisively.

"Ay, sur. It will dae nae harm to let the post bide a wee, to see if the Germans get in. I'll put in Old Dan Haggarty, the corporal."

Old Dan then went on to make his reference about the remarkable sensitivity of snipers to danger. He backed his remark by the example of the communication trench running behind the old building.

"See that parapet, sir," he said. "It looks solid enough since we r-bullit it. But once it looked just as rotten, though it was as soft as a rotten turnip. We got nervous about it, and aye came the other road, though the men laughed at us. We just felt it wasn't safe. And ye mind how the Germans turned a machine gun on it whilst a pickle o' men were passing by. And the bullets came right through. If ye are nervous about the post, don't use it."

The officer gave the order and MacDonald came out of the post, but with obvious reluctance. He was one of the youngest members of the section, a very fine rifleman, but not yet a sniper as the word was understood in the battalion, and as soon as the officer had gone he went off to his ordinary post grumbling at his ill fortune. From time to time he came back to look at the ruined building, hoping that his officer would still let him crawl into it.

All the forenoon the discarded post stared across at the German line without anything occurring to justify the officer's uneasiness. He was on the point of allowing MacDonald to re-occupy the position when the warning of his sub-conscious self was justified.

About noon it happened when the

AMMUNITION HIDDEN IN GRAIN IN IRELAND.

"Corn" in Ireland. Some weeks ago the police authorities in Ireland searched the Smithfield market in Dublin and found 400,000 rounds of Ball cartridges concealed in 122 sacks of grain consigned to the north of Ireland. The picture shows 22 bags of the grain and a heap which has been sorted over, and a bag of corn that forms a portion of the ammunition.

sun was pouring down from a cloudless sky, giving the period of greatest visibility of the day. The thud of a bullet striking home came to his ears just as he and his sergeant were walking along the firing-line past the old building. Up among the tangle of woodwork behind which the post had been made, there was a long white scar where a bullet had sliced off a splinter. The beam which had been struck rested immediately above the loophole.

Other bullets followed, rattling the woodwork in every direction, and for over an hour the hammering was continued. The Germans left no doubt about their discovery of the post, and had a sniper been in occupation he could not have escaped their systematic searching. He only stopped when MacDonald from his ordinary loophole in the trenches shot one of the German snipers engaged in the firing. But in spite of his success he was very quiet when he saw the damage done to the position which he had wanted to occupy.

"It's a mercy the officer wouldn't let me use the place," he said soberly to the sergeant. "I wonder how he knew."

"The day before the farmer comes to dig him out, the fox will leave his borrow," remarked the sergeant quietly; and MacDonald began to understand how much he had yet to learn.

MANHATTANS PROVED EASY FOR SEMI PROS

Local Team Beat London 6-1 at Agricultural Park Last Night

It looked like a good game, and a close encounter, when it started, but before the end Brantford forged ahead and emerged at the big end of a 6-1 score in last night's ball game behind the sticks. The redoubtable Manhattans of London were the visitors of the evening and while they played a fair game of ball, they are not, on the face of it, in the same class with the local semi-pros. Mitchell twirling for the latter held the opponents to four well scattered hits in a full nine innings while London's fielding was also ragged at times. The game finished in semi-darkness at ten minutes to nine.

The first few innings gave every indication of a well matched encounter. Bradley nipped Brantford's first hit, in the first inning, but died on the bases. Mitchell held the Manhattans hitless and runless for the first five innings, while his ten nips garnered only three bingles in the same period and were equally unable to score. London took the lead in the sixth, scoring her tally run when Mitchell hit Meyer and then nicked for successive singles by McPee and Doherty.

Brantford came back with a rush, and scored three. McKelvey fitted a high one to centre field, which Clark could not hold. Lee, Kaufman and Doyle singled in turn, and Arnett dropped on easy fly hit by Summerhayes.

Brantford's next tally was handed her on a platter by Downs, he walked McKelvey after Orentt had obtained a life on McCormick's error and singles by Bradley and Burke had filled the bases. Two more were added in the eighth. Summerhayes the first man to hit, drove out a smashing bludge to left field, and reached second in safety, but his vaulting ambition overleaped itself, and he perished in attempting to make third. Sears followed with another two bagger, and Orentt

Bradley and Burke singled. Further scoring might have followed but for a first class bit of "ivory" pulled by Burke. The latter was on first when McKelvey drove out a bouncer to McCormick. The latter after touching first, threw to second, just a head of Burke. The second baseman thinking the runner was forced out made no move to tag him, and the coacher, seeing this, shouted to Burke, who was a few steps off the base to get back—i.e. back to second, before he was touched out. Burke instead hearing the cry "Get back," turned and made for first, and was run down between the bases.

Johnson leading off for London in the ninth, singled, and prospects looked rosy, but he was forced out second by Clark and two more easy outs followed.

Sad tidings on the frame.

For the first five innings it looked like a no hit game for Mitchell. The locals had no difficulty, after the first three innings, in connecting with Down's slants. The latter is a big plump right hander built along the lines of Roscoe Atchafkie, and is not the southpaw of the same name who twirled for Brantford two weeks ago.

The semi-pros have yet to taste the bitterness of defeat on their home diamond.

Mitchell hit McPee over the heart with a pitched ball in the fourth inning, and the latter doubled up on the ground. A runner was put in for him, and he was able to finish the game.

McKelvey must have had a horrible shot in each pocket when he shunted Johnson's lines in the seventh. Mac made a running stretching catch, as spectacular a play as has been seen here this season.

As unusual double play was witnessed in the second inning. Kaufman was up second when Doyle fanned, but Johnson let the third strike get away from him, throwing it first just in time to catch the runner. McCormick rounded the throw in time to catch Kaufman at third. Jimmy Bradley was well to the left with three outs, his first dip one astely laid hunt which he beat

SIDELIGHTS OF THE STAGE AND SCREEN

"A BRANDED SOUL"

Gladys Brockwell in "A Branded Soul" is the attraction at the Rex the first of next week.

Conchita Cordova (Gladys Brockwell) loved by Juan Miranda, makes her living by singing in the choir of her native cathedral. She lives happily in the little Mexican village until there comes into her life John Rennie, millionaire oil man.

Rennie tries to get her under his thumb. He learns of her love affair with Juan. He sets men to watch Juan and he discovers that the youthful Mexican is a paid spy in the employ of the German secret service bureau.

Rennie gains possession of papers which incriminate Conchita's lover, and then threatens to expose the boy unless Conchita herself comes to his home.

Scarcely knowing what she is doing the girl goes. The revelation of Juan's true character has disillusioned her and she realizes that she does not care for him. But she instinctively feels that she must save him from being revealed to the populace.

The simple faith of Conchita has a strange effect on Rennie. As she stands in his room and takes the cross from about her neck he realizes that at last he has found a good woman.

Meanwhile the people in the village have become incensed against Rennie. They set fire to his oil works. As he rushes forth to drive them back they throw a halter about his neck and threaten to kill him.

But the prayers of Conchita have their effect and the man is allowed to live. Among the ruins of his wealth he meets the girl again. She is praying for forgiveness for this man who has sought to harm her. And he kneels by her side.

"THE GLORIOUS ADVENTURE"

Whimsical and decidedly different is Mae Marsh's newest Goldwyn photoplay, "The Glorious Adventure" by Edith Barnard DeLano, to be seen at the Brant the last of next week. The heroine must be described as a girl of a by-gone day in distinctly modern surroundings and situations.

She is Carey Wetherbee and she lives a life of seclusion amid the degrading grandeur of a Southern mansion. The conflict of character and the clash of circumstance are brought about through Carey's ignorance of present-day conventions. The girl does not know how narrowly she escapes disaster when, in a moment of girlish fancy, she sets out in search of "the glorious adventure."

With a small sum of money she recklessly buys a ticket for as much as she has, and, once in the factory town, she asks to be driven to the largest house. It belongs to Hiram A. Ward, owner of the mill. There she meets with a cool reception. Ward has no interest in girls and he resents Carey's intrusion. His butler and secretary intercede for her, however, and all three marry at the newcomer's utter ignorance of the odd situation.

Staying on, Carey becomes deeply interested in the mill workers. She indignantly reproaches Ward for the way they are treated, assuring him that he does not understand them. "They are only children," says Carey. Labor troubles grow more acute and finally a strike is impending. The simple-hearted girl goes among the sullen workers, aiding them as much as she can. They misgauge this and finally the mills are blown up.

A man is accused and evidence points to his guilt. Carey investigates and proves to herself that he is innocent.

Teddy, the dog in Mack-Sennett comedies will have a big role in a forthcoming picture. Teddy is one of the screen's most remarkable animal actors. Pepper, the cat, is a big hit also, but as temperamental as a prima donna, while Teddy is as calm and dependable as a plough horse, yet with the understanding of a human being.

Delightful Enid Bennett, the Thomas H. Avie Berston is a product of the social set, with her capacity for love and the better things of life dwelt and embodied by her associations and upbringing. Her mother is in dire financial straits and plans to marry her daughter to wealth to rehabilitate her own fortunes. Avie is attracted and cynically returns the attentions of a Dr. Fortesque Van Fleet, social parasite. Billy, her

From the West comes Barton Masters, a multi-millionaire copper miner and rancher. He is attracted to Avie and she to him but still cynical she assures Van Fleet that a marriage to Barton will not seriously interfere with their possible relations. Married, the two set out from the Western ranch and Masters brings along the doctor and Mrs. Berston. Billy has gone on ahead and is rapidly improving in the clean life of the open lands.

The doctor tries to compel Avie to make good her cynical assurance but is caught by Barton Masters, thrashed and thrown out to make his way home on a desert, bare as a can. Masters then sends the whole crowd of relatives and friends back to New York. Avie is rebellious, a slave to her husband's will. Secretly she worships him. Van Fleet stinks back and shoots Masters, leaving him for dead. Avie secures a revolver and forces the doctor to give Masters the surgical attention that he requires.

Italy's National Music.
It is a peculiar fact that Italian music is not in the least tinged with local allusions except in a few instances, and her best Italian does not compare with that of England and Spain. There is no song of Trovati, none of the lovely lake of Como and the fair region surrounding it. Italy has never sung of the glories of her hills and mountain and lakes, as Scotland has sung of her lochs and braes, or as Norway has sung of her fjords and sears. Evidently, the Italian lacks it for granted that his land is fair and that it goes as that.

Italy, however, is rich in her national songs set to martial tunes and heard all over the land. The call of patriotism never has failed to find a responsive echo in the breasts of her sons and wars and struggles for independence have called forth many of her most stirring compositions. To her most serious revolutionary periods, such as the years 1821, 1848, and 1859, can be traced the most noteworthy of the national songs. Very popular is Garibaldi's hymn with its reiterated refrain:

So fight with the sword;
So fight with the sword;
With fire and sword;
With fire and sword.

The "Volunteer's Farewell" is the national song of Florence and the "Tri-Colored Banner" is the favorite song of the Neapolitans. Verdi wrote the music of "O, Mia Patria," the most beautiful of the national songs. The "Marcha Reale," or Royal March, is played as a farewell by the Royal Band whenever the king and his consort make their appearance.

MUSICAL MUSINGS.
The day of the eccentric music lover is over.

We are all music lovers and we are demanding the opportunity of everybody.

"Recreational music" is a term that is becoming generally understood.

Singing is becoming so general now that there is less talk of "placing" the voice and more of "releasing it."

The war has shown us the place of music in life. Now let us fix its place in the school curriculum.

Indian: one of the five states in the United States requiring music study in the high schools.

Evansville, Indiana, is one of the few cities on this continent where instrumental instruction in music is furnished absolutely free to students who study in classes, taught by specialists, paid from public funds.

An educational director gives the information that out of 1928 U.S. cities with a population of 3000 and over 1332 employ a supervisor of music.

If the occupations of Canadians analyze proportionately to the figures in the United States, apart from doctors and public school teachers there are more people engaged in the music profession than in any other.

"Never mind what they say about its taking so long and being so hard to make good translations," remarked Mabel Rieselman, the Chicago Opera Co.'s soprano, "let's have the municipal opera houses and if we can't have opera in English, let us at least have opera. Let's alternate serious and comic operas, as they do in Europe. Three nights a week you could have light operas and the rest of the time grand opera. Think how splendid it would be to have an opera house in every city, all municipally endowed, with good stock companies as they have them in Europe and at popular prices. Why can't we at least do for music what we've done for the movies? There's a motion picture house in every block—why not have an opera house in every city."

Incidents About Great Hymns.
The story is told that when hostilities were ending in the Boer War, a chaplain sent a telegram to Lord Kitchener, saying, "As chaplain I am to conduct divine service in several camps, to-morrow. May I ask you to send me a few hymns, 'Perfect Peace' not to be a most appropriate one to sing." "Please yourself," replied Kitchener, "but I think 'Onward, Christian Soldiers' quite as good at this time, and perhaps more appropriate."

A little clog dancer, Mike Riley, of world-wide fame once came to America, where he commanded a big salary. Drink got the better of him and he became a boisterous outcast. On the eve of an attempt to end his life he was converted through the singing of Dr. Ray Palmer's "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" in the Bowery Mission. This hymn is most frequently sung to Lowell Mason's music known as the tune Olivet.

It is known that the favorite hymn of Chinese Gordon, one of the best and bravest generals, whose name is recorded in history, was Lyte's "Abide With Me."

The special hymn of the late President McKinley, which was sung all over the civilized world at the time of his death, was "Lead, Kindly Light." William Ewart Gladstone considered that and "Rock of Ages" the two of which he was most fond. Gladstone once translated the latter into Latin, Greek and Italian.

With fire and sword;
With fire and sword.

The "Volunteer's Farewell" is the national song of Florence and the "Tri-Colored Banner" is the favorite song of the Neapolitans. Verdi wrote the music of "O, Mia Patria," the most beautiful of the national songs. The "Marcha Reale," or Royal March, is played as a farewell by the Royal Band whenever the king and his consort make their appearance.

MUSICAL MUSINGS.
The day of the eccentric music lover is over.

We are all music lovers and we are demanding the opportunity of everybody.

"Recreational music" is a term that is becoming generally understood.

Singing is becoming so general now that there is less talk of "placing" the voice and more of "releasing it."

The war has shown us the place of music in life. Now let us fix its place in the school curriculum.

Indian: one of the five states in the United States requiring music study in the high schools.

Evansville, Indiana, is one of the few cities on this continent where instrumental instruction in music is furnished absolutely free to students who study in classes, taught by specialists, paid from public funds.

An educational director gives the information that out of 1928 U.S. cities with a population of 3000 and over 1332 employ a supervisor of music.

If the occupations of Canadians analyze proportionately to the figures in the United States, apart from doctors and public school teachers there are more people engaged in the music profession than in any other.

"Never mind what they say about its taking so long and being so hard to make good translations," remarked Mabel Rieselman, the Chicago Opera Co.'s soprano, "let's have the municipal opera houses and if we can't have opera in English, let us at least have opera. Let's alternate serious and comic operas, as they do in Europe. Three nights a week you could have light operas and the rest of the time grand opera. Think how splendid it would be to have an opera house in every city, all municipally endowed, with good stock companies as they have them in Europe and at popular prices. Why can't we at least do for music what we've done for the movies? There's a motion picture house in every block—why not have an opera house in every city."

Rippling Rhymes

KULTUR.
You ask me what this "kultur" means, what's boomed by Prussian kings and queens? I mean slaying babes with submarines, that's kultur. I make a solemn pledge to-day, and later think it may not pay, whereas I throw the pledge away—that's kultur. I mean slaying banner fly above a shed where sick men lie; I bomb the shed, and they all die; that's kultur. I line myself with brutes and beasts, I give the virtues daily lessons; I burn down churches, hang the priests; that's kultur. At every hour to God I cry, I'm always pointing to the sky; in every act God I defy—that's kultur. I send my nephews' sons to fight against the sacred cause of right; but mine are safe at home each night—that's kultur. I claim that butchery is wise, that tears are good for human eyes; I swear to all ungodly things, that's kultur. Oh, think of all that's wrong and foul, of sins that travel cheek by jowl, of kings who strut while subjects howl—that's kultur. And think of all the homes destroyed, the fair fields now an aching void, of those by trachery deceived—that's kultur. There is an evil fiend abroad that knows no conscience, truth or God; we agree to strike it to the sod. It's kultur.

CZECHS HATE AUSTRIA.
Amsterdam, July 26. —The Czechs declare they will hate Austria forever, and God willing, they will in the end destroy her completely, because Austria embodies a century old crime against the liberty of mankind, said Deputy Stransky, a Czech Socialist, in moving in the Austrian lower house an indictment against the ministers for their decree ordering the partition of Bohemia.

The highest national duty of the Czechs is to hate Austria wherever and whenever possible," said Stransky. "This we owe to the Czech people and to our loyalty to the Bohemian crown, which loyalty can only be put into practice by betraying Austria. Therefore, we are determined to betray her whenever we can."

HABEAS CORPUS APPEALS.
By Courier Leased Wire.
Montreal, July 26. —Only two of the sixty-five habeas corpus cases now pending in the Montreal courts were heard by Mr. Justice Monet this morning and judgement was reserved in each case. The rest were adjourned until this afternoon. The point chiefly debated this morning was whether or not the son of a naturalized British subject is himself a British subject. The judge announced he would take the matter under advisement.

WELCOME TORONTO OFFICERS BACK FROM CAPTIVITY IN GERMANY.
Close Friends and Brother Officers in the Famous Fighting Third Battalion—Capt. J. R. Slaughter, of Islington, and Len. Morrison of St. Julien in April, 1915, and were held prisoners for over two years. The picture shows Capt. Slaughter, Capt. Morrison, and happy relatives.

RUN PLANS BETRAYED.
By Courier Leased Wire.
Paris, July 26. —President Poincaré yesterday visited many of the recaptured villages in the battle zone including Longpoint also a batch of prisoners.

Many German prisoners declared that their plans have been betrayed otherwise, they assert, their defeat is inexplicable as everything had been so carefully planned for a German advance, which was to wedge itself between the French forces lying before Espir and those holding the eastern frontier, to enable the Germans to turn in whatever way they might decide to smash each force in turn.

GRAND DUKE KIDNAPPED.

REBELLION IN UKRAINE

Advices Say That Revolt on Formidable Scale Has Broken Out

By Courier Leased Wire.
Bulletin, London, July 26.—A peasant rebellion has broken out in the Ukraine on a formidable scale, according to information received to-day. Seventy thousand peasants, fairly efficient troops, with their officers and instructors are advancing against the Germans, detachments of whom have withdrawn the hostile advance, retreating to Kiev. Peasants are well armed—RIFLES, PISTOLS, BOMBS, HARBIN, Manchuria, Monday, July 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Documents found on captured Magyar prisoners show that the German emperor has ordered the Austro-German war prisoners to consider the Siberian front as important as other fronts and that there they will serve the fatherland as Austro-Germans are doing elsewhere. Promises of suitable future reward are made.
Owing to pressure from enemy cavalry, General Semenov, the anti-Bolshevik leader, has fallen back on the left flank of the Manchuria station, which is within the Chinese frontier. The Bolshevik and German ex-prisoners display an intimate knowledge of the latest German methods of war.
It is believed here that an allied advisory commission should be sent to Siberia to advise with General Horvath and other leaders, who, it is said, would be willing to work with it. Most of the Russians in Siberia are most anxious to unite and cooperate vigorously with the Allies in a campaign against the Germans.

FRENCH MORE CAUTIOUS

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, July 26.—Comparing the work of the French and American troops in the battle now going on, the Reuter's correspondent at American headquarters, writes: "The French have had four years of hard study and the lesson most laid to heart is the value to France of live Frenchmen and dead Germans. When sacrifices are required, they are quickly ready to make them, but their pride is to kill and pay little for killing. They admire the reckless valor of the Americans, but their own methods are somewhat slower and more subtle. Each gets to its objective, but the French leave fewer men behind."

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand, the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes that he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EXCHANGED PRISONERS

St. Louis—Commencing with the first of the month, the steamfitters and their helpers have been getting more for their work. The steamfitter is being paid 87 1/2 cents per hour and the helper 50 cents.

Through peaceful negotiations, union carpenters and joiners in Champaign, Ill., secure an advance in wages dating from July 1st, of 7 1/2 cents an hour. Builders laborers a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour. Electricians have been on strike since May to enforce a minimum wage of $5 a day.

In England 2,000,000 women have replaced men in business. During the four years of the war the number of women in English government offices increased from 66,000 to 133,000; the number of women munition workers from 2,000 to 117,000; the number of women employed in banks from 9,500 to 46,000.

New York—The newest union to be formed is the Ladies' Neckwear Cutters, and it has applied for a charter from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Demands are about to be made for the following concessions: $40 a week; 44 hours work; double time for overtime; union employment agency.

Washington—President Wilson has received the following telegram signed by the president and secretary of the English General Federation of Trade Unions, England: "The General Federation of Trade Unions in conference at Leicester offers sincere appreciation to America's services to the cause of liberty in this world's crisis. Labor welcomes America's intervention and has implicit faith in her determination to see that democracy shall not suffer defeat."

The employers who put up such a bitter fight for months against the timber workers in the north-western states and British Columbia in an effort to defeat the enforcement of the eight-hour day and were finally forced to adopt it now agree that it was the best move they ever made. Under the shorter standard of hours the production of the individual workers has been far in excess of the output under a ten hour schedule.

Boston—John F. Stevens, president of the central labor union, has been appointed as one of the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway system at a salary of $6000 per year. It is the first time a governor has favored a labor man with a salaried position that paid over $2000.

The Montreal Trades and Labor council will enter an appeal against what it considers the betrayal of the interests of the citizens, and especially those of the working class, in the manifest unfairness of the administrative commissioners' decision to empower the street railway company to raise car fares and abolish the transfer system and workmen's tickets. It is pointed out that the increased fares are manifestly unjust as they will fall heaviest upon those who can least afford to pay them, viz., the workers, the increase being approximately 76 per cent to those who use the working men's tickets, and only 44 per cent to the casual traveler. The executive committee was instructed to get in touch with the council's legal advisers, and have the appeal put in without delay, and the council solidly favors the municipalization of the street railway when the present franchise expires in 1922.

Washington—The war board has set its face against the individual labor contract, and in a decision reached at hearings held in this city has affirmed the right to labor to collective bargaining.

Action came in the case of the General Electric Company's trouble at its Pittsfield, Mass., plant. It is the first decision of its kind by the board and establishes a precedent that will have been placed on the pay roll. The same system prevails in many of the large industrial plants of the country.

The case came to the board on appeal both against the contract system and on a question of wages. The chairman of the board had decided along with one at the Schenectady plant of the same company. At the latter plant the company has recognized a committee of the employees. The decision is regarded as one of the greatest victories for labor in a series of victories awarded it since the government began to mobilize industry to win the war.

UNITED STATES HARVESTERS

Will Come to Canada to Help With the Wheat Crop

Definite Arrangements Are Made in This Regard

United States Harvesters. Washington, July 26.—Under the direction of the United States Employment Service, America's great army of wheat harvesters is preparing to cross the border into western Canada. It is weather conditions probably favorable the vanguard will probably be engaged on Canadian farms in two or three weeks' time, the cutting now having progressed as far north as the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Thousands of men and boys, who have been instrumental in saving the banner wheat crop of the central West, are now preparing to carry through the same service for another year. Their employment in Canada is the result of an agreement between the two Governments.

W. W. Cory, Canadian Deputy Minister of the Interior, came to Washington early this week to make final arrangements with Director-General John B. Densmore of the United States Employment Service, about the transfer of the harvest army to the Canadian wheat fields.

Will Meet Shortage. The influx of trained American harvest hands, mobilized and recruited by the United States Employment Service, will meet, he expects, the severe shortage of native farm labor existing in the Dominion and duplicate for allied food consumption the remarkable harvest of the United States. Mr. Cory is now in Kansas City conferring with A. L. Barkman, who is in charge of the western harvest work of the Employment Service.

Besides helping the Dominion to save its wheat crops, the transfer of the harvest army to Canada will be of direct material benefit to this country, inasmuch as it will hold together a trained army of farm workers for work in the cornfields of the central American West this fall. The corn crop will be ready for husking by the latter part of October, at which time the Canadian wheat harvest will be completed. The work in Canadian wheatfields will complete the cycle, whereby the emergency farm army will work steadily for increased food production from June to December.

A Business Car

RECOGNIZED in its true light by the Government, the business world, and the individual buyer, the automobile has cast aside the title "Pleasure Car" and is now properly classified as a vehicle of real service—a present day necessity.

The owner not only lengthens his own business day, but he also lengthens his family's living days, thanks to the afternoons and Sundays spent in the Utility Car.

That which increases the busy man's accomplishments in the day, is no luxury.

That which widens your field of business endeavor is a necessity.

That which lengthens the life of every member of your family can well be afforded.

Owning that which saves health, time and money is true economy.

All these things are embodied in the possession of an automobile.

Don't wonder how your neighbor can "afford" a car, but use your sound judgment and ask yourself today "Can I afford to be without one?"

When you have purchased a car you have multiplied your efficiency. You have acquired a personal and business asset. Your selection should be a Ford.

All prices subject to war tax charges, except trucks and chassis.

Publicity or Bankruptcy?

Bradstreet's statement that 84 per cent. of all failures are among non-advertisers is significant.

Intelligent advertising has become absolutely essential to every modern industry.

But what shall the advertiser do in the face of war conditions, when he finds it difficult to get goods to fill his orders?

First of all, remember that the fundamental purpose of advertising is to fix indelibly the trade mark or the trade name in the public mind.

A let-up in that campaign must be fatal to any product.

The American Rolling Mill Company declares its purpose to continue its advertising, although for two and a half years it has been unable to supply the demand for its product.

"We are building," they say, "a permanent business edifice, and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars buying back the business and good will of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency."

Unless advertising is kept up without break the advertiser loses the results of all his previous effort.

Here is a warning to the advertiser who neglects the dull season in summer—

When advertisements are fewest is the very time when a message to the public may get the most attention, providing, of course, that the character of the advertising deserves it.

Many advertisers hold it to be good "psychology" to push the advertisement of a winter product in summer, and of a summer product in winter.
