"The Two Ideals."

(The editor of Punch, Sir Owen Newman, is known as a poet of excellent quality as the following will prove.)

Now with the full year Memory holds her trust,
Heavy with such a tale of bitter loss
As never Earth has suffered since the Christ
Rung for us on the Cross.

If God, O Kaiser, makes the victor plain,
Give you on some lone Caesary to see
The Mark of Saturn Who endured the pain
And those reproachful eyes.

How will you face beneath the crown of thorns
That figure stark against the smoking altar,
The arms outstretched, the sacred head forlorn,
And those reproachful eyes.

How dare you contrast the false crown with the true,
Or think what joys between the living and the dead
Or how you die that men might live—and you
Who liveth then may die?

I Am the Newspaper.

(Joseph Piss in Chicago Tribune.)

Born of the deep, daily need of the Nation—I am the Voice of Now—in carmine spirit of the Times—Monarch of things that are—my "cold type" burns with the fire—blood of human action. I am fed by arteries of wire that gridle the earth. I drink from the cup of every living joy and sorrow. I sleep not—rest not. I know not night nor day, nor season. I know no death, yet I am born again with every morn—with every noon—with every twilight. I leap into fresh being with every new world's event. Those who created me cease to be—the brain and heart's blood that nourish me go the way of human dissolution. Yet I live on—and on. I am majestic in my strength—Sublime in my power—Terrible in my Potentialities—yet as democratic as the ragged boy who sells me for a penny. I am the consort of Kings—the partner of capital—the brother of the toiler. The inspiration of the hopeless—the right arm of the needy—the champion of the oppressed—the conscience of the criminal. I am the epitome of the world's Comedy and Tragedy. My responsibility is Infinite. I speak, and the world stops to listen. I say the word, and battle flames the horizon. I counsel peace and the war lords obey. I am more powerful than any group. I am the fanatic force of Public Opinion. Right or wrong I direct the march of the world's living. I am the Backbone of Commerce. The Trial Balzer of Prosperity. I am the teacher of Patriotism. I am the hands of the Clock of Civilization. I am the Newspaper.

Canada and the Mar.

Boston Transcript:—The position of Canada is not different from that of New England in the Civil War. It pays its heavy tribute of blood and sorrow. The noblest and most hopeful youth of the country has been drawn upon. The stories with which we are familiar in the literature of our Civil War—the search for the wounded boy in the hospitals; the long suspense ending in heartbreak; the sacrifice of several sons in the same family; the mainstay and brilliant hope of the future gone—the day, and the completeness of the day. But in a material sense the Dominion will be stimulated by the war. As New England entered the Civil War provincially, it came out of it national. Its cities grew, and, in spite of the passing blow to the cotton mills, its manufacturers developed. Canada has lent valuable support to the Empire, so that its name is blessed in England as it has never been before; and at the same time it has learned its own strength. It will come out of the war much greater than it went in.

Wolffville Druggist Pleases Customers.

A. V. KEND reports customers greatly pleased with the QUICK action of simple backbones bair, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika. This simple remedy drains the old font matter from the bowels so THOROUGH that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE of constipation, sour or gassy stomach. It is so powerful that it is used successfully in appendicitis. Adler-ika never grips and the INSTANT action is surprising.

The Porridge Habit.

Now that foodstuffs are so dear, Beans, meat, or rather, those that have neglected it, are coming back to porridge. Porridge is a food that contains in itself all the constituents necessary to maintain life. It is also a food of which you never tire. You will tire of ham and eggs, fish, cheese or any other food if taken daily, but you can take porridge for 365 days in the year, and go on doing it indefinitely. It is true that there are some misguided individuals who do without porridge on Sunday morning and take what we call in Scotland "a long lie and a tea breakfast" that is, a fast without porridge. This is foolish as one loses 54 chances of taking porridge but there is a slight compensation: you come back to your porridge on Monday with greatest zest than ever. To be successful the porridge habit must be begun early.

The System of Credit.

(From the Busy Man)

One of the greatest problems, perhaps, with which the retail merchant has to contend is the system of giving credit to the consumer. This problem looms especially large here in the Maritime Provinces, where many industries and mercantile houses are absolutely crippled by this most iniquitous practice. In every community there is a percentage of the people who can be rated as "no good." Debtors contracted by them which they cannot pay, and never intend to pay. This means an increased burden on the "good" customer who, by reason of the additional price asked by the merchant, must pay for the delinquent buyer.

Very few firms are able to operate without the assistance of the banks. This is largely due to the excessive amount of book debts which they carry from year to year. With the financial institutions tightening the strings of their money bags the merchant finds it increasingly difficult to realize upon his book debts. Moreover, he pays out a large sum of money annually in interest and discount, which is a direct drain upon the vitality of the business. Every retailer and wholesaler realizes that it he had the money which is tied up in slow or had debts he could branch out into new lines, give his customers a far better service, and, more than that, he could sell his wares at a greatly reduced price, because he would have the wherewithal to purchase cheaper.

And from this standpoint of the consumer the present system is wrong. There is apparently no limit to purchasing power if the buyer has the "never" to ask for the credit. Merchants are too prone to "take a chance" with the consumer, and hence the consumer soon finds himself in all sorts of difficulties. By the continued use of the credit system a man is apt, and in many, many cases, actually does, live far beyond his income. He sends to the store and buys "on tick" what he requires. He is charged the top-notch price for the article, and keeps no record of his purchases. He does not realize that by paying the price he is actually paying the merchant to keep on carrying his goods. He is limited in the selection of his goods. He feels that he must accept the articles offered because there is a large debt balance on the books against him.

But what is the solution? Now it is possible to work on practically a cash basis. The Maritime Provinces are away behind the "times in this respect. In many places Merchants' Associations have been formed for the protection of their joint interests, but the aims of the associations have been frustrated because the members failed to hold together, and set upon a concerted policy. They fear sales will decrease. It is possible sales would decrease for a time, because if every man were compelled to pay cash for his purchases he would not buy so heavily. But the merchant would not suffer because what he would lack in sales he would make up by minimized loss. The merchant would be able to give the buyer a better deal and incidentally make his own business more pleasant and profitable.

The cash system has been tried in many places and has been found to be successful where the merchants held together. What is needed is the determination to wind up accounts and place business on a sound footing. The adoption of such methods would revolutionize things in these provinces; it would give our mercantile and industrial institutions a greater impetus to extend business and would prevent many people from being burdened with the incubus of debt which hangs like a millstone about their necks. The adoption of the cash system or its equivalent would place the business interests of Maritime Canada in a position to take advantage of the great industrial awakening which is sure to follow upon the conclusion of peace.

For half an hour they lingered over their good-bye, but at last Robert rose to go, for he meant it this time.
"So soon, Bobbie, dear?" sighed Mollie. "Couldn't you stay just a little longer?"
"I must go, darling, though I would give ten years of my life to stay another hour with you."
"But—why, dear?" she begged, "why have you to go so early to-night?"
"Because, dearest," he murmured sadly but resolutely, "it is our union meeting to-night, and if I don't go now I shall be fined ten cents."

Superlative Quality plus the money-back guarantee

WHEN KING COLE TEA first issued its protective guarantee to the purchaser, three years ago, offering to refund the whole of the purchase money for any package of KING COLE TEA returned, there was a very good reason for this radical departure from usual sales methods. We greatly desired a very general trial of KING COLE TEA. Our faith in its quality was unbounded, for we knew the constant care given to its preparation, but we realized the possible doubt the public might have of a TEA then comparatively new, and so we decided to assume the risk of every trial, and pay back the full purchase price of every package of KING COLE TEA that failed to please. No stronger surety of our good faith could be offered, and we felt confident because of the quality of KING COLE TEA that practically every trial would bring us a permanent customer.

Things have turned out just as we expected. Not one package has been returned. We have never had a request for "Money Back"—we have never heard of a complaint of "King Cole" quality, while "King Cole" sales have been growing steadily larger year by year.

Only exceptional quality could have made such a record, and to-day with more confidence than ever, we invite you to give this tea a test.

The "Money Back" offer is still open; every package is sold on that understanding. What better assurance of Tea value could you have, and what better encouragement to buy your first package of KING COLE TEA?

Booker T. Washington.
BORN IN SLAVERY—ROSE TO BE MOST INFLUENTIAL LEADER OF HIS RACE.

Booker T. Washington, who died the other day, was a negro born in slavery shortly before the Civil War. By native ability he had risen to be the most influential leader of his race in the United States. He seems wise, not to have resolved that, for the present at least, the negroes ought not to strive for social and political equality, but to seek industrial efficiency, by which their condition of life and morals would be raised. He was aided by powerful men of the white race, who were fearful of the consequences to the State of a lower race growing fast in numbers and remaining uncivilized. He acquired unusual ability of public speaking, and it is probable that his simple and persuasive oratory was influential, not only to moderate race conflict, but to persuade the whites, as they now seem to be persuaded, that it is better with the negro to use moral and industrial education than brutal repression. The Tuskegee Institute, which he built up, has become the model of many others in the south.

It is not likely, however, that industrial efficiency will solve the negro problem. If it succeeds and the negro acquires property and comfort, he will seek a higher education. This it may not be possible to persuade him to renounce political and perhaps social equality. He cannot be always kept out of the polling booth.—Toronto Weekly Sun.

A Weak Chested Boy.
"My boy, Frank, seemed weak-chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Kings, Man. "The many medicines used did not seem to benefit him, until we tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Licorice and Turpentine and found it to exactly what was wanted to cure him. No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis."

Two peevish old dames were sent over to inspect a Red Cross hospital in France. They came back and reported that a black cat was kept as a pet in the institution. The head of the hospital was written to about it, and replied:

"The black cat is the Tommie mascot, and they are fond of her—a lot fonder than they were of the two old cats you sent out here to inspect us."—Tit-Bits.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., DEC. 10, 1915.

Editorial Brevities

Advertisers are requested to have their copy in early during the Christmas rush. We cannot undertake to make changes after noon on Wednesday.

A fragrant and fall blown rose picked in the open air at this season of the year was the real novelty which was sent to the editor on Saturday last by Mr. James Lake, of Lower Wolfville. It was picked in the garden of Mr. Troyte-Bullock on Dec. 3rd and had all the charms of a rose grown in June or July.

It is announced from Ottawa that 16,000,000 bushels of wheat stored in Canadian elevators, has been purchased by the Canadian Government for the Imperial Government. The action was taken to prevent inflation of prices. The price to be paid the owners of the grain will be from 93 1/4 cents to $1.04 1/4 a bushel, according to grade.

The Annual Convention of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association will be held at Wolfville, Jan. 13th to 30th, 1916. This is the big event of the year for Valley fruit growers and Wolfville has many advantages for such a meeting. One session will be devoted to a debate on the question of the mixed farming versus exclusive fruit-growing for the Annapolis valley.

The annual dinner of the Kings County Agricultural Society is to be held in Monday evening next at Evangeline Hall, Lower Horton. This year the Woman's Institute joins in the dinner which assures an unusual success of this always pleasant function. The speakers will be Miss Fraser, Prof. J. M. Trueman, B. S. A., who will speak on the subject, "Fertile Soil and Prosperous People," and Prof. W. S. Blair, B. S. A., of the Experimental Fruit Station.

The Lime Stone Question.

The use of lime as a fertilizer has, during the past two years, attracted the attention of almost every farmer in the Maritime Provinces—not burnt lime, but ground lime rock. Correspondence in regard to the subject has appeared in the press. Scores of letters have been received at the College, and at least three plants have been established for the grinding of lime stone in the Maritime Provinces, and more people are contemplating going into the business.

At the college at Truro ground lime stone was applied a year ago last spring to alternate strips on a field of clover. The experiment was repeated this year. In 1914 little, if any, result was observable in the oats, but in 1915 the clover on the lime treated land was nearly double that on the untreated land. This year the oats on the lime stone treated land were some what better than on the untreated land, due possibly to the fact that the lime stone used was somewhat finer ground.

Now there are matters of fundamental importance. If lime stone will accomplish nothing else than cause a big increase in the clover fields of the country, it will pay to apply thousands of tons of it to the farms of the Maritime Provinces, for everyone knows that clover is a great soil enricher and that once a farmer has established the clover crop on his farm, he has, to a large extent, solved the question of soil fertility. More clover and yet more clover has changed many a run out farm into productiveness, and has laid the foundation for the successful growing of all kinds of crops, and for the feeding of live stock.

Now, lime stone is abundant in all the Eastern countries of Nova Scotia and transportation facilities should make it accessible to the Western country farmer. The question, therefore arises: "Can I afford to do without lime? What can I afford to pay for it? Should the farmers in my section of the country co-operate to buy a portable lime stone grinding machine? How much lime stone shall I apply per acre? And so on, and so many other questions in regard to the use of lime stone will be discussed at the short course at the College of Agriculture, Truro, to be held Jan. 4 to 14, next.

Mind that many a person has a mistaken notion in regard to the use and value of lime stone. It is not a fertilizer. It is a soil amendment that corrects soil acidity and improves the physical texture of the soil and so makes it possible for manure and fertilizer and cultivation to do better work. Be sure you understand this question fully before you make up your mind definitely as to what you will do. Nowhere will you have a better chance to study the question than at the short course at the College of Agriculture, Truro. Write for fully particulars to Mr. Cunningham, Principal, Truro.

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body. In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, when the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, dizziness, dreamlike sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.
To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take. Its rich nourishment gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerves which the whole system depends on for its subsisting force. Free from harmful drugs.

SERGEANT ERNEST BARRS, OF THE PRINCESS PATS., WRITES INTERESTING LETTERS TO HIS PARENTS HERE.

Rest Billets, Oct. 17, '15.
DEAR FATHER AND MOTHER:—I haven't much time to write but just a few lines to let you know that I am safe and feeling fine, although pretty dirty, as I haven't washed or shaved yet; and a trifle weary from our march of 17 kilometers last night. However, we are out of the trenches for a week or two I hope and all are feeling glad of the rest.
We are billeted in an old barn and I can tell you I had a fine sleep on the straw last night. I feel rather good this morning for I have just been up talking to Capt. MacDonald and Molson. They joined us last night. We have been feeling like orphans lately without one of our officers for none of them came across with us you know, and we have felt somewhat like a bunch of orphans. But now they are with us, also Lieut. McKenzie and Currie and I feel almost as if the whole family were here together again.

And now for news, I have met Willie Halstead (an English cousin, Lieut. in the Veterinary Corps). He is with the 3th Division, as you know, and I heard they were somewhere near us, so I borrowed a wheel and rode 25 miles over to his headquarters and found him and we had a fine visit together. He is a splendid chap and I like him very much. He was tickled to death to see me and I am hoping to go over and see him again soon. He has been through everything since the very first and has had some wonderful experiences. Cousin Beale sent me a fine box the other day. It arrived when I was in the trenches and I tell you we lived high for a couple of days. We came out of the trenches night before last and I certainly appreciated the change. It is fine to be able to take off your boots and putties after having them on for five days. Also to have a good wash and shave after the same length of time. Another piece of news. One of the boys just came back from the Con. Hospital and he said Capt. Chute wanted to be remembered to me. It's Arthur Chute and he is Capt. Paymaster there. I must close now as they are waiting to collect the mail.

ERNST.
Billets—Oct. 21st.
Just a few lines as I have only a few moments to write. We have been standing to all night, ready to move at a moment's notice and are going somewhere to-day in a hurry. It is getting very cold here now. However, I am feeling fine although rather sore that our rest has ended so prematurely. However, it's the lot of a soldier, I suppose. Capt. Stan-ley Jones stopped me the other day and wanted me to give you his best wishes. He is a splendid fellow and a third person is unlikely to convey the message unless the discharges from throat or nostrils of a patient are carried on the clothing or exposed parts of the body.

The disease is especially fatal to young children. More than 60 per cent. of the deaths of this disease in Nova Scotia occur in children under one year of age, and more than 80 per cent. in children under two years of age. Only five per cent. of the deaths are in those more than five years of age. It is, therefore, especially important to protect young children against the infection.
Second attacks are much more frequent than is commonly supposed. The immunity conferred by an attack commonly lasts for only a few years.
The control of the disease is rendered difficult because it so frequently escapes recognition until the "whoop" develops, by which time it is usually less infectious than earlier in its course. Unfortunately, too, many cases never come under a physician's observation. This is doubly regrettable, because a physician would not only take measures to prevent its spread, but might also be able to ward off the complicating conditions which are responsible for a large proportion of the fatalities attributable to this disease.
Patients who are suffering from the disease should be strictly isolated until at least a week has passed after the development of the "whoop." They may then be allowed to go out of doors, but not to mingle with other children or to use books and toys belonging to others. They should be excluded from school until the "whoop" has quite ceased to recur. Other children of the family, unless they are brought into intimate contact with the sufferer, are unlikely to transmit the infection and need not be excluded from school.
The attention of parents and others is called to the fact that the Public Health Act requires that "when any household knows that any person in his family or household has any infectious or contagious disease, he shall, within twenty-four hours, give notice thereof to the local board of health for his district and to the Medical Health Officer." Neglect to comply with this requirement renders one liable to a penalty of twenty dollars.

Patriotism.
TO THE EDITOR OF THE ACADIAN:
DEAR SIR:—In view of the present serious claims of the war service on our young men, I would like to quote a few sentences from a letter written by a lady living in Toronto who once was a resident here, known and esteemed by many in the town.

She says, "A request has come from England for University men to go to England to be trained as officers for the front. One of her sons has made application and has been recommended by the captain with whom he drills in the Officers' Training Corps. He hopes he will be accepted, and so do we.
I have been expecting for some time that he would offer himself in some way. I should be ashamed if he did not want to. I don't understand any able-bodied young man holding himself back when service is so much needed. It certainly is a time for sacrifice.
This lady's oldest son is also training for service and will go over seas as soon as the call comes.
The patriotism and self-sacrifice revealed in these words might well be emulated by others, and inspire them to a like surrender for King and Country.—M. B. F.

Whooping Cough.

(ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH, NOVA SCOTIA.)

Whooping Cough is one of the most prevalent of the infectious diseases in Nova Scotia, and during the period for which we have statistics has been accountable for half as many deaths as diphtheria, and for fifty per cent. more deaths than were caused by scarlet fever.

While the disease is not greatly influenced by seasonal changes, in our province, the winter and spring months are those in which the largest number or deaths attributable to whooping cough are reported.
A very small germ is the cause of this disease. Usually a week or more elapses after exposure to infection before the first symptom is noticed. This symptom is cough, which at first is not characteristic, and which may not become spasmodic for ten days or more. The "whoop" may be still later in developing, but the disease should be suspected whenever a cough which cannot be otherwise explained develops in a susceptible person during a time that whooping cough is prevalent in a community.

It is most important that a patient suffering from this disease be isolated promptly, as whooping cough is most infectious during the earlier part of its course. After the paroxysmal (whooping) stage has lasted for a few days, the period of greatest infectivity has passed.

The infection is spread chiefly in the minute particles of mucus which are sprayed out during attacks of coughing or sneezing. A piece of gauze or old linen should, therefore, be held over the mouth and nose of the patient during the act of sneezing or coughing, and should be immediately destroyed by burning. One is most likely to catch the disease, as it is usually conveyed, from a person who is coughing or sneezing. A third person is unlikely to convey the disease unless the discharges from throat or nostrils of a patient are carried on the clothing or exposed parts of the body.

The disease is especially fatal to young children. More than 60 per cent. of the deaths of this disease in Nova Scotia occur in children under one year of age, and more than 80 per cent. in children under two years of age. Only five per cent. of the deaths are in those more than five years of age. It is, therefore, especially important to protect young children against the infection.
Second attacks are much more frequent than is commonly supposed. The immunity conferred by an attack commonly lasts for only a few years.
The control of the disease is rendered difficult because it so frequently escapes recognition until the "whoop" develops, by which time it is usually less infectious than earlier in its course. Unfortunately, too, many cases never come under a physician's observation. This is doubly regrettable, because a physician would not only take measures to prevent its spread, but might also be able to ward off the complicating conditions which are responsible for a large proportion of the fatalities attributable to this disease.

Patients who are suffering from the disease should be strictly isolated until at least a week has passed after the development of the "whoop." They may then be allowed to go out of doors, but not to mingle with other children or to use books and toys belonging to others. They should be excluded from school until the "whoop" has quite ceased to recur. Other children of the family, unless they are brought into intimate contact with the sufferer, are unlikely to transmit the infection and need not be excluded from school.
The attention of parents and others is called to the fact that the Public Health Act requires that "when any household knows that any person in his family or household has any infectious or contagious disease, he shall, within twenty-four hours, give notice thereof to the local board of health for his district and to the Medical Health Officer." Neglect to comply with this requirement renders one liable to a penalty of twenty dollars.

Review and Outlook.

NOV. 24TH, 1915.—PEACE, "WALL ST" JOURNAL.

A prominent and somewhat over-advertised manufacturer of automobile-tyres is quoted as saying that he is willing to spend his entire fortune to accomplish peace. It is a perfectly safe offer, because there is really nothing he can do about it if his fortune were ten times as large as it is.
Great Britain and her allies are willing to do more. In order to accomplish peace they are spending, not millions, but billions. They are offering up human life with the entire approval of the soldier who makes the personal sacrifice. They are doing that also by the million, and the Detroit car manufacturer, however rich he may be, has not enough money to buy one of these lives.

It may be plain to any reasonable person that the conception of peace held by the Allies is the true one. They will achieve it when they have made conditions such that there shall be no more war. A mere truce giving Germany a chance to build up again his war machine and devise some expedient for evading the overwhelming preponderance of the British navy, which alone has brought German world ambition to naught, would not be peace at all, but a premium upon future murder.

It is not here suggested that the weak the most indefatigable. For financial reasons alone there is good ground for supposing that it is near, if not close. But a peace on the lines suggested by our maudlin and belted peace advocates here is unthinkable. Germany is beaten now. She was beaten when the first rush on Paris failed. She can only make the beating more expensive to her adversaries, and this is what she is doing until she has learned once and for all that she is beaten and, in the spiritual and eternal fact, beaten for all time.

New Adventures of J. Rufus Wallingford.

THE FIRST OF THE ADVENTURES OF WALLINGFORD, 'THE BUNGALOW TANGLE,' PROJECTS SOMETHING NEW IN THE WAY OF COMEDY.

George Randolph Chester's series of stories, known by the above title are being pictured for the Pathe Exchange, Inc. in a highly comic and interesting manner. The Whittors, directors of the 'Elsie' serial, are largely responsible for the creditable style in which the series is being presented in pictures (judging from the first episode) although some of the honors must go to the cast which is composed of Burr Melrose in the role of J. Rufus Wallingford, Max Fignam as 'Blackie Daw,' Lolita Robertson as Violet Warden upon the swindling of whose father rests the plot of the play, Eddie O'Connor as 'Onion' Jones, and Harry Mainhall as Benny Falls.

The opening of the two-act episodes of 'The Bungalow Tangle' takes place in a drawing room on the railroad when Violet and Fannie Warden, daughters of a man ruined by a swindling gang known as the Falls clique, meet J. Rufus Wallingford and 'Blackie Daw,' confidence men, who are invited to do their utmost to recover the lost Ward fortune, which is done with all the gusto of the two leading men.

The comedy is, of course, all action; and in spite of the fact that a farcical element is introduced, there is a pleasing absence of slapstick play. Each of the series has a story of its own, at the end of which another name is crossed off the list of prospective victims.

TOWN CLERK.

Personal Mention.

(Contributions to this department will be gladly received.)

Miss Gladys Starr has gone to Kentville to reside for the winter.

Master Jack J. Ellis is able to be out again after being ill for some time with blood poisoning.

Mrs. Ralph Lamont and daughter, Olivia, of Kentville, were over-Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patriguin.

Lieutenant Corbett, of the 73rd Highlanders, Montreal, spent Sunday in town, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reid.

Mr. Clifford Rockwell, of Hantsport, and Miss May Schofield, of Black River, have been visiting their aunt Mrs. John Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrol C. McKee and their little son, left for Michigan last Friday, being called by the sudden death of Mr. McKee's mother.

After eight years of service as field secretary for the Nova Scotia Sunday-school Association, Rev. J. W. Brown is giving up the position, to take effect about the first of next February. No successor has yet been appointed.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Starr and daughter, Miss Gladys Starr, will learn with regret that they have closed their house and are leaving town. Mr. Starr goes to live with his son, Mr. Arthur Starr, of Starr's Point, and Miss Starr will spend the winter in Kentville, with her aunt, Mrs. Charles Smith.

J. F. Herbin's lines of ivory, ebony, china, brass and cut glass and silverware are larger than ever for the season.

Playets Presented by School of Expression.

The pupils under the instruction of Miss Gaines and her assistant Miss Cambin, of the School of Expression of Acadia Seminary, delighted an appreciative audience in College Hall on Tuesday evening. The first sketch, 'Six Cups of Chocolate,' was amusing. The next, 'A Study in Black and White,' with Misses Kitchen and Gibbons as interpreters, was received enthusiastically, and both young ladies deserved the applause generously rendered them. The third, 'Shocking Shopping Sems,' participated in by a number of the young ladies of the Seminary, and the fourth, 'The Rainbow Kimono,' completed the program. Miss Kitchen, as Rose Jackson, is to be congratulated on her impersonation of a colored part. The stage scenery added materially to the attractiveness of the program. We trust Miss Gaines will shortly favor us with another evening's entertainment.

Death of J. M. Shaw.

Probably the death of scarcely any other citizen would have caused such a blank in the community as the passing away of our popular townsman, Mr. J. M. Shaw, which took place at an early hour last Monday morning. Mr. Shaw had been in his customary health, apparently, on Sunday and attended church. In the afternoon he was taken ill and a doctor was summoned. He was soon feeling comfortable, but in the night the doctor was again called, and in the early morning the end came suddenly. Mr. Shaw had resided in Wolfville for many years and had numerous friends all over the county. He was 64 years of age. His genial presence will be long missed. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon and was very largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Miller assisted by Rev. Mr. Harkness. The deceased was an active member of the I.O.O.F. and the local lodge took charge of the service at the grave. Rev. Mr. England acting as chaplain. The bereaved widow and family have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends.

HE STRUCK IT RIGHT AT LAST

After Suffering Almost Two Years, "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief.

MR. WHITMAN
323 St. Vallee St., Montreal.
"In 1912, I was taken suddenly ill with Acute Stomach Trouble and dropped in the street. I was treated by several physicians for nearly two years. I was in constant misery from my stomach and my weight dropped down from 225 pounds to 150 pounds. Several of my friends advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives' and I did so. That was eight months ago. I began to improve almost with the first dose. No other medicine I ever used acted so pleasantly and quickly as 'Fruit-a-tives', and by using it I recovered from the distressing Stomach Trouble, and all pain and Constipation and misery were cured. I completely recovered by the use of 'Fruit-a-tives' and now I weigh 208 pounds. I cannot praise 'Fruit-a-tives' enough."

Backbone and Wishbone.

Don't you ever wear your wishbone, Where your backbone ought to be, Is a uxorious kind of wisdom, And applies to you and me, For the fellow who is wishing For the things to come his way, Is the one who puts off doing To-day's work another day. This life is but a mirror; laugh, And smiles come back to greet us, Scowl at fate, and, just as surely, Scowling features ever meet us. If it hurts, just grit and bear it, What's the use to cry and curse, Make the best of circumstances, Take what comes, it might be worse. If you don't get what you're wanting, Want the things that you can get, You can't tell in the beginning Just how high your mark to set. If you job don't suit your notion, And you think the other would, Just remember that the other fellow Would swap back, maybe, if he could. This old world is full of people, And a year is made of days, Takes a lot of folks to fill up All the time in many ways. But if you just keep on doing All you can, your very best, Some day opportunity'll open And you'll find you lead the rest. Life don't look alike to people Looking at it different ways, Better strike an average, somehow, On the rain and sunny days. Wisher won't get there like hunter; Grit and push will win out you'll see, Don't you ever wear your wishbone Where your backbone ought to be. A Sunday-school teacher asked a little fellow how many commandments there were. To her surprise the lad answered, glibly enough, 'Ten, madam.' 'And now, Sammy,' asked the teacher, 'what would be the result if you should break one of them?' 'Then there'd be nine, triumphantly answered the youngster.

Generous Donations to Send Nurses to France.

The public have responded generously to the call for money to send trained nurses to France in response to an appeal from England for this purpose. The fact was apparent last evening, when, at a meeting of the Canadian National Association of Trained Nurses, it was announced that $5,500 of the $10,000 required had been donated. The fund opened only six days ago. Instead of sending ten nurses, as originally planned, twenty nurses will be sent, and an effort will be made to get the remaining $4,500 from amongst friends of the nurses. Already about sixteen nurses have been chosen from the many who applied, who were keen to give their services when the only remuneration will be about four dollars a week. The remaining nurses will be appointed almost immediately. Very strict rules are exercised as to qualifications. Minard's Linctament Cures Diphtheria.

MRS. SLACK'S LETTER

To Mothers of Delicate Children
Palmyra, Pa.—"My little girl had a chronic cough and was so thin you could count her ribs and she had no appetite. Nothing we gave her seemed to help her, until one day Mrs. Neilbert asked me to try Vinol, and now she is hungry all the time, her cough is gone, she is stouter and has a more healthy color. I wish every mother who has a delicate child would try Vinol."
We guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, to make delicate children healthy and strong.

Dunlop "Famous Pictures."
The Dunlop "Famous Pictures" Contest is over and Saskatchewan has swept the boards capturing 61st, second and fourth places.
The first five winners were as follows:
1st. Mary Hunt, Abernethy, Sask., $25.00.
2nd. E. Edmondson, Lanigan, Sask., $15.00.
3rd. S. Rivers, Goderich, Ont., $5.00.
4th. N. Crowe, Archedas, Sask., $3.00.
5th. H. E. Brandon, Midland, Ont., $2.00.

As this contest was confined to children under fifteen years of age, this is especially a splendid tribute to the youngsters of the Province of Saskatchewan.
Some very apt remarks were made in various contributions and in others the reasoning takes on a humorous flavor. For instance, the winner of the first prize—Mary Hunt—in her story No. 1 said that "the 'strange' tracks look so much like geese in flight." This comparison has just been used in one folder, but said folder was sent to every automobile owner last year. No words appeared in connection with the comparison; it was purely pictorial. So that "the discovery" speaks well for the observing qualities of the youngster in question. The same little girl from Abernethy in story No. 5 made use of this phrase: "Like Canada's brave soldiers you are 'British to the core.'" In tire-making "core" is a technical term.

Another one of the contestants in writing story No. 2 declared: "And very often when the empire holds 'safe,' they are not as safe as the little girl is in front of this car."
A youngster on writing on picture No. 4—the tire and tra'n standing together with the lake in the background—concludes: "The tire has come through the water and up the slippery bank." In story No. 5 this same prize winner reaches the verdict, "It only takes two hands to make the tire." Here, of course, we get a sort of "Canada" hat substituted for the world's hat been considered O. K. The same boy in writing a story about the two hands unburdened himself of this thought: "For twenty-seven years he has acted as guarantee and never yet had to give himself up, even though the output of the factory is growing larger and larger year by year; thus Handy Andy is the best man of the factories." Of course, Handy Andy is just a figurative character worked out from the two hands trade mark.

Another Saskatchewan idea relative to story No. 4 was, 'People with your tires on their auto arrive just as soon as the train does.'
Still another winner wrote that, "As I travelled across the continent I inspected the Dunlop factories at the many cities and towns." As Dunlop factories and Head Office are located in Toronto only—branches being in all the leading cities—the above statement was only fanciful. In story No. 6 a Western Ontario boy says: "The leadership of the tires is also shown by the tread of the tire which is seen around the world, everywhere you go." "Canada" hat" been substituted for the world's hat been considered O. K. The same boy in writing a story about the two hands unburdened himself of this thought: "For twenty-seven years he has acted as guarantee and never yet had to give himself up, even though the output of the factory is growing larger and larger year by year; thus Handy Andy is the best man of the factories." Of course, Handy Andy is just a figurative character worked out from the two hands trade mark.

A Postmaster's Trial.

A freckle-faced girl stopped at the post office and yelled out—
'Anything for the Murphys?'
'No, there is not.'
'Anything for Ann Murphy?'
'No.'
'Anything for Tom Murphy?'
'No, not a bit.'
'Anything for Terry Murphy?'
'No, nor for Pat Murphy, nor Dennis Murphy, nor Paul Murphy, nor Peter Murphy, nor for any Murphy, dead, living, unborn, native or foreign, civilized or uncivilized, savage or barbarous, male or female, naturalized or otherwise, soldier or citizen. No there is positively nothing for any of the Murphys, either individually, jointly, severally, now and for ever, one and inseparable.'
The girl looked at the postmaster in astonishment. 'Please,' she said, 'will you see it there is anything for Bridget Murphy.'
'Maggie manages to spend every week in the country.'
'How does she do it?'
'Every Saturday she hires out to do cooking in some suburban family.'

ANOTHER WOMAN TELLS

How Vinol Made Her Strong
Beafield, Ohio—"I wish all nervous, weak, run-down women could have Vinol. I was so run-down, weak and nervous I could not sleep. Everything I ate hurt me, and the medicine I had taken did me no good. I decided to try Vinol, and before long I could not only sleep, I wanted and could sleep all night. Now I am well and strong, and in better health than I have been for years."

Bubble Pipes That All Enjoy

A small wooden rack, or one of celluloid, such as are sold for holding tooth brushes, a few clay pipes and four yards of bright red baby ribbon, serve to fix up a gay little gift holding promise of fun for the young people. And bubble blowing is not beneath the dignity of their elders; everyone indulges in this pastime.

Two other pipes may be suspended from the rack by shorter lengths of ribbon and the man who prefers to blow smoke to bubbles will like a rack which holds a fresh pipe or one he may offer his friend.

Austria the Docile.

The self-deceptions of the first months of the war have now passed. Nobody among our enemies now believes that Saxony and Bavaria are only waiting for an opportunity to rise against Prussia, and to let themselves be 'emancipated' by the Entente Powers; or that our Slavs are thirsting for the 'unavoidable' collapse of the Dual Monarchy. Nor does anyone indulge now in the illusion that Hungary can be induced to break away. But still flourishing is the inexpressible foolish notion that Austria-Hungary can be induced to rebel against Germany, and that mistrust toward the Dual Monarchy can be sown in the German Empire. Germany, it is said, is pushing us everywhere to the background; the Austro-Hungarian army is alleged to be full of resentment because it is now being treated by the Germans as auxiliary troops, and our people are said to be angry with Germany because Germany has drawn us into this endless war. When do these men, supposed to be so clever, hope to deceive and to mislead by writing of this sort?—Victims' Preamble.

Read it in the Faces of the People You Meet

The Irritability, the Worry, the Gloom, the Despair of Nerve and Brain Troubles. The Blood is Watery, the Nerves Are Starved.

This is the age of nervous troubles, of brain fog, of heart failure, of paralysis and bodily weakness. You can read it in the faces of the people you meet.

The business man, the factory hand, the professional man, the woman in the home, all find their nervous systems giving way before the terrible strain of modern life and keen competition. Nervous force is consumed at a terrible rate, and the blood which must make good this loss becomes thin and watery, lacking in quality as well as quantity.

The whole secret of preserving health and curing disease in all such cases is to supply an abundance of rich, red blood. Stimulants may drive the heart at a more rapid pace for a time, but the breakdown will come with greater force.

The blood demands nourishment, the nerves cry for sustenance. They call for just such help as is supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative.

In many, many thousands of cases of this kind Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven exactly what was needed. In using it you are not experimenting, but are supplying to the system the very ingredients from which Nature reconstructs the wasted nervous system. For this reason its cures are both thorough and lasting.

Philips Brooks told the story of some savages to whom was given a snail diet. Being desirous of honoring it, they hosed it and built a roof over it. Alas, 'poor beast!' And yet the Word of God occupies a similar place when the Bible is laid away in the 'best room' upon the centre table. 'Alas, poor Christians!'
