CHAPTER VII.

"Rather?" I responded, sympathizingly. "But then it depends a good deal upon what sort of article we get hold of. She needn't be an absolute frump."

"No; but she is sure to be—I'm certain of it!" said Natalie, getting up and dropping down disconsolately upon the window-seat again. "You grumble at Mr. Poinsett, and say what a life he leads you; but that's nothing to a governess."

"At any rate, she won't have a perpetual influenza and sore throat, I should hope," I said; for the unpleasant malady which had attacked the Reverend Titus on the day when I had first heard the name of Natalie Orme was still in full vigor, and seemed likely to remain so.

"I believe they're all frumps," grumbled Nat, posing herself upon the edge of the window-seat, with her hands clasped behind her back. "Why Alice Deeping told me—'Come in!'"

She broke off on hearing a tap at the door. It was opened, and Virtue Dent's pale face and white mob-cap presented themselves.

"What is it, Virtue?" I asked.

"I beg your pardon, sir. I thought madame was here."

"She went out five minutes ago," said Natalie, springing off her perch and moving to the door. "Come out, and let us have a walk, Ned. It is too fine to stay indoors."

"What—like that?" I asked, following her into the hall.

"Like what?"

"With that thin dress. A fine cold you'll catch!"

"Oh, yes! I must have a shawl. Where is Valla?"

Valla was not to be seen. Virtue Dent stepped forward with alacrity.

"I'll run for your shawl, Miss Natalie, if you will wait a moment."

"Oh, thanks! You will find plenty up in my room. Ask Valla to give you one," said Nat.

Virtue ran across the hall and upstairs. In a minute or two she was down again, a fluffy white shawl over her arm. After her stalked Valla. Her brown face wore its grimmest look as she stood with her bare braced arms crossed in her usual fashion. Madame had tried to induce her to wear the ordinary garb of feminine civilization, but without success. She had resisted even Nat's coaxing, and stalked about Chavasse in the same flaming robes which had taken my breath away on that day at the station.

Nat took the shawl from Virtue.

"Thanks, Virtue," she said, with her pretty smile. "You saved me a run."

"Will it do, Miss?" asked Virtue, with a glance at Valla.

"Oh, yes; but it is rather thick! I have plenty of thinner ones."

"I know, miss, but it was the only one I could see."

"You should have asked Valla to give you another," said Nat, wrapping the shawl round her shoulders.

"I did, miss—Virtue's greenish-gray eyes darted another look at the dark face—but she wouldn't give me any."

"Wouldn't?" The quick blood came into Nat's brown cheeks. "Why wouldn't you, Valla?" she asked, with some sharpness.

Valla looked up and shot an angry glance at Virtue; then she looked down at the floor and was silent.

"Why wouldn't you?" repeated Natalie, more sharply still.

"I am your maid, Miss Natalie. To bring your things to you is my work," said Valla slowly and distinctly.

Her English was very good—nearly perfect, in fact, with hardly any foreign accent. Her slow sibilant tones seemed to match her deliberate movements. Now they were soft and submissive as usual, a curious contrast to the look which Virtue had returned with interest.

"She said it was no business of mine," muttered Virtue.

Nat's golden-black eyes flashed again, and, with a haughty gesture, she said:

"It is your business if I sent you. Virtue. Please remember that Valla. If Virtue comes to you from me again, you will give her whatever I send her for."

Valla answered only by a bend of her turbaned head, then turned away toward the stairs.

Darting another glance at her—this time of triumph—Virtue Dent tossed her head and went toward the passage leading to the kitchen.

Nat put her hand on my arm, and we stepped out together.

"Nicely you've set these two by the ears, now!" I said.

Lowney's show you how Cocoa ought to taste

And here are some of the reasons:

The diagram at the right shows you how Lowney's Cocoa is produced.

It was easy enough to draw this diagram. But it took a great many years to perfect the process it shows.

Two things we can't show. These are the care and skill which guide every step. And they are the most important of all.

For instance, any one can select, roast or blend cocoa beans. But a little lack of skill in any one of these operations will make a big difference in the resulting flavor.

The cocoa beans used in Lowney's are selected from the very finest-flavored beans that come from the tropics. Mr. Lowney personally attends to the selection of these beans.

The roasting is conducted by men whose specialized experience tells them just when to stop the roast in order to have the fullest and richest aroma.

Cocoa beans from several countries are combined into an exquisite blend and are then ground.

As Lowney's is produced in Montreal, it comes to you freshly tinned.

Lowney's is absolutely pure. It has the true cocoa-flavor—rich, delicious, appetizing.

To enjoy the flavor of real cocoa at its best, try a cup of Lowney's.

"Nicely you've set these two by the ears, now!" I said.

"What do you mean?"

"Virtue and Valla. They would be at each other's throats for twopence."

"What about?" cried Nat.

"You, my dear. Don't you know that they are horribly jealous of each other?"

"No. What—about me?"

"Yes. I thought you knew it."

"But indeed, I did not. Why should they be so stupid?"

"They are both found of you. I suppose."

"Valla is—not Virtue."

"Virtue is, and always has been. Madame promised her before you came that she would wait on you, and Valla threw her out. She took a violent fancy to you, and was awfully disappointed. Consequently she doesn't love Valla."

"Nor Valla her," said Nat, quickly.

"Just so. And as I was going to say, if you favor one more than the other, you will soon have a scratching match."

"What a couple of silly creatures!" cried Natalie, tossing up her head. "I am sure I don't want to set them by the ears, as you call it. But I like Virtue, particularly since you told me what a sad story hers was, poor girl; and if she likes doing things for me, I certainly shan't snub her to please Valla."

"I suppose you're awfully fond of Valla," I said, as we sauntered on.

"Oh, yes, of course!" she returned hastily. "She was my nurse when I was a baby, you know."

"I should think she must have pretty well scared you," I said, with a lazy laugh.

"I was afraid of her when I was a little thing. In fact, Ned—I know you will laugh at me—although I know that she is devoted to me, there are times when I am a little afraid of her now."

"Why, she worships you!" I exclaimed, surprised.

"Yes, I know; but it is quite true, for all that. I have seen Valla in a temper once or twice, and I haven't forgotten it."

Strolling on and talking, we had got into the broad path known as the Lady's Walk, which wound away from the drive and had a high quick-set hedge flanking it on each side. There was a little arbour-like erection at the bottom, usually called the Lady's Chapel, though it was no more like a chapel than it was like a stable. A little winding path ran from it among the trees, leading to a small side gate in the park palings, which was shaded by a great horse-chestnut tree.

We stopped at the gate to look over at the lane lying bright under the rising moon, and some of the rich reddish-brown leaves fell crisply upon Nat's curls. It was very quiet, very pretty and peaceful, and for some time neither of us spoke, but stood listening to a nightingale that was trilling out its rich, sorrowful melody from one of the huge old elms.

"Halloo! Here's some one coming down the lane!" I exclaimed, roused by the sound of brisk, rapid steps on the hard, gray road: "Who is it, I wonder?"

"Doctor Yorke," said Nat, without turning.

"Why, you can't see him?"

"I can hear him, though, I suppose. He always walks about twice as fast as any one else."

She was right, for the footsteps drawing nearer, rounded the curve of the lane, and Yorke, his hat at its usual angle and his hands in his pockets, came down upon us. He looked rather astonished to see us standing there, and quickly took his hands out of his pockets to raise his hat to Nat.

"Good-evening, Miss Orme. You look like the nymph of the place with that white affair over your head."

"Do nymphs wear white crochet shawls over their heads?" she asked, coolly, giving him her hand.

"I don't know—perhaps—on chilly evenings, say. How are you, Ned?"

"Precious hot," I told him. "And what brings you down here to-night?"

"My patient, of course. I'm awfully late; but it's the governor's day at Market Waxford, and I haven't sat down for ten minutes since nine this morning. I have been on my feet ever since dinner-time."

"And at such a pace?" laughed Natalie.

Roger laughed too. His rate of progression was a standing joke with us.

"Pretty much, I think, I begin to fancy that Whittlesford has a sort of spite against me. Every one who can possibly manage it turns ill upon the doctor's Waxford days. I'll pass, by your leave, Ned?"

"I didn't know you had a patient here," I said, taking my arms off the gate to let him open it. "What is it? Battered rheumatism again?"

"Just that! I don't know that I can do much good; but madame doesn't like anything like neglect. I was told especially not to miss to-day."

"And you know better than to forget it—eh?" I said, as he passed on.

"Rather! Obedience to madame's mandates is a code in Whittlesford, isn't Miss Orme?"

"We find it so, don't we Ned. What do you think she has been saying this evening, Doctor Yorke?" inquired Nat, dolefully.

Roger laughed and said that he did not know. We were at the entrance of the Lady's Walk again now, Nat walking between us, with her white shawl held under her chin with one little brown hand. Her lovely eyes were as bright as stars, seeming to match the spangled stars upon her dress, I thought. She and Yorke were very good friends by this time. All shyness upon her part had quite worn off. On this evening her way with him had a jesting lightness such as she might have shown to me.

"I suppose you're awfully fond of Valla," I said, as we sauntered on.

"Oh, yes, of course!" she returned hastily. "She was my nurse when I was a baby, you know."

"I should think she must have pretty well scared you," I said, with a lazy laugh.

"I was afraid of her when I was a little thing. In fact, Ned—I know you will laugh at me—although I know that she is devoted to me, there are times when I am a little afraid of her now."

On Using One's Capital.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A young woman in our neighborhood is called by her neighbors a thoroughly successful housewife.

At the risk of being thought capricious, I beg to differ with them.

I admit that the lady in question keeps everything about her house in perfect order and exquisitely clean, and that there is never a speck of dust visible, even on that beloved habitat of dust, mahogany furniture; I concede that she is a most excellent cook, and I am lost in envious admiration whenever I see her clothes-line full of clothes that really do deserve the adjective, snow-white. Furthermore, I realize that she certainly is a wonderful woman to have accomplished all this in spite of an entire lack of early training.

And yet I still maintain that she is not a thoroughly successful housewife. Why? Because, while she has learned to do all these things well, she has not yet learned to do them easily. She does not do her daily work out of her daily strength, but out of what should be her reserve fund, out of her very self.

She worries about her work; she frets lest everything should not be just so; every night finds her tired and nervous, and what tired and nervous people are likely to be, a little bit cross.

Now to my mind, no one is a successful worker in any line of work unless he has thoroughly conquered the task that he can do with his normal allowance of strength and not have to draw on a reserve fund. Suppose you had a certain amount of invested wealth given you, and were told that you must live on the interest of it, the rest of your life. Now surely you must admit that you would not be using your money wisely, no matter what splendid bargains you bought with it, if you overdrew the interest each week and used up some of the capital.

And that is just what the worker does who has not learned to do her daily work with her daily strength.

That is why I do not think this housewife has thoroughly learned her business, even if she can bake and sew and clean to perfection. She has a long road still before her. She must learn how to do all these things without taking so much out of herself.

Can this be done?

I think it can.

How?

Well, for one thing, she must study short cuts and efficiency methods.

She must study how to do every little thing in the easiest way.

She must have the best tools.

She must be willing not to do things quite so perfectly when a check on her reserve strength is the price of her perfection.

And above all things, she must learn not to let her tasks worry her or fret her, not to be afraid that she won't get things done on time or have things just so. In other words, she must be mistress of her work and not let her work dominate her.

Then, and then only, will I be willing to concede her that rare but splendid title—a thoroughly successful housewife.

The pastime of discovering the North Pole for Chautauqua purposes is one of the most ennobling and remunerative occupations of mankind. Somebody is always discovering the pole and then coming home to tell where they found it at $250 per evening.

It has been popularly supposed that the pole was a stationary object, something like the police force of our great cities, but this seems to be a mistake. Every year or so some explorer discovers the pole in a new spot and brings back a set of moving pictures showing how it looked when he ran into it. The Chautauqua platform is littered up with proofs of discovery, consisting of splinters from the pole itself and photographs of the explorer reclining at its base, wrapped in the American flag and the Arctic chillblain.

The pole has been discovered so often in different parts of the frigid zone that people have become suspicious and refuse to accept any kodak pictures, unless certified to by a justice of the peace. The only man who has been able to meet these strict requirements is Commander Robert E. Peary, who found the pole in approximately the same longitude where it was originally put up.

When Commander Peary returned home to receive some medals and pick off a few lecture engagements, he was greatly chagrined to find that old Doc Cook was being featured on the front page with everything but the proofs. The Doc had left the proofs lying on the piano at his summer home in Amsterdam, where they can be seen by anybody who happens to be in that vicinity. Peary says he didn't find the Doc's initials carved on the pole, and knew he hadn't been there. Upon hearing this, the newspapers began to hedge and relegated the Doc to the eighth page, next to the insurance column.

It is now admitted that Commander Peary is the only man who found the North Pole without the aid of the long bow and a lively imagination. As luck would have it, he is an American, and America discovers everything that is worth while except relief from the perennial and night-blooming office seeker.

The burdens a woman has to carry through life are many but they can be lightened if she will turn to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A soothing and strengthening nerve—subduing nervous excitability, prostration, hysteria, hot-flashes and the many symptoms which may be caused by distressing ills peculiar to women. For those "dragging-down" pains or distress and for the derangements and irregularities the "Favorite Prescription" has had many thousands of testimonials from people living in every part of America. Another important thing to every woman is that this medicine is made from efficient medicinal roots, without the use of alcohol, narcotics, or any injurious agents. Full list of ingredients given on bottle-wrapper and sworn to by Dr. R. V. Pierce—who is President of the Lavalin Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Every woman is invited to write to this Institute and receive confidential and sound medical advice, entirely without cost from one who makes the diseases of women his specialty.

"I can cheerfully recommend your remedies, especially your 'Favorite Prescription,' for all female disorders," writes Mrs. M. M. MORRELL, of Blue City, Tenn., Route 2. "During the past seven years I suffered from pains in the back and ovaries. Tried many remedies but found only transient relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After giving this remedy a fair trial, I found that it would do just what it is recommended to do. I used in all seven bottles. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce's remedies for all female derangements."

Household Notes.

Brittle nails should be rubbed with vaseline every night.

When the knob comes off the tea-kettle lid, try putting in a cork; select one larger than the hole, soak it and force it in while wet.

If rice is cooked in water it will absorb about three times its measure. If it is cooked in milk at least half as much liquid will be necessary.

Limeum which has been rolled up for some time should be placed before the fire for a few minutes before unrolling. It will not crack.

A fish that is to be boiled will be improved if it is placed in a dish containing melted butter, and allowed to stand for an hour before boiling.

After boiling salt beef leave two or three carrots in the liquor until cold. The carrots will absorb the salt and the liquor can be used for soup.

Perspiration stains can be removed by a solution of oxalic acid and water in a proportion of one drop of oxalic to twenty drops of water.

When sheets wear thin in the middle, cut them in half down the middle, and sew the outside edges together; the sheets will wear twice as long.

If a few drops of vinegar are added to the water in which eggs are poached they will set properly, as the whites will be kept from spreading.

Rusty steel should be covered with sweet oil, well rubbed in, and in forty-eight hours use unslacked lime finely powdered and rub until all the rust disappears.

If you are mixing a pudding or cake with a wooden spoon beat the mixture with the back of the spoon. It is far easier and becomes beautifully light in half the time.

When a kettle is badly burned, do not fill it with water, but set it aside to cool, then put in a handful of washing soda and water and allow it to boil for an hour or more.

Paint, no matter how hard and dry, can be taken out of woolen clothing by using a solution of equal parts of ammonia and turpentine. Saturate the spot two or three times, then wash out with soap suds.

Hands that are inclined to be red in cold weather should always be bathed in tepid water and pure soap, dried thoroughly, and a solution of glycerine and rosewater rubbed in.

When a haze, caused by dampness, appears on mahogany furniture rub it with a soft linen cloth moistened with olive oil. The rubbing must be kept up until the surface is dry.

For economy, excellent lamp wicks can be made from men's old soft felt hats cut into strips the proper width and soaked in vinegar for two hours and drying before using.

Sash curtains, after they have been starched, should be folded down the middle length-wise and ironed double, then opened out and the fold ironed. They handle very well when ironed in this way.

Before cutting buttonholes in thin materials, baste a piece of India linen underneath where the buttonholes will be. Cut the buttonholes through both and work. When finished, cut away the piece of goods underneath.

To bake cakes at home successfully put the cake mixture into a well-greased tin. The cakes will never burn at the bottom or stick, and will be successful whether baked in a large or small oven.

To clean a white felt hat put a small quantity of flour into a perfectly clean baking tin, cover it with an old saucer and place it in a hot oven until well heated. Then take a piece of white flannel and rub the hot flour thoroughly into the felt.

Evening Telegram

W. J. HERDER, - - Proprietor
W. F. LLOYD, - - - - Editor
FRIDAY, January 9, 1913.

Here and There.

Morris is making good, shouts McGrath daily. He must think the people need a lot of convincing.

Coal has gone up in price while Morris has been making good, but what does it matter to Morris. It doesn't prevent him taking his little picnics.

But Morris will not suffer. He has "made good"—Witness his little bill on account of his picnic to the Hague Arbitration—$7,000!

If this weather continues for a short time, there will be a big "hole in the coal"—in some cases, it will be all "hole" and no "coal!"

Morris promised to put all the prime necessities of life on the Free List. He has not put any of them on the Free List, and of course he is making good with the people he has deceived.

Yes, Morris is making good headway towards his political doom, and the electors are only too anxious for the opportunity of facilitating his progress towards political oblivion; they are most anxious to make good an exit for him.

The Herald man, wants us to study Judas. We decline. It would be too nauseating to have to fix our attention on Judas and himself at one and the same time. He himself suffers as a horrible example.

McGrath affects much indignation that a son of Mr. Herder should get a railway job for a few weeks two years ago. His affection he justifies because the Evening Telegram opposed the Branch Railway Contract. What nonsense. Is not the contractor a public contractor. Are not the railways public railways. Are they not built with public money?

Do not Liberal and Tory contribute to their building. Have they not to pay alike, whether they support the Morris Railway policy or not, for carrying it out. Has not Mr. Herder to bear the burden of the Morris railway policy like any other citizen? As he has to take up his share of the burden, whether he likes it or not, why should he not get a job for a few weeks in winter for one of his sons.

Does McGrath contend that jobs on a Government railway, paid for by the public, should be limited to those who will sign a Morris confession of political faith? The Evening Telegram opposed the Railway policy, and Mr. Herder did not compromise himself in getting a few weeks' work for a son.

If the supporters of the railway policy bore solely the cost of it, and the opponents were relieved of the burden, there might be some ground for McGrath's. But so long as opponents have to pay as well as supporters, exception cannot fairly be taken to any Liberal getting a job on the railway. The right of way is purchased by public money. The work is paid for by public money. It is meant for all. It is paid for by all, and all are entitled to a chance if a chance is open, and they want to avail of it.

Sun Life's Great Success.

Official information at hand shows that the business done by the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada during 1912 greatly eclipses any previous record in the Company's history. The total applications for new assurances received at the Head Office, during 1912, amounted to the enormous figure of $37,974,757.36, an increase of $6,571,297.07 over 1911. The total business in force is now nearly $200,000,000.

From this it will be seen that the Company's watchword—Prosperous and Progressive is being strikingly borne out by results. It is a matter of gratification to all connected with the Company, to know that the above figures not only mark a record in the Company's history, but also in Canadian Life Assurance circles generally.

Also to those policy-holders in Newfoundland, it will be gratifying to know that the business of the Company in this country during the last year was in every respect a record one.—adv1.11

Last evening Mr. Murphy, a workman at Mitchell's Bakery, was bitten badly in the back of the head by a horse owned by the proprietor. As a result a considerable portion of flesh on the man's head was torn by the animal's teeth. A doctor was called and it took four stitches to close the wound that was inflicted.

Turkey Talks Big

Special Evening Telegram. CONSTANTINOPLE, To-day. The Porte, according to an official announcement, has sent a circular to the Turkish Ambassadors abroad, intimating that unless the allies accept Turkey's peace proposals by the end of the week, the Ottoman delegate will be invited to return to Constantinople immediately. The circular adds, "Whatever happens, the Porte is determined to maintain its attitude with regard to Adrianople and the Aegean Islands, in view of the fact that sacrifices made in other directions have reached the extreme limit." The general opinion here is that any attempt of Europe to coerce Turkey into ceding Adrianople, even if supported by a Naval demonstration, is doomed to failure, because public opinion would not tolerate any government yielding this point.

A Thrilling Sight

Special Evening Telegram. ASTORIA, OREGON, To-day. As two survivors of the lost steamer, Rosecrans, crossed the Bar, last night, on which yesterday they saw thirty-three of their shipmates smothered in surf, they watched the schooner Westerner overwhelmed by a huge wave. When she righted the bulwarks were swept away and a deckload of lumber floating in the entrance to Columbia River. No lives were lost. A tremendous sea pounded the North Pacific Coast but the gale has somewhat abated.

Fatal Collision.

Special Evening Telegram. LIVERPOOL, To-day. The Booth line steamer, Ambrose, while proceeding in the Mersey, collided with a fishing smack and lighter, sinking both. Ten men lost their lives.

Captain and Crew Drowned

Special to the Evening Telegram. TAMPA, Florida, To-day. Captain Larkin, with a crew of seven men, lost their lives when the schooner Native, founded off Cape Hatteras, lumber laden. She left here on Dec. 26th.

"On to Washington."

Special Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, To-day. The march of suffragettes from all parts of New York State, with "On to Washington" as their programme, will be begun in this city on February 10th. Eight Men Lost.

Special Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, To-day. The American Naval Supply Ship, Panther, which was reported lost, is safe, and today proceeded to Cape Cruz in the Liverpool Coast of Cuba.

"THE BUSY MAN'S REFERENCE BOOK"

Nineteenth Year of Publication. The Daily Mail Year Book.

Those who require a book of ready reference on all matters of general interest should secure a copy of the Daily Mail Year Book for 1913. This little book is a model of concise and accurate information. It may be described as a topical encyclopaedia in miniature within its covers; facts and figures innumerable are presented in such a convenient manner that we turn up in a second the subject on which enlightenment is desired, with the certainty of finding all necessary particulars, special articles on leading questions of the day, written by acknowledged authorities on the subjects dealt with, and over one thousand biographies of prominent people, the noteworthy features of the new Year Book. Its scope is practically unlimited, its outlook is strictly impartial, and it is an invaluable aid in keeping abreast of the times. No one should be without a copy. Only 17c. Post-paid, 19c.

Italy Disturbed.

Special Evening Telegram. ROME, To-day. Public opinion in Rome is deeply stirred by reports that Montenegro contemplates ceding Mount Lovchan, dominating the Gulf of Catharo to Austria as compensation for the latter's acquiescence in the Montenegrin possession of Scutari.

More Reassuring

Special to the Evening Telegram. MONTREAL, To-day. The latest bulletin respecting the condition of the Duchess of Connaught is more reassuring.

Man Run Down.

This forenoon an old man attempted to cross Water Street from the south to the north side and did not see an express van rapidly driving east. The driver did not see him until he was upon him, and before he could rein in, one of the shafts struck the man and knocked him down. His coat was torn and he seemed to be severely hurt. The driver put him in a sleigh and sent him home.

Killed By Train in Aiding Friend.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Dec. 31.—F. Pape, twenty-one years old, of Stamford, Conn., in tattered clothes, without money, tramping to this town late yesterday afternoon, died with his friend, Antonio Reo, twenty-one years old, rather than desert him. He saw a west bound fast freight racing toward himself and his friend. Near the Jerusalem Bridge his friend's foot was caught in a switch as in a vise.

"Jump, Frank! Don't mind me. I gotta be killed," a towerman who was struggling to release the switch heard Reo say.

The towerman saw Reo attempt to throw his companion clear of the rails when the train was almost upon them, but Pape refused to budge. When the train struck them he was still struggling desperately to release his friend.

Pape was hurled twenty feet and killed instantly. Reo was dying when the driver of the engine, who had been unable to see the two men until he was almost upon them because of a bend in the road, descended from his cab and reached the man.

Reo became conscious for a moment when being taken in an ambulance to the New Rochelle Hospital. "My friend, he dead?" he gasped. The ambulance surgeon nodded. "Too bad," said Reo. Then he died.

CONFECTIONERY

with a Reputation.
AYRE'S

Here and There.

CALENDAR.—We thank Mr. A. H. Murray for a pretty calendar.

FOR ASYLUM.—Constable Fitzgerald arrived here by last night's train with a man from Bonavista, for the Lunatic Asylum.

IMPOSING FUNERAL.—The funeral of the late Sir Edward Dutton took place from his late residence, Cochrane House, at 2.30 p.m., to-day. It was attended by a great concourse of citizens including members of the Legislative Branch and Bar, and people prominent in commercial and social life. The remains were interred at Belvidere Cemetery.

INTERRED YESTERDAY.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Sarah Calnes took place yesterday afternoon, and considering the stormy weather prevailing, was largely attended. Mr. Andrew Carnell acted as undertaker and interment was at Belvidere Cemetery. The husband of the deceased, Mr. John Calnes, who is over 80 years old, is very ill as the result of an accident received some time ago, and his family are much concerned about him.

Coastal Boats.

The Argyle arrived at Ramona at 3.50 p.m. yesterday going west. The Clyde left Dog Bay, at 4 p.m. yesterday for St. John's. The Ethel left Northern Bight at 12.15 p.m. yesterday. The Glencoe left Fortuna at 8.30 a.m. to-day for Placentia. The Home left Humbermouth at 4.35 p.m. yesterday. The Invermore leaves Port au Basques on the arrival of Wednesday's express. The Duchess of Marlborough leaves Lewisport to-day.

Narrow Escape.

While the cross country freight which arrived here at 1 a.m. today was at Whitbourne last night a supply of water was taken from the river there for the engine, a siphon was used for the purpose as the river is frozen, and while one of the brakemen was engaged in the work he went through the ice and narrowly escaped being carried under it and drowned. He was some time in the water before being rescued, and was chilled from his immersion.

DEVINE'S DOUBLES DOLLARS

THE EVENT YOU'VE WAITED FOR.

J. M. DEVINE, The Right House,

Announces one of the most stupendous selling stunts of the season. For reasons which he will explain later, every article in the entire stock of Dry Goods will be greatly reduced. Sale starts to-day and will continue all through the end of January. The Whitewear section is particularly strong.

Now when we say "A Sale" it is "a sale," and no half measures about it. Whether you want to buy or not, come and see; but we feel convinced the temptation will be too strong for you to get away without selecting something you need from the many attractive offerings.

THE SCHOONER EVELYN, CAPTAIN BURKE, LOST AT ISLE AU BOIS—CAPTAIN AND CREW SAVED.

Yesterday the Telegram reported the fact that a large schooner, white painted and with three masts, had gone ashore near Ferryland and in the afternoon by Hon. M. P. Cashin, from the light keeper at Ferryland, stating that a three-masted schooner had gone ashore at Isle au Bois and that a boat from the land had gone to the rescue of the crew, while Deputy Minister of Customs had a wire that it was the Evelyn. Constable Murphy, of Ferryland, also advised Inspector General Sullivan by wire, of the wreck, saying that she had gone ashore in the snow storm, that men had gone to the assistance of the crew, and that a tug boat might be sent from St. John's, N.S., for the purpose of recovering the vessel, which was communicated with Mr. Goodridge, Deputy Minister of Marine, but the Ingraham being at Greenspond and the John Green being busy with shipping, no tug was available. In the early afternoon, Hon. J. C. Crosbie had a message from Capt. Burke, which obliged the necessity for sending aid from St. John's. This wire said that the ship was ashore with the bottom out of her, filled with water, but that the spars were still standing and that it was expected she would break up during the night. The seven men of her crew were saved by boats from the shore and were landed at Ferryland where every care and attention was given them. The ship went ashore at noon, during the progress of a blinding snow storm, with a big sea running and it is a matter for congratulation that the lives of the seamen were saved. The Evelyn was a vessel of 167 tons register, was built in 1884 at Shelburne, N.S., for Capt. Chas. Nicholls, now in the Customs service, and was ten years in the service of Crosbie & Co. who purchased her. The crew will likely come here over land.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The blizzard yesterday and intense cold caused a decrease in the attendance at the united service held last night. Rev. W. H. Thomas, the new Minister of the Congregational Church presided. Revs. Drs. Curtis and Fenwick assisting him in the opening exercises. After the hymn "From all that dwell below the skies," Rev. Mr. Thomas desired to acknowledge in his own church the very eloquently expressed and hearty greeting of the ministers representing the congregations of this city at Gower Street Church on Monday evening last. He recognized that if the same broad, fraternal spirit could exist in cities and towns where we are apt to become narrow and sectional, and that same brotherly regard were carried into the great mission field, it would not be long before all would be won for Christ. He then introduced Rev. J. W. Bartlett to speak to the topic of the evening, "Home and Foreign Missions." Speaking of men, some of whom had become great in the sphere in which they directed their energies, Mr. Bartlett said we must not forget God's work in this vast world is but part of His operations. We cannot go anywhere where He is not, nor has been, and just as the men of South Africa were walking over the diamonds, so the messenger of God had only to show the heathen His footprints, and reveal Him to their consciousness, and they were prepared to abandon their idols and submit to His will. Scientists say nothing has been made single. From the atom, up to the various faces of mankind, there is a wonderful co-relationship, and the design of the great Creator is a complete, perfect harmony—Jesus, as the world's Saviour, belongs to all. He was lifted up, and will draw all men unto Him, and Several civil cases were heard in the District Court.

Warning.

Information has reached us that certain dealers, when asked for Zam-Buk, try to sell something else on which they make a larger profit. They do not give this as their reason, but say: "I can sell you so and so at half the price and it is just as good." Don't be fooled! The "cheap" preparation is not just as good as Zam-Buk—not in the same class! Most of the cheap satives are made from animal fats and oils. Zam-Buk is made from pure herbal essences and juices. There is as little similarity between the two as between a horse and an automobile!

Initiation of Zam-Buk and cheap substitutes may give the dealer a little more profit, but they won't cure your skin disease, or stop the pain of your burn or ease the agony of piles, or cure the rash on your baby. Don't be misled. Get the real Zam-Buk. See the legally protected name on the packet before paying for it.

A New Name for Wilhelmina.

Steamer Chartered Already.

Capt. E. W. Hickey, formerly of the S. S. Beatrice, is now in the city and will take command of the "Wilhelmina" which has been re-christened and re-fitted. Capt. Hickey informed the Telegram that as soon as the finishing touches are made to the Wilhelmina he will take her to Sydney where her owners, Messrs. Burchell and Young, are. The steamer will then be re-christened and called the Eskasoni. Following the ceremony the ship will proceed to New York and will ply between that port and the West Indies in the general cargo trade. The ship being chartered by the Munsen Line.

FOGOTA—JAMMED AT WESTERN TICKLE, FOGO.

News was received to-day from Capt. B. Barbour of the Fogota, saying that heavy Arctic ice blocked the northern coast and that the ship is jammed in Eastern Tickle, Fogo. She must wait a southerly wind to get clear. This is exceptionally early for the Arctic floe to make its appearance.

Surely Settles Upset Stomachs.

"Pape's Diapiesin" ends Indigestion, Gas, Sourness and Heartburn in five minutes.

"Really does" put bad stomach in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapiesin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

Fire Countrywards.

Between midnight and 1 a.m. today people who were about saw the reflection of what appeared to be a big fire in the western horizon. Men from the country to-day say they think it meant the destruction of a house on the Bay Bulls Road, while others believe it was on the Topsail Road.

The driving mist obscures the view. But high on yonder tree I see A robin tilting in the breeze, As he pours forth his melody.

The chilly day is at its close. What joy was mine the whole day long. As o'er the patter of the rain— I paused to marvel at his song.

What ecstasy is in that laugh! For laugh it really seems to be— As he rocks gaily in the breeze, And sings again his song to me.

It is the trill of joy he gives! And cheerfulness within me springs Tho' wintry blasts may threaten me. 'Tis hope and cheer his coming brings!

Dental Examinations.

LETTER FROM DR. SMITH.
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The writer of the article which appeared in Saturday's issue of the Daily News re the Newfoundland Dental Act and Bye-Laws has no doubt gotten one side of the story only, and it is my intention to show him and the public generally in as brief a way as I can, the other side.

In the first place, we will take the fees and show you how much the Board makes out of the Examination, giving as illustration the expenses incurred in the examination of one of the recent applicants.

Two members of the Board not being resident practitioners, it is quite possible that either one or both may be absent at the time set for examination, and in this recent case to which I have referred one only was absent, he being at Grand Falls and unable to be present. The services of another member of the profession were procured and in compensation for his services and use of office the sum of Twenty dollars had to be paid, which is a reasonable fee for a professional man's time and services anyone will admit. I personally gave up my office for two days. What I lost it is impossible for me to say. What I lost is not in the question but rather what I made, so we shall turn to the expenses. The sum of ten dollars had to be paid for a room in which to hold the written part of the examination and a man employed to keep the applicant from getting lonely.

We shall now take the cost of material which the Board supplies and which afterwards becomes the property of the patient, viz.: Upper and lower set of teeth, a bridge of not less than four teeth, a real gold bridge. There is no need of my telling you what 18 and 20 carat gold is worth as you probably know. Next we have a 20 carat gold crown, a Richmond crown of the same material and a pure gold filling, the cost of which is determined by the size. Now the cost of these dentures, if a person had to pay for them, would be in the vicinity of eighty dollars, and supposing the dentist makes a profit of 100 per cent., which he does not, how much is there left to be divided among the members of the Board? From this it is easy to see that the Board is not a trust or a body of Crafters as implied by our misinformed friend.

Now that we have settled the fees question, we shall turn our attention to the Board as a body of examiners. The writer of that famous article seemed to be highly amused at the idea that we should consider ourselves equal or superior to the Dalhousie Staff of Dental Instructors. This was, of course, because we did not allow the applicant to go through on the merits of his diploma. He will be more highly amused when I inform him of the fact that Dalhousie University condescended to appoint three of our dental practitioners (two of whom are on the Board) Lecturers of their worthy College. The writer apparently has very little idea of facts concerning Dental Boards in other countries and he, therefore, thinks we are taking privileges which would not be thought of in other countries. I propose to give him a few instances out of many which I have in my possession.

First of all, we shall turn our attention to the Motherland, the Home of Justice. A graduate of Dentistry coming from a reputable college in the United States of America or Canada has, in order to practice dentistry in Britain, to fulfil the obligation of one term of study in one of their dental institutions which I should judge, with board, tuition fees, etc., would cost him four or five hundred dollars. I can name at least ten States in which an applicant has to have a diploma and is compelled to take an examination as well in order to obtain a license to practice dentistry in any of those States. I shall name a few verbatim:—

New York.—Examination required with or without diploma.

Washington.—Examination required with diploma.

Wisconsin.—The possession of a diploma in itself governs no right to engage in the practice of dentistry in this State. All persons must appear for examination at stated meetings of the Board and receive license before commencing the practice of Dentistry in this State.

Just one more illustration from a land further distant:—

Hawaii.—Examination required with diploma.

The writer, no doubt, did not know all these facts or else he would not have precipitated himself in this Dental Act discussion. Anyone would naturally think by reading the Bye-Laws that the Board was a monopoly but when the facts of the case are known the opinion will change and no doubt the writer will not feel as antagonistic as he did.

There is nobody who can dispute the honour of the Board. The applicants in the two previous examinations can certify that fact and any further applicants will have absolute justice done them.

Hopeing that I have made matters clear and thanking you for your valuable space,

I remain, yours truly,

FEARED LOCKJAW

In Paddy Calked Horses—
But Egyptian Liniment
Saved Him

The season of icy roads and sudden heavy snowfalls, is an anxious one for horseowners, because it is so easy for a sharpshod horse to cut himself seriously when floundering in the deep snow.

A bottle of Douglas' Egyptian Liniment on hand then, may be the means of saving a valuable animal for you. It not only stops the bleeding at once, but keeps the wound clean and healthy and quickly heals it.

Read what Mr. G. P. Ashbocker, Evan Mills, N. Y., says about it:—"Egyptian Liniment has made extraordinary cures for me. One of my horses got badly calked, and everyone said he would have the lockjaw. The wound gathered and broke, and there was a great hole between the hair and the hoof. I used only Egyptian Liniment and the horse's foot was soon sound and well. It made a permanent cure. In my estimation there is nothing equal to this Liniment for cuts or sores of any kind."

25 cents at all Druggists. Free sample on request. Douglas & Co., Napanee, Ont.

Seventh Day Adventist Ingathering Ser- vice

The Annual Ingathering for Missions at the Cookstown Road Church is announced to take place next Sunday evening, the 12th inst.

This is rather a unique custom with the Seventh Day Adventist Denomination, as they make a practice each year of setting apart a full week in which to meet together in what is known by them as the Annual Offering Week. On these occasions special readings are prepared, descriptive of their Mission life and work in foreign fields; the season usually taken for this religious exercise is either in or near the holiday season, they set apart one day for giving their Christmas present to the Lord. As this collection is usually the largest donation of the year. Next Sunday's meeting will be of more than ordinary interest to them.

We learn that a program of songs, recitations, dialogues, etc. will be rendered, each item of which will have a bearing on the subject of Missions, and the choir will give a brief summary of the work accomplished during the past year.

The following facts gleaned from their official statistical report will be of interest to our readers, as a widespread misapprehension of the scope of their work is prevalent. Their Missionary Propaganda covers 47 non-Protestant countries, and 29 non-Christian. Supporting laborers in these lands speaking 73 different languages and dialects, besides issuing publications in 64 different languages for circulation in the countries designated.

The total number of foreign Missionaries is 586 with Helpers, making a combined force of foreign workers of 1,560.

They have 140 main stations with 145 sub-stations, 413 churches with 17,565 adherents (foreign), besides they are operating 13 training schools with an enrolment of 774, whilst their out schools, 192 in number, have 6,730 pupils. The total foreign teachers number 103, and native teachers 262.

Their gain in the foreign field during the year of 1911 was 2,679, or a gain of 22.74 per cent.; their income from these mission fields alone was (1911) $135,234.73, to this add a further sum of $357,587.73, making a grand total of $492,822.60 for missions. Looking at these figures as a whole they do not give a correct idea of the missionary spirit of the denomination, but when it is shown that that people have given of their means to the tune of $32.92 per capita if spells in cold figures a larger missionary zeal than the contributions to a like purpose (foreign work) than any two of the larger Christian bodies as shown in the Blue Book of Missions in its last issue.—Com.

A Portrait!

A Portrait to be properly finished and give satisfaction demands the utmost skill of the photographer. Many photographers delight in exaggerating the image, which, when finished, is not a true portrait.

A Portrait must show the person as he or she truly is, without any artificial means of beauty, free from skin blemishes with the exception of birth marks or scars.

We photograph the person truly and retouch in the most approved and up-to-date way. No order too small or too large for our every attention.

Call in and we will be only too glad to show you everything—show you photos of people of whom you know.

We are specialists in child photography. Send the children along.

Installation.

Rev. Mr. Barton's Lecture.

The Girls' Friendly Society met in the Synod Hall last evening when the officers elected at Wednesday's meeting were installed, viz.:

President—Mrs. W. C. Job.

Vice-President—Mrs. (Rev.) Bolt.

2nd Vice-President—Mrs. A. O. Hayward.

Sec. Treas.—Lady Horwood.

Asst. Sec.—Mrs. H. Rendell.

Following the installation Rev. C. H. Barton, who was present, gave an interesting lecture on "Christmas Legends."

In the course of his remarks the lecturer exhorted his hearers to keep up with the motto of the Society:—"Bear ye one another's burdens."

It was decided to have a lecture once every quarter and the next lecturer will be Rev. Canon Bolt. Preparations for the Sale of Work to be held next October are now going on.

Reading and writing classes are conducted every Thursday evening by Miss Wright in St. Vincent's Paul's Hall. There is also a class of twenty girls learning cooking. The Girls' Friendly Society is prospering financially and otherwise.

LOUISBURG, Jan. 9.

As the steamer Evelyn, with a full cargo of salt from Bremen and North Shields to Savannah, was putting into Louisburg last night for coal, during a snow storm, she ran ashore. The crew succeeded in getting the ship off and made an attempt to get to Louisburg. The Evelyn arrived at the entrance to the harbour this morning, but sunk there. The crew of 33 were saved. The Evelyn was about 7 years old, 3,664 tons gross, registered at West Hartlepool and owned by the Greatham Shipping Company. Capt. Higginbotham was in command at the time of the wreck. The Evelyn left Bremen on Dec. 7th, and Shields on Dec. 11th.

LONDON, Jan. 9.

Official news received by the Bulgarian delegation describes the situation at Adrianople as desperate. Several soldiers who deserted and succeeded in reaching the headquarters of the Allies say the town is in its last gasp. Provisions are so scarce that the military authorities have requisitioned all the food possessed by private individuals, and are making one distribution of half a ration daily. Conditions are rendered grave by the great number of sick, while the death rate is very high. The Bulgarians have allowed medicines and red cross workers to enter under escort. The commander of the fortress has declared he would rather see all die of starvation than surrender the town, and because of this all who can are endeavouring to escape.

LONDON, Jan. 9.

Long sentences were passed to-day on two of the militant suffragettes, many of whom during recent months have been engaged in a campaign of destruction of the mails. May Billinghurst and Louisa Gay, were two of the first to be arrested in connection with these outrages. They were brought up for trial at the Old Bailey, to-day, and condemned to eight months' imprisonment each. Billinghurst, who is a cripple, unable to get about, except on a tricycle, has already been imprisoned on several occasions, in connection with suffragette outrages. Evidence showed that letter boxes throughout the centre and west end of London had been damaged, together with their contents, by means of acids, sticky fluids, varnish, ink, and in some cases materials such as rags, soaked in lamp oil, had been inserted in the boxes. Many valuable documents had been destroyed. These included money orders, contracts, cheques and bank notes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.

A plan to do away with icebergs is to be laid before Congress. The New York Board of Trade Transportation Committee announces its endorsement of the Bill which Congressman Calder, of Brooklyn will submit, calling for a government commission to study the feasibility of constructing a huge jetty across the Grand Banks of Newfoundland. Its originator, Mr. Frecker, of Brooklyn, an engineer, says that he would obstruct the Labrador current by laying a steel cable ten inches in diameter across the Grand Banks, where the ocean bed is a plateau, against which cable he would deposit sand to form a ridge extending to two miles east of Cape Race. He declares this would be sufficient to shift the current so that the warm Gulf Stream and cold Labrador current would coningle, melting the ice in the latter and eliminating icebergs not only from the region of the Grand Banks but also from the entire Arctic circle. Greenland, he maintained, would be transformed into a garden, and England would be surrounded by a current as warm as the Caribbean Sea.

Do You Know

WHAT A CLEARANCE SALE ACTUALLY MEANS!

After you have read the advertising in this paper to-day, are you going to get down to these stores as quickly as you are able and then there is going to be enacted a scene that will make the old Manchester Bread Riots look like a peaceful Sunday in the Park.

After you have found all the remarkable bargains in this paper to-day, all you have to do is to figure up how many thousands of women have also found them and then in this case you will figure it is better to be early than to be "Queen of the May."

Of course you are going to these January Sales, but now the questions are, Why are you going? And do you know why the merchants are holding such sales?

"Why," you say, "they are trying to get rid of their surplus stock."

But that doesn't answer the question, especially for staple merchandise. People are going to wear shoes next year, and therefore why should a real dollar or more be cut from the price of such staples as shoes.

People are going to continue to wear skirts, and stockings and underwear and coats. They are going to continue to use knives and forks and kitchen utensils, so why should the prices on these staple things be cut to such a point, as to make you fling on your hat and start for a bargain sale as if you were starting for a fire.

The answer in a word is that the greatest dread any merchant knows is that of a broken or an uneven stock of merchandise. Most merchants refer to such a stock as a "Junk Shop," and they dread it more than anything else.

If a merchant has a broken stock of a certain kind of shoes, his clerks or his salesmen do not please you when you come to buy and you go out to where you can be pleased. If you see a certain skirt pattern that you like, and you are suddenly told that you can only get that pattern in size 16, you sigh wearily and turn away from the counter.

Merchants have learned all these things by long and bitter experience and that is why they are willing to sell all and any of their broken lines at these prices no matter how staple these lines may be, in order that they may accomplish this one end of a clean store and complete merchandise.

A word to the wise is sufficient. In this paper to-day these merchants are telling you what they have at such remarkable bargain prices as to stir every instinct which every woman has for Economy.

And if what they have happens to be what you want, you will save so much money, that it will seem as if Santa Claus had left you a Bank Account.

But Remember, the secret of big bargains in these days is for you to have the advertising at your finger tips and to be in the stores a half an hour earlier than those "hateful" other women who are trying to beat you there.

MEMORABLE ANNIVERSARY.—Exactly 30 years ago, this evening, the big woolen factory in the West End, was destroyed by fire. The conflagration in itself, was a sight for the populace, but what renders it memorable is the terrible weather which prevailed. It blew hard, the thermometer registered 23 below zero, and quite a number of spectators as well as the firemen present, were badly frostbitten.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere

The Institute opened last evening with a splendid attendance of 40 members, proving that the work of this organization is largely appreciated. The officers were very much encouraged by having 11 new members. The subject for debate was: "Is America justified in claiming preferential rights in the use of the Panama Canal?" Mr. I. C. Morris opened the debate for the affirmative and related the history of various attempts to build this canal, by the Dutch, and a French company. He admitted that the treaty between England and America stated that "equal rights" were to be allowed all nations, but that the American coastwise trade did not compete with the foreign and therefore should be exempt from canal charges, and that the chief opposition to this in the U.S.A. was caused by railway magnates who feared the competition caused by the canal. Mr. E. V. Wylie supported Mr. Morris and outlined the enormous difficulties met with and the cost of building, etc., to be about $400,000,000, and that as conditions have changed since making the treaty the Americans were justified in their action. Mr. P. H. Cowan also supported the affirmative showing that the U.S. paid the property owners of the Isthmus 10 millions for the land and after 9 years $250,000 a year and that as the U.S. had borne all the cost the U.S. should have some preference. The negative was opened by Mr. J. W. Nichols, in a convincing speech supplying the audience with well selected facts. He first referred to the Clayton Bulwer Treaty, which prevented the U.S. and England from obtaining control of the Isthmus, and the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty wherein England relinquished her rights in the former treaty on a guarantee that ships of all nations should use the canal on equal terms, and that meant the coastwise trade of America. Mr. R. Hearder ably supported Mr. Nichols and showed that the reason the clause re the coastwise trade was not included in the treaty was because the Americans were unable to have it inserted. Mr. A. Dave contributed some strong opinions from American professors against America's action, which helped considerably to strengthen his side of the debate. The difficulty of deciding whether a steamer leaving New York for California and Vancouver (U.S. and Canadian ports) was in the coastwise trade, was pointed out. The following members took part in the debate: Geo. Peters, W. White, A. Pratt, B. Holloway, J. Moore, G. Rabbits, C. Bowden, J. Soper, Eric Arre, Dr. Roberts and contributed a fund of information to this interesting and instructing debate. The vote stood largely in favor of the negative. The debate next week will be "Should Nfld. have a polytechnic?" It is hoped that a large attendance will greet the speakers.

With the Puck.
The ice at the Prince's Rink last evening was as smooth as glass, and the first hockey practices for the season took place.
At 7:30 the Victorias had a spin. Several of last year's warriors have again donned the armour whilst they also have new material in their ranks. The latter, judging by their exhibition last night, are capital puck chasers.
At 10 o'clock the Crescents appeared on the ice for the first time this season. Five of last year's team, including the Herder brothers, will play this season and the team, no doubt, ought make a bold bid for championship honours.

Shot Bruin, Missed Reynard.
Mr. John Power, of Toad's Cove, after travelling 15 miles inland recently succeeded in shooting a large black bear. When he came across it in the woods it was dusk and he was on the point of starting for home when he saw a bulky object move amongst the trees. He fired both barrels of his rifle but felt chary of going forward and proceeded home, though he marked the spot where he stood. Next day he went there with his brother-in-law and found that he had killed a large black bear. When the men approached they were surprised to see a large black fox feeding off the carcass of bruin. Both men fired, but in their excitement missed the treasure which was only about 40 yards from them. They brought the head and skin of the bear back with them and on their return were lucky enough to kill a silver grey fox for which they received $200.

The weather last night and this morning was the coldest since the winter set in. A cold wave swept over the city and few were abroad during the night. At an early hour this morning the glass registered 3 below in the city, and over the railway line the weather was by far the coldest for the winter.

Events at Tor's Cove.

A delightful entertainment was given here on Monday night by Miss Annie O'Brien, aided by the Church choir.

Miss O'Brien has been spending a holiday as the guest of her uncle Rev. P. J. O'Brien, and in the mean time devoting some of her leisure to the training of the young folk in Church music and singing. Miss O'Brien has a rich and cultured voice and is an expert performer on the piano or organ. The chant at the masses of the festive time were beautifully rendered by herself and choir adding solemnity to the devotions and touching and elevating the aspirations of the people by sweet sacred melody.

On New Year's Night, a sociable was held and all the young, and many of the old folk, assembled from far and near for the occasion. The new school is a spacious building, has two large halls separated by folding doors so that it can be readily converted into a hall for entertainments. The housekeepers (who are second to none as cooks), sent in (as they always do), an abundant supply of good things and delicacies for refreshments of which all partook heartily. A special musician was brought in for the event, and gaily the hours flew by till dawn.

Some one suggested there should be a concert before the Christmas season passed; the idea was soon caught up and the concert seemed to be the only topic of interest. Miss O'Brien and her aids were equal to the demand, and on Twelfth Night a feast of music and song greeted a crowded house. Miss O'Brien is late of Littledale, and city folk who had the pleasure of hearing her sweet cultured voice and saw her act in those beautiful dramas brought out by the pupils of that Academy of high educational attainments, know what a treat was in store for those present on the occasion of the first concert at Tor's Cove. Several choruses with piano accompaniment, were rendered with splendid effect, and the audience was captivated from the start. Select solos, of the latest and best were given, Miss O'Brien playing her own accompaniments. Instrumental pieces were thrown in all charming and rapturous. She also gave stirring recitations. Father O'Brien helped out the programme with humorous readings and a recital of Shamus O'Brien that roused up the "Irish" present.

The concert lasted nearly two hours and held rapt attention throughout. The hearty applause that followed every piece assured the performers their efforts were a splendid success. People usually get tired of concerts after an hour or so, but that was not the way this time. Everyone wanted more of it, and were anxiously enquiring if they would have another soon.

Father O'Brien, who is not interested in the spiritual welfare only of his people, but also in their temporal and social, spoke at length at the close. He thanked the singers and said they should feel proud of their efforts. He thanked the audience for the fine attendance and gratifying encouragement; those who catered so liberally and assisted so attentively at the tables and contributed so much to make the time so enjoyable; the young men who were so prompt and active in putting everything in order and looking after the comforts of the audience. He dwelt on the refining and elevating influence of music and song on the characters of the young, and as a source of genuine pleasure to the old. He noted that gatherings of this kind had many social advantages in smoothing the rugged ways of life, by bringing people into friendly intercourse and brightening lives made monotonous by toil and dull by environment. Education was marching space and its advantages were becoming recognized by those of less favorable opportunities and must tend to arouse the aspirations of the young to higher attainments in this age of progress, and spur and encourage parents to give more attention to the advancement of their children. We had, he said, in this Parish of less than 700 people, four schools, of which one was a High School and four teachers of whom three held first grade. He expressed the hope that the Holy Name Society would soon be able to see its way to start an up-to-date hall in connection with the school. (If Fr. O'Brien says there must be a hall, then it goes up.)

Tor's Cove, he said, has a picturesque situation and with the train running so near it must become a favorite resort for tourist and holiday seekers. The people, he knew, understood this and were alive to the needs of the times and their own advancement. He did not promise a dance, but that now he thought it would be a fitting finale for the joyous season made memorable by the pleasurable association of to-night. After singing "God Save the King" in magnificent style, the concert was brought to a close. The hall was cleared, seats removed, when about 150 of the gay young people returned to best time to sweet music on the "light fantastic," and the boys and girls of Tor's Cove can do it. They are up in all that Terpsichore ever taught; and only require a few tips from a professional to perfect them in the intricacies of the art. Miss O'Brien may give them a few capers in this also for the next occasion.

The following took part in the concert: Miss Annie O'Brien; Misses Maggie Fortune (teacher High School); Alice Power, Ellen Nagle, Clara Dunphy, Maggie Driscoll, Lizzie Driscoll, Nellie Driscoll, Mollie O'Keefe (musician); Messrs. M. Power, Albert Rosayne, Martin Rosayne, Jno. Connolly, Hillary Driscoll.—Com.

Good Resolutions.

At 8 o'clock on New Year's Day, I heard Bill Wax, my neighbor, say: "This year will see me leave the hole in which I've long immersed my soul; that hole is Debt, and from its depths I'll drag myself, this time for keeps. My bank account must be enlarged; I'll buy no goods and have them charged; collectors won't be on my track, nor balliffs camped around my shack. I'll cut out portehouse and pie, and pay for everything. I buy, and when the year is growing gray I'll have a bundle put away. This vow I surely won't forget—I'm bound to take a fall from Debt!" For many years on New Year's Day old William Wax has talked this way; he's asked the gods to witness vows as rigid as the law allows, and for two weeks or maybe three old Bill's as righteous as can be. And then he sees a watch or gun he needs so bad! He has no mon, and so he has the blamed thing chalked; and then, such weary roads he's walked, he buys a horse to rest his frame, and gives his note—the same old game; and when the year is growing old the merchants clamor for their gold, and Bill's afraid to go out doors to be run down by creditors. Alas for Bill! Alas for all who have their backs against the wall, their noses on the grinding stone, because they can't let debt alone!

Bellaventure From Sydney

The S. S. Bellaventure, Capt. Cross, arrived from Sydney yesterday afternoon with a cargo of coal for A. J. Harvey & Co. The ship made a quick run to Cape Race, passing there twenty-eight hours after leaving Sydney, but despite this the entire trip took forty-five hours. On Wednesday night a storm came on rendering it almost impossible for the steamer to make progress. The wind increased in violence and the ship received a bad drubbing but avoided mishap. Yesterday morning a strong S. E. gale accompanied by snow and frost prevailed that coated the deck of the ship with ice.

The Bellaventure had been chartered for several trips by the Dominion Coal Company. After unloading her present cargo she will lay up and be put in readiness for the sealing voyage.
