CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.

Bronchitis is an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the bronchial tubes, and is one of the most common of the pulmonary affections. Chronic Bronchitis more often occurs later in life. When a cold settles on the lungs, the disease either ends in bronchitis or pneumonia. If it ends in bronchitis or pneumonia. If it ends in bronchitis it usually passes off as a cold on the chest, and still the patient does not feel entirely well. He feels the patient does not feel entirely well. He feels the patient does not feel entirely well. He feels the patient of exercise, and experience a shortness of breath, with more or less warmth is the palms of his hands. Soon after this a cough appears, accompanied by an expectoration of thick mucous, followed by a hectic flush, loss of flesh and strength, and night sweats continue, when the patient assumes all the appearance of having a genuine case of consumption. But this is simply catarrh of the ungs, or chronic bronchitis.

In the fater stages of the disease the mucous membrane of the larger bronchial tube softens, while in the sm ller tubes and air cells of the lungs the mucous membrane becomes congested and inflamed. There are no cavities nor tubercles in the langs, but merely a wasting away of the larger bronchial tubes, and death takes place from obstruction of the bronchial tubes and air-cells of the lungs. The patient dies from exhaustion and suffocation, being unable to expectorate the mucous which accumulates in the passage leading to the lungs, which in some cases is sticky and small in quantity, but more common copious, of a light straw or yellowish grees. Oftentimes streaks of blood make their appearance in the mucous, and at times there is a disagreeable smell. Persons thus afflicted are very liable to take a cold at which time the mucous bemse clear and frothy, and it is not uncommonly the case that the patient dies in one of these at tacks.

Inhalatio is are applicable in all diseases of the ees can be cured by this mode of treatment when hing else can reach them.

FREAT WESTERN RAILWAY REPORT way directors for the half year ending on the 31st January last we find the following statement of the percentage of falling off in the traffic receipts of the roads below it named, caused by the war of rates:

Southern 19

The agure for the New York Centra for the year ending 30th September, 1881, the war of rates; for the Great Western, way managers have seen the importance of this by the efforts made in congress and in the New York legislature. Of course they know that congress and the legislature are as the putty in their hands at present, but they do not want to stir up the power behind the throne." This is certainly important, if true; and there are indications of various kinds and in various quarters which go to confirm it. In the Great Western official report the directors say that the loss of the company from the war of rates cannot be put at less than the loss of congress, but also the temper of both houses on this question. As we mentioned at the time the house was so eager to get to work at the second bill, that by a large majority the rules were suspended, so that the bill might be put through at railway/speed. The temper of the senate with regard to it may be seen in the following from the Washington despatches of the New York Tribune, which go to confirm it. In the Great Western official report the directors say that the loss of the company from the war of rates cannot be put at less than the legislature are per of both houses on this question. As we mentioned at the time the house was so eager to get to work at the second bill, that by a large majority the rules were suspended, so that the bill might be put through at railway/speed. The temper of the outset, it must be carefully borne in mind that the idea of an immediate lease of the dompany's property, by which both parties to it would be at once bound, is one thing; the proposal that this company shall now agree to lease its undertaking at a future day to the form the offer may be expected to assume should it ever be made, and your directors have no hesitation advice respecting it.

At the outset, it must be carefully borne in mind that the idea of an immediate lease of the dompany's property, by which both parties to it would be at once bound, is one thing it is opposed to an immediate lease of the dompany is advice respecting it.

At the outset, it must be carefully borne in say that the loss of the company from the war of rates cannot be put at less than £120,000 sterling, or say six hundred thus and dollars. During the half year, the number of passengers carried was 143,993 number of passengers carried was 143, and dollars. During the half year before normally passengers carried was 143,993 more than for the corresponing half-year before, or 20 per cent increase; and the freight was 176,578 tons more, an increase of 15 per cent. But for the 'war,' therefore, the increased buiness actually done would have brought a large increase of receipts as well. The statements made place the beginning of 'war' in the middle of June, I881. Should the 'war' really come to an end now, as indicated by recent reports from over the border, Great Western shareholders may regret that during a temporary depression they allowed themselves to be frightened into fusion.

But for the six hundred thousand dollars lost in the war of rates there would have been a net increase of over would have been a net increase of over eighty thousand pounds, or four hundred thousand dollars. The report says:

"The average rates of freight received for the carriage of through traffic have been that it exceeded the limits of our rights under the treaty. The interpretation of the propositions to amend this section were voted down."

task in justifying his redistribution bill. It raised that country to the highest pinacle has a confession-of-weakess air about it. It appears to be in the interest of conservatives, and what is worse, it is in the interest of conservatives at the expense of reformers. It is tricky in its details and unworthy of a statesman. Sufely it were possible to add five new ridings without disturbing the political complexion of fifty. It sets shows any signs of being disposed to find the responsibility which must attach to the conduct of a policy their experience of the company's affairs obliges them unreservedly to condemn. There is a significant phrase in Sir H. Tyler's speech in connection with this question of a possible new Great Western board, which, taken in conjunction with the time selected for renewing the agitation, the extrathe political complexion of fifty. Still, economy and good management must have counted for good management must have counted for protesting against the injustice shown Ca- tain income. But at present there is no tholics in New York state in the matter of Catholic chaplains being denied to the state reformatories and charities.

By way of contrast the correspondent goes on to show how Catholics are treated short of the amount required to pay the in Ontario. He says they stand in this province to day "with every reansonable right and claim of ours conceded generously

General Arthur can consistently vete upon the ground taken in his message on the subject. The suspension of Chinese immigration for ten years is quite within the scope of the treaty, and the bill cannot be rejected for the reasons previously assigned. In point of fact congress has kept legisla.

In connection with the war of rates some importance may attach to the statement made by a commercial correspondent, writing from Philadelphia, which we quoted yesterday, and part of which we will here rejeat. He says: "influences have been privately brought to bear on the railway an horities to have no more railway wars, to fix on rates and keep them. The railway managers have seen the importance of the power to suspend permission to any chinaman of whatever occupation to enter the country, it has not enjoined the importance of the press and the public appear to have the public appear to have the public appear to have the public appear willing to take it, is quite another.

The lease of this company's property,

The position of the Great Western, as may be gathered from the accounts now submitted, and the remarks of the directors in sections 3 and 4 of this report, is not such that the proprietors are under any necessity to lease their property. There was a time, indeed, and not so far distant, when the shareholders might have been excused for doubting if the company could ever again stand alone; but the experience of the last six months has proved that evils greater than any the company had previously to contend with, have failed to shake its credit in the slightest. During the former war of rates, which lasted but a comparatively short time, the company earned paratively short time, the company earned no dividend, either for its ordinary or its preference shares, and was unable out of revenue to meet its debenture interest in tull. As a consequence the value of the debenture stock fell to 30 dis and inevitable estrangement of the others.

At the same time it would be equally unnestion of such an offer.
The offer of the Grand Trunk, if it can be so regarded, is of quite another character.

To state it is to condemn it. The Great Western is asked to agree to-day to lease its road in a year or two, supposing the Dominion government meanwhile to sanction, and the Grand Trunk to feel disposed then to ratify, the arrangement; in other words, to give the Grand Trunk a valuable option, over an indefinite period, without the semblance of an equivalent therefor. And, meantime, what would be the condition of the Great Western? It would have sold its independence without would have sold its independence without receiving payment for it; it would be estranged from and mistrusted by those with whom it does its main business and from whom it derives the bulk of its income; it would have to annul—and herein probably lies the whole secret of its renewed activation, the arrangements referred to its agitation—the arrangements referred to in a previous section with the Ontario and Quebec, and, so far from getting aid from the Grand Trunk, it would of necessity be the policy of that company to starve the Great Western that they might eventually secure it on terms very different to those now so ostentatiously paraded.

It is impossible to believe that the share-holders will for a moment seriously contemplate taking so hazardous a step as the acceptance of this proposition; but should they, on full consideration, determine to incur the risks and face the dangers pointed out, the directors must ask to be relieved

Grand Trunk and the agitators, should be well considered by the proprietors. He says that he can only carry out his plan in conjunction with a "friendly board" at the G.eat Western. It need only be mentioned to ensure conviction that a board friendly to the Grand Trunk on the question of the acceptance of the above proposition means one unfriendly to the Great Western. It is not to be inferred that any body of genlemen would deliberately take office pledged shareholder, seeks the suffrages of the proprietors, has publicly declared withou waiting to hear the converse of the proposi-tion, that the offer of the Grand Trunk ought to be accepted at once.

(From the G. W.R. Oficial Report.) Iu the directors' report for the half-year ended the 31st January, 1881, the at ention of the shareholders was called to the charter obtained by independent parties for

It is beyond question that a through line, composed of the Canadian Pacific, the Ontario and Quebec, the Great Western, and its old ally the Michigan Central, would divide the large and increasing tarffic between Chicago and the Canadian seaboard. The directors of the Ontario and Quebec convents and those connected with, and The directors of the Ontario and Quebe company, and those connected with, and interested in the development of this through route, have been in negotiation with the board of this company, and provisional agreements are now being formulated, which, at the proper time, will be submitted to the shareholders for their approvements.

But that which is most noticeable is that the debenture stock has commanded a considerable premium the part of Goethe, in which he behaved has commanded a considerable premium during the whole time, speaking volumes for the credit of the company and for the policy of the directors. In short, the Great Western controlling a large local business and occupying a central position in connection with three of the five trunk lines, dividing the business between Chicago and the Atlantic seaboard, is well able to maintain it independence. Indeed, it would be most unwise for it to link its fortunes absolutely to any one of these companies, unless guaranteed by such ally against the loss that would of necessity arise from the natural and inevitable estrangement of the others.

The men ask the same wages they had when then quit last fall, but the bosses want them to work 25 cents a day less, although the cost of living is much higher for everything now than then. Mr. Pullman claims that bricks can be brought from Ohio and sold here cheaper than they can be made at our prices. We have figures to prove that each machine used in the yard clears $30 a day, at our prices, for the owner, and allows brick to be sold at $8 a thousand. We therefore want all brick laborers to allows brick to be sold at $8 a thousand. We therefore want all brick laborers to keep away until the present difficulty is settled, and the bosses offer to pay just wages. That is all we ask, and we are sure to succeed. scheme has been applied by Sir John A. Macdonald and his advising tools at Ottawa, I have no hesitation in saying that the scheme is alike disgraceful and unjust to the people who are to suffer by it. I will presently give a few instances to which I refer. If a government cannot defeat its opponents at the polls on the public questions of the day by fair means it is a most unpatriotic, (and to use a strong expression) a mean and contemptible trick—to detach a tory township from a foreign county and annex it to a reform township of another county, manifestly done to set aside the voice of public opinion in the latter. Patriotism (apart from low partizan political manoeuvres) would allow the counties of this province (Intario) to speak their sentiments on the syndicate of the Northwest and the boundary award—now attempted to be set aside at Ottawa. Then if the government does this (should Mr. Blake get into power in 1883) why may not his government again cut up the ridings to suit new political purposes? This is the evil of the matter. One precedent may be followed by another government. Where is the evil to end? If the national policy, which as a rule you and I certainly support, is to be upheld at the cost of corrupting public legislation by political maneuvres—then let it go?—we cannot afford to see our country ruined and corrupted to support the national policy and to keep in power political tricksters at Ottawa. the national policy and to keep in power political tricksters at Ottawa.
