SECOND EDITION. THE GRAY HORSE STORY.

A CHICAGO MAN TELLS WHAT HE SAW ON THE NIGHT OF MAY 4.

He stood in a doorway opposite the County House, and saw Dr. Cronin enter a carriage drawn by a gray horse. He saw four other gray horses, and the driver of each of them, in fact, saw every detail of the scene. He admitted that the man was between him and an electric light, and that the rays on the hour cast a shadow, which might have darkened the horse's legs. He was in a room, but he could not see the building he was in, with the exception of a sign in connection with the name of the street.

There was a suspicion among the state's attorneys that Mr. Budenbender might conclude to return home in a hurry unless served with a legal notice to stay. An investigation of his record, which was carried on to-day with a good deal of industry and energy, brought to light great many facts that will be of service to the state inasmuch as they show the principal point, however, has been furnished by a friend of his only a day or two before he left here. He claimed then that he was leaving Cronin's saloon about 7:15 o'clock, instead of Jacob's cigar store, and that he saw a white horse while he was standing on the sidewalk. Luther Lavin Mills, who remained out of court all afternoon to personally direct the investigation, declined to say anything as to whether or not he distinguished human hair from any other, or to determine by microscopical examination whether two specimens of hair come from the same head. Then he took a close range shot at Prof. Tolman's sensational statement about the fact that was found in the blood at the out-look. Prof. Tolman testified that this hair was found only on the human face. Dr. Ewell was certain that it is found on many low animals. He also contradicted Tolman's claim that the examination of 28 blood corpuscles would enable an expert to determine that it was human blood. Dr. Harold N. Meyer, an expert physician, testified to nearly the same fact. In addition, he answered a few questions concerning the cause of death. Judge Wing reviewed the hypothetical questions embracing all the main facts set forth in the report of the physicians who conducted the autopsy on Dr. Cronin's body. The doctor said that there was nothing in the question that indicated in his mind the cause of death, but he changed his mind a minute later when Mr. Haynes asked him if the violence of the blows that produced the wounds on the forehead could not cause death. Prof. Lester Curtis also went into the intricacies of blood corpuscles and similar things, and then, like Dr. Meyer, in answer to Judge Wing's hypothetical question, he replied that he could see no cause for death. Mr. Hynes, who has made the subject of medical jurisprudence a life-long study, led the professor a merry chase over ground that was so remote from the average intellect that few persons understood a word of it. The professor, however, was at last forced to admit that the wounds on Dr. Cronin's head might have caused death.

It is the evident intention of all the lawyers to keep their clients off the witness stand. Beggs is not liable to tell his story, for the action of his attorney in proving the good things he said and did before the grand jury by the testimony of Judge Longuecker and Chief Hubbard renders his appearance on the stand unnecessary.

At Chubb's corner today Mr. W. A. Lockhart sold sixty lots of Hamilton No. 6 per cent bonds $100 each due Sept 17, 1890, at 1 per cent premium. Mr. E. C. Knowles being the purchaser, he also offered a lot 50x100 on Charlotte street, Carlton. Protest against the sale was made by John McDonald through his solicitor A. W. Baird. The property was purchased by Mr. H. J. Olive for $165. A 50x100 foot lot on Tower street Carlton was sold to Alderman Vincent for $40. Mr. Lockhart also disposed of a lot and three story house on Brunel street, Edin and Meloy being the purchaser at $450.

Mr. T. B. Hamilton sold 200 acres of land, situated in Westmorland county 12 1/2 miles from Pictouville to Mr. Carr for $55.

Mr. J. B. Hamilton sold 200 acres of land, situated in Westmorland county, an engine house on Charlotte street, recently occupied as a club room by the 62 Fusiliers together with the 50x100 lot on which it stands was sold by Mr. Hamilton to D. R. Jack for $2,200.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

New York, Nov. 23.—The following special cable despatch has been received at the Police Gazette office from George W. Atkinson, of the Sporting Life, London.

Toff Wall, the middle-weight champion of England, and Bill Goode, who recently fought Slavin, the Australian champion, met at the Pelican club to-day to arrange a match.

A long discussion ensued between the pugilists and backers, which ended in the Pelican club offering the pugilists £250 to fight for, £200 to the winner, and £50 to the loser. These terms were accepted and articles of agreement were signed for the men to fight in the Pelican club in February.

AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY. The Acadia Pottery Company at Crowville.

The Acadia Pottery Company purchased the extensive Pottery buildings and plant at Crowville some months ago, and now have them in full operation. A Gazette reporter visited the works yesterday in company with the manager and was there introduced to Mr. John Cunningham, superintendent of the manufacturing department of the business.

The Pottery is situated on the corner of the Red Head and Crowville roads, right on to a fine deposit of red clay which is quite extensively used in the manufacture of different lines of ware. The building, which is in the form of an ell, and respectively one, two and three stories high, covers a ground area of over 100 feet in length by about 40 in width.

The lower floor of the building at one end is used for handling the clay in its first stage of manufacture, and at the other for kilns and for packing and shipping the finished goods. The buildings are well arranged and equipped with a fair quantity of labor saving machinery to which it is the intention of the company to add immediately, all the very latest appliances.

The work of the potter is quite interesting. The clay after it has been dug out of the bank is first "slipped" that is washed. It is first placed in a wooden trough where it is thoroughly saturated with water and afterwards strained through a fine sieve into a pan or slip-kin where the surplus water is evaporated and the clay left at a consistency at which it can be easily worked. After it has been "slipped" the clay is taken to log mills and there thoroughly ground and mixed. All impurities or hard lumps have by this time been removed and the clay is ready for "wedging" which simply means its turning over and over on a flat table until it is ready for use.

Supposing it is intended to make any thing of a circular form the clay is weighed and then handed to the potter who places it upon the flat dice of the wheel. A boy turns the crank and in a short space of time the unsightly lump of clay thrown on the wheel has under the deft work of the potter's fingers been formed into a jar, a crock, a jug or some similar shape.

Goods that are oval in shape are formed in moulds. The slip is first worked out into a flat strip and then laid over the mould and by the potter's hands worked into the proper shape. It is then allowed to dry sufficiently to enable it to be lifted from the mould without breaking.

The pots and such articles are stamped in moulds made for the purpose and are known to the trade as bookbinding ware. These are the three processes which all articles of clay pass before they are made for the oven.

They are afterwards slipped or dropped in a liquid which when they are burned lightens over glasses them. A peculiar feature of this glass is that the cream colored material used on the inside of crocks is white before it is burned, that for the outside is a bright red which under the influence of the heat is rendered perfectly colorless. All articles made of clay are slipped before burning, to render them more durable, and to prevent water from soaking through. Bardsle is a class of ware that is being made from different colors of clay and looks exceptionally neat. It is extensively used in the manufacture of pie plates and dishes for use in the oven.

After the ware is dried so as to be easily handled it is piled into the kiln and burned until it is perfectly hard. There are two kilns in the pottery.

In addition to the different wares mentioned the Acadia Pottery company make several designs of tobacco pipes, including the famous Woodstock.

THE EVENING GAZETTE, ST. JOHN, N. B.

WHEN I AM DEAD, When I am dead, my sweet, Sing no sad songs for me...

THE GENI OF THE MINE.

The claimant to peculiar respect on the score of sanctity of life varies in various lands, or for that matter, in any habitat.

He walked conscientiously on high levels of life. His fame for charity was just, and I at least have never been able, since the occurrence of this event, to propose to relate, to hold that the wild hill men of Annapolis were wholly mistaken in calling Mung Ko a seer as well as a priest.

In the retrospect it seems to me that my energies suddenly flagged as I stepped into a stupor of despair. Surely there was excuse. But at the weary day were on my faculties required their edge.

With much of the gambler's recklessness and fever I cried aloud at intervals a full score of times. The silence remained unbroken. But a queer presentiment seized my mind.

"Thanks," I answered, "but my ankle is twisted. How will you get me out of this?" Mung Ko was not a man of unnecessary words. For reply he drew aside, with his arm, a bush immediately to my right.

ABOUT THE JACK RABBIT.

TROUBLES ENCOUNTERED BY PROMOTERS OF COURSEING EVENTS.

Pettie Attempts to Catch the Speedy Little Animal—A Rabbit Farm Established to Obviate the Difficulty—A Successful Scheme at Last Perfected.

Jack rabbits may be said to be found now nearly altogether west of the Missouri river. They were lately numerous on the town site of Kansas City, but have now grown comparatively scarce there, and also at Omaha, although they are still often seen on the prairies near the latter city.

The fact is, it is no easy matter to capture a live jack rabbit. Plenty of people say they can catch them, and think they can catch them, but when it comes right down to business the results do not warrant the assertion.

At starting the projector of this rabbit farm had only about thirty jack rabbits, which had for the most part been purchased from some of the old-time breeders who had found them. In one year, owing to accretions from similar sources, the number had increased to about 100.

It was thought that if the coyotes could be gotten inside the courting track, they could be driven into the pens at the other end without trouble. An effort was made to drive them into the track, but they proved obstinate as ever, and only a few could be handled in that way.

The way finally adopted as most successful was to set a little covered pitfall, with a tip up, on the outer edge of the track fence. The hare has a habit of running along a fence, and it was found they made a sort of path along both sides of the course. In this the tip traps were set. A hare steps on the tip of the trap and down he goes.

Mr. Girvan has been cashier of the bank since February 1892. Johnham Clouston, at present accountant, will succeed Mr. Girvan as cashier, and B. C. Barclay Boyd will be promoted to Mr. Clouston's place. There will be an advance in the position of the junior.

I. O. F.—Court Loyalist. I. O. F. of the North end, last evening paid a fraternal visit to Court Frederick of the West end. The attendance of members of both Courts was not large, owing to the inclemency of the weather and other causes. Addresses appropriate to the occasion were made by Messrs. W. J. Myles, T. F. Grayville, K. J. Pratt, Andrews, Lee and Kemp, of Court Loyalist, and E. Ross, C. E. Belyea, and C. E. Colburn of Court Frederick.

YOUNG LADIES.—Immigration agent Gardiner has received 162 immigrant children here this year, over one hundred of them being boys, and none being over 15 years of age. They were principally from Glasgow and Edinburgh and vicinity, and have been sent to all parts of the province. As our farmers get better of the demand for boys and girls increases, and Mr. Gardiner is unable to get half enough boys or girls from the old countries to supply the demand.

AVA NOW THE FINEST TEA.—"The last of the Mohicans" sat doing on the steps of the Bank of Montreal. The last of the Mohicans' active was not a garment of fine linen and purple, but the more noticeable features consisted of a pair of army boots and a white plug hat. The pride of America was lost in a silent contemplation of vacancy when one of the little carrier boys from the telegraph office adjacent touched him on the nose with a straw. The Mohican heard no word but he evinced a desire for revenge. Again the straw was waved over his nose. This time the reflection was a sad one, but the Mohican could not move. Not even a glimmer passed over his once noble countenance, now marked by age and tobacco juice. The last of the Mohican's was dead.—Frank.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT OUR SUPPLIES.

Enterprising Merchants Who Appreciate a Good Thing When It is Offered.

JOHN MACKAY.

There is something intrinsically Oriental in the appearance of the store of Mr. John Mackay, at 109 Prince William street, and visitors from the country who chance to pass that way are apt to regard it with a good deal of curious attention. One of the windows is shaded by a curtain on which is painted in the colors a very pleasing view of a Chinese tea plantation, while on the other the harbor of Yokohama with its curious boats attract the notice of pedestrians. Within the store nearly all the articles of use and ornament are of Eastern manufacture or pattern. This is the office, sample and warehouse of Mr. John Mackay, who, after an experience of several years in New York and Boston, engaged as a traveler with Hyde and Sutherland, who had some of the largest tea importers in the East, purchased over two years ago the premises in the Boes building as a warehouse. The stock now carried by Mr. Mackay averages about 3000 chests and half chests of about 100 different brands, so arranged that they may be sampled on brief notice at the Prince William street office. Mr. Mackay carries several brands of tea, which have gained great popularity in the Maritime Provinces, two of which are the Elephant Chop Oolong and a Formosa Oolong of the sale of which he has the exclusive control. Within a few weeks and before the recent advance, Mr. Mackay has purchased over two thousand half chests of tea, a portion of which is now en route from London and the balance on storj at that place. About two years ago Mr. Mackay bought out Chas. & Sanborn's interest in the tea trade of the maritime provinces a stock valued at about $6000. Last year his sales amounted to 8042 packages of tea and this year they are likely to exceed 12,000. Mr. Mackay's customers embrace many of the principal merchants in P. E. Island, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and many in the New England states.

Since the first of October Mr. Mackay has imported 125 2 1/2 lb tins of Chas. & Sanborn's coffee, in which he is a large dealer, and one fourth of all that that firm has shipped to this province.

Of the tea trade, Mr. Mackay says: "The tea business is a study in itself, and as I devote my whole time to this particular branch I can give better values than most of my competitors. Having spent six years with the largest Tea House in Massachusetts, and when there having learned the value of all grades of Tea, I am prepared to place my values against any in the market."

The trade here but to inspect the stock of Messrs. White & Titus, wholesale grocers, to be convinced of his careful selection. Their place of business, as everyone knows, is on the North Wharf, where they are now offering at lowest prices fine lines of tea, coffee, sugars, spices, and general groceries. Messrs. White & Titus have been long established, and the names a guarantee for the stock they carry. Always the best, and always complete their special lines should attract the attention of those wishing to purchase. With canned goods they are well supplied, and are prepared to furnish any quantity at "wholesale" prices to the retail dealers. Early inspection is solicited.

been before the public as cigar manufacturers for a number of years and the extended patronage with which they have been favored, speaks with more force than any words uttered through the press. Theirs is not merely a local trade nor does it confine itself to the Dominion, but extends over many parts of the United States and even to British Columbia.

Special brands of their make—such as "Spanish Dominion," and "The Bell Cigar" are household words with all lovers of the weed, and are fully up to the public taste. Other brands, perhaps not so well known as favorably known, issue from the factory of Messrs. Bell & Higgins, and every cigar is what it is guaranteed to be.

Properly here has been the result of energy and a practical knowledge of how best to serve the public interest.

MASCHETTER, ROBERTSON & ALLISON.

It needs no reporter's band to direct one to the establishment of Messrs. Manchester, Robertson & Allison—an establishment equipped in every way with the necessities of this luxurious age, and it would be just as superfluous to attempt an enumeration of their hundred and one different departments.

Strangers to the city have not completed their sight-seeing until they have visited the establishment of Messrs. Manchester, Robertson & Allison, and to be admired, and even the sterner sex cannot fail to be interested in what is perhaps the most extensive business house in St. John.

A wholesale and retail customer, either as a whole or so with despatch and courtesy, while orders from abroad receive the same consideration as local orders.

With this firm it is unity and consistency which marks their progressive march.

THE DIAMOND BUTTON
FROM THE DIARY OF A LAWYER AND THE NOTE
BOOK OF A REPORTER.
By BARCLAY NORTH.

Summary of Preceding Chapters.
A Mr. Templeton is murdered on Union Square New York at midnight. A stranger named Verling and a lawyer named Holbrook witness the murder. Holbrook sees the murderer throw away an overcoat and later picks up a diamond button which was not the property of the murdered man. Bryan, a reporter, and Holbrook, who chooses the attorney to settle the Templeton's estate, take up the case. After a conversation with Mrs. Fountain, Bryan and Holbrook suspect Harry Four-

CHAPTER XXXI.
THE SENSATIONS ACCUMULATE.
OM knew that the cry of joy Holbrook had uttered meant that news of Annie had been received. Just what he didn't know, but that the messenger who had brought the information would be valuable to them he quickly appreciated.
He hastened after the lead, and as he reached the head of the stairs he heard the pattering of bare feet several flights below, going at a rapid rate of speed.
He called to him, but the owner of the pattering feet took no heed of his call, attempting to follow him, he hesitated and returned to Holbrook's office.
As he passed the door of the elevator shaft, it opened to charge a man who recognized the man who had watched them in Lexington avenue and who was in the same car with the Shadow, and to him Tom gave a sign to follow.
As he entered the office again he met Holbrook going out.
"Where are you going?" he asked.
"Going to help Annie," he replied.
"Where she would I be going?"
This reply was made in a tone of the utmost contempt.
"Wait a moment. I want to have a moment's conversation with you."
"Perhaps," replied Tom, "but I am particularly busy today, and I am not in a condition to be responsible for my acts."
