THE VILLAGE SHOULD HUSTLE

A Sentinel Writer Reports an Interview With Outsider.

The following article is by "Jeremiah", the Hartland correspondent of the Sentinel. The criticism of the village is none too sharp and the OBSERVER is glad to give it further publicity:

"I met an old time Carletonian on the street the other day, and he expressed surprise at finding Hartland after an absence of a good many years so little advanced along industrial lines. 'Why,' he said, 'you people are too slow; you need something to put life and energy into your town. You want something in the way of manufacturing industries to attract an influx of the industrial classes. I believe the fact that you have nothing of that class in your town is due more to a lack of public spirit on the part of your monied men than to anything else. Your location is good, your transportation facilities are good and promise to be better. Towns that are booming and are holding their people and keeping them prosperous and contented owe such to a local capital put up by citizens who believe in their town and are determined to make things go. This spirit is what produces up-to-date hustling hives of industry such as are to be found in many towns far inferior, in location and natural resources, to Hartland. In the West we would call this place a 'hog town', nothing less. I have been chasing about to make a location and go into business but there is no show here. You have stores galore, and every merchant, professional man, and gentleman you meet is dabbling into some side issue, insurance and real estate, every family has its J. P. and issuer of marriage licenses so that the whole thing is so completely 'hogged' that there is nothing doing unless some new branch is opened and it is next to impossible to interest local capital in any industry that might be proposed. That man, highly writing in the Observer is hitting pretty near the mark, and may be able to agitate some business venture that will bring to the town anywhere from twenty to one hundred families. Start that old Wood Working Factory as an opening and from that branch out, make the town come to its proper business standard, and every citizen would feel the influence and begin to boom. Get a rustle on and follow up Bigby's line of agitation and you'll soon be to the point where definite action cannot be avoided. Then you'll have a town and a growing, living town."

When you come to think over it you'll agree that this "stranger within our gates" has just about taken our size.

West Side Notes

Nothing much doing over here in these days, when mud and maple honey flow so freely.

H. C. Cochrane came home from his Boston trip last Thursday.

There is some talk of Jos. York selling his farm and going to live in Florenceville.

Chas. Hurst of the Hartland Poultry Yards was in Victoria one day last week, setting up a two hundred egg Chatham Incubator for Carey Baker. This looks as if we were going into some poultry.

Mrs. S. W. Shaw was in Woodstock over Sunday as the guest of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Archer at the R. B. Parsonage.

C. M. Shaw is at the Hartland Department Store during the big sale that is now on there.

The young people of the West Side enjoyed one of their regulation good times at the Dickinson home on last Tuesday night. This function was in the nature of a farewell to James, who left for the west later in the week.

Miss Maggie McAfee left for her home last week. She has been on the West Side for a year but will not return.

About 30 million is the estimated cut of lumber on the Tobique this season, a greater amount than last year.

LEGISLATURE

Fredericton, April 10

Mr. A. R. Wetmore has been provincial engineer of New Brunswick for a number of years. He has served under both governments and has enjoyed a reputation as a careful and competent man to be in charge of the public works of the province. But under the Hazen administration, apparently, Mr. Wetmore's decisions, based upon his knowledge of engineering work, are not always allowed to determine important points in regard to bridges and other public works. Take the case of the Chipman Bridge for instance. This bridge has already cost the province about $32,000 and there are some small accounts yet to be paid.

In the Public Accounts Committee the other day Engineer Wetmore was questioned in regard to the site and the cost of this structure. He was asked to produce any report he had made as to the site on which the bridge should be built and when his report was read it was found that he had recommended one site but that the bridge was erected on a different site altogether, one which his report said was not as good for several reasons as the one which he recommended. The "inside story" as to the reason for overriding the engineer's decision has yet to be made public.

In his report Mr. Wetmore estimated the cost of the bridge on its present site as a little more than $28,000. He estimated the cost of the bridge on the site he recommended at $20,000. Government members of the committee made much of the effect that the estimate for the bridge on the site on which it was erected was $2,160 less than the estimate for the bridge on the Wetmore site. Estimates are all very fine but it was shown in the committee that the bridge in reality cost about $4,000 more than was expected, or $2,000 more than the cost of the bridge on the site which the Engineer recommended. Moreover, the site on which the bridge was erected is in close proximity to a level railroad crossing, a crossing which has been declared to be dangerous and against which legislation has been directed by some assemblies of the people's representatives.

It is a remarkable thing that in so important a matter as the selection of a site for a costly permanent bridge the decision of an expert engineer, with years of experience, should be overruled and no good explanation of the overruling given to the public. But Mr. Wetmore has this consolation that he is not the only Hazen government official to be overruled by the cabinet. The Auditor General is very frequently overruled by that trio of ministers, the Treasury Board, whose decisions last year resulted in the unauthorized expenditure of over $105,000 of the people's money.

In 1910 over $8,000 was expended for the clearing and levelling of roads in certain settlement lands in Victoria county, chiefly in the Blide Bell tract. Of course, this $2,000 was not all expended simply for labor. A good deal of it went to the men in charge of the work, some of it for expenses. It was stated before the Public Account Committee by the Surveyor General that more than five miles of road were cleared and levelled. In other words, for about twenty three acres of

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The question of proper lighting is coming to be more vital every day. In the cities there are thousands of workers who do all their work by artificial light, and such places as hotel lobbies, railroad stations, libraries, and the like are now constructed so that artificial lighting is necessary at all hours of the day and night. The importance of preserving the eyes of workers and patrons is therefore brought to the attention of employers and architects with the construction of every new building. The system which stands in highest favor just now is the "concealed light" method, because it saves both light and eyes. It does away with all direct rays and makes a glare impossible. With the source of light hidden much less power is needed to light a given cubic space.

This is fairly familiar, but in this connection certain English reports have brought out a few figures with regard to concealed lighting which are new. For instance, the concealed lighting system of the British museum, which has been found most satisfactory for all purposes, is really only seven one-thousandths as intense as daylight. The light in the woodsack in the house of lords is only six one-thousandths as intense and that of the clerk's desk in the house of commons one twelve-thousandth as intense. This is certainly a cheap enough system, and what is more remarkable universal testimony goes to show that it is pre-eminently satisfactory.

Germany's long suit is education. A close technical training is the knife with which, during the past generation, she has opened her oyster. But one's oyster, as good authority declares, is the world itself—and the world to-day is wider than it was. Germany, having tried open Europe, is preparing to apply the same method to Asia.

According to the dispatches, German capitalists are about to establish a chain of engineering schools in China. Big banks and manufacturers have subscribed liberally to a fund of half a million dollars. This step is taken, evidently, in competition with the Americans and English, who have enjoyed heretofore almost a monopoly in higher instruction in the Orient.

No country has been more successful than modern Germany in welding science and education into a powerful implement for the furthering of worldly success. Her latest action may well awaken new tremors in England and is quite worth watching on the part of the United States.

John C. Dana discusses in The Independent the need of further library expansion and development, particularly larger and closer cooperation between schools and libraries. He notes certain good beginnings—small school libraries, for example—and advocates reading-rooms on the ground-floor of school buildings, rooms which parents, brothers and sisters of the pupils should be encouraged to patronize freely.

This is an excellent suggestion—one of many such. But Mr. Dana goes deeper and farther back, having something to say about the teaching of teachers. He charges the colleges with complete neglect of the art of reading. They complain, he says, very often that their students cannot write English; how about reading, using and enjoying books properly, the acquisition of a proper vocabulary? Speaking of the neglect of the art of reading in the higher schools and colleges, Mr. Dana says:

The result is that the teachers in our public schools, graduates of our high and normal schools, have not been made to read much; have not learned to read well; read very little during their years of teaching; know little about the literature of and for children; think that it is not of great importance that all children, by constant reading, acquire a large reading vocabulary and gain a firm hold of the tool by the use of which alone thought is possible; are indifferent to books and print; and, finally, do not handle efficiently the collections they may have in their classrooms from a public library, and in many cases are not willing to have such collections.

Whether or not this is too severe an indictment we shall not say, but there is surely enough truth in it to require the attention of colleges and normal schools—as well as of parents. Reading is certainly the finest of all arts and the one that brings the most joy and consolation. Reading requires no endowments and has no geographical limitations in this age of cheap classics, cheap periodicals, cheap newspapers, public and private circulating libraries. No person need forego inspiring, refreshing, beautiful literature.

THE PILGRIM'S WANTS.

I want that adorning divine
Thou only, my Lord, canst bestow;
I want in those garments to shine
Which clothe all Thy household below.
I want at this moment to feel
Thy Spirit at work in my heart,
To cleanse and to comfort and heal,
And newness of life to impart.

I want by Thy grace to attain
Some likeness, my Saviour, to Thee;
I earnestly long to obtain
Thy comeliness put upon me.
I want in Thy presence to live,
They seal on my forehead to wear,
That "name on the stone" Thou dost give
Which only Thyself can declare.

I want so in Thee to abide
That fruit may abound to Thy praise;
The branch in which Thou dost preside
May languish but never decay.
I want Thine own hand to unbind
My heart from terrestrial things
Where it is too closely entwined
To that which tenebrously clings.

I want by my aspect serene
In actions and words to declare
That mine is a country unseen:
My heart's best affections are there.

I want, as a pilgrim, to haste,
Straight onward pursuing my way;
No care on the tent would I waste
Which only is pitched for a day.

I want, as the sum of my prayer
For which all the praise shall be given,
On earth in Thy service to share
And then to be with Thee in heaven.

Lord Jesus, Thy presence make known;
While Thee as my Lord I confess:
Thyself in my spirit enthroned,
And then I shall all things possess.

It may be doubted whether any century has seen so extraordinary an advance in the comfort and well-being of the community as the last.—Bishop of Manchester.

On the Farm

WORTH THINKING ABOUT.

If your cows lie on a cement floor without a board covering or deep bedding look out for udder trouble. Some folks say the plow horses ought to be curried every day in the winter and their hair kept short, but Nature does not say so. If you are willing to pay your boy the $30 a month you would have to pay a workman to fill his place, you will not hear so much about the drudgery of life on the farm.

The tree agents are abroad in the land now. All right if you know the houses they represent. But be careful to get a guarantee that will hold.

If the wind blows the mud off the strawberry bed replace it in a hurry.

Scold thoroughly once a week the feeding troughs and drinking vessels for the poultry.

Some college men say horses kept in a stall in the winter do as well as those that have plenty of exercise. Ours never did.

All farm animals get hungry for a change of diet about this time of year. Here is where the roots come in handy.

In localities where there are no live worms or bugs for the hens these days, they must have as a substitute some animal food.

Do not try to stimulate the hens to lay more eggs by feeding pepper or other hot stuff. It is bad business.

Incubators can be set without much trouble, but it takes a mighty careful person to hatch the chicks and then raise them.

Go over the fruit and vegetables in the cellar. Not a pleasant job, but it pays.

ORCHARD NOTES.

If your apple trees are affected with scab, be sure to spray with the boiled lime sulphur mixture just before the buds burst, and always before a rain, because the spores of blight can be carried by the wind to other trees.

Bordeaux mixture is likely to cause russeting of apples on young trees, as it produces excessive development of cork cells in the skin.

The spraying of fruit, which was practically unknown only a few years ago, is now a well-developed science.

No careful grower of fruit allows his trees to come to the bearing stage without spraying them several times during the season. He must understand when to do the spraying and the reason for making the applications to the trees for blight work is of little avail.

When properly sprayed, the fruit comes from the trees in perfect condition, unmarked by any insects or worms. The work is done by small pumps operated by gasoline engines, in the larger orchards. The apparatus is hauled from tree to tree, and an artificial shower started.

TO FATTEEN POULTRY.

The fattening should be done as quickly as possible to insure tenderness. Too much time will make the fat tough as well as the lean portions.

Two weeks at the outside should see the fowl ready for the block. But do not make the mistake of giving too much food at first, or the appetite will be satiated at once, and they will not make the required gain after that.

Begin with what they will clean up three times a day, of corn meal well scalded with boiling milk, and keep whole corn, grit and charcoal before them constantly. Also fresh water. Gradually increase the feed to five times per day, the first meal being very early and the last being very late. Some breeders mix one part of chopped suet to four parts of meal, scald with boiling water and feed four times a day, but fat will be acquired rapidly by the first process.

DISC MANURE UNDER.

Manures and roots of plants are especially useful in controlling soil moisture. Hence crops grow better where manures and grasses are largely used. A heavy coating of coarse manure plowed under in the spring may result unfavorably by separating the furrow slice and subsoil and causing the surface soil to become too dry. It is often better to make lighter applications of manure and to disc it into the surface rather than to plow it under.

FOOD VALUE OF BARLEY.

From the viewpoint of food value barley is said to be ahead of other crops; and compared with bran at $30 a ton, the average yields per acre of food value are: Barley, $13.25; oats, $9.51; wheat, $8.53; flax, $6.35. The Minnesota experiment station says that barley has the advantage over flax for clearing the land of weeds, besides being often fed on the farm at a profit over the market price.

HEALTH

FRESH AIR IN PNEUMONIA.

In talking of pneumonia to people in general, it is necessary to say and repeat many times that pneumonia is not a bad cold run mad, for this conviction appears to be invincibly lodged in the lay mind. Pneumonia is first, last, and all the time an acute local disease of the lungs, which, according to the gravity of the case, become more or less consolidated or choked up. The more of the lung tissue that is thus choked, the less the lungs are able to breathe. The first consequence of this helplessness on the part of the lungs is that the heart—that gallant organ—labors to get enough blood to keep things going, and this is why we see the distressing rapid and shallow breathing so characteristic of the disease.

With all the heart can do it can only pump blood, it cannot oxygenate it—that is the function of the lungs. Presently, therefore, the blood stream becomes more and more impure, owing to lack of oxygen, and in those cases ending in death one of two things happens—either the heart gives out entirely, unable to stand the strain put upon it, or else the system is overcome by toxins, that is to say, by the impurity induced by the lack of oxygenation.

It has long been recognized that what the pneumonia patient needs is oxygen, and we are now sure that this is best supplied by a direct current of fresh air from outside, and that this fresh air should be the basis of all treatment from the very beginning.

Too often has life been lost by a failure to recognize this truth, or by a belief that rushing in canned oxygen at the last moment would effect a cure. There is less pneumonia among country dwellers than among city people. There is less pneumonia among people who ventilate well than among the stuffy.

And there is less pneumonia in the summer than in the winter, because in the summer there is a free circulation of air through all our houses.

The ideal treatment of pneumonia is to carry the patient into the open air and keep him there with proper precautions against wind and weather. But as this cannot always be done, the patient can at least be placed in the largest, sunniest and best ventilated room in the house. If possible, a room with windows on two sides is much to be preferred to one which can be opened only to one point of the compass. By a system of screening, it can always be managed that a direct current of very cold air shall not blow right on the bed, but the air of the room should be constantly renewed and always cool.

Of all "cranks" the "fresh-air crank" is the sanest, and his reward in the pneumonia sick-room is a rich one.—Youth's Companion.

There is a new dainty—a combination weave of silk and cotton called "silk dimit".

Which is Your Choice?

Sloppy, leaky wooden troughs, or clean, durable Concrete?

Wooden drinking troughs are about as reliable as the weather.

They are short-lived and require replacing every few years—not to mention continual patching to keep them in repair.

The best of wood cannot withstand, for long, constant dampness and soaking. Its tendency to rapid decay soon shows itself in leaks and stagnant pools of water around trough.

Contrast with this the durability, cleanliness and well-ordered appearance of Concrete.

Which?

The dampness which destroys lumber only intensifies the strength and hardness of Concrete.

You can impair a wooden trough with comparatively little use; but it takes a powerful explosive to put a Concrete water tank out of business.

Silver fawn is a new color. Coiffure bandeaux are jeweled. Gauntlets, cuffs appear on the smart coats. Diamond shaped panels are seen in braiding.

Draped lace is seen on many evening dresses. Smart toques are fashioned of changeable velvet. A touch of cerise is now being made to dark blue.

Chapeaux are noticeable for the simplicity of trimming. Coats are shorter than ever and button down the centre. The bodies of most evening gowns are out square or pointed. Jet fringe is fashionable for trimming wraps and gowns.

Blue is a color that will be continued into the early spring. Sapphire blue, especially in satin and velvet, will be a favorite in trimming.

Satin and velvet are effectively combined in some of the new stocks and yokes.

The new gingham are considerably lighter in weight than the weaves of past seasons. Plaid combined with plain cloth is an idea used by many of the French designers now.

Lace or velvet flowers are used to trim dresses and hats. A narrow edge of fur outlines each petal. Bowknots of brilliants are smart.

More Basket Ball Criticism

DEAR EDITOR:

The attention of the H. S. S. basket ball team has been drawn to the generous supply of hot air that has been furnished by the Florenceville correspondent to the Sentinel and Observer. The young lady correspondent has shown no small amount of ingenuity in distorting facts.

Let me give a few facts which I challenge Florenceville to deny. The first game was played in Florenceville and won by the F. C. S. with a score of 12-8 and though 13 fouls were called on Hartland in the first half by a referee who did not know the game (as admitted by the Florenceville manager) the Hartland boys took their defeat and said nothing.

At the next game in Hartland the score at the end of the first half was 6-1 in favor of Hartland. And then the referee, A. W. Kyle, did not suit Florenceville. I may say here that this is the only team that has ever kicked against Kyle. They wished to again use the verdant specimen who did the trick for them in Florenceville. Hartland would not agree to this and finally Frank Estabrooks of Florenceville was put on. The official score as kept by Noddis was 9-7 for H. S. S. Miss Saunders, who kept the score for Florenceville, stated to the H. S. S. manager and Kyle after the game that the score was 9-8 for the H. S. S.

But who was this disinterested party? None other than Martell, who came in when the game was under way and who stated to a Hartland player after the game that the score was in Hartland's favor.

This left Hartland and Florenceville with one game each. The H. S. S. team then publicly and privately challenged the F. C. S. to play off on Hartland or on neutral ground with neutral referee, and Florenceville replied that THEY WOULD NOT PLAY, or as the manager stated in his letter "it was entirely out of the question." The Observer, correspondent says F. C. S. will not play lest "adverse and untruthful criticism result." When did Florenceville become so conscientious? Their reason is simply THEY DARE NOT PLAY. The Hartland boys are still ready to back up their challenge.

Just a word in regard to the criticism. It may be taken as a good type of the tactics employed throughout by Florenceville, and contains only 3 distinct falsehoods. The one concerning the score has already been dealt with. Second, the Hall: After taking into consideration the room taken up by the spectators, say two feet (and it was more in the game at Florenceville) there is exclusive of the space occupied by the stove and stage about twice as much floor space in Hartland hall as in Florenceville, and no plaster falling off. Any who were inclined to believe Florenceville's STORY would at once see the untruth of their statement in this respect. Third: Kyle was referee in first half and removed as a result of Florenceville's protest with Hartland.

Now let Florenceville "play up" on the square or "shut up."

ROY STEVENS.

P. S.: To give the visiting team the benefit of the protest the H. S. S. boys asked them to continue to play in the usual way, but they declined, showing they had no hope of winning.

Death of George E. Orser

An honest, kind-hearted and patient resident of San Juan county, passed away at his home on La Plata, at 2 A. M., Feb. 23, 1911.

George E. Orser was stricken with apoplexy just one week prior to his death. Two days after the first stroke, he suffered a second and his entire right side became paralyzed. He was conscious most of the time even to the very last, but during the last two days or so could not speak. He died without a struggle, and sweetly trusting in his Savior, firmly believing that the Prince of Life would awaken him from his sleep with the voice of the Archangel in the Resurrection Morning.

The funeral services were conducted at the home by Elder W. A. T. Miller—Adventist—with a large number of sympathizing friends of the family present.

Mr. Orser was born at Brighton, New Brunswick, and lacked but nine days of being 71 years of age when he fell asleep in Jesus. For forty-six years and some months, he was the loved husband of the woman, who repeatedly asserted that in all those days of wedded life, her heart was not once wounded by a cross word from him. What a record is this!

Her maiden name was Mary J. Shaw. To them were born five boys and two girls. Four sons and one daughter still live.

"Mother" Orser says that she wants all the kind neighbors, who did so much to lighten her burden during the time of her deep sorrow, to know that she and family are sincerely thankful to them for all their generous aid and comfort.—New Mexico Paper.

Pastor's Resignation.

Rev. H. C. Fraser, M. A., of the First Presbyterian church, Grand Falls, has given to his congregation notice of his resignation. Mr. Fraser has been in this church five years—three years as student and two as ordained missionary. It is understood that he will remain a few weeks during April and attend to the organizing of the church and the election of elders, when they will call a man from Halifax Presbytery, thus avoiding any break in the services. It is Mr. Fraser's intention to visit his deceased wife's relatives in Vancouver before again taking up active work. The congregation regret very much the peculiarly sad circumstance which has brought about the young pastor's resignation, but wish him God-speed wherever his lot is cast.

CENTREVILLE.

(Late for last issue.)

We are still anxiously waiting for Mr. Hazen to announce his policy on the St. John Valley Railroad question. A great many are going west from this section, a railroad would stop the exodus. Young men will not stay on farms now when it takes all day long to haul one load of produce to market.

Henry Good has sold his farm, also.

his team and intends going west. Hollie Reid and Herbert Boone left for Vancouver today. Lee Margison left for the same place last Wednesday.

Mrs. Rose Clark is having lumber hauled for a large barn to replace those burned last summer.

S. W. Niles still has the Morgan Horse, "Ned Lambert." He is a fine looking horse and standard bred and deserves patronage.

Dr. H. W. Pepper has bought a new driver. This makes three horses the doctor now has. Business must be rushing.

At the last meeting of the Agricultural Society two members were appointed to go to Fredericton to attend the sale of pure bred stock. They hope to buy some Ayreshire cattle.

The small minded farmers who have been talking against Reciprocity will now change their tune as potatoes have taken a big upward jump on the American side.

A St. John traveler in the village Saturday forgot it was April 1st. and picked up a valuable parcel containing snow.

Died at Woodstock.

W. F. Glidden, the well known horseman, who for a number of years past conducted a livery stable at Woodstock, died last week. Mr. Glidden about two weeks ago fell on the sidewalk and fractured his leg in two places. The deceased gentleman was well and favorably known here.

14-100. A smart, becoming style at remarkably small cost is offered in the large Hat here illustrated, which can be had in any one of the colors on any desired combination of them. If your preference is for burnt straw—always a dressy and mod-trimmed—wide wings and black velvet fringe. It may be your choice, the straw, chignon and wings may all be in this useful shade, or a variation in produced by choosing white wings. The same choice of selection is afforded in other covers, which are black, brown and natural white. In further detail it may be said that the hat has a curved, slightly upturned brim, a wide band of soft folded chiffon insert with a fold of velvet in the centre, large wings stylishly placed at side, and a fold of black velvet. It is made of glossy, even straw braid, and measures about 18 inches from side to side and 16½ inches from front to back. EATON price 3.50

WE PAY FREIGHT ON $25.00 ORDERS IN ONTARIO, QUEBEC AND THE MARITIME PROVINCES (NO EXCEPTIONS)

THE REASON FOR THIS is easily explained—more economy is effected by us in the handling of one large order than with several small ones. For instance, in the filling of a $25.00 order there is less clerical work, less handling, less packing and packing material, less stationery and less cartage. But that's not all. What is really of more importance is the fact that freight charges cost just the same for 100 lbs. as they do for 25 lbs. So that it is easily understood whereby a saving is effected in the filling of a $25.00 order without lessening the high quality that accompanies EATON values.

WE ALSO DELIVER FREE THE FOLLOWING HEAVY GOODS

EVEN IF YOUR ORDER does not amount to $25.00, we deliver free the following heavy goods at the prices quoted in our Catalogue for the different provinces: FURNITURE, HOUSE WARE, SEWING MACHINES, STOVES AND RANGES, FARM MACHINERY, WIRE FENCING, OREAM SEPARATORS, BINDER TWINE, GRAIN BAGS, WAGONS, BUGGIES, PUMPS, GASOLINE ENGINES, MOTOR BOATS AND CANOES.

WARNING TO FARMERS

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association are paying lecturers to go about the country to make the attempt to pull the wool over the farmer's eyes on the reciprocity question. Farmers protect yourselves against this monstrous enemy of yours. The organized manufacturers are the farmers' worst foe.

THE SPEED LIMIT.

The local government is deserving of commendation in limiting the speed of automobiles to 20 miles an hour on country roads, ten miles an hour on village and eight miles an hour on city and town streets. Speed in excess of this will be prima facie evidence of careless driving. The question is, how is one to tell if an auto is travelling 20 or 30 miles an hour? The government should have added a clause compelling the owners of motor vehicles to carry speedometers fore and aft large enough to be read by a person under a waggon by the road-side.

clearing and levelling the province paid over $3,000 or more than $130 an acre. There are a good many men in New Brunswick who would probably be glad to have an opportunity of making $130 per acre for clearing and levelling land.

It may be noted, incidentally, that the timber which was taken off this land, according to the Surveyor General's statement was burned, not used for any purpose of value to the province. On this Victoria county land there must have been a good deal of more or less valuable timber. It is a peculiar policy under which timber is cut down and used for bonfires when it might be put to some useful purpose.

At the sitting of the Public Accounts Committee on last Friday afternoon there were a couple of happenings worthy of some mention. One was the examination of a member of bridge accounts, which showed that in a good many ways, apparently, accounts for work done in 1909 were held over and not paid until 1910, thus improving on the surface, the showing of the province for 1909 as regards expenditure of money. An examination of the accounts showed that work was done in some cases in July, or August, or September, or October but payments were not made until after October 31st when fiscal year closed.

Partial explanation of this holding over of accounts was provided by the statement that the men doing the work had not sworn to their accounts until after the close of the fiscal year. It was pointed out by the Opposition members of the committee that when this sort of thing occasionally happened in the days of the old administration then the government was severely criticised by members and supporters of the present administration. But now when in the case of bridge after bridge the accounts are not paid until after the close of the fiscal year in which the work is done the government men regard the procedure as perfectly justifiable. Some people will find it very hard to understand how it is that when work is done two or three months before the fiscal year closes it is not possible to have all the accounts in and sworn to by October 31st.

As has come to be expected, government men in the committee also took occasion to make some criticism of the Auditor General, though it is true that bits of the criticism was more or less veiled. Apparently, the government men cannot forgive the Auditor for being the innocent instrument whereby the mismanagement of the administration has been exposed. In the course of the afternoon the Auditor General took advantage of an opportunity of explaining to the committee why the present system has been followed in connection with the bridge accounts. He stated emphatically that the report is absolutely correct in all its particulars. He showed that in every case there is put down against a man's name the amount of money which that man received but it is manifestly impossible to give in a report of the present size every little detail as to the service for which the money was spent. The Auditor General also pointed out that the New Brunswick system in connection with the Auditor General's report is practically the same as that followed in other provinces, e. g. Ontario and Manitoba. It is quite evident that the Hazen administration does not relish having an Auditor whose report makes clear facts in regard to the extravagance which characterizes it.

W. C. T. U.

Conducted by the Hartland Union

This organization has been active during the winter months in circulating petitions for signatures through the county urging the N. B. Legislature to amend the License Act that liquor cannot be sent into this prohibition county from places where the N. B. License Act is in force, except under certain regulations. Among these: That each dealer shall at least twenty-four hours before sending or delivering liquor, send by registered letter to the Scott Act Inspector a full copy of the record of date of sale, the number of sale, the name of consignee, the quantity and description of package and date of shipment, and that every package bear a white label on which shall be printed in black letters the name and address of the dealer and name and address of the purchaser.

The members of the W. C. T. U. wish to gratefully acknowledge their appreciation of the willingness of the large number of voters who gave their signatures to these petitions and are expecting good results from this work and too as we have the promise of Hon. J. K. Fleming in the legislature that he would give at all times his utmost endeavor to the securing of such legislation as will restrict and lessen the liquor traffic.

The last meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Scott Sippell. After devotional exercises and business a good program was carried out under the direction of the Evangelistic Supt. Mrs. D. H. Nixon.

The next meeting will be a parlor meeting at the home of the Pres. Mrs. A. Plummer on Thursday evening, April 20th. A good programme will be given and refreshments served to which all are invited. Come and spend an evening with the W. C. T. U. A silver collection will be taken at the door.

About that Sewer

In last week's issue the sewer on Maple Street was spoken of as being private and belonging to Dr. Curtis and J. F. Murdoch. This is not true. It was built by a government appropriation 14 years ago. And seven years ago it was rebuilt, the specifications calling for about 400 feet of sewer, constructed of heavy wooden planks, with an opening two feet square. The office of the affair was to carry to the river the water that each spring flowed from the hills, and which previously inundated the back portion of the town. When the new pipe was set seven years ago H. H. Smalley was road commissioner and the job was let out by contract to J. F. Murdoch. It was stipulated the sewer be laid below hard freezing. This was not done and the result has been more or less trouble each spring. Last week the maximum was reached. Recourse to dynamite was necessary to free the blockade of ice, but even then the great force of water undermined the railway track and did much damage to the street. Private residents on the street have been using the sewer and some claim that this was the cause of its filling up and freezing. There is a movement among these people to chip in and augment a government grant with private funds and build a first class sewer of concrete. Such would be a right move.

Michael Kelly's Meetings.

Mr. Michael Kelly of St. Martins, official representative of the I. O. G. T. spoke in the U. B. Church on Saturday evening and again on Monday evening. His addresses were intense ly practical and interesting from start to finish. On Monday evening he placed the responsibility for the present conditions upon the Christian Churches and advocated the throwing to the winds the terms Liberal and Conservative and the voting on Temperance Lines. For the rum seller he advocates for first offence two years imprisonment, for the second offence five years and for the third life imprisonment. With this penalty he said the traffic could be stamped out.

At the close he gave some demonstrations of mental arithmetic, then followed a solo by Mrs. Schurman, a mixed quartette and a generous silver collection.

Grand Trunk Pacific.

Active operation the New Brunswick division of the national Transcontinental Railway will be resumed by the first of May. The contractors are now preparing to commence work, and this summer will see the line through New Brunswick completed. The chief difficulty in the way of finishing the work last year was the fact that the immense viaduct over Little Salmon River was still unfinished. The Dominion Bridge Company who had its contract continued their work during the winter and completed it on February 6th. They still have two smaller viaducts in the same vicinity to construct, but these will not take a great length of time and there is now nothing else to hold the job back. Outdoor work on the railway was impossible during the winter, but the engineering staff has been kept busy checking up the previous season's operations and preparing for the completion of the contracts this summer.
