Provisions of the Bill of Injunction Which Comes Up for Argument on Wednesday—Trouble About a Painting.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The expected bill for an injunction to provent Sunday opening of the World's Fair was filed yesterday on behalf of the National Government by United States District Attorney Michrist in the Federal Circuit Court. The district attorney does not ask for a temporary injunction, and consequently the case will not be argued until Chief Justice Fuller arrives. It is understood the matter will come up for hearing on Wednesday at 10 a.m.

come up for hearing on Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The injunction bill.

The bill says the Chicago World's Fair Corporation at the dedication, Oct. 12, 1892, delivered the site and buildings into possession and contral of the National Commission for the United States. It was provided in the act of Au<sub>k</sub>, 5, 1892, that all appropriations made in that act to the exposition were made upon the condition that the exposition should not be open to the public on the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, and that if the appropriations should be accepted by the exposition, it was made the duty of the National Commission to make such rules or modifications of the rules of the local corporation as would secure the closing of the exposition on Sunday. The bill adds that a Sunday rule made by the directory in October was modified by the commission and provided explicitly for the "closing of the exposition and the gates thereof" on Sundays. This rule, it is claimed in the bill, is still in force, and neither the commission nor the director together or severally have power to abrogate it. The bill says the contemplated opening of the gates "will be a great injury and a grievous prejudice to the common public good and to the welfare of the poeple of the United States."

One hundred and twenty-five thousand people came to the World's Fair grounds to day and drank in inspiring music and ieasted their eyes upon the artistic and natural beauties of the White City. It was the first open Sunday and it was a auccess. The Sabbath sun was but two hours old when the people began to come, but the masses did not begin to arrive until the afternoon. Beginning at 2 o'clock the multitude flocked into the grounds at every gate, and by 4 o'clock 60,000 people were inside the incloure.

TROPELE ABOUT A PICTURE.

Halsey C. Ives, the head of the art department, has roused the wrath of the gentlemen in charge of the French art exhibition at the fair and of A. A. Anderson, an artist New York, in particular. On the wall of one of the rooms containing the French pictures is one painted by Mr. Anderson. Its title is "A Woman Taken in Adultery." The picture is said to have taken medals at the Paris Salon in 1889 and in Berlin two years later. When Mr. Anderson offered it for exhibition in the United States arts department it was refused, the reason being given that it was immoral. The gentleman in charge of the German, Austrian and French exhibits at once offered Mr. Anderson space for his picture, and he accepted the offer of France. To-day Mr. Ives caused a crimson piece of cloth to be stretched before the picture, claiming that it was too immoral for exhibition. The French strongly objected, claiming that Mr. Ives has no more to do with the pictures in the has with those now on exhibition in the galleries of Paris and they threaten to take the matter into the courts and have Mr. Ives and his crimson cloth enjoined.

May 10 and 11 were filed for future reference.

A bylaw was passed appointing Mr. E. Meredith, Q.C., as attorney and empowering him to collect all moneys due the board from the Cleveland syndicate.

The report of Mr. W. T. Jennings, of Toronto, the engineer who last month made a thorough inspection of the road, was read and a special joint meeting of No. 1 committee and the board will be held this evening to consider it. The report stated that the road in general was in a good state of repair, and the condition of the lands was all that could be desired. There were only six defective rails in the whole road; $1,700 would put the fences in good shape. The ties were in fair condition, but $3,800 should be expended in the purchase of new ones, $3,150 for spare rails and $150 on road crossings. The masonry and timber culverts, in many cases, renew ones, $3,150 for spare rails and $100 on road crossings. The masonry and timber oulverts, in many cases, required attention. Farm crossings are in good order. The street piling between St. Thomas and Kettle Creek should be strengthened. The bridges over the Thames and Kettle Creek were in good condition. Iron bridges should supplant the timber trestle structures, although the latter would be good for a few years. To put the freight shed, etation and trut table in as good condition as when the Great Western Railroad took the road would require $5,700. The turntable as Port Stanley should be everhanied at ones. The telegraph system should be renewed and strung on new poles.

THE OPEN FORUM.

Poet McIntyre Protests. To the Editor of the ADVENTISES:

I notice that Ald. Frankland has denounced as a piece of folly the manufacture of the manumoth cheese for Chicago Fair, as the money would have been better spent as the money would have been determined the peop, and avoiding this othe mammoth cheese for Chicago Fair, as the money would have been better spent in sasisting the poor, and avoiding this Barnum system of advertising the country. But according to Prof. Robertson's report the big cheese has been sold to a great English dealer, who will exhibit it at his own expense in Britain and Ireland after the Chicago Fair is over, and that the amount to be realized will repay this Province for the expense incurred. We have always contonded that nothing can prove the great fertility of a country so well as a great cheese. Small samples of finest grain and roots and fruits might be raised on favored spots in barren districts.

But in conditions such as these You cannot make a mammoth cheese, Weighs o'er twenty thousand bounds. But where large fertile farms abound.

I am afraid I am somewhat to blame about this cheese. I have been sligging of mammeth cheese for over a quarter of a century, and I wrote a poem predicting the present mightiest of all cheese three years ago. I will give a few extracts:

Who hatb prophetic visions acca. In rature times a tenton cheese. More honer far than making gun Of mighty size and many it to., And we despair.

More bono' la' tan anany's top,
And we do not espair
Fint we will select at the World's Fair,
And will be people all agog so.
Excelet fresh conquests, queen of cheese,
Excelet fresh conquests, queen of cheese,
Where she will meet reception grand
From the warm hearts in old England. From the warm hearts in old England.

I regret deeply that Ald. Frankland thinks of bidding Canada adieu, as I consider him one of her noblest sons, and I bave endeavored to honor him in my book

Baron of butchers, burly, brave, Who shipped live bullocks o'er the wave, Baron of butchers, burly, braze,
Who shipped live bullocks o'er he wave,
And elevated the cheese standard,
May he still lead on the vanguard.

CANADIAN PICTURES. (M. E. Dignam, of Toronto, in Wives and Daughters for May.)

OM. E. Dignam, of Toronto, in Wives and Daughters for May.)

The arrangement and selection of pictures for the World's Fair was placed in the hands of the Royal Canadian Academy. For the purpose of making a representative collection two exhibitions were held, one in Toronto, as the center of western art, and one in Montreal, at the center of eastern art. The general impression seems to be that a fair selection has been made, which was on exhibition in Montreal until it was time to send it to Chicago. Unfortunately the predominance of very large pictures had a depressing effect, Perhaps a brighter and more pleasing impression might have been made, if smaller canvases had been selected, but as Chicago is to have the biggest of everything on earth at its show, I suppose our Canadian artists did not want to be behind in this matter and therefore painted the biggest canvases possible for them to handle. It is not always necessary to spread subject over great expanse of canvas to make it effective, and it is a matter of doubt whether the committee have acted wisely in not limiting to some extent the size of pictures, thus giving space for the exhibition of more of the charming work which our artists have done of late. As presumably the cultured people of the world will be in attendance, quality rather than quantity should have been the key-note of the

THE MOTHER'S CALL TO LER BABE.

Baby sweet, baby mine,
Come and dine, come and dine,
On diet sweet and good.
The great Lactated Food!
Twill give thee strength and wealth,
Twill carry thee in health,
And give thee rest and esse,
And shield from all disease!

The loving mother who knows the great advantages of Lactated Food as a nourisher for infants, can from the bottom of her heart indorse every word in the above rostical contribution.

Description Lactated Food enables the infant to escape Lactated Food enables the infant to escape those dreaded summer complaints that cut down so many of the frail buds from week to week. It is now the chosen food, prescribed and recommended by our best medical men. Lactated Food is put up in air-tight cans of three sizes, as follows: 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. For the baby who is regularly fed with this life-giving food, the large, $1 tins are the cheapest, most profitable and economical, as they contain sufficient for 100 meals.

"Scott's Emulsion" New Building in New York.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne, of New York, the sole proprietors of the celebrated Scott's Emulsion, have just taken possession of their new building, corner New Chambers, Rose and Pearl streets, New York. The building is a magnificent structure, being twelve stories high and is considered the best building of its kind in the city. Scott's Emulsion has a tremendous sale, and it certainly has proved to be a blessing to thousands. The world over has become acquainted with this justly and highly-merited Emulsion. As an advertised article its fame extends to every part of the globe. But the other day a paper tised article its fame extends to every part of the globe. But the other day a paper was shown the writer from Beyrout, Syria, that contained the advertisement of Scott's Emulsion, and it was the only thing printed in English. Messrs. Scott & Brown in notifying the public of their change in address, say as follows: "It may interest you to know that this new and splendidly-conjuned huilding is the direct result of you to know that this new and splendidly-equipped building is the direct result of the public appreciation of Scott's Emulsion. You are, no doubt, well aware that we believe in advertising, and we are pleased to take this occasion of expressing our thanks to the newspapers and other periodicals of the country for their many courtesies, as well as to say a word about the importance of advertising any article of merit. While we naturally think that our great success would not have been of merit. While we naturally think that our great success would not have been possible unless Soott's Emulsion possessed superior merit, we do not underestimate the value of advertising, and we would suggest to every business man that in advertising he finds the best and quickest way to public favor."

WHISKY TRUST SMASHED

New York City Saloon-Keepers Lose $1,000,000 in Rebates.

Eighty Distillers in the Combine, Most of Which Had Been Kept Closed for Years.

The Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company went to smash last week at its head-quarters in Peoria, Ill. Five of the strongest distilling houses in the organization served notice of withdrawal on First Vice-President Beggs and, like cordage, the whisky trust went up the commercial flume. The capacity of the withdrawing houses is 16,500 bushels a day. The notice was an instrument in writing, which set forth that the signers would take possession of their respective distilleries at once. This fatal blow to the big monopoly comes from men opposed to the bond scheme.

The trust was organized in Chicago May 10, 1887. It continued until Jan. 31, 1890, when the trustees of the concern organized under the corporation act. The incorporators were Joseph B. Greenhut, Adolph Woolner and George J. Gibson. The name adopted was the "Distilling and Cattle Company." The object of the corporation was "to carry on a general business of distilling, redistilling and rectifying high-wines, alcohol, spirits, gins and whiskys of every kind and descriptions, and to deal in the same in the State of Illinois and elsewhere, and to own the property necessary for that purpose; also to engage in feeding and dealing in cattle and other live stock; also malting, dealing in malt and doing any other business incident to the main perpose of this corporation."

The capital stock was fixed at $35,000, the property of which were kept shut down.

The revolt is the culmination of the misfortunes of the trust. They began with the Shufeld tistillery explosion. Then came the pytotechnics in Wall street, when the stock was lifted from 39 to 72. This was followed by Congressional and Legislative investigations, tight money scares and finally the glue warrante proceedings to stock was lifted from 39 to 72. This was followed by Congressional and Legislative investigations, tight money scares and finally the quo warranto proceedings to dissolve the trust. The effect to float $6,000,000 in bonds was also a black eye.

New York will be a great sufferer by the collapse, as over $1,900,000 in rebates are due New York customers. The system of rebate is thus explained. When a purchase is made from any of the concerns in the due New York customers. The system of rebate is thus explained. When a purchase is made from any of the concerns in the company a voucher accompanies the bill, on which the purchaser can have a rebate of 7 cents a gallon on the purchase, provided he buys everything from someone of the concern in the company during the following six months. At the end of the time, if he has given his whole trade to the company, the 7 cents on the gallon will be rebated to him. If, however, he buys some thing in its line from one outside the trus his rebate is lost. By this means, it is alleged, the dealer is held in the toils.

The general opinion is that none of the directors is now largely burdened with trust certificates. The corporation is heavily in debt, and in the present condition of the money market there seems to be nothing for it to do but go into the courts.

What constitutes happiness?

He is not poor that hath not much, but he that wants more. Want lies in wishing He lacks most that desires most. He richest who does not covet and desireast. The most contented are the most least. The most contented are the most provided in the property of the provided of the most level-headed Canadian leg lators, but he has had a good deal of variexperience both in politics and temperate His experience seems to have disgust him a good deal with our party politics. A recent newspaper interview Mr. Day thus expressed himself: "I am not one those who think that a man is to be blam because he shows in the face of the count that he has some independence. The truis, the party machine is the veriest slaver We must whisper, and if nothing comes our whisper we must remain dumb." Whe he said is too true of most Canadi politicians—such men cannot be call statesmen. The time has come for moindependent and patriotic action.—[Ti Templar, Hamilton.

The viorims of Trust swindless.

The prime object of every trust is to re the people. The trusts themselves we originated and fostered by laws that he been obtained in questionable ways. The object was to destroy competition and mas undue profits from the people. Those will be a summary that the stocks desired to participate the robbery. They preached the dotrift that these trusts were "private affairs with which the Government had nothing do. WATER IN THE WHISKY TRUST.

Now it is asserted that the total sell value of the 81 plants controlled by whisky trust does not much exceed $4,000.

Yet they have been enpitalized about $35,000,000, or nearly nine times present actual value, and it has been posed to issue bonds on them to the ext of $5,000,000, or double what they worth. The New York World says is since the beginning of the present there has been a decline of $17,500,000 the selling value of the stock in the white selling in the borrowing value of stock, and this fact is sufficient to exit the present poverty of the trust, white alleged to render it necessary to issue bonds spoken of. But it is no wonder those bonds are viewed askance by the who have money to part with, and early so now that there is a promise that combine will be prosecuted in the courts. There is a prompect that at let one instance the way of the trust transfer of the trust transfer in the sor will prove to be a hard one.—[Ch Tribune.

WHAT TIME ARE WE AT? ard time in Canada without any statutory enactment governing the same, a great many illegal acts have doubtless been done by the Canadian people. When the London license commissioners recently resolved that all barrooms should be closed at 10 p.m., instead of 11 p.m., as formerly, the Licensed Victuallers' Asso-ciation asked the opinion of Mr. Gibbons, Q. C., as to what time governed them. Having obtained the answer that mean sun time was the only legal time, they kept their bars open 25 minutes later than standard time.

A test case was brought before Police Magistrate Parke, and to-day he refused to convict two hotel-keepers summened be-tween 10 p.m. and 10:25 p.m., standard

This decision seems to be based on This decision seems to be based on undoubted authority. In Great Britain as in most, if not all, of the States, the matter has been settled by legislation. In the absence of such legislation it would seem the content of the farm that solar time must govern. Chief Baron Pollock in an English case before the act was passed there, said in effect: "I cannot assent to the argument that the town council of any place may by their resolution declare that Green-wich or any other time shall be the time of the place-the differences between Greenwich time and real time may be many minutes, and if the town council might determine the time they might make a man born on a different day from that on which he was really born. So if a person is entitled to a bonus from an insurance company on the event of his living to a certain period that must be decided not by the town council adopting Greenwich time, but by the mean time of the place. Neither can the time be altered by a railway com-pany whose railway passes thorough the place, nor by any person who regulates the clock in the town hall."

So Mr. Justice MacLellan, in the North Bruce Dominion election case, says: "It is common knowledge that the time kept by the public clerks in Toronto is standard time, and that standard time is 171 minutes faster than solar time. That being so, the petition (which in this case was filed after 3 o'clock standard time, but before 3 o'clock sun time) was in reality filed before 3 o'clock. There can be no doubt," he says, "that upon a question like this a party has a right to insist in the absence of legislation that solar time should govern."

The police magistrate had no option but to dismiss the cases brought before him as the only time a court of law can recognize is legal time, which is solar time. The matter is one which is within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament, and should receive attention at the next session. In the meantime our banks may be closing too soon and a lot of legal complications may arise from the fact that we are all really getting out of bed 25 minutes too have found it out if the licensed victuallers had not been sharp enough to have the law looked up for them, but it is the case never-

British Gossip by Cable.

The special cablegrams this week are no minteresting, though the past few days have largely been holidays in political and social circles. One of the most noteworthy events has been Lord Salisbury's pilgrimage to Ulster to stir up his friends there, against the bill granting local self-government to Ireland. The Tory leader's friends received him warmly, but there is no evidence that he has made any converts; on the contrary, the English workingmen, invited over to witness the reception and to investigate for themselves, seem to have returned stronger friends to the Liberal neasure now before Parliament than ever. Lord Salisbury was in Belfast three days, but his speeches are reported to have lacked novelty. The Ministers, on the other hand, have rested during the Whitsuntide holidays, which are now at an end, and Parliament will resume the considera tion of the great measure of and conciliation this week. Only one member of the Cabinet, Prof. Bryce, spoke in public last week. The right honorable gentleman addressed his constituents at Aberdeen. He asserted that the bill for granting local self government to Ireland was a good measure and that the House of Commons would pass it as well as other progressive measures promised in the Liberal programme. Lord Randolph Churchill was put up to reply to Mr. Bryce. He is as audacious as ever in his criticisms. English Workmen in Ulster. Lord Salisbury has been in Ulster this week, but his visit, after the prolonged exitement which attended Balfour's trip last week, but his visit, after the prolonged excitement which attended Balfour's trip last month, has been somewhat of an anticlimax. Lord Salisbury, like his nephew, has made speeches, which are now on record, and in all probability he will one day curse the folly which led him to deliver them. There is not one new point in them, and even most of the adjectives and expletives are old friends.

Much more interesting are the accounts given of the visit to Ulster made at Whitsun by some north of England workingmen at the invitation of the Belfast 'Unionist' committee. It was thought that, if judiciously handled, these honest fellows might be sent back strong anti-Home Rulers, but the experiment has proved a ghastly failure from the Tory point of view. The humble visitors went about among the people, talked with Nationalists, as well as with 'Unionist,'' snd buttonholed all sorts and conditions of men. The result was that before they left Belfast they publicly declared that they were stronger Home Rulers than ever. Their views were epitomized later in the course of an interview which one of them gave to a Newcastle Leader reporter on his return home:

''Ot course,'' he said, "there is a strong of an interview which one of them gave to a Newcastle Leader reporter on his return home:

"Of course," he said, "there is a strong feeling in Belfast against home rule, but before we went we knew we would find that. There is, however, a strong feeling among large sections of the people in its favor, and our visit has shown us that even much-talked-of-Belfast is not nearly so unanimous as many of the Tories would have us believe. The approach of home rule hasn't staggered business so much as we were told it had.

"The establishment of a Parliament in Dublin will not, from what I could learn, cause much of a rush in the bankruptey courts, and I can't help thinking that there is a good deal of winking of the eye on the part of those who say it will.

"The doings at the breakfast on Monday morning were sickening. We were entertained to a first-class meal by the Unionists,' and a nice scene it was. There were four or five of us sitting together, with a Tory at each end of the party all the time dinning into our ears what he thought would be the outcome of home rule, and seeming to say that we would never get such a meal as that again unless we came to his side. It was enough to make the food stick in a man's throat. Of course, you don't like to tell a man that you think he has a good deal of bigotry in him, and are opposed to him all round, when you are eatiff his bread; but that one experience was enough for some of us." The Ulster Tories are not likely to repeat this disastrous experiment.

Royal Wedding Gossip.

Mr. Gladstone has thought it desirable to contradict the report that Parliament will be asked to vote an additional allowance for the Duke of York on his marriage. ance for the Duke of York on his marriage. The rumor was palpably absurd, seeing that less than four years ago the House of Commons, with a view to putting a stop to the undignified custom of sending round the royal begging hat on the slightest pretext, passed "The Prince of Wales's Children Act," which assigned to the trustees of the Prince the annual sum of £36,000, with which to provide dowries for his daughters and salaries for his sons. It was a very comfortable arrangement for the Prince of Wales, and there can be no reasonable excuse for asking more for the Duke of York. But the Prince's friends are saying that he is not required by the act to provide for Under the heading "The Preferential Duty Idiocy" The Sheffield Independent of British-Canadian." The Independent's sorrespondent says:

Too Much Landlordism, A report has been current that Mr. Wil-liam Waldorf Astor has been in treaty for the biggest deer forest in Scotland, but it the biggest deer forest in Scotland, but it lacks confirmation and is probably untrue. This is not an auspicious time for buying Scotch sporting estates, seeing that a royal commission is now investigating the land system in Scotland, with a view, not openly avowed but very well understood, of making drastic alterations in it, in the interests of farmers and cotters. The commission has been at work nearly five months and has collected a mars of information, all tending to prove that certain parts of that country are being literally depopulated in order to make room for deer, landlords receiving much larger rentals than when their estates were divided into farms which supported industrious men and women. Such a system is so obviously opposed to public polity that it will not be allowed to exist much longer whatever government may be in power. Next month the commission will probably visit the district in which Mr. Winans holds autocratic sway, and in which, it is alleged, the depopulation process has been carried on in a manner almost ferocious in its utter disregard of the rights and privileges of the unfortunate people.

Mr. Astor is certainly more usefully engaged in London giving profitable work to newspaper reporters, and turning his big mansion in Charlton House terrace to various graceful and charitable purposes. On June 22 there will be a grand concert at the now well-known house in aid of the depleated exchequer of the Invalid Children's Ald Association. Princess May has promised to attend the concert, and all the artistic lions and lionesses in London will be there, with Signor Tosti as master of the revels. The presence of the betrothed Princess, within a week or so of her marriage, will suffice to fill the house from cellar to garret.

To Care for Habitual Drunkards.

The official draughtsman in the Home Secretary's office is hard at work upon a bill for the compulsory saving of habitual drunkards, The bill, it seems, is being drawn on the lines of the lunacy acts, which in itself is a deadly insult to every self-respecting inebriate; and it is alleged that a dipsomaniac is to be defined as a hard drinker "whose conduct is such as to satisfy the magistrate that he is at times not responsible for his actions, owing to the influence of drink." The definition is sweeping enough to make a good many men feel exceedingly uncomfortable, and to spoil the effect of the semi-official assurance published to-day, that the bill "will give ample safeguards against abuse."

A FINE GAME.

Alerts and the Stars played Saturday afternoon on Kensington Park. The excellent work of both teams was such as to promise splendid ball for local patrons during the championship series. The match abounded in brilliant plays on both sides. There was no hard slugging, but the ball was hit frequently enough to afford the fielders plenty of chances, and with few exceptions, they took them. Hutchinson, the new right fielder of the Alerts, made his debut, and more than fulfilled expectations. He made three hits, gathered in all the flys that came his way, and stole two bases. He will add greatly to the strength of the team. Both Sheere and Jennings pitched good, steady ball, as the score shows. The Stars played a little loosely in the first, but braced up and made their opponents hustle. Features worthy of mention were Hynd's great catch of a high fly, Delaney's remarkable work at Short and Johnson's second-base playing. The score:

HORSE.
COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., May 29.—Picton, the great running horse from Stanford's Palo Alto ranch, died here Friday on the way to Chicago. Fifteen thousand dollars had been refused for him. THE FRENCH DERBY.

THE FRENCH DERBY.

PARIS, May 28.—Fourteen horses ran in the Prix du Jockey Club (or French Derby) at Chantilly to-day. Baron A. De Schickler's Ragotsky came in first, Fousi Yama second, Oeillet third. The Prix du Jockey Club for 3-year-olds is run over a mile and a half course for a purse of £5,619.

TIPS.

The St. Thomas races will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. A list of the entries will appear in to-morrow's ADVERTISER.

WINDSOR VS. ESSEX.

WINDSOR, May 28.—Yesterday was the day set down as the first meeting this season between the Windsor and the Essex teams, and the game throughout was by long odds the best ever seen in the city. The first goal was won by Windsor in eight minutes; Essex got the second goal in eleven minutes. The third goal was won by Windsor in fifteen minutes, and the fourth in eight minutes, Windsor winning the match by 3 to 1. The Windsors feel quite elated, as this game gives them a cinch on the championship of Canada.

AQUATIC FOOTBALL.

timers' watches and acorers' sheets are to be believed. They made it 1 hour and 14 minutes, while Rands rode last summer, finishing in a storm, in 1 hour 15 minutes and 59 seconds, and Graves, over the famous Buffalo course a year ago, covered the distance in 1 hour 15 minutes and 14 seconds. But for an accident Huriburt would have been close to Herrick at the finish, possibly in front of him, as he made the pace for twenty miles at a record-breaking clip and was then forced to change wheels, his tire giving out.

AN ACCIDENT WELL-TIMED.

AN ACCIDENT WELL-TIMED.

Railway accidents can hardly be called fortunate occurrences, but one took place on the C. P. R. at the Richmond street crossing here on Saturday evening which probably prevented serious loss of life and property. The through express from Montreal to Detroit arrived here at the usual hour, 11 o'clock, but it did not depart for some time. The engines were changed and locomotive No. 300 was put on to carry the train to Detroit. Conductor A. Swinerton, of Toronto; Engineer Ben Fallis, of this city, and Fireman John Newman, of Windsor, comprised the crew. When all was in readiness the throttle was opened, but what was the engineer's surprise when the big engine refused to move.

After a thorough trial Mr. Fallis proceeded to examine the exterior of the locomotive, when he found that the break had occurred at a most fortunate time. The steel bolt, about five inches in diameter, which connects the driving rod with the wheels had broken off and let the rod drop to the ground. The force of the steam when turned on had forced the iron through the sidewalk and into the ground.

The cause of the smash was quite apparent when a big flaw was seen in the bolt. The train was heavy, and the pressure came just in the right time to cause the break, and prevent probably a terrible accident. Had the train been going at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred, a serious disaster would have been almost inevitable.

Another engine was soon procured and the train proceeded on its way.

City Lodges Parade to the Lendon West Methodist Church — An Ap-propriate Sermon.

Methodist Church — An Appropriate Sermon.

Manchester Unity, Canadian Order of Oddfellows, held their annual church parade yesterday to the London West Methodist Church. The weather was delightful, and there was a large turn-out—about 250 being in the procession. The lodges represented were: Perseverance, of East London; City of London Lodge, city; Loyal Star of the West Lodge, London West. The Union Lodge of Juveniles was also well represented. The parade was under the direction of Marshals Bros. Gillett and Parsons, and was headed by the Cavalry Band, under the leadership of Thomas Warren.

The pulpit was occupied by the paster, Rev. Wm. Godwin, and previous to an excellent sermon he delivered the following items relative to the order:

Rev. Wm. Godwin, and previous to an excellent sermon he delivered the following items relative to the order:

The membership of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows, Manchester Unity, on Jan. 14, 1893, was 4,319. With the recent amalgamation of the Montreal district amounting to 1,200, the total membership was brought up to 5,519. The capital of the order is at present about $45,000; Montreal district, $13,000, or a total of $58,000. Thirty-five lodges had been opened since April 1,1892. "I might say," said Mr. Godwin, "that at the last convention of this order, a report was presented showing an increase of about a thousand members during the year, and this was brought about without the service of an organizer. The society has paid out in sick and funeral and doctors' bills during the year about $12,000; and to widows and orphans, $1,280 62. This report refers alone to the Canadian Order of Oddfellows, Manchester Unity. And as there has been some doubt about whether or not this is a branch of the English Manchester Unity, I might state that I hold in my hand a letter from C. S. Collins, grand secretary of the English order, stating that we are a branch of that order, and that transfer can be had from any lodge in England to Canada and vice versa."

THAT HORSE TWILIGHT.

St. Louis, May 28.—The mystery surrounding the identity of the horse which ran under the name of Twilight and made a coup at the opening week of the St. Louis Jockey Club's meeting is being slowly cleared up. It is now known that Twilight is at the stable of his owner, J. S. Donohue, at Sarnia, Ont. The horse was so badly injured in a jumping race last autumn that he has been lame ever since, and will probably never again face the starter. It is now suspected that the horse which made the killing time under the name of Twilight is Doctor David, a Canadian racer. The matter is still under investigation.

A Breezy Meeting of the City Council,

The Mayor Sends for a Policeman,

And Finally His Worship Leaves the Chamber

But the Council Go Right On-Troubl Over a Bylaw—Who Ordered Its Preparation? — Another Street Railway

The City Council held its fifth Saturday night special meeting for this year on Saturday evening, commencing business at 8:59. There were present: Mayor Essery, Ald. Taylor, F. J. Fitzgerald, Connor, Coo, J. W. Jones, Thos. Jones, Carrothers, Stevely, James Fitzgerald, Scarrow, Garratt, Dreaney, Weiford, Parnell, Shaw and Pritchett and City Clerk Kingston. The evenits to transpire at a council meeting can never be foretold, as the happenings of this session will show. When Ald. Coopersisted in his demand that the mayor should withdraw certain statements which he had made respecting No. 2 committee the mayor ordered the sergeant-at-arms to telephone for a policeman, and the officer was promptly on hand. Later on the mayor left the council and went home, leaving the aldermen to appoint a chairman and transact their business by themselves.

BAND CONCENTS AT QUEEN'S PARK.

Manager S. R. Break, of the Street Railway Company, asked that the council have four or five electric lights placed at the entrance to and in the main building at Queen's Park. The company have arranged for a series of band concerts to be given in the park on afternoons and evenings during the summer. The matter was referred to Nos. 2 and 3 committees.

EXTENSION OF THE STREET RAILWAY

TRACKS.

Mr. Break also wrote, stating the intention of the company to extend, after the expiration of ten days, their tracks west and east on Dundss street to the city limits, and asked for permission to lay double tracks.

Ald. Parnell—I am opposed to giving them one jot or tittle more than they have under their agreement. It is just a means to get a franchise without paying anything for it. I would move that those communications be filed for reference.

Ald. Taylor—Have they the right to extend their lines under the agreement?

The Mayor—Yes, they have certain rights, but they are asking for more than they have under the reference of the concilor of the question. I also wish to the effect that this council filed all papers relating to the electric street railway committe.

The letter, which was from F. Nichols, manager of the General Electric Company, was then read. It asked the council to amend the by-law granting the company franchize so that poles to be erected by them on Dundas and Richmond streets should be only 50 feet instead of 60 feet in height, that on other streets they be 35 feet, and where new lines are put up, only 40 feet.

40 feet.

Ald. Taylor moved that the by-law be amended and the letter be considered.

Ald. Taylor moved that the by-law be amended and the letter be considered.

ALD. COO VS. MAYOR.

And here the mayor's ire was stirred up again, and he referred to the very unusual occurrence of a committee or any members of the council ordering the preparation of a bylaw before the matter had first been brought before the council.

Ald. Coo thought the mayor had spoken disrespectfully of No. 2 committee, and in a way which was contrary to rule 19 of the regulations governing such legislative bodies. Ald. Coo then demanded that the mayor withdraw his statements.

The Mayor—I have not made a single statement which I will withdraw.

Ald. Coo—I would ask your worship to read rule 19.

The Mayor—I am familiar with rule 19, and still refuse to withdraw any of my former statements.

Ald. Coo—Well, then, if your worship won't observe the rules of order, I won't, either.

The Mayor—If you don't, I will very soon

CUMULATIVE VOTING.

A Circular Prepared by A. F. Jury and Robert Tyson, Toronto.

Addressed to the Patrons and Grangers

(From the Canada Farmers' Sun.) (From the Canada Farmers' Sun.)

- Believing that the desire amongst our members for better representation in Parliament, in the Legislatures, and in the councils of the country in sincere, and recognizing the difficulty in accomplishing our object under the present system of one member for one constituency, we recommend for your consideration the system known as cumulative vote in grouped constituencies.

known as cumulative vote in grouped constituencies.

This system has been in successful operation in school board elections in England for 23 years. We believe it could be applied with equal success in all elections of representatives in this country, and that it would afford us a much better opportunity of electing men of our own choice and of our own class to Parliament and the Legislatures.

The method of its application would be as

The method of its application when the follows:

1. Group seven or more of our present constituencies into one; retaining the same number of members; or, what is better still, giving the united constituency the exact number of members it is entitled to under the principle of representation by population.

number of members it is entitled to under the principle of representation by population.

2. Taking a case in which seven of the old constituencies were grouped into one new one; then that new or grouped constituency would return seven members.

3. A suitable arrangement would be made for nominations; such, for instance, as providing that in order to be placed on the official ballot a candidate must have the written nomination of some given number of electors.

4. Each elector would have seven votes; that is, he would have as many votes as there were members to be elected.

5. Each elector would have the power to give all his seven votes to one candidate, or to distribute them amongst two, three, four, five or six of the candidates, or to give one to each of seven candidates.

6. The voter would do this by placing on the ballot paper, opposite any candidate's name, a figure denoting the number of votes he desired to cast for that candidate.

7. We show herewith three specimen ballots under the cumulative system. Suppose that in a constituency returning seven members there are ten candidates running, namely: Smith, Brown, Jones, Robinson, Black, White, Green, Johnson, Thompson and Wilson. The first specimen shows how the ballot paper would appear if the voter cast one vote for each of seven candidates. The second specimen shows the appearance of the ballot if the voter chose to cumulate all his votes on one man.

Fallot No. 1. Ballot No. 2. Ballot No. 3.

THE FIREWORKS START.

Just at this juncture the fireworks started. Mr. Kingston announced that there was a short report from the board of works containing a bylaw which had been prepared by the city solicitor.

The mayor condemned the action of the Board of Works in opening a letter addressed to himself, and also in ordering a bylaw to be prepared before the matter had first passed through the council. It was outrageous, he said, and he would not permit such to be perpetrated while he was mayor.

Ex-Ald, J. C. Judd, who had submitted the letter to the Board of Works as solicitor for the General Electric Company, explained the matter to the satisfaction of the mayor. He said that the letter was addressed to the mayor, who was not present until late in the meeting, and that he undertook to read it to the committe.

The letter, which was from F. Nichols.

sufficient margin over to provide for con-tingencies.

9. The method of accomplishing this would simply be to request each of their voters to cast all his seven votes for the candidate that had been selected. If enough voters did this to amount to one-seventh of the total vote cast in the whole constituency, then nothing could prevent their candidate from being elected. The called in until Ald. Scarrow jokingly told him to keep Ald. Coo quiet.

The BUSINESS GORS ON.

The mayor ruled that a notice of motion was necessary in order that the matter of amending the bylaw might be considered.

Ald. Thos. Jones' motion to suspend the rules of order and introduce the bylaw was carried.

The bylaw was then read and the mayor demanded that it be made known at once who; ordered its preparation. Unless such information were given he would leave the chair and a new chairman could be appointed. The answer did not come and the bylaw passed its first reading.

Ald. Parnell urged that the second reading was not a matter of necessity, and that the bylaw passed its first reading.

Ald. Parnell urged that the second reading was not a matter of necessity, and that the bylaw be laid over.

On the second reading Ald. J. W. Jones moved that it be amended so that there be 60-foot poles within the area bounded by Waterloo street on the east, York street on the seath, Ridout street on the west and Dufferin avenue on the north, and that the bylaw passed its stereof the chief, the wires in all cases to be 40 feet above the ground.

The bylaw passed its second reading.

Ald. P. J. Fitzgerald then interposed the objection of Ald. Parnell, but it was of no use, and the bylaw passed its third reading and was adopted.

The council then adjourned at 11 o'clock.

CUMULATIVE VOTING. (New York Recorder.)

Mr. Gladstone bears tribute to the high character and great intelligence of the workingmen who have found their way I to Parliament. "There is not," he sa s "a single labor member of Parliament who is not distinguished by high inte ligen e, sound knowledge and trus wo thy character." We quote these words of the British Premier for the purpose of asking the workingmen of America why it is that some of them do not emulate their English heethren and fight their way into the House of Representatives or the Senate of the United States. It will not do to reply that many of the men now in Congress were at one time workingmen. They are not in our legislative halls in the sense in which we use the term. The farmers, as farmers, have just begun to obtain representation there. When will the workingmen follow their example?

At the coming session of Congress the most momentous questions affecting the interests of the workingmen of the country will be debated; but in a body more that half of which has been elected by the votes of workmen, workmen will have no representative of their own. Some demagogues will assume to speak for them, or, rather, to print speeches in the Congressional Record for purely campaign purposes. Without the votes of the workingmen of this city the dominant party would be in a small minority. When did Tammany Hall ever look into the ranks of labor and pick out a clean candidate for Congress? Ever and always it selects a lawyer, a professional politician, or a rich man who is ambitious of political honors.

Lost Children.

"If parents wouldn't train their children to be afraid of the policemen we might be able to do something with them when they become lost," said a kind-hearted constable on Saturday afternoon, after he had vainly endeavored to enlist the sympathies of a crying child of 4 or 5 years of age. "Mothers scare their unruly little ones by referring to us as boo-men and other such nonsensical terms, and the result is when a child is lost she is afraid of us and we cannot do anything and the result is when a child is lost she is afraid of us and we cannot do anything with her." The child in question would have nothing to do with the man in brass buttons, but when a motherly-looking lady talked to her, her voice came back and she was able to give a semi-intellegent account of herself. Mothers would do well to remember this point and not teach their children to fear the stalwart constable.

The Abode of the Soul

The Abode of the Soul. Rev. Evans Davis preached an interesting sermon, on Sunday, in St. James' Church, South London, on the location and condition of ties ul after death. His belief was that of tiesulatter death. His belief was that the souls of neither the rightcous nor the wicked would reach their permanent abode until the judgment day, and that in the meantime the souls of all are conscious and active in some unknown place, those of the rightcous being happy and those of the wicked being in misery, and all being cognizant of what was being done in this world, though in what manner information was conveyed to them he could not say. The intermediate condition, Mr. Davis said, was not one of change, for us a man dies so he intermediate condition, Mr. Davis said, was not one of change, for as a man dies so he must appear before the judgment seat. The sermon was attentively listened to by a large congregation.

Dr. Davenal took out his watch. He found it later than he thought, and turned to he is pillip.

"I cannot remain longer" he said. "I have a consultation for 12:30, and must not miss it. I am not wanted here; there is nothing requiring me to stay; so I'll wish you good-morning."

"For that matter, I don't see that any of us are wanted," responded Sir Philip. "I'm sure I am not. Good-morning, doctor."
Nodding his salutation to the room generally, the doctor went out. Soon afterwards Mr. Wedderburn made his appearance, the will in his hand. Clearing his voice, he threw his eyos around the room, as if to see that his audience were ready. The absence of one appeared to strike him, and he pushed his spectacles to the top of his brow and gazed again.

"Where's Dr. Davenal!"

"He is gone," repled Sir Philip Oswald.
"Gone I' repeated the lawyer, in constertation. "Why—he—Dr. Davenal should have stopped, of all people,"

"He said he had a consultation. What does it signify."

"Wal Sir Philip, he—at any rate, I sup-have stopped, of all people."

"He said he had a consultation. What does it signify."

"Well, Sir Philip, he—at any rate, I suppose there's no help for it now. It must be read without him."

All present looked at the lawyer with surprise, all thought him a strangely punctilious man to suppose Dr. Davenal's presence, as Lady Oswaid's medical man and attendant at her funeral, was in any degree essential to the reading of Lady Oswaid's will. They soon learned the cause.

First of all the will bequeathed a few legacies. Very small ones. Twenty pounds to each of her servants; £40 and all her clothes to Parkins; £50 each to her sephews, John and Joseph Stephenson, with the furniture of her house to be divided between them "amicably?" a beautiful diamond ring and a little plate to Oswaid Oray; the rest of the plate, by far the most valuable portion to Sir Philip Oswaid of Thorndyke; and another diamond ring to Dr. Davenal. Sofar, so good; but now it came to disposal of the bulk of her money. It was bequeathed, the whole of it, to Dr. Davenal, "my faithful friend and medical attendant for so many years."

The will was remarkably short taking but a few minutes in the reading; and at its conclusion, Mr. Wedderburn laid it open on the table that anybody might look at it who close.

DEMOCRACY IN EUROPE.

History Repeating Itself as Former Occasions.

The Great Contest Between Empero and People in Germany.

Bismarck and his master, the King of Prussia, afterwards the Emperor William I, once ruled Prussia for four years without the sanction of Parliament. The question then, as now was one of supplies for the army. The Prussian Chamber was willing to grant extraordinary supplies temporarily, but refused to make the increase a permanent feature of the budget. On the defeat of his measures the King immediately dissolved Parliament and named Bismarck, whose championship of the divine right of kings was already well known as his chief minister.

Bismarck entered with all his soul into the task of helping the King to "tame" his Parliament. He gained his signal successes in Prussian affairs as the sworn opponent of democracy. "Not by speechifying and majorities, but by blood and iron," he declared, the great questions of his day would be decided. For four years, from 1862 until 1866, he and his King ruled without a budget, and during all that time the Prussian army, in spite of Parliament, was being enlarged and drilled into a state of perfection which enabled Prussia to decide the long-pending contest with Austria for supremacy in German affairs in a single battle.

During the victorious progress of the Prussian armies which preceded the battle of Koniggratz, the parliamentary elections were held in Prussia. The people were already delighted with the prospect of defeating the Austrians, and the chamber, which was returned, was ready to grant anything the King might ask. At his request it passed a bill of indemnity for all irregular acts of the Government during the preceding four years, and in order to show its conversion, voted very large supplies for the army which had just vindicated its right to existence. Bismarck had always confidently predicted this very result when he was taunted with ruling without authority. His experience as Prussian envoy to the German Diet in former years had convinced him that a conflict with Austria was inevitable, and he never doubted what the result would he.

The young Emperor's belief policy which answered in Prussia 30 years ago.

In the present contest one of the strongest champion of the people's cause is Eugen Richter, who is doing the giant's work of the campaign. He is a man whose hereulean personality, stentorian voice, knowledge of popular feeling and forcible, rugged, oratorical effects and unfearing utterances make him the mest popular and the mest striking figure in this fierce struggle. He has been the most persistent antagonist of the imperial policy. He is swimming with the tide of German popular sentiment in the stream of democracy.
