The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shell contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

TORONTO POST OFFICES

SKETCH OF BUILDINGS USED AS POST OFFICES AND METHODS EMPLOYED IN TRANSACTING BUSINESS

THE first Post Office of York was a small, unpretentious log house situated on the east side of Frederick Street, a little south of King Street, on the site of the present Newsboys' Home. The first postmaster was Mr. William Allan, father of Hon. G. W. Allan. Letters were few, postage was high, and mails were extremely irregular in the early part of the century, when stages and sailing vessels furnished the only means of communication. During the winter months travel was difficult and York was almost wholly cut off from communication with the rest of the world. English mails were very infrequent, and letters and papers mailed in the Old Country in November were not to reach the Capital of Upper Canada before the ensuing spring. The old log building, which was used as a post office up to 1827, has been long destroyed, and but few can even remember it.

Post Office In 1827

On the retirement of Mr. Allan from the postmastership, Mr. S. Howard, father of Mr. Allan McLean Howard, was appointed in his stead, in 1827. At this time Mr. Howard was building a residence on George Street and, pending its completion, the post office was moved from the log building on Frederick Street, which belonged to Mr. Allan, and established temporarily in a small, one-storey house which stood on the south side of Duke Street, half way between George and New Streets, No. 5, the latter on the site of the present Clyde Hotel stable. Mr. Howard alone, with little assistance at this time, found small difficulty in conducting the whole business of the office.

Transferred About 1830

Mr. Howard's new residence having been finished about 1830, the post office was transferred to it. This was a two-storey frame building of good size on George Street, a little way below Duke Street, directly in rear of the Newsboys' Home. The building is still standing, and occupied as a dwelling, Nos. 58 and 60. It was originally constructed of brick but now the outside is roughcast. The post office was located here up to about 1836.

The number of post offices in Canada in 1828 were 101. The miles of established road was 1,100 and the number of miles travelled by post per week were 8,768. In 1831 the increase was as follows: roads to 1,511, from 2,368 to 2,896, from 8,768 to 13,213. It was in 1831 that the first boxes were put into the office by Mr. Howard for the accommodation of the public.

Removed to Mr. Howard's Residence 1836

About 1836 the post office was moved from the George Street building to the west corner of Mr. Howard's new mansion, No. 28 Duke Street, where it remained until somewhere about 1838.

The third postmaster was Mr. Charles Berczy. On the north side of Front Street, just west of Yonge Street, stood in off the street a two-storey brick building. Attached to it ran out nearly to Yonge Street, a one-storey frame building, and in this Mr. Berczy established the fifth post office, living in the brick portion. The post office building stood on the site of the present Bank of Montreal, No. 2 Front Street west. Early in the forties the post office was removed to Wellington Street. The ground was bought in 1845 by the Bank of Montreal and the first bank building was erected on it. This was torn down a few years ago to make way for the present splendid edifice which adorns the site. In 1842 the post office staff consisted of the postmaster, three clerks, one of whom was Mr. George H. Wilson, and one letter carrier. During the summer months the mails were conveyed by boat, and in the winter by stage. East and west there was but one mail daily to the principal points; to other places the mail went once a week. There was one English mail a month.

Early in the Forties

Some Rates Of Postage

The rates of postage were as follows:—Hamilton, 4½d; Cobourg, 7d; Kingston, 9d; Cornwall, 11½d; Three Rivers, 1s 4d; Quebec, 1s 6d; Halifax, 2s 9d; Prince Edward Island, 3s 3d. No envelopes were used, the sheets of paper on which the letters were written being folded and sealed with wax or wafers. There was no such thing as postage stamps; paid letters were stamped with red ink. Every letter mailed was forwarded whether it was paid for or not, in the latter case payment being collected at the other end of the route. This system, and also the rates of postage which had been in vogue from the beginning, continued up to the introduction of postage stamps. Accounts were kept with the banks, merchants and all reputable people, the bills being sent in once a month. There were single and double rates of postage. A letter without anything enclosed went for the single rate. If a dollar bill was put in, the postage was doubled. If two bills were put in, the postage was doubled again. Every one was asked whether his letter required single or double postage, and as an extra measure of precaution, the clerks would pry the ends open and look inside.

The Wellington Street Site

From 1845 to 1855 the whole business of the Toronto post office was transacted in a small, low building on Wellington Street, situated on the present site of the Imperial Bank corner, No. 34. It stood on the north side of Wellington Street, west of Leader Lane. Its frontage was narrow, but it ran back a greater distance along the lane. The delivery office was a room about 25 x 40 feet, and the distributing room was an old cellar kitchen about 20 feet square. The postmaster was Mr. Charles Berczy, and the clerks were John Armstrong, Christopher Walsh, and W. H. Pearson (of the Gas Co.), who, in 1847, succeeded Mr. George H. Wilson, late of the Bank of Montreal. John McCloskey was letter carrier, and a charge of one copper was made on each letter delivered by him. At this time, and up to 1850, the English mails were only delivered fortnightly—by stage from Halifax in winter, and partly by steamboat in summer. The rate of postage on English letters was 1s 2½d sterling, or 1s 4d Halifax currency—about 27 cents; the postage to Halifax was 2s 9d; Quebec, 1s 6d; Montreal, 1s 2d; Kingston, 9d; Windsor, 10½d, the lowest rate of postage to any point being 4½d. In 1850 there were only about four hundred boxes in the post office.

Control of Department Transferred

Up to 1852 the post office department was under the control of the Imperial Government, which was represented by Mr. Stayner, but at this time, almost simultaneously with the introduction of the bonding system through the United States, the business was transferred to the Canadian Government, and the mails began to arrive once a week via Boston and New York, alternately. The mails were conveyed in charge of conductors, of whom there were three, Messrs. McNamee, Malone and McGillivray, two taking the mails to the above posts respectively, and one extra supply in case of need. The conductor taking the outgoing mails waited at his post for those coming on, and this system continued for many years.

On the appointment of Mr. Joseph Lesslie as postmaster, the post office was removed from Wellington Street to a new building on Toronto Street, the change being made in January, 1853. Shortly after this date postage stamps were introduced, and the whole postal system underwent a change. The money order system came into operation in February, 1855, when the largest sum for which an order was granted was £10, the commission being 1s 3d. Early in the following year the amount was extended to £25, with a graduated scale of charges from 3d to 2s 6d. In the Wellington Street post office there had been but one hundred and fifteen boxes. This number was increased to one thousand in the Toronto Street post office and drawers, which had previously been unknown, were introduced. About a dozen clerks made up the staff. There were two carriers—one for the east, and the other for the west end of the city, their fee being a penny for every letter delivered.

The Present Post Office

No greater evidence of the growth and expanse of the commerce of Toronto can be given than by a comparison of the first rude log post office and the imposing facade of the present fine edifice on Adelaide Street, Nos. 38 and 42, at the head of Toronto Street, erected in 1873, during the postmastership of Mr. Joseph Lesslie.

On February 12th, 1879, Mr. Lesslie was succeeded by Mr. Thos. C. Patteson, who holds the office at the present time. During Mr. Patteson's time rapid strides have been made in perfecting the post office system as we know it to-day. Numerous branch offices and stations have been opened and more are contemplated. The extension of the delivery service has now made box-holders few in number, but distribution prompt and efficient.

TORONTO DISTRIBUTION

The Present System to Facilitate the Rapid Handling of Mail Matter

Toronto's commercial and industrial growth has been so rapid of recent years that numerous improvements in postal methods became necessary to facilitate the distribution of the matter. The Toronto office is the busiest in the Dominion, handling nearly three times as much mail matter as the next largest office—Montreal.

Gradually has a system been evolved which saves much time in the sorting of matter intended for Toronto. From the larger towns come special pouches for Toronto, which reach the sorter direct from the train and are rapidly separated into routes for the carriers.

At the Montreal office a Toronto sorter is always on duty sorting and routing matter for this city. Also, at 10 o'clock each evening, from Toronto goes a sorter as a passenger until the eight o'clock train from Montreal is met, in the vicinity of Lapinee, when he boards the incoming train and has all matter sorted on arrival in Toronto.

About five years ago Station "A" was established at the Union Station. Originally intended simply as a place for re-sorting of matter to be forwarded, this station was soon needed also for the distribution of all the parcels and newspapers which were sent from the head office after being cancelled. Now all parcels and papers are both cancelled and sorted at the Union Station, those for the city and for foreign countries being returned to the head office for treatment.

Station "B," at 117 King West, in the centre of a busy manufacturing and wholesale district, has proved a great convenience to the public, the business of the office being largely confined to letters and money orders. At the corner of Abell and Queen Street West is Station "C," and its proximity to the Parkdale stations is expected to work a wonderful improvement in the despatch and delivery of letters for the West End.

Postal notes were sold during the same year numbering 58,007 and amounting to $101,608.29. 353,678 notes were paid, aggregating $531,995.71.

The revenue derived from the sale of postage stamps at the main office and the branches during 1902 was $720,816.96, while in the post office savings banks were deposited $618,416.

FEDERATED ASSOCIATION OF LETTER CARRIERS

A Fraternal Benefit Organization Composed of Letter Carriers and Post Office Employees
The Toronto Branch No. 1 Issues this Illustrated Souvenir.

The object of the association which has become so strongly organized among the post office employees of the Dominion has been established to maintain a fund from which is paid a sum not exceeding $1,000 to the designated beneficiary of each deceased member. The association also plans to give moral, social, intellectual and material aid to its members.

The association recommends itself for its simplicity of organization, is extremely careful in the selection of members, requires a strict medical examination, and is also extremely economical in its management.

Cost and Benefit

The cost of membership consists simply of the advance assessment, $1.00; per capita, half year, 30c.; and the medical examination fee, usually 50c. On the death of a member a special assessment of $1.00 is levied, and the beneficiaries receive amount of this assessment up to, but not exceeding, one thousand dollars. There is no assessment levied, however, while a sufficient amount remains in the benefit fund to pay a death claim.

TRAPPED IN CANADA

"MADE IN CANADA"

WORN ALL OVER THE EARTH

LIVING up here in the rare, bracing atmosphere of our Northern climate, where winter becomes a reality not a mere season—few people under the sun can better appreciate the snug comfort of fur garments than we Canadians. Nor has a kindly nature forgotten our needs, for is there not a perfect wealth of Sable, Mink, Stone Marten, Fox, Bear, Otter, Beaver, Coon, Lynx, Squirrel, Musk Rat and a host of other furs at our doors for the taking?

Throughout the bush lands of our own Ontario, and the sea-girt Eastern Provinces; among the rocks and rivers of Quebec and Labrador; across the distant stretches of the great lone land to the north and west; on, over the Rocky Mountains, and then further and further North, to the very Pole-gates, is an ever increasing army of trappers at work to supply our growing demands. We buy these skins, they are dressed under our own supervision, and manufactured in our own work-rooms by the most skilled workmen in the country. From there they go to the largest and best lighted show-rooms in Canada, which, being open the year around, are ever ready for the purchaser or the visitor. Nor do Canadian furs entirely content us, for in Russia, Persia, and South America the traps are rarely idle in our interests.

No effort has been spared to fit ourselves to meet every variety of taste, need and pocket, nor to give satisfaction, no matter what the cost. If you are thinking of furs, we believe it will pay you to talk it over with us before purchasing. We make a specialty of Seal and Persian Lamb Jackets, and ladies' and gentlemen's fur and fur-lined cloaks of all kinds.

Write, if you are too far away to come.

CITY HALL, TORONTO

The Jas. Morrison Brass Manufacturing Co. Limited

AMONG all the trades that have shared in the wonderful industrial advancement of the present century none have been more completely revolutionized than those dependent upon copper as a base. Much of this impetus has been due to the development of electricity among the industrial arts, necessitating the use of copper in a thousand unheard-of forms, much to the discovery of the great stores of this material in the new world and the vast improvements in the methods of mining it. First to share in the wonderful growth dependent on this great base have been the brass trades. The contrast between the brass workers' shop of a century ago with its quaint sign at the door, "We Be Brass Mongers" and the vast establishments working in this material to-day, represents, in fact, an advancement of not one, but many, centuries. Every city in America can point to some establishment in this line that has shared in this rapid progress and grown from the smallest proportions to an industry of commanding size. Toronto presents an example of this kind in the Jas.

In all this development a broad-minded policy in the management of the concern has not only kept pace with, but lead, its material advancement. The result is the institution as it stands to-day. In 1893 the business was incorporated under its present title, Mr. Morrison remaining actively at its head as President, associating with him his three sons, Messrs. Chas. E., R. A., and J. A. Morrison, the former being manager of the Company, and all giving excellent promise in their chosen line. Mr. Charles Morrison was made Secretary-Treasurer in 1900.

Much of the success of the firm has been due to their foresight in grasping opportunities presented them for the manufacture of special goods in which brass has been a large adjunct. They have added theretore, from time to time, a variety of lines involving the employment of other material, till now they may justly style themselves as workers in metal of all kinds. Their product in ornamental brass work is very beautiful, and this element in their business is becoming an important factor.

MR. JAS. MORRISON

Morrison Brass Manufacturing Co., Limited, which, within the life of the founder, has grown from the most modest beginnings to the proud position of being the foremost house of its kind in Canada.

A glance at its growth will prove of interest. Mr. James Morrison, the founder of the firm, was born in Montreal some sixty years ago. In the early seventies he established himself in a small shop, located on the corner of Temperance and Bay Streets, where he began the production of brass goods in a small way, furnishing small brass parts for engines, such as the needs of engineers and machinists made an opening for. Mr. Morrison's natural genius and mechanical skill found in this line a fitting opportunity for their development, the result being that inside of five years he found his business growing so rapidly as to necessitate enlarged quarters to adequately meet its increasing wants. He thereupon removed his plant to its present location on Adelaide Street, where for over a score of years it has remained, making its name known first throughout Toronto and the neighboring provinces, and finally throughout the entire Dominion. This growth has necessitated frequent enlargements and additions, until at present the concern's establishment extends from Nos. 84 to 97 Adelaide Street West, and back to Pearl Street.

MR. CHAS. E. MORRISON

Among their leading products may be mentioned all classes of brass goods for engineers' and plumbers' uses, embracing brass parts for marine, locomotive and stationary engines, including gauges, safety valves, injectors, steam whistles, etc. Also a very complete and attractive line of gas and electric fixtures, both plain and in combination, a specialty being made of fine ordered work. Another distinct line which is growing rapidly is that of fine plumbers' supplies, including everything pertaining to this branch of the trade. Their show-room on the ground floor on Adelaide Street presents a very attractive display in these goods.

As may be imagined, the equipment of his Company for the production of these goods is the most complete imaginable. They give employment to some 250 hands, many of them having been years in their employ.

No trade article could do justice to the variety of goods manufactured here. A possible appreciation of their extent may be inferred from the size of the concern's attractive catalogue, where some seven hundred pages of illustrative and descriptive matter is needed to cover their line.

A concern of thirty-five years' successful growth might well rest on its laurels, but it is safe to say that the Jas. Morrison Brass Manufacturing Co., with the able help of a second generation, will, in the future as in the past, be found only in one place—and that is at the front.

TORONTO'S WATER FRONT

FOR HATS AND FURS

WE don't think people in Canada realize what a splendid chance they have to buy good furs at a reasonable price, compared to residents in other countries. Canada is the biggest fur producing country in the world—its output regulates the market, although London, Eng., regulates the price, and that price is steadily going up. So it would pay you to buy to-day. It would pay you also to buy from us, for being the largest dealers in Canada, we get big discounts which we naturally allow our customers.

The CONSUMERS' GAS COMPANY

OF TORONTO

THE CONSUMERS' GAS COMPANY was formed in 1848, just six years after the first introduction of gas in Toronto. Since inception the history of the Company has been one of steady growth, of increased capacity, improved methods, and of successive reductions in the price of gas to the consumer.

For the first year of operation, ending September 30th, 1848, the output of gas was 5,774,000 cubic feet, while for the year ending September 30th, 1902, it amounted to 926,749,000.

With an authorized capital of $2,000,000, $1,750,000 was issued at par value of $50.00, being a lower amount of capital per thousand feet of gas sold than that of any other company in America.

Reverting again to the first year of operation, 1849, the price charged for gas was $5.00 net per thousand cubic feet. Since then there has been no less than fifteen reductions in price, the net price now being 80 cents per thousand cubic feet. This price is lower than charged by any other gas company

SUNLIGHT SOAP WORKS, EASTERN AVENUE, TORONTO

Few people realize that the largest soap factory in Canada, and one of the greatest soap manufacturing plants on the continent, has been erected on the banks of the Don River, Toronto, by Lever Brothers, Limited. An enviable tribute to the excellence of the plant is the voluntary statement of an eminent insurance authority who described the works as "the finest soap factory on the American continent today." Some idea of the immensity of the plant may be gathered from the fact that the works cover an area of twenty-three acres, and have a capacity of manufacturing about 500,000 tablets of soap per week. The quality of the goods manufactured is on a par with the excellence of the plant, and it is an acknowledged fact that the goods turned out by this firm stand at the head of the list for quality and general excellence

REDIRECTED LETTERS

Un-directed letters are not liable to any additional postage if handed back to the Post Office with a changed address at the moment of delivery or as soon as possible thereafter, provided always the change in the address does not require the letter to be sent to any place to which the postage rate is higher than was at first possible. GENERAL INFORMATION

A general receiving and despatching office, known as "Station B," is located at 117 King Street West. Mails are made up and despatched from this office at the same hours as from the General Post Office.

Un-used Postage Stamps, being no longer redeemable by the Department, should not now be used for the redemption of small sums of money. Postal notes have been introduced for this purpose.

All Newspapers, Books, Printed Matter, Samples and Patterns to be sent by any of the above Mails, must be posted half an hour before the time of closing. Letters can be re-addressed without any new charge for postage to and from countries in Postal Union.

Letters on ordinary post office business should be addressed to Postmaster, Toronto, and not to T. C. Patterson, as occasional delay may arise in dealing with the subject matter of letters personally addressed.

Letters for registration must be posted half an hour before the mail closes.

A letter once posted becomes the property of the person to whom it is addressed, and must be forwarded according to its direction. In an application, however urgent, can it be delivered back to the writer or to any other person.

The public are cautioned against doing up book packets in envelopes attached to the ends or corners; nor must the postage stamp be attached to the ends or corners. The contents of a book packet must be sealed or fastened up as to permit of being withdrawn for inspection.

Letters bearing mutilated stamps, or stamps soiled and defaced so to make it impossible for the sorting clerks to decide whether they have been used or not, will be sent to the Postmaster-General for his adjustment.

The Postmaster is not responsible for information given at the stamp-counter. While it would be arbitrary and inconvenient to order the licensed stamp vendor to give no information whatever to inquirers, it may be remarked that the Official Inquiry Wicket is only a few steps from the stamp-counter, and that the stamp-counter is not served by employees of the Post Office Department.

American Postage Stamps to prepay special delivery in American cities can be obtained at the Stamp Counter.

On Public Holidays, New Year's Day, Good Friday, 1st of May, Dominion Day, Labour Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day there is a morning delivery only. The outgoing mails will close as usual. Street letter boxes will be collected twice during the day, viz. at 8:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m., according to district.

The evening collection will be in time for the G.T. and C.P.R. trains for the East. The front hall and general delivery will be open from 10 to 11 a.m., and from 5 to 7 p.m.; but persons desirous of getting their letters (whether usually received by box or carriers delivery) must soon application at the Postmaster's office at any time during the day.

Letters meant for "general delivery" or "post restante" or "to be called for" should be so marked, or they may go to the hands of the carriers' depots in the afternoon to find addresses, and so on; by at the general delivery, when called for there. The "General Delivery" is intended for transient visitors, and not for people having a known place of abode in the city.

Parties laying newspapers or other matter on the top of street letter boxes are warned that they do so entirely at their own risk. Newspapers should be posted at the General Post Office, at Stations A, B, or C, in care of the boxes for the receipt of newspapers, parcels, etc., set up at the intersection of principal streets, or at one of the sub-offices.
