British Naval Airmen Shot Down Six Hun Planes Yesterday--Story of the Attack on London; Rep- risals Justified

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Oct. 22.—Six German airplanes were brought down yesterday by British airmen, says a statement from the Admiralty today.

LITTLE REALLY KNOWN London, Oct. 22.—While admitting the existence of widespread popular dissatisfaction over the apparent impunity with which Zeppelins raided England Friday night, a majority of the morning newspapers take a more sober view than that expressed by the Saturday and Sunday papers.

The story of the raid is still rather obscure and no official explanation has been given of absence of gunfire in the London district or of the escape of the raiders from England. It is assumed here by thoughtful writers that the directors of the defensive system adopted a policy dictated by circumstances and acted with due vigilance and enterprise.

While the raiders were not attacked by gunfire in London, they were bombarded considerably elsewhere and there is reason to believe that one was so damaged that it left England under imperfect control. It is suggested that the authorities had reasonable grounds for believing the Zeppelins would be unable to find London owing to the darkness and the height at which they were travelling and the firing of guns and the flashing of searchlights would only have revealed the target.

It is known that British airplanes were up in considerable numbers during the raid and writers in the morning newspapers hint that this had much to do with the driving of the Zeppelins to France where the French gunners and aviators—whose skill is praised warmly—were able to deal with them by daylight.

Nevertheless it is contended that an explanation is due to the public and ought to be given preferably in parliament.

The King and Queen paid a surprise visit yesterday afternoon to one of the bombed districts of London and talked for two hours with victims. Speaking to a local clergyman, the King said:

"I wish people who are against retaliation could see this wreckage."

Fired on Lifeboats. Stockholm, Oct. 22.—Newspaper accounts of the attack by German raiders on convoys in the North Sea say that two German cruisers and three torpedo boats fired ruthlessly on the merchantmen and subsequently on their lifeboats. They made no effort to spare the lives of the seamen. The loss involved in the sinking of the two Swedish vessels amounts to 2,000,000 kroner.

More Planes Shot Down. London, Oct. 22.—British airmen carried out numerous attacks on German airbases in Belgium and important objectives near Saarbruecken, northwest of Metz, Saturday and Sunday. The official statement on aviation activities says that nine German machines were brought down and that four others were driven down out of control. The statement reads:

"In spite of very misty weather a further attack into Germany was carried out by our airplanes this afternoon. A foundry and railway station ten miles north of Saarbruecken were bombed with over a ton of bombs. Very good results were obtained. Bombs were seen on the foundry and the station, where a big explosion occurred. Many hostile scouts attacked the bombing squadron over the objectives, and four were driven down out of control. We took photographs. All our machines returned safely except one."

"Saturday the weather was very fine, but a thick haze prevented observation for artillery. During the day we carried out bombing operations vigorously. A total of 238 bombs were dropped on the enemy's airbases at Gontrode and Roulers, on the Cortemarck station and on hostile billets and hutments. One airbase at Roulers was bombed

LT. COL. HARRY COCKSHUTT IS UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF PARIS CONVENTION

He Accepts the Candidacy for North Brant Amid a Scene of Great Enthusiasm—Ringing Speeches are Made on Behalf of Union and 'Win the War' Government and Resolutions Passed

Amid a scene of great and memorable enthusiasm, Lieut.-Col. Harry Cockshutt was on Saturday afternoon made the unanimous choice of the convention held in Paris to choose a "win-the-war" candidate in support of the new Union Government. Dr. Johnston of Burford ably occupied the chair and there were stalwarts present from all portions of the north riding. The hall was so crowded that many had to stand and the applause when Mr. Cockshutt accepted was loud and prolonged. The standard bearer was throughout most heartily received and at the close he stepped to the end of the assembly chamber and heartily shook hands with each one as they departed for home.

Mr. James Scace, was one of the most important, one momentous in normal times and still more so to-day, when the complexities of government were enhanced a hundred fold. Great problems engaged the attention of the legislators to-day, primary among them the one paramount problem of the prosecution of the war. This issue, the speaker contended, involved four issues, looming above all others as of vital importance, not alone in times of war but perhaps even more in the days to follow. These four issues he enumerated: agricultural production, and the settlement of land probably primary among all; industrial development, and protection of the working classes; transportation, by land and water; fourth, and not the least important, that of finance.

A legislator of a successful nature, the speaker went on to point out, must have the ability to handle one of all of these questions. "If gentlemen," he declared, "you can obtain a man of outstanding ability, one of long and deep experience in all of these issues and withal a man of the highest character, of the most fervent loyalty, then we have indeed an ideal candidate. And it is my belief that we can obtain such a candidate; a man who has been deeply and closely associated with the practical development of agriculture, a man who has made transportation a study, a man who is one of the outstanding figures of the industrial and financial world, a man above all of the highest character, a man whose loyalty and whose efforts to win the war are known to all of you—a man who represents within himself all these qualities which I have mentioned to you. Gentlemen, it affords me great pleasure to nominate Lt. Col. Harry Cockshutt."

Mr. Scace's utterances were greeted with prolonged applause, and not a single dissenting voice was heard as the nomination was seconded by Franklin Smoke of Paris, who praised the efforts of Col. Cockshutt in the interest of the 215th battalion and in connection with all war endeavours. The proposal of his name was carried by unanimous cheers.

Harry Cockshutt. The candidate was then sent for and escorted to the room. His entrance was the signal for renewed applause and cheering. When the acclamations had ceased he said:

"I am not going into the campaign," he announced, "with any expectation of personal honor or glory. This request was not of my own personal seeking and when first I was asked if I would allow my name to go in nomination I declined, for I have many interests which require my personal attention. However, if in such a critical period in the history of the country you want me to carry the Union Government standard I will do what is required of me. (Loud applause.) It is putting it very mildly to say that I am proud of the honor which you have conferred upon me. I value it more than I can express. I appreciate your confidence in me and accept the nomination on condition that I may independently go my own way in the matter of what in my earnest judgment seems to be the best course at this period. Guaranteed me this and I will discharge my duties in the way of the very most of my ability. We must continue to carry on in connection with the war and more. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for this honor, which I did not seek, but which was offered to me. I accept it, and upon the condition that every man of you will work for me." (Prolonged cheers and applause.)

F. S. Scott. A masterful summing up of the achievements and record of the Borden government during its time of office, was that delivered by F. S. Scott, M.P., of South Waterloo, who was next called upon by the chairman.

"When the events of to-day, gentlemen," declared Mr. Scott, "have passed into history, when we come to a full realization of the part taken in the war by the Conservative party, we shall have reason to be proud of our allegiance. To-day we stand so close to the momentous events which are transpiring that we do not get a proper perspective of them."

Mr. Scott went on to speak a word of praise for Col. Cockshutt's wartime record, expressing the belief that the convention could have selected no better standard bearer than a man of the character, ability and standing of the present nominee, who, he expressed confidence, would carry the cause to a successful conclusion in the riding. The speaker also extended congratulations to Senator J. H. Fisher, upon his appointment to the Upper House. "You have selected the best possible kind of a candidate, gentlemen," he declared, "but he will have a hard pathway to

Offensive Launched by the French This Morning, Along Front of Over a Mile--American Army Officers Learn Hun Aerial Secrets

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Oct. 22.—French troops adjoining the British in Belgium attacked this morning on a front of one kilometre. The war office announces that all objectives were attained. The announcement follows:

"In Belgium we attacked this morning at the left of the British army on a front of one kilometre. Our troops attained all their objectives, making appreciable progress north of Veldeek, a certain number of prisoners remaining in our hands."

"Reconnoitering parties penetrated the enemy lines at various points on the front to the southeast of St. Quentin near Mannejan Farm, at Pantheon and in the region of Tahure. We took ten prisoners."

"Severe artillery fighting continued all along the Aisne front. German attacks between Rheims and Cerny and in the sector of Massiges were without result."

"There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front."

THE BRITISH OFFICIAL London, Oct. 22.—Local attacks were made by the British this morning on both sides of the Ypres—Staden railway, the war office reports. The statement follows:

"Early this morning we made local attacks on both sides of the Ypres—Staden railway. The progress of these operations is reported as satisfactory. French troops co-operated on our left."

HUN AIR SECRETS NOW KNOWN American Training Camp in France, Oct. 22.—A number of American army officers to-day inspected the German Zeppelin L-49 brought down intact by French aviators Saturday. The machinery and instruments of the airship were undamaged, the first instance of its kind since the beginning of the war.

All the German airship secrets are now known. A detachment of American marines who happened to be travelling in the neighborhood, arrived at the spot soon after the Zeppelin landed and assisted the French aviators in protecting the airship and making prisoners of its occupants.

THE SITUATION.
 The French for some reason seem to be able to deal with air raiders more effectively than the British defenders have yet done. Whether enemy aircraft take bigger chances over French soil and fly lower, or whatever the cause the fact remains that our allies bag a much bigger percentage. Saturday they brought down four Zeppelins, which, it is thought, were part of the fleet which visited the Old Land Friday. Another thing the French do is to make reprisal raids for every air attack made upon them.
 The Russian naval forces, which had taken refuge in Moon Island, are said to have effected an escape and to be now on the way to join the Baltic fleet. Meanwhile the Teutons continue to have their own way in the Gulf of Riga.
 Another coup was recorded by the German navy when they attacked a fleet of twelve neutral ships in the North Sea and sank two British destroyers, acting as convoys, together with nine of the vessels. The rarity of such incidents speaks well for British fleet efficiency.
 British troops have commenced an encircling movement in Mesopotamia near the Persian frontier and are driving back Turkish forces.
 The continuance of very heavy artillery fighting in Flanders is generally believed to have just about reached the maximum before another British infantry offensive.
 It is asserted that Germany and Austria have come to odds over troops.
 French troops have repulsed attacks on both banks of the Meuse and in doing so took many Teuton prisoners.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE.
 Lieut.-Col. Harry Cockshutt was the unanimous choice of the Paris convention as a win-the-war and Union Government candidate in the Brant riding and the delegates are to be heartily congratulated upon their selection. It will take a big man to fill the position occupied in such a markedly happy and efficient way by Senator Fisher, and Mr. Cockshutt possesses many of the attributes which will also make for his popularity and service as member.
 The standard bearer in announcing his acceptance, emphasized the fact that he was willing to answer the call from a sense of duty and that he must have the hearty backing of those who had put him in the field on behalf of the one issue paramount in the approaching contest—the unreserved support of this Dominion in the prosecution of the war on behalf, not alone of the Empire, but of human liberty.
 The assemblage very properly passed a resolution of congratulation to Mr. Fisher upon his appointment to the Upper Chamber and another resolution in commendation of Sir Robert Borden for his statesmanlike and untiring efforts in bringing about the formation of an Administration composed of leading men of the two leading political parties.
 Whether or no there will be a contest in the North riding remains to be seen, but if there is one it should be conducted on a basis which befits this time of crisis and the electors will certainly make no mistake in choosing a man of the broad minded and earnest "win-the-war" calibre, which Mr. Cockshutt has from the commencement most emphatically proved himself to be.

CROP REPORT.
 Following is a summary of weekly crop reports made by district representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture.
 Threshing is active, and the results continue to show good average yields for most of the grain crops. The Kenora representative claims an average of 50 bushels per acre for oats, and instances one field that yielded 80 bushels per acre.
 Beans and late buckwheat have been more or less injured by frost. Considerable husking corn also got nipped, and will be unfit for seed, although good enough for feed, while from the same cause the general quality of ensilage will also be inferior compared with that of more recent years. Rain has been delaying corn cutting.
 Most of the fall wheat will enter the winter with a good top, but some has been sown rather late, and there has been, but little October growth. Potatoes on the whole will be a fair to good crop both as to yield and quality, should not develop. They have done remarkably well in the Fort William and some other districts of Northern Ontario. The Durham county representative states that this season has proved to the satisfaction of many farmers that spraying with Bordeaux mixture will control the potato blight.

 Some mangels, turnips and sugar beets have been pulled, and are generally turning out most satisfactory, although a number of turnip fields in Bruce, Oxford and Durham were reported to be injured by the Zebra caterpillar.
 Tobacco in Essex has been all harvested and mostly sold at 18 1/2c a pound for the Burley variety.
 Pastures have been somewhat helped by recent rains, although the week was rather too cold for much growth. Young clover looks well.
 Tomatoes have been late in ripening and a larger quantity of green ones than usual had to be picked to escape the frost.
 The onion crop, which is growing in importance in some of the Western counties, has been pulled. At Leamington they have been at $2.30 a bag, f.o.b.
 Live stock: Market prices for live stock have remained firm except in the case of horses. Some farmers have disposed of their finished cattle, and are purchasing feeders to turn off for the market later on, as there are plenty of scarce feeders on hand, although silage corn is not as well clobbered as usual. Already a number of enquiries are being made with a view to taking advantage of the Federal Department's offer of free freight for breeding stock.
 Live stock will be left on pasture for a few weeks yet should the weather not prove too cold. The milk flow, while decreasing, is up to the average for the time of year.
 However, in Peel some farmers are selling dairy cows on account of the scarcity of labor and the price of milk being too low to net a profit.
 Labor: One representative states that farmers never before worked together in exchanging labor as they have done this year. There is scarcity of help for the fall ploughing, silo filling and threshing now demanding attention, and broken weather during the week has been adding to the strain. The recent rains have made ploughing easier on heavy clays, although some soils are yet very stiff. Misses reports that some farmers are buying tractors for silo filling, ploughing, and other purposes.

INCREASE SOLDIERS' PENSIONS
 Addition of Twenty-Five Per Cent. Looked For At Ottawa
 By Courier Leased Wire
 Ottawa, Oct. 22.—While no order has yet been passed increasing the pensions of soldiers, it is understood that the matter has been under consideration by the government and the pensions board and that official action is likely to be taken at any time. Members of the pensions board to-day would neither deny nor confirm the statement that there is to be a general increase in pensions of twenty-five per cent., but they indicated that steps would soon be taken to implement the promise made by Sir Robert Borden that at an early date an increase in pensions would be authorized upon a percentage basis. According to the premier's statement, the percentage increase would be a temporary solution of the problem, which would be finally dealt with by the new parliament to be elected.

U.S. AIRMEN DESTROYED HUN PLANE
 Detroit Aviator Brought Down Enemy Machine Out of Squadron
 By Courier Leased Wire
 Paris, Oct. 22.—Phelps Collins, of Detroit, an aviator serving with one of the French squadrons, brought down alone one of seven German machines, flying in company. Collins returning from patrol duty, noticed puffs of shrapnel in the direction of Ypres from allied anti-aircraft guns. He flew at a great height toward the puffs and found himself above seven German machines. They noticed him and one German took position so as to be able to attack the American if he descended to engage the others.
 Collins turned and flew swiftly toward the French lines, as though afraid to fight. The German, satisfied Collins had been scared away, resumed his place with the others. Collins returned before the enemy machines noticed him, dived down and fired into the last German machine, which doubled up and fell in flames. He escaped before the other six could fire upon him. Collins is 23 years of age and was educated in the University of Idaho.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY IN CONVENTION
 Women of Brantford District Methodist Churches Met in Paris
 (From our own Correspondent)
 Paris, Oct. 19.—The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, Brantford district, held their annual convention in the Methodist church here yesterday. A large number of delegates were present, and the reports from auxiliaries, circles and bands were very encouraging. Mrs. Preston, of Japan, and Miss Hall of China, returned missionaries, gave very helpful addresses during the day, and they were listened to with rapt attention. The round table talk and question drawer was in charge of Mrs. Baker, Brantford. Mrs. Shultis of Brantford was elected President, and Miss Simpson, Brantford, secretary. Dinner and tea was served by the ladies of the church. Solos were given by Mrs. Harry Evans and Mrs. John Scott. Mr. Kenneth Tennant, who has been organist for the past seven years at St. Andrew's church, Brantford, has resigned and accepted the Presbyterian church organ here. Before coming to Brantford, the choir presented him with a handsome club bag. Mr. Tennant, who is well-known to many in town, was an ex-pupil of the High School, and will commence his duties here on Sunday. Everything is in full swing for the Provincial plowing match, which will be held at Oak Park Farm next Thursday and Friday, and every type of tractor will be in use. Some of the best plowmen from all parts of Ontario will be there.
 Chief Rutherford has issued warnings to people burning leaves on the streets. The same must not be done by children, and parties burning leaves must see that the bon-fire is out before retiring.
 A wedding of interest to many in town took place last week in Westminster Church, Chauvin, Alta., of Miss Ruby Pierce, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pierce, formerly of Paris, to Mr. E. Matheson, The Rev. J. B. Henderson officiated. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Pierce. A host of Paris friends will extend congratulations.
 Mrs. R. Spinks has been visiting relatives at Woodstock.
 Miss Alecia Evans of Brandon, Man., is the guest of her uncle, Mr. Thomas Evans.
 Mrs. Sidwell of Hamilton and Miss Robson of Brantford have been renewing old acquaintances in town.

A CITIZEN'S RIGHTS.

Judge Snider at a meeting of the Hamilton police commissioners severely criticized a constable who searched a lunch-box carried by an inoffensive workman. The constable was looking for whiskey. What he found was a bottle of cold tea. As his honor pointed out, the law should be strictly enforced, but, at the same time, the police should keep in mind that the citizens have rights which must be respected.

MINISTERS' SALARIES.

At the convention of Baptists of Ontario and Quebec held in Woodstock, a very interesting report was given by Rev. O. E. Kendall of Delhi on the subject of ministers' salaries. A great deal of discussion followed, and the subject proved such an interesting one that the convention found itself unable to deal with it effectively in the time at its disposal. A number of queries addressed to between three and four hundred ministers for the purpose of gathering statistics as to salaries, brought 175 replies containing information which the delegates found of absorbing interest. They showed among other things that surprisingly large proportion of Baptist ministers receive salaries of over $375 a year and a free house out of which many of them have to pay for the keep of a horse. Only nine out of those who replied to the salary query were in receipt of salaries in excess of $2,000 a year. Only 43 of those who reported have other incomes besides their salaries, and 38 reported that the smallness of their salaries militated against their efficiency as preachers and ministers. Seven reported to the contrary.

PETROGRAD PREPARING FOR SIEGE

All Important Works Being Transferred From Russian Capital

GOVERNMENT MOVES German Zeppelins Attack Towns Some Distance From Front

ENEMY STILL IN RIGOROUSLY EVACUATED MOON SOUND

By Courier Leased Wire London, Oct. 22.—All important works dealing with munitions have been removed from Petrograd, according to a despatch to the Times from the Russian capital. German Zeppelins, it adds, are attacking towns some distance from their fighting front.

Petrograd, Sunday, Oct. 21.—All Russian naval units, except observation elements, have succeeded in getting out of Moon Sound without losses, and are protecting the northern entrance to the Sound, the marine department announces, in an official statement.

In the operations in the Gulf of Riga, a Russian submarine sank one German transport, and it is believed to have damaged, if not sunk, a German dreadnought, at which two torpedoes were fired. The communication reads in part:

"Despite the difficult conditions and the enemy's measures to prevent our sortie from Moon Sound we succeeded, without loss and in perfect order in evacuating not only the bulk of military forces, but also the whole of the naval installation in Moon Sound, notably the transports and smaller craft.

"We left the whole of the abandoned base and the adjoining region in a condition rendering it entirely unserviceable for military purposes. Our naval forces are protecting the north entrance of Moon Sound against fresh attacks.

"During operations in the Gulf of Riga, out of our submarines met an enemy squadron cruising of four dreadnoughts of the Markgraf type (vessels built in 1914, of 25,200 tons, and carrying a complement of 1,150 men) cruisers, and a large number of torpedo boats. It fired two torpedoes at the leading dreadnought, but being shelled by sea planes and riddled with shot, was obliged to submerge without noting results. The detonation of a torpedo, however, was heard and proceeded some distance and then rising, clouds of smoke was seen through the periscope of the submarine. A large transport escorted by torpedo boats, made for the submarine. The submarine returned to the attack and sank one of the transports with a torpedo."

Typical Testimony Petrograd Oct. 22. A telegram received by the semi-official news agency, says that Estonians who have escaped from Moon and Oesel Islands, recently captured by the Germans, report that Russian prisoners are being loaded into boats by the Germans who tell them:

"We have nothing with which to feed you. Go away." As soon as the boats leave they are fired upon with machine guns.

Hit at Roumania. London, Oct. 22. Colonel De St. Avilaire, the French Minister to Roumania, has arrived in Odessa, according to an Odessa despatch to Reuters' limited, which gives the following account of his address to the French colony there.

"Germany is convinced that King Ferdinand and the legally constituted Government would oppose any proposal for a separate peace and has attempted a desperate effort to expel the Roumanian Government from Moldavia, with the object of establishing at Bucharest a new Government, which would agree to a separate peace. But the Roumanian Government is vigorously resisting the attacks of the enemy, thus protecting Bessarabia and as a result the atrocities are being committed in Roumanian territory."

The Minister said the army and the civilian populations of Moldavia was threatened with famine and he appealed to the democracy of Russia to organize speedy and regular relief. Austrian Official Vienna, via London, Oct. 21.—The Austro-Hungarian general headquarters to-day issued the following official statement: "The situation is unchanged. "In the theatre: "In the Theines valley our patrols carried out a successful enterprise, bringing back an officer and 40 men prisoners. "Southeastern theatre: "West of Lake Ochrida strong French attacks failed against the brave defense of Austro-Hungarian, German and Bulgarian troops. George C. GAINS IN BACON PROFITS WERE ENORMOUS

In 1916-17 Wm. Davies Co.'s Profits Were $3,400,000 By Reason of War

FLAVELLE'S EVIDENCE No Qualms of Conscience in Respect of Way Money Was Secured

Toronto, Oct. 22.—Sir Joseph Flavelle, president of the William Davies Company, was called on Saturday to add his testimony to the story which has been told before a Dominion Commission, sitting at the city hall of the ways and means whereby the war-time profits of his packing house were piled up to such a tremendous total. Sir Joseph gave expression to the last words set down on the record of a voluminous mass of evidence which is to be considered by the commissioners before they pass final judgment. Sir Joseph admitted the enormity of the profits. He declared he was troubled with no qualms of conscience as to the way in which they had been secured. He also explained the passing of his now-famous expression, "Profits ought to go to the hell to which they belong."

Sir Joseph's Testimony Sir Joseph was examined by his own counsel, W. N. Tilley, K. C., who faced him as interrogator for the Crown, and "probed" by Gordon Waldron, K. C., who appeared as an advocate for private interests. His responses throughout were typical of a man well versed in the vicissitudes of high finance and big business. He preferred to treat with what he termed the fundamental principles involved in the large transactions which had attracted public attention and provoked the official inquiry. His most interesting and candid testimony told of the very few points of personal contact he had with the bacon business since the war began; of his personal attitude towards "profiteers"; of his personal relation to the munition business, and of his personal holdings in trading and financial companies which had enlarged their wealth to a large extent since the war began.

He was under examination by his own counsel when he said in effect, that with in 24 hours of the declaration of war he had put the facilities of the Wm. Davies Company, as procurer of munitions in the market, at the disposal of the newly appointed buyer for the British War Office.

Following up a lead opened by his own counsel, he also by his attitude to "profiteers" and declared the way to a better understanding of his famous statement, "Such profits should go to the hell where they belong." Before his own counsel he declared that the Wm. Davies Company and the Harris Company became rivals and a way was being made to sever the financial bond between the two companies and break up a "relation which was not natural." He also told Mr. Tilley that he alone was responsible for the adoption of the packing process, which has gained so much notoriety under the name of "post-cure."

No Qualms of Conscience. To Mr. Bain he volunteered the statement that he had no qualms of conscience over the enormous profits made by the Wm. Davies Company out of transactions which had sprung from the war needs of the British army. He declared the deal made by his young lieutenant, Mr. Fox, with the War Office buyer whereby the Davies Company employed the advantage of insurance against loss on the enormous export business from Canada to fill War Office requirements, and declared that the arrangement was "entirely proper," because it simply reflected "a co-operative relationship between two people who need one another."

He declared that he had taken no active part in securing any War Office contracts for the Wm. Davies Company, and did not even know, until Mr. Bain showed him proofs, that the Wm. Davies Company had been singled out in any definite respect for favorable operating conditions by the British buyer.

He would not agree with Mr. Rain's view that the evidence had indicated that the principal reason for the increased price of bacon was because the Wm. Davies Company and the Matthews-Blackwell Company, in their fight for supremacy in the War Office business, had forced up the price of hogs by their aggressive competition as buyers on the Canadian live stock markets. He preferred to reverse the figure by asking if the responsibility should not be put upon the buyer who wanted delivery of such large quantities of bacon in England.

The profits in 1916-17 were $3,400,000.

HEROIC ENEMY IN EAST AFRICA Heavy Fighting Going On With German Rear-Guard Forces TEUTONS RETREAT Belgian and British Columns in Touch and Both Advancing

London Oct. 21.—Heavy fighting is going on between British and Teuton forces in German East Africa. The British War Office announced to-day that the mission station of Nyangao was occupied by the British on October 17, after which the battle was resumed to the west of that place. The British force sustained considerable casualties and the German losses also were severe. The text of the statement follows: "Our right column after advancing southward from the Mbemkuru valley occupied Ruondo on October 11 and established itself at the Lukeled mission on October 17, the enemy withdrawing to the eastward. "The main body of the enemy retreating from Mbemkuru valley, covered by a strong rearguard, succeeded in making its way to Mahwa, four miles south-west of Nyangao. The enemy rearguard, closely followed, was driven from its successive defensive positions. "On October 15 an attack on the enemy's positions at Mpama was commenced, the German force being driven on Nyangao. "On the 17th an enveloping movement around the mission station resulted in severe fighting, but by nightfall Nyangao had been occupied. The next day more severe fighting commenced to the west of Nyangao and still is proceeding. The British casualties were considerable and the enemy's losses also were severe. "In the Mahenge area Belgian columns advanced southward and are in touch with the British advancing from the west. "In the Luwegu valley the British are engaged at Ringoli, 43 miles south-south-east of Mahenge with a strong enemy detachment which had Mpomas."

LETTERS OF GERMANS CAPTURED REVEAL FAMINE IN HUN ARMY

Only Officers Get Enough to Eat and Drink, One Writes; Artillery is Crippled; Men in Front Line Have Only One Water Bottle to Last a Week; Filth and Dirt in Trenches Occupied by Men; Discouraging Letters From Home

With the British Armies in the field, Oct. 20.—Letters written by German soldiers captured before the letters from families to loved ones at the front, throw an interesting light on military and civil conditions in Germany. One written in the field says:

"I am one of the oldest in the company. The others are all between 20 and 30. I went yesterday with a ration party, but for the last time. I won't go again; they can do what they like with me. We went off at 10 and returned at 4 a. m. I could have fallen down. It is no longer human; beasts are better off. Officers don't notice it, but they have enough to eat and drink. No wonder so many Bavarians deserted at Arras."

Another said: "We are now in the front line. It is better than in the third line. We don't get so much artillery fire here, but it is scarcely endurable. Nothing but the smell of corpses, and here and there one can see arms and legs and whole corpses. Five days would go by easily if one only had something to smoke, but we don't even have that—we sit here in shell holes and listen to the shells going over our heads, and expect every minute either death or attack."

Must Hold Shell Holes From a man of the 455 Regiment, 25th Division, I could "The situation is melancholy. Our company has suffered heavy losses during the one day we have been here. At the present moment we are in support of a trench a few hundred metres behind the front line. The English shell the entire area incessantly with their heaviest guns and the ground is one mass of shell holes, some of them large enough to build houses in. To-morrow night we go into the front line. It is battered to pieces, and consists merely of shell holes in which we have to hold out for seven consecutive days. Our water supply consists of one water bottle full, and with that we must suffice for a week, for one can't get back from the front line in consequence of the heavy shelling. Death awaits like a fox for its prey."

From a corporal of the 29th Machine Gun, a marksman: "None of all arms of the service here say that the battle of Flanders with all its means of warfare, is far worse than the battle of Arras. Our artillery is left sitting and is scarcely able to fire a round. Matters here come to such a pass that our artillery moves forward in the night, unlimbers and lets loose some thousands of gas shells and then retires before dawn."

"What is taking place in Flanders at the present moment is no longer war, and it borders closely on murder. For this reason the sole object of every army that enters the battle is to play itself out in order to be withdrawn as quickly as possible. We hope to be withdrawn very shortly. In three days we shall be relieved, and then we will go back for ten days. We count the hours and minutes until relief arrives. On the march back we must get about 8 miles away before we are safe from shelling."

Soldiers Near Starvation In the field: "We have the same filth and drill until we are almost crazy. Three days of drill, three days in the front lines. How are you off for food? We get only a third of a loaf. It is like starving to death. That's what they do with us. They don't cease to discipline us. Every morning I have a painter's breakfast. You know what that is surely, for you are a painter—it is a cigarette and coffee."

This is from a soldier of the 82nd Reserve Division, and touches on the morale of these German troops: "We have very little bread, and the food is insufficient. We are always hungry. How is it going to go on? And it is exactly the same at home. Mother writes that there is now, generally speaking, nothing left. There will probably be no peace until the same thing occurs as that which happened in Russia, as England will not talk with our kaiser, and we are no longer in a position to oblige her to do so."

COLLEGIATE TIED GUELPH AT RUGBY

Royal City Team Battled Local Rugby Boys To 15-15 Draw on Saturday—Championship of The Division Remains in Doubt

As the result of the tie game between Brantford and Guelph teams which was 15-15, the race in the Intercollegiate League still remains tight, and the leadership is as yet unsettled. The game was keenly contested throughout and the laurels might have been won by either team at any stage of the contest, so evenly matched were the opposing aggregations. The play of Carroll of the visitors was a revelation, and his drop kick from the forty yard line was perfect. The game was witnessed by a large number of spectators, students from the school, prominent business and professional men of the city and a growing crowd of supporters from Guelph.

First Quarter. Brantford commenced play in the opening period by kicking with the wind but were unable to make ground, Carroll and Nunan of the visitors being largely responsible for Guelph's defensive and aggressive work. The quarter was Guelph's by a large margin, the score at the end of this frame being 7-0.

Second Quarter. The kicking game having proved futile, the locals experimented with a series of bucks, and at this quarter of the game displayed their superiority to distinct advantage. They were apparently able to go through the visitors' line at will. Two touchdowns were scored in this quarter but neither were converted. At half time the score was even, 10-10.

Third Quarter. Immediately after the commencement of the third stanza, the locals rushed the ball down the field, and within a few minutes of play had again carried the oval over the line for a touchdown. With this substantial lead confronting them, the Royal City aggregation redoubled their efforts and fought hard to even the tally, but were unsuccessful in this period; the score remained 15-10.

In the final quarter the Guelph boys came back strong and put forward a game and vigorous battle to stave off defeat. Their efforts were rewarded and the score was evened up when the ball was taken over by them for a touchdown.

The two teams were evenly matched, and in weight were about fifty-fifty. With the exception of the back division, the locals appeared to have the edge, and in the return game next Saturday this deficiency will likely be remedied, should Coach McElvey unearth material to bolster up the rear guard. Fumbles and hesitancy, due evidently to lack of sufficient practice prevented the members of the back division from acquitting themselves as was expected.

For the locals, Whittaker, Truss, Booth, Littler, Baird and Guenther displayed good talent, while the balance of the players all gave a good account of themselves. Carroll and Nunan for the visitors played top-notch football all afternoon, and are the men who will have to be watched in future games.

After having his knee twisted twice, Guenther was carried from the field and a substitute finished the game.

The line ups: Brantford—Rover, Baird; outside wings, Guenther and Middlemiss; middle wings, Kitchen and Sweet; inside, Truss and Booth; scrummage, Gould, Watt and Patterson; halves, Hurley, Cook and Whittaker; quarterback, Buckborough.

REGRET UNIVERSAL Former Champion Put Up A Strong Fight Against Grim Reaper

By Courier Leased Wire Chicago, Oct. 22.—Robert Fitzsimmons, former champion heavyweight pugilist, died early this morning of pneumonia after an illness of five days. Chicago, Oct. 22.—Robert Fitzsimmons, former champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, died at a hospital here early to-day after an illness of five days of pneumonia. The former champion was taken sick last Tuesday while appearing in a vaudeville theatre, and his ailment was at first diagnosed as pneumonia. Later it was discovered that he was suffering from (double) lobar pneumonia, and physicians declared that he could not live. His remarkable vitality sustained him until Saturday when he lapsed into unconsciousness from which he did not rally except at rare intervals.

During the five days of his illness he was the recipient of many messages from men whom he had fought in the ring, including James J. Corbett, from whom he won the championship, and James J. Jeffries, who took the title from him. Other pugilists and followers of the sport sent telegrams to the fighter and his wife, expressing hope of a speedy recovery. Fitzsimmons, until he sank into his final stupor, fought for his life as he had fought for victory in the ring. Physicians declared life was prolonged several days by the grim determination of the man. Mrs. Fitzsimmons, who was with her husband during his illness, suffered a nervous breakdown last Thursday, and for a time it was believed her condition was dangerous, but she soon recovered and resumed her vigil at his bedside.

"Bob was a great fighter and a good husband," said Mrs. Fitzsimmons. "He worked hard on the theatrical circuit, and I believe the exposure between the acts and the drafts which blew through the wings caused his illness."

Robert, Junior, son of the dead pugilist, is expected to arrive here from New York.

258TH LANDS SAFELY. By Courier Leased Wire Montreal, Oct. 22.—The 258th French Canadian battalion, whose safe arrival at an English port is announced from Ottawa is commanded by Lieutenant Colonel the Hon. P. E. Blondin, postmaster-general of Canada, by whom the battalion was raised. It is not known here what the plans of Col. Blondin are, but it is expected that he will return to Canada to take part in the general election.

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste. Liver gets sluggish, stomach sour then your little one becomes cross, half-sick feverish don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach ache or diarrhoea. Listen Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless, children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

The Sealed Valley

By HULBERT FOOTNER

Author of "Jack Chanty" (Copyright)

(From Saturday's Daily)

He was keenly distressed by the mental picture of Nahya sitting alone, fighting sleep, and awaiting the approach of danger. He got up without having a very clear idea of what he meant to do—except that he must be reassured.

He crossed the plank to the boat's deck.

He knew he could not open either of the two closed doors without causing a screech sufficient to awaken the entire party, but he thought that the door on the riverside was still open, for he could see the rays of lights streaming out on the dusty surface of the water.

There was a narrow deck all the way around outside the house. He made for the open doorway, but stopped before showing himself. Ralph had conceived a respect for the resources of this inexplicable girl. One could never be sure in advance of what she might do.

"Hello!" he said softly. "It's the doctor."

There was no answer.

With a fast-beating heart he looked in. She was sleeping on the deck in the middle of an open space between the piles of freight forward and the boiler.

To a beam over her head she had fastened the engineer's lantern, and Ralph, instantly comprehending, had to approve both her courage and her good sense. The light was her safeguard.

She had spread a piece of canvas on the deck, and lay wrapped in a gray blanket, her head pillowed on her out-flung arm.

Her face, slightly turned up, was revealed under the light, calm and partly smiling in sleep. The hard, watchful look that had so recently plussed him during the day had disappeared.

Once again he was compelled to rearrange all his impressions of her. "She's only a kid," he thought tenderly. He had not presumed to take the protective attitude toward her before.

Her long, curved lashes swept her dusky cheeks; her lips were a little parted as if from expectation; the hand that was flung out toward him lay palm upward, the fingers bent, as if mutely asking for a comrade hand.

Abandoned to sleep as she lay, there was something at once appealing and holy in her aspect; something that made his whole being yearn over her and that caused him to draw back outside the door.

He could not bear to look at her. A feeling he could not have named made him return to the forward deck. He turned up his face to the night sky and let his heart quiet down. The essence of the poetry of womanhood had been shown to him, and the starchy night thrilled with the wonder of it.

In a flash there was revealed to him a new understanding of all the love-poems he had ever read, and perhaps secretly despised.

"She sleeps like a lily on the water," he murmured to himself without the least shame.

By and by, prose reasserting itself, he began to reflect upon what he should do next. "If I go back to the fire I'll surely fall asleep," he thought. "If I lie down here nobody can disturb her without waking me first."

Procuring his blankets from beside the fire, he made his bed on the deck in such a position that any one seeking the open door must step over his body.

There he waited for sleep, dwelling with rapt tenderness on the sight he had seen, gazing it lovingly on his subconsciousness for a shrine that he might revisit as long as consciousness endured. He drifted away to the accompaniment of the distant drumming of a partridge in the woods.

Suddenly he found himself wide awake without being able to tell what had aroused him.

The camp-fire was now black out and nothing but a blacker shadow was visible toward the shore. He waited a little breathlessly for confirmation of the alarm he had received. Finally the plank to the shore creaked under a heavy weight, and Ralph became aware of a looming figure.

Joe sat up.

The figure stopped at the edge of the deck. "Who's there?" came in Joe Mixer's thick voice, quick with alarm.

"Cowdray!" said Ralph coolly.

"What are you doing here?"

Ralph sprang up, kicking his legs free of the entangling blanket.

"What are you after?" he retorted. "I don't have to account to you," snarled Joe.

There was a silence. They stood with clenched fists, straining their eyes to take each other's measure in the dark.

Evidently Joe thought better of his truculence, for when he spoke again it was in conciliatory tones. "Gad! You give me a start to see you rise up like that! I thought I had 'em. You shouldn't scare a man to death before you start to knock him down, doc."

Joe's greasy, obsequiousness was more offensive to Ralph than his anger. He remained silent.

"When the fire went out I woke up cold," Joe went on plausibly. "I come aboard to get me a sweater out of my bag."

Ralph was not deceived. The thought that Joe's evil, swimming, little eyes should profane the picture of the sleeping girl made, by so much as looking at her, filled Ralph with a cold, unreasonable rage, and he was ready to go to any lengths to prevent it.

At the same time he reflected that it would serve her better to avoid a fight if he could, and he put his wits to work.

"Take one of my blankets," he said. "I have more than I need."

Joe demurred. They argued the matter with sarcastic politeness on both sides. Each was aware that the other saw through his game.

"She's ready to go just yet," answered Ralph.

"Sorry," replied grandpa, "but I can't wait. I have to make a train, and away they went, leaving Doris behind."

Doris slowly gathered up her toys and put them away, tears running down her cheeks for she knew she had missed a treat in not being able to go with grandpa, for he always bought the children ice cream and candy.

"I've always found that the best thing to do is to gather up my things and to put them in place just as soon as I've finished with them then I'm always ready for whatever happens. You left your best doll in the middle of the floor and Fido has almost torn her to pieces and now grandpa goes and takes her away, all because you failed to gather up your toys when you were told to," said mamma.

"I'll never, never, again say 'in a second,'" sobbed Doris and mamma gathered her little girl in her arms and kissed her tear-stained face.

"I know it, dear, and I'll help you to remember," mamma promised.

But Doris never had to be reminded again, for just as soon as she had finished playing she gathered her things together and put them in their places. Doris had learned a lesson that she never forgot.

over the gangplank, swearing under his breath.

CHAPTER III.
 On the Little River.

The next day passed as if the scene of the night had not taken place. The question of the girl passenger did not become acute again, because all the men were too busy to pay her any attention.

When they arose to their breakfast Joe Mixer's head toward Ralph was, as near as he could make it, unaltered from the day before. In this less open nature would have perceived something more dangerous than candid enmity, but it was characteristic of the easy-going Ralph to meet him half-way.

From sunup to dark they were engaged almost continuously in pulling the little Tewkesbury up the Gisborne rapids, crew and passengers pitching in together.

After his weeks of inaction at Fort Edward, Ralph welcomed hard work and felt like a man again. The entire operation was novel and interesting to him.

A hawser was sent ashore in a boat, one end being fastened to a vessel. The other end was tied to a stout tree up-stream, and with eight men at a time bending their backs to the capstan, the little vessel hauled herself up hand over hands on the rope.

Meanwhile her paddle-wheel was not idle astern.

When the rope was all in another was sent ashore and the trick repeated. More than once the rope broke, and they lost all they had gained. It was nine o'clock before they got in enough water again, and night was falling when they finally tied up to the bank at Gisborne portage, below the new store of Mixer and Sewley.

Ralph himself had made no attempt to approach Nahya during the day.

Good Night Stories

HOW DORIS LEARNED TO BE NEAT.

Mamma had told Doris several times to gather up her toys when she was through with them, but Doris seemed never to learn.

"You'd better put them away before you go out to play or Fido might get into the nursery and destroy your dolls," said mamma.

"In a second!" answered Doris as she left the room.

A few minutes later mamma packed into the nursery. Doris had forgotten to come back, and the toys were scattered all over the nursery floor.

"Doris, you've forgotten to gather up your playthings," mamma called, but Doris was out in the yard and didn't hear.

A big red automobile drew up to the gate, and Doris ran down to meet her grandpa.

"May I go with you?" asked Doris as she saw her little cousins tucked in the car.

"Surely, run ask mamma!" replied grandpa, and Doris fairly flew into the house.

"Not one step until you gather up your toys," mamma declared.

"But mamma, he's in a hurry!" exclaimed Doris.

"Then they must go without you, for I've told several times to gather up your toys," answered mamma.

"But I forgot. Let me go just this once—I'll pick them up when I get back," begged Doris but mamma shook her head.

Doris ran to the nursery and threw open the door. Fido had been there before her! Doris's brand new doll lay where she had left her, stripped of its pretty blue dress and its long golden hair.

"That's too bad, but perhaps you'll learn some day to put your things away so Fido can't get to them," said mamma.

Doris began to pile her things in her box when grandpa called her.

"She's ready to go just yet," answered mamma.

"Sorry," replied grandpa, "but I can't wait. I have to make a train, and away they went, leaving Doris behind."

Doris slowly gathered up her toys and put them away, tears running down her cheeks for she knew she had missed a treat in not being able to go with grandpa, for he always bought the children ice cream and candy.

"I've always found that the best thing to do is to gather up my things and to put them in place just as soon as I've finished with them then I'm always ready for whatever happens. "I'll never, never, again say 'in a second,'" sobbed Doris and mamma gathered her little girl in her arms and kissed her tear-stained face.

"I know it, dear, and I'll help you to remember," mamma promised.

But Doris never had to be reminded again, for just as soon as she had finished playing she gathered her things together and put them in their places. Doris had learned a lesson that she never forgot.

A PERFECTLY SATISFACTORY EXISTENCE

An acquaintance of mine who had grown very tired of keeping house stored most of her furniture and went to boarding.

"I am so tired of thinking what to have to eat," she said, "and of sweeping and dusting and marketing and paying bills and all the paraphernalia of housekeeping I'm going to get rid of it all."

It was plain that she expected to enter upon a perfectly satisfactory existence.

That was four years ago.

The other day I met her and she was hunting for an apartment.

She found Boarding Not Ideal.

"Yes," she said, "I'm going back to housekeeping for a while anyway. I'm so sick of boarding-house cooking and living in two rooms and being tied to the dinner bell. I want some privacy and freedom."

It was plain that she hadn't entered upon a perfectly satisfactory existence when she went to boarding.

I am afraid she never does.

One is always expecting some change of circumstances to do away with all the annoyances, the vexations of existence.

And one is always finding out that while the change may do away with one set of annoyances, it is apt to bring others.

TO BE NO LET-UP ON MURDER PLAN

Germany Begins Onslaught Of Further Unrestricted Frightfulness IN ALL PHASES OF WAR Other Campaigns Planned Which Merely Await Signal for Action

London, Monday, Oct. 22.—Germany's efforts of the past 24 hours mark the beginning of probably months of a series of outrages of every description. The papers this morning carry three stories of German frightfulness, the Zeppelin raid, destruction of two British destroyers with nearly the entire consular staff sinking, the sinking of a United States transport. These calamities have aroused more resentment than anything previously reported. The British public is able to stand the shock of losses with fortitude, but its ire knows no bounds when such reports are published of inhumanity at sea, while workmen are picking up the shattered bodies of civilians and innocent children killed by aerial torpedoes dropped upon London. It was not a spectacular air raid such as has been expected after the aeroplane activity. Except for the dropping of bombs there was surprisingly little noise. Many thought it was a false alarm and came out into exposed places while the Zeppelins hung overhead, with engines shut off, hoping to escape attention for a time and then reconquer the bombardment. The ruse worked so well that it is surprising the casualties were only 27 killed with 52 injured. There was some material damage to houses and business places. Only three bombs landed within the metropolitan area. Even at a considerable distance from the scene of one explosion the roar of the dropping bombs could be heard, sounding like a heavy train crossing a bridge. Those who had ventured out, tired from the roar of the hours, were the raid was over, until the roar of the missiles was heard. Then they ran for shelter, fairly diving into the underground. The flash of the explosion lit up the sky and shook the earth for a radius of several miles.

Germany is preparing an onslaught of unrestricted frightfulness in every phase of warfare. Although she paid heavily for last night's London raid, by losing four huge and costly airships, with the crews, nothing can make her withhold other campaigns which she has already prepared, and are merely awaiting the signal for action. The United States has had its first hint of what is coming against its line of communications.

Specialty Battle

These Zeppelins, it is believed were specially built for this sort of raiding. That their envelopes have been toughened and chemically treated so as to reduce the chances of setting the gas on fire, and that they carried fewer bombs or torpedoes built of greater explosive power than the old Zeppelins, there seems no doubt. Their engines also have been almost silenced, which could only be done by increased weight and lessened high carrying capacity.

But, though less audacious, the ordinary ears these scientific apparatus which can magnify the sound so that the defenders can hear their approach as well as ever. At the same time they have been furnished with new methods of "silent defence," which was tried in London on Friday night as well as considerable criticism of it.

If it may have been effective in driving the Zeppelins out and out of their course, but it left to the French the glory of getting the biggest single Zeppelin bag of the war.

THE DAY OF PEACE.

The war will end some blessed day, some day the strife will cease; the kings will put their guns away, and boost the boon of peace. The cap- tains then will drop the bows which made the world's turmoil, and drive their teams of sorrel mules along the rows of corn. Walls still the tide of battle rolls, while still we hear the din, it seems to countless weary souls that war has always been. Three years they say the strife has raged, across the mourning seas, but it would seem that war's been waged for three centuries. The days that reek of blood and tears pass slowly o'er the stage; to weary hearts three gory years become an endless age. We're looking forward to the day when peace with honor comes, when kings will put their swords away, and soak their battle drums. I long to see the colobels drop their shining snickerees, and buckle down to raise a crop of beans and early peas. I long to see field marshalls hang their batons from a nail, and then get busy with the gang, to earn some bloodless hale.

BOY'S RUSSIAN SUIT.
 By Anabel Worthington.

The junior member of the family will feel quite dignified and grown up if he has a real Russian suit like the one shown in No. 8417. There is a broad panel which forms the front of the blouse; pearl buttons are for trimming as well as fastening. The blouse is in the new length, which is quite short. A small round collar finishes the neck and a soft silk tie will add a touch of color. Long bishop sleeves are gathered or tucked to fit the cuffs. The usual straight trousers are included in the pattern.

The Russian suit pattern, No. 8417, is cut in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. The 4 year size requires 1 1/2 yards of 26 inch material, with 3/4 yard 80 inch contrasting goods.

TURKS PROMPTED BY RUSS MASSACRE OF ARMENIANS

Plan to Exterminate Christians Proven to be "Made in Germany" and Carried out at Instigation of Teuton Officials—Stories of Activities

New York, Oct. 20.—The plan to exterminate the Armenian Christians from Turkey was "made in Germany" and suggested to the Turks by German officials, and where the Armenians made a stand against their Moslem oppressors it was German officers and German cannon that broke them up, according to the Rev. Alphonse Newell Andrus, senior missionary for the Congregational station at Mardin, Mesopotamia, who told of his experiences here today. The far-sighted Germans, he said, were looking forward to the time when they expected to gain complete dominion in Turkey and they wanted to eliminate the Armenian question by getting rid of the Armenian race.

"One of the ways the Turks went about it was to load Armenian men on goatskin rafts on the understanding that they were to be deported—and then they were taken out and dumped into the Tigris River and drowned," he said. "This was the fate of at least 2500 men from the vicinity of Diarbekir and its suburbs in Northern Mesopotamia."

"Armed soldiers were on the rafts which each carried about seventy-five to a hundred victims. Kurd boatmen rowed them out into deep water. Then the soldiers would drive the Armenians to one side of the rafts until they tilted and dumped them into the river. If they tried to climb back on the rafts the soldiers and boatmen beat them and shot them until all perished."

"The Germans and the Turkish government, Dr. Andrus said, looked upon the destruction of the Armenians in Turkey as a cold-blooded political move, and gave the actual execution of it into the hands of the Kurds and Turkish soldiers, who went about it with the ferocity of Moslem religious fanaticism."

"At first the Turkish government objected to the German suggestion of the removal of the Armenians, on the grounds that they were valuable as artisans and business men and necessary to the economic life of the country," continued Dr. Andrus, "but the Germans promised to supply men and their places. Having persuaded the Turks, the Germans then left it to them to put the plan into effect."

"But the Turkish soldiers in some places could not overcome the Armenians. At Urfa, the city of suffering, the Armenians resolved to resist deportation and defend their innocent families and their churches. They barricaded themselves in their stone houses in their quarter. For ten days they withstood all the efforts of the Turkish soldiers to lodge them. In the end they would have prevailed, but that German officers brought and rained cannon upon their stronghold, and forced them to flee."

"Surely such a people should not be allowed to perish. There still remain of them to be cared for, 6,300 in Urfa and near by. Will not the nations help care for them?"

Conditions in Mesopotamia have not been brought much to the public's attention for the reason that there has not been anyone to report the state of things there and because no report could get past the rigid Turkish censorship.

"More than 30,000 Armenians were deported from Diarbekir and its suburbs. It was some of these who were dumped into the Tigris and drowned. The leading and rich men were among these. The others were detailed to dig trenches and do other work with only an insufficient allowance of bread daily. Later they were shot in groups, when no longer able to endure the hardships imposed."

"There followed an epidemic of cholera and then a scourge of typhus. Before the war and deportations the city contained some 60,000 inhabitants. The last I heard there were only 7,000 citizens left there."

"Women were clubbed, stabbed or shot down on the Mesopotamian plains and left for dead in piles on the ground or thrown into old cisterns. Some, coming to consciousness, crawled out from the piles and up from the cisterns and dragged themselves up the mountain to our hospital at Mardin to have their wounds dressed."

"Some of the Moslems at Mardin took pity upon more than a thousand babies of deported women who, in passing through, left those they had no milk to feed nor strength to carry as they went on to their lingering deaths on the plains below. When the local government officials learned that Moslems had the little ones they issued an order that whoever harbored an Armenian would be visited with the treatment dealt to the Armenians."

"The Moslems therefore, secretly turned the little ones over to Christian families who clandestinely cared for them until their resources were exhausted. And now the latest information from Mardin is that unless funds are immediately forthcoming the thousands of orphans must be turned out upon the streets to starve."

"Help must be regular and continuous. The Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief has decided that $5 a month per child will be necessary. That is about 17 cents a day. Who will add one more child to his family and reckon the 17 cents along with what he is spending daily on his other children and at the end of each month send the $5 to the committee?"

Dr. Andrus himself narrowly escaped execution at the hands of the Turks because of his work at Mardin in succoring the suffering. He was ordered to be court martialed, which under the conditions he said, meant a "mock trial and the cutting off of the defendant's head." The Armenian Embassy, however, heard of the order and interfered so that it was rescinded and a decree of exile issued instead.

Dr. Andrus who was born in New York City and graduated from Williams College in 1884 and Union Theological Seminary in 1887, spent fifty years in missionary work at Mardin.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN HOME-VEST LAND REGULATIONS
The sole head of a family, or any male over 21 years of age, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be a British subject or a subject of any allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must reside in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Status of proxy may be made on certain conditions. Details—see monthly residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $20 per acre. Pre-emption expires six months in each of three years after securing homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

After obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $20 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $200.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agents' Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. COBY, Deputy Minister of the Interior.
