GOVERNMENT "MOVIES"

SPLENDID. EDUCATIONAL FEATURE USED IN ONTARIO.

Films Are Prepared Which Show All Sides of Life in the Province, and They Have Proved Popular in the United States as Well as Canada—Subjects Treated Are Varied and Comprehensive.

TWO years ago, with a realization of the important influence which the motion picture might be made to exercise in entertaining and pleasantly instructing the public as to the progress and resources of Ontario, a Motion Picture Bureau was organized in the Province of Ontario.

Since its organization the Ontario Motion Picture Bureau has been quietly and effectively developed until to-day—and this will no doubt astonish a great many people—it has over 200 first-class films, covering 82 different subjects, appearing daily before large audiences throughout Ontario as well as in a number of places outside of Canada. Already over 700,000 persons (mainly rural residents), have enjoyed these admirable pictures during the past year. Moreover, arrangements are being perfected whereby during the next twelve months a leading motion picture company will release two films per month in between three and four hundred Canadian picture theatres from Atlantic to Pacific.

The Department of Agriculture has utilized its 47 District Representatives—each of whom is furnished with a motion picture equipment complete even down to a storage battery for its own power when necessary—in presenting the pictures to the people nearly 2,000 times, interspersed with reels of approved comedy, drama or travelogue by way of diversion. Other Departments of the Ontario Government are planning to use the films to a greater extent in educational work, and fully thirty new films on various subjects are now in course of preparation. Among them will be included the activities of the Ontario Soldiers' Aid Commission, Butter Making, Pulp and Paper Manufacture, Fish Hatcheries, etc.

The motion picture enterprise of the Ontario Government has proved to be an unqualified success even though still in its infancy. Demands for the films come from all quarters, not only in Ontario and in distant provinces, but from the United States. Public entertainment houses take them eagerly. Schools, colleges, social organizations both local and national, agricultural societies, etc., apply for them. For example, Ontario films have been sent to the Provincial Highway Board of Nova Scotia; to the Community Motion Picture Bureau, New York, for use in its military camps and in its Khaki University Overseas. Five portable machines, with 28 reels, covering 22 subjects, are already in use at the Canadian Khaki University, London, England.

Not only have Ontario Government films been shown to over 200 organizations, farmers' Clubs, women's institutes, dairy and horticultural associations, motor leagues, teachers' conventions, etc., but they have aided in various war loan campaigns. At fairs and exhibitions they were also prominent. "The Great Clay Belt," "Ontario Fisheries," "Fish as Food," and "Bread Making" were some Ontario Government films shown at the fairs held in Toronto, Ottawa, London, Sault Ste. Marie, Windsor, Guelph, Kemptville and Oakville. At Child Welfare gatherings they have been most effective. The bureau will lend its films to responsible persons free of cost, except for carriage both ways.

A few of the titles of the films will give an indication of the wide scope and interest of the scenes depicted: "Potatoes for Profit," "Forcing Lettuce," "Pruning Apple Trees," "Wintering Bees—Handling of Bees," "Spraying Fruit Trees," "Rearing Chickens," "Conformation of Holstein Cow," "Home Canning of Vegetables," "The Rural School Fair," "Construction of Macadam Road, Concrete Road, Tar Macadam Road," "Horse Parade," "Cheese-Making, Butter-Making," "Community Canning Centre," "O. A. C. and Macdonald Institute," "Farm Drainage," "Ploughing Match," "Care of Farm Machinery," "Farm Water Supply and Sewage," "Milking Machine," "Fire Protection in Northern Ontario," "Mining in Northern Ontario," "Reforestation," "Mineral Wealth of Ontario," "A Women's Institute," "The Fall Fair," "The Gasoline Engine," "Cooking Fish," "Preparation of Fowl for Cooking," "Lighting of Stables," "Home Nursing," "How to Sharpen a Saw," "Winter Scenes in Ontario," "The Split-Jog Drag," "What's Under the Fleece?" "Medical School Inspection," "Why Not Use a Tractor?" "Farmerettes," "Trip Through Niagara Peninsula," "Cement on the Farm," "Uses of Dripping in the Home," "Making 'News Print' in North Ontario," "The Pulp Industry," "Travelogue West of Sudbury," "Ontario Fisheries," "Fish Hatcheries and Haunts," "Temagami Reserve," "T. & N. O. Railway," "How a Settler Locates His Land," "Building a Settler's House," "Clearing Land," "Stumping in New Ontario," "Settlers in Various Stages," "Pioneer Life: The Hard Side, the Social Side, the Woman's Side, the Agricultural Representative, the Women's Institute," "Vocational Training in Ontario."

It is practically impossible for any person to see one of the Ontario films without deriving both educational benefit and mental entertainment therefrom. The greatest care and study is used in selecting the subject matter and producing the original pictures. No picture is released for presentation unless it is mechanically perfect and its details fully approved by the Government authorities.

LEFT ALONE

It's the loneliest house you ever saw,

This big gray house where I stay;
I don't call it livin' at all, at all,
Since my mother went away.

Four long weeks ago, an' it seems a year,

"Gone home," so the preacher said,
An' I ache in my breast with wantin' her,
An' my eyes are always red.

I stay out of doors till I'm almost froze,

'Cause every corner and room
Seems empty enough to frighten a boy
And filled to the doors with gloom

I hate them to call me in to my meals,
Sometimes I think I can't bear
To swallow a mouthful of anything,
And see her not sittin' up there

A-pourin' the tea an' passin' the things,
An' laughin' to see me take
Two big lumps of sugar instead of one,
An' more than my share of cake.

"I'm too big to be kissed," I used to say,
But somehow I don't feel right
Crawlin' into bed as still as a mouse,
Nobody saying "good-night,"

An' tuckin' the clothes up under my chin,
An' pushin' my hair back so—
Things a boy makes fun of before his chums,
But things that he likes, you know.

There's no one to go to when things go wrong,

She was always so safe and sure,
Why, not a trouble could tackle a boy
That she couldn't up and cure!

There are lots of women, it seems to me,

That wouldn't be missed so much—
Women whose boys are about all grown up,
An' old maid auntsies, and such.

I can't make out for the life of me

Why she should have to go,
An' her boy left here in this old gray house,
A-needin' and wantin' her so.

I tell you, the very loneliest thing

In this great big world to-day
Is a boy of ten whose heart is broke
'Cause his mother is gone away.

A very raw French sentry, mistaking a corporal for an officer, saluted him. The N.C.O. returned the salute, although he knew that, under the circumstances, it should not have been given.

When he got back to his quarters he found an order for him to attend before his commander-in-chief, who had seen the incident.

On reporting, the officer soundly rated him for returning the salute when he knew he was not entitled to it.

"Sir," he replied, "I always return anything to which I am not entitled.

The Garden Party

Waterdown's Fifth Annual Patriotic Garden Party was held at the Fair grounds here yesterday, and as in previous years, was a decided success, due to the untiring efforts of the ladies under whose auspices it was held.

An excellent program by high class entertainers was provided, and the large number of people on the grounds thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

The Great War Veterans Band of 32 members, under the leadership of Bandmaster Andrews, rendered several high class selections. This band is composed of returned heroes, and is a credit to Hamilton's musical organizations. Their services last were given gratis.

The soft ball games between the Barristers and Physicians of Hamilton, and Millgrove and Waterdown provided amusement for the early comers.

Dr. J. O. McGregor introduced the chairman on the evening, Mayor Carter of Guelph, who very ably conducted the evening entertainment.

Owen Smily of Toronto, Canada's star entertainer, and the Laurie family of Hamilton kept the large crowd in laughter well on to the midnight hour. The several solos by Miss Marwick were greatly appreciated.

Addresses by Mr. Hannigan of Guelph and F. J. Shaidle concluded the evenings program.

The drawing for the chances resulted as follows: Silver Tray 558, Gold Piece 198; 100 lbs. of Sugar 475, Silver Pie Plate 465, Dinner Set 457.

The several well stocked booths did a thriving business, a very small amount of eatables being left on hand at the close of the evening.

The proceeds of the day will amount to well over $1000.

Village Council Meeting

The village Council met last Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The Reeve and all members present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

A communication was received from the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, stating the amount of the Railway Tax due this municipality after paying maintenance of patient at asylum.

The following accounts were passed and by resolution ordered paid.

G. Rusk, running grader... $ 3.50
Fred Thomas, teaming stone and work with team on grader... 17.50

Dr. McGregor, for visit and medicine for Miss Dornung... 1.50
Frank Speck, repairs to roof of council chamber... 2.10

P. H. Metzger, assessors salary for 1919, $35, corporation work during 1918

$1. total... 36.00

On motion of councillors Markle and Langford it was resolved that this council raise an extra $20,000 by way of debentures, making a total of $75,000 for building the new school, and that the School Board be instructed to proceed with the building of same as early as possible.

The council by resolution decided to lay approximately 350 sq. yards of cement sidewalks this year as follows:

George street 140 yds in length
Franklin street 20 " " "

Raglan street 35 " " "

Approaches to Vinegar Hill bridge on Dundas street 80 yds in length and that the clerk call for tenders for same, price per square foot, said tenders to be in by 5 o'clock p. m. on Monday, Aug. 11th.

On motion the council adjourned to Monday, Aug. 11th.

THE ABBEY BELLS.

Westminster's Peal is Now a Full Octave.

The bells of Westminster Abbey, which, except on rare occasions of historic importance, have been silent for a long period of years, rang out again on the occasion of the King's birthday, at the close of an impressive dedication service, conducted by the Dean of Westminster.

But the peal was different from any due to the Abbey bell-ringers in previous times. For the first time in history, the famous Abbey possesses a full octave of eight bells, and bravely and merrily the Victory peal sounded.

Six bells had been the number of the peal ever since the Abbey had a tower in which to hang them. They were used to celebrate the armistice, the last occasion on which they were rung, and before that, on the Coronation days of King George and King Edward. Recently, however, some anonymous donors offered to renovate the old peal, and add the bells necessary to make the Abbey the possessor of a full octave.

The offer was received with gratitude by the Dean, and two of the old bells were re-cast and two new ones added.

At the close of the morning service on June 3rd the congregation passed to the northwest tower, and there the Dean formally dedicated the bells in the following terms: "In the faith of Jesus Christ, and in hope of the world's peace, we dedicate the bells now hung in the tower, as well as those newly cast as those that, being old, have been renovated and hung afresh to the Glory of God and for the replenishing of this Church of St. Peter's in Westminster.

The Dean then signalled to the bell-ringers by pulling a light cord, and the bells immediately rang out their peal.

The generous donors of the new bells were present at the ceremony, but had not yet released him from the pledge of preserving their anonymity.

A $10,000 LIQUOR INSPECTOR.
(London Advertiser.)

The provincial official who directs the Government liquor dispensaries now in operation in several centres of population is said to receive a salary of $10,000, and after the showing made before the Meredith commission in connection with the Ayearst charges this seems to be "a bit thick."

What heavy honor, what crushing responsibility, what technical knowledge falls upon or is demanded of this official that he should receive ten times the average wage paid in this province, in addition to traveling expenses. With local inspectors and official vendors in charge of the Government's stores, is there $10,000 worth of inspecting to be performed by a Government employee whose salary as Grand Custodian of the Barrer is greater than that of the Minister of Education by $4,000 and greater than that of the Premier of Ontario by $1,000. Is there a minister of the gospel, a school teacher, a college professor (certainly not a newspaper editor) who gets as much salary as the travelling overseer of the Imperial Quart? Even the members of the Provincial license commission, not even Mr. Ayearst himself can approach this gentleman for affluence, and apparently for influence.

Wonder what his politics was before he entered into the task of High Chief Treasurer. Also his party service in the past and his pull at Toronto? And just how many of the $200 fines imposed under the O.T.A. go to make up his salary?

The liquor business as conducted by the Ontario Government must be a highly lucrative profession when such a $10,000 plum is handed out to a chief of inspectors. The moral appears to be: Become a bartender and get a start to one of the largest salaries in Ontario.

Gas Warfare Among Savages.

As is well known the Germans were anticipated by some savage tribes in the use of poisonous gas for war purposes. Nature quotes authorities to show that tribes like the Tunambá and Guarani of the Brazil littoral and on the Rio Parana used poisonous gases in attacking fortified villages. Men went in front of the attacking party, each holding a pan with embers in the other. When the wind was against the Spaniards they sprinkled the embers on the peppers. This was also done in attacks on the Spaniards in Venezuela. In some way pepper was largely used in exorcising demons and evil spirits. The use of this pepper, known as Anji, would soon be discovered by these Indians, who cultivated the plant extensively. It was only necessary for some one to upset a basin of Anji into the fire and a hut would soon be cleared of its occupants. The use of the smoke in warfare would be a natural development.

Knew the Anecdote.

Dr. Harrison Allan, treasurer of the Bible Society of America, said in an address recently: "We find a deplorable ignorance of the Bible even among the higher classes. When, now and then, we meet some one who possesses a little biblical knowledge, he or she is apt to be ridiculously proud about it. A young millionaire and his wife were once talking to me about a visit they had made to the famous picture gallery of the Prado in Spain. 'What did you like best in the Prado?' I asked. 'A Correggio,' said the husband—a Correggio of Adam and Eve in the garden with the apple and the serpent.' Then the young wife looked at me with a superior air and added: 'Yes, that interested us especially, because, you see, we knew the anecdote.'

RED HOT JULY DAYS HARD ON THE BABY

July—the month of oppressive heat; red hot days and scorching nights, is extremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they come on suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does come suddenly will banish it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Gramatski.

The story of an original German spy is told by Le Mercure de France. It appears that this man, Gramatski, condemned to imprisonment by the Norwegian courts, and doing time in his cell, wrote an advanced mathematical treatise and composed an opera. Owing to his good conduct his sentence was reduced by half, and he was about to be liberated when he begged to be allowed to finish his sentence, declaring that he was engaged on a translation of Lund's treatise on mathematics, a work of national importance. Gramatski offered to play some of the airs of his opera on the flute, but the court did not appear particularly inclined to hear them. The Norwegian authorities are considering what had best be done with Gramatski.

Clues to His Writing.

Sometimes the worst of handwriting becomes intelligible when one grasps the rules, for a man's script, particularly an author's—is frequently made difficult, chiefly by his deliberate or unconscious version of the accepted rules of calligraphy. Henry Ward Beecher had a daughter who acted as copyist, and she read him with ease simply by remembering three principles—that in her father's manuscript no dotted letter was meant for an "i," no crossed letter stood for "t" and that no capital letter ever began a sentence.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dietsuper.

A Woman's Mite.

The poor woman's mite was well illustrated during the last Feed the Guns campaign in London. The story is told that while the Mayor of Shorehitch was standing one day in the street holding in his hand a cheque for £21,000, sent to him by a war factory, a poor woman gave him a shilling to invest in war bonds. 'It is all I have,' she said, 'but you are welcome to it to feed the guns and help the boys.' The mayor accepted the shilling, and the papers published a notice to the effect that if the investor would call at Shorehitch town hall she would be provided with a war savings certificate. The actual shilling, however, is being mounted to be kept at Shorehitch as a token of the patriotism of its people.

A ROMANCE-FILLED SEA.

One of the Historic Centres of the Orient.

Surely nowhere else in the world, writes P. B. Bradley-Birt in "Through Persia," is there an arm of the sea so fraught with historic memories as that which guards the approach to Persia on the south. Quitting India at Karachi, one sails straight out into another world, a world of Oriental despotism and old romance.

Even at the outset, as one crosses the Arabian Sea, historic memories crowd thick upon one. This way from the Indus, at whose mouth lies Karachi, sailed Nearchus, admiral of the great Alexander, in the fourth century before Christ, leaving so careful a record of his voyage that its course along the northern shores can still be traced to-day.

From the opposite end of the gulf, from Busrah in Arabia, 12 centuries later came Sinbad the Sailor, of wide renown, on his seven voyages of far-famed adventure to furnish nursery tales for all time to come.

Early in the sixteenth century there suddenly appeared upon the scene the high-popped vessels of the Portuguese, first of European nations here as elsewhere in the rush for empire in the new worlds, east and west.

Then at the beginning of the seventeenth century there followed in the wake of the Portuguese the British and the Dutch, eager to rob the earliest pioneers of their hard-won laurels and wrest from them the empire of the seas. From time to time the French appeared like meteors amidst the clash of warring elements, making spasmodic efforts to share the spoil and plunder of this new world of wealth, the fame of which, magnified a hundredfold in Oriental flower of speech, had spread far and wide over the west.

Throughout the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries this coveted arm of the sea was the constant scene of strife from end to end. With varying fortunes the Portuguese, clinging with dogged tenacity to the first footholds they had won, held their own for 150 years. For a time the Dutchmen swept the seas. Then the British succeeded to the supremacy of the gulf.

They keep the water hot for a much longer space of time, because they do not conduct heat as metal does. TRAGEDY IN BRITISH HIGH LIFE---BEAUTY FOUND SHOT Victim Had Been, With Relatives, Much in Divorce Courts.

London Cable—Mrs. Arthur Elliot, better known as Mrs. Mabel Louise Atherton, divorced wife of Col. Thomas Atherton, was found shot this morning in her home in London. According to the Evening Standard, this afternoon.

Mrs. Elliot, who was a sister of Sir Aubrey Dean-Paul, some years ago, sued Baron Churston, then John Reginald Yarde-Bullock, for breach of promise. The case created a considerable sensation at the time. Last April she married Captain Arthur Elliot, a dramatist, grandson of the late Earl of St. Germans.

Mrs. Elliot was Mabel L. Louise, the third daughter of Sir Edward Dean-Paul. She was married to Col. Thomas Atherton in 1892. Her husband divorced her in 1907, naming John Reginald Yarde-Bullock, now Baron Churston, as co-respondent. Mrs. Atherton then sued Mr. Yarde-Bullock for breach of promise, and won her case.

In 1909 Mrs. Atherton, who was a noted beauty in English society, was one of the four principals in the sensational Stirling divorce case in Edinburgh. John A. Stirling, Laird of Kippendavie, sued his wife, formerly Miss Clara E. Taylor, an American actress, and known in society in New Jersey and Washington. Mr. Stirling named Lord Northland as co-respondent. Mrs. Stirling filed a cross suit, naming Mrs. Atherton. The case, which occupied the Scottish court for several months, was decided in favor of the husband.

Mrs. Atherton, in 1911, brought suit for slander against her sister-in-law, Lady Aubrey Dean-Paul, and was granted damages in the sum of one farthing.

An Always Ready Pill.—To those of regular habit medicine is of little concern, but the great majority of men are not of regular habit. The worry and cares of business prevent it, and out of the irregularity of life comes dyspepsia, indigestion, liver and kidney troubles as a protest. The run-down system demands a corrective and there is none better than Parmentier's Vegetable Pills. They are simple in their composition and can be taken by the most delicately constituted.

FREE PRISONERS, JAIL MONEY MEN

Proclaimed Plan for Anarchists in the U. S.

As Soon as Soviet Rule Organized.

New York Despatch—The arrest of President Wilson and John D. Rockefeller, the opening of all jails and the formation of Soviet organizations throughout the country to take over the Government were advocated in the Anarchist Soviet Bulletin, according to Archibald E. Stevenson, who produced a copy of the Bulletin at the hearing of the Lusk Investigating Committee to-day in the city hall.

The copy of the Bulletin was identified by Glenn Finnell, an attendant at the New York Public Library as being one of the 150 he had picked up on July 3 in the corridors of the library.

Mr. Stevenson read into the record the following extract from the Bulletin:

"First make it known that as soon as you are organized strong enough into your Soviets you are going to open the door of every jail in the country. You will free not only the political victims of capitalism, but also the economic victims of capitalism, whose voice, striving for the betterment of conditions, is their only crime, for remember, the real criminals are not in the jail houses.

"During the period of reconstructing the capitalistic society in the commune we will have to put into jail all such honorable exploiters, oppressors, rulers, misleaders, hypocrites as Woodrow Wilson and Rockefeller. Putting every harmful Government official or capitalist in jail will give us the chance to free ourselves.

"Start to act, and if you want it to be real action, organize into Workers' Communes Soviets, wherever you are."

Stevenson read into the record other extracts of this Bulletin.

It is printed on both sides of the sheet. The back sheet contains an article headed, "Time for Action." The part read into the record reads:

"Let our message to the Workers' Soviet of Russia be: 'Keep up your courageous battle for freedom. The working classes of the entire world will soon be fighting on the barricades of the social revolution against capitalism, its agents and upholders of the Government, the church and the press. We, the Workers of the World, have committed a great crime against you Russian workers by remaining silent and submissive, but we will no longer be silent and submissive."

FAR WEST HARD HIT IN WHEAT

Manitoba Outlook Good, but Beyond is Bad.

Most Hopeful Estimate 200,000,000 Bushels.

Winnipeg Report—With wheat generally in head, and oats headed in many sections, present crop prospects in Manitoba leave little to be desired. The latest bulletin of the Provincial Department of Agriculture shows only one weak spot on the crop map of the Province.

Vere Brown, Superintendent of Western Branches of the Bank of Commerce, puts the condition of the Manitoba wheat at from 111 to 130 per cent. in all parts of the Province save the northwest corner, where he places it at 80 per cent. In the section of Manitoba where condition is lowest comparatively little wheat is grown.

In the portion of Saskatchewan immediately adjoining Manitoba conditions are also fairly good. But from that point westward prospects steadily grow worse. Save in one part, where very little wheat is grown, the most optimistic do not look for more than a 73 per cent. crop. Some who cannot be classed as pessimist describe the situation beyond Regina as "rotten."

Near Pasqua, west of Regina, one farmer plowed up 125 acres of wheat to sow flax. About Swift Current wheat headed when only a foot high. In Saskatchewan district, the hard winds in the spring blew a lot of the crop out of the ground, and a parching June burned up a lot more.

The best opinion is that in Saskatchewan on the whole, wheat cannot go over ten bushels to the acre, and may go as low as seven or eight. Southern Alberta is harder hit than Saskatchewan, and even Manitoba is not yet out of the woods as experienced farmers fear black rust here.

Last year the wheat output of the Prairie Provinces was estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at 164,000,000 bushels against 260,000,000 in the banner year of 1915. The most hopeful estimate is that this year may exceed last by some 35,000,000 bushels.

In oats the promise is better than in wheat, because these were sufficiently behind to be benefited by recent rains. But even in feed crops the situation is not good anywhere outside of Manitoba and Eastern Saskatchewan. To the west of that line, it is bad to very bad. Geo. S. Ferris, a rancher near Nanton, has wired President Wood of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, that half a million cattle must be shipped out of Alberta before winter if they are not to perish of starvation. Even north of Alberta the reliance of the Alberta stockman last winter, feed supply is below average. Mr. Ferris says, and if immediate action looking to relief is not taken, Alberta's live stock industry will be crippled for years to come.

Nothing as Good for Asthma. Asthma remedies come and go but every year the sales of the original Dr. J. D. Kellogg Asthma Remedy grow greater and greater. No further evidence could be asked of its remarkable merit. It relieves. It is always of the same unvarying quality which the sufferer from asthma learns to know. Do not suffer another attack, but get this splendid remedy to-day.

80 FARMERS IN THE NEXT HOUSE

Predicted by Man High in Their Councils.

Firm for Low Tariff, Down On Reds.

Winnipeg Despatch—Eighty farmers, members of the House of Commons, after the next general Federal election, was the prediction made to-day by H. Mackenzie, Vice-President of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, and one of the most powerful supporters of the movement to found a strong farmers' political party in Canada.

These eighty members will represent ridings scattered from coast to coast across the Dominion, Mr. Mackenzie said, and will be pledged to the farmers' platform.

"What is the basis plank of your platform?" Mr. Mackenzie was asked. "A reduction and in some instances an elimination of the tariff," was the reply.

"Has the farmers' party a recognized leader?"

THINK A MINUTE

WHAT is your doctor's first question? Why does he suspect constipation?

Because 90% of his patients are suffering from ailments caused directly or indirectly by the action of poisons formed in a sluggish intestinal tract.

These body poisons are absorbed by the blood and carried all over the body until the weakest organ, unable to withstand the poisonous contact, becomes infected and refuses to act properly. Unfortunately it is usually not until then that the doctor is consulted and asked to treat the diseased organ.

The surest way of purifying the blood and preventing the formation of these destructive body poisons is to prevent stagnation of food waste in the intestinal tract—to prevent constipation.

Constipation is not a matter to be taken lightly or neglected. Nor is it either sufficient or safe to take castor-oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., in order to "force" bowel action. Such action does not cure constipation, it makes constipation a habit.

Nujol is entirely different from drugs as it does not force or irritate the bowels. Nujol prevents stagnation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world. Get a bottle from your druggist to-day.

Warning. Nujol is sold in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

Nujol For Constipation

"No, not as yet," said Mr. McKenzie, "somebody will turn up out of the eighty men to be elected, who will have the necessary qualifications for leadership."

Mr. McKenzie admitted that Hon. T. A. Cramer, if he were to remain in public life, was a strong man. He also admitted that Dr. Michael Clark was in accord with the farmers' party, and that he was a strong man and an experienced Parliamentarian, as well as a farmer.

Mr. McKenzie said that the farmers' party would not affiliate with organized labor, although he anticipated that there would be much co-operation between bona fide unions and agriculturists.

"As for the Reds, we will have none of that stuff," said Mr. McKenzie.

Miller's Worm Powders are sweet and palatable to children, who show no hesitancy in taking them. They will certainly bring all worm troubles to an end. They are a strengthening and stimulating medicine, correcting the disorders of digestion that the worms cause and imparting a healthy tone to the system most beneficial to development.

Sneezing Superstitions.

In Scotland it has been maintained that idiots are incapable of sneezing, and the power to do so has been deemed evidence of the possession of a certain degree of intelligence. It was a Flemish belief that a sneeze during a conversation for a bargain proved that what you said was the truth. The Chinese believe that a sneeze on New Year's eve means bad luck through the coming year. The Japanese hold that one sneeze means that someone is praising you, two show blame, whereas, if you sneeze three times, you are merely ill.

HARVESTING FALL WHEAT

Splendid Yield Looked for in Ontario.

Spring Grains Poor—Fruit Needs Showers.

Toronto Despatch—Fall wheat harvesting has already commenced in a few countries according to the Ontario Crop Report issued by the Department of Agriculture yesterday. Owing to the length of straw, some of the grain has been knocked down. The damage is not considered serious, except in a few districts, where Saturday's storm was particularly violent. In some sections fears have been expressed that the grain is ripening too fast for good quality, but general opinion is that the yield will be high. Winter rye is also ready for the binder, and a good crop is expected.

Spring grains, on the whole, are very poor. Some sections report practically a failure. The fields are uneven, and, on account of the dry weather, grain is heading out at a foot and less in height. In consequence there will be a serious shortage of good straw.

Early potatoes look well, but later planted fields are not making a favorable growth. Some damage is reported by the flea beetle to mangels and turnips in Peel County. In general the root crop is unpromising. Clover has yielded more profitable returns than timothy. Many extremely heavy yields have been reported. Pasture is in need of more rain.

Corn planted early, and which has been well cultivated since, shows a splendid growth, even on heavy land. Where planting has been late, the crop has stood the drought well. A greatly increased acreage in corn is reported, while that of beans is smaller.

In the Atlantic Provinces, the weather has been ideal, with no frosts and frequent well-distributed showers. The hay crop is heavy, and the grain above the average. A fair crop of potatoes, corn and roots is reported.

In Quebec the June drought has affected all crops. The yield of hay was comparatively poor and grain prospects are only fair. A good yield of corn and potatoes is promised.

According to the Fruit Branch Ontario Department of Agriculture, the apple prospects are variable according to districts. The best reports are coming from the Northern Spy, which seems to be the heaviest bearer in all parts for this season. Greenings in many sections are light, as are Russets. The average over the Province would appear to warrant a crop about equal to 1918, with, of course, a somewhat different disposition as to districts and varieties. The only very bad report is that from Newcastle District, where the drought has apparently affected both leaves and fruit.

The peach crop, as already mentioned, has been seriously affected by Curly Leaf. Owing to continued rains at spraying time, it was difficult to get on the dormant spray early. The heavy set of fruit was badly thinned by the set back to the foliage, many of the trees being defoliated.

Cherries and plums, both reported early as showing heavy bloom, were affected by the wet weather, which prevented proper pollination, and the crop in many of the Niagara District orchards will be light. Outside points show better prospects for these fruits. Pears are generally somewhat heavier, though the winter 1917-18 has narrowed the area of successful pear orcharding considerably.

Small fruits are promising in all parts of Ontario, but continuation of the heat and lack of rain will, it is feared, shorten up the raspberry and blackberry crops.

An Oil That is Famous.—Though Canada was not the birthplace of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, it is the home of that famous compound. From here its good name was spread to Central and South America, the West Indies, Australia and New Zealand. That is far field enough to attest its excellence, for in all these countries it is on sale and in demand.

New York's Systematic Growth.

A remarkable forecast of population of New York is brought to light in copies of the Scientific American for September 8, 1860. A statistician for the manual of the common council shows the population of the city to increase until 1905 would have made the population of New York 5,257,493, a figure almost in accord with the census of that time.

Water Hyacinth Has Value.

The water hyacinth, which so rapidly fills up certain streams, is found to have a high value as a fertilizer. On account of the large amount of water the green plant contains the material is partially dried before slacking and after becoming well rotted it proves to have about the same composition as farmyard manure, except that it is richer in potash.

Corn cannot exist when Holloway's Corn Cure is applied to them, because it goes to the root and kills the growth.

A number of officers and nursing sisters from the Brant Military Hospital were entertained at "Clunes" last Thursday evening, the guests of Dr. J. O. and Mrs. McGregor.

Much disappointment was expressed by the absence of the Waterdown orchestra at the Bean Club picnic at Lake Medad last Saturday. The orchestra was unable to attend on account of the illness of Mr. Gordon their leading trombone player.

Michael Donovan, a well known resident of this village, died at his home here on Tuesday morning last after an illness of several weeks duration. Deceased was a cooper by trade and for a number of years had been in the employ of Mr. Davies. He was in his 67th year at the time of his death. The funeral took place today (Thursday) to Brantford, Ont.

Major E. S. Sawell, M. C., after three years active service in France and Belgium, arrived at his home here last Tuesday, looking well and happy. He left here as Stan Sawell, winning his several promotions to Major, and also the Military Cross on the battlefields of Europe. His many friends were all pleased to see him again and welcome him home.

A dentist was reading the reminiscences of the Kaiser's American dentist and said to his wife:
"Oh, how I wish I could have been his dentist for just once."
"Why, dear?" she asked.
"Why?" he answered. "Because when I had got my forceps good and strong on one of his molars I would have just chuckled and sung to myself 'The Yanks are coming, the Yanks are coming!'"

"I wouldn't swear that way," said an old lady, mildly.
"Bless you, ma'am," said Gilray, as he turned the crank in vain, "you couldn't. It takes years of driving a Ford to be able to do this."

A money-counting expert in the United States treasury department recently made the record for counting 4000 silver dollars in an hour, or 32,000 in a day. To show how vast a sum is a billion dollars, about which we are talking so easily nowadays, it would take this expert 100 years to count that sum in silver dollars, provided he counted 32,000 a day, day after day, without a single day's vacation.

The way they got milk for babies in Great Britain during the war is interesting and suggestive. If an adult patron of a public eating house bought a glass of milk as a beverage, he was liable to a fine of £5, and the proprietor subjected himself to a like penalty. The result was that the death rate among infants under five years old was about one-half the rate in pre-war times. For the first time in the modern history of Britain there was milk enough for all the babies, and good milk.

Australia is going to begin deporting Germans. The British admiralty recently notified Canada that 100 aliens to be deported could be accommodated aboard ship, but evidently Australia is going to do her own deporting. She has a state merchant fleet that comes in quite handy.

There is a lucky telephone number in Tokio, Japan. It sells for from $390 to $490 a year. It is 8, because the character for it spreads downward and suggests the idea of gathering prosperity. Number 357 is also believed to be a lucky number, because children are presented at Shinto shrines on their third, fifth and seventh birth days. Nearly all odd numbers are considered as lucky. There are also unlucky numbers. For instance, 42 and 49, because the former may be pronounced "shint," which means "to die," and the latter may be pronounced "shiku," which means "death" and "suffering." Those numbers are always avoided by individuals and are generally taken by government officers, schools, police stations and other invincible institutions.

A GREAT CANADIAN.

Dr. Crozier Has a Place in Intellectual Aristocracy.

Dr. John Beattie Crozier is a Canadian who has won his way by unaided merit to the highest ranks of Britain's intellectual aristocracy. On April 23, his seventieth birthday, he received a letter expressing warm appreciation of his "eminent services to British scholarship and speculation," and his "unselfish endeavors for human welfare," signed by Lord Morley, O.M., Lord Bryce, O.M., Mr. Frolic Harrison, Prof. Sir William Osler, B.L., Lieut.-Col. Sir Francis Younghusband, Mr. St. Leo Strachey, Dr. W. L. Courtney, Mr. H. W. Massingham, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., Dr. John Clifford, Mr. J. L. Garvin, Mr. J. A. Hobson, Mr. Arthur Sherwell, Mr. James F. Muirhead, Mr. G. P. Gooch, and Mr. Bailey Saunders. These are the names of leading public men, writers, physicians, scientists, editors, historians, social workers, and political economists. Few men have had so significant a tribute paid them in their lifetime as this spontaneous testimonial by Dr. Crozier's contemporaries.

Dr. Crozier was born in Galt in 1849, and graduated in medicine from the University of Toronto in 1872 as a double medalist. He went to England in the same year to begin his career. His books were produced by immense industry. In the hours spared from the practice of his profession. His monumental work, "History of Intellectual Development on the Lines of Modern Evolution," begun in 1897 and completed in 1904, won him official recognition in the form of a pension from the civil list, which enabled him to devote more time to his literary labors. The titles of his volumes—"The Religion of the Future," "Civilization and Progress," "Lord Randolph Churchill: A Study of English Democracy," "My Own Life," "The Wheel of Wealth," "The Principles of Investment," and "Sociology as Applied to Practical Politics," show the versatility of his interests and the range of his research. He has recently lost his wife and his only son, the latter killed in the war. "I sit here desolate," he writes a Canadian friend, "except for kind friends who come in relays every afternoon to see me and talk." But he can look back upon a life of distinguished achievement, crowned by the praise of his fellow-workers.

Dr. Crozier tells a Canadian correspondent that he left Canada because "at that time our Canadians would have nothing but the imprimatur of London and the English—no colonial at any price!" Have Canadians altogether outlived this reproach? Is it not true to-day that they are reluctant to recognize or encourage native merit until it comes back with the hall-mark of London or New York? The number of Canadians of talent who have found it necessary to leave the country to find a field is not flattering to national pride.

Principal Says Farewell.

Sir William Peterson, who is retiring as principal of McGill University, after 24 years of service, to be succeeded by Sir Auckland Geddes, said farewell in a letter which was read at the annual convocation. "My colleagues in the administration and on the teaching staff know how greatly I have valued their co-operation and loyal support during those 24 years," said Sir William. "May the record of McGill in the next quarter of a century outshine and eclipse everything that has been accomplished in the past. In any case the friends of the university may rest assured that her progress and prosperity will always have a foremost place in my thoughts and affections." The announcement from the Carnegie Foundation that a retiring allowance of $4,000 had been voted to Sir William Peterson was received with gratification by every one connected with McGill. In his letter the secretary of the Carnegie Foundation said: "The executive committee in taking this action desired me to express to you, as best I might, their affectionate and kindly feeling, as well as to assure you in this official way of their appreciation of the magnificent services for civilization which you were able to do during the four hard years of war which have passed. The committee hope that there will be left for you many years of activity and influence in education and statesmanship such as can come only from a man of your ripe experience and knowledge."

Canada's Immigrants.

Canada's immigrants, 1900-16, numbered 4,141,111, of which only 1,168,282 were of British stock. "The 8,075,000 total population compiled in 1915 gave Canada 53 nationalities and 83 languages and dialects. In Winnipeg one-third of the male population is foreign, in Montreal one in seven, in Toronto one in ten. Rich Northern Ontario has a 45 non-Anglo-Saxon population, Manitoba 42 per cent., Alberta 40. In 1916, Saskatchewan had 647,855 people, of whom less than half spoke English."

These were but a few of the striking figures furnished the I. O. D. E. sessions when the national educational secretary, Mrs. G. Smith, stirred all to action in regard to Canada's melting pot. Very plainly did she point out that, unless this problem were solved, Canada's war sacrifices would have been naught.

CAN'T PUNCTURE OR BLOW OUT

Dayton airless tires in the past six years have been used by thousands of owners of light passenger and delivery cars in all parts of the civilized world, and have conclusively demonstrated:

- 1st—They can't puncture nor blow out.
- 2nd—They ride much longer as smoothly as pneumatics.
- 3rd—They give much longer wear than the average pneumatic.
- 4th—They absolutely will not injure the car.

They have been endorsed by 50,000 or more satisfied users, including the late George Westinghouse and Edward Grey formerly Chief Engineer of the Ford Motor Company.

Piers of live elastic built about one inch apart inside the casing and vulcanized or welded to it take the lace of an inner tube. Nothing can happen but wear. We have standardized on 30x3 1/2 and the price is right.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson III, July 20th, 1919.
Print Matt. 26: 26-30. I. Cor., 11: 23-25.

Commentary.—I. The Lord's Supper instituted (Matt. 26: 26-30). 26. As they were eating—This was on Thursday evening. Jesus had closed His work of teaching on the preceding Tuesday evening, had rested on Wednesday and on Thursday evening Jesus and His disciples were eating the Passover meal in a room in Jerusalem. The feast of the Passover was observed yearly in commemoration of the deliverance of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage and the preserving of their first-born from the destruction that came upon the first-born of the Egyptians. The blood of the Passover lamb, sprinkled upon the lintels and door posts of the Israelites' houses, meant life to the people and was a fitting type of Christ, whose blood was to be shed for the salvation of mankind. Took bread—This was at the close of the Passover meal. The bread was in the form of a thin round loaf, or cake, and was unleavened, as no leavened bread was used in the Passover feast. Blessed it—Jesus prayed that in the use to be made of it, it would be effective. Brake it—Jesus broke the bread that He might divide it among His disciples, and the breaking of the bread typified the wounding and bruising of Christ's body on the cross. Gave it to the disciples—All the disciples were to share in the ordinance that Christ was instituting. This is My body—This is a common expression for, "This represents My body." The disciples were to take the bread and eat it in token of their partaking of the spiritual benefits that would come to them through the death of their Master. 27. Took the cup. The cup contained the expressed juice of the grape, which had been used during the Passover feast. Gave thanks—The Greek word is that from which our word Eucharist is derived. The Lord's Supper thus becomes to us a thank-offering. Drink ye all of it—The disciples were told that they should all partake of the contents of the cup. 28. My blood of the new testament—"My blood of the covenant."—R. V. The wine was to represent the blood of Christ that would shortly flow on the cross. Jesus entered into a covenant to save all who would come to the Father through Him. The title of the New Testament comes from this passage. Shed for many—For all mankind the blood of Christ was shed (Heb. 2: 9). For the remission of sins—It had been said, "Without shedding of blood is no remission." Heb. 9: 22; Lev. 17: 11). The blood of Christ was to be shed that all who repent and believe in Jesus might be saved. "The blood of the Old Testament was shed for a few. It confirmed a covenant made with Israel (Exod. 24: 8). The testament was only for Israel (Lev. 16: 14); but Jesus Christ is a propitiation for the sins of the world (1 John 2: 2). 29. Will not drink henceforth of this fruit—Jesus gave His disciples notice that this was His last meal with them and that He would soon go to the Father. When I drink it new—Jesus was here referring to the partaking of the joys and glories of the heavenly state which were to be participated in by all who should savingly believe in Him. He pointed to the fact of a resurrection and of a blissful reunion in the Father's glory. In my Father's kingdom—This expression is used to denote heaven. "The thought of the meeting again is brought in to brighten the gloom of the leave-taking."—Expositor's Greek Testament. 30. When they had sung an hymn—The Passover feast was concluded by singing what was called the Hallel, Psa. 115-118. This is the only instance of which we have record of our Lord's being engaged in singing. It was before this song, while Jesus and the eleven were in the upper room, that Jesus recorded in John 14-17. Went out into the Mount of Olives—The Mount of Olives is situated from Jerusalem across the valley of Kidron. He knew what awaited Him, that He would be betrayed by Judas Iscariot into the hands of His enemies. He would pass through Gethsemane and would pray there where He had often prayed before.

II. The Lord's supper a memorial (1 Cor. 11: 20-34). 20-22. Certain evils had grown up in the church at Corinth. There seems to have been divisions among the members. When they gathered to enjoy the love-feast, they divided up into sets, or cliques, some bringing with them a bountiful supply of food and others who were poor, had little or nothing, hence some were "drunken" and others were hungry. This service or exercise then became an occasion of revelry rather than a means of grace, and the apostle was strong in his condemnation of the course that was taken. The love feast was different from the Lord's Supper. The custom seems to have prevailed of having a meal and at its close to celebrate the Lord's supper. 23. For I have received of the Lord—Paul indicates to us that the risen Lord made known to him directly the history of the institution of the Lord's Supper, and he gives it here. We thus have his account, in addition to those given by the writers of the Gospels. Which also I delivered unto you—The language here shows that Paul had given to the Corinthian church the account of the Lord's Supper as he had received it from the Lord. The same night—It was after the Passover feast had been eaten that Jesus instituted the Lord's Supper. In which he was betrayed—Jesus and the eleven went out into the garden of Gethsemane where Jesus prayed, and after prayer Judas Iscariot appeared with Jewish leaders and soldiers and betrayed Jesus with a kiss. Took bread—The description which the apostle Paul gives of all the institution of the Lord's Supper is in full agreement with that given by Matthew. 24. This do in remembrance of me—We note that the word remembrance here used means the act of recollection, and also that which enables one to recollect. It is used also in the sense of a memorial. Emphasis is thus placed upon the fact that the Lord's Supper is a memorial. By it we are reminded of the efficacy of the atonement of Christ, and we are to remember with gratitude the sacrifice that was made for us. In this remembering the death of Christ our faith should grasp firmly the benefits which flow to us from his death. 25. When he had supped—Jesus took part himself in this sacred rite. As oft as ye drink it—The Lord's Supper was to be frequently observed. In some periods of the church it has been celebrated daily. No directions are given in the scriptures, but it should be observed at regular intervals. 26. Ye do shew the Lord's death—Christians in partaking of the Lord's Supper declare their faith in Jesus Christ, and in the atonement he made. Their faith is quickened and strengthened by observing it truly and a sermon is preached to the world upon the efficacy of the atonement. They who engage in this ordinance signify their separation from the world and declare that they have confidence that the blood of Christ cleanses from sin. Till he come—This same Jesus, which is taken from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven" (Acts 1: 11). This ordinance was instituted by our Lord during the period that he was on earth at his first coming and is to be observed until he shall come again. He is coming again to receive the church, his bride, and we are exhorted to faithfulness in watching for his coming.

27-34. The apostle sends forth a warning against partaking of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper unworthily. They who engage in this ordinance with irreverence, without faith in Christ are "guilty of the body and blood of Christ." They fling slights or insults against the Lord. Hence every one should carefully examine his spirit before approaching the Lord's table and see that he is coming reverently and trustingly. Paul attributes the weakness and sickness of many of the church of the Corinthians to the fact that they have sinned against the body and blood of Christ in partaking of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper unworthily. Neither the love-feast nor the Lord's Supper should be made an occasion for the gratification of the desire for food and drink.

QUESTIONS.—Describe the nature and purpose of the Jewish Passover. Describe the institution of the Lord's Supper. When did Jesus institute the Lord's Supper? For what purpose was Christ's blood shed? How long is this ordinance to be observed? Where did Jesus go after this supper? What is meant by eating and drinking unworthily?

PRACTICAL SURVEY.
Topic.—Communion with Christ and with one another.

I. Communion with Christ.
II. Communion with Christians.

I. Communion with Christ. The Lord's Supper is originally and distinctively a Christian institution. It is the second of the sacraments received by the Christian church and is of equal authority with baptism, from which it differs in that it is to be repeated on frequent occasions. Both belong only to the children of God. It was instituted by Christ himself and had no typical predecessor in the ceremonial dispensation, and has no symbolic representative in any other system of religious service. In its original significance the term Eucharist appropriately means the giving of thanks, which on the part of Jesus accompanied the setting apart of each of the elements used in its administration. We have four accounts of its establishment; in the first three gospels, and in Paul's first letter to the Corinthian church, whose knowledge was derived, as he emphatically tells us, by a special revelation to himself (1 Cor. 11: 23-25). As a religious service it looks in two directions: backward to the cross, and forward to his second coming. "Ye do shew the Lord's death till he come." The Lord's Supper is first a memorial service. Jesus shrank from forgetfulness and to perpetuate the remembrance of himself, inseparable from his work, established this "visible gospel." Nothing can kindle glowing love like the stirring of the memory of great sacrifice endured in service rendered. By the very terms and limitations of its establishment Jesus gave his disciples assurance, and kindled anticipation of his return. The sacrament is a declaration of faith in the value and virtue of redemption. We can not behold, much less receive, the emblems of Christ's death without remembering our own moral need and the vicarious significance of his death on the cross. Its purpose is to quicken faith and kindle love. The Old Testament foreshadowed the principle when the prophet, turning from the rites of Mosiac ceremonialism, cried from "the watch-tower of vision," "The just shall live by his faith." Jesus echoed the same truth when he declared, "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, . . . ye have no life." Nothing is more evident than that the communion was instituted to keep ever before us the fact that the partaking of food is not more necessary to the physical than simple faith is to the spiritual life.

II. Communion with Christians. The cross is the center of communion. Here converge all human interests and hopes. Here God's people confess a common need and kindle a common hope. The Lord's Supper is a symbol of Christian brotherhood. The communion which it represents is of the spirit and not of the act. Love for Christ will imply and embrace love for his followers. The symbolic significance is not in the vessel, but in its contents, consecrated by Christ's act of blessing as an abiding emblem of atoning blood. There is no transubstantiation, but a divinely established symbolism. This is exclusively a service for Christians or sincere, trusting penitents. To eat and drink "unworthily," "not discerning the Lord's body," is blasphemy.

Many Uses for Kapok.

Kapok is the name applied to the fibre found around the seed of the silk-cotton tree (Eriodendron anfractuosum). This tree is found in all tropical countries and is very abundant in Java, which furnishes a large part of the commercial supply. Kapok is imported into the United States in large quantities, principally from Java, and is used as filling for mattresses, pillows, cushions and life preservers of various kinds, and as an upholstery material.

Going Ahead Too Fast.

The young detective was enthusiastic but inexperienced. Rushing into his chief's office in great excitement he cried: "I've found the assassin! I've got him cornered so that he can't escape!" The chief regarded him with withering scorn. "Allow me," he said, "to draw your attention to the fact that at present we are looking—not for the assassin, but for clues."—Judge.

Great Britain.

In 1707, on the union with Scotland, Great Britain became the official name of the British kingdom, and so constituted until the union with Ireland in 1801. Since Jan. 1, 1801, the official name of the kingdom, including England, Wales, Ireland and Scotland, and the neighboring smaller islands, is the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

WEAK MOTHERS REGAIN HEALTH

THROUGH THE NEW BLOOD DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS ACTUALLY MAKE.

No mother should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her. If she does worry will mar her work in the home and torment her in body and mind. Day after day spent amid the same surroundings is enough to cause fretfulness and depression. But there are other causes, as every mother knows, that tend to make her nerves run down. A change would benefit her jaded system, and rest might improve her blood so as to give the nerves a better tone. But rest and change are often impossible, and it is then that all worn out women should take a short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make new blood, rich with the elements on which the nerves thrive. In this way these pills restore regular health, increased energy, new ambition and steady nerve. There is a lesson for other women in the case of Mrs. Harry P. Snider, Wilton, Ont., who says: "Five years ago my twin babies were born, and I was left very weak and very miserable, hardly fit to do anything. The doctor gave me medicine, but it did not help me. Then I tried another doctor, but with no better results. One day I went home to my mother, telling her how miserable I felt, and that the doctor's medicine had not done me any good. Mother asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I was glad to try anything that might help me, I got three boxes when I went back home. By the time these were used there was no doubt they were helping me, and I got three more boxes. But I did not need them all, for by the time the fifth box was used I was entirely cured, and never felt better in my life. Now when I hear people talk about feeling weak or miserable I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and tell what they did for me, and in similar cases I shall continue to recommend them."

At the first sign that the blood is out of order take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirits. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Linked France and Scotland.

The small border, of treasure, which surrounds the arms of Scotland in the British coat of arms is the emblem of preservation of protection. A legend states that the border was given to Achatus, king of the Scots, by Charlemagne as a pledge that the French lilies should defend the Scottish lion. The significance of this lies in the design of the border, which is composed of fleur-de-lis.

SATISFIED.

"Betsey," he whispered, as they sat together on the fence surrounding Mrs. Filligan's pigsty, "ow beautiful you be! I'm think of it, Betsey! When we be married we will have a pig of our own. Think of that, Betsey!" "I'm," she whispered, a note of resentment in her voice, "what do I care for pigs? I shan't want a pig when I've got you!" Then all was silent once more, save for the musical frolics of sepheps already mentioned.

A Frightful Death Suffocated by Asthma

The Dread of Such an Unhappy End Oppresses Every Sufferer.

Every sufferer from Asthma knows the terror, the abject fear that overcomes them when struggling for breath. The old-fashioned remedies may relieve, but never cure. Best results come from Catarrhoxone, which cures Asthma after hope is abandoned. It's because Catarrhoxone kills the asthma germ that it cures. Choking spells and labored breathing are relieved, suffocating sensations and loss of breath are cured. Every trace of asthma is driven from the system, and even old chronic experience immediate relief and lasting cure. Equally good for Bronchitis, throat trouble and Catarrh. The large one dollar outfit includes the inhaler and lasts two months, sold by all dealers or from the Cattarrhoxone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Source of Timber Shifted.

Shipbuilders in Maine are bringing timber for supplying their yards from Oregon. This, a few years ago, would have been regarded as another instance of carrying coals to Newcastle. Time was when Maine had timber enough for its own purposes and to spare. There is, perhaps, no occasion for alarm at the present time, but would it not be well, even now, for Maine to begin thinking of conserving soil of the Aroostook? To have to go out of the state for timber is sad, but to have to look elsewhere for potatoes would be terrible.—Christian Science Monitor.

SIR WILLIAM'S WILL

"Show Mr. Carton in; eh, Clytie?" Clytie sprang to her feet, dabbed at her eyes and smoothed her hair. Hesketh Carton entered. In his suit of black serge he looked even thinner than usual, and his pale face gained an added pallor from his black clothes. He came forward and took the hand which Clytie held out somewhat timidly. There were dark shadows under his eyes, and his thin lips were compressed. His manner was that of a man who held himself on guard, and who was keenly careful of every step he was taking.

"Miss Bramley," he said, "I fear you will think me intrusive—you have not long arrived; but I felt that I ought to call on you as soon as possible. I would have been here to meet you, but I have been ill; indeed, this is the first day I have been able to get out."

His voice was low and beautifully modulated; it seemed absolutely appropriate to the place and the occasion.

Clytie's dark lashes swept her cheek—she wondered why he had changed his mind; then she raised her eyes and said:

"I am sorry you have been ill, Mr. Carton. It is very kind of you to come."

Mollie said nothing, but seating herself in a chair, teased the fire with a poker.

"No doubt you have been acquainted, by Mr. Granger, with the contents of Sir William's will," said Hesketh, as he took the chair which Clytie had indicated by a gesture. "I came to offer my services, my assistance, if they should be of any use to you. I mean that I fear you will find the business of the estate somewhat complicated, somewhat burdensome. If I can be of any use to you, Miss Bramley, I shall be very glad. As you are no doubt aware, I have been living here with Sir William for some years, and I am naturally acquainted with the details, the management of the household and the estate. Pray consider that my knowledge is entirely, completely, at your service."

Clytie looked at Mollie—she had become accustomed, when she was in difficulties, to look to Mollie. But on this occasion Mollie failed her, and still teased the fire as if she had no concern with the business in hand. So, after a second appealing glance, Clytie said:

"You are very kind, Mr. Carton; and I shall be very glad of your help. I know nothing of the estate, and I have only just learned that—"

Hesketh inclined his head slightly and waved his long, thin hand.

"Just so," he said, in his soft, low voice. "I have brought some memoranda with me, notes of the servants' wages and so on. Permit me." In the same soft, low voice he gave her some details of the household affairs, some particulars of the management of the estate which had been under his control during Sir William's life. Clytie listened in silence, with her eyes fixed on the pale face of the speaker, her hands clasped in her lap. Mollie was still bending over the fire and worrying it, but almost noiselessly now.

"Thank you, Mr. Carton," said Clytie, as the low voice ceased. He rose and reached for his hat.

"Will you not stay and have some tea?" asked Clytie.

"Thank you, no," he replied. "I must get back to the works." He smiled faintly. "Mr. Granger has, no doubt, told you that I am responsible for them now."

He bent over her hand and left the room. Clytie stood and looked after him, her dark, but fine, brows drawn together. Mollie rose to her feet, and shook her head.

"Thank goodness, he didn't stay!" she exclaimed.

Clytie turned on her with a little start.

"Why—why do you say that—Mollie?" she asked, with a touch of indignation.

"Because I am glad he has gone, of course," replied Mollie promptly. "Clytie, I don't like that man."

"Mollie!" remonstrated Clytie.

"Sorry!" said Mollie. "Can't help it. He's too smooth, his voice is too soft, and he looks down his nose instead of looking at you. No, I don't like Mr. Hesketh Carton, and I sincerely trust, for your sake, that his cousin Wilfred, isn't like him."

"Mollie, you shouldn't say such things," said Clytie, her face flushing.

"I dare say not; but your rebuke comes too late, my dear. I've said 'em."

CHAPTER IV

Toward sundown—appropriately enough, for he was a "sundowner"—a young man trudged along, what, by a stretch of courtesy, may be called a road winding through an Australian valley.

The scene was beautiful enough, for, though the valley was somewhat somber by reason of the heavy foliage, the hills above were clear and gloriously colored by the rays and the glow of the setting sun. But the wayfarer was not "taking any" scenery just then, for the full enjoyment of the beauties of nature is not easily acquired on an empty stomach; and the young man was not only hungry, but very tired, and by no means certain of a meal and shelter, to say nothing of a bed.

He was a fine specimen of humanity; not quite six feet, with broad shoulders and a muscular frame; indeed, there was very little else but bone and muscle, for he was almost as lean as a greyhound, and yet with that air of compactness and strength, of suppleness and readiness which your young Englishman displays all the world over, when he has been properly dragged up as a boy, and passed through the curriculum of a public school. Tired as he was, he trod the uneven ground lightly and did not slouch. He was a sundowner, right enough; but any man, with the slightest knowledge of the tribe, could have told, by a glance at the young fellow, that he was not a tramp of the common or casual kind.

He was good-looking as well as lithe and stalwart, with a well-featured face, burnt brown by the Australian sun, and with eyes which are called "hazel" by the unfair sex, and with a mouth, not too small for manliness, and as resolute and as expressive as the young eyes. Taking him altogether, he was not the kind of young man who could pass through a crowd unnoticed.

His clothes of stout and serviceable cord, showed signs of wear and weather, but they had not been moulded to his shape by rain and sun, and he wore them instead of their wearing him, as, alas! is too often the case with man's habiliments. The usual thick blue handkerchief, containing a few necessities, was tied on the end of a stick which he carried over his broad shoulder; and he was fortunate enough to be smoking a pipe, for he had eaten nothing since he had left the last station in the early morning; and with such a man in such a place and in such a case, an old briar pipe, filled with strong tobacco, is food, drink, mother, father, consoler and friend.

Now, a little depression under such circumstances would have been pardonable enough, but this young man was of a cheerful countenance, for he had pluck, a certain high spirit which his friends called "audacity," and the incapacity for knowing when he was beaten. But he had walked quite far enough that day, and he scanned the road before him with lively interest. His tramp had been so solitary that his interest grew still more lively when, turning a bend of the rough road, he saw the figure of a woman at some distance in front of him.

She was walking more slowly than he was, and with a gait which his experienced eyes told him indicated a weariness as great as, or greater than, his own. Her head, covered by a shawl, was bent; she seemed to be holding something in her arms. There was something so pathetic in the figure, dragging along the apparently never-ending road, and shadowed by the great gum-trees, as if they were adding their weight to her lonely misery, that the young fellow, who possessed a tender heart toward all sorrowing womanhood, quickened his pace that he might overtake her and offer her at least the solace of his companionship; but she turned another bend of the road, and, when he reached it, he found, to his amazement, that she had disappeared.

Much surprised, for there was no habitation in sight, he hurried on, and presently he saw her lying under a tree, amid the scrub and undergrowth, on the side of the road. He dropped his bundle and bent over her. The shawl had fallen from her head, and he saw that she was young, very little more than a girl, he guessed—a girl who would have been very pretty, but for the rack and ruin which the emaciation had worked in her face; but he scarcely noticed her appearance, for he saw that she had fainted, and judging by the wasted face and the thin hand that pressed against her bosom the burden she still carried, he divined the cause—the exhaustion of hunger and exposure, of the terrible tramp through the Australian wilderness. He had noticed a brook, not yet dried up, a little way down the road, and he ran back and got his hat full of water and bathed her face and lips.

While he was doing so, her poor, thin hand relaxed its grip of the child, and the young fellow took it from her. He glanced at the baby face, whitened by the touch of death's fingers, then, biting his lips and fighting with his emotion, he laid the dead baby on the ground beside her. Her eyes went to it directly they opened, sought it with an agony of foreboding and grief, and her first words were:

"Is it—dead?"

He did the best, the wisest thing he could have done, and silently put the poor little mite in her arms. Her wan face broke up and the tears streamed down her cheeks and fell on the cold little face on her bosom; then suddenly she dashed the tears away, and looking up at his grave and pitying eyes, said, in a low voice:

"I am glad. Yes, I am glad. It has suffered so much—ever since it

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years I suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my friends work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of the kind what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BATTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

was born, from the moment it was born. Do you know what has killed it? Hunger. It has been starving for days past. I have wanted it to die; I have prayed—"

Her tears were threatening again, but she choked them back, her hand pressed against her throat, and sat gazing vacantly before her, and rocking herself over the babe who had escaped this wicked, weary world of ours.

The young fellow leaned against a tree and filled his pipe with shaking fingers; for he knew that he must give her a little time. He was shaking with something else besides pity; for he noticed the absence of that significant ring, which the wife, who is also a mother, will cling to until the last hour of her extremity, and he suspected a villain in the case.

Presently he said, in a gentler voice, a more tender one, than one would have suspected in so stalwart and strong a man:

"Do you think you could walk a little way farther? There is a station at about another mile. It is called Parraluna. I was going there, and will take you with me."

She looked at him in a dazed fashion for a moment; then she made to rise. As he helped her to her feet, he said:

"Give me the child."

But she shook her head and pressed the baby closer to her. With the assistance of her companion's strong arm, she struggled along for a little while; then, with a dry sob, she held out her burden to him, and he took it, gently, reverently. In this fashion, and in silence, they made their slow progress; and after a while they heard the barking of dogs roused by their approach, and came in sight of the homestead.

It was a comfortable and prosperous-looking place, with flowers in the front garden and creepers climbing over the low-browed house. The burly figure of a man stood in the open doorway, and presently he came down to meet them at the gate.

"This is Parraluna," said the young fellow. "I heard you wanted a hand. You are Mr. Jarrow?"

Mr. Jarrow nodded; then, raising his hat and scratching his head, he looked from the young fellow to the young woman who was leaning against the gate-post, panting heavily, her eyes half-closed.

"Well, I did—I do," he said, hesitatingly. "But I want a single man."

The young fellow's face flushed under his tan, and he said, quietly:

"This lady is not my wife."

Mr. Jarrow shook his head again, looking over the young fellow's shoulder.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but it's only a man we want."

The young man bit his lip, and he looked from the half-fainting girl to Jarrow's troubled and perplexed face; then he said, in a low voice, too low for her to hear:

"I found her down the road. She is very ill, nearly dead. I should say—but you can see for yourself. You will take her in?"

While Mr. Jarrow was still hesitating, though he was evidently touched by the young fellow's appeal and by the girl's weakness, a comfortable, buxom woman came out at the door and down the path toward the group, shading her eyes with her huge, fat hand.

"Who is it, who is it, James?" she asked.

"A sundowner, come for work—and a woman. Not his wife, he says."

Mrs. Jarrow looked from one to the other; then she said, as her eyes glanced toward the girl's ringless finger, and up to her white face:

"Bring her in."

The young fellow drew the girl's arm through his and followed Mrs. Jarrow into the house; her husband still scratching his head, bringing up the rear.

They entered a comfortable kitchen, and the sundowner put the girl in a chair, in which she sank almost lifelessly. Mrs. Jarrow hastened from the room and returned almost instantly with some milk into which she put a little brandy.

"Give it to her," she said to her husband. "And you give me that baby," she added, turning with outstretched arms to the young fellow. Before placing it in them the young man drew its cape from the dead child's face; and with a cry of pity, the motherly woman took the burden and hurried from the room with it, and after a few minutes, she returned, after murmuring plying and consoling words, drew the girl from the chair and out of the room.

The poor, bereaved soul seemed dazed, too exhausted to be conscious of what was going on; but at the door of the kitchen she stopped and passing her hand over her forehead, looked back at the young fellow who was standing regarding her with compassion glowing softly in his eyes, which were not so brilliant as they had been an hour ago. Through all the dazed sorrow in hers there was an expression of gratitude which touched both the men.

"Sit down," said Mr. Jarrow a little huskily, and, as he was obeyed, he put some bread and meat on the table and stirred the fire under the kettle.

While the young man was eating, steadily but not voraciously, as most sundowners do, Mrs. Jarrow descended from upstairs, and, making the tea, filled the wayfarer's cup, looking at him keenly with her shrewd but pleasant eyes.

"She is too ill to answer any questions," she said. "She just had strength to say that her name was Mary Seaton. What is yours?"

"John Douglas," replied the young man. "I am generally called Jack." He had risen as she came in and was still standing. She noticed the unusual courtesy, and her eyes went up and down him as she motioned him to take his seat.

"Sit down, Mr. Jack; if that is the name you prefer," she said. "So you are not husband and wife?"

Jack Douglas repeated the statement that he had found the girl on the road; and Mrs. Jarrow, after a steady look at him, nodded her head.

"I believe you," she said; "that's the advantage of having an open countenance; young man. Where have you come from?"

"The Mintona station," he replied.

"Why?" she asked, sinking into a chair with a sigh, and leaning her arm on the table so that she could reach him more food as he wanted it.

Jack Douglas hesitated a moment; then he said, with a shrug of his shoulders:

"I had a row with a man there."

"What about?" she asked.

"A dog," he said succinctly, reluctantly. "I am fond of animals, and I get foolish and lose my head when they are ill-treated." He stopped, and shrugged his shoulders.

She eyed him shrewdly, a smile lurking about her broad face.

Dug His Own Grave.

A gravedigger named James Hambleton was buried alive in a grave at St. Stephen's Church yard, Anden-shaw, Ashton-under-Lyne, the other day. He had been digging a grave and was getting out when he fell backward and a large portion of the sides collapsed upon him. A conductor on a passing tramcar who saw the man's legs in the air ran to the spot and found the gravedigger buried headforemost. The man had ceased to struggle and was dead when extricated.—London Times.

Renovate Brushes.

When sweeper brush bristles become soft from long use and do not sweep up lint as well as when stiff, put a little common baking soda in some hot water; take the brush out of the sweeper, and dip it up and down in this. Let it dry in the sun and it will be like new. Hair brushes or any brush can be treated in the same way with the best of results.

Nature and the Indian

The Indian never liked work but he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible so that she could do the work and let him hunt, therefore he dug papoose roof for her, for that was their great remedy for female weaknesses.

Dr. Pierce uses the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription" skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective.

Women who are worn out, who suffer from pain at regular or irregular intervals, who are nervous or dizzy at times, should take that reliable, temperance, herbal tonic which a doctor in active practice prescribed many years ago. Now sold by druggists, in tablets and liquid, as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Woodsrock, Ont.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Medicines. I had nervous prostration and was completely 'down and out.' I was so bad the doctors considered mine a hopeless case. I was much discouraged and was ready to give up when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines put me on my feet again and gave me the only real relief. Being a nurse I have recommended Dr. Pierce's Medicines to many, especially the 'Favorite Prescription.' I know of many a young mother to whom I have recommended 'Favorite Prescription' that has been wonderfully helped.

"I am glad to lend my name in connection with Dr. Pierce's Medicines, knowing how good they are."—Miss A. J. Weston, 211 Lake Street.

Canada's Financial Position.

The last budget disclosed Canada's financial position to be:
Pre-war national debt, $235,996,850.
Estimated debt after demobilization, $1,950,000,000.
Present Dominion securities held in Great Britain, $362,700,000.
Held in the United States, $150,783,000.
Held in Canada, $1,510,000,000.
Pre-war annual interest, $12,893,504.
Present annual interest, $115,000,000.
Last year's pensions, $17,460,000.
Present year's pensions, $30,000,000.
Future year's pensions $40,000,000.
Demobilization and gratuities, $300,000,000.
Estimated total expenditure this year, $620,000,000.
Estimated revenue, $280,000,000.
Estimated deficit to be covered by loan, $340,000,000.

Canada's Debt.

Canada's debt is now about two billion dollars, of which three-fourths are held in Canada itself, one-sixth in Great Britain, and one-twelfth in the United States. Canada is now practically independent in a financial sense. The bulk of the debt is from the Canadian people to that section of it which invested in bonds during the war.

A Sad Case.

The lieutenant was lonesome for a familiar face. Seeing a chap who looked like the boy who used to deliver groceries at his home, he stopped him and asked: "Do you know who I am?" "No, sir; don't you?"

Bird Reserves.

It is something for one bird to tell another that Canada has created a series of reserves in the Province of Quebec where birds are safe from man-made troubles. Unlike most bird refuges, Perce Rock, a picturesque island near Perce Village; the east and north cliffs of Bonaventure Island, three miles further away; and the northernmost of the Magdalen Islands, 124 miles out to sea, have been set apart specifically to protect birds whose value to mankind is chiefly their beauty as a part of nature. There is no attempt to argue, for example, that the gannet, the kittiwake, or the razorbill auk should be protected because they "help the farmer"; they are protected simply because they are birds. No human being may steal an egg from their nests; no weapon dangerous to their welfare may be brought within a mile of their island sanctuaries. Naturally all other birds are equally safe, and the three refuges will be a help toward carrying out the purpose of the international treaty for bird protection.

Course for English Brides.

Further evidence that Ontario intends to do all she can for the English brides whom the soldiers are bringing over in such large numbers, is shown by the announcement made by Dr. Creelman, of Guelph Agricultural College, that a special short course in housekeeping will be opened for them at Macdonald Institute from May 16th to June 28th. The course will include laundry work, done in the Canadian way, dairying and domestic economy. Many of the English girls will find our cook stoves quite puzzling at first. They will discover there are many little differences in the Canadian "way" of doing things, and such a course should prove of great assistance to them, especially to those who are going to settle in the country. The cost of the course is $30, and to those who can afford it, it will be money well spent.

Ontario School Statistics.

According to the Minister of Education's report for 1918 the attendance during the year was 561,865, divided: Public, 457,516; Separate, 70,048; High schools and collegiate institutes, 29,097; continuation schools, 5,104. There are 5,103 Public Schools, with 11,274 teachers; 548 Separate schools or collegiate institutes, with 1,051 teachers; 137 continuation schools, with 241 teachers. The Public school attendance averaged 295,652, an increase of 3,047. Separate schools attendance was 46,919, an increase of 722. The total expenditure for school purposes was $16,855,431, an average of $6.35 per head for the total population.

Haig Is Good Golf Driver.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and Lady Haig were on the St. Andrews links recently and engaged in an interesting foursome over the Old Course. Sir Douglas and Gen. Kiggell played against Lady Haig and Andrew Kirkaldy, professional to the Royal and Ancient Club. The latter couple won by two holes after a close contest. Andrew Kirkaldy says that Lady Haig is a good golfer and that Sir Douglas' short game is not so good as his driving, which is excellent.

Bird Life.

To conserve bird life for economic as well as sentimental reasons, the Canadian Government is offering prizes to school children for bird-houses and photographs of birds in their habitat.
