Lady Wyverne's Daughter.

CHAPTER II.

The title he must have—Lynne-welde, too, for it was entailed; but a title and a large house are not sufficient for a man to live upon; and many wondered whether Philip would inherit his uncle's money as well as his name.

Perhaps some such thoughts crossed the young heir's mind, even now, as he drew near Lynnewelde. Philip knew well what the want of money was. When his father died, he heard his mother say, in the midst of her grief, that anxiety had shortened his life; he had known no other care than want of money, want of means sufficient for keeping up the position he thought himself entitled to. His life had been a struggle, and when his son gazed upon his dead face and heard his mother's words, it was no wonder that a strong conviction of the need and value of money crept into his heart. He tried to think of that now, but to remember the errand he was upon, the dying man who wished to see him, and the two fair young daughters who would be left orphans if the worst happened, and his uncle died. He remembered the last time he was at Lynnewelde—Lord Lynne was well and healthy then, and his cousin, Agatha had talked there daily, and Philip felt some curiosity as to what she would be like. If she were only one half as beautiful as her mother, he knew she would create a sensation, even in a country where beautiful faces are not rare. He had never seen her, this strange cousin, this Ines Lynne, who had telegraphed for him.

Then his thoughts flew back to Florence Wyverne, whom twice that morning he had been on the point of asking to be his wife.

Bathurst was reached at last, and there Philip found the carriage waiting to take him to Lynnewelde.

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it, just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will send that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it."—Mrs. HARVEY MULLIGAN, Sydenham, Ont.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

"How is Lord Lynne?" he asked of the footman, who helped to find his luggage, and seemed anxious to hurry him away as soon as possible.

"He was no better when I left, sir," said the man. "Miss Lynne begged you would make all possible speed, for my lord has been asking for you all day."

"Why did they not send for me sooner?" he inquired.

"My lord was as well as you, sir, on Tuesday morning," replied the servant. "He was taken ill on Tuesday night with a kind of fit, and he has never spoken since, except to ask for you; and then Miss Lynne telegraphed at once. It is Thursday today; he has not been ill three days."

"And he is in danger?" asked Philip.

"When I left home, sir," said the man, "Miss Lynne told me to return as quickly as I could, for it was life or death."

It was not a very long drive from Bathurst to Lynnewelde. The coachman did not spare his horses, and in less time than he thought it possible, Philip saw the dark masses of wood that surrounded the house.

Lynnewelde had undergone so many alterations and improvements that no trace of the old house exists. It is now a stately, magnificent mansion, with turrets and gable ends, and oriel windows, with park and pleasure garden, lawn and lake. The stately trees that surround it are noted for their age and beauty; that grand old cedar in the midst of the lawn is said to be the finest in England, and Lord Lynne was prouder of it than of all Lynnewelde.

The carriage drove slowly up the long avenue of chestnut-trees. The hall-door swung wide open when Philip alighted, and the old butler, together with some of the other servants, stood ready to receive him.

"How is he?" cried Philip, eagerly.

"He is dead, my lord," was the grave reply. "He died half an hour ago."

While he lived, Philip could never describe the sensation, the impression those few words made upon him. He had known for many years that at some future time he should be Lord Lynne, but it had always seemed to him a remote contingency; he had not built upon it. He had never attempted to realize the time when Lynnewelde would be his, and he should be Lord Lynne. It came to him now with a sudden shock that seemed to divide at once from his past life, and open a wonderful future to him. Like one in a dream, he followed the man, who showed him to his room.

"I wish to be alone for a short time," he said, "and then I will see Miss Lynne."

He felt it needful that he should be alone. He wanted to realize his position—to feel at home in it, before the scrutinizing eyes of the world were upon him.

Only three hours ago and he was beginning to lose himself in a pleasant love-dream. It was only three hours since he stood with Florence Wyverne, trying to read the secret of her blushing face and shy, sweet eyes. Yet it seemed to him that he had lived a life since then. He was in a new world.

They were not all light or selfish thoughts that passed through his mind. He resolved not to live in vain, but to use the position, the influence, and the rank that would be his, to good purpose. When that hour was over he rang the bell, and asked the servant who answered it to show him to the room where Lord Lynne lay. Then he knelt by the side of that silent figure for whom all the glories of the world were over. He was not ashamed to pray that, when he too came to die, he might not have lived in vain.

In the simplicity of his brave and noble heart, Philip, now Lord Lynne, made high resolves, and in the darkest hours of his life he did not forget them. Then he went to the drawing-room and asked to see Miss Lynne and Miss Agatha; but they begged him to excuse them. Miss Lynne was not well, and Miss Agatha was with her. They hoped that for the next few days he would excuse them from leaving their own apartments.

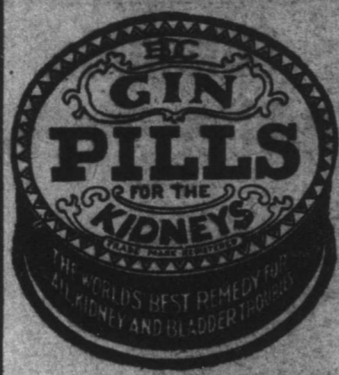

"Of course," he thought—"quite right. I was foolish to think they could see me, and talk as if nothing had happened."

Although he did not see his cousins, Philip did not allow them to forget his presence; and Miss Lynne's little

Do you suffer from urinary troubles

Gin Pills can bring you quick relief. They soothe that burning sensation in the bladder; the frequent desire to urinate is overcome; brick dust deposits vanish; congested kidneys and inflamed bladder which caused the irritation are restored to normal condition, and you again enjoy comfort by day and uninterrupted sleep by night. Once try Gin Pills and you will not give them up until every trace of urinary trouble has left you.

ANOTHER DEADLOCK AT LAU- SANNE.

LAUSANNE, May 4. The Near East Conference has again reached a deadlock over the question of the protection of foreigners in Turkey. Ismet Pasha head of the Turkish delegation, refused even to discuss the amended text which was accepted by Ismet after adjournment of the Conference in February. The Allies do not consider themselves bound by the February text because it was accepted after the Turks had refused to sign the treaty. The Allies are insisting that arrests, seizures and domiciliary search affecting foreigners be carried out only when consented to previously by foreign advisers. Ismet insisted that if the Allies repudiated the accord reached in the closing hours of the previous conference, and it was again found that a peace agreement was impossible, the world would know that the rupture had been caused by uncompromising attitude of the Allies. The delegates left the Conference in a pessimistic mood as the question is regarded as one of the most important before the conferees.

FRENCH HASTE DEPLORED.

LONDON, May 4. France apparently rejected the recent German overture, if not without actually consulting the British Government, certainly without paying much deference to British views. This precipitous action has served to disappoint the hopes of bringing the question to the Conference table. The haste of France is deplored in London because it may precipitate the fall of the Cuno Government and the substitution of a purely Socialistic administration.

PREDICTS ANOTHER WAR.

TORONTO, May 4. The spring of 1928 will see the last great world war fought, according to the prophecy of Lt.-Col. W. C. McKendrick of Toronto, in an address to the Empire Club. Col. McKendrick gained distinction with the Canadian Forces overseas as a builder of roads for the military in the last great war. He said Turkey, Russia, China and other Eastern countries would be arrayed against the Anglo-Saxon races and he predicted the final disappearance of Turkey, as a result of the conflict.

LIMITING CHINESE IMMIGRATION

OTTAWA, May 4. The House of Commons to-day passed a bill which will practically limit Chinese immigration to merchants and students. Hon. Charles Stuart intimated that a Canadian official would be stationed in China and any one seeking admission to Canada would be required to assure that official of his bona fides as a merchant in the import or export trade with China. Peddlers, hucksters, laundrymen and so forth would not be admitted.

GERMAN SHIPBUILDING.

NEW ORLEANS, May 4. The outstanding fact in the shipping situation to-day, said James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation in an address here, was the rapid recovery of the German merchant fleet. Since 1918 Germany has built one million five hundred thousand tons of new ships, and on January 1st last, four hundred and sixteen thousand tons were under construction. This, the speaker said, while the United States was in the doldrums as to what to do with its shipping board fleet.

THE ICE JAM.

NORTH SYDNEY, May 4. Pressure on the ice jam in Cabot Strait and the area south between Cape Breton and Newfoundland, showed no indication of lessening to-day and there were evidences that the barrier was widening. The steamer Kyle is still held fast about 8 miles east of Flat Point and the pressure of the ice against the Cape Breton shore from Cape North to Cape Breton has steadily increased during the afternoon. Nearer Cape North the pressure of wind and tide is causing a circular motion in the field and Cape Ray to-day reports two unidentified steamers drifting with the ice against a northwest breeze. Fog and rain are reported from all parts of the area.

OUR LOVE OF CONTRAST.

It has long been a commonplace saying that it is not the people who live in New York who support all that big city's innumerable amusements. It is her thousand movies and her one hippodrome, her choice music, and her musical comedies, her frolics and her follies, and her restaurants where people go for pleasure rather than food. The money that is made in our biggest city by catering to men's love of pleasure is not made out of the New Yorkers, we are told, but out of the people from the country who come to New York and want their fill of city pleasures while they are there.

Now here is a companion fact to that perhaps not so generally recognized. It is the city people who seem to know the most about country pleasures and country sports.

In the Little Village. I have lately seen a striking example of that. In a little New England country town where I spent some time this past winter there is a small inn to which many people come from the city to enjoy the winter sports. These city people love to snowshoe and ski, and some who have been coming for several years know all the lovely trails and are experts at these country sports.

way: Parboil them, dip in egg and crumbs, fry in deep fat and serve with creamed asparagus tips and fried peppers.

Most housewives find that bath-towels wear at the edge before the rest of the towel is worn out. To prevent this, sew a linen tape along the edge of each towel when new.

Soak salt codfish in cold water overnight, then drain, cover with cold water and bring to boiling point. Do not allow fish to boil, and if it not tender enough, repeat process.

But the people who live in that village the year round, the people who have the most chance to enjoy the winter sports seldom take the slightest interest in them. Many of the village people have never had a snowshoe on, most of them have never had a ski on. Many of them know nothing of their own lovely trails that other people come miles to enjoy.

There is one exception to this, and that is the children. Every year in greater numbers they are taking up the country sports, which the city folk have brought to town.

Swimmers and Fishermen. Of course this is almost as true of summer sports as of winter sports. Who are generally the best swimmers in the little seaside village—the country children or the children who come there for their summer vacation? I remember a little village in Canada where the main industry was fishing, and almost none of these fisherboys knew how to swim.

And who knows every inch of the trout brook as well as the angler who comes from the city every year? Of course the answer is that the country people are there to work and the city people come down to play. When the country people get their playtime they like to go to the city to enjoy life. But they would find some of the pleasures of country life almost as unaccustomed. And I wonder if a day spent taking a country vacation wouldn't really bring the country man or woman more pleasure than he or she realizes.

Canada's Plans.

FOR BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

OTTAWA, (Canadian Press)—All the plans for Canada's participation in the British Empire Exhibition to be held in London, England, from April 26th to October 31st next year, are practically completed. It is announced, The Dominion Government will erect its own building—an imposing structure in Neo-Grec architecture—on a commanding site in Wembley Park, where the Exhibition is to be held. Work on the erection of the building will commence this summer, and every last detail linked with this great enterprise will be completed by the time the Exhibition is opened to the public. The building will be 415 feet long and 300 feet wide, with a floor space of 124,800 square feet, and in it, through the medium of attractive displays and exhibits, visitors will have an opportunity to learn in an impressive way something of the extensive natural resources of Canada, the products of the soil, and the wide range of manufactured goods made within the Dominion. The resources and products of each of the nine provinces and the two territories will be displayed. Canadian exhibit is to be financed, controlled and directed by the Federal Government. The estimated cost is $1,000,000. On the same site as the Canadian Government building will be two additional separate buildings, to be built by the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway, each with a floor space of approximately 15,000 feet. In these buildings Canada's two great transportation organizations will show the resources and attractions of the country served by their railway lines. Plans for all three buildings have been approved by the Dominion Government and the official architects for the Exhibition. When completed these structures will be so prominently located as to be readily seen from any part of the spacious grounds set apart for the Exhibition. Every part of the British Empire will be represented at this exhibition, to which it is expected millions of people from all parts of the world will go. Wembley Park has been chosen as the site of the Exhibition on account of its accessibility from all parts of London. Also the trains from the north connect directly with the Park. It is only fifteen minutes ride by the tube from Trafalgar Square, the most central point in the Metropolis of the Empire.

 Teach me to greet the morning with a smile,
 And the calm rest of night with gratitude.
 Let me have courage when the wind blows wild,
 Let me be gracious when my skies are fair
 And unresentful in my hour of care.
 If those there be who need my words of cheer,
 Let me not play the churl when they are near.
 Let me not be deluded by the prize,
 Let me see clearly where my duty lies.
 And when at last my course of life is run,
 Let me not be ashamed of what I've done.

TRINITY

PHILIP COATES, WHO WAS CONNECTED WITH THE BUSINESS AFFAIRS OF TRINITY FROM 1787 TO 1810.

In the year 1757, the same year that Giles Hoosier was born in Poole, Dorset, by the side of the English Channel; there was born in the little seaport town of Ilfracombe, in Devon, by the side of the Bristol Channel, a boy—who forty years later, was a prominent figure in the business life of Trinity, Newfoundland. The boy was a son of George and Mary Coates, well known, and highly respected in South Devon, and who, at his baptism, was given the name Philip. Philip was one of a family of three, and the other two were girls. His father had gone to sea as a lad, and because of his aptitude to learn, and his steady ways, he had risen quickly from the ranks, and when Philip was born) he was Captain George Coates of the brig "Isobel," and well known in every part of Newfoundland where Garland did business.

Philip's earliest recollections were chiefly of the comings and goings of his father, and of the quaint little things that he brought home with him from Newfoundland. He often asked the master at school about that far away place, and he was always told that it was a cold, bleak island belonging to Britain, where people went to fish for cod; with fog and ice as dangers all around it, and Indians as dangers within it. His father brought better reports of it, and there became implanted within him a determination some day to see it, and to find out more about it. His school days were highly profitable to him, and during those years he developed an inborn faculty for business, which pointed to his vocation in life; and when he left school he made up his mind to qualify for practical business work, and then to go to Newfoundland and engage in it. His father, who had made a good deal of money during his years at sea, knowing his boy's interest in business, and his wish to settle down in Newfoundland, suggested to him that he made a trip with him the next time he sailed for there. Philip was delighted with the opportunity, and during the summer of 1787 he left Plymouth with his father in the brig Isobel, consigned to Garland, Trinity, Newfoundland.

Captain Coates was a very reticent man, but also a very observing one, and he knew far more about Philip's abilities and wishes than Philip thought he did. Up to that time, however, he had not discussed his boy's future with him, nor had he intimated to him in any way, that he would assist him to carry out those wishes. During the voyage they developed a spirit of comradeship, and they talked much together, about Trinity, and business, and Philip's hopes for the future. His father told him that he knew of no better place for business than Trinity. More than that he told him that, if after seeing things for himself in Trinity, he would go back with him to Poole, and take a position that he could secure for him in a mercantile office there for a year, he would provide him with all the money required to purchase a business in Trinity. Philip was delighted with his father's proposals, and during the fortnight that the Isobel was held in Trinity, he gathered much practical information about the present, and the prospective opportunities to secure a suitable location for business.

A premises between Job's Head and Peace Cove on the north side, that would be for sale within the next six months attracted Philip's attention, and his father made arrangements to buy it. Philip went back to Poole, and through his father's influence he secured a clerkship with Garland & Co., and began his work at once, with a determination to get thoroughly acquainted with the practical workings of the Poole-Newfoundland business. His success was equal to his determination, and in the year 1788 he came to Trinity and took charge of the premises that his father had secured for him the year before. In those days when society was in an unsettled condition, it became absolutely necessary for a man with business responsibilities to have the help and privacy of his own home. Mr. Coates realized this, and the following entry in the old Church Register, shows how he arranged for it: "1788, Married, Philip Coates, of Ilfracombe, in the County of Devon, England, and Sarah Taverner, daughter of Benjamin and Ann Taverner, Trinity."

After twenty years of successful business, Mr. Coates retired, and sold his property to Mr. Packham. He then bought a house in Trinity, and settled down for a quiet life. Like the majority of healthy men who have thoroughly enjoyed work for so many years, Mr. Coates found the quiet life of retirement very monotonous. Just then Messrs. Sleet and Read were in need of a practical man to be their Agent, and Mr. Coates gladly accepted the position. Mrs. Coates died in 1810, and as they had no children, his home life was sadly changed, and he was all the more glad to have his duties as Agent to attend to. The following inscription on the large slab that covers his wife's grave (written by himself) in old St. Paul's Churchyard betrays his loneliness, and his love for her: "She was the aid that human skill could send. To shield her bosom from the fatal dart. Naught could avail, naught save my valued friend. Too soon alas! it pierced her throbbing heart. But oh! how sweetly soothing is the thought."

There are 4 grades of roofing felt selling in Newfoundland, "BARRETT'S" is guaranteed the highest grade.

"Barrett's" 1, 2 and 3-ply felts have been in use in Newfoundland for more than 50 years.

The best roof known in America is a "Barrett" roof, "Barrett's" felt ONLY is used in putting on a "Barrett" Roof. Ask any Architect,

"Barrett" 1, 2 and 3-ply felts are really made of felt saturated with genuine coal tar—the 2 and 3-ply felts have a layer of coal tar pitch between each ply.

"Barrett's" felts are made to give good wear, therefore they cost more than roofings made of paper saturated with diluted asphalt.

If you use "Barrett's" felt instead of common felt, a new roof covering for your house may cost you $2.00 more for the whole roof.

Roofs covered with "Barrett's" felt are secure, the extra cost of one or two dollars (for the entire roof) is money well spent.

Which felt do you intend to use?

Architects, Builders and Contractors prefer "Barrett's" Felt.

Doctor Says It Is Your Heart

"WHAT did he say?" "Well, he says that the great majority of people who had the 'flu' have suffered afterwards from weak heart action.

"I never had heart trouble." "No, but the way the doctor explains it is that the nervous system is so weakened by the 'flu' that there is not enough nerve force left to drive the machinery of the body."

"That is about the way I feel, for I have no appetite, and do not feel able to stir."

"No, and you do not seem to digest the little food you do eat. So you cannot expect to gain strength. Why not try some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Oh, I do not see how that would help me."

"Now, John, I think that is exactly what you need. It always helped me when I got run down in health, and I hear so many saying the same thing that I think you should give it a trial. You know yourself that you are not gaining any these days."

"How would that help my heart?" "Because it enriches the blood and increases the nerve force. Anything that strengthens the nerves will naturally strengthen the action of the heart, for the heart, like the stomach and other organs, is dependent on the nervous system for operative power."

"Will you talk as though you knew. I want your training as a nurse is coming in useful."

"Will you try the Nerve Food, then?" "Yes, I will give it a good trial, for I want to get around, and not sit here like an invalid."

"I am so glad, for I feel sure it will soon get you feeling all right again."

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Mother, Too,

That she the path of mildest virtue trod; In the peaceful mansion that she sought. For ever lives an angel with her God." (Mr. Coates must be held personally responsible for the peculiar doctrine these lines contain, in respect of the possibility of a human being becoming an angel.) His life in Trinity had been a busy one, and his rugged constitution had never been affected by a day's illness. After the death of his wife, however, his health began to fail, and on November 9th, 1810 he was called to rest. In the old Burial Register is the following entry: "1810, Interred, Mr. Philip Coates, Agent to Messrs. Sleet and Read at the Nucleus, aged 43 years." His body is buried in the old churchyard beside that of his wife, but his grave is unmarked. He was one of the men of whom I have heard my grandfather, James Lockyer, talk about many times in my boyhood days; and long before I had taken enough interest in the old church books to read the scattered entries of his life, and to read his history between the lines, I knew Philip Coates as a highly respected person, and an outstanding figure in the early days of Trinity. May he rest in peace.

One reason why my grandfather knew Mr. Coates so well, and thought of him so highly was, they were personal friends, and largely because of that, my grandfather was asked to become his successor as Agent for Sleet and Read. He accepted the position, and held it for some seven or eight years, and then resigned it, to take other work in Trinity.

INTERESTING CORRESPONDENCE

Amongst the several interesting letters received by me lately, is one from the far North, and from which I quote the following: "I got very much interested in your 'week-end Trinity notes, being a 'Wimbourne man, and having lived for so many years near Poole. I knew 'Captain Cookesley to whom you refer so often. He came to see me in Newfoundland, and he called to tell me that he had lived there some time, and to wish me good luck. I see you often refer to Christ Church. I was at Christ Church four years ago with a party of friends. We wanted to look over the old Priory Church. It was 6 p.m., and the man in charge told us we were too late, and to come again in the morning. I said, we are from a long distance, and cannot come to-morrow; we are 'from Newfoundland, Newfoundland!' he said. Do you know Poole? I said, 'Yes, Do you know Mr. Hyde there?' I said, 'Yes, Well, he said, 'he's my brother; come right in. So we all went in and saw the beautiful old building, and especially the noted 'beam which is so much talked about, and which so many people go to see."

My grandfather Lockyer (who was born in the town of Christ Church) often told me the story of the beam to which my friend refers. The story is: When the old Priory Church was being built, the carpenters were preparing one of the important beams, and by some mistake in the measurement it was sawn off three feet too short. They were puzzled to know what to do; but as it was dinner time they decided to leave it as it was, and go to dinner. When they returned to work to their surprise the beam was in its place, and six feet longer than was required. No one presumed to change it, and the six feet projection outside the wall of the building may be seen to-day. Do you ask, who changed the length of it, and placed it in position? Well, the old Clerk of the Church will tell you "the angels did it," and he ought to know.

SOME MARRIAGES OF FIFTY YEARS AGO.

In looking over the marriage entries of forty-five or fifty years ago, whilst they bring to my memory deeply interesting events in the lives of those who were, in many instances, my personal friends at the time, and in whose happiness I sometimes had a share, I find that the majority of those who were married, and of those who were official witnesses of the events have been called to their rest. I am always prepared for this finding when I deal with events of 100 or 150 years ago; but it comes more or less a painful surprise, when looking over entries, in which every name is associated with the happiest of personal reminders, of seemingly only a few years ago, to find, as I have remarked, that they have passed into the more immediate presence of God, "where they neither marry nor are given in marriage." I have received the thanks of a good many people for giving in my notes, an outline copy of their marriage lines, and the names of those who were "bride's boys and brides maids." They have revived happy memories, and supplied a subject for deeply interesting conversation. Following are a few others.

VERIFYING A DATE. When sometime ago I wrote an account of the loss of the brig "William Nelson," I had some difficulty in finding out just what year it occurred, and no one was able to help me to decide for sure. I don't remember now what date I assigned to it, as the book in which I kept a copy of my items is not at home as I write (March 23rd.) I believe it was 1848. If so I was right; as the Burial Register of old St. Paul's has the following entry:—"1848—Buried William Bloomfield of England, aged 23 yrs. He was drowned in the wreck of the brig "William Nelson," at Green Bay Head." This man was, of course, one of the crew of the "William Nelson," and as this is the only record of burial in this connection, his body must have been the only one recovered. This entry of burial is but another instance of faithfulness and the comprehensiveness of the entries in the registers of old St. Paul's, that supply new facts and inspirations every time I look through them.

WHO WAS MR. BEALE?

The fact that one of our citizens, long since gone to his rest, used to say, when people did things that he did not approve of—"Twasn't so in Mr. Beale's time" has led to the inquiry as to whom Mr. Beale was. Mr. Benjamin Beale came out to Trinity as an English youngster, at the same time Mr. John Sheehan's father came out from Ireland, about the year 1810. He was a fisherman, and a salt maker. He lived for some years with Mr. Sweet in a long low house near Mr. Stoteman's property. Both he and Mr. Sheehan were members of the Trinity Benefit Club at an early date in its history. Although it is supposed that Mr. Beale was married several times, there is only one record of such an act of his in the old Church Register (though the fact that he is entered as a widower, indicates at least one previous marriage) and that took place the same year the Trinity Benefit Club was organized by Rev. William Bullock, and reads as follows:—"1848—Married, Benjamin Beale, widower, and Olive Barrett, widow. Witnesses, William Rodgers and George Ferris."

So, whatever else was not "done in Mr. Beale's time," getting married occasionally was all right, though the man who constitutes him an authority, died an old bachelor. I don't know what Mr. Beale's opinions had to do with it anyway; but there are several things I don't know.

VISIT OF MR. SAMUEL JAMES.

We were all pleased to meet and to welcome Mr. Samuel James to Trinity last week. He was born in Trinity some twenty-five years ago. After he left school he went with Mr. Fred Brady on the Enterprise Staff and there became familiar with fundamental principles of printing. He is now in the Job Printing Department of the Advocate Printing Co. St. John's, with years of experience that have made him an expert member of the Fourth Estate. He came to us last week from Boavista where he had gone to print the ballot papers for that district, and dropped off on his way back to see the town, and to meet his many friends and well wishers. During his visit he realized the truth in the saying:—"Times change and we with them but not in ways of the Trinity is well and creditably tended in the printing office John's."

We are glad to see Captain Bour, and the men who went with him, and others at the seashore again, in good health, after strenuous and trying spring.

ADVERTISE IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

Three Great Powers Fighting for Oil.

With the resumption of the Lausanne Conference, oil once more will become one of the great issues before the world. What company is to have the vast oil concessions in Turkey, or in other words, what foreign power is to be the economic master of Turkey for at least a generation? The question is of tremendous importance and may affect the peace of the world; indeed the peace of the world may well be shaken again before it is settled. The powers engaged in this rivalry are the United States, Britain and France. Britain at the moment occupies the strongest position. She is in possession of Mosul, which is supposed to be the centre of the vast oil fields, and moreover, she is in legal possession by virtue of a decision of the League of Nations which gave her the mandate for Mesopotamia, or Iraq as it is now known. A British force is in Iraq to protect the Arabs who inhabit it from a possible Turkish attack, and as long as that force remains, it is out of the question that either France or the United States should lay hands upon the half-hidden riches of the district.

The Chester Concessions.
As regards the good-will of the Turks, the United States is in the most favorable position, or rather Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester is in the most favorable position through the tremendous concessions that have recently been granted him.

His story is an interesting one, and begins properly in 1908, when as an American naval officer he visited Turkey and was struck with its need of harbors. His investigation showed him that there were great natural resources to be developed in Turkey and he set about securing concessions. He drew up a plan for a port and railway lines with concessions of all the mineral rights lying within a certain distance from the railroad. His application for this concession was not granted because Turkey was in confusion and chaos following the revolution, but an American corporation was organized to work the concession when it was eventually granted, which Chester believed to be merely a matter of time. In 1910 the Turkish Minister of Public Works officially approved the project which then awaited only Parliamentary ratification.

Canadians in It.
Then followed the war with Italy, which was followed by the two Balkan wars, all of which held up the Chester plans. The grant as approved by the Grand Vizier contained a clause which provided that in case of delay to "force majeure," the company might on due notice being given the Turkish Government delay its operations, and the Government was thus notified, Chester believing that thus he kept the concessions valid. Then came the Great War and for eight years the Chester plan was forgotten except by the Admiral, his two sons and a few capitalists who were associated with them. In 1922 there was a reorganization of the Chester company. New life was introduced by the selection of Gen. George W. Goethals as president, and C. A. Barnard, a Canadian, as secretary-treasurer. The latter with Major K. E. Clayton-Kennedy, also a Canadian and whose father-in-law is J. W. Clayton of London, who is supposed to have been putting up the money, took up the promotion of the affairs of the company. These two Canadians with Arthur Chester, Admiral Chester's son, are now representing the company at Constantinople and Angora.

British Right Challenged.

The Angora Assembly has now approved the Chester concessions. The latter have been enlarged since being first planned and include the construction of a railroad covering 2,400 miles of Asia Minor, with mining and mineral rights for 20 kilometers on each side of the right of way, a total territory of some 98,000 square miles. Mosul and a considerable area of the Irak lies within the Chester concession, so the clash with British interests is obvious. Turkey made the grant as a formal challenge to the right of Great Britain to be in the province of Mosul and Bagdad. This question was discussed at the Lausanne conference, and it was proposed that if the boundaries had not been settled within a year the League of Nations would undertake to settle them. This was not agreed to, and the dispute will be re-opened by the conference that held its first session yesterday. One thing is certain and that is that as long as the British remain in possession, Admiral Chester's concessions in the Irak will be purely academic.

Act Like Soviets.
The French claims are based on an original concession for a railroad in Anatolia granted before the war broke out. It is asserted that on this understanding a loan of half a billion francs was made to the Turkish Government then in power. There are also claims put forward under the so called Bouillon treaty, whereby France surrendered Southern Cilicia to the Turks as well as a strip of Northern Syria along which the Bagdad railway runs as a boundary. The Turkish position is that the present Government, that controlled by Kemal Pasha, is not responsible for any of the acts of any preceding Government, and that it is approving the Chester concessions not because they had been approved by one of its predecessors, but because they offer Turkey the best bargain that has yet been proposed. In short it repudiates after the manner of Soviet Russia, and if its repudiations are not acquiesced in it threatens war. It will be the desire of the Freemen's Choice.

Everybody to-day is anxiously awaiting the next count. The result so far having given the Government seven seats and the Opposition four. If the Government is returned, Squires, of course, will be still the servant of Coaker and our captation is rather a misnomer, especially as applied to many in the northern outports, for there hundreds of fishermen have their money in the Union Trading Co., and the other Coaker concerns, that fear for the money may have caused them to vote against their conscience and mark their ballots in the interest of their master. Such, of course, would not be a freeman's choice, for such a man is forced down by mercenary fear to give a vote for the candidates practically forced upon him by Coaker. Freemen's Choice! Indeed! Freemen's choice in this election would mean the election of the Bennett Party. Any other result of the present poll is but due to the fear the fishermen have for their property which is controlled by W. F. Coaker.

The following report has been received by the Board of Trade, dated April 13th, from Faria, Pimenta & Coimbra, Ltd. "Since our last circular was sent, prices for British fish have not shown any appreciable alteration. The catch of salmon of other qualities has somewhat increased, however, owing to reductions in prices. The exchange continues unstable, but the tendency, according to the general opinion, is toward a considerable improvement."

"In accordance with a new Decree by our Government, which is to enter into effect on the 20th of the present month, the Duties on Imported Codfish, cleared through the Customs, will be paid in Sterling, at the rate of exchange ruling at the time. This will mean, we regret to say, an additional tax on Codfish of about twenty centavos per kilo."

The increased pressure upon the Ruhr situation is seen in a French announcement of a decree prohibiting Germany from taking coal from mines without permission. The German authorities maintain this policy would bring about the closing down of most industries because the Germans are forbidden under passive resistance programme to apply for such permission.

Relations between this country and Great Britain are distinctly less friendly than they have been for the last eight or ten years, says the 1922 report of the Sulgrave Institution of the United States. The growing apathy attributed to the cooling of war passions, difference of opinion over the Peace terms, activities of alien organizations and the character of news sent to Great Britain are said to be the main causes.

Local financial men declared today that Henry Ford was the richest man in the world, following the publication yesterday of the Ford Motor Company's statement. Its financial conditions as of February 28th, 1923 showed assets of five hundred and thirty-six million, three hundred and fifty-one thousand, nine hundred dollars. Actual cash on hand, one hundred and fifty-nine million, six hundred and fifty thousand and six hundred and eighty-seven dollars. Wall Street further estimated Ford's fortune was between six hundred million and seven hundred and fifty million dollars. Rockett's fortune has been depleted to three hundred million by the oil man's gifts, which are estimated in rough numbers at one billion dollars.

Good Traffic Regulations.

The thoroughfare fronting the Post Office, Water St., was kept open to the benefit of the public last night to watch the election returns as they came in, and although upwards of 2,000 people congregated not an accident or interruption was reported.

Ballot Boxes Delayed.

The election returns from the outport districts have been delayed somewhat, owing to the difficulty of getting the ballot boxes around, and no counts can be expected to-day. Placentia and Trinity will very likely be the next districts heard from. It is understood that some sections of Burgeo and LaPolla and St. Barbe have been disfranchised as the ballot boxes did not reach there in time.

Increase in Portuguese Tax.

The following report has been received by the Board of Trade, dated April 13th, from Faria, Pimenta & Coimbra, Ltd. "Since our last circular was sent, prices for British fish have not shown any appreciable alteration. The catch of salmon of other qualities has somewhat increased, however, owing to reductions in prices. The exchange continues unstable, but the tendency, according to the general opinion, is toward a considerable improvement."

Special Services at the Kirk.

That a good thing is appreciated was shown by the large attendance at the Kirk on Sunday evening last, when the first of the addresses on prominent men of the past was delivered. On to-morrow evening and weekly thereafter those services will be continued, the subject for to-morrow being "Oliver Cromwell."

Mining Expert Arrives.

That many Canadian companies will have men on the spot to investigate the Labrador Gold areas is certain. Mr. R. J. Wilson, of the Hollinger Gold Mines Co. of Ontario, the first arrival, is at present in the city and will be leaving for Labrador shortly by aeroplane to make a complete survey of the recent discoveries at St. Bay and other sections.

Daylight Saving.

The Daylight Saving Act of 1915 comes into operation at 10 o'clock to-morrow night, when all clocks will have to be advanced one hour to set them right with official time. The public of St. John's will take their guidance from the signal gun at Cabot Tower which will be fired at 10 p.m.

And other creatures with cold blood
That restless crawl in slime and slink, Gadabouts! It makes me sick to think
Of their life, how they exist, how they
Prate of their transcendentalism,
While you save man by mechanism,
And when I told them how you fought
The demons of the storm, and brought
That life-line from the wreck to shore
And saved those ninety souls or more
They argued with such confidence—
'Twas instinct, nature, or blind sense.
A man could know when he would do
It.

You did it and never knew it.
I'll not believe it, Carlo; I
Will fetch you when I die,
And, standing up at Peter's wicket,
Somewhere within your line, a dam

Will urge sound reasons for your Tucket,
I'll show him your life-saving label
And tell him all about that cable,
The storm along the shore, the wreck
The ninety souls upon the deck;
How one by one they came along,
The young and old, the weak, the strong—
Pale women sick and tempest tossed,
Whose children cried up for lost;
I'd tell him more if he would ask it—
How they tied a baby in a basket,
While a young sailor, picked and able
Moved out to steady it on the cable;
And if he needed more recital,
To admit a mongrel without title,
I'd get down low upon my knees,
And swear before the Holy Ropes,
That, riding by the way you swam,
Somewhere within your line, a dam

Formed for the job by God's own hand,
Had littered for a Newfoundland,
MORNING
Old, old is the sea to-day.
A sudden squall of age
Has torn away
The texture of its youth and grace,
And flung the rose of daybreak
From its waters.
Now lines of grey
And dragging vapors on its brow
Heavily are drawn;
And it lies broken as with centuries,
Though yesterday,
Blue-eyed and shadowless as a
child's face,
It held the promise of a luminous
dawn.
Though through its merry after-hours
It bade the sun to pour

Its flaming minaree on the ocean floor
That by a conjuror's touch was turned to rarer treasure manifold,
Where jacinth, emerald and sapphire burned—
A fringe around a core of gold . . .
Old, old is the sea to-day.
Forsaken, chill and grey,
And banished is the glory of its waters.
Though through the silent tenure of the night
It bade the sterile moon to multiply
A thousand-fold its undivided light,
Within the nadir of a richer sky,
When every star a thousand crescents
glowed
That, caught in wider conflagration, sent

Vast leagues of silver fire wherever flowed
The waters of its shoresless armament.
But old and grey
Is the sea to-day,
With the morning colors blanched
upon its waters.
Variation follows variation.
The whole should be quoted, but to make room for "Carlo," which I think will have a more popular appeal, I am contenting myself with a bare five lines from the section called "In Retreat."
How in a ruthless moment dost thou strip
The veils from our eyes, and bid us cast

Our glances on a labyrinthine past,
Stirred by a flash that on a wave's
white lip
Gleams for an instant.
It is significant that the new poet is at his best in narrative, Canadian poets have been somewhat weak in that kind of sustained effort, and too often have been content with the typical interpretation of their own moods, and rather subjective descriptions of nature, reflecting those moods. As observer and recorder of things and persons in a more objective way, Dr. Pratt is distinctive, though fortunately, not unique. It is noteworthy also, that a professional psychologist should take so simple and humane a view of the heroism of a dog.

WINARD'S LINIMENT FOR DIS-TEMPER.

Bananas as Food.

Most fruits are valuable to man because of the medicinal properties of their juices and for their delicate flavours. But from a point of view of food there is nothing, or next to nothing, in them.

Strawberries, for instance, or peaches or pears, are of little use except to quench the thirst. The one great exception is the banana. The great traveller, Humboldt, once said that an acre of bananas will give as much food as 44 acres of potatoes. This is decidedly an exaggeration, yet, acre for acre, a crop of bananas does give more human food than any other plant or vegetable known to man.

The average yield of a plantation of bananas on good, moist land is 288 bunches to the acre each year. You can put the weight of a bunch at 52 pounds, which makes the crop 14,976 pounds to the acre. This would be enough to feed a man for about three and one-third years.

An acre of potatoes will yield, on an average, 82 bushels, sufficient to feed a person for 18 months, or less than half the time that an acre of bananas would feed him.

But, then, the potato crop requires a lot of work. Each year the ground must be prepared, ploughed, and fertilized, the seed sown, kept free of weeds, and finally the crop dug and hoisted. In the case of the banana all this trouble is saved, for new shoots keep growing up from the old "stools", and there is nothing to do but keep the weeds down with a scythe and cut the fruit when ripe.

No wonder, then, that bananas are, weight for weight, the cheapest food for man, and that life runs easily in countries where the banana will grow. And that, mind you, is a belt nearly 300 miles wide all round the thickest girth of our planet.

Household Suggestions.

Keep a lump of sugar in the teapot when it is not in use. This will prevent it from becoming musty.

When you are making a milk pudding remember that it should be cooked in a very slow oven.

Before cooking raw fish wash it in a little vinegar.

Keep your preserves in a cool, dark place. Always have them labeled, the same kinds grouped together, and you will not have to spend much time hunting for what you want.

When working on light material use drab or some dark shades for basting. In this way the basting threads are always readily seen and you know when you have removed them.

HIP YOUR SAUCE

is made in England and used on the dining tables of the British and Canadian Houses of Parliament.

You're sure to like the delicious flavour of H.P.—it is quite different from any other sauce or relish.

Pole Flight.

400-MILE CHAIN OF BONFIRES.
 Roald Amundsen, the explorer, plans to start from Wainwright, on the north coast of Alaska, for his flight across the North Pole to Spitzbergen on June 30.

Because the date cannot be fixed exactly in advance owing to possible weather conditions and because preparations for rescue if the aeroplane should meet with disaster in Spitzbergen depend on exact knowledge of the time of his departure, citizens of Nome (Alaska) have planned a system of signal fire to carry the news of his start from Wainwright to the nearest wireless station, Noorvik, which is 400 miles away along the coast.

The plan calls for the stationing of between twenty and thirty parties, of two Eskimos each, at intervals along the coast from Wainwright, which is near Point Barrow, to Noorvik, on the Kobuk River, which is just north of Behring Strait.

Huge bonfires are to be built at intervals of about 15 miles, driftwood and coal being used. When Amundsen starts his flight from Wainwright the bonfires there will be lighted. This will set in motion the chain of signal bonfires.

To prevent any break in this chain it is planned to carry the news between stations to make sure that the signal is not missed. As soon as his own fire is lighted, one of the Eskimos will set off for the next signal station.

If the day is clear when Amundsen starts to fly across the Pole, it is believed that the bonfire signals will relay the news along the coast to Noorvik within a few hours.

Communication by a succession of smoke signals is the only practicable means of giving prompt notice of the start of Amundsen's flight, as the journey takes several weeks or a month. Without the bonfire chain, if Amundsen met with disaster, it would be weeks before the world could even know that he had started. By that time searching expeditions could not be sent out from Spitzbergen with much hope of success.

Trees a Thousand Years Old.

How many people realize the great age of the sombre yew trees scattered up and down the land in the British Isles? asks Bassett Digby, F.R.G.S.

Many a shady British yew now standing gave shelter from sun or rain to Anglo-Saxon wayfarers before the Norman Conquest, he continues. There is ample reason for its having been planted so extensively in churchyards as symbols of immortality.

The greatest yew at Aldsworth, in Berkshire, is over 1,000 years old, and still flourishing. No one knows how many centuries have elapsed since it considered that it had grown enough. Twenty-seven feet round to-day, it measured just the same in 1760, when a note of its girth was made in More's "Berkshire Queries." The Bucklebury yew, also in Berkshire, by an old coincidence, is of just the same size. The leaning yew at Ilfey, near Oxford—unless it has been cut down since I saw it last—is accounted to be the oldest tree in England.

It is interesting to realise, when you look at an old yew, that your forefathers must have cut branches from it with which to make their bows.

There is a gap of centuries between the birth of Britain's oldest yews and the birth of Britain's oldest oaks and elms. Not an oak in Great Britain has been found, when cut down and the annual growth rings counted, to be 500 years old, and elms live a century less.

New Gun Fires 120 Shots a Minute 6 Miles.

OGDEN, U. April 7.—John M. Browning, noted firearms inventor, has completed a new weapon, capable of shooting 20 rounds a minute, with a range of six miles and, large enough to penetrate airplane armor. It was announced here.

Browning perfected the gun, it was stated at the request of the chief of ordnance of the United States army.

"THE ADMIRAL'S DAUGHTER."
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The Committee in charge of the Permanent Marine Disaster Fund thank Dr. Howlett and all who gave their services gratuitously, for the sum of $17.24 net proceeds of the several performances of the Admiral's Daughter in January last, the receipt of which is thus acknowledged. A statement of the receipts and expenditures, certified by the Auditor General, who is also the Hon. Auditor of the fund, is also enclosed.

There has been some criticism as to alleged delay in the closing of the accounts. In justice to all concerned the Committee desire to point out that the accounts of a large undertaking of this character, cannot be finalized at will. The return of the costumes to New York; adjustment of duties, and return of deposits involved delays, which were prolonged owing to the United States customs regulations detaining the delivery of the returned costumes for a considerable period.

The Committee congratulate Dr. Howlett and his talented company on their brilliant and graceful performance, which ranks with the most ornate and the most successful of any staged in Newfoundland, and also thank the public for their generous patronage.

On behalf of the Committee,
J. ALEX. ROBINSON,
Hon. Secretary.

May 5th, 1923.

Billiard Tournament.

SECOND ROUND NEXT WEEK.

The players in the Masonic-B.I.S. Billiard Tournament are having a week's practice on the B.I.S. Billiard Table on which the next round is to be played. The same players will participate in the games but the order has not yet been decided on. As the Masonic have only a lead of 500 points, the Irish lads are quite confident that, with the added advantage of their own table, they will obtain a victory. The series has excited a great deal of interest among the various Club members and, no doubt, other tournaments will be arranged later on. It is quite possible that a series of games will be arranged between the Methodist Guards Old Comrades and the Church Institute. Both Clubs can boast of good players and should arrangements be finalized within the next few days, an interesting tournament will no doubt follow.

Epidemic of Violence Among Eskimos.

"An epidemic of violence" has broken out among the usually kindly and docile Eskimos, according to the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for the year ending September 30, 1922, issued at the headquarters in Regina.

"It is unfortunately necessary to report a large number of crimes of violence among the Eskimos," says the report. "At present we have under arrest on charges of murder, or related crimes, no fewer than nine of these people, three at Pond's Inlet (on the northern coast of Baffin Land), five at Herschel Island, and one at Tree River. The number of deaths involved is 15, and of these three are white men. In addition several other murder cases are under investigation, but arrests have not yet been made. In the summer of 1923, two courts will proceed to Pond's Inlet and the other to Herschel Island."

WEEK-END NOTES.

CHAPTER XVIII
(I. C. MORRIS.)

THE LUMBER TRADE AND FRENCH-CANADIAN SHIPS.

The lumber trade has so completely changed hands during the last generation, that we have almost lost sight of the conditions under which it was carried on two generations ago. At that time there was very little local lumber in the market, but the most of it was imported from the nearby provinces, and especially from Quebec. Many of our vessels on the return from Brazil, or the West Indies, would call at La Hève, and at Puvwash, Nova Scotia, and load with lumber for St. John's, and it was very often noticeable that their deck-load was almost equal to that below deck, as it was not unusual to stow the lumber two and three feet above the bulwarks.

The old city of St. John's, of which we write, was built entirely of imported lumber, but since that time local enterprise has operated our own mills, and felled our own forests, so that to-day our lumber trade is in our own hands. But there must be a great depletion in our forests, or else they do not at all measure up to the forests of the lower provinces. At the time of which we write, it was not unusual to see board eighteen inches wide, and sometimes wider, but a foot and ten inches were average widths. The difference in the board of to-day is very marked, and tells its own tale as to the growth, and potential value of the forests which we are destroying.

The lumber trade brought to our port very many out-side ships, and amongst them was a large fleet of French-Canadian vessels, principally brigantines, and large fore-and-afters. Many of those vessels hailed from Arachat, and at the opening of the Spring trade they began to arrive, and like the jaunty brig of which we have already written, they presented their own special features, and filled their own particular place in the trade of the times, and were instrumental in the circulation of a good deal of ready cash. Although they did not purchase our fish, they contributed very materially to the trade of the port, and gave considerable employment in discharging their cargoes. A special feature of benefit from those vessels was the amount of ballast they took on their return trip home. The ballast consisted of stone, and sometimes clay, and many of the nearby farmers were benefactors by the ready cash which they received from the French-Canadian ships for ballast. Those vessels were built purposely for the lumber trade, and were well adapted to carrying large cargoes. They were vessels of wide beam, and of flat bottoms, and like most lumber ships, they had a large port in the bow, through which deal was discharged.

These French-Canadian vessels, though not engaged in the fish trade, were similar in their visits, to the Spanish ships; and the foreign language of the Frenchmen stood out in bold relief to that of the Spaniards, and all taken together, they gave the port a commercial standing, which has now nearly disappeared. We sometimes hear of a Spanish consul, or a French consul, but beyond this there is not much in the term. But at that date these consuls were busy men, and a great deal of interpretation was necessary, and a great deal of correspondence had to be translated. So prominent were these foreign languages, and so many were those ships, that it was part and parcel of a good commercial education to learn both Spanish and French; and many of our tradesmen at that time were quite fluent in speaking these languages. Many of those French-Canadian vessels brought cargoes of flour from Quebec and Montreal, and on return to Sydney they loaded coal for the St. Lawrence ports, and loaded up again with sugar for St. John's. Towards September many of them went to Labrador for a cargo of Herring; for at that time the herring voyage on Labrador was very largely prosecuted, and was almost as important a branch of the fishing voyage as was the codfish itself. Thus we see, looking at those old ships, and those past customs, that a great change has come over our country, and the introduction of steam has reversed the order of the past, and brought to us our portion of that newer day which is breaking upon the world.

This newer day is coming. Are we in Newfoundland ready to measure up to it? If not, then we must be content to lag behind, and thus miss the opportunities which God and nature have entrusted to us. If Newfoundland is to continue a fishing country only, then she has long reached her zenith, and her population must ever remain depleted and scattered.

QUEBEC LADY IS HAPPY TO RECOMMEND DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Dame Maxime Grenier Suffered With Kidney and Urinary Troubles.

St. Barnabe Nord, Que. May 4.—(Special)—Just how Dodd's Kidney Pills have made a reputation as suffering women's best friend is again shown in the case of Dame Grenier, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place.

"I am 68 years old and must tell you that I have taken Dodd's Kidney Pills with great success," Dame Grenier says. "I had had pains in my kidneys. I am only too happy to recommend them to similar sufferers."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are known in all corners of Canada from Halifax to the Yukon. They are a kidney remedy in thousands of families.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have been in use in Canada for more than a quarter of a century. They have grown in popularity year by year, because of the good work they have done.

Max Linder's Great Screen Comedy.

GOES OVER WITH A BANG AT THE NICKEL.

Max Linder, the celebrated French screen comedian, went over like a cyclone at the Nickel last night in "Be My Wife." Mr. Linder established his astonishing popularity in Europe not only through his work on the screen, but by his great skill on the stage as well. In Russia, Italy, France, Switzerland, he won a definite place in the hearts of the play-going public. Believing that a good comedy deserves as much care as a good drama, he has overlooked no detail in the way of perfect production. In making "Be My Wife," Linder more than once gave a whole day to the making of one scene. "The Americans, they demand what is good," he says. "Vella—I shall give it to them." Not only did this picture please the Americans, but it also pleased the Newfoundlanders. Miss Gladys Redstone added fresh laurels by her beautiful renditions last evening. The above programme will be repeated for the last time tonight—if you have not already seen this bill, do so to-night.

Earl of Devon Inward.

S.S. Earl of Devon, Capt. A. Carter, arrived from Bonaville Bay last night. The steamer experienced considerable fog on the run to port and good care had to be exercised in bringing her safely to port. She brought Mr. W. S. Monroe and about fifty men who have come to get in readiness for the forthcoming fishery.

Loading Pit Props.

S.S. Henderborge is now at Placentia from Rotterdam, loading pit props from M. E. Martin for England, a message to this effect was received in the city yesterday by the Assistant Collector of Customs. Several other steamers are already en route, which will mean much needed employment for the people at this particular time.

Household Notes.

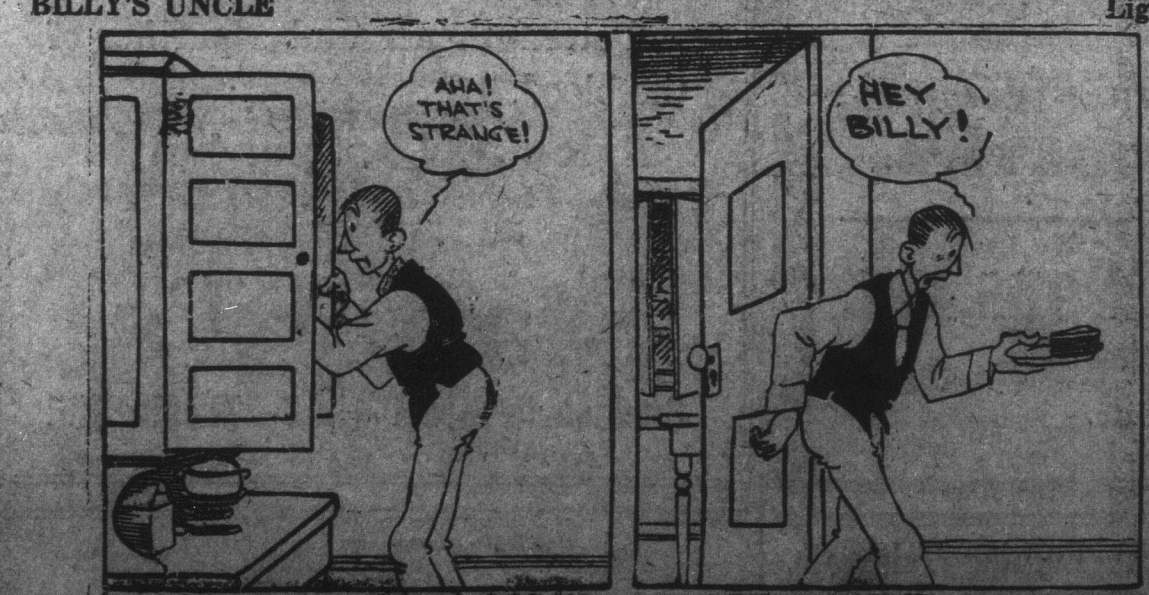

When cleaning or painting woodwork hold a piece of tin, with a smooth edge, against the wall above or below the woodwork. This prevents the wall from getting soiled. There are many uses for cheese-cloth. Squares and bags make excellent strainers for cottage cheese or fruit juices. Mops of all kinds and dishcloths may be made, and squares of the cheesecloth weighed at the corners with beads make covers for food. To save fat when frying doughnuts, keep a pan of boiling water on the stove and dip each doughnut into it when it is taken from hot fat. Place doughnut on clean paper to dry. They will be less greasy, and the fat may be easily skimmed off water when it is cold.

Giant Steel Hands Will Seek Millions In Sunken Chests.

Immense steel hands will reach down through 55 fathoms of water and seek out the $5,000,000 in gold which sank with the P. & O. liner Egypt six months ago off Ushant.

A Swedish engineering firm has agreed to spend $500,000 to raise the gold. They are confident of success. If they do they will reap $3,000,000 and Lloyd's, who met the heaviest loss in the shipwreck will get the remainder.

A specially equipped submarine will be sent to the bottom when the wreck has been definitely found. The hulk will be explored from all sides and accurate charts made. Targets will then be selected in the Egypt's hull and large holes made with torpedoes.

Exactly what will happen then is a dark secret, except for the fact that a monstrous engineering device, rivaling the Argonauts even of Jules Verne, is in preparation for the work. All that is known is that the human hand is the underlying motif of the scheme. The hands, attached to giant arms, will reach into the ship and grasp the chests of gold. The steel fingers will not relax, even though the water at that depth would crush a diver's helmet. The treasure will be lifted at the sea bottom and then brought to the surface.

Details of this romantic undertaking have been threshed out by hard headed business men who are behind it and work will begin in May. If the project succeeds it will open up the prospect of recovering untold millions at the bottom of the sea.

Ease for Tired Feet.

When the weather becomes warmer and the feet are often painful, especially after walking and dancing. A most excellent remedy for the trouble is bay salt, which may be obtained from all chemists. Add two or three table-spoonfuls to sufficient warm water to cover the feet. Then soak for ten minutes and a wonderful feeling of relief will be experienced.

When the shoe rubs the foot a blister is likely to appear. As soon as the sore feeling is experienced rub the red part with a little vasoline and there will be no danger of a blister. If vasoline cannot be obtained any good yellow soap will answer the purpose if the skin is not broken.

When, after walking, any part of a shoe presses painfully instant relief may be obtained by placing a cloth wrung from hot water on the leather. This causes it to stretch a little and makes the shoe more comfortable.

THE HOBBY.

I think it well to have a hobby, one's hours of leisure to amuse; and I have one that's nice and nobby—collecting great men's overshoes. I have the shoes of every geezer who ever won a world renown; I have the ones that Julius Caesar was wearing when they struck him down. The overshoes of kings and princes, of bards and seers I have on file, and every visitor evinces amazement when he sees the pile. And I am most too fond of dwelling upon the great collection there; I find myself forever telling the history of every pair. I look around and see men yawning, as 'o'er some pair I fondly sleep, and then, snoring and dozing, they take their hats and flee the coop, I once had friends who'd come to see me, and sit around till half past nine; in argument they'd try to tease me, and tell old tales, and list to mine. My neighbors come around no longer, no friends with me discuss the news, since stronger grew, and ever stronger, my interest in old overshoes. I mildly greet the village lubbers, and only meet with Jeer and slur, when I announce that I've the rubbers of Daniel Boone and Aaron Burr. "A hobby," warns my earnest pastor, "should in the background always stay, or it will bring a man disaster, and drive his warmest friends away."

Household Notes.

Bits of undissolved chocolate spoil the smooth texture of ice cream. Either heat the milk before adding the chocolate or use cocoa instead.

Run the vacuum cleaner over woolen clothing and fur before packing away in moth balls. This removes moths or hidden moth eggs.

A paste made of oatmeal and water is excellent for cleaning stained finger nails. Place paste under nails and after a few minutes wash it out.

Lessons by Correspondence!

A number of teachers and private students are desirous of obtaining help in their studies and are unable to secure it near their homes.

I have, therefore, organized courses of study (each course consisting of 20 lessons) in the subjects named below, the work being done by correspondence. Twenty notes of lessons are provided for each student, 20 tests are likewise provided and the students' answers are carefully reviewed and corrected. Each student has the privilege of asking for any information or help needed in connection with the course.

The fee for each course is $12.00 and include text books, mathematical instruments (where required), blank exercise books for the answering of the tests; the fee is, in fact, inclusive. Each lesson is set for a week's work and will occupy about five hours a week of the time of the average student. Students cannot take Course 3 unless they are masters of Course 2, nor Course 2 unless they are masters of Course 1.

COURSES:

1. Beginners' Latin. 2. Preliminary Grade Latin. 3. Intermediate Grade Latin.
 1. Beginners' French. 2. Preliminary Grade French. 3. Intermediate Grade French.
 1. Beginners' Geometry. 2. Preliminary Grade Geometry. 3. Intermediate Grade Geometry.

Any course can be begun at any time. Those who need help for the June examinations or for entering College in September should begin at once. Some of these courses may be helpful to busy teachers who have classes in them. Applicants should state precisely what their knowledge of their chosen subject is and forward the fee with the application, when the lessons will be begun at once.

52 Houses

situate in the city are listed on our books for sale; prices ranging from $500.00 to $8,000.00. Included in the above are some of the most modern construction of the day, and some are below the cost of replacement owing to the owners, in some cases, being hard strapped. Every house on our list is away below the prices prevailing the last few years. Our list is being augmented every day. We sell for CASH or for the best terms obtainable in the market to-day, thereby you have the opportunity of putting your monthly rent towards the purchase.

The Tablets Cured Her!
 Does Your Case Resemble Hers?

For twenty years I suffered from heart trouble and nervous prostration. I had constant pain in my left side, shoulder, left arm, and could not get my hand up to my head. Often times I was confined to my bed, and not able to do the least work. I had palpitation, faint spells, cold hands and feet, shortness of breath, (often at night had to be propped up in bed to get my breath) and could not sleep on my left side. I could hardly eat anything without its causing great pain and gas in my stomach. There was a great feeling of oppression about my heart which made it impossible to do even the lightest work, and I did not know what it was to get a good night's sleep. I can hardly describe my serious condition when beginning to take your Tablets. I had consulted several of our best physicians and taken many kinds of patent medicines without success. I sent for your Tablets and took four boxes. I can truthfully say I now have no symptoms of my former troubles, can eat anything I want, sleep well, do any kind of work and have gained fifteen pounds in weight in three months. It is needless to say that your remedy is the best in the world.
