DON'T WANT SCENE NETS TO SPOIL THAMES FISHING

Largely Attended Mass Meeting at London Passes Resolution for Guidance of Government.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—(Special.)—On the rumor that the Ontario Government intends re-issuing scene licenses, a fishing privilege that has now been withheld for two years, a rousing meeting of protest was held on Saturday evening at the city hall under the auspices of the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association.

The hall was crowded, some placing the attendance as high as 750, and the enthusiasm evoked was remarkable.

Hon. Adam Beck, who presided, expressed himself strongly in favor of the objects of the meeting. He read a telegram telling of an informal meeting of farmers and mechanics held at Chatham at the same time.

INTEREST TO WOMEN

New Spring Gowan.

It is clear that the great London shops believe that the day of the separate skirts and corsets is over for the time and that in the spring we shall all be seeing what we look like in tight-fitting directoire and Princess gowns; for the "robes" are being sold off at absurdly low prices. Nothing else has the same outstanding cheapness in this year's sales as the skirt cut to fit around the waist at the natural position, and the accompanying "bodice piece" which not readily contrive into the high-waisted "directoire" far less construct the all-in-one "Princess" frock.

Indian Orphan Work.

Miss Caroline Macklem writes: It is again my pleasant duty to thank the few kind friends who have remembered the little orphans of India in their far away homes. Miss M. E. Austin, Quebec, $200; C. M. for support of child, $15; Anon., $5; S. F. Morgan, Barrie, $1; C. N., $2; Miss Hillon, Peterboro, $2; Friend, $2; Anonymous, $1; support child for one year, $15; Mrs. Roberts, Brantford, $15. It is ever going on this work of love for the orphan children of India, who can only be provided with home comforts and Christian teaching by the kindness of friends, lovers of Christ and lovers of the race. In this and other countries count it a privilege to give "alms of their goods" and so provide a home for these otherwise homeless little ones. Many more hearts respond to the great needs of India and may the children rescued become faithful to the religion of the Blessed Saviour they may by their lives and influence let us pray that they may be vessels of mercy to the world.

Regarding Hatpins.

A very peculiar and nearly fatal accident occurred recently in Zurich, which occasioned a great deal of adverse criticism on the large hatpin. The cause of this incident was a woman who was wearing a toque with a long hat pin projecting (the pin had evidently done it) with her large hats during the summer months) turned sharply around and the point of the pin penetrating the eye of a woman standing near and completely destroyed the sight.

Public Amusements

Nadame Nazimova enticed a fashionable audience at the Princess on Saturday evening, in a role considerably different from those of the Ibsen heroines of the preceding performances. As the "Comtesse Coquette," Madame was delightful. The comedy, in three acts, is from the Italian of Robert Bracco, and as one fair auditor was heard to remark, "It was good enough to be French."

Briefly, the Comtesse Nina de Lorenzo is inclined to flirtation, and when the comte remarques, she archly reminds him that at least she is honorable—a good woman. The comte warns her of Gino Ricardi, an admirer, as especially dangerous. He comes along and in an interesting conversation with the comtesse declares her protestations of having strength to resist temptation. He reminds her that any other ties she allows herself are all in vain. She does, and by ridicule Ricardi's advances she shows and with witty challenges that he make haste and tempt her, has him bewildered and desperate. Then it is discovered that the comte is intrusting the garden and the comtesse finds herself in deep water, and distressed. Ricardi professes to help, but she finds his mistake, and she escapes unobserved—at a price. "You" she begins, "wretch! he finishes for her. That's what you were about to say, wasn't it? They all do."

His demand is for a kiss, extortionate for a man, cheap for a wretch. She declines and calls for her husband, who is "mum!" Ricardi, he has been playing of the two. The finale finds husband and wife happily reconciled, while Ricardi, who had resumed his attempts at luring the comtesse, suddenly finds his mistake, and she escapes unobserved—at a price. "You" she begins, "wretch! he finishes for her. That's what you were about to say, wasn't it? They all do."

Edna Wallace Hopper Married. NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14.—That he and Edna Wallace Hopper were married nearly three months ago, was the announcement made here this afternoon by A. O. Brown, who arrived from New Orleans from New York to-day. Miss Hopper is appearing at a local theatre. It was kept a secret "to fool the smart reporters and have a good figure in the sensational failure of the firm of which Mr. Brown was the head, because of a $7500 insurance policy given by Mr. Brown previous to the failure.

Bullet Thru Car Window. GODFREY, Feb. 14.—While train No. 7 of the G. T. R. was running from Godfrey to Clinton a revolver bullet crashed thru the rear passenger coach close to the smoking compartment. The bullet struck the opposite side of the coach, narrowly missing the heads of two passengers.

floor for every performance, altho the balcony has been sold out. One of the most interesting of dramatic entertainments to be given in this city is the production of "The House of a Thousand Candles," which Vaughan Glaser, the noted actor and producer, will present for the first time in Canada, at the Grand Opera House this week, opening with a special matinee to-day. There is no more fascinating story in modern fiction than Meredith Nicholson's famous book, and it is claimed that Mr. Glaser and his able company give a production that is equally as interesting.

Folks who like to be entertained in a manner that makes life worth living will find plenty to enjoy in the production of "The House of a Thousand Candles," which is the offering at the Majestic this week, opening with a matinee to-day. A company of 30 is employed in the production, which is the most complete one of its kind now on the road. This season the "farce" is funnier than ever. Local amateurs will put on the last act of "The Flats" on Friday evening.

At Shea's Clarence Mayne, the great English mimic and comedienne, will make her appearance here for the first time. She is said to be an especially attractive performer. Holden Manikins will prove a very enjoyable feature, for the children particularly. Others in the bill are: Wynne and the "The East End Boys"; Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Fisher, in "The Half-Way House"; the Bonsett Troupe, European acrobats; Anna and Edna, in "The Happy Chappie"; the kinetograph, new pictures.

"Too Much Isaac" is the promising title of a new musical comedy to be presented by the "Bowery Burlesquers" at the Gayety this week. Numerous vaudeville features and beautiful songs are being introduced. The cast, which is headed by Den Jackson, includes Russell and Held, Fitzgerald and Quinn, Hills and Conroy, the Great Nazaros, Norma Bell, Josie Kline, Edna Greer, Charlie Haney, Neely Limbach and Gerrie Jansen.

Miner's "Bohemian Burlesquers" will provide the show at the Star this week, with a specially prepared vaudeville olio between the two lively burlesque comedians. An extra attraction will be Shad Link, the Baltimore wrestler, who will meet all comers. There will be a story-song, George Armstrong's "The Happy Chappie"; the kinetograph, new pictures.

His Excellency Earl Grey attended the concert and stayed as long as possible, only leaving himself 15 minutes to catch the train for Ottawa. He waited till the close of Miss Augusta Cottlow's (third set of piano solos on the program. Miss Cottlow proved to have much of the temperament, the powerful and equal touch and the easy grace and delicacy of Hoffmann. In utilizing the fugue knots of Bach's prelude and fugues in D minor, she showed surprising force and technical skill in the Chopin numbers she showed appropriate tenderness and feeling, her soft runs rippling under her fingers like a great necklace. She had two recitals and responded with an encore item. In her third number, Debussy's "Claire de Lune," was very charmingly played, and Liszt's Polonaise in E major was perhaps the most enjoyable and delightful thing she did. For this she was loudly applauded and recalled.

Now that the week is over, Toronto may sit down with some satisfaction to consider the organization that has given the city world fame for musical art. New York and Buffalo have already endorsed the Mendelssohn Choir. On Tuesday evening, March 2, at 8 o'clock, the choir will start for Chicago, on a special train en route to level the ground at Chicago as a stock-exchange city by those who know little or nothing of her art galleries, her libraries, her orchestras, her dramatic societies, her virtuosi in all lines of musical art. Chicago always knows what she wants and she can decide in two minutes whether she wants it. When she has decided there is nothing too good for her favorites. Any one who knows a little of the Chicago disposition, which ignores and despises all false art and cherishes

CHOIR CONCERTS OVER SOON ENTER NEW FIELDS

Mendelssohn Musicians Leave on March 2 to Give Three Grand Programs in Chicago.

"There is not any music of instruments, whatsoever, compared to that which is made of voices, when the voices are good and the singers are well sorted and ordered." This was the view expressed by William Byrd, who was in his prime just 200 years ago, and could he have listened to the Mendelssohn Choir performers of the last week he could only have been led to say it more emphatically. On Saturday night the choir sang a composition by one of Byrd's own contemporaries, a motet by Palestrina, and each member was asked to make the rendition of the choir on the performance of that number alone. It was perhaps the whole week's repertoire, and the singular character of the rendering, the delicious feeling was necessary for the appreciation of Saturday night's concert, which included the Mendelssohn Choir's "The House of a Thousand Candles," which Vaughan Glaser and his talented company will present for the first time in Canada at the Grand Opera House.

To Miss Edna K. Butler, 485 Euclid-avenue, are awarded four of the best tickets of the story that should be brought out in the play. Miss Hazel Patterson, 1324 Queen-street, west, Ottawa, has been awarded very good and to her be awarded two orchestra seats for the performance of the story.

The successful contestants can obtain the tickets by calling on the Contest Editor at "The World office any time to-day."

To Race at Roadville. BOSTON, Feb. 13.—There appears to be no longer a doubt that the Roadville track will continue to be the home of high harness racing, or that Boston will resume its place in the grand circuit of harness meetings. At a meeting between a committee appointed by the New England Breeders' Association empowered to dispose of the Roadville track property, the sale of the Roadville track to the New England Trotting and Breeding Association to Mr. Welch was practically agreed upon. Mr. Welch was to take the property at the price named by the committee, and the representatives of the association were ready to accept his offer. There is now no doubt that this sort of a meeting will be held at the track this season, and in the event of the Long Branch meeting falling through, which appears not to be unlikely, Roadville is possible that, in the event of the Hartford meeting being curtailed to three days, the grand circuit horses will be seen in this city, as Mr. Welch may decide to give a program to cover the last three days of Hartford's week.

AN ORATORICAL GAEL.

Among the big Canadians who have distinguished their native land in the last year or two in the several avenues of their talents The World is pleased to note the Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of our esteemed contemporary, The Globe.

Mr. Macdonald is well known as a cleric in the United States. A leader in the Laymen's Missionary Movement and prominent in religious fields generally, he is sufficiently secular to be acceptable in other circles than those of the church.

Tom Longboat as a long distance runner preceded Mr. Macdonald in the international honors. Mr. Macdonald is no Marathon orator, but in middle distances he has no equal.

One of these days there will be a killing by motor cars passing street cars without warning when passengers are getting off. It is a regular practice for motor cars to dodge to the left of a motionless car.

One of the remarkable features about the tariff reform movement is that its organizers and advocates have not only had to educate the people, but also the Unionist party leaders.

the Conservative central office that its official support will be withheld from any parliamentary candidate who does not accept the Birmingham program of tariff reform as laid down by Mr. Balfour in November, 1907.

What will this minority, who, after the British fashion, have been nicknamed the free traders, do? Lord Robert Cecil, for example, some time ago entered into a compact with his constituents which, according to his own version of it, bound him, if he could not see his way clear to vote for a budget brought in by the Unionist party, to resign his seat and thus give his constituents an opportunity of considering the position further.

T. & N. O. AND SUDBURY.

Editor World: The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway is a credit to the government and a source of intense satisfaction, even pride, to the people. Let us strengthen it by putting it in living touch with Sudbury and a Georgian Bay port.

A Lincoln Recessional!

The singing of "Scots Wha Hae" by the Mendelssohn Choir Saturday night emboldens us to say at the week-end of the centennial of the Martyr President, that Burns struck a higher note for freedom than Abraham Lincoln ever sounded in his work of Emancipation of the Negro.

We admire, we reverence Lincoln, and he deserves the homage of all mankind. But he was as mortal as most men, and certainly Burns was mortal as the term goes. [How they'd have enjoyed one another's company].

It is this straining of Americans (not of all, but of many emotional ones) to defy Lincoln that inclines us at times to doubt the future of his great republic. Lincoln's position toward slavery was expressed in his celebrated remark that if he could save the Union by freeing some of the slaves he would do it, or if he could save it by freeing all of the slaves he would do that.

But, to come back to our neighbors: is this effort to make a Saviour out of Lincoln a cover for neglect of political responsibilities on their part? That is what we are at times forced to surmise. That they are so much engaged in the pursuit of things worldly that it becomes a convenient refuge in times of political stress to hail a Saviour.

The truth is that Lincoln's great task, his herculean labor, was only begun: it still cries for cure if there be any. The terrible blot is still there. See not the blot, defy Lincoln, stand idle till a Saviour emerge!

And not only Lincoln's centennial, but that of Poe's 150th anniversary has also come and gone. How is it here: the same ascription of immortality by a people who neglected him as Burns was neglected by his time.

EATON'S DAILY STORE NEWS

What May Be Seen at EATON'S Exposition

Everyone interested in knowing how the wheels of the industrial world go round can see their revolutions the moment they enter Canada's Greatest Store on Monday. Under one roof there is a manufacturing exposition, which leaves the Canadian with more information than he ever possessed before, as to how these fabrics and furnishings are produced.

ON the Main Floor, the ribbon loom is the first bright exposition of modern methods, and the missionaries who brought the silk worm and white mulberry from China centuries ago would hardly have believed in this creation, twenty feet long, ten and a half feet wide, weaving twenty ribbons at once.

MORE practical and none the less interesting is the sight of the knitting process, by which high-grade winter hose and all manner of useful socks, to say nothing of gloves and sweaters, are turned out from the machines which have taken the place of grandmother's fingers.

These scenes of manufacturing activity might well be called the "White City," so immaculate is the cleanliness of all receptacles and machinery, neatly partitioned off by snow-white pillars and railings. The sixty-three departments form a technical school in themselves and must instruct thousands of Canadians during the next fortnight in how things are being done and made.

LABOR TEMPLE SHAREHOLDERS

Business is so good that Secretary Gets Extra Bonus.

Another successful year, just ended, has so satisfied the shareholders of the Toronto Labor Temple Company that at their annual meeting Saturday night they added $200 to their usual honorarium of $200 to Secretary James Simpson, and decided to present President D. A. Carey with a special testimonial of appreciation.

True to their promise of four years ago, the provincial board of directors have managed to reduce the mortgages from $25,000 to $12,500 and have still a cash balance of $1,850.

The receipts from all sources, including a bank balance of $2,385.06 from last year, totalled $13,663.73. The expenditure, including $4000 principal on the first and second mortgages, was $11,712.15, as compared to $12,399.27 a year ago.

After allowing $481.50 for furniture depreciation, the secretary reported an undivided dividend of 12 1/2 per cent. The assets of the company have constantly increased, while liabilities have been gradually reduced until today a comparison shows assets, $47,190.29, and liabilities, $29,839.40. The value of each share of stock has increased over 100 per cent.

In his address to the shareholders President Carey said that he was a source of great gratification to the labor men of Toronto to know that they had been the pioneers in founding a successful temple of their own.

Nineteen nominees ran for election on the board of directors, fifteen to be elected. The vote as recorded below shows three new faces on the new directorate, namely Wm. Ayers, W. J. Storey and A. G. Thompson.

The vote was as follows:

That C.P.R. Melon of $37,000,000

The World has printed some of the many articles in the Canadian press on the proposal of the Canadian Pacific to issue $50,000,000 of stock to its shareholders at par. We have already published the views of the Winnipeg Tribune (Ind.) against it; on Saturday we published the straight-from-the-shoulder denunciation of it from Hon. Clifford Sifton's paper, the Winnipeg Free Press. Today we ask attention to the remarks of The Winnipeg Telegram (Con.) The people of the west cannot be fooled by the sophistry of the Globe that there is little wrong in the transaction.

Winnipeg Telegram (Con.), Feb. 11.—The public interest demands that the capital stock of public service corporations shall not be disposed of in a manner that will disguise the true percentage of public ownership upon the investment. The C.P.R. is clearly attempting to disguise its earnings power and at the same time to maintain the rate of capitalization upon which it will claim the right to earn dividends. The greater the inflation of the stock market, the more the C.P.R. will be able to raise the price of its stock, and the larger also must be the carrying charges imposed on the public.

There are circumstances related to the proposed plan of issuing this stock to the government the propriety of withholding assent to the application. It appears, it is the only public service corporation that can secure the right to issue stock by an order-in-council. All the other corporations must obtain their stock by a vote of parliament. It also appears that the cost of construction of the C.P.R. is vitally related to the carrying charges it may impose, this cost has never been ascertained, and that a promise made in 1902 to refer the question to the courts has not been fulfilled.

These are questions which should be settled in advance of the government's assent to an issue of $50,000,000 of stock. The C.P.R. should not be allowed to let its shareholders out a $37,000,000 melon at the public expense without consulting the public some compensating benefit.

C.P.R. COACHES IN MIX-UP

OPEN SWITCH THE CAUSE

Dining Car Was Battered and Thrown off Tracks and Traffic Upset.

An open C. P. R. switch caused a mix-up between passenger coaches and coal cars at the foot of Yonge-street across the city dining car and badly scraped the polished sides. This coach was forced from the track and would have tumbled over its side if the collision had not been averted by a switch being made up and an engine was backing up the train made up of seven coaches. A yardman's carelessness was apparently responsible for a switch leading to four standing loaded coal cars on the second line of tracks, on the south side being left open, and the collision caused considerable damage as a result.

The express train to leave at 10 o'clock was being made up and an engine was backing up the train made up of seven coaches. A yardman's carelessness was apparently responsible for a switch leading to four standing loaded coal cars on the second line of tracks, on the south side being left open, and the collision caused considerable damage as a result.

The engine drew away six coaches, but an auxiliary had to be brought from West Toronto to release the train. It was a straight end-to-end impact, but a glancing collision, at an acute angle, which smashed in the vestibule of the dining car and badly scraped the polished sides. This coach was forced from the track and would have tumbled over its side if the collision had not been averted by a switch being made up and an engine was backing up the train made up of seven coaches.

A branch colony has been established in a secluded nook along one of the Swiss lakes. The bride is the first Duke of Westminster's granddaughter and also the great-granddaughter of the former Duke of Sutherland. Lord Dalmeny served in the Guards, was dabbled amiably in politics, to the extent of his incapacity to do his true sympathies don't lie, and giving up his seat in parliament was capped by the Duke of Sutherland three years ago on his own absolute merits and is a thoroughly good sportsman. Not only does he shoot and ride well, but he inherits a fine disposition to the sport of kings. His lordship is only twenty-seven years old.

O'BRIEN'S POWER GONE BITTER CAMPAIGN ENDED

Great Nationalist Convention Shows Erin Fully in Accord With Birrell Land Bill.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(Special).—T. P. O'Connor cables 'The Tribune from Dublin:

The Irish National convention was the chief topic in the English and Irish press this week. I was present throughout. The accustomed to misrepresentation in all things, the Irish were astounded by the gigantic lies about proceedings and the incidents.

Cablegrams from America to Redmond say the accounts there describing scenes of wild confusion, with priests and members of parliament pulling each other's hair. Nothing even approaching such scenes occurred.

For just half an hour there was some confusion on the platform when Father Clancy and Eugene Crean, M.P., two of William O'Brien's friends, advanced in order to beg O'Brien to spare his voice and strength in the face of the tempest of interruption from the convention.

The O'Brienites suspended their attempt to break up the convention in disorder and Clancy and Crean's action was misunderstood and they were allowed back to their seats. Then there were explanations and peace was restored.

The whole scene lasted thirty seconds and not a blow was struck, then or at any other moment during the convention. It is quite true that O'Brien was hounded down, but it was not unnatural. For six years the country has borne the attempts of O'Brien to disrupt the national movement in alliance with the landlords, and there has been a deluge of filth and calumny against every public man or body which dared to oppose their unwholesome work.

The O'Brienites, for example, were described as "Molly Maguires," the Nationalists of Belfast as "paid rowdies," Dillon as a "Machievellian trickster," Redmond as Dillon's catspaw, and the Irish member as a party only anxious to maintain disorder to get a living.

The convention represented a revolt of all decent men against such blackguardism. Neither Redmond nor Dillon nor Divine Providence could restrain the convention from relieving its feelings of revolt, which had been pent up for years.

As to the character of the convention, the 2000 delegates represented 3000 branches of the league. There were 700 delegates from the public bodies and 300 delegates from other public societies such as the Hibernian, and 80 from the branches in England.

When the division came O'Brien's motion for the rejection of the Birrell land bill 10 delegates voted for O'Brien and 3000 delegates against him. O'Brien continues to his rebellion against the movement in another outbreak of calumny and lies in this week's papers, but everybody feels that the convention was his Waterloo and that he now has spent his force.

If O'Brien or any of his followers oppose the vote of the convention which the division shows, O'Brien's bill they will be expelled, as Ireland's patience at last is exhausted.

The announcement of the election this year by the chief Liberal whip, is no surprise. The ministers are divided over the naval expenditures, and the Liberal party is discredited by the vacillation and delay in the campaign against the house of lords. It is impossible to keep parliament going after this year and every hour's delay is involving the loss of prestige and hope of winning the next election.

The Irish party is rather glad to hear the announcement, that Birrell's bill will be the last work the present ministry can do for Ireland. They are glad for another parliament and another ministry, where, owing to a small majority, whether Liberal or Tory, conditions will make Ireland the mistress of the situation.
