Midnight Wednesday Work Ir Coal Mines Will Cease, With 2,000,000 People Affected Unless Efforts of Asquith Ministry to Avert Catastrophe Meet With Better Success Than Now Seems

rederation in the matter of a minimum wage for all workers in the underground cuttings.

Should there be no outcome from the friendly intervention of Premier Asquith and his principal colleagues 500,000 men will quit work at midnight between Wednesday and Thursday, with the resultant effect that upwards of a million more men and boys employed both above and underground, will be thrown out of employment. The stoppage of mining operations ployed both above and underground, will be thrown out of employment. The stoppage of mining operations will immediately affect other 2,000,000 people engaged in dependent industries. It will, in addition, injure and perhaps ruin thousands of small trades people, and may ultimately bring the trade and commerce of the country to a standstill.

Mine Owners Object. Mine owners object to the demand for a minimum wage on the ground for a minimum wage on the ground that the increased wage bill it entails will wipe out their profits. These are stated at 7 1-2 per cent, and this, it is urged, will not permit of any extensive addition to their already heavy burdens and expenditures. The miners on the other hand, say that they cannot do more than exist on the small pittance allotted to them by those in control. Whenever they meet with unusual seam conditions they are thus prevented from earning a normal wage.

British miners are paid on the plece-work basis, and when they have to work in poor strata they cannot produce enough coal at current rates to yield them a reasonable livelihood. These conditions are felt more keenly in the Rhonda Valley. Wales, than in any other part of the British Isles. During recent years, with the development of the South Wales coal fields. up, which have attracted thousands then there must be a third party with brought about a residual size. brought about a rapid rise in the price of household commodities, and a general advance in house rents.

Strenuous efforts are being made to avert this nation-wide disaster, but both sides stubbornly refuse to make the slightest departure from their pre-determined line of action. At a meeting of the Miners' Federation on Nov. 15, a resolution in favor of a gen-eral strike was passed by a big ma-jority, and after lengthy negotiations with the owners, a referendum vote was taken in January, which resulted in a four to one ballot in favor of a general walk-out on March 1. ## ROOSEVELT THIRD MAN?

May Run for President Even If Defeated by Chicago Convention-Open Voice of Party - Must & Rule, Says ex-President.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(Special.)—The Press this morning publishes a despatch from Washington, and says: What is disturbing the Taft Republicans more than any other bit of information than any other bit of information brought here is the statement that Col. Rosevelt will run for president even if defeated in the Chicago convention. Men of considerable importance are discussing this to-night.

The story is based upon the alleged conversation of a United States senator with the former president in The Out-look office. Colonel Roosevelt is represented as saying:

"The nomination in Chicago must be made by the open voice of the Republican party, and not by manufactured delegates. If the will of the people is

Provincial Secretary Disclaims Responsibility

When the case of Wilbert Spain, confined at Mimico Industrial school, where it is charged that he was shackled, beaten and starved, was referred to Hon. W. J. Hanna, he said that he had heard of it but that the government was in no way responsible. "I want you to make it very clear," he said, "that we have no control over this institution. We have the power of inspection thru Mr. Kelso but we have no control over it."

He did not explain the use or purpose of a power of inspection which had no corrective power. All he wanted was that it should be made very clear that neither he nor his government had any responsibility in the matter.

Winnitred Ankers Arraigned in Connection With Death of Eight Children.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.-Winnifred Ankers, an attendant at the Brooklyn Nursery and Infants' Hospital, was arraigned to-day in magistrates court in Brooklyn, charged with homicide in connection with the death of eight in-fents at the hispital since Sunday.

The woman's confession came after a grilling examination, during which she broke down when told that they would take her baby away from her if she did not tell the truth. The Ankers woman then told how the babies had been poisoned.

In her confession to the police the Ankers woman said that she put two or three drops of exalic acid in the bottles of milk prepared for the babies. She said she removed the stoppers of about 14 and dropped the acid in. There were 30 bottles of milk in the ice box and she was still dropping the acid in when she heard some one coming. She stopped for fear of detection.

The Ankers woman is only 24 years of age and has been an attendant in the hospital for the last ten months, since her baby was born. She is an or-phan and was adopted by a family named Ankers. Of recent years she is said to have lived a life of uncertain

One visitor, eyeing the crowds thronging past him, remarked that well-to-do people were in the predominance, either those who were contemplating buying a car, or those with the idea of getting another one. Saturday night was military night, with a splendid concert by the band of the Royal Grenadiers. An exceptionally large crowd was present, and all branches of the local militia forces were represented.

Geo. A. McNamee, of Montreal, secretary of the Auto Club of Canada, was an interested visitor at the auto show on Saturday, having come up especially for the purpose of seeing the exhibition. Mr. McNamee had a lot to do with the Montreal Auto Show, and is a good judge of such exhibitions of the products of the automobile industry. He was greatly surprised at the great variety of cars shown in the armories at present. "I had heard you had a magnificent display here," he said "but I certainly did not expect to see s many makers represented, and so many types of cars. We considered our show in Montreal a great success, but while I do not wish to detract from its glory at all, I believe you have the greatest exhibition ever seen on this continent."

SECOND WEEK OF THE GREAT

During the afternoons of lest week, the spacious rooms occupied by Courian, Babyan & Co. at 40-44 Rast Kingst., have been crowded to their capacity. The disposal of the firm's vast and magnificent collection of Persian and other Oriental rugs, has attained the dimensions of a public function, full of animation and interest. Buyers attended from London, Hamilton, Ottawa, Brantford and many other Canadian cities. Really good bargains were obtained by purchasers, but as advertised, the dissolution of the partnership renders it imperative that every piece in the stock must be sold without reserve. The sale will continue right thru this week, and there are still plenty of opportunities to secure specimens of the finest and most artistic products of eastern weavers. The stock is so extensive and varied that all tastes can be met at suitable prices. Such a chance has never before been offered to the public of any Canadian city, nor could have been afforded under the special circumstances. The remainder of the stock is open for inspection, and the sale will, as before, be conducted by Mr. Charles Henderson, of C. M. Henderson & Co., auctioneers. & Co., auctioneers.

A Toronto Real Estate Man Seizes a Golden Opportunity and Buys the Historic Race-Course For Building Pur-

The far-famed Buffalo Driving Park, the mother track of the noted grand circuit, has been sold by the estate of the late Cicero J. Hamlin to John J. Cook, Toronto, for about $350,000. The eighty acres of land will be cut up into ilding lots with the coming springtime. The site will be known as Melrose lawn. Old race-goers will wonder why the name of Hamlin Park was not insisted upon in the sale of the property, to perpetuate the memory of one of Buffalo's representative business men, the master of Village Farm—the Napoleon of the horse kingdom.

Napoleon of the horse kingdom.

The mile track in Ferry-street was built by "Pop" Horter and George Hosley. Pioneer horsemen of Buffalo, in the sixties, writes Frank G. Smith, in the Buffalo Courier, but owing to the exciting period of the great Civil War, only a few unimportant race meetings were held there until 1866. In the spring of 1866 a number of prominent pusiness men of Buffalo, including the Hon. Charles J. Wells, Cicero J. Hamin, Myron P. Bush, the Hon. Sherman S. Jewett, Gen. R. L. Howard, William L. Mills, "Pop" Kirkover, A. McLeish and others purchased the mile track built by Messrs. Horter and Hosley for $300 per acre, under the name of the Buffalo Driving Park Association. Racing interests were revived that season with a great spurt, and $10,000 in premiums were offered for the first light harness races in the world of grand circuit importance, the week of Aug. 14 to 17, 1866. In the 245 trot the premium was $2,000, and D. W. Dimock won the first eventful race with the bay mare, LeBlonde, best time 2.33%. Among the noted knights of the sulky at the meeting were Budd Doble, Warren Peabody, Frank Baldwin, James L. Eoff, John Stevenson, Ed. Burton, D. W. Dimick, S. James, J. Conness, D. Mace, L. L. Dorsey, and Frank Cain. Doble rode Dexter a mile to saddle in 2.18, a world's record, and in 1867, a year afterward, he drove the great trotter a mile to high-wheel sulky in 2.17 1-4, another world's record, was made over the historic Buffalo

Budd Doble took first money in the free-forall with the queen of the turf, Goldsmith Maid, the other entries being American Girl, Lucy, Jim Irving and Judge Fullerton. It was a noted meeting, and all Buffalo turned out to see the fashionable sport. Great old times.

Thousands of people have learned so well how sure and dependable Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for all stomach lils that they are never without a package at home and at the office, and upon any indication that the stomach is a little weary, they take a Stuart's Tablet after each meal for a few days until the digestive organs get rested up again. This is a splendid plan to follow and always results in much good. The appetite is improved, the food is relished more, your sleep is more refreshing, and your disposition will make you friends it stead of enemies.

For Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Belching, Gas, Coated Tongue, Intestinal Indigestion and all Stomach Disorders and Pains—or for Loss of Appetite—nothing is better than Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for sure and instant relief.

Use them freely—they are as harm-less as sugar would be—and are by no means to be classed as "medicine." They have no effect whatever on the system the benefits they bring you through the proper digestion of your food.

The Piano for the Home

The "voice" of a piano may be excellent but ill suited to the comparatively small confines of your music or drawing room. Any competent judge will tell you of pianos of "brilliancy" which may do very well in a large auditorium, but which are distressingly strident and piercing in tone if used in the home.

The Gerhard Heintzman is peculiarly the piano of the home.

The exceeding sweetness and durability of its tones are its chief characteristics and it is beautifully adapted to the "all

'round" service which the family and guests may require of it.

With all its public successes, the makers consider its general

The Cotton Strike.

At this time when the country is meraced by the probable stoppage of coal production, the terrible experiences of those who took part in the great cutton strike which took place in Lancastire, October, 1892, are worth recalling. All the other industries dependent on the prosperity of the cotton trade suffered proportionately, and the privations endured by the working classes constitute a poignant tragedy in the history of labor. in Birmingham on July 18 it was re-solved to resist the reduction and when the notices expired, 280,000 underground ton trade suffered proportionately, and the privations endured by the working chases constitute a poignant tragely in the history of labor. The Hull dock strike followed and for several weeks the seaport was virtually in a state of civil war.

Then the long threatened troubles in the mining industry came to a head. In 1890 an agreement had been reached between the employers and the pit workers that wages should be calculated at 40 per cent. advance on the standard of 1888. Then followed, a period of depression aggravated by the dislocation caused by the cotton struggle and the cotton and when the notices expired, 280,000 underground and surface men left the pits and some 20,000 others, to whom the notices the pits and some 20,000 others, to whom the notices in which he called attention to the increasing use of temperature the reserves of coal over a large area were soon exhausted; many of the rail-ways had to suspend or reduce their services; the iron and steel trades, the textile, chemical, glass and other intended at 40 per cent. advance on the standard of 1888. Then followed, a period of depression aggravated by the dislocation caused by the cotton struggle and the cotton and when the notices expired, 280,000 underground and surface men left the pits and some 20,000 others, to whom the notices in sympathy. For the reserves of coal over a large area were soon exhausted; many of the rail-ways had to suspend or reduce their services; the iron and steel trades, the textile, chemical, glass and other intended at 40 per cent. advance on the still for lack of fuel. Coal went to family and the pits and conditions of formation of rocks and minerals.

pregnation of steel are no longer de-pendent upon the more or less trained eye of the werkman, but are done at measured temperatures and under no profit with wages at the existing standard. The answer of the men's leaders was that the 40 per cent. rate was the standard living wage and the irreducible minimum below which the workers could not sustain themselves.

Miners' Federation.

The Miners' Federation did not at that time embrace the whole of the coal fields as it does to-day. Its strongholds were Lancashire, Torkshire, and Derbyshire and the also embraced the majority of the miners in Cheshire, Leicestershire, Staffordshire, Warwickshire, Gloucester and Somerset.

with Wall-street connections. The press-agents for the pamphiet are, a little weak in political history, for they say that the movement against a third term for Grant took place in 1876, but their hearts are in the right place, for they detect a "Trend to Teddy," and name him as tre strongest kepublican candidate—in fact, the only one who can win. And the writer of the pamphiet itself puts in a good word for the Colonel with big business, remarking in a casual way. "I have heard some important men even in Wall-street wonder whether Mr. Roosevelt's work of enforcing the law, and making everyone understand that it must be obeyed, having been completed, he could not now be trusted to build up, and take a more conservative tone. I do not know but it would be a natural development."

This recalls a recent experience of a Western Roosevelt enthusiast visiting New York. He noticed a certain newspaper coolness towards his hero, and finally asked a friend what paper in New York was supporting the Colonel. The reply he got was: "The only one I know of is a newspaper owned by a Wall-street speculator." This naturally grieved, but it also puzzled, the innocent radical from the west. His attention was called, at about the same time, to the statement made in the west by La Follette's manager, who pointed out the impossibility of a strue Progressive having anything to do—especially anything pecundary—with George W. Perkins, But little do these unturored children of the West understand the versatile Progressivism of Oyster Bay. The oracie there can say with Brahma:

the versatile Progressivism of Cyster Bay. The oracie there can say with Brahma:

"They know not well the subtle ways I keep, and pass, and turn again."

Hence it is not really surprising that friends of Roosevelt should be affirming that he is really the favorite candidate of Wall-street.

Whatever basis there is for this belief, o course, lies in the unloub of fact that Wall-street took, for a time at least, a strong aversion to President Taft. The various government suits against large combinations brought under his administration, particularly the suit for the dissolution of the Steel Trust, gave deep offence. In the first feeling of resentment, it was natural that the aggrieved interests should swear undying hostility to the renomination of Mr. Taft, and should cast about for an alternative to him. It was at this point that the talk of Roosevelt's strength with Wall-street began to be heard. People there who had been able to "do business!" with him when he was president recalled regretfully they period when it was not necessary to take the opinion of a judge, or go into court, to discover whether a given combination or practice was filegal. As the writer of the pamphiet referred to puts it, these financial great ones had a notion that Roosevelt could ride the whirlwind and storm of popular agitation "better than another." There would be trouble for them and threats of disturbance, no doubt, but if Roosevelt were president again they could make their arrangements with him and manage to get on somehow—certainly better than they could with a president start and the could with a president start.

for Roosevelt, as against Taft. The Columbus speech puts Mr. Roosevelt well in the forward rank of Progres-sives. He stands for the state regulation of prices, state regulation of wages, social betterment, the initiative, the referendum, and the recall. Whatthe logic of events will compel Colonel Reosevelt, if again elected president, to radically amend the present consti-tution. Taft in his Lincoln Day speech at New York and Roosevelt in his Colimbus speech joined issue between ul-ra conservatism and radicalism. The New Yorg American, commenting on the Columbus speech, says:

Coinel Rooseveit at Columbus throws into even sharper and more vivid contrast the differences which separate him from President Taft and which make him, since La Foilette's unfortunate retirement, the natural and legitimate leader of the better element in the Republican party to-day. There can be no mistaking the agressive note in Colonel Rooseveit's patform as laid down at Columbus, and there can be no further doubt that on that platform he intends to contest the nomination for president aginst Mr. Taft. The issue is joined, and Colonel Roosevelt is compelled in common honesty to lead those, who agree with him. It is well.

Mr. Taft is-an apostate to the creeds to which he was practically committed in the earlier period of his administration.

men who liked Mr. Taft and wished him well, and tried to help him, as The New York American did, have been shocked and made indignant at the virulence with which the president has attacked ideas in which the people so evidently believe, and at the high treason to Republican principles by which be has planted himself upon a platform of denial of the people's right or capacity to govern.

Where Does Money Come From. Senator La Foilette had a modest fund for his campaign made up almost altogether of small voluntary contrialtogether of small voluntary contriitions from men thrubut the country who believe in his policy. Some other candidates on both sides of the political fence seem, however, to be better provided with funds, and more reticent.

The New York Press (Rep.) rises to ask where the money comes from: To

Who is putting up the money for the very active canvass on behalf of Theodore Roosevelt? It is equipped with various state headquarters and has emissaries whose traveling expenses alone must be considerable. Who is paying for the tous of literature sent out on account of the Woodrow Wilson campaign? This presidential aspirant cannot be putting up for the big staff of workers promoting his cause, since he was an applicant for a Carnegie pension. Colonel Watterson hinted around about one or two big gifts and proposed to "touch" Thomas F. Ryan, but, the actual contributors to the Wison fund are not known. In the interest of Governor Harmon an expensive campaign bureau has been maintained for months, but nobody knows where the coin comes from. It is no secret thaat such money as Mr. Taft needs to supplement the labors of the federal office-holders in their pursuit of delegaates can be had from his very wealthy Brother Charley.

The struggle between Taft and Roosevelt will reach its climax when the 690,000 Republicans of Ohio-declare by primary their presidential preference. Roosevelt men claim they will sweep the president's state. If they sweep the president's state. If they do this or anything like this, Mr. Taft's

If Roosevelt can beat Taft in Ohio for the Republican nomination he can undoubtedly carry the state as the Republican candidate against Governor Harmon should the latter become the Democratic nominee. Harmon is a man much more of the Taft than of the Roosevelt type. He frankly declared against the initiative and referendum. It must be remembered, however, that

National Convention. There is a great deal of state pride in Ohio, which has furnished the nation nearly all her presidents since the Civil war: the state is wealthly, self-contained, and naturally inclined toward conversatism. The Tafts for half a century have been popular and respected thrucout of the state. Unled all these circumstances the president could hardly face the country if Ohio declared for Roosevelt.

The boy ran away again on Saturday night. It was a bitter day, and he trudged all the way to his home with no other protection than his shoes and stockings, the homespun trousers which are part of the prison uniform, and a sweater coat. He was so exhausted that he could scarcely stand when he arrived at home.

that he could scarcely stand when he arrived at home.

The officers came for him, but the mother could not send her boy back in that condition. He was in his bed. She let him stay there, and told the officer that he was not there. The next day she urged the boy to go back, and he started to go. He went to his aunt's kome and there remained. On Tuesday morning, the brother called the school authorities, and an officer was sent to take him back.

authorities, and an officer was sent to take him back.

Manacled In Bed.

Arrived there he was put to bed. A pair of handcuffs were put upon his ankles. Just ordinary handcuffs they were, with no more chain between them than in the common kind used by the police. He was put again on the bread and water diet, and kept there from Jan. 3 till Jan. 16. Then Ferrier came to him and took him from his bed. He took him to the hall, the shackles still about his ankles, and there he beat the boy with the strap. He beat him, he says, till he could scarcely stand. Then with the manacles still on him, he was put back to bed, and the bread and water diet continued.

His elder brother saw him on the Saturday, and he says that his back and legs were a mass of weals and welts from his knees to his shoulders. They were black and blue, and green, and the skin was broken in several places. The shackles were still upon his legs. The brother says he saw them. His mother visited him the following Saturday, and she, too, saw both the bruises and the shackles. He was still being fed only bread and water, and was terribly reduced. He told her he could scarcely stand.

Mrs. Routier, 40 Agnes-street, says that she went to the school to see her boy. She says that she saw the Spain boy in his bed. She says that her little boy lifted up the sheets and showed the shackles upon his legs, saying "There mother, that is what they do." She saw some of the bruises, but caught only a glimpse as the boy was shy.

Asks for Investigation

Mrs. Spain has been to Dr. Bruce Smith, inspector of prisons. She has been to Superintendent Kelso. She has been to Superintendent Kelso. She has been to Ald. Wanless. She has been to Commissioner Starr, of the Juvenile Court. She has asked that her boy be returned to her as his former employer stands ready to put him to work. She has asked for an investigation of her charges. She has received sympathy and rebuff, but she has received nothing definite even by way of a promise of an investigation.

She asks if it is right, or fitting that such investigation should be denied or delayed. She asks, when the air is full of prison reform and of the saner methods of handling criminals, if it is not a shame upon this city and this province that so grave charges so well supported, should not be searched to the uttermost, or whether she must cry aloud but in vain, while her little son, who ran away, several times it is true, but who was brought back thru her own action, must, as she firmly believes, suffer horrible cruelties, and no hand be raised to aid him. She asks, and so do others who have heard her tale, what boy or man would not seek and so do others who have heard her tale, what boy or man would not seek to escape from a place where little children are put in shackles, beaten and fed on bread and water?

WHAT IRRIGATION IS DOING FOR THE WEST.

The transformation of a sage brush desert into a compactly settled, intensively cultivated agricultural community is one of the modern miracles. One of the most inspiring examples of the beneficent results of national irrigation can be found to-day in the Salt River Valley in Arizona. Here is probably the oldest irrigated region in the United States. Parts of its canals were constructed centuries before the first word of our nation's history was inscribed.

From 1867, the beginning of irrigation by the white settlers, up to 1904 all irrigation here was by private enterprise.
The erratic and insufficient flow of The erratic and insufficient flow of Salt River, and the occurrence of severe annual floods put a limit upon development and rendered farming so hazardous that the growth of the valley was practically at a standstill, if it was not actually going back. Large areas planted in orchards and vineyards perished thru drought and the ocsert began to enerough upon the the ocsert began to encroach upon the fertile farm lands.

Recognizing fully the importance of Recognizing fully the importance of obtaining a permanent and assured water supply, the settlers in the valley raised the funds required to make a preliminary investigation of the storage possibilities on the headwaters on Salt River. Before the work was completed the Reclaimation Act was passed and upon request of the people, the Salt River irrigation project was initiated.

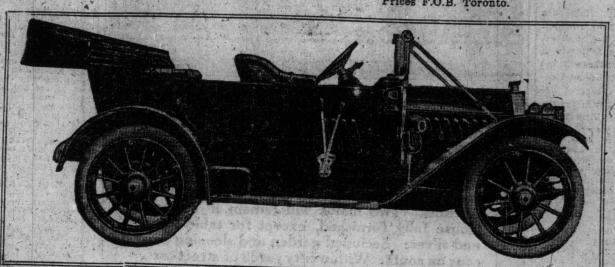

Active work began in 1903. Since that

One of the important points to be seen on the Peerless trucks on exhibition at the Toronto show is the speed governor. The maximum speed of the motor is limited by the action of a centrifugal governor in connection with the butterfly valve located in the intake manifold between the throttle and cylinders. The governor adjustments are enclosed in a housing which is sealed to prevent readjustment for increasing speed in excess of proper limit.

Inadequate for Work Performed, But Desire for Extra Services Has Led to Violation of Expressed Intention of System.

The question of the burial of the city's pauper dead has given rise to a wide discussion since the announcement last week of the mention of the city relief office to no longer allow the expenses of such funerals to be borned partly by the relatives or friends and partly by the city. Business men are solving the problem of delivering all kinds of merchandise with the Ford Model T Delivery Car---It is proving the Quickest and Most Economical for all general purposes.

To meet a demand from all business interests, the Ford Motor Company has produced a most practical, light weight delivery car by building a handsome, roomy, steel canopy body on the FORD Model T chassis. The carrying capacity of merchandise

Being made throughout of Vanadium steel guarantees that this car is the lightest, and yet the strongest 4-cylinder car made in the world, size, power and capacity con-

By virtue of its light weight, it is most economical in tires and fuel—averaging 25 to 30 miles on a gallon of gasoline, while one set of tires is good for 5,000 to 8,000 miles. Simplest to drive because of the Ford Planetary Transmission and Ford Control. So easy to operate that it can be entrusted to any driver. This car will furn around in Free from ignition troubles, because the Ford Magneto is built in as a part of the fly-wheel and gives off sparks every time the wheel revolves. Has enclosed valves, carburetor adjustment on dash, and dust-proof chambers all running parts, which are bathed continuously in oil. No weight on the rear axle, springs being attached to hub flanges, freeing axle of all load. Ford Spring Suspension makes the Model T the easiest riding car on earth.

The splendid record of FORD Model T in the hands of over 80,000 users justifies any faith in this fine delivery car. Immediate deliveries assured. Write for catalogs and other new literature descriptive of all the various FORD Model T's. In addition to the Ford Model T Delivery Car, we offer for prompt delivery the following models: Ford Model T Town Car (Landaulet), 6

Logical reasoning may dwell even in the small boy. There was a Sunday school teacher who liked to "draw" his small pupils, and one Sunday afternoon he put it to a bright kiddle in the class "How do you 'think Noah would have occupied himself in the Ark?" "Fishin" laconically replied the youngster. "A very sensible answer"—"But 'e didn't ketch nuthin!" said the boy with some scorn. "No?" asked the teacher. "What makes you think that?" "Didn't 'ave enough bait—on'y started out with two worms."

Famous Scientist Who Originated the New Wonderful "Home Treatment" Offers $1.00 Package Free to Sick and Ailing.

In order that every reader of The World, who needs treatment may have an opportunity to test this celebrated medicine, the now famous scientist has come to the front with an offer to give absolutely free a full-size $1.00 package to five hundred persons to prove the wonderful claims which have been made, for it. In making this offer the scientist said: "I know that there are many pecple who have been suffering for years with some enronic disease, and many of them have spent large sums of money seeking a cure. I know that these people hesitate about investing money in medicins because they have despaired of ever getting well. Thousands have told me that story, and many thousands of the same people have told me afterwards that my treatment had cured them after doctors and everything else had failed. I want to show these despairing people that all the newspaper talk about my treatment is absolutely true. I want to prove to a limited number—no matter what the disease, no matter how line and discouraged—that 'my treatment really and actually does accomplish the wonderful results that have been reported."

This happened about 3 o'clock, and a very few moments later an alarm was registered by someone who discovered a fire in a lane at the rear of The Star Theatre, which had originated from a pile of rubbish and empty boxes. The brigade arrived just in time to prevent the flames from spreading to adjacent buildings.

Several horses were burned to death in a fire at Orr Bros,' stables, Richmond and Berti-sts., which started about one hour after the Star Theatre blaze had been smothered. The brigade had an up-hill fight, with eventual success, handling this fire, which had gained considerable headway. No sooner had R. B. Bond completed excavations for his $10,000 home than a $20,000 residence was started next door and plans completed for two more homes to cost $10,000 and $8,000 respectively.

Walmer Hill is bang-up against Toron-to's best residential section, the great "Hill" district, where values average $90 per foot. All lots are well restricted and perfect from a building standpoint.

The air is so pure, healthful and exhilarating, the district so clean and so apart from smoke or sound of factories or rail-roads, that those who visit Walmer Hill see in an instant how to double their money in a surprisingly short time.

On the evening of the 21st inst. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Williams celebrated their golden wedding at their residence, 357 Ontario-street. At the time of his marriage Mr. Williams was associated with Mr. E. Mundy in publishing The Uxbridge Advocate. Fifty years ago the storm was very much similar to the one prevailing this week, and Mr. Williams was unable to reach Toronto till a day after the time arranged for the wedding.

Mr. Williams has been prominent in labor and friendly society circles. Near-ly half a century ago, during the agitation for the Saturday half holiday, Mr. Williams took a very active part. The existing trades unions of that day then combined and formed the trades assembly (which was the precursor of the present existing Trades and Labor Council), and was elected its first pre-sident. Soon after a co-operative society was formed for the publication of a weekly paper, The Ontario Work-man, in the interests of labor reform, man, in the interests of labor reform, and after some years the paper was published by Messrs. # Large Porcupine Issues Turn Weak---Rea Leads to Decline

Mining Engineer Expounds Justification of Porcupine

Analogy Points to Continuation of Values at Bepth-Sentiment Improves as Production Era Approaches.

Saturday Evening, Feb. 24. As the period of production in the Porcupine camp draws near, and from all present indications, the next two months will witness the inception of actual shipments of gold bullion from the district-public interest is showing more signs of existence than in a long time. It is now a little over three years since the discovery of the camp, and in that time a material amount of deso that to-day there are properties which may be said to have passed their initial stages, and to have assumed the rank of mines of greater or less value. Meanwhile sentiment has been so undermined by the riotous action of the stock markets that confidence in the companies operating has received a considerable shock. It is on the actual commencement of a gold output that inside interests are building their hope, and it is in the idea that the next weeks will witness a big change in the manner in which Porcupine is regarded, that the present optimistic feeling is founded.

One of the most interesting and at the same time instructive articles on the Porcupine situation is from the pen of Mr. G. S. Scott, mining engineer, of of Mr. G. S. Scott, mining engineer, of Toronto, and appears in the current number of The Monetary Times. Mr. Scott sets out to explain the ground on which those competent to judge such matters base their strong faith in the continuation of the Porcupine veins at depth. He ventures the opinion that there are two arguments that the Por-cupine veins will go down. Both are unequivocal, and practically conclus-lve. The first is that of analogy, bas-ed on comparison with similar veins the world over. This kind of reasoning is Tretheway responsible for the most enduring be-liefs of mankind. If experience has abundantly and uniformly shown that pebbles sink in water, it is almost truth itself that they will continue to do so in the future. It is not pre-tended that the experience with re-gard to the continuance of the Por-cupine veins in depth is sufficiently extensive to give a similar degree of certainty, but it is sufficient to justify a very firm faith in their doing so.

The second argument (really the same on a wider basis of facts), arises from an investigation of the origin of the Porcupine veins themselves. The parallel case is that of a man who had never observed the behavior of a pebble in water, but who would still be justified in concluding from his knowledge of the principles of hydrostatics that it must sink. By similar reasoning one is of the Porcupine veins.

Many seem disposed to consider that geology is a science too vague and Kerr Lake fanciful for practical affairs. Whereas, Con. Smelt in truth, it is nothing less than com-mon sense at its best applied to rocks mon sense at its best applied to rocks and ores, and their origin—"rigidly accurate in observation and merciless to fallacy in logic." Doubters of the conclusions reached by its aid must be prepared to carry their scepticism a long way for few of the decisions on long way; for few of the decisions on which men hazard their all in practical life are as soundly justified.

Thus, these methods of reasoning are not only legitimate, but are common to every pursuit of life. The well-known saying of the old mining districts in the Erzgebirge of Saxony, "He's a poor miner who can't see about 15 to the relation." miner who can't see ahead of his pick," miner who can't see ahead of his pick, applies to every profession. Who, for instance, would employ the physician not able to read in the symptoms the future course of the disease?

Little does it matter to him whether the ore is a secondary concentration of limited depth, or a local enrichment due to local causes, etc., so long as he gets his estimate of the value of the part of it blocked out. Important as his work is he goes no portant as his work is, he goes no farther than any fool could go, and his predictions, which, as a mine sampler, bas no right to make, are usually better than might be offered by a

Not only would the industry itself suffer, but the markets on which they depend for supplies would be hurt. The importance of Porcupine alone in this respect is a matter of common knowledge. But there are other mining districts in Ontario, and, undoubtedly, many more yet to be discovered. ## POLITICS OF TWO CONTINENTS BLUR THE WALL ST. HOROSCOPE

Presidental Campaign at Home and Anglo-German Clouds Abroad Keep Financial America on Qui Vive-The Canadian

World Office,
Saturday Evening, Feb. 24.
Ex-President Roosevelt spoke on Wednesday of this week and Wallstreet had an instantaneous attack of shivers. The contraction in prices was not extensive but it was sufficient to show that the market still remains under the incubus of matters political. The big fellows are busy examining the political horoscope, and the support to prices indicates that they are not yet convinced that social affairs are going to reach a condition of chaos. going to reach a condition of chaos. The ex-president, the progressive, is not revolutionary, and his efforts, directed against high financing, if carried out, mean more protection for the public and fewer profits for pro-

European affairs and of much more importance to Wall-street than matters domestic. The British-German affair has a more placid appearance, but there is too much distrust abroad to say that the situation has cleared to any great extent. The influence exerted by the control of friends is perhaps as effective, or more so, than diplomacy. ing, but until a definite settlement has been reached, there will be many misgivings. Investors in the meantime are hoarding funds or putting them into other channels than securities. Wall-street is just as much under this influence as are London, Berlin and

What was my amazement when I found that it actually did what was claimed for it. It was so simple that it took but a few minutes time to work a complete transformation in my appearance. Any woman who is troubled with superfluous hair can readily appreciate what a difference it would make to her looks if it were removed, for no woman can be beautiful if she is afflicted with a hairy growth on her face, neck and arms. My experience with this wonderful remedy was so remarkable that I feel it my duty to put my sensitive feelings aside and tell my experience to my sisters in distress, in order that they may profit by it, and not waste their time and money on worthless "concoctions" as I did.

Therefore, to any lady who will write me within the next few days and who will send me a two-cent stamp for actual return postage, I will send quite free in a plain, sealed envelope, full information which will enable you to forever end all trace of embarrassing hair by the wonderful method that cured me. Park-avenue. It has come out all right, however, and so far the cup is still in the city's hands. It was a hear squeak, however and suggests a probable parting with it later one.

Byerton went prepared to Oldham, and the result for it must be remembered that Manchester City found the Athletics too much for them. Northampton failed to negotiate the hurdle set up for them at Fulham, and as West Ham and Swindon made a draw of their tie, London has still four clubs interested in the competition.

"Wolves" Fight Hard.

"Wolves" Fight Hard.

It was no easy victory that the favorites had over Wolverhampton, and the close struggle they had will no doubt be a lesson to Blackburn, and prove to them that the road towards the blue ribbon is not to be plain salling, strong team as they are. Altho losing, the "Wolves" are entitled to warm congratulations for the splendid fight put up. Swindon Town should make matters all right with West Ham now that they have forced a change of wenue, whilst the same may be said of Manchester United, who will replay their game with Reading at Old Trafford grounds. It was a narrow escape, however, of the United sharing the same date yestenday as Aston Villa suffered in the second round.

Cup Holders Draw.

It was thought by some experts that "Wolves" Fight Hard.

Cup Holders Draw.

It was thought by some experts that Celtics, who are the present holders of the Scottish Cup, would lost their grip of it to-day at Aberdeen, but the Granite team have not yet managed to beat the Bhoys and the probability of them doing so is greatly reduced, owing to them having now to travel to Glasgow, yesterday's game having ended in a draw. Hearts found it a hard job to dispose of Dundee and the narrow margin by which they won cannot make them feel too confident about their next game with Morton, which is to be played at Grennock. It was quite expected that Third Lanark would account for Motherwell and they did so in a manner which admits of no doubt as to their superiority. Clyde made a great show at Kilmarnock and romped home by 6 to 1. They are now hat favorites for the cup.

Bury Draw.

Altho still at the bottom of the first league, Bury are doing very well just now and they gathered in another point on Saturday. This time it was at the expense of Liverpool and it is unfortunate that they did not start earlier to do well. Middlesboro lost their first same at home to-day and that to Wool-wich Arsenal a team that were never same at home to-day and that to Wool-wich Arsenal, a team that were never expected to accomplish such a result. Notis County were only able to divide points with Tottenham, who did the journeying on this occasion. Newcastle managed two points from Preston and these enable them to again secure the position of second on the table. It seems as if there is no better for Aston Villa this year. They were again badly beaten today.

Hull City became a bad and unexpected cropper in the second division to Stockport County, and, as Derby County had a glorious victory over Blackford, they and Hull once more exchange places. To Burnby now is entitled the position of leaders, as they beat Chelsea to-day and forced the pensioners to take second place. It is proving quite exciting this up and down shifting of places every week, and it is hard to say which will be the ultimate winner of the flag.

the secrets which will be Jim McGuire than he is about his salary for 1912.

Disregarding the McGuire incidents there will be some additional reasons for fire between the Tigers and Naps this year. The reasons are two-fold—Davis and Livingstone. The Tigers love the Athletics like the ordinary creature loves a snake. Harry and Paddy were not the least among the unloved ones.

The Ozark Dawg Song May Yet Land Champ Clark in the White House

At the Democratic State Convention in Missouri the other day Champ Clark was declared the favorite son, and the delegates to the National Convention were instructed to support him to the bitter end.

Great enthusiasm was aroused by the rendition of the Ozark Daws Song. By this song Missouri Demo-crats served notice upon their felcrats served notice upon their fel-low Democrats thruout the country that they must not kick the Mis-souri dawg around,—the dawg in question being Speaker Champ Clark. The song is spreading rap-idly, and bids fair to become the battle hymn of the Democracy in the coming campaign. Should the Democrats carry the country and Champ Clark become president it may yet get to be the national antham. Already the cartoonists are preparing to abandon the use of the donkey as a symbol of the Democrat party and to substitute the "yaller dawg" of the Ozark Mountain district. Here are three of the verses. trict. Here are three of the verses:

Up in Massachusetts, where Mack found him, they call him the "greatest schoolboy first baseman" in the history of the sport. The new Chase is Roland A., and he began to play baseball with the Orange, Mass., high school team.

While with this team he handled himself so astonishingly well that his fame spread, and one of those lynx-eyed gentlemen, known as baseball scouts was sent to look at him. Chase went from Orange to the team of Fitchburg, Mass.

Tom O'Brien saw him one afternoon and followed his first visit with another. Then he sent word to Mack that it would be advisable to obtain him as "promising material."

He will report this spring, this month, in fact, to the Athletics at San Antonio, Texas, where they are to train. Chase is 17 years old, about the same age as "Hal, of New York," when the latter began to demonstrate his skill. He is a shade over six feet tall and weighs about 190 pounds. Like most schoolsboys, when he began to play he undertook to be a pitcher. For two years there was a shrinkage in the batting averages of the players who faced the Orange High School team.

Then he decided to play first base, and the experts who have seen him say that he is a natural first baseman. If that is the case it means that he is likely to prove an invaluable playor to Mack, for these "natural first basemen" are not easy to find.

He is a good fielder, with a long reach, which is as good on one side as the other. That is a most desirable feature, as a "two handed" first-baseman can save many a wild throw. He

New York has a Chase, and everybody who pretends to know the "instance and outs" of baseball, its plays and its players, knows of the graceful left-hand athlete who makes double plays before some men think them.

Now there comes another Chase into the American League, who has been attached to the Philadelphia Club, and who is also a first baseman. His name may have carried weight with Mack, altho Connie is not a thoro sentimentalist, but if he bears a name which shimes in baseball he can also play, and, strangely enough, he plays first base.

Hustlers Sell Former Leaf to Stallings -Fred Was Off Color Last Year, But Bisons Wanted Him Bad.

ROCHESTER, Feb. 24.—Catcher Fred litchell is no longer a member of the zel announced last night the sale of Mitchell to the Buffalo Club. Mitchell spent but one year with the Hustlers. He was with the New York Americans in 1910, and prior to that for several seasons was a member of the Toronto team as cher, utility infle der and catcher. itchell is a strong patsman and always finished well up in the individual averages at the close of each season that he has played in this league.

That Mitchell would be sold to another club has been a foregone conclusion since the Rochester management procured Blair from the New York Americans. During the baseball meetings in New York last December Manager Ganzel tried to sell Mitchell to Hugh Duffy, manager of the Miwaukee team of the American Association, and such a sale would have been made but for the refusal of both Buffalo and Jersey City of this league to waive claim to Mitchell's services. Manager Ganzel would not say what was the price paid by Buffalo, but it may be taken for granted that it was considerably in excess of the league's waiver price.

Mitchell was not well last summer, and for that reason as much as any did not have what could be called a banner year. He was considerably off in his throwing and for a brief time was unable to play at all. He has as good a knowledge of the game as any man in the league, due to his long experience. Mitchell pitched for Phiadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn long before he came to this league and has had quite a baseball career. His remained is Fred Yapp, the known to the baseball sublic as Mitchell.

George Stallings had Mitchell when the former was boss of the Highlanders in 1910, and always liked the work of the catcher.

The sixth annual tournament of the Canadian Bowling Association, just in every respect that has ever been pulled off in Canada. The alleys were the best equipped that ever a Canadian tourney has been rolled on, and the ommodation for the spectators was all that could be asked for, while a great improvement was shown in the scoring system.

Orr Brothers decorated their academy and provided everything that was necessary for to make the surroundings ideal. The bowlers have all expressed the opinion that the manner in which this year's event was conducted made it a pleasure to roll, and will do wonders to help the game along.

along.

The scroes were good at all times and some real good pin-spilling was on the program every day. The C. B. A. officers have, indeed, the right to feel proud of the tourney that closed Saturday night.

This Four will do.

There are just eight teams in the International League, and if we are to believe all that the presidents of each club have to give out, the pennant is to be won by just eight clubs. Of course, from our point of view, we can see nothing to it but McCarfrey's quarters, and on paper they look the one best bet. That infield is some class, and with the reports it comes that every man that is to wear a Leaf uniform will be in the best of shape, and that each man is looking forward to the best, year in his baseball career.

shape, and that each man is looking forward to the best year in his baseball career.

Etg Tim Jordan of fence-busting fame, is again to guard the initial sack, despite the winter's rumors that several of the major league clubs had him bought and practically on the way to their training camps. Amby McConnell is to fill Jimmy Mullen's shoes and the fans will see one of the classiest second sackers in the business in action across the bay this season. Eddie Holly, last year with the Royals, will gambol around the short field position, and he is sure the bay that can do the needful. Billy Bradley, whom many a big league club would give a whole lot of real money to own, will perform at his usual place on the last corner but one.

It will take a lot of beating to round out a better infield than this, and there will certainly be some nifty work pulled off by this four before 1912 closes. Little Eddie Fitzpatrick will be carried as utility infielder, and he can jump in anywhere he is needed and fill the bill well.

Proud Man.

Jim Sutherland of the Limestone City is a proud man and he says he wouldn't change places with the best man living. Jim's lively little seven are all going around with their chests stuffed out's few inches, and, indeed, they have reason to. Look what they did to Eatons on Friday and just think what you would do yourself if you were a member of the Kingston.

General Wood's Warning.

General Wood said he realized that the question of proper mounts in the United States army is becoming a serious one. In the middle eighties, he said, the army had better horses than those supplied for the cavalry and artillery horses.

Mr. Belmont's suggestion met with the unanimous approval of those present, and the United States Cavalry and Artillery Remount Association was organized by the election of Major-General Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff, United States Army, as president. Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, who, Mr. Belmont was chosen as one of the vice-presidents. said, the army had better horses than those supplied for the cavalry and artillery branches of the service to-day. Census figures were cited by sement to show that the price of horses is constantly increasing. In 1910 there were 22,800,000 horses in the United States, with an estimated valuation of $2,498,502,000 or an average of about $109. In 1911 there were 22,900,000 horses, and the average price had increased to $111 each. He pointed out the interest that is being taken by Governor Dix to encourage the farmers of New York State to breed better horses.

Advance of the Harness Horse. Horace White, formerly governor who spoke for the trotting horse fra who spoke for the trotting horse fraternity, began by extolling the thorobred runners of old, when horses ran heats of two miles and more, with high weights-up. He waxed elequent when he reached the great races of Luke Blackburn, Falsetto, Ten Brocek and Longfellow, but he declared that in the last thirty years, with shorter races and lighter weights, the thorobred horse had not heen improved. Some of the best performances of the early days were still unbeaten, he said.

On the other hand, the trotting horse had made astonishing strides during dress, and he pointed out the necessity of helping in the development of the type of horse required by the United States army. He proposed the formation of an organization to be known as the United States Cavalry and Artillery Remount Association days were still unbeaten, he said.

On the other hand, the trotting horse had made astonishing strides during this period, cutting down the record from 2.14 to 1.58%, and developing a yearling capable of beating Flora Temple's time of 2.19%. Too much commercialism in racing was largely the cause of the arrested development of the thorobred, and of the extreme and unjust laws now in force against racing. These he hoped and believed would be modified, and as a means of uniting all admirers of racing and the racehorse in bringing about such modification of the laws of New York, he proposed a great reunion or carnival of racing, trotting, polo, hunting and horse showing next summer, and each summer at some central point like. Saratoga or Belmont Park. A great demonstration like this in the interest of the horse would do more to mould public opinion than all the arguments that could be made in favor of tolerant laws, he said.

Harry W. Smith, master of the Grafton Hounds, announced that a fund was being raised for the purchase of books on breeding and management of the horse to be sent to the twelve United States cavalry posts.

Looking thru the financial report presented at the annual meeting held recently, it is regrettable to note that the public subscriptions fell off some hundred and sixty dollars, indicating that there was a lack of appreciation in a certain direction. It is gratifying, however, that the receipts for admission were four hundred dollars in excess of the previous year proving the previous year proving the previous year. the previous year, proving that what the show had lost among those that could afford to subscribe it had more than gained in public regard. The people of Galt are to be congratulated on having secured James E. As matter of fact, under Mr. Wetherill ruickston has risen to a par with the cremost breeding farms that this con-inent knows. Ida M. Tarbell Says That Woman's Ignorance Has Helped Trusts

Raise Prices. In the March American Magazine, Ida M. Tarbell, writing an article on "The Business of being a Woman," makes the following charge:

"Her ignorance in handling the products of industry has helped the monopolistically inclined trust enormous-I can remember the day whe the beef trust invaded a certain middle west town. The war on the oldtime butchers of the village was opin. 'Buy of us,' was the order, 'or we'll fill the storage house so full that the egs of the steers will hang out of the windows and we'll give away the meat.', The women of the town had a prosperous club which might have rested the tyranny which the members all deplored, but the club was busy that winter with a study of the Greek drama! They deplored the tyranny, but they bought the cut-rate meat— the old butchers fought to a finish and the housekeepers are now paying higher prices for poorer meat and railing at the impotency of man in breaking up the beef trust!"

THE FIRST STEP IN BETTERMENT OF CHILDREN IS TO SCIENTIFICALLY UNDERSTAND THEIR MINDS

Dr. Ernst, German Psychologist Says Good Words of Toronto's Juvenile Court and Children's Shelter and Points Out Ways to Increase Efficiency of Both.

Editor's Note: Dr. Lucy. Hoesch Ernst is a German psychologist who has prosecuted extensive investigations into the child mind both in Europe and America. Her work is carried on on behalf of several German universities and with the sanction of the German Government. In 1896 she published a book, "The School Child in Its Mental and Bodily Development." Dr. Ernst has visited Toronto's juvenile court and the Children's Shelter in Simcoe-street and has given to The Sunday World her view of their present usefulness and future possibilities. Coming from one of her wide experience and observation coupled with the weight of special knowledge and learning she is able to bring to bear on the question, her words are worthy of more than a passing thought.

In undertaking the intelligent better ment of children the leading idea should be to ascertain a general standard for each age with regard to the surrounding conditions and descent of the average or normal child. This has been and is the aim of all experimental pedagogics and I have hopes that, if we all work together, we who are prepared to tackle the question in a scientific and objective way, that is without any subjective prejudice and only keeping to the fact of the outcome of the investigations, that we may arrive at a satisfactory result.

After we have found the standard of general intelligence and the understanding of moral and ethical values in the normal child, we shall arrive at a better understanging of the short-comings of the short-coming of the short-comin

Rash speculations, and generosity to his friends have dispersed his money. Such is the report, and this much pleasure will another's mis-fortunes bring to us that we shall have the chance to hear him again. The writer has from time to time heard many of the great musicians, but never one quite as wonderful as, the slender Pole, whose youth was such a hard and pinched one; who saw his young wife died for want of things he has had so plentiful since. And now to have to do it all over again! Is not life terribly sad and tragic and weary at times?

The Scotsman in Eastern Canada

How the Scot Who is an Irishman Settled in Eastern Canada and What He Did For the Country and for Himself—As Recorded By Dr. Wilfrid Campbell.

Ye Scots who glory in the ancient traditions of the old land, does it not take you down a peg or two to be reminded by your brother and historian, Dr. Wilfrid Campbell, that after all you are really Irish? Tracing back your early history, you will find that the real Scots at one time inhabited what is now the Province of Ulster, in the north of Ireland. Ancient Scotia was located there, at the time that the present Scotland was known as Caledonia.

He began to write verse at the age of 14. Many of his early plays were obnoxious to the government and were not allowed to be acted. Between 1830 and 1840 he published "Notre-Dame de Paris" and several volumes of poems. He was elected a member of the French Academy in 1841. In 1848 he was chosen as a representative in the Constitutional Assembly, and opposing the coup d'etat of Louis Napoleon, was banished in 1851, going to live in the Channel Islands. Until 1870 he made his home chiefly in Jersey and Guernsey; but then returned to Paris. His earlier works were revived and found great favor. He became a senator in 1879. His famous romance, 'Les Miserables,' has been translated into twelve languages. He died in 1835 and was buried in the Pantheon.

Longfellow is perhaps to Canadians the best known of the United States poets. The story of "Evangeline," a romantic if deplorable incident in Canadian history. romantic if deplorable incident.

Canadian history, has been more clearly impressed by Longfellow's poem than by historical record. The 'Song of Hiawatha' has presented to us the American Indian idealized, and the Indian in turn has delighted in accordance and the Longfelthe Indian in turn has delighted in reproducing ancient days in Longfellow's drama. Many of us remember the copy-book lines "Art is long, and time is fleeting," "Lives of great men all remind of, we can make our lives sublime," and other quotations from Longfellow which were standard school mottoes for our moral improvement. Longfellow, indeed, has enjoyed a reputation even greater than ment. Longfellow, indeed, has enjoyed a reputation even greater than his work. His range was not wide, nor was he a great creative artist. Even his masterpiece, "Hiawatha," owes a great deal both in form and plan to the Finnish "Kalevala." He was largely an adapter and translator rather than an original worker. His poetry is, however, full of melody and has an appeal which reaches

Walter Damrosch's

Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, celebrated his fiftieth birthday last week. Forty years of his life have been spent in America, and he has been active as an orchestral conductor since 1885. He conducted, in all, nine years at the Metropolitan Opera House; his term as conductor of the Oratorio Society was for thirteen years, and for four years he was the musical director and conductor of the Damrosch Opera Company, organized for the production of the Wagnerian music dramas. Mr. Damrosch has been longest associated with the New York Symphony Orchestra, his leadership of which goes back to a date twenty-seven years ago. Since the death of Theodore Thomas, Walter Damrosch has been the dean of American orchestral conductors. While his principal activities have been in New York City, his influence on the development of music has extended over the entire continent, thru which he has made innumerable tours as conductor of opera, symphony and four years he was the musical director USS VALBORG MARTINE ZOLL-NER, PIANIST, WHO GIVES A RECITAL AT THE MARGARET EATON SCHOOL ON MARCH 2. as conductor of opera, symphony an oratorio and a lecturer on musical sub oratorio and a lecturer on musical subjects.

The New York Symphony Orchestra occupies a unique position among New York organizations, as it is the only orchestra maintained thruout the year, and its members are not allowed to play at the concerts of any other society or with any other orchestra.

Mr. Damrosch is also a composer of repute and is now busily engaged on a new opera, the libretto of which is based on Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac."

filliams of this city, recently made two very successful public appearances in London, England. Mr. Williams is well known in Toronto and began his studies in this city under Mr. August Andersen, after which he played for several years in association with Mr. Arthur Blakeley, the concert organist, and later went to New York, where he spent several years under Max Bendix, Richard Arnold and Hugo Riesenfeld, and in 1909 left for Europe to continue his studies under Professor Seveik, director of the "Meisterschule" for violin, of the Vienna Royal Academy of Music. In December last, Professor Seveik made his first appearance in England, going to London expressly to conduct an orchestral concert at the Queen's Hall when he was assisted by six of his most advanced pupils. Amongst these was Mr. Frank Williams, who now ranks with the celebrated violinists of the day, amongst them being Kubelik. Zacharewitsch and Ondricek, all pupils of the same master. On this occasion Mr. Williams received an ovation after playing Vieuxtemps Concerto No. 4, with orchestral acompaniment, and later was heard in a recital in Bechstein Hall, when his program included a Sonata in D major. In Unionist Ulster under British laws Belfast has the lowest average of unemployment in the kingdom.

In the distress period of a few years ago a much less sum had to be spent in relief works than in any city of corresponding size in the kingdom.

The average number of paupers is 207 per 10,000 of population in Great Britain and Ireland, whereas the average for the same number in Belfast is only 106, but in Dublin it is 299, and in Cork 322. The Belfast figure would be a great deal less but for the fact that one in every 42 of the Nationalists.

Engaged in the pawnbroking business many distressful cases came to his notice and many was the man or the woman he saved from utter ruin by good advice and tempering his business transactions with mercy. As a sportsman he was one of the old-school-thoroly reliable and man whose word was always his bond. His speech was quiet and deliberate and full of weight. He was easily the best and most trustworthy friend Ned Hanwindsor, the late Colonel Shaw, at that time United States consul, James Douglas, Albert Shaw, W. G. Schreiber, the late C. J. Starling of Belleville, the late Tom McGaw of the Queen's Hotel and the late George Brown, another hotel keeper, he was head and front of the Hanlan Club which financed the champion and secured for him thousands of dollars that would have otherwise most probably have eluded him. But, after the fashion of mankind, "the world's famous," as Sporting Editor Garrett dubbed him, was not as grateful as he might have been and got it into his head that David Ward and his associates were reaping more glory and riches out of his efforts than they were entitled to. As one who was on the inside and saw books and papers, I know that no club's affairs were more planstakingly, unselfishly and honestly managed. Dave Ward was ever the wise and generous sagacious friend and counsellor. He had been commissioned so to be by the champlon's father, to whom he was warmly attached, and he was true. To the both the champlen's father, to whom he was warmly attached, and he was true. And the champion was no easy man to manage. In England, when he rowed Hawdon and Elliott, and again when he rowed Trickett, he several times exhibited a tendency to kick over the traces, but Dave Ward bore everything with exemplary patience and brought him out triumphant n every instance. After his defeat of Trickett, the spllt occured, and Hanlan went to Australia and twice suffered defeat from Beach. The Peerless 38 horse power, six-cylinder motor has the snap and flexibility that a fully satisfactory roadster engine must possess. The Peerless control system is extremely simple, and operation of this roadster is always a pleasure, whether in city traffic or country touring. The low lines of the body are of pleasing appearance, and the appointments for convenience and comfort are complete.

The "38-Six" is also built as a Coupe with inside drive and as a Limousine; or with Touring or Torpedo body.

This model, the "48-Six," the "60-Six," the "40-Four," and the distinctive fore-door bodies are described in our new Peerless catalog.

The steering column of the Peerless is irreversible; it cannot be swerved out of its course by ordinary road obstacles and shocks are not transmitted to the rim of the steering wheel. This is but one of the features in the Peerless construction that make for comfort and for safety.

These men practice the highest engineering principles the world knows.

Engineers from abroad come here to study under these men. Their chief-like Thomas A. Edison in electricity—drives the milestones of automobile advancement. He and his men in other years designed the motors for more than a dozen manufacturers. Eighty per cent. of all the better quality American cars have on them features designed by Mr. Coffin.

He had previously built five famous cars—the industry's leaders. Each, in their time, was the car of the year. They were so far ahead of their day that several are still sold as leaders in their class.

The latest and greatest achievement of these skilled engineers is the New Self-Starting HUDSON "33."

Our engineers tested all types of selfstarters. None other was acceptable. This one started the motor 98 times in every 100 trials. Thousands of tests were made. Cold weather did not affect a week. AYORS may come and mayors may go and it is altogether likely that they will; but for many, many moons the mayor's secretary has remained the same. George Wilson has been on the job for sixteen years and looks good for the distance all over again.

A cat may look at a king and, theoretically, any citizen may talk to the mayor whom he has helped to elect. He may talk to him even if he tried to elect the other fellow for, of course, he never would be silly enough to say so. That is the theory of it, but in practice it never would work out at all if the mayor is to do anything more than hold one long drawn out ecception with no time left to attend to the matters. which his callers are anxious to have dealt with.

And so, it comes that he who goes to see the mayor usually winds up with a talk with George Wilson, the mayor's secretary. This talk may be a brief word in passing, that is, while the caller is passing in and out, or it may be a shoulder rubbing, heart-toheart conference out of which well nigh anything may come. This talk was what the citizen or citizeness really wanted only they didn't know it until George seemed to just sort of, kind of put it to them that way and then they saw it at once or nearly so.

The mayor's secretary is a man who says lie is over 21 years of age. The things which strike you first are his bright, alert eyes. These hold you so that you have to see him a couple of times before you get much notion of anything else. Then you find that those optics are set in a young looking countenance which nevertheless has a dash of grey in the hair at the temples. Sometimes you think he is much older than men who look a great deal older than he does and sometimes you think that he is a deal younger.

You never know just where to have him and that is just it. He has been seeing folks just like you for years and years and he has you as soon as you poke your nose in his door. He has your number framed up just the way to get at it before you have said "How do you do," and by the time that you have got around to "I would like to see the mayor," Little Georgie could tell you just about what it is that you would like to say to the city's chief mag-

If you ought to see the mayor, you may depend upon it that there isn't anybody on earth more anxious or better able to see that you do see him than his secretary, but most people don't really need to see the mayor and all that George is really doing is to save you the trip in and out again to himself which s where you would come to deposit your kick anyway if you really have a kick that ought to be fixed.

A long time ago a certain mayor set out to fire

George. It was the very first thing that he tried to do when he got into office and he was so successful that he didn't bother trying very much of anything after that. It sort of took the steam out of it and, after that, he came down to the office, signed a few, or a lot of papers and looked at his watch just long enough to decide that he had an appointment somewhere else. Incidentally he swore by George Wilson as the ablest, soundest, best humored and altogether satisfactory secretary that a mayor ever had or could wish to have. All the rest of the mayors. have agreed with him before and since.

After all a mayor in his office doesn't amount to much. When it comes to council meetings, board of control meetings, society receptions and all other matters connected with civic politics, the mayor is some pumpkins. But in the mayor's office where the heavy detail of routine is dumped in every day and must be dealt with right off the bat, if it is not to accumulate to the point where the office might better be moved right out to the asylum, it is the mayor's secretary who is the man on the job every day and pretty much all day at that.

There are about one hundred letters and about one hundred callers who find their way to the mayor's office very day. About seventy-five per cent. of these would find more entertainment and achieve a better purpose by dropping in at the first nickle show they struck on leaving their homes. 'Even \if they didn't have the nickle, they would find it a whole lot easier to kid the blonde young lady at the ticket wicket into letting them travel in deadhead than they are likely to find the job of getting past Little Georgie to see the mayor on a fool's errand.

When George gets down there in the morning and starts to shovel away the snowstorm of letters which the postman has heaped on his desk, he has some job to tackle. It is a job which keeps his nice little stenographer lady playing Liszt's rhapsodie upon her typewriter. This is true despite the fact that a large and healthy wastepaper basket is also working to capacity. Added to this are those who call. They are of all shapes and sizes, sexes and religions, of every race, color and previous condition of servitude.

These are met by George, that is when Rooncy, the outside guard, has not weeded them out as hopeless chaff at the first breakwater, the counter in the outer office. They are met by George who smiles just a little to begin with, and then can switch to any of the varied degrees of hauteur or cordiality as the oc-

How Australia Helps The Farmer

For quite a considerable time Canada had practically no conpetition in presenting her claims and opportunities as a field for the British emigrant. Pursued in a methodical and capable way the propaganada has induced a movement which at present shows no symptom of slackening. But the Dominion's practical monopoly of the British field is now being seriously challenged by Australia and New Zealand.' The Australian states especially, under the influence of the policy of the labor parties, rather discouraged than encouraged general immigration while agricultural settlement was also prejudicially affected by the existence of the large landed estates which had been permitted to pass into private hands. This condition has been in process of change. Both in Australia and New Zealand these estates are being reclaimed and opened up by the governments for settlement on very favorable terms. Already British emigration to these great states of the southern seas has remarkably increased and the current once started will, without doubt, continue and increase in volume. Nor would it be wise or prudent for Canada to rest in the assurance that her special advantages will always sufficiently outweigh those offered by Australia and New Zealand, to ensure her dominance in the competitive field. The Dominion has one great and lasting handicap in its comparative nearness, but this is yielding to modern developments in ocean transportation. In this connection it is significant that Mr. Arthur Hawkes, the special commissioner of the Ottawa Immigration Department, got back on Wednesday with the report that Australia is attracting two or three times as many immigrants from Britain as she did a year ago.

Southern Australia has a much more equable climate than Canada and that of New Zealand is still more comparable to old country conditions. The democracy of these Imperial States is more advanced and better calculated to secure for the mass of the people a fair share of the wealth that is produced. Railways and other services are almost entirely publicly owned and operated and ceeded on progressive lines. Australasia and Canada therefore are in sharp contrast, altho the western states of the Dominion are fortunately for themselves doing something to minimize the difference. The readiness of the Australian States to make radical departures when these are held necessary is shown even in their provisions to encourage land settlement. A recent article by the special correspondent of The "Cape Times," of South Africa, dated from Melbourne, Victoria, describes how farmers and intending settlers are being encouraged. All the Australian States, it appears, now possess elaborate machinery for: First, placing young settlers on the land; second, helping them to begin farming under easy and promising conditions; and, third, supplying pastoralists, orchardists, viticulturists and agriculturists with cheap capital, required, as it may be, for the purchase of stock, erecting buildings and the extension and improvement of their holdings. Australia's area of over 3,000,000 square miles equals five-sixths that of the continent of Europe and equals that of the continental United States, exclusive of Alaska. It offers abundant spaces and many facilities for successful settlement. Holdings, large and small, can be obtained; some can be bought, others leased, and in certain states by free pursuit and then what are your chances of wingrants from the governments.

The "Cape Times" correspondent says that: New South Wales, the "Mother State," passed its first Advances to Settlers Act in 1899, which was amended twice in the year 1902. The three acts were repealed by the Government Savings Bank Act, placed on the statute book at the end of 1906. The first act passed authorized the colonial treasurer to sell inscribed stock, secured upon the consolidated revenue, to an amount not exceeding $2,500,000, to be sold in amounts of $50 or some multiple of $50, and bearing interest at the rate of 31/2 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly. The advances to settlers board, consisting of three members appointed by the governor, received the applications for loans and decided if they should be granted. The maximum amount that could be advanced to any one person, under the first act, was $1000; and the loan had to be repaid in full, with interest at the race of 4 per cent., within a period of ten years. The first amending act increased the limit of the loan to $2500 and extended the time for repayment to 31 years. The second amending measure increased the amount of inscribed stock to $5,000,000, also the maximum of individual loans to $7500. Under the act now in force—the Government Savings Bank Act-the advances to settlers board is replaced, but still by a body of three, now styled "The Commissioners of he Government Savings Bank of New South Wales." The commissioners have authority to issue debentures to the amount of $10,-000,000, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 4 per cent. per annum. They lend moneys from the advances department as follows: (1) Upon mortgage of an estate of inheritance in fee simple in any land in the state; (2) upon mortgage of conditional purchases with or without associated conditional leases, homestead grants or selections, settlement leases or purchase, or conditional purchase leases; and (3) on deposit at call or short notice in the treasury on any bank of issue in the state, or on deposit in the savings bank department. Loans may be made for any of the following purposes: (a) To pay off existing encumbrances or to purchase the land; (b) to pay off money to the crown in respect of the land; (c) to make improvements or to develop the agricultural or horticultural resources of the land; and (d) to build homes on the land. At present no loan to any one person may amount to less than $250 or to more than $10,000. Applications for loans not exceeding $2500, it is officially announced, have priority over those of a larger amount.

In no case are advances made in excess of 80 per cent. of the commissioners' valuation of the security. Loans are made only in respect of first mortgages and are repayable by equal half-yearly instalments within such period not exceeding 31 years as may be fixed. For the year ending December 31, 1909, 8456 advances were made to New South Wales settlers. It is not unlikely that the government will extend the system to meet the case of farmers desiring credit for a small amount and short term. The other Australian states have in their systems adopted similar provisions to those of New South Wales. The benefits derived from these systems are admitted to be undoubtedly great alike to the state and to the farmer. No losses have as yet been suffered by any of the governments. nor is it at all likely any will ever be incurred. Each government lends money at a rate which leaves just a sufficient margin to cover the working expenses of the departments. Can the Ontario Government not find something of value in the enlightened policy of the Australian states? New Ontario has much rich agricultural land which, as it stands, offers no adequate inducement to settlers. If that area is to be filled encouragement of a substantial kind must

Church Union

The Protestant churches are still discussing church union. The Toronto Presbytery the other day adopted an amendment to the proposed basis. emphasizing some of the fundamental ideals of Presbyterianism, such as permanency of the pastors, the right of the people to extend a call to a pastor, and a denial of the power of the settlement committee to come between the congregation and its pastor.

Church union will never be brought about unless the bodies who propose to come in forego what we might call "piffling" demands. The main thing should be to agree upon a question of doctrine, and not to be insistent upon small matters that will wreck the proposed union before it is launched.

If the churches want to come together-and there is a strong sentiment in favor of this-they should send their representatives to a committee that will decide upon terms. This committee should be free to adopt rules for the government of the new church, but the union will never be brought about if there are to be restrictions. The Methodists may want to continue their itinerant system, and the Presbyterians may insist upon hours can be so arranged that much valuable

Increasing Candle Power of Acetylene Lamps

SUNDAY MORNING

In the issue of The Motor Cycle of January 25th, an article is published com the pen of Mr. A. Remfred Myhill, an analytical chemist and photometrist, on the subject of the use of hydrogen peroxide in the water of acetylene lamp generators. Mr. My. hill conducted tests (1) to determine the amount of acid in commercial hy drogen peroxide in order to judge metal of generators; (2) to ascertain whether any, and if so what percent-

The results of Mr. Myhill's tests are so interesting that we make no excuse for reproducing them on this page.

According to Mr. Myhill, the acid which exists in hydrogen peroxide is purposely put in in order to preserve it, and as the liquid is often used for analytical and medical purposes, it is evident that only a very small amount ought to be present. Mr. Myhill obtained two samples, bought at random from two different shops, one sample being sold as "20 volumes strength," and the other as "10 volumes" strength. On analysis the first was found to contain about 1 per cent. of

Hudson Clean Design

Said Mr. Thompson of the Dominion Auto Company, describing the Hudson models: "In every detail of finish, high-grade materials and excellent quality of workmanship is used. Take the body of the car as an instance—here are facts of interest to every motorist and prospective motorist. The body is made of pressed anti-rust sheet metal. The leather is of selected stock. Curled hair and oil-tempered springs make the cushlons soft and comfortable. The springs of all models are long and of extreme flexibility. They are secured by a special spring clip that eliminates possibility of breaking. # Master of the Road

TOU motorists who have patiently waited your turn for getting Dunlop Traction Treads, here is good news for you: We are adding 30,000 square feet more floor space to our automobile tire plant. Operations have already begun. This big addition will be devoted to the manufacture of Dunlop Traction Tread Tires. Thus we hope to catch up on all back orders, and to keep up somewhat better with the tremendous demand which this tire's great success on the road has brought about.

"Thought-Out"

Dunlop Traction Tread is not the result of one day's contempla-tion. It is not an attempt to mere-ly get in fashion and convert an ordinary cover into an Anti-Skid. It is the result of honestly and conscientiously meeting the issue—the mature deliberation of many minds working to a single end—to produce a tire that would be an instantaneous triumph. No expense that justified itself was avoided. No test which was productive of suggestions was over-looked. Materials, moulds, methods, one and all only receive their O.K. after 'the greatest scrutiny.

Time with its abundance of praise heralding the extraordinary service which Dunlop Traction Treads are giving to motorists all over Canada, is the ever increasing kind of evidence which is backing up our judgment every day.

Little more than a fortnight ago The Montreal Herald in an editorial under to be fed up on the musical austerity. Montreal Herald in an editorial under the capiton "Gay Montreal—Solemn Toronto," commented with self-satisfied complacency on the circumstance that while "Montreal's chief musical prude, may each of them find—in Madame Sherry—carols at which to cavil, but for those who regard a night at the Theatre as a necessary repalse institution was performing that highly interesting opera of the joy of living, Cliarpentier's "Louise," the chief musical institution of Toronto—the famous Mendelssohn Choir—was solemnly rendering Bach's Sanctus and Gounod's "By Babylon's Wave." On this text The Herald delivered itself of some solemn reflections on the different mentalities of the two, cities, opining that while "Toronto has never exhibited any real has not for a score of years, or more, been able to do anything for itself in the realm of operal size of the tuneful frothiness which enables them to gratify that desire to the full.

On this latter point I submit to the superior knowledge of The Herald, but I must decidedly demur to the obiter dictum that Toronto "distrusts opera as a foreign, barbarous and exotic invention." Contraniwise—Toronto rather prides herself on the cosmopolitan character of her musical taste, and has a strong and sound belief that, in order to appreciate opera it is not, in the least, requisite to profess ignorance or dislike of choral singing.

Certainly the Montreal Opera Company that has been appearing at the Royal Alexandra, during the past fortnight has, I am certain, had no reason to infer that the Toronto public is antipathetic to the musical draw. woman's fight to maintain her position in society without submitting to all of its connections. In fact it is a domestic drama of the better class, and the story is related in such an interesting and instructive manner that it leaves only the best of impressions. The play presents the woman, if not altogether sympathetic at least as a strong, big, daring nature, in opposition to society and seemingly triumphant, only to be everwhelmed by shame and disgrace and utterly broken thru her love for her son, which love, running paralle to the ambitton of her life, is at once her weakness and her strength. The story grasps the interest of the audience from the strot and maintains it until the climax of the third act. Here, in an intensely dramatic scene, the woman is confronted by her son with the evidence fronted by her son with the evidence of her wrongdoing. She struggles des-perately and heroically to clear her-

Girl's Bravery During the American Civil War.

This week the Strand's principal Photo Play tells a thrilling story of a Southern girls bravery during the great civil war between the Federals and Confederates of the United States. Southern girl's bravery during the great civil war between the Federals and Confederates of the United States. In the first scene Bartlow bids her mother, sister and sweetheart goodbye and starts to join Stuart's Confederate brigade. A year elapses and finds Bartlow engaged in the perilous enterprise of penetrating the enemy's lines and destroying a bridge, thus interrupting the Federal communications. Discovered by a sentry and badly wounded he manages to reach his home, where his sister, knowing of his plan herself undertakes to accomplish it. Dressed as a boy, she reaches the bridge and firts it in time to prevent the retreat of the Federals, who are all made prisoners. Stuart, calling at Bartlow's home to congratulate him, finds that he owes his victory to a Southern heroine.

The Strand's series of novel events includes various novel and attractive scenes from near and far. There are stirring views of the Italo-Turkish war in Tripoli and remarkable incidents attending a terrific gale at Dungeness. England, when the steamer Crageswold was cast high on the sands. Great interest will be taken in the annual rugby football match at Paris, France, to determine the composition of the team to represent France in the International championship game. Cither reets show the cross-country blcycle race at Paris: a wonderful new aerial torpedo, able to carry 165 pounds of explosive a distance of 31-2 miles, and the bad train wreck at Long Run, Kentucky.

Miss St. Clair returns to the Strand for one week. Patrons of finis now well-known playhouse are already familiar with her delightful personality and charming manner in presenting melodies from well-known operas. Miss Kummerfeldt, for the past two seasons, has on different occasions appeared as soloist with the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, and by the musical critics of that town is proclaimed to be one of America's coming stars in grand opera. The Strand orchestra will play attractive selections during the week. This theatre is now the favorite matinee house for ladies

Marguerita Sylva In "Gypsy Love'

Lehar's New Opera Regarded by Music Lovers as Lyrio Sensation of Season.

Marguerita Sylva, the only Metropolitan Opera House prima donna now appearing in light opera, comes to the Princess Theatre, week of March 4, 1. Lehar's new opera, "Gypsy Love," regarded by many music lovers as the lyric sensation of the entire season. The fame of "The Merry Widow" and the recent grand opera achievements of Sylva, have aroused unusual interest in this presentation of Lehar's newest work. Sylva was practically unrivaled in this presentation of Lehar's newest work. Sylva was practically unrivaled in the realm of light opera five years ago when she abandoned the American stage to study grand opera abroad. Her success in Paris, Berlin, and Milan, was so enormous that Oscar Hammerstein brought her back to America to sing for his petrons. Afterwards she sang for two seasons at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, her greatest success being in "Carmen." When A. H. Woods bought the American rights of "Gypsy Love" he was able to secure Sylva only because of the fact that he offered an enormous salary, and because Sylva herself was anxious to sing the role of Zorika. "Gypsy Love" is in three acts, the first showing a castle in Hungary, the second a gay and glittering restaurant of Budapesth and the third, the court yard of the castle. The second act is supposed to be a dream in which Zorika peeps into the future and sees how impossible it would be for her to wander thru the world with her Gypsy lover. The company engaged by Mr. Woods is a large one and includes Arthur Albro, a new tenor discovered in Europe; George Bickel, the well-known comedian of "The Follies" who looks after the comedy element; beautiful Frances Demarest, Dorothy Webb and a dozen others. The chorus is large what was coming, but it did not take the Bound of the levelous subtrines of the levelous subtrines of the rection subtrines of the many subtrines of the levelous subtrines of the many subtrines of the levelous subtrines of what was coming, but it did not take them long to realize that Mr. Holcomb had evolved a drama which is bound to prove intensely popular, and which offers an exceptionally fine medium for the display of histrionic skill. The lines are strong and virile and the elements of the dramatic are strongly marked. One rarely hears more stirring dialog and the encomiums heaped upon the play were many."

Such a criticism from the city in which Mrs. Wilson was almost worthing the Grand Next Week.

Return of "Pomander Walk"

Toronto theatregoers will doubtless be delighted to learn that Messrs. Liebler & Co., are again sending one of their most famous companies in one of their most successful comedies. The announcement is made that on Monday, March 4, the famous all-English company will begin a week's return engagement at the Alexandra Theatre in Louis N. Parker's comedy of hap-piness, entitled "Pomander Walk." This is the same play and the same com-pupy that appeared for a whole sea-son at Wallack's Theatre, New York City, and who visited Tororto last October. The atmosphere of "Pomander Walk" is so thoroly English in action and character that none but a empany of therely English players could properly enact it and lose none of its delicate flavor.

Mr. Parker has laid his play in a quaint little nook in the suburbs of London, called Pomander Walk, and the period he has selected is in the latter years of the Georgian era—1805.

It is practically the annals of a quiet reighborhood, and the most exciting neighborhood, and the most exciting episodes that occur during the three acts of the play are four simultaneous courtships, finishing with four simultaneous marriages, and nearly all of the characters concerned live in the five quaint little Queen Anne cottages that stand in a row along the bank of the Thames. Several of the characters in "Pemander Walk" look and act as if they might have just jumped out of the Pickwick Club, and, in fact, Mr. Parker has been credited with possessing in a rare degree a power of character delineation something after the style of Dickens or Thackeray.

"The direct result of ignorance or o istorted ideas of this tremendous matter of carrying on human life is that it leaves the girl unconscious of the supereme importance of her mate. So heedlessly and ignorantly is our mating done to-day that the huge machinery of church and state and the tremendous power of public opinion combined have been insufficient to preserve to the institution of marriage anything like the stability it once had, or that it is desirable that it should have, if its 'ull possibilities are to be realized. The immorality and inhumanity of compelling the obviously mis mated to live together, grows on society. Divorce and separation are more and more tolerated. Yet little is done to prevent the hasty and ill-considered mating which is at the source of the trouble.

Choosing a Motor Car

The automobile trade has sorted itself out into four or five distinct lines of machines and a man who seeks to have the comfort and convenience of one has only to pick out the class that suits himself and his pocket, and then make the best selection that is offered to him in that class.

The rich man is not confined in any way as to the car he wants. He may have the most expensive class of limeusine with the most luxurious appointments, and has nothing else to do but to

But the ordinary, everyday mortal is governed by his ability to buy, and by the cost of upkeep. At the best, he must limit himself to a five-passenger standard touring car, sold fully equipped, and which runs from $1,000 up to $2,500. Knowing the style he wants, all he has to do is to pick a car in this, the standard class, that suits his pocket. He has abundant kinds to

Next is the man who wants a runabount; he has many machines before him that will give good service at a price ranging from $600 to $1,000. He has only to choose the make. If, however, price is a pressing consideration, here he can drop down to the motor cycle, with its basket side car, $400 or less will see him

There is still, however, another class of machine that is rapidly coming into use, and that combines the idea of a closed in car with some luxury, small in size, but reasonable in price, and that is the electric, inside-drive coupe, adapted to the use of doctors and ladies, and to people who want a comfortable but modest equip-

As regards motor trucks, there are many styles, but they are all standardized, and the business man can pick out the very thing that will meet the requirements of his business and his available funds. He can have a five-ton, $5,000 machine, or he can have a little runabount that a boy can drive, and carry a parcel of fifty pounds for $400. Or he can get a one-ton delivery truck that will do the work of two horses for $1,100 or $1,200.

And after a while the automobile business will probably be conducted on still more reasonable terms, thas much as the tendency is in the direction of selling moderate-priced cars on a cash payment, and the balance in a series of monthly instalments comewhat after the manner that most farmers buy their agricultural implements.

The striking fact now is that the automobile industry, one of the greatest in the world, is prepared to meet the public in a most reasonable way in selling. Perhaps the one point of difference as between buyer and seller to-day is the cost of parts, and even in this direction the tendency is to meet the view of the customer. The man with the accessories, however, is still inclined to resort to overcharges; but as the accessories are now being made more and more an essential part of the machine, his demands are not felt in the same way that they were a couple of years ago.

Altogether the automobile business is standardizing itself like other great industries.

other great industries.

As to the utility of the mortor car and the motor truck that is now established, and they are, with good roads, next to the telephone, electric light and electric power, the most serviceable invention of the day, for thousands and thousands of people and to the

Conditions That Influence Buying of Motor Trucks

By Walter C. White.

The truck business has certainly strength, durability and been going some for the last wear or construction, and economy

The truck business has certainly been going some for the last wear or so," said Walter C. White recently. The demand for White trucks has kept us pretry much on the jump out the Cleveland, trying to keep somewhere within halling distance of our orders, because when a man finally makes up his mind to buy a truck, he wants to get a way, and doesn't like to wait a minute for it! I have seen a good many customers take six months to decide that they really want trucks, and when they at last place their order, they don't like it a little bit if they cannot get their trucks the same week, and many of them want special bodies and special colors, at that.

"One of the things that impresses me is the business-like manner nowadays in which trucks are being bought. Two years ago when a man bought a truck, he was usually induced to make the purchase by a particularly fluent and persuasive satesman, and the construction of the particular truck he bought, and the reliability of the firm making it, did not have very much importance with him. He usually had the idea that the truck would be more expensive appealed to him, and ha decided he could charge the loss up to advertising. The ones who bought the right kind of trucks were agreeably surprised, and the others either gave them up in disgust, or kept on trying until they found the one that would give them the service it should. It's the same old story over again—some people endeavor to save mjoney by taking an inferior article, and usually find that it is the most expensive in the long run. To-day, however, when a concern decides to install motor trucks, and the persuasive salesman doesn't cut so much figure. The concern's carefully, looking for the construction of the various trucks, or free and marketic, and trucks, with an inferior article, and usually find that it is the most expensive in the long run. To-day, however, when a concern decides to install motor trucks, they go after it systematically, and the persuasive salesman doesn't cut so much figure. The concern's care

A Village Cut Up.

A very exciting incident took place in our town Sunday night. Ringling Bros' circus hit town A young man drove in and put his horse in the stable and when he went to hitch him up he started to perform. There were four men handling him but he managed to get away and ran right into the hotel kitchen, broke a stove, made a man break the mile record, and then was finally subdued. Not much damage was done, only livery men should be more careful what kind of rigs they send out.—Hepworth Progress.

ORANGES ONCE UNDER THE BAN

Oranges were for some years a prohibited fruit in Holland. When the Batavian republic was established, the badge and color of the stadtholder's family became so hateful to the popular party that, not satisfied with expelling their prince, they passed a law forbidding the sale of oranges and carrots and ordering all persons who grew lilies or marigolds in their gardens to pluck up the plants and destroy them. This prohibition remained in force until 1806, when Napoleon made his brother Louis king of Holland.

It was the Limited, ward the Pacific Coast aboard the which the postoffice department racer had passed about 50 miles back, and which had received a telegraphic instruction from Chicago to pick up one up of four mail cars and a powerful lest actor.

engine, which earns a heavy subsidy upon a time." Frank H. Larke of "The Penalty" Company was compelled to "jump" from Chicago to San Francisce, and the he kept the details of the trip quiet at the time, he doesn't mind who knows it now.

Transportation had been arranged for himself and company on the fastest overland train between the two cities. Thru some reisunderstanding, he rushing the transcontinental mail across country at the rate of 90 miles an hour and Mr. Larke stowed away on a pile of empty mail sacks was trying to go to sleep in the most uncomfortable bed he had ever encountered, thinking repretfully of his comfortable drawing room in the Limited. Just before dawn he fell asleep, but was soon aroused by one of the men in the car and assisted off the train to a lonely platform. Here he shivered to a lonely platform.
