(Canadian Press Cable)

Mudania, Oct. 10.—The allied general assembly here last night and submitted to Ismet Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist representative. The Ankara government was given until five p. m. today to accept or reject it.

The Terms.

The convention as submitted to the Nationalists contains these specifications: 1. That the Greek evacuation of Thrace shall be carried out within about fifteen days.

2. That the Greek civil authorities including the gendarmeries shall be withdrawn as soon as possible. 3. That as the Greek authorities withdraw the civil powers will be handed over to the allied authorities.

4. That this transfer shall be wholly completed through the British and French within a minimum period of thirty days after the evacuation of the Greek troops has been concluded.

London, Oct. 10.—The allied terms include withdrawal of the Turkish troops from the neutral zones, and non-occupation of the Turkish zone by the British and French until a peace treaty is signed.

The front ranks of the Turkish forces, however, have not been advanced farther today. The British are sending reinforcements to protect their railway communications.

SOLDIER FIGHTS FOR MILLIONS

Rich Gypsum Property in Cape Breton

Stanley MacNeill Pleads His Own Case in Conference of Disputants With Sir Lomer Gouin, in Montreal.

(Canadian Press)

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Within two weeks a young Nova Scotia war veteran, Stanley MacNeill, will either have a firm grip upon the $2,500,000 gypsum fields of Cape Breton, or he may be stripped of the valuable property, as the result of a conference held in the office of Sir Lomer Gouin here yesterday.

The fight, which has swept through various courts and which has extended over some seven years, is one of the most involved cases yet brought to the attention of the minister of justice. It involves the question of provincial rights under the British North America Act, the possible expropriation of a corporation, or the transformation of a former C. E. F. soldier into a business man.

The conference yesterday was attended by MacNeill, Eugene Lestur, K. C., representing Plastic Quarries, Ltd., W. A. Wood, president of Plastic Quarries, Ltd., and H. E. Ross, K. C.

The purpose was to permit both the company and MacNeill to state their case. The entire case from its opening in 1911, when the property was first bought by a brother of MacNeill's as family property; the subsequent discovery of huge cliffs of gypsum upon it; an amazing series of charges and counter-charges of fraud, deception and treachery which resulted in the discovery of the value of the land; the subsequent acquisition by the Plastic Quarries, Ltd., were all outlined to Sir Lomer by MacNeill personally, who requested the aid of legal counsel in the presentation of his case.

According to the recital, MacNeill attempted to reopen the legal battle to regain the property once held by his family. The courts were incapable of rendering him any assistance and finally he secured the passage of a provincial statute which vested the property back into the hands of MacNeill.

The MacNeill case has aroused a dominant wide interest, particularly as the result of the intervention of the G. W. V. A., which backed the young veteran in his fight to have the entire case reviewed before the courts again.

MORE BUSINESS FOR OUR PORTS

British Liners May Quit New York Service

The Daily Telegraph quotes an official of the Cunard Line in Liverpool as saying that the British steamship operators stand to suffer a big loss if the continued to operate their boats to U. S. ports under the new dry-docking and that it would be better for them to divert some ships to Halifax or other Canadian ports than to lose the profits from the sale of intoxicants.

(Canadian Press Cable)

London, Oct. 10.—The ruling of the U. S. attorney-general prohibiting liquor within U. S. waters will likely be of great benefit to Canadian ports and at the same time will not injure British shipping, according to views of local shipping men published by the London papers today.

The consensus of opinion appears to be that the U. S. will be the only loser, and that the dominion stands to gain a lot. It is said that a meeting of the members of the North Atlantic conference will be held in London this week and the question will be discussed.

Interviews published by the newspapers confirm the general attitude previously ascribed to the British shipping companies—that "We shall say nothing and do nothing."

In some quarters there is amused incredulity at the "crank proposal," as it is called, and the belief is declared that it is likely to be soon dropped when the people of the U. S. realize they will be the chief losers, as British liners undoubtedly will transfer their sailings to Canadian ports.

The Times prints details showing that travelers would lose little time and gain in other ways by going to Quebec and Montreal instead of New York. The newspaper believes that even if some liners continued to make New York, the western terminals, there would still be an increase in the popularity of the Canadian route.

The Daily Telegraph quotes an official of the Cunard Line in Liverpool as saying that the British steamship operators stand to suffer a big loss if the continued to operate their boats to U. S. ports under the new dry-docking and that it would be better for them to divert some ships to Halifax or other Canadian ports than to lose the profits from the sale of intoxicants.

ANOTHER SHOCK FOR GREECE

Italy Says Dodecanese Islands Are Lost to Greeks—Latter to Appeal to Allies

Athens, Oct. 10.—Greece has received another unpleasant shock in the news that Italy considers the convention ceding the Dodecanese Islands to Greece as having lapsed.

The Greco-Italian convention was attached to the treaty of Sevres, which Italy deems no longer operative. The islands were formerly Turkish possessions although they have a preponderantly Greek population.

The government expects former Premier Venizelos to make vigorous efforts in Paris and London to secure French and British support for strict observance of the treaty by Italy.

JUSTICE MUST PRECEDE PEACE

Rev. Dr. Cadman and Premier Address Meeting in Connection With Methodist Conference.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Fellowships among the world's religions are being fostered, recognition of the claims of the weak and the bonding together of the people of the universe under the banner of peace, were pronounced as the panacea for all world ills and human problems by Rev. Dr. S. Parks Cadman, pastor of Central Congregational church, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Hon. Ernest C. Drury, premier of Ontario, at a great gathering of Methodists held here last night in connection with the conference.

The words craved for and longed for peace, declared Dr. Cadman, but it must be a peace of righteousness. He said a warlike world on the present status would be worthless. There could not be peace while a Moslem host attempted to overrun Europe, and God did not want a peace that was purchased by the subjugation of Christianity. Peace depended upon justice and it must be justice before there could be peace among men and nations.

MERCHANTS ARE IN CONVENTION HERE

Provincial Retail Board Open Session President DeWolf Points to Bounding Dollar as Sign of Better Times—Dominion Secretary Sees Corner Turned and Optimists Outnumbering Pessimists.

The report of the treasurer, A. A. McIntyre, showed a balance on the right side of the ledger.

The eighth annual convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, Incorporated, held its initial session this afternoon in the assembly hall of the New Brunswick Telephone Company, Clapman Hill.

At 2:30 the meeting was called to order by the provincial president, W. G. DeWolf, St. Stephen, and addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor McLellan, W. F. Burditt, president of the St. John Board of Trade, and H. A. Macaulay, president of the Retail Merchants' Association.

W. G. DeWolf in his address as president paid a high tribute to the services of the executive officers and especially to the work of Miss E. P. Alward, the provincial secretary, who, he said, had been untiring in her efforts to further the best interests of the association.

He dealt in general with the many problems confronting the trade today and suggested some means of coping with them.

He referred to the press and expressed his appreciation of what had been done by the association who had given it the benefit of their long years of experience and training and expressed the hope that they might be spared for some time to come.

He urged the members of the association to take part in the common work, Y. M. C. A. boys' work, church work or any club whose aim was the betterment of the world a better place in which to live.

He pointed to a continuation of the good business. He expressed the opinion that we were "around the corner" and well on the way to a stable condition in business and general trade.

People recognized that the turn had been made and were not slow to take advantage of it. Most stores had been able to reduce their stocks and were beginning to buy again.

Grumblers and pessimists were growing fewer, and the crop of optimists had fair to be a bumper one.

The unemployment situation was becoming settled and the danger passing and everyone was looking forward to an era of business prosperity.

Wheat, vegetable and fruit crops were very large this year and there had been plenty of labor to harvest them.

Speakers of the lumber business had gone to pieces on prices, and the margins of profit were so small today that in many cases it was not worth the risk incurred in handling it to attempt to market it.

Prices, he said, were below the normal rate of profit.

THE ANSWER

The demands for the resignation of Premier Lloyd George, which have been growing more insistent during the last few days, have been answered in a way that is typical of the man against whom they were directed.

The basis of the charges against Mr. Lloyd George was said to be that his strong pro-Greek policy had brought the nation to the verge of war.

As to the allegation that the nation had been brought to the brink of war needlessly, the report contains the Premier's statement that the government policy was to prevent the war from spreading to Europe, and his contention was that the strong measures taken by the government already had taken and intended to continue to take were the best means of prevention.

The Premier, in his conference with the labor delegation, had undertaken to prove that the government policy had been identical with that long advocated by the labor party—a policy which has received general support in Great Britain—namely, maintenance of the freedom of the Straits under the control of the League of Nations, and that the subject populations in Asia should not be left under control of the United States, France and Italy.

A display of force was necessary, not for the purpose of precipitating war, but to prevent it. As Mr. Lloyd George put it: "The one chance of stopping the war is for Kemal to know that we are not going to be put out of the Straits. If he knows that, our nation is divided and that he is getting encouragement to go on, he will be very likely to pursue a warlike policy."

How accurate was his summary of the situation was has been shown by the Allies appeared to be divided, and there was room for doubt as to how far Great Britain would go alone, Kemal Pasha and his government appeared almost inevitable. When a united front was presented to the Turkish policy of aggression, Kemal Pasha failed to take the decisive step. The wisdom of the British policy has been established by the turn which affairs have taken during the last day or two.

It is probable that the opponents of the Prime Minister will have to continue their search for a weak spot in his armor. The latest attack, like many others before it, has but served to give him an opportunity to strengthen his position.

AN EXPEDITION TO THIBET.

In the hope that they will be able to penetrate its isolation and secure access to its innermost life, which for centuries has been so closely shrouded in mystery, a British mission is planning to enter Thibet. Included in the party, which is proceeding under the auspices of the International Buddhist Union, including the Buddhist Society of the United States, are some of England's ablest explorers, scientists and ethnologists.

If their plans succeed, they will make a more thorough investigation of the Thibetan people, their customs, religion and language than has been possible in the past. Rare books and manuscripts which are believed to exist in the libraries of the Thibetan monasteries are expected to prove of the greatest value in adding to the knowledge concerning the Thibetan people also to all in some of the many gaps which now exist in the records available to the outside world of the history of the country and its people.

Little is known of the origin of the betans, the quaint traditions which have been handed down being obviously no historical value. Their local mountain strongholds in the years 15,000 feet above the level sea, combined with the vigorous methods taken to discourage the few visitors who reached their boundaries, have made it comparatively easy for them to preserve the isolation which for centuries had made Thibet the forbidden land. It is only within the last generation or so that explorers who have entered Thibet have returned to tell of what they learned there, and that has not been much. If the British expedition succeeds in its undertaking it will give to the world the first story of the Thibetans that can be regarded as accurate and complete.

Dr. J. W. Pettit, vice-president of the National Anti-Tuberculosis Association of the United States, declares that "any individual who contracts tuberculosis and leads the ordinary sort of life he must get well, and continues to lead that life, lives longer than he ordinarily would." While that is a sad indictment of the great human family, so far as our habits and the care of our health are concerned, it will give fresh encouragement to those who are afflicted with tuberculosis.

India will soon be dry, says a leading Calcutta doctor. Prohibition in that country is making great headway.

RED CROSS MATTERS.

The Red Cross membership campaign is taking definite form in the city as well as throughout the province. Two meetings were held yesterday and much time is being consumed in getting ready the costumes and other properties for the pageant which will be staged in Chatham, Newcastle and other parts of the province. The first meeting held at the depot was called to meet Mrs. G. A. Kuhring, who is organizing the campaign in St. Vincent's Alms House, Mrs. A. H. Doody, Miss H. T. Meiklejohn. It was decided to hold a public meeting in the Imperial on Sunday. Mrs. Frank S. White was appointed convener for the musical part of the programme and Mrs. J. H. Doody and Mrs. C. Williams will have charge of the singing.

A COSTLY VENTURE.

The perils that are involved in government control of wheat marketing are forcibly illustrated by a report which has just been issued by the minister of agriculture for New South Wales. Two years ago that state guaranteed $5 a bushel. This has involved a loss of between $800,000 and $900,000, which will have to be recovered by taxation. Edmonton Journal.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

PROTECTIVE REGULATIONS FOR RECEIVING STATIONS.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has recently issued a bulletin containing tentative regulations applying to radio receiving stations. These specifications embody a number of important changes in former rules governing radio installations, due to the fact that the original requirements were drafted with a view to providing protection from hazards connected with the operation of transmitting stations.

The tremendous increase in the number of installations of radio telephone receiving sets has led to the replacement of the large capacity switch and heavy ground wire by an approved lightning arrester used with a ground wire of comparatively small gauge. The tentative regulations are as follows:

ANTENNA.

a. Antennas outside of buildings shall not cross over or under electric light or power wires of any circuit of more than six hundred (600) volts of railway, trolley, or feeder wires, nor shall it be so located that a failure of either antenna or the above-mentioned electric light or power wires can result in a contact between the antenna and such electric light or power wires.

Antennas shall be constructed and installed in a strong and durable manner and shall be so located as to prevent accidental contact with light and power wires by sagging or swinging.

Splices and joints in the antenna span, unless made with approved clamps or splicing devices, shall be soldered.

Antennas installed inside of buildings are not covered by the above specifications.

LEAD-IN WIRES. b. Lead-in wires shall be of copper, approved copper-clad steel or other approved metal which will not corrode excessively and in no case shall they be smaller than No. 14 B. & S. gauge except that approved copper-clad steel not less than No. 17 B. & S. gauge may be used.

Lead-in wires shall not be run in parallel with electric light and power wires unless separated therefrom by a continuous and firmly fixed non-conductor that will maintain permanent separation. The non-conductor shall be in addition to any insulation on the wires.

Lead-in wires shall enter buildings through a non-combustible, non-absorbent insulating bushing.

Desire Representation For New Brunswick On Canadian National Board

Definite action toward prevention of the avoidable wastage from fires which are now occurring throughout Canada, was urged in a well-reasoned address before the St. John Board of Trade last evening by J. D. McKenna, M. P., mayor of Sorel, "Ontario," he pointed out in his closing appeal, "lost 700,000 acres of forest last year through fire. Think of the revenue that is lost there, and unless we in New Brunswick wake up and do something, the position will be a most undesirable one."

At the conclusion of Mr. McKenna's address, for which he was heartily thanked, the regular business meeting of the board was held, at which important matters relating to transportation received consideration. A resolution endorsing the stand taken by the Maritime Board of Trade in the matter of providing ways and means for the proper functioning of the board; the establishing of a research bureau; provision for a special utilization of Canadian supplies for Canada's business, was adopted on motion of George L. Warwick. Mr. Warwick also presented another resolution, which was adopted after considerable discussion, in which Colonel Murray MacLaren, M. P., F. B. Ellis and others present took part. The latter resolution demanded that New Brunswick be given representation on the new Canadian National Railway board, and it contained a request that the co-operation of the other boards of trade throughout the province, and also that of the provincial government be obtained to back up this request. W. F. Burditt, the president, was in the chair.

THE MAN THE WAR FOUND.

"A Brother Officer," in London Express. "Tim" Harrington, known officially as a Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Harrington, K. C. B., D. S. O., Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Forces in Constantinople, is one of the most popular and efficient officers in the British army. In common with other soldiers of distinction he has avoided with skill the advertisement which so many of the prominent officers would be prominent. If it were necessary to select an officer typical of the conditions which have inspired the army since its earliest days Sir Charles Harrington would be a skilful choice.

He was also typical of the King's Regiment. There are some corps in the army from which officers drift away to extra-regimental employment when opportunity occurs. In the King's officers are expected to remain until the army requires their services elsewhere, and throughout two and a half centuries the habit has remained. He was three times adjutant of the Second Battalion. A good adjutant has great power in the training of officers. He can direct the steps of the young in the way they should go, until the right road becomes instinctive. And Harrington was a past master in the art of leading. Subalterns who drank cocktails in the afternoon were asked why they did not hunt. If they said that the cost was too great "Tim" would point out that two cocktails a day cost 2s. or over 286 a year, on which, as he explained, a horse or part of one could be maintained in luxury.

He watched the newly-joined officer with more care than a father. He never drove, but his leading was effective though unobtrusive. Those who came thinking that army life passed with the feverish clamor of a French novel soon learned from Harrington that the principle of the army was service, and that service meant work. He himself read assiduously, but he let the example teach rather than dictate on his part.

The men he made his special care, and taught all officers that no day's work was concluded before they had seen to their men's comfort. They were the tools, and good work could not be done without well-kept tools. Unobtrusive in everything, he began the war as a major. But the opportunity made the man, and the war ended with Sir Charles Harrington as a lieutenant-general, and is possibly on the threshold of the greatest stage in his career.

Lighter vein. For the Fans. "Do you regard baseball as a health-giving game, doctor?" "Well, I should say it ought to do a great deal towards strengthening people's lungs." "I hear Tom Hunt." "One hand was in a motor car accident and went over an embankment. Was it one of those dangerous curves?" "Yes. He had his arm around it." Condition That is Acquired. "Wiseman—'Don't you know that there's a fool born every minute?'" "Mags—'And that's not the worst. There's a lot become fools later on who were not so when they were born.'"

Lively on Y. M. C. I. Affairs. Midseason activity and rousing enthusiasm marked the hours of last evening on the Y. M. C. I. alleys. A large assemblage of players and on-lookers gathered to welcome Joe Harrington on taking over the management of the alleys. In addition to individual rolling there were two matches of three strings each in which everybody was welcome to participate, and eleven bowlers signed up for each match. In each case a prize of a box of cigars were put up for the one rolling in high three string total. The prizes were donated by R. J. Colgan and Dr. H. S. Clarke, chairman of the house league executive. When the battles were over the veteran Tom Brown ambled with both boxes under his arm. CHANGE TAKES PLACE WITH PARIS MORGUE
Grim Little Building is to be Pulled Down.

Paris, Oct. 10.—When the grim little building behind Notre Dame, full of tragic memories, will be pulled down. The safe proprietor on the other side of the street will have to change his sign, which has been there for more than a century and which reads: "Whatever you do, whatever you say, 'You're better off here than across the way.'"

In the Middle Ages each municipal division of Paris had a morgue. The princeling or duke who ruled there had property rights over every body found in the street. The first morgue serving the entire city was built in the sixteenth century at the Chatelet.

Since that time the location has been changed three times, always however, being in the district known as the Ile de la Cite, the heart of the capital.

With characteristic Parisian mockery, the people refer to the morgue as "The Cold Meat Market," "Death's Cupboard," or "The Salon of the Rejected."

WANTS ANOTHER APOLOGY.
Girl Insulted in Court Says She Must Hear Judge Take It Back.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—Judge Joseph P. Rogers' apology to Miss Agnes C. Bailey for remarks addressed to her in court when she appeared as plaintiff in a damage suit growing out of an automobile accident, which she considered insulting, is not satisfactory to the young woman, because not made to her personally. At her home Miss Bailey said she would insist on the apology being repeated when she is present in court on Tuesday.

"I can't understand his statement in open court as an apology to me at all, because I was not present," she said. "It was very considerate of him to make such a statement in open court, of course, but since it was I who was insulted and not the Court, I think it should be made to me personally."

MISTAKE COST MAN HIS LIFE

Glasgow Crowd Thought He was Abducting Foster Child.

Glasgow, Sept. 12.—(By mail).—A little after eight o'clock last night a policeman found a man lying unconscious at the corner of Springfield and Dalmarock road, Glasgow. He took him to the Royal Infirmary, where the doctors found that the man's skull and left jaw had been fractured, while he also had an incised wound on his left jaw and cheek. He died at five o'clock this evening without having regained consciousness.

Papers found in his possession showed that his name was Robert Alexander Stewart, and that he was thirty-three years of age, a ship's cook, residing at Forest Hill, Edinburgh. His wife has confirmed the identification. A sister-in-law, Mrs. McNeil, who resides in Cambuslang, about four miles from Glasgow, said that three years ago the Stewarts adopted an orphan named John Sinclair, five years of age, and that the child had been living with her in Cambuslang for two months. It appears that Stewart, whose ship had just arrived in the Clyde, called at Mrs. McNeil's house on Monday evening intending to take the boy home. He saw the child in the street, and as Mrs. McNeil was out he took him, barefooted and grimy, away with him and got into a tramcar going to Glasgow.

The conductor, becoming suspicious at the sight of a well-dressed man with a barefooted child, is supposed to have drawn a woman passenger's attention to the couple. The woman recognized the child and charged Stewart with attempting to decoy the boy away from home. An altercation followed, and eventually the man left the child with the woman and jumped out of the car. An alarm was raised, whistles were blown, and a crowd quickly followed Stewart. They are alleged to have set upon him, inflicting terrible injuries and leaving him lying wounded in the street.

Mrs. McNeil has said that Stewart would not have harmed the youngster, for whom he had a great affection. The boy, it appeared, had readily recognized him, and addressed him as "Uncle Bob." The case is being investigated by the police, but no arrests have been made.

What Science has done for Baby's Sleep

YOU will sometimes hear a Mother say "Baby sleeps all night long"—as though the simple fact of not waking up is all that is to be desired.

Modern science knows better. The kind of sleep Baby gets is as important as the amount of sleep itself. A crib that does not help Baby's delicate body to grow in the way it should—is only one small degree better than a fretful crib.

Simmonds Cribs are built for sleep. But more than that they are designed for the right kind of sleep. With deep knowledge of the science of sleep the spine is supported naturally—normal circulation is ensured—the nerves and muscles relaxed.

Important considerations, as any doctor will tell you.

Be sure to see the Simmonds Label on Bed, Crib, Spring and Mattress before you buy.

The Simmonds Label is your assurance of Sleeping equipment built for sleep. All genuine Simmonds Cribs, Beds, Springs and Mattresses have it. No others have.

USED RIFLES ON CANADIAN DOCTOR

Queen's Graduate Relates Terrible Experiences.

Kingston, Oct. 10.—John Murray, a Queen's University graduate who has been teaching in the International College in Smyrna, Asia Minor, for the last two years, writes from Malta to Kingston friends with regard to his experiences when the Turks, under Kemal Pasha, entered that city. Mr. Murray left Smyrna on September 16. "All that happened before that time," he says, "I would give anything to be able to blot out of my memory. Suffice it to say that I had never dreamed that any man could do things which I have seen done, and I have not seen the worst things which occurred. Among the things which happened was an attack on Dr. MacLachlan by some Turkish soldiers who were looting some college property near the compound. He was badly beaten and struck with the butts of their rifles, but was rescued from certain death by a friendly Turkish officer. He, too, was brought to Malta by battleship and is recovering rapidly. I remained at the college until the 18th although practically all the British colony of Smyrna had gone. But that day I was requested to leave, as the college authorities thought my presence there as a Britisher would be a hindrance rather than a help, for the Turks are very hostile towards us as the allies of Greece. So I am here as a refugee and do not know what I shall do."

SHOOT'S FLEEING HUSBAND

Wife, Had Summoned Police to Arrest Him for Check Fraud.

Brookline, Mass., Oct. 10.—When Frank Mealy attempted to leave his house here while his wife, Katherine, was summoning the police to arrest him on a charge of passing worthless checks, Mrs. Mealy got a pistol and shot him. Mealy was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. His wife was arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill.

Mrs. Mealy told the police that she had been driven to desperation by various acts of her husband, who is a former Boston policeman. Mrs. Mealy is a maid in a Brookline family.

PRINCESS MARY GIVES PORTRAIT

London, Sept. 28.—(By Mail).—Viscount Lascelles was presented by his father's tenants at Harewood House, near Leeds, with a portrait, painted by Oswald Blaisy, of Princess Mary, which they had decided upon as their wedding gift.

The Earl of Harewood, who is now seventy-six, spoke with some emotion of the manner in which his declining years have been brightened by the marriage of Princess Mary to his son.

"I am more glad to meet you here," he said, "because I am meeting you in the house which probably before many years are out Princess Mary will pre- side over. When that event occurs, and she takes her place as head of this house and estate, she will diffuse a ray of sunshine into your lives as she has already done into the lives of the family who are so proud to welcome her as one."

Viscount Lascelles said that it was the intention of the Princess and her husband to live as much as they possibly could at Goldborough Hall.

SIX BROTHERS ARE IN CHURCH WORK

London, Sept. 28.—(By Mail).—The unique spectacle of six brothers occupying the same pulpit has been witnessed at the United Methodist Chapel, Wellington, Durham. One brother, Mr. R. B. Collins, is sailing for Canada, and the other five accompanied him to the pulpit at the farewell service. All are local preachers, and one, in addition, is a choirmaster.

The senior Mr. Matt Collins was born at Oakenhaw, Yorkshire. He was one of the pioneers to bring what is known as United Methodism into Cewa- gwa close upon 150 years' service as preachers.

COURT HITS MOTHER-IN-LAW

Boston, Oct. 10.—"I don't believe the Lord ever made a house big enough for a mother-in-law to live in," was the ex- clamation from the bench of the Dis- trict Court here by Judge Samuel P. Abbott after he had heard husband and wife testify in an action for non- support that they had tried unsuccess- fully to live with both mothers-in-law. "Thank the Lord I married an orphan," the Judge added.

He then continued the case.

"OLD HOMESTEAD" BETTER THAN PLAY

Denman Thompson's Rural Classic Delights Thousands at the Imperial.

Unfeigned congratulations were showered upon Imperial Theatre yesterday during the day and evening runs upon the truly wonderful presentation of the famous old Denman Thompson play, "The Old Homestead." That it was a genuine heartful of homely sentiment and humor, with plenty of melodramatic thrills and just enough sobriety to flavor, was the secret of its satisfying quality. Nothing the Imperial has shown in the line of rural plays has excelled this story, even the renowned "Crisis" production, "Way Down East," with its appalling ice-bergs climax.

Uncle Josh Whitcomb owns the Old Homestead Farm near Grandy, New Hampshire. He is the genial patriarch of the surrounding country, beloved by everybody. Eph Holbrook, the richest man in town, holds a mortgage on Josh's farm. Eph's worthless son, Lem, is in love with Rose, the village beauty. Josh's son, Reuben, clerks in Holbrook's store. His sweetheart is pretty Ann, Uncle Josh's ward. Rose comes to Lem and tells him he will have to marry her, and Lem, to provide funds to get her out of town, steals money from his father's store. Reuben is accused of the theft and sent to jail. With Happy Jack, a genial, resourceful tramp, he escapes from the lockup and flees town. Rose disappears at the same time, and Ann is heartbroken, believing Reuben has gone with her.

Soon the mortgage on the Old Homestead falls due, and Eph is determined to collect. Uncle Josh goes to New York to see an old friend who is now a millionaire to try and borrow money, but fails. He meets Happy Jack, who tells him that Reuben has fled to China. Struck by the old man's despair at this news, Jack determines to bring the boy back.

Returning to Gansey, Josh determines to auction off the Old Homestead. Meantime Lem, growing scared, admits to his father that he stole the money. Eph honest though hard, starts with him to the Old Homestead to settle with Josh.

A cyclone sweeps the country, tearing everything up by the roots but the Old Homestead. In the midst of it, Happy Jack brings Reuben home—just in time to save Ann from throwing herself in despair over the cliff at Lover's Leap. And everybody is happy.

The Old Homestead will be repeated today and on Wednesday. It is a picture that no member of the family should be allowed to miss. It is a sermon, it is a trenchant lesson on good-heartedness, forbearance, forgiveness, love of fellow-men, faith, simplicity of living and all the other good things that make real men and women. No child should be denied it. The laughter that such a picture entitles it to the heartiest support of heads of families, educationists and the church.

THE QUEEN SQUARE

Pretty Scenery, Pretty Dresses and Good, Clean Comedy by Frank Newman and His Associates.

Frank Newman and his Casino girls opened before a large audience yesterday. All performances were well attended and many of the patrons expressed their appreciation of a good clean show with clever comedy. The performers lived up to the standard proclaimed in the advance notices and were greatly appreciated.

The show is said to come from the Keith theatres, but hardly needs that recommendation to make it popular here. The crowds were appreciative yesterday and the company should do record business during its stay at the Queen Square.

Mr. Newman caters to ladies and gentlemen and issues a challenge to return the price of admission to any not satisfied with the show. Needless to say no one asked for a return of money yesterday. Mr. Newman and Raymond Lewis take care of the comedy in a commendable manner, but the dancing is much above the average.

Miss Pearl Derby wears some clothes during the show and these were the centre of interest for the women. She was a veritable fashion plate and the creations shown proved a great success.

Miss Olie Perkins made remarkable progress with the audience in her songs and other work. Tom Lynch, "Bob" Lannis and why go on? The show should be seen to be appreciated. The scenery is rich and proved one of the features of the performance. MAIN STREET W. M. S.
ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Main Street Baptist church was held last night at the residence of Mrs. E. G. Ekin, Douglas avenue, and was largely attended. The devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Mrs. David Hutchinson. The annual reports presented were satisfactory. The report of the secretary showed that, besides holding the regular meetings, the W. M. S. had observed Crusade Day in November, when the two missionaries, Mrs. Clark and Dr. Zella Clark, returned from India, had been given addresses. The year's work had been very interesting and successful.

Soak the Dirt out.

THERE is such a simple easy way of washing rompers, school gingham, play clothes, etc., that you won't mind how many there are—thanks to Rinso.

First, make the wonderful Rinso liquid. Take half a packet of Rinso, thoroughly dissolve it in cool water, and add two quarts of boiling water. Then lay your clothes to soak in the tub of cool or lukewarm water. After one, two or three hours or in the morning give them a thorough rinsing and the dirt just runs away. No need to rub on the wash board so that holes come and colour goes.

Rinso is a wonderful product, scientifically made to wash clothes by soaking—different from soaps, chips and washing powders, and used differently.

Do not put Rinso in to the tub from the package, but make the Rinso liquid first.

IF YOU USE A WASHING MACHINE

Follow directions as above. After soaking the clothes wring them into machine, add enough fresh Rinso liquid, operate and rinse, and you will have the sweetest, cleanest clothes you ever saw.

NIGHT SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AUTHORIZED

A meeting of the board of school trustees was held last night with Hon. H. A. McKeown in the chair. It was decided to inquire regarding more accommodation for the manual training and household science classes and also regarding a new grade nine for the C.H.E. street school. Authority was given the building committee to purchase furniture for the new St. Peter's school. The special teachers, Miss Ida A. Northrup, Miss J. Alward, Miss B. Holder and Miss J. Hart, wrote asking recognition in the salary schedule for their training and years of service. The matter was referred to the manual training committee. D. C. Clinch, of the S. P. C. A., wrote asking that the boys and girls be cautioned not to put things in drinking fountains. This was referred to Dr. Bridges. The secretary's report showed an enrollment in the schools of 8,768—4,271 boys and 4,497 girls, and an average daily attendance of 8,868. The number of permits issued to date was shown to be 1,289. Dr. Bridges said that there were now about seventy-five enrolled in the night schools. Authority was given a committee to arrange for a night school for girls. F. Neil Brodie estimated the cost of grading the Albert grounds at $7,000. Several other matters were discussed.

Berlin Figures Give Germany's Mobilization at 15,250,000.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—Seventy-five million men were mobilized throughout the world during the late war, according to official statistics published here. Thirty million were under arms at the close of hostilities.

Germany's total mobilization is given as 15,250,000 men, of whom 8,000,000 still were engaged at the end of the fighting. At the height of its expansion, at the beginning of the western offensive, March 31, 1918, these figures state, the German army totaled 8,900,000 enlisted personnel and 140,000 officers on the western front, besides 160,000 enlisted men and 3,000 officers in recruiting depots.

These figures were distributed among 190 infantry divisions and two defensive cavalry divisions. They were equipped with 32,218 light and 27,148 heavy machine guns, 8,848 mine throwers, 8,656 field guns, 8,168 light howitzers, 3,083 guns for heavy firing at high elevations, 1,747 guns for heavy fire at low elevations, and 1,137 aerial guns.

Horses to the number of 764,563 were "mustered" into the military service of the Fatherland.

ADDRESSES TWO LARGE AUDIENCES AGAIN YESTERDAY

Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan Draws Vivid Picture From Gospel

An address introductory to the study of the portrait of Christ, contained in St. Luke's gospel, and a splendid defence of the Bible in an address entitled "Has the National Life Outgrown the Bible?" was given by Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan in his meetings yesterday, the second day of his five-day mission in the city. Long before the meetings were to open in St. Andrew's church in the afternoon and in Centenary church in the evening. Large congregations had assembled and when the song services, conducted by Howard Morgan, son of the eminent exponent of the Bible, were concluded, eagerly expectant congregations filled the auditoriums of the two churches.

In the afternoon in St. Andrew's church Rev. R. G. Fulton, of Centenary church, offered the opening prayer and Rev. F. S. Dowling made the announcements. Dr. Morgan made it clear that he did not intend to preach or to lecture. He was there to teach and to study with those who came to hear him. In the four afternoons he proposed studying the portrait of Christ as presented in the Gospel of Luke and Luke himself had described the gospel as an account of all that Jesus began to do and to teach.

had set his own stamp upon the gospel of which he was the author. It was said that there was no humor in the Bible, but Dr. Morgan declared he found his Bible full of humor. As an instance, he quoted two accounts of the woman who pushed through the crowd to clutch at the garment of Christ. Luke, the physician, in stately language had spoken of her as a woman who had consulted many physicians and could not be cured. Mark, the son of a rich woman, living in idleness and associating with the fishermen disciples, had described the woman as having suffered many things at the hands of physicians and been nothing better but rather worse. No physician could have written as Mark did, said Dr. Morgan.

In Centenary church to an audience that filled the auditorium Dr. Morgan spoke on the subject, "Has the National Life Outgrown the Bible?" He used two illustrations to indicate that the national attitude toward the Bible for a generation has been to treat it as outgrown. One illustration was that the civic motto which originally read "Let Glasgow flourish by the preaching of the Word" had been mutilated to "Let Glasgow flourish," and the other illustration was that of the old Englishman, who had been taught to read by the rector and who was reported by his wife as having made such progress that he was out of the Bible and into the newspaper. Therein, said Dr. Morgan, was an indication of the national drift. "We are more concerned to read the newspaper than the Bible."

Turning to the Bible the preacher said and splendidly illustrated first that in the Bible there is a moral conception, which has made the great civilizations in the last two millenniums. With skill and great impressiveness he showed that the moral tone of Britain began to rise when Caedmon translated passages of the Vulgate into the vernacular English, and as translations were made, culminating in the King James version in 1611, and broadcast through the art of printing, the people imbibed the conception of morality contained in the Bible and this conception created the present civilization.

Speaking of the Gospel of Luke, Dr. Morgan said it was agreed that Luke, the physician, was the author and Luke had not seen Christ. Yet his gospel contained more of the recorded words of Jesus than did any other gospel. In the fact that Luke depended on eyewitnesses to know the story of Christ, there was given an added value to his writings as readers of today were like Luke and had not seen the Master in the flesh. There was a human element in the writing of each gospel that Dr. Morgan considered. Each writer philanthropies. All philanthropic work of healing in the war had been under the banner, not of the Red Eagle or the Red Lion, but the Red Cross. There had been no healing ministry on the battle fields before the Cross of Calvary and men had learned to help and heal each other when they saw God on the cross upon Calvary. The God of the Cross had made men compassionate.

For his third point he held that in the Bible was found the conception of man as the child of God. Evolutionary process did not account for man, when it was said that man came from the dust. The Bible said that man was the offspring of God and made in God's image. The ultimate meaning of human nature was not with dust but with God. His fourth point was that in the Bible was found a way by which the banished ones may return. Dr. Morgan pointed to Marcus Aurelius' statement, expressing the highest sentiment of paganism. "There must be shavings in every carpenter shop." The Bible with the Gospel cut straight across that creed. It presented God brooding over man, wooing him, healing him and restoring him. In the Bible was found not the cry of the policeman but the well of a Father seeking His child. With great emphasis, Dr. Morgan declared, has this idea of a Father seeking His child worked out. It took hold of the deviant and changed him from being a curse to become a blessing wherever he went. It remade him and passed him back into civic life.

Summing up his eloquent address, he said in closing, "Only as we build on these things can our national life be strong and pure and beautiful." RADIO VISION IS LATEST PROPHECY. London, Sept. 25.—(By Mail)—"We shall be able in the future to see by wireless—to speak from London to a man on an ocean liner, and see him at the same time." This fascinating prophecy was made to the Evening News by Professor A. M. Low, a scientist who has accomplished much valuable research work. As far back as 1914 he produced ap-

CIVIL SERVANTS GET FRIGHT IN ELEVATOR

Large Drops Four Storeys and Operator Collapses.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Howard Saunders, elevator operator in the Union Bank Building collapsed from an electric shock received when applying the emergency brakes of an elevator which dropped four storeys before it could be stopped. The car was loaded with civil servants leaving work and many suffered from shock. Saunders was rushed to Water Street Hospital where he was given medical attention and later allowed to return home. Only through the quick action of saunders and also the automatic brakes system a serious accident and perhaps the death of a score of persons was averted. As the civil servants were crowding into the elevator, Saunders closed the door and started descending. Something then went wrong with the machinery and the elevator dropped four storeys with its human freight, before it could be stopped.

Arthur Hughes of West St. John was taken to the General Public Hospital last night, suffering from a compound fracture of his leg. Mr. Hughes was working in a saw-mill in St. George, and had his leg caught in a belt. Although his condition is serious, he was reported to be resting as comfortably as could be expected.

INTERESTED IN SONGS OF WALES
Lloyd George Gives Notable Address at Concert.
London, Sept. 28 (By Mail)—Lloyd George presided recently at a concert at Llanymudry, the village near Cardigan, where he received his early schooling. He listened with great interest to a number of Welsh songs and recitations, and afterwards gave an address.

Aluding to the village institute, where the concert was held, he said it was a great change from the time when he was a boy there.
"You must have had a penny reading in the village school, and the only institute they had was the village smithy, where they settled every question under the sun."
He recalled how on one occasion his finger was caught in a cog wheel, and he had the marks ever since.
"There was a good deal of talk about the way in which there was a drift from the villages to the towns; it was one of the social dangers of Britain. The more he thought about it the more anxious he was about it."
Make Life Attractive.
"After all, a country was based on its soil. Of all the countries engaged in the war, we had the smallest proportion of people whose life was associated with the soil, and for that reason we had the largest percentage of rejections for physical fitness."
He could see the proportion of the industrial population becoming over-whining, and the calm, quiet life of the soil vanishing. It was a real peril to England.
"You cannot get people to live in villages unless you make life worth living in villages."
"You must have something that makes life attractive. The church and the chapels have done their best, but they cannot do everything, and institutions of this kind will have a great effect in keeping the young people and making it worth their while to continue in the villages."
There were the fascinations of the cities and unless the villages could compete they would not retain their people.
"Where a country was a depopulated wilderness it was a doomed land. By their institute they were doing something to restore the balance which was essential to the life, strength, and power of the land."
"The Temple Stones of Empire."
Mr. Lloyd George went on to speak of the Welsh language and tradition, and on literature, he said, the Empire would not be nearly so rich as it was. "There were people who once thought they should cease to be Welsh—who said that was the only way to make the people useful. They were wrong."
"We have fought better for the Empire as good Welshmen than we would have done as bad Englishmen," he declared amid cheers. "It is no good thing taking a Highlander out of his hills."
"This Empire is a temple of many stones. Far distant lands all contribute, and all its local stones are polished. That is its beauty; that is its strength."
"I want the granite of Wales to be there, but I don't want it painted to look like Aberdeen granite."
Songs of His Boyhood.
"Polish it if you will, but let the color be the local one. The Empire will be stronger; Wales will be better." He continued, "For God's sake go on singing your songs, delivering your recitations. I heard them when I was a lad. I hope to hear them one day, grave. Keep to the songs of Wales. That is how you will make your contribution to the Empire and to humanity."

PRINCE OF WALES SETTING STYLES

King Edward was Responsible for the Norfolk Jacket.

London, Sept. 28.—(By Mail).—The influence of royalty upon men's fashions has always been very great, and our own kings have made popular many of the fashions of the day.

For instance, King Edward was responsible for the popularity of the Prince of Wales jacket. The vogue of the Prince Albert, or frock overcoat, was also due to royal patronage.

King George has been largely responsible for the revival of the double-breasted waistcoat which has been a feature of the 1922 season. He has on several occasions this summer worn black frock coats with tan uppers, and this has given an impetus to the sale of these goods.

The Prince of Wales is daring and original in his sartorial excursions and alarms.

He gave the braided morning coat an immense popularity and with it flung discretion to the winds and wore light tweed trousers.

It is due to his lead that the waistly guards' overcoat has had such a long lease of life. After he wore a check suit, the Prince of Wales is daring and original in his sartorial excursions and alarms.

WORKS AS A CLERK, YET HEIR TO TITLE

Identify Became Known When Applying For Marriage License.

London, Sept. 27.—(By Mail).—Though for some time he had preferred to be known as plain Mr. Otway Cuffe, the bridegroom at a registry office wedding at Brighton is actually heir to French dukedom of Pleneuf, and marquisate of Grainville.

During the war he was recruiting officer for Pembrokehire and Carmarthenshire, and later was lieutenant in the Welsh Guards.

After demobilisation, Mr. Otway Cuffe obtained a position under the Ministry of Pensions at Leeds, where at first he had difficulty in finding suitable apartments, and for a time he stayed as a policeman's house. Brighton was his next move, and it was while there he met his future wife, Mrs. Lyle De Costa Ricca, widow of J. B. De Costa Ricca, and daughter of the late Martin Schultz, banker of Philadelphia.

Sherard John Otway Cuffe, according to "Debrett's Peerage," was born in 1881, and is a son of Maurice Sherard Oscar Cuffe, who died in 1889. He claims and assumes as fifth duke without Royal license, but under a statutory declaration in 1912, is heir to his grandfather's title, stated to have been created by Louis XVI.

An Old Sign but a New Gasoline

Imperial Premier Gasoline

—Unusually Quick Starting—
—Full of Power and Mileage—
—Costs you Less

The new Imperial Premier Gasoline, now on sale everywhere in the Maritime Provinces, possesses all the qualities which you would try to incorporate in gasoline if you were making it yourself.

QUICK STARTING:
The new Imperial Premier vaporizes easily and completely in any type of motor insuring easy, speedy starting in any weather. In this respect it even excels our Queen Gasoline—a special fuel for lighting plants—which some engine owners have been using although it was never altogether suited for power purposes.

POWERFUL:
The new Imperial Premier Gasoline burns clean to the last drop and furnishes sustained power throughout the full length of the piston stroke, thus enabling your motor to deliver its full rated horse power at all times.

ECONOMICAL:
The new Imperial Premier Gasoline will carry your car or drive your motor boat at the least possible cost per mile. Every gallon of this new gasoline goes farther because there are no wasted "heavy ends" which cannot be utilized by your motor.

COSTS LESS:
The new Imperial Premier Gasoline costs from 3 to 5 cents per gallon less than other gasolines which have commanded higher prices chiefly on the basis of their quick-starting quality though they have lacked many other essentials of a perfect motor fuel.

Qwing to the fact we can now offer you this better motor fuel for less money we will no longer make or sell any other brand of gasoline for power purposes.

MAKE THIS TEST:
If you will have your carburetor adjusted to the new Imperial Premier Gasoline and insist on getting it every time you can run your car on a lean economical mixture with perfect satisfaction and further reduce fuel costs.

Remember—This new gasoline is made in the Maritime Provinces by local workmen. Available wherever you see the Red Ball Sign.

I First Compounded This Newer Form of Iron For My Own Neighbors

Their Praise of This Remarkable Remedy Has Spread So Rapidly That Now Over 4,000,000 People Use It Annually

Years ago I began to wonder at the great number of my own friends and neighbors who were always ailing, complaining and doctoring, without ever seeming to get any better.

Another had pains around heart, palpitations and dizziness, and was sure he was suffering from heart disease. Still others had severe headaches, floating spots before the eyes, tender spots along the spine and a great variety of alarming symptoms.

For years I made a special study of this condition, consulting a great number of physicians and chemists. An immense number of investigations by physicians all over the country showed that three people out of every four you meet lack 100% iron in their blood.

At the particular time in various countries during the war as the collective interview, and often from the war office or foreign office was gathered most private information not for publication.

CITY BUILT SEWER WITHOUT OUTLET

Although Useless, Boring Proprietors were Taxed to Tune of $25,000—Roll Held to be Illegal in Montreal Court.

On the ground that the sewers laid on Monk boulevard and Beaulieu street, in St. Gabriel ward (formerly the town of Estrie), have no outlet in the Superior Court yesterday afternoon gave judgment maintaining the action of the Compagnie des Terrains de la Banlieue de Montreal, and other interested proprietors, and quashed the civic roll which had assessed the plaintiffs for the work.

Plaintiffs based their attack on the legality of the assessment roll on four grounds, the first being that the charge was too high. The work was done in 1915-16 by day labor, and the plaintiffs declared that the cost had been allowed to go beyond what could be properly charged against the adjacent property owners.

Secondly, because the sewers at the present time are of no practical use, inasmuch as there is no discharge basin yet built.

Thirdly, that the city had failed to give the necessary notices of the homologation of the assessment roll.

Fourthly, that, according to a by-law passed by the municipality of Ville Emard, before annexation to the city, these sewers were not to cost the taxpayers more than $125 a foot, which would considerably reduce the cost as now charged.

The city's defence was a general denial of the plaintiffs' allegations.

Mr. Justice de Lorimer, in his judgment, said: "The evidence goes to show that the two sewers in question are blocked at their extremities, and have never been joined to a discharge sewer. Consequently, they cannot serve the purpose for which they are intended. According to the testimony of Mr. McLeod, civil engineer, and a superintendent of sewer construction for the city, the discharge basin for these sewers has not been constructed, and he could not state with any certainty just when it would be completed. It might be at the end of 1923, in five years' time, or even later, according as the civic authorities might decide."

The same witness also testified that it would be useless to connect these two new sewers with the collecting sewer, which is quite logical in the circumstances. It proves that it was unnecessary and of no advantage to construct the Monk boulevard and Beaulieu street sewers before providing a discharge basin into which they might discharge.

"Seeing, therefore, that these two sewers have been or are being constructed, and that they can be of no service to the property they are intended to drain, it is my duty to quash the roll, and to make the proprietors pay the cost of the sewers as being unjust, abusive, oppressive, ultra vires and illegal. Costs were taken against the city."

RECKLESS MOTORIST KILLED War Hero Was Fined for Fast Driving an Hour Before.

Hannington, N. J., Oct. 10.—Carl Wayne Walton, twenty-seven years old, a war veteran and former prohibition commissioner in charge of Gloucester County, N. J., was killed when he drove his car into a telegraph pole on the White Horse Pike near Dervoshing, N. J., one hour after he had been fined $10 and warned for reckless driving.

During the war Walton won the Cross de Guerre and the Distinguished Service Medal.

Newton for the erection of a permanent national memorial to commemorate one of the most heroic episodes in early Canadian history.

MEMORIAL TO MISSIONARIES OF EARLY DAYS

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—The most probable site of the martyrdom of the Jesuit missionaries, Fathers Brebeuf and Lalumiere, by the Iroquois in 1649 at the mission of St. Ignace situated near the present town of Missisquoi, Simcoe County, Ontario, has been donated by Charles E. Newton for the erection of a permanent national memorial to commemorate one of the most heroic episodes in early Canadian history.

London, Sept. 26.—(By Mail)—A novel defence was raised at Epsom when Horace Garrard, was summoned for stealing sweet peas. He quoted authority which stated: "Trees, growing crops, fruit and similar vegetable productions, while still annexed to the land, are not subjects of larceny." It is the common law of theft to take them after they had been severed from the land.

AQUATIC.
Bluenose Will Race.
It was officially announced last evening that the Bluenose, international fishing schooner champion, will defend the title at Gloucester on October 21 and 22 against the United States challenger. This decision was reached at a meeting of members of the Nova Scotia racing committee held last evening.

It was decided that although the Nova Scotia series was not over the Bluenose had amply demonstrated that she is the fastest vessel on all points of the wind and in all kinds of weather. It was felt that it would be unfair to keep the Bluenose in Halifax any longer as light winds might prevail for some time. Out of the four entries in the Nova Scotia series only two are eligible to meet the United States challenger, the Bluenose and the Mahaska.

In the race yesterday the wind was light and as it was impossible for any vessel to finish in the time limit it was called off. At that time the champion was twelve miles from the finishing buoy and was leading the Margaret K. Smith by seven minutes. The latter, however, took the lead in the beginning of the race and never was headed until the second mark, after eighteen miles on the course, was passed. It was then that the prowess of the Bluenose in windward work was demonstrated and she rounded the third mark at 3:08.00 with the Smith trailing at 4:05.16.

BASEBALL.

A little before the appointment was made the catcher wrote friends here that he was to be manager of the club.

CELLAR RAID NETS $1,000,000 IN RUM

Storehouse of International Bootleg Ring, Declares Federal District Attorney Hayward of New York.

New York, Oct. 10.—Ten general federal prohibition agents on the staff of Zone Chief D. Appleby made a raid on the cellars of the Standard Carpet Company, Inc., 319-21 East Forty-fourth street, and seized choice whiskey, gin and champagnes, the value of which was estimated at $1,000,000. Sixty cases of Scotch whiskey is part of the lot of 4,900 cases which disappeared from the Republic Storage Warehouse on West Thirty-fourth street, the agents said. Some of the whiskey stolen from the Anchor Warehouse, Forty-seventh street and Third avenue, also was recovered in the raid.

More important than the value of the liquors seized was the connection of the enterprise with the international bootleg operations of one of the biggest illicit whiskey rings that has sprung up in this country since prohibition went into effect, according to United States District Attorney Hayward, who accompanied the raiders and discovered the trap door leading from a garage into the apparently walled-in cellars that held the liquors. Mr. Hayward declared that this raid was the climax of a long investigation that has been conducted by his office in conjunction with Zone Chief Appleby.

ENGLISH LOTTERIES REVIVE
A Large One is Being Conducted for Needy Soldiers

Lotteries, often under government supervision, are not unknown on the continent of Europe, but are discouraged in many other lands. They have been employed in the past to fortify depleted exchequers and their historical commencement for this benign purpose dates from the Roman Saturnalia; indeed, Nero laid down his violent and profitable amusement in giving a house of slaves as a prize in a public lottery. In respect to a similar "draw" Heliodorus gave a golden vase and a consolation prize of six files, presumably to encourage the winner to practice "swatting."

In England the earliest lottery under governmental auspices was held in 1569, profits being devoted to the repair of harbors, and in 1612 similar embolments were dispatched to America for the use of the Virginia Company. In 1696 an Act of William III prohibited lotteries, but from 1709 to 1824 lotteries under the government were sanctioned by Act of Parliament. From 1709 to 1824 the British government was computed to make yearly profits of $1,700,000 by means of lotteries. They were finally prohibited in 1826. However, ever since lotteries have been conducted with some privacy in the British Isles, and not many years ago a horse was won at a church bazaar that proved to be a good winner over steepchase courses. Compositors employed on London newspapers frequently promoted lotteries for the benefit of widows of deceased companions, the city police omitting to apply the law in such cases.

A newspaper called the Sporting Life offered $50 per week to the reader naming the winners of certain horse races, and anti-gamblers threatened to take proceedings against the offending editor. He consulted Sir Charles Russell (afterwards Lord Chief Justice Russell of Killowen), who said: "Make it a skill competition." And as a "skill competition" readers proceeded to win their $50 a week for several years after that incident.

The Calcutta sweepstakes on the English Derby is still the largest in the world, but is supposed to be only available to members of the Calcutta Turf Club. However, the prize is usually won by somebody outside the radius of the organization. The popular Tattersall's Sweepstakes in Australia was suppressed by the government, whereupon the promoter took a hotel at Hobart on the Island of Tasmania, not far from Melbourne, and continued his sweepstakes by post. Then the government recognized its illegality by taxing the income of successful ticket-holders.

At present a mammoth lottery is being conducted in England, the profits from which will be devoted to the interests of needy military men, and family newspapers, in addition to insuring readers against all kinds of accidents and illnesses, are reviving lotteries. When Frank Lloyd owned the Daily Chronicle and Lloyd's Newspaper he would not permit the publication of racing news or tips on horse races in those papers. When Lord Dalziel bought those properties he specialized on racing and selections on races. Now he goes one better, and offers a prize of $14,000 to the reader who can accurately foretell the results of fourteen football matches.

On account of the fact that the mayor was speaking at a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association, the weekly meeting of the common council scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed until tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock. S. Fenwick, where the groom is employed. Among those present at the wedding were Mrs. Quigley, Miss Florence Quigley and Martin Bowers of St. John, mother, sister and uncle of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Quigley will reside in the city.

Commissioners All Reject Arbitration Proposal Of The Power Company

(Continued from page 1.) Commissioner Bullock thought that a decision should be made now in the duty of the city to discuss the offer. The council had made no offer to the company, but had received a previous offer which the council did not consider fitting to accept. He thought there was no proposal for a court of arbitration, which would practically mean a rehearsal of the Currier commission which sat for nearly a year, the product of which was the citizens of St. John paying a large amount of money.

"It cost over $30,000" said the mayor. "The crop of the City of St. John was the 1920 New Brunswick Power Co. Act and the privilege of paying some $30,000" said Dr. Frink. Later the government, he said, fixed a rate base of $3,100,000 on which the company shall earn eight per cent, and if the city took the company's property over an additional ten per cent. was to be added to the amount of capital expended and interest on bonds in that amount.

He saw no reason why the arbitration should go on. He said the $2,200,000 was to be the cost of the Musquodoboit development in which the government must have a share of $1,000,000 a year. If the arbitration was carried over a year this amount would have to become a levy on the people of the province. He thought it would not take so long to dissect any offer which the power company might make to the city. He thought those who invested their money in the New Brunswick Power Company should have an opportunity to withdraw, however. He said that the city should pay per par stock or bonds of the company could not expect, if he had anything to do with it, to receive 100 cents on the dollar.

He moved that the offer of the company be received and acknowledged and the company be advised that the city did not intend to be a party to arbitration proceedings, and if it was necessary to acquire the whole or any part of the power company plant, the city would be willing to enter into direct negotiation with the company. Commissioner Wigmore thought the matter should await the arrival of the city's expert. He said there was a strong feeling in St. John against arbitration and he felt that the proper place for the company to negotiate was with the common council. "If the power company has anything to offer," he said, "they should present it to the council and let them arbitrate. He seconded the resolution.

Commissioner Thornton said he was never strongly in favor of taking over the power company but if the company was willing to sell the plant at a name price, there should be no difficulty in arriving at a decision. He thought the city should call for tenders for a distribution system in order to arrive at an estimate. He favored the resolution. The mayor said he would not recede from his position, that of having agreed to construct a distribution line. Having brought the proposal to arbitration he thought this was the proper way and would vote against the motion. The motion passed, the mayor being the only member voting "Nay."

The City's Expert. The mayor gave the following details regarding the experience of the members of the firm of experts engaged—Daniel W. Mead, he said, was professor of hydraulics and sanitary engineering at Wisconsin University; received his B. Sc. degree from Cornell; in 1915 reported on the flood of the Wy river in China; was responsible for the designing and handling the construction of many water power projects in the United States and was the author of several books, including Water Power Engineering, Hydrology, Hydraulic Machinery, etc. He said that the second work was the standard work on hydraulics in the United States. Mr. Scheidhelm received his degree from Cornell in 1906 and since that time had been employed in many large works in the United States, specializing in hydraulic engineering. From 1917 to 1919 he was in the United States Army as captain, major, and lieutenant-colonel and was now colonel on the reserve list. He was in charge of the water supply on the 1st Army front and commanded the 29th Engineers and attached troops. The mayor said that Mr. Scheidhelm would be in the city on Friday, in connection with his charges, the mayor said that it was not usual to ask a doctor or other professional man in advance what his fee would be, but he was sure that it would be satisfactory to the people.

VISITING OFFICIAL. Louis Lavoie, general purchasing agent for the department of railways and canals, was in the city last evening on his way to his home in Toronto. He was the guest of his brother, P. A. Lavoie, of the customs staff here and Mrs. Lavoie.

MISS SUSAN M. WHELPLEY. The death of Miss Susan M. Whelpley occurred last night in the General Public Hospital, following an illness of about two weeks. She was born at Carter's Point seventy-three years ago, but had been living lately with her sister, Mrs. T. M. Carpenter, Wickham, Queens county. She has no other surviving relatives. The funeral will be held at Carter's Point tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. Many friends in Queens county will regret to learn of her death.

WALTER E. YENNING. Word has come from the west of the death of Walter E. Yenning on September 16, after a lingering illness. He was a native of St. John and spent his early years here. He was a son of the late Albert J. Yenning, a prominent merchant of this city some forty years ago. He was a South African war veteran, but recently was a settler in northern Alberta, where he leaves his wife and four children. Two brothers also survive him—Albert, in the west, and Harry at Margerville, and three sisters, Mrs. Woodville Barker, Mrs. Ella Gilbert and Mrs. R. W. Gilbert, all of Sherbrooke.

HIRAM T. RILEY. Hiram T. Riley, a respected citizen of the West Side, passed away this morning at 219 Charlotte street, the home of his daughter, Mrs. Haslam, at the advanced age of eighty-six years and nine months. He leaves two sons, Lewis of Vernon, B. C., and Edwin C. of Fairville; and three daughters, Mrs. Susan B. Darcy of Smith's Cove, N. B., Mrs. William Haslam and Mrs. Walter Egnall of West St. John. Mr. Riley was a native of Woodstock and was the youngest of eleven children. His wife, who died about twenty years ago, was formerly Miss Jean Evans of West St. John. Many friends in the West Side will mourn the loss of such a widely liked neighbor.

SAW THE BALL GAMES. Eric Thomson and Roley Selmer returned home today from New York where they witnessed the world's series between the Giants and the Yankees. They said that while the Yankees put up a great fight in the early stages of the series, they fell down in the last two games and it was apparent that perfect harmony did not prevail among the players. With regard to the Giants, they said, they were a great team, perfectly balanced and great fighters. They considered their pitching staff as good as, if not better than, the much touted Yankees string.

SHIP CASES IN POLICE COURT. St. Clair Clarke was charged in the police court this morning with being a stowaway on the steamer Berlin. He pleaded guilty. Roy A. Davidson, appearing for Captain Vinding, said that the latter was willing to take the man back and sign him on as a member of the crew and take him back to Cuba. This the magistrate consented to. Page Johnson pleaded not guilty to refusing duty on the same ship. The captain said the accused had signed on with the ship in New York and they had gone to Cuba. The accused was a fireman. While the ship was in Cuban waters, he said, the accused had come on board late one night and there had been trouble. In the mix-up the man had hurt his knee. After two days the captain suggested that the accused fireman be engaged in some lighter duty but the man, he said, flatly refused to work at all, and had done no work for the last nine days. The accused said he had come aboard the ship late at night and that the first mate had tried to hit him with a bar of iron and he had defended himself. His knee had been hurt and he had been unable to work. Mr. Davidson said the captain was unwilling to take the man back on the ship. He wanted to pay the man off here and have the immigration authorities deport him. The accused was remanded for the weekend.
