A Dainty Matinee

Here is a delightful acquisition to any wardrobe. It can be made up daintily in the floral printed cotton crepe or crinkled materials that cost from 15 to 25 cents a yard. The matinee is a two-piece affair, draped at the sides and outlined with ruffles of lace, net or hemstitched bodice. To make it requires 3 yards of 46-inch or 44 yards of 36-inch material, with 11 yards of 3-inch lace for the trimming. The pattern will have to be cut from an open width of the material. It is exceedingly simple to make. First close under-arm seams; then place notches on the sleeves and shoulder seams together and close. Stitch up the seam at the center of the back. If a crinkly material is used it would be better to bind the edges than to make a French seam. Flat at seams, bringing "T" to corresponding small "o" perforation and tack. Trim with a straight gathered ruffle. If desired the ruffle may be put on with a facing of silk.

With cap and slippers to match, this makes a handsome bodice outfit. It is an easy matter to make both cap and slippers, for the former is no more than a circle of silk or chiffon gathered into a band and trimmed with ruffles that turn upward on either side. If there is a lining, and this will be necessary if the material used for the cap is very sheer, it should be gathered first and the chiffon gathered over it. The edges of the gathered piece is then sewed to the band, after the pointed pieces have been added to the latter. Just one last may be used instead of two, and it gives quite a coquettish air to the cap.

For the slippers turn under the upper part of the ribbon and stitch lower edge in position. Close the back seam, then roll upper part over on outside and tack at the center-front and back. Trim with bows. The bows match the lining of the points on the cap.

Matinee made of pink and white dress printed crepe trimmed with ruffles of lace, net or hemstitched bodice.

Summer Fruits Are Ripe; Now's The Time To "Put Up Preserves"

(By Caroline Coe)

Home-made jelly is one of the most palatable articles of food made by the housewife.

From all points of view the home-made product is superior to the jellies bought in the store. It is usually made under sanitary conditions and better fruit is used, thus making the use of preservatives unnecessary.

Home-made jelly is very much less expensive.

Current jelly can be made for 7 cents a glass. This is about half the price paid for the commercial product. Six quarts of currants will make six pints of juice. Six pints of sugar (equals six pounds) cost $1.15; number of glasses secured, seventeen.

Most jellies are made by combining the clear juice of fruits with an equal amount of sugar. Some fruits require a little more sugar. Over-ripe fruit will not make jelly. Better use fruit a little too green than too ripe. The sweet fruits, also fruit over-ripe, lack pectose—the substance that causes fruit juice to jelly. For this reason we combine strawberries, raspberries and cherries with currants. Cherries with green gooseberries, sour apples with peaches or peaches with damson plums.

All fruit should be washed and well drained, then looked over to remove any spots or bad fruit. Currants need not be stemmed, but must be carefully washed, as they are often coated with a preparation for destroying the bugs on the bushes and this is poisonous. Large fruit should be washed and cut in small pieces. Apples quartered, crabapples, quinces and peaches cut in half, and put into preserving kettle with just enough water to cover them. Cover the kettle and boil slowly until fruit is soft. Put fruit and juice into double cheese cloth bag, set in warm place and allow to drain, if possible, over night. Do not press the bag if you desire clear, bright, brilliant colored jelly.

Heat in oven the same number of pints of sugar as you have juice. When juice has been boiling fifteen minutes, stir sugar in slowly. Boil five minutes. Skim carefully and put into glasses.

Crabapple Jelly

Wash and cut in half. Do not peel or core them. Put in preserving kettle with water not quite to top of apple. Boil until very soft. Put all into cheese cloth bag—drain. Add an equal amount of sugar as juice used. Boil twenty minutes from time it begins to boil. Skim and put in glasses.

Current Jelly

Wash currants, remove all leaves, put in kettle with only enough water to half cover the fruit. Cover and cook slowly until fruit is reduced to pulp. Strain carefully. Use for each pint of fruit juice one pint of sugar. Put juice in preserving kettle. Allow to boil fifteen minutes.

Blackberry Jelly

Use berries a little under-ripe or combine perfectly ripe berries with one-third gooseberries. Put in preserving kettle and mash. Do not add any sugar. Set preserving kettle in dish pan of hot water and boil until berries are cooked to pulp. Drain well to each pint of juice use one pint of hot sugar. Boil juice fifteen minutes. Add hot sugar slowly. Stir, when it begins to boil again boil five minutes. Skim and put in glasses while hot.

Raspberry and Currant Jelly

To one quart of currants (not too ripe), add two quarts of red raspberries. Mash, put in kettle, set in pan of hot water, same as blackberry jelly. Strain, using equal amount of juice and sugar. Boil juice fifteen minutes, add sugar, boil five minutes, put in glasses and seal.

Small Fruits

All the small fruits are made into jelly exactly the same way. If one will use the "double boiler" system, it is necessary. This does not get quite as much juice, but the plan is safer and the jelly firmer.

Mrs. "Joe" Chamberlain Not To Wear Mourning

HER HUSBAND'S WISH

Lord Howard deWalden's Wife Takes Charge of His Charity Account—Does Not Like To See Him Fleeced by Every Smooth-Tongued Beggar

(Times Special Correspondence)

London, July 11—Long before Mr. Chamberlain died he and his wife used to discuss her future, a subject which he would introduce again and again much to the discomfort of Mrs. Chamberlain. Among other things he asked her not to wear the orthodox widow's bonnet, which he had a curious objection. Her dearest friends have criticised her severely for not arraying herself in heavy trappings of woe, little knowing that in so doing she is merely carrying out her husband's request.

From what I know of Mrs. Chamberlain, I believe it will be futile for the king to offer her a title, as is said to be his intention. She is proud of being Mrs. "Joe" than if they made her a duchess and often has said so. Considering the life of incessant toil it is amazing how young she looks. Somebody who seen her at the funeral said she did not seem a day over thirty though her hair is beginning to turn grey.

Mr. Chamberlain has left her in very easy circumstances, as he has given her everything he possibly could give away

CAROLINE COE'S TESTED RECIPES

Steamed Boston Brown Bread

Mix thoroughly one cup of Graham flour, wheat flour, and corn meal and stir in one even teaspoon of salt. Pour over the mixed flour a cup of boiling water. Heat one cup of milk, add one cup of molasses just slightly warm. Add to this one even teaspoon of soda. Pour this onto flour and water. Beat hard and long. Turn into well-greased mold, with perfectly fitting top. Set mold in kettle of boiling water. Cover kettle.

Fried Bread as a Vegetable.

Cut stale bread into even-sized pieces (long narrow shapes), dip in milk, then allow to drain. Dip each piece in beaten egg, dredge with flour seasoned with cayenne and salt. Have sauce pan with butter hot, but not brown, put each piece in turn quickly, so as to have each side golden brown, place on platter. When all is fried, put one tablespoon of butter in skillet. Add one tablespoon of flour. Stir until there are no lumps, add one cup of cold milk and stir five minutes. Sprinkle bread with minced parsley and a little grated cheese, turn hot gravy over and serve at once.

PRIZE FOOD.

Palatable, Economical, Nourishing.

A Western woman has outlined the prize food in a few words, and that from personal experience. She writes, "After our long experience with Grape-Nuts, I cannot say enough in its favor. We have used this food almost continually for seven years.

"We sometimes tried other advertised breakfast foods but we invariably returned to Grape-Nuts as the most palatable, economical and nourishing of all. "When I quit tea and coffee and began to use Postum and Grape-Nuts, I was almost a nervous wreck. I was so irritable I could not sleep nights, had no interest in life.

"After using Grape-Nuts a short time I began to improve and all these ailments have disappeared and now I am a well woman. My two children have been almost raised on Grape-Nuts, and never had the least symptoms of sto trouble, even through the most severe of whooping cough they caught Grape-Nuts when all else failed. "Grape-Nuts food has saved a child, and has been, therefore, a economical food for us."

JUNE RECORD GRIM ONE

Ottawa, July 23—The number of people in Canada affected by industrial accidents during June was 598. Of this number 294 were killed, and 294 seriously injured. Owing to the Hillcrest disaster the mining industry heads the list in Canada, with 200 killed and 27 injured.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

Cayenne pepper is excellent to rid cupboards of mice. The floor should be gone over carefully, and each hole stopped up with a piece of rag dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper.

If screws, gas fittings, the sides of bedsteads, or anything else of the kind become tightly fixed and cannot be moved, the following method will generally be found to loosen them. Pour a little oil on the tight parts, and then hold a lighted candle underneath until it is warm. You will then find that it is easy to separate or unscrew the fixed parts.

W. A. SIMMONS AND MEMBERS OF FAMILY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

W. A. Simmons, his sixteen-year-old daughter and his two-year-old son had a narrow escape from a most horrible death early last evening when his automobile jumped over a twenty foot embankment on the Red Head Road about half a mile past Lee's Brick Yard and struck on a pile of rocks. The two children fortunately managed to jump from the car as it turned from the road and rushed to the edge of the cliff, but Mr. Simmons was carried down with it.

The car turned turtle and pinned him beneath it. All three are injured badly but fortunately nothing of a critical nature has been found in their injuries.

M. E. Grass and William McAfee who happened to be near at hand went to the assistance of Mr. Simmons and succeeded in removing the car. Dr. G. G. Corbet was summoned and found that while Mr. Simmons and the two children were painfully hurt they were not seriously injured. The injured ones were conveyed to their home in W. B. Tennant's car.

A CARLOAD OF FOXES

Robert Starratt, a former resident of Moncton, who went west about five years ago, recently returned with a carload of western foxes. When he started out from the west, Mr. Starratt had forty-seven foxes, but four died on the way and he brought but forty-three to Moncton. Four pairs of these are blacks and the remainder are crosses of various kinds.

Fewer Homestead Entries

Ottawa, July 23—Homestead entries in Western Canada for the first five months of this year show a decrease of 1,107, as compared with last year. For May the total of new homesteads was 2,488, as compared with 3,479 in May of last year. One of the homesteaders in Alberta was a Chinaman, while in Saskatchewan a dusky African took 180 acres of free land.

THE SLUM PROBLEM

(By Hon. Clifford Sifton)

"One hundred years ago Macaulay said that the time would come when one-half of the population of the United States, after getting their breakfast in the morning, would not know where the next meal was coming from. That is a condition which will come if matters are left to themselves to proceed as they have proceeded at other times and in other ages, and in other countries. History will repeat itself unless something is done to prevent it, and I put it to you that the problem that is up to the intellect of the twentieth century is whether we have brains and capacity enough to free ourselves from the prejudices and the shibboleths with which our minds are encumbered and grapple with these present problems so that society shall control its own destinies, and avoid the evils which have dogged the footsteps of progress in the past."

"You, perhaps are not called on to deal directly with the question of economic policy, but you must necessarily study the economic condition under which your work is to be done. You can give us the framework into which the ideal conditions, when discovered, are to be fitted. As to the answer to the question which I have propounded, there is in my own mind no doubt that it is impossible to give any single answer to the question. No one theory explains the fact. It is a composite problem; it requires a composite answer. So far as the social questions involved are concerned, beyond a doubt that until lately the growth of slums and the halving, which have resulted by reason of population living in insanitary conditions, has been in due to the lack of transportation facilities which would enable the residential area to be extended. Other obvious reasons are the lack of systematic oversight and foresight, crowding, and the rapid growth of population for which no adequate provision has been made. We have now arrived at the period at which if any large or growing city has not a proper system of transportation, it has only itself to

RECENT DEATHS

Captain C. D. Pickles, of Annapolis, is dead, at the age of eighty-seven years. For many years Captain Pickles commanded vessels sailing to foreign ports, retiring from the sea about forty years ago. For many years he carried on a business with the firm of W. J. Pickles & Co., from which he withdrew some years ago. He is survived by a widow and two sons, John, on the Pacific coast; and Frank, of the firm of F. W. Pickles & Co., shippers and lumber dealers; also three daughters, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Phillips, of Truro, and Miss Wessie at home.

Yesterday, at her late home, Heather View, Sussex, Mrs. G. Robinson, widow of John Robinson, passed away. Mrs. Robinson, who was in the eighty-sixth year of her age, was highly esteemed by many friends in Sussex and elsewhere, who will be sorry to hear of her death. One daughter and five sons survive—Miss Elizabeth, at home; John, of Denbysville, Maine; Alexander, of Victoria,

What Happened
A little town boasts a church whose pastor, besides being an eloquent preacher, is a man of stalwart proportions. A revival was started, and at one of the evening meetings the services were disturbed by two young men who audibly scoffed at everything they saw or heard. Finally the pastor reprimanded them impudently replied one of the rascals, leaving the pulpit and walking quietly down the aisle the minister seized one after the other by the collar, and as they disappeared out of the door remarked, "We don't perform miracles here, but we do cast out devils."

The British South Africa Company announces that the total gold production for 1913 was £2,008,267, compared with £2,647,894 in 1912. The figures for the four months of the current year show a remarkable upward tendency.

The Gurney-Oxford is a Remarkable Stove

BURNING a stove is not something to be decided off-hand.

Cheapness is not the consideration. Quality is.

If a stove is extravagant in fuel it should not have a place in your home.

The Gurney-Oxford is a truly remarkable stove.

The Economizer, fitted to the stovepipe, gives you complete control of the fire always. One turn of the handle dampens the fire down to a spark that consumes practically no coal at night and between meals.

The fire is supported on grates that present a large surface to the air. This means perfect combustion and economy.

The heat from the fire box goes through a series of divided flues, over and around the oven, and not up the chimney.

Will you come in and allow us to show you the many good points of the Gurney-Oxford Stove?

BIG MAN IN FRENCH POLITICAL LIFE

Jean Jaures Leading Spirit in Socialist Movement

AT HEAD OF 100 DEPUTIES

Jaures Said to Be Unrivaled as Orator and is Prolific Newspaper Writer and Statesman of First Rank

(Times Special Correspondence.)
Paris, July 13.—The defeat of the Ribot ministry of the extreme Left, the triumph of the Socialist and Radical-Socialist section of the Chamber of Deputies over President Poincare, who, despite their unprecedented success at the recent elections tried to rob them of the fruits of their victory, the composition of the Viviani cabinet all prove to the man in the street in France, Jean Jaures and his hundred deputies possess a balance of power more powerful, even than the sixty followers of John Redmond.

Jean Jaures is a name to conjure with in France. Statesman, newspaper man, thinker, debater and orator; in many ways one of the greatest if not the greatest personality in France. Unmatched as a debater and an orator, whether in the chamber, on the platform or atop a box addressing a mob, for twenty years he has dominated the French socialist movement. Since the death of August Bebel he is by long odds the biggest figure in the movement in the whole world.

Jaures does not belong to that section of the socialist party which believes its business is to refuse office under every circumstance. The French socialists, like the German and the English are divided into two camps on this question. But Jaures believes in a very active give and take between his party and the Radical-Socialists or similar parties with distinct leanings towards the Left. In fact, on this question, Jaures fought one of his greatest battles with Jules Guesde, a leader of the revolutionary section of his party, and won.

Jaures is the hardest worker in French parliamentary circles. If you wish to do business with him you must be out of bed early and make your way with haste to a little red brick house in the Avenue des Chateaux. There, in a room on the second floor with rows upon rows of books looking down upon you and the available chairs, Jaures greets you, the principal feature of his paper, "L'Humanite," some days running to almost 8,000 words, prepares the speeches of the Chamber of Deputies with his political campaigns.

An early crisis in the career of Jaures came with the Dreyfus affair. It was a test not only of the man but of his views and from the fire both emerged triumphant. Many of Jaures' socialist followers were in favor of holding aloof from the affair which shook France to its very base. But this obvious shirking of the dictates of one's conscience did not appeal to Jaures. His brand of socialism he said, touched life at every point and any work that would hasten the triumph of right and truth was his to do. He plunged with characteristic

A SHOCKING REVELATION

The streets of the city patrolled by militia under arms is a new and unwelcome experience for this generation of St. John people. It has, however, become a necessity for the time being, and the action taken by the authorities is heartily endorsed by every reputable and law-abiding citizen. The sternest measures must be taken, no matter at what cost, to wipe out as far as may be done the disgrace of last night, and prevent its repetition. Otherwise we would specially come to a time when no man's life or property would be safe from the inflated passions of the worst element in the city's life.

The veneer of civilization fell away from a portion of the citizenship of St. John last night, and it stood revealed in primitive savagery, in which regard for law and order and the rights of property and even of life itself gave way to the mere lust of riot and destruction.

While the other portion of the citizenship stood aghast at this revelation it was also amazed and started to discover its own utter lack of leadership and protection from the unbridled passions of a mob. The excesses of the rioters in Market Square last night might have gone to any extent the mere whim of a reckless leader might have suggested, so far as any action on the part of the authorities to disperse the crowd or protect property was concerned. It was extremely fortunate that murder was not done, and that the spirit of evil busied itself chiefly in one direction. Every window in Market Square might have been broken and stores looted without a single arrest being made. All that was lacking was the inclination, for there was neither adequate police nor military protection.

It is useless now to argue that the authorities should have known from the size and apparent temper of a portion of the crowd at the head of King street the night before that worse would happen last night, and nothing can be gained by dwelling upon the utter unpreparedness and inability of those in authority to cope with last night's situation. The only thing to do now is to prevent a recurrence. The city this morning has time for reflection. There must be no more parades, no more assembling in crowds upon the streets, no more destruction of property. It is the duty of every right thinking citizen to prove by influence and example that last night's lapse from sanity was but a nightmare not to be repeated. People who had grown up to believe the best about St. John and the character of its citizenship were scarce able as they stood in Market Square last evening to recognize their own city.

The lesson is salutary and it should be sufficient. The police force must be strengthened and brought to a state of efficiency such that it will command the respect of the lawless element. Such precautions must be taken as that whenever there is the least intimation of such trouble as occurred last night it will be possible immediately to mobilize a force sufficient to cope with the situation, so that no portion of the city may be left for hours at the very centre of the business section was left last night without protection from riot and destruction.

The present duty, however, is to put down with prompt severity the slightest effort toward a repetition of last night's events. More than the reputation of the city is at stake. Once let the lawless element get the impression that it may do whatever it chooses to do under guise of an expression of sympathy for some persons or some cause and we shall have arrived at a state of anarchy, where every man would be compelled to take measures for his own protection and the safety of his own property.

The calling out of the militia should never be necessary in a well-ordered city, but we have had the saddening and convincing evidence that St. John today is very far from being a well-ordered city. If self-knowledge is a first requisite to self-control, last night's revelation should be of the greatest value, and the first step toward the desired self-control is the guarantee that there shall be no more outbreaks of mob violence, and that if such through any cause should occur it would not be the police who would be compelled to withdraw from the scene or stand as helpless spectators of the lawless acts of hooligans.

The striking street car men would have rendered a great service to their fellow citizens last evening if they had exerted their influence to prevent the outbreak of hooliganism by persons who were in no way connected with the strike. They may still render such a service. Over a hundred earnest men could do a great deal, and the streets of St. John tonight and every night should be made absolutely safe for every citizen, whether he or she walks, takes a carriage or automobile, or rides in a street car. The public must be protected.

ARBITRATION TREATIES

The policy of Secretary Bryan to secure arbitration treaties and thus minimize the danger of war was made the subject of ridicule by a portion of the Republican press when that policy was first announced; but he has carried it to a point where ridicule is no longer possible. He began in a small way with small countries and concluded treaties of arbitration with Denmark, The Netherlands, Nicaragua, Salvador, Guatemala, Panama, Bolivia and Honduras. Then he entered upon a larger field, and the Bangor Commercial says—

Secretary Bryan is now placing before the committee on Foreign Affairs of the United States senate the plans of treaties with France and Great Britain, which he hopes will be speedily ratified. The French treaty is practically identical with the others signed and provides for a year of deliberation after diplomatic relations may be severed between the two nations because of some quarrel. This is called the "cooling off" period and it is believed that after such a time few nations would, in cold blood, proceed to war. In the meantime an international tribunal would have had a try at settling difficulties, this board to consist of five members, one each from the parties interested, two to be chosen by the interested countries from some third country, and the fifth member to be chosen by the board. In case of lack of settlement by this board the Hague tribunal is asked to adjudicate. In the case of the proposed English treaty there is an extra provision for representation upon the commission from self-governing dominions in cases in which they are concerned and there is also provision to prevent any new treaties from eliminating any boards that are now authorized to settle any controversies.

"Thus far Secretary Bryan has been very successful with his peace by compromise treaties. He began with the smaller countries where there would be less of difficulty presented and has now worked along to the more important nations. The treaties have not been regarded as interfering with the strictly-guarded rights of the senate in respect to treaty making nor have they aroused the old argument upon calling upon arbitration in questions involving the national honor. The treaties in operation may not work out to eliminate war but they should certainly have a strong tendency in that direction, particularly the provision for a year of mediation."

The Market Square playground was not well supervised last evening.

The announcement that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will speak in St. John will give pleasure to many more than his active political supporters. He is a great Canadian, honored and respected by all.

The French papers in Montreal announce that the Hon. Mr. Nantel will represent the Borden government at the Eucharistic Congress in Terrebonne county, Quebec, tomorrow and Sunday.

The Chatham World says that extortion is the proper word to use in connection with the fund collected from the lumbermen. The World adds that Mr. Fleming "stands condemned by public opinion" and "should get down and out at once."

Valley Railway finance is almost too much for the Royal Commission and the lawyers engaged. The inquiry, however, has revealed some very interesting facts, which will not be overlooked by the taxpayers whose money has gone and is going into this railway.

At a convention of alienists and neurologists in Chicago last week resolutions demanding nation-wide prohibition were adopted and these eminent authorities on the effect of alcohol upon the human system endorsed the following resolution: "It has been established that alcohol is a poison directly affecting the brain and other tissues and that its effects are responsible for a large part of the various forms of insanity and degeneracy."

"We are letting the public in every locality use drill halls for every legitimate purpose, such as charitable entertainments, philanthropic gatherings, agricultural societies," etc. said Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes in a recent letter to Mr. E. N. Rhodes, M. P. No doubt the St. John armory will be placed at the disposal of the citizens whenever there is a big event of interest to all the people, and it will in that way serve a most useful purpose.

Where Shall I Invest My Money?

This is a question that often bothers us when we have any surplus money. Some people are born rich and do not have to provide for independence, others are looking for investments that will bring them in good dividends. The Silver Black Fox Industry in P. E. Island has made thousands of investors wealthy. In 1913 alone, 30 companies paid to their shareholders an average cash dividend of 105 p. c. Is there any other industry that would do this? 1914 dividends will be even greater than before. Now is the time to invest. Send in your application today to the

Foxes Capitalized at $17,000 PER PAIR

This capitalization included all expenses for the first year up to September 1, 1914. In other words, the breeding stock will be ranched, cared for, fed and all expenses paid for the first year without any cost whatever to the shareholders. Instead of paying the 10 per cent to 18 1/2 per cent. increase charge paid to most ranches this money will go directly into the pocket of the investor.

Your Investment is Protected

Each director is placing practically all his fox investments in this enterprise and the directors have their interests so involved in this ranch that they cannot afford to let their interest and watchful care lapse for a moment. The best breeding stock has been secured and one of the strongest, safest and most convenient ranches yet established is being erected and equipped.

The History of The Industry

If you inquire, you will find that the majority of rich men in P. E. Island have made their money in the Fox Industry, which, while yet in its infancy, shows the probability of making a great many more rich men. This being the case, you should not let this opportunity of increasing the earning powers of your money pass without giving it your careful consideration.

Directors ARE Reliable Men

This is a most important feature when you consider that these are the men that you must look to for a square deal. SENSATION IN PARIS TRIAL

Paris, July 23—Mme. Berthe Gueydan, Joseph Caillaux's first wife, a slender woman with wasted cheeks and black eyes, came today into court and faced her former husband, the ex-premier of France, and put as though upon a rack the woman who had won him from her—Mme. Henriette Caillaux, now on trial for the killing of a man.

In that time she laid bare many of the secrets of her life with M. Caillaux. She told of his liaison, and of his throwing himself at her knees and asking her pardon. She testified that he even threatened her life. Then she left him and hoped that he would follow her, but he did not, and she added with a flash of her eyes, and a lightning of her lips: "You know why?"

M. Caillaux, turning to the bar, said: "M. Labori was right in thinking Mme. Gueydan for the letters. The calumny does not come from us, but from persons who used methods against us never used against others. I return to that poor woman there, pointing with a dramatic gesture to the dock.

STEVENSON'S MAP OF TREASURE ISLAND IN LONDON TO BE SOLD

A Stinging Letter in Reply to Critic Who Incorrectly Spelled His Name

London, July 24—A map of "Treasure Island," which Robert Louis Stevenson drew, is one of forty-eight unpublished letters and literary fragments of his which Lloyd Osbourne, Stevenson's stepson, has brought to London for sale.

The map was drawn by Stevenson during Osbourne's school days. It was the original having been lost on its way to the publishers. Of the first Stevenson wrote: "The shape of it took my fancy beyond expression; it contained harbors that pleased me like sonnets; and with the unconsciousness of the predestined, I tickled my performance 'Treasure Island.'" Of the one now on sale, the author said, "But somehow it was never the same 'Treasure Island' to me."

An interesting letter in the collection is Stevenson's reply to an autograph hunter who had spelled his name with a "ph" instead of a "v."

"The few lines with which you have found time to honor me," he replied, "contain certain indications of your character on which I take pleasure in dwelling. They show you so illiterate that I cannot judge your attention flatterer; they show you so careless of giving trouble to me that I am myself careless how much offense I may convey to you; and they are so ill-penned that I am tempted to hope you will discover a difficulty in perusing my answer and place it unread in your collection. The next time it shall occur to you to trouble an author as you have troubled me, find out—I do not say what he has written—far less would I suggest that you should read it—but find out how he is in the habit of spelling his unpretentious name and give him upon that point the flatter of imitation.

In Stevenson's collection of books, Rogge's Thesaurus is interesting because of Stevenson's comment on the fly leaf—or, "The Decayed Author's Crucifix."

MAKE IT HARD FOR A CRIMINAL TO ESCAPE

Proposed Working Agreement By County, City and Railroad Police

Lincoln, Neb., July 23—A union of three criminal catching agencies was evolved yesterday at a meeting of the International Order of Sheriffs. It proposes a working understanding of co-operation among the sheriffs of the United States and Canada, the International Association of Railroad Special Agents and the International Police Chiefs' Association.

"With the sheriff watching the county, the police chief the city and the special agent of the railroad under this system of co-operation it ought to be almost impossible for a criminal to get away," said J. W. Connolly, president of the Special Agents' organization, who presented the plan. The federation would have a central office, and, bureau of identification.

NEARLY 200,000 PEOPLE AT LOURDES FOR THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Lourdes, France, July 23—With Catholic prelates from all parts of the world gathered here, the International Eucharistic Congress, the silver jubilee of these annual gatherings was opened yesterday. Cardinal Farley, of New York, was one of ten cardinals present. There are 200 bishops and archbishops among the delegates and nearly 200,000 other persons. For four days the quaint little French town, famous the world over for its shrine, will be crowded.

Services will be held in ten languages in every church, chapel, and hall in Lourdes. A choir of 200 priests will intone the chants, and another great choir of 1,000 voices will make the music an important feature of the congress.

More than 10,000 representatives of various countries presented their credentials, and each delegation was therefore compelled to select from its members those who were to take part in the deliberations of the congress.

UNITED MINE WORKERS' CASE TO HELP STRIKING MINERS

Victoria, B. C., July 23—The United Mine Workers of America have ceased to pay relief money to the miners who went out on strike in the Vancouver Island collieries more than a year ago. Since the inception of the trouble more than $16,000 a week has been paid to the strikers by the American organization. Some 2,000 miners and their families are involved, and the stoppage of the relief fund will cause considerable misery.

The British Federation of Miners has been appealed to for help. The colliery owners are employing full forces at all the mines, and do not acknowledge that a strike exists.

Church and State

Ottawa, July 23—The significant announcement is made in despatches sent from Ottawa to Montreal French papers that Hon. Bruno Nantel, Minister of Indian Revenue, "will represent the government" at the regional eucharistic congress to be held at St. Anne Des Plaines in Terrebonne county, Quebec, on Saturday and Sunday next.

BARTLETT TO RELIEVE OF MAROONED MEN.

Has To Face Ice Conditions The Worst Ever Known

Noua, Alaska, July 23—The revenue cutter Bear, with Captain Robert Bartlett will sail today for the Arctic to take off the eighteen white men and four Eskimos marooned on Wrangel Island, where they sought refuge after the Karluk was crushed in the ice last winter.

The Bear will carry provisions enough to last nine months. The power schooner P. J. Abler, which arrived from the Arctic yesterday reported ice conditions along both the American and Siberian shores the worst ever known.

The Potter's Field in New York Living among our own friends we imagine a great city, an intensely lonely place, not only for a stranger but especially for the poor. It is an undesirable place in which to live, unless one has friends and an occupation. Above all, we hope to be preserved from dying there. And yet, says the Lutheran, it is in New York city that the Potter's Field, in which 180,000 men and women who are unknown and friendless sleep. That "r's Field is no longer bare and under the direction of a land ardent, through the work of the soners, it has been transformed ast, beautiful flower garden. In sleeping place of the unknown ere is one monument. But on this inscription: "He Galleia, p by Name."

New York City is the leading market for common brick in the United States, and the principal source of supply in the Hudson River region, extending from New York to Cohoes on both sides of the river. The average price for bricks in 1913 was $3.50 a 1000.

"EXTORTION PROPER WORD FOR COLLECTION," SAYS J. L. STEWART, IN WORLD

J. L. Stewart, M. P. F., says editorially in the Chatham World of July 22, 1914, under the caption "Mr. Flemming and the scandal": "The Crown Land scandal inquiry shows that the scheme to strike the big leaseholders for $15 a square mile was originated by or assented to by Mr. Flemming, that he permitted or directed Mr. Berry to ask for the money, and that it was paid to the man he designated as treasurer of the fund. This is the mildest version his best friend can give of the evidence it relates to him. His only defence his friends can make, is that the money was collected for party purposes and not for his personal use. "Those who deny that he has done anything wrong have a big contract on hand. The collection was not the familiar passing of the hat on the eve of an election. It was made at a time when those who were asked for it had reason to regard it as one of the terms on which the leases were reserved. What else would have induced political opponents of Mr. Flemming to contribute? Surely the Liberals among the leaseholders—men like Burdell and Snowball for instance—were not willing contributors to a Conservative campaign fund.

"THE WORD EXTORTION, CONSIDERING THE EVIDENCE OF MR. FLEMMING MUST GO TO THE COLLECTION. THREATS MAY NOT HAVE BEEN USED, BUT THREATS OR PROMISES TO RECOUP THE DONORS WERE LOGICALLY SUGGESTED BY THE SITUATION. THE VICTIMS OF THE BERRY RAID, AS THEY APOLOGICALLY SWORE, THOUGHT IT GOOD BUSINESS TO GIVE UP THE CASH THEY WERE ASKED FOR BY THE CHIEF SCALER.

"LEGITIMATE CAMPAIGN FUNDS ARE COLLECTED FROM THE POLITICAL FRIENDS OF THE COLLECTORS, AND NOT FROM CROWN LAND LESSEES OR CONTRACTORS WITHOUT REGARD TO PARTY AFFILIATIONS.

"MR. FLEMMING MUST GO, AND HE SHOULD HAVE THE DIGNITY TO GO WITHOUT LOSS OF TIME. THE PARTY PRESS SHOULD HASTEN HIS GOING, AND NOT ENCOURAGE HIM TO BRAZEN IT OUT BY PRETENDING TO THINK HE HAS DONE NOTHING WRONG.

"FOR THE PARTY TO SUSTAIN MR. FLEMMING IS FOR THE PARTY TO SHOULDER THE ODIUM OF HIS OFFICE.

"It is hard for those who have served under him, and felt the persuasive force of his eloquence and the charm of his personality, to turn their backs on him in his hour of humiliation, but this is a personal sacrifice that should be made in the public interest. Surely it would have a most demoralizing influence on the rising manhood of the province, on the boys who are just reaching out for the ballot, to permit Mr. Flemming to continue in office after the exposure of his crookedness.

"MR. FLEMMING SHOULD NOT WAIT FOR THE ROYAL COMMISSION'S REPORT, BUT SHOULD GET DOWN AND OUT AT ONCE. HE STANDS CONDEMNED NOW BY PUBLIC OPINION.

"While the evidence has established Mr. Flemming's guilt as the responsible head of the scheme that bid the leaseholders, it has cleared him of some of the charges that were freely made and widely believed. It shows that he bought the Gould stocks which he held, instead of their having been given to him, though it does not appear from what source he got the money to pay for them, and it contradicts the report that Mr. Teed invested in real estate for himself and Mr. Flemming.

"BUT EVEN THOUGH WE ACQUIT MR. FLEMMING OF EXACT KNOWLEDGE OF MR. BERRY'S METHODS, EVEN THOUGH WE ACCEPT HIS ASSURANCE THAT HE DID NOT TAKE ANY OF THE MONEY FOR HIS OWN PERSONAL USE, HE IS GUILTY OF LEVYING ON LESSEES OF CROWN LANDS FOR MONEY TO BE USED IN CORRUPTING THE COLLECTORS AND CANNOT BE TOLERATED AS PREMIER OF THE PROVINCE."

ST. JOHN AS ONE CENTRE OF PEACE CELEBRATION

Letter to Mayor and Common Council Received

ORGANIZER WILL COME

Mr. Scammell Suggests Monday, Aug. 17, as Time for Meeting in St. John to Take up the Project

The following speaks for itself:— July 21, 1914. His Worship the Mayor and Members of the City Council, St. John, N. B. Gentlemen:

You are doubtless aware that steps are being taken in Canada, the United States and Great Britain to hold a celebration in 1915, of the 100 years of peace between the British Empire and the United States. This celebration will not be confined to one centre or two, but it is proposed to hold it in a large number covering the whole of the world.

In addition to public festivities, the celebration is to include a number of features, such as the holding of services of thanksgiving, and the conduct of educational propaganda. The churches of the British Empire and the United States will be invited to unite in services of thanksgiving on Sunday, Feb. 14, 1915. Steps are being taken to bring to the notice of the celebration before the schools of Canada and the United States and to provide material for instruction in regard to the treaties which have made the long peace possible.

I should like to know whether your council desires, of which your city is one, to have been instructed by my executive committee to arrange for the Canadian centres of celebration. One hundred cities and towns, stretching from N. V. Scotia to British Columbia, have been selected, of which your city is one.

It is my duty to inform you that I have been instructed by my executive committee to arrange for the Canadian centres of celebration. One hundred cities and towns, stretching from N. V. Scotia to British Columbia, have been selected, of which your city is one.

It is my duty to inform you that I have been instructed by my executive committee to arrange for the Canadian centres of celebration. One hundred cities and towns, stretching from N. V. Scotia to British Columbia, have been selected, of which your city is one.

Strike Sympathizers Run Riot; Disorder and Disaster Follow When Mob Spirit Gains Control Streets Cars and Power House Wrecked—Police Powerless—Dragoons Charge the Rioters—Lieutenant Stetham, Detective Lucas and Members of Crowd Badly Injured—Riot Act Read and Militia Ordered Out—City in Darkness For Some Time

One of the most disgraceful occurrences which has ever stained the annals of St. John was a riot that followed some sympathetic demonstrations towards the striking street car men here last night. Property amounting to thousands of dollars was destroyed, strike-breakers were assaulted, one policeman was attacked and beaten, and several persons were knocked down and trampled by a group of rioters who were called out to quell the riot.

A sense of impending trouble seemed to permeate the people who were about the streets early last evening. The fact that strike breakers had been brought to the city from Montreal had kindled some sympathizers to a high pitch of indignation. Crowds began to gather in King street and Market square, waiting for something to start. Shortly after eight o'clock the first demonstration was made when a Haymarket square car was stopped near the head of King street, but those operating the car were able to get away before any damage was done. The crowd then rushed to Market square, but those operating the car were able to get away before any damage was done.

Between the rioters and the police there was a running battle. The rioters were armed with stones, bricks, and other missiles, and the police were armed with clubs and batons. The rioters were successful in driving the police back, and the rioting continued until about midnight. The rioters then turned their attention to the power house, and a large fire was started. The rioters were successful in driving the police back, and the rioting continued until about midnight.

Behind demolishing the two cars, the crowd smashed almost every pane of glass in the windows of the general store and power house of the company, damaged the lighting machinery, and threw the city into darkness. The rioters then turned their attention to the power house, and a large fire was started. The rioters were successful in driving the police back, and the rioting continued until about midnight.

The trouble started at the corner of Union and Charlotte streets, where a mob of men, none of whom were strikers, and boys who had crowded the street from curb to curb, endeavored to hold up one of the Haymarket square cars. The mob was successful in driving the car back, and the rioting continued until about midnight.

The rioters then turned their attention to the power house, and a large fire was started. The rioters were successful in driving the police back, and the rioting continued until about midnight. The rioters then turned their attention to the power house, and a large fire was started.

When the glass started to fly the crowd seemed to go wild and swarmed all about the car yelling and shouting and shouting. The rioters then turned their attention to the power house, and a large fire was started.

What Dyspeptics Should Eat

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE
"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been unable to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on the gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisulphate of magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisulphate of magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with medicine, when getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisulphate of magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal take some of the bisulphate of magnesia as directed above, and see if you are not relieved."

The court resumed at 2:30 o'clock with Mr. Hohen again on the stand. The witness produced the statement which he had drawn up showing a summary of the financial transactions, between the New York office of the railway company and the office of the construction company in Fredericton, up to March 31, 1914, as follows:

Cash received from the New York office	$2,478,161.53
Vouchers forwarded from New York and charged up on books	116,440.98
Advanced by A. R. Gould and repaid by construction company	44,960.63

Witness said that none of the money paid by the construction company on account of the railway company had been received by them.

Mr. Fisher—And this voucher went through charged to interest? A—Yes. Com. Fisher—You gave New York credit for it? A—I did. Com. Fisher—They claim in a sense that they paid it and you distributed it in the way you have mentioned? A—Yes, I gave them credit. Com. Fisher—Was that in the amounts you have as appearing in the ledger as having come from New York? Q—It is credited to their account here. As Good As Money. A—Yes, I credited New York as though they had paid money. Q—In the amount $2,478,000. Q—It was in the total of the $2,478,000. Q—What record have you in the cash books of that transaction? A—December 3, 1913, the St. John and Quebec Construction Company credited with $45,000 released by the provincial government money on deposit with the National Security Company on the bonds of 1913. Q—That is all the information you have? A—That is all the information I have. Mr. Carvell said it looked to him as though the Surety Company had been called upon to put up some of the money at some time or other. He did not know whether that was true or not. Q—You are not sure of any money deposited with the National Security Company? A—No. Q—You could not say? A—No, all the explanations would be made in the New York office and I would not know anything about them. Q—Is that voucher entered up in your books as paid to the Prudential Trust Company? A—Yes. Mr. Carvell—Your honor this shows that if I may say so, we ought to have had that amount in our hands when the evidence was being given for the Prudential Trust Company. Witness then gave details from the books in December, 1913, he seemed to think that too much had been charged to interest but since that time had found out his error. Mr. Carvell—I can't understand why you charge interest on money paid to the company. The witness said that the difference between the selling price of the stock of 93-3-4 and par had not been taken into account. Judge Wells—as I understand it was a matter of bookkeeping. Mr. Carvell—The total amount which would be paid in interest on the debentures would be? A—$85,000. Q—And that would leave a balance of something like $35,000 or $38,000 interest charges from some other source? A—Yes. Q—Of that amount $6,400 was charged to interest some time in 1913? A—Yes, that is right. Q—And you say that has since been taken out? A—Since December, 1913. Mr. Carvell—I find you have paid a good deal of interest to the Prudential Trust Company. Let us take up a few items and see what they amount to. Voucher 924 was then dealt with in detail. It was payable to the Prudential Trust Company, Montreal, March 31, 1912, for a total of $122,868 with invoices attached amounting to $4,428. Witness did not know of any notes given to the Prudential Trust Company by Ross Thompson, Lisman and Macdonell to bring up the proceeds of the bonds from 93-3-4 to par and the royal commission was hearing the details of those and items paid to W. G. Edinburgh, New York, for salary as accountant when it was decided to adjourn the hearing until 10 o'clock this morning.

$999,000 Stock To Pay For Gould's Services

Promoter Claimed From Railway Co. $1,000,000 For Preliminary Work — Construction Company Took Over Claim and Paid For It in Stock—Later Company Also Assumed Responsibility For Loans From Trust Company—Some Startling Revelations

One million dollars was the modest estimate placed by A. R. Gould on the value of his services and money expended in connection with the preliminary work on the Valley railway. The justice of his claim was recognized and the claim approved by the railway company, which he is president, and the liability assumed by the subsidiary construction company, of which his son is president.

The construction company did not have a million in cash or any other money of their own so they settled the claim in stock. Mr. Gould kindly consented to give them the bargain price of $999,000, which was fortunate as they needed the other $1,000 to give to the incorporators to qualify them.

This amount now stands as one of the liabilities of the construction company which must be added to the cost of the road. Another effort was made this morning to learn the reason why an order-in-council relieving a surety company of a guarantee of $45,000 should be treated as a voucher for that amount and the interest charged up to interest and discount.

Various loans, totaling more than half a million dollars, were made secured from the Prudential Trust Company of Montreal by the railway company and the construction company assumed the responsibility although the money did not come into their hands, directly at least.

Mr. Mass, of the engineering staff, was then made chief engineer and relieved the office of secretary of the construction company, but retained the same office on the railway company. He received $200 a month as engineer and $100 for each secretaryship.

SITE FOR START OF OCEAN FLIGHT IS PICKED OUT

New York, July 24.—A site thirty-three miles south of St. John's, Nfld., has been selected as the starting place of the trans-Atlantic flight of the air-boat America.

The America, flown by Glenn H. Curtiss, was from Lake Kenosha with a full load of more than 2,700 pounds last night. This is nearly 200 pounds more than the weight of the estimated load required for the flight from Newfoundland to the Azores.

The work and services upon which this claim was based are recited as follows: "Furthering the interests of the St. John and Quebec Railway Company by arranging for the organization of such company and the securing of a guarantee by the province of New Brunswick of bonds to be issued by the said railway company to pay for the construction of the said railway as soon as construction of the said railway is authorized by the Dominion of Canada."

Mr. Mass, of the engineering staff, was then made chief engineer and relieved the office of secretary of the construction company, but retained the same office on the railway company.

CAILLAUX BREAKS HIS SILENCE; TALKS TO MARY BOYLE O'REILLY

BY MARY BOYLE O'REILLY

Paris, France, July 24—Sitting in his own home, Joseph Caillaux broke his silence for the first time since his wife shot and killed Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro.

The story of the former minister of France, who resigned his post only to be returned by the people to the chamber of deputies, denies all gossip of love intrigues, jealousy between Calmette and Caillaux for the affections of another woman; denies even any pretense to prevent by murder the publication of frequent letters written to her by the husband of another wife and signed by the fond name of "Ton Jo."

As he paced up and down his library, now calm, now tempestuous in his recollections of hatred, eager to shield his wife, Caillaux gave, for the first time this story of the events leading up to the shooting.

Joseph Caillaux, ex-prime minister of France, who for the first time tells story of murder.

should ardently wish that the whole told. In such matters men are naïve, France. One must know how to submit in silence to the bites of calumny. When time has worked its own, I shall be vindicated. These are the sacrifices one must make for the good of country. Calmette was forced to give up at the last moment the publication of the Green documents.

For three years my wife had known the existence of intimate letters stolen from me five years ago. During three years the secret of those letters was known to my friends and by them faithfully kept. In these letters political considerations were mixed up with private details of my sentimental life. Their publication would have slight relative importance for me. But for Mme. Caillaux it meant wounds in her deepest feelings, wounds to her dignity as a wife and mother; we must not forget that my wife had a daughter nineteen years old.

When political considerations of the highest importance blocked the publication of the Green papers, Figaro had told its readers "we shall publish tomorrow a curious autograph of Joseph Caillaux—'Ton Jo'."

Then we knew.

I blame myself that I increased a nervous woman's anxieties. My wife's nerves were shattered, she was tense with nervous excitement.

The happenings of the 16th March prove the absurdity of claiming premeditation. All day my wife made plans for the future. She telephoned her hairdresser to come at 7, she promised to be at the Italian embassy at 8, she drove to her dentist and made an appointment for the 18th.

C'est faux (it is a lie) that I attacked my weeping wife in the police station shouting, "You have ruined my life." What happened is this. From the police station I resigned my portfolio, and my seat in the cabinet, announcing that I intended to retire from public life and devote all my time to my wife's defence. It is true that I reconsidered this decision. I was a candidate at the election and was returned to the Chamber of Deputies.

It was a necessity. It was a duty. What the Americans cannot know is this. I am opposed to the three years' military service; I am pledged to making rich men contribute their share to our national expenses."

J. CAILLAUX.

"What were the provisions of your uncle's will?" "I am to have all he left after the payment of his just debts." "That was all right? What did he leave?" "Just debts."

BASEBALL
Fairfield League.

The Royals and Cubs put up a fast game of ball last evening, which went 6 innings, the Royals finishing by a lead of two runs, 4-2. Nokes and Terry formed the battery for the Royals. Phil showed almost as much class behind the bat as on the pitching mound. Both men worked nicely.

Calnan and Murphy for the Cubs were in good form. Calnan striking out seven men, including Manager Hanlon on two occasions. Joe is surely a speed man when he gets going.

The game was all Cubs up to the 4th inning, when the Royals, by heavy and timely hitting, tied the score. In the fifth three more of their men crossed home plate. The Royals always play snappy ball, being used to their positions and have won their games fairly.

Dowling's team had a fine opportunity to win when, with three men on base, a long hit would have solved the problem, but Murphy hunted and the game was lost. Heavy hitting was a feature of both teams play and judging by this exhibition a fast game is looked for tonight, when the Athletics and Cubs will try conclusions.

THE STORY OF CARPENTIER
(Pearson's Weekly)

The secret, and many interesting secrets, about the gay, good-looking Georges Carpentier—is revealed by F. Hurdman Lucas in his recently published shilling book, From Pit-Boy to Champion Boxer.

"Carpentier started life in the solemn depths of the earth, as a pit-boy; today he is one of the most glorious examples of the whole hearted perseverance on his surface," says Mr. Lucas. "Possessed of a charming disposition, he has endeavored himself to all who have the good fortune to know him by his simple and boyish nature."

"Almost a world's champion when under twenty years of age, with a fortune that may be estimated at £25,000, there seems no limit to what he may yet become."

Carpentier's mother kept a little wine shop, and his father was a miser, but they were poor, and the five francs a week which their son earned at first as a pit boy had to help to keep things going at home. Consequently, Georges, captivated by even the very thought of boxing gloves, could not afford to pay full fees for going to the gymnasium, kept by one Francis Descamps, which he discovered.

Not Supposed to Use the Gloves.

For what he paid he was not supposed to have the use of "gloves," but, with Descamps scarcely deigning to notice his existence, he would sometimes slip them on surreptitiously and, finding an opponent equally daring set to with him. He was caught one day and Descamps determined to make a boxer of him. And so it came about that the little pit-boy, who had never seen a real boxing match, was started on the boxing ring of the ladder which he has since climbed successfully.

"It has been generally believed that Carpentier started right off as a professional," says Mr. Lucas, "but in reality he was entered for the amateur championship in 1907 and lost on points to Masoir in the final. Seeing that Masoir became one of the best amateur champions of France, such a setback was no disgrace for Carpentier, who had scarcely emerged from his twelfth year of life."

Think of it—a boy of twelve as one of the finalists of the amateur championship of his country! It sounds almost incredible.

Mr. Lucas has several good stories to tell of Carpentier's boyish boxing days, and this is one of the best of them:

One of the attractions of a traveling circus was an American "thumper" of some skill, and it was the custom of the circus proprietor to announce loudly that this personage was ready and willing "to take on any man." As it was difficult to find "any man" from the audiences to take him on, however, the difficulty was usually got over by arranging for members of the circus troupe to accept the challenge.

But, one night "the world beater," the man with a punch equal to the kick of a mountain mule, "the man-eater" who "had killed his last opponent," got a horrid shock. In reply to the loud-mouthed boasts of the man with the megaphone, a girlish voice cried acceptance of the challenge and a slight figure pressed forward.

Put to Sleep by the Boy.

The people at the traveling circus that evening saw something in a way, historic in boxing annals; they saw Georges Carpentier gain his first "knock-out." In two rounds the "American champion" lay on his back, oblivious to all earthly things; the effeminate-looking boy had put him to sleep, as the boxing phrase has it. Even the circus attendants who carried their man out of the ring at first refused to believe that he had been knocked out; they imagined him to be shamming unconsciousness as a joke or an advertisement.

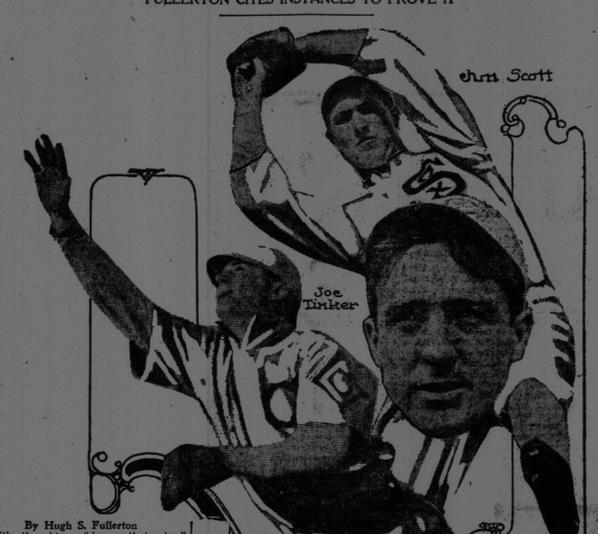

Still, monetary success did not come exactly with a rush to Carpentier at first, as a matter of fact, his initial year as a professional "pug" did not represent quite £60 to him. His first fees were about 24 a fight.

What a trial the matter of weight can sometimes be to a boxer is shown by Mr. Lucas in dealing with the fight between Carpentier and Papke.

"Georges had again started making flesh, so that, by the time he boxed Papke, the boy had extreme difficulty in

IT'S THE OLD CONFIDENCE THAT WINS GAMES

FULLERTON CITES INSTANCES TO PROVE IT

By Hugh S. Fullerton

"It's the old confidence that wins," said Del Howard, now manager of the San Francisco Seals. "That's all there is to baseball. If you think you can, you can. If you think you can't, you can't."

getting down to the stipulated, middle-weight limit. A large forfeit was at stake, and on the morning of the fight, a few hours before weighing in, he was many pounds too heavy.

"Turkish baths, sweaters and massage in front of a blazing fire, all helped to reduce the lad's strength, so that although he saved his £200 weight forfeit, he entered the ring a wreck."

News of the Boxers

Sam Langford is in training for some bout.

It is most likely that Gilbert Gallant and Eddie Murphy will clash again in Boston about August 4 to decide who will have the first crack at Matty Baldwin.

Packey McFarland, who is having an around-the-world wedding trip, says that the only thing that would bring him back to the ring is a match with Freddy Welsh for the lightweight title. Billy Nolan wants to break into the game again as he has his eye on Australia. If he can get some fairly good land for boullard lost $50 the other night by not standing by a contract he signed with the Montreal club. He and Lore had signed to box for 25 per cent of the receipts. The crowd looked so small that Drouillard feared he would not get much out of it, so he made the promoters pay him $150. Lore, who decided to box according to agreement, received $200 from the promoter for not knocking.

Joe Rivers, who once got a good landing from Leach Cross, evidently does not relish getting another one, although a guarantee of $4,000 caused him to accept another match with Cross to be decided in Vernon, Cal., on July 28. After Rivers gave the matter further thought he called the match off. The promoter has signed Johnny Tillman to take his place.

AQUATIC

Cape Finisterre, Spain, July 24.—A wireless despatch from the steam yacht Erin, conveying the Shamrock IV, says: "All well. The challenger made a run of 222 miles in the last 24 hours. The weather is beautiful."

Change Time Allowance

New York, July 23.—When they next race Vanitie and Resolute will have new ratings, which will put the Gardner boat under a smaller handicap. Resolute's increased sail area is expected to cut at least 12 seconds off of her allowance, while Vanitie's changes are counted on to make a difference of from six to ten seconds in thirty miles. These changes will make the boats more evenly matched, and Vanitie will probably have to allow about one minute and twenty seconds to Resolute in the next race.

If you keep thinking you can win the teams ahead of you will soon begin to believe it; and come back to you."

The case of Joe Tinker and Mathewson is another illustration of the power of confidence. One day Tinker happened to hit Mathewson hard. In the next game luck broke his way, and he commenced to believe he "had something on" Mathewson. Matty evidently felt the same way. For three seasons Tinker hit Mathewson hard, broke up game after game and beat New York out of two pennants with his bat.

Just a few days ago Joe Benz went to Manager Callahan and asked to pitch against Walter Johnson.

"Anyhow, you're a game guy," laughed Cal. "All the others get some arms when that fellow is going to work."

"I'm sure I can beat him," said Benz. "Let me in there."

After Benz went out Cal remarked, "I believe Benz will win this game. Confidence is half of it—and he has it."

Benz won, holding Washington to one fluky hit.

It looks as if old Del is right; the "old con-fid-ence" wins, and Del writes that he feels "con-fid-ent" that the pennant will fly over San Francisco this fall, which, according to his theory, anyone else, Washington, could beat ought to settle the race right now.

THOSE IN CROWD FACE CHANCE OF GOING TO PRISON FOR LIFE

Magistrate Ritchie, in Police Court Today Makes Clear The Law

The riot of last night was the occasion of comment by Hon. R. J. Ritchie from the police court bench this morning and he said he thought that the public should be informed of the seriousness of such an affair. He quoted the criminal code to show that a riot was an unlawful assembly which has begun to disturb the peace tumultuously and that every member of such an assembly, whether man, woman or child, is liable to one year's imprisonment. After the riot act is read, if as few as twelve persons continue to remain together for the space of thirty minutes, they are guilty of an indictable offence and liable to imprisonment for life. The magistrate went on to say that if every person went home, there could be no disturbance. He referred to the fact that a handful of police in the city of London could keep order among a large crowd, simply because they had the majesty of the law behind them. He explained that the reason the punishment was so great for being a member of an unlawful assembly is because a murderer might take place.

A PLAYGROUND HAS BEEN CLOSED

Vile Language, Disgraceful Conduct and Window Breaking at Centennial, Because There Was No Adequate Supervision

The Centennial playground will hereafter be closed in the evening. The appeals for adequate supervision have brought no satisfactory response. Some evenings there has been practically no supervision at all, and on others it has not been sufficient. Last night some big boys and girls were guilty of disgraceful conduct, and it is said this is not the first instance of the kind. The language used was of the vilest sort. The same conduct will of course go on in the alleys when the playground is closed, but that will be hidden from the people, and their Christian self-complacency will therefore not be disturbed. Some windows have also been broken by some of the larger boys who have been attending the Centennial playground. It is said that boys even threw stones at one solitary man who was endeavoring one evening to supervise the ground. Owing to the formation of this playground it would take at least four people to keep an eye on all those in attendance, and one would of course be utterly helpless. An appeal was made to the Christian people of St. John to take an interest in these playgrounds, and provide sufficient supervision to keep the rougher element in check. The Christian community has not responded. Peradventure it sleeps, or hath gone on a journey. The Centennial playground will be closed tonight and every evening hereafter. Even after it is closed it will be necessary for the police to keep an eye on the place, since unruly boys have no difficulty in climbing the fence. It may be necessary to close other playgrounds also.

W. M. BANCROFT GOES TO QUEBEC

Bank of Montreal Promotes Him To Post There—W. J. Ambrose Successor

W. M. Bancroft, who was only a few months ago appointed to be manager of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal to succeed E. M. Shadbolt on his retirement, has again received recognition of his services and has been promoted to be manager of the Quebec office. W. J. Ambrose, manager of the bank's agency in Spokane, Washington, and formerly accountant of the Montreal branch, has been appointed manager at St. John to succeed Mr. Bancroft. The change will probably be effected by August 1. Mr. Bancroft was formerly assistant manager at Quebec and although he is well known there, he has many friends in St. John who will regret to learn that he is to leave. Mr. Bancroft came here from Mexico about two years ago. A. E. Nash, the present manager at Halifax, has been appointed manager at St. John to take the place of W. B. Gravelly, who is about to retire.

THE HOUSING LAW

The Community Council Executive Meeting—Majority Favorable Report on Moving Pictures

At a meeting of the executive of the Community Council held in the Board of Trade rooms last evening a resolution was adopted urging the city council to have such amendments made to the housing law in this city as are necessary in the interests of sanitation and better housing. The absolute need of a revision of the building laws as a first step toward better housing conditions was clearly shown at the general meeting of the Community Council a week before. The chairman and vice-chairman were asked to present the resolution to the city council. The question of moving pictures was discussed at considerable length. Many of those present had visited the different picture houses and reported what they had seen. While one member was convinced that many of the pictures shown are of such a character as would have a bad influence on the minds of children, the others did not agree with this view, and on the whole the views expressed after having seen the pictures were favorable rather than otherwise.

ANOTHER GREAT DISASTER FEARED

One of Hebrides Islands Threatens to Collapse—Five Thousand Lives in Danger

Sydney, N. S., July 24.—The island of Aoba, of the New Hebrides group, is in imminent danger of collapsing because of incessant earthquake shocks. Already there have been several fatalities and if the steaming volcano on the island erupts the whole population, numbering five thousand, is doomed. In last December the Island of Ambrym, in the New Hebrides, was visited by violent disturbances, and about 500 natives lost their lives.

THE RAINBOW AND THE NIOBE

(Special Times)
Ottawa, Ont., July 24.—The Canadian naval cruiser Rainbow, after escorting the Komagata Maru with the deported Hindus on board well outside of Canadian waters is under orders to proceed to Esquimaux where she will be dry-docked and put in first-class sea-going shape. The process will last about a fortnight and then the cruiser will leave on a trip to Behring Sea in connection with the international sealing patrol. Meanwhile the cruiser Niobe is to be kept tied up at Halifax. Practically all her crew have been taken off to make up the complement of the Rainbow. The government's naval programme for the summer is confined to the operation of the Rainbow.
