SYNOD COMMITTEES CHOSEN TODAY.

Report of Financial Committee Was Submitted.

Some Important Modifications in the Present System of Handling Diocesan Funds Recommended by Committee.

The third day's session of the C. of E. Synod opened shortly after ten with prayers read by the bishop. Among those present this morning was President Hannah, of King's College, who will address the synod this afternoon. Dr. Hannah arrived yesterday from E. I., where he has been attending the Nova Scotia synod.

At eight o'clock this morning service was held in Trinity church, at which Archdeacon Forsyth was celebrant, assisted by Rev. W. E. Armstrong, Rev. W. J. Wilkinson and Rev. G. L. Freeborn.

The business of the synod commenced as usual with roll call and the reading of the minutes of yesterday's meeting, which were approved. The list of the churches who were in arrears was read.

It is moved by the Rev. Mr. McKel that the amount due the contingent fund be remitted upon payment of this year's assessment. In the parish of Lancaster. This was seconded by W. M. Jarvis. Similar motions were made in regard to Addington, Ludlow, Blackville, Trinity church, St. Stephen and Waterborough.

Canon Newnham gave notice that at the next meeting of the synod he will move that in line five of section 3 of canon XIV. the word "and" be struck out and the word "or" inserted in place thereof.

W. B. Wallace gave notice of motion, seconded by Mr. Allen, that section 9 of canon XXI. be amended by striking out the words "mission" between the words "to" and "diocese" in the last line.

Mr. Justice Hamilton gave notice of motion, seconded by A. C. Fairweather, that the sum of $50.00 be appropriated out of the special fund for that purpose for the Church School for Girls at Windsor, to be awarded as prizes to the students who shall attain the greatest success or proficiency in such subject or subjects as his lordship the bishop and the trustee from this synod may designate during the present academic year. Such prizes to be awarded by the bishop or his representative at the school closing.

The amendments to canon XXI. discussed yesterday were brought up this morning again. The last section of it alone remained, and this morning Mr. Knowlton and Mr. Jarvis, the mover and seconder, asked that they be allowed to withdraw this clause. Both clergy and laymen voted to allow it to be struck out.

W. M. Jarvis asked that the order of business be suspended and asked that Rev. Edward Ryerson, retired missionary from Japan, be given a seat on the floor of the house. Mr. Ryerson was warmly welcomed.

The report of the nominating committee was received and the election of the committees of the synod took place as follows: Standing Committee—The Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop, Very Rev. Dean Farrington, Ven. Archdeacon Forsyth, Ven. Archdeacon Neales, Rev. Canon Richardson, Rev. Canon Newnham, Rev. Canon Roberts, F. J. G. Knowlton, G. O. D. Otty, A. C. Fairweather, G. Sidney Smith.

Executive Committee (ex-officio)—The Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop, Very Rev. Dean Farrington, Ven. Archdeacon Forsyth, Ven. Archdeacon Neales, Rev. Canon Richardson, Rev. Canon Newnham, Rev. Canon Roberts, F. J. G. Knowlton, G. O. D. Otty, A. C. Fairweather, G. Sidney Smith.

Board of Diocesan Mission—The usual ex-officio members and the following representatives of the rural deaneries: Chatham, Rev. W. J. Wilkinson; Fredericton, Rev. H. Montgomery; Kingston, Rev. H. H. G. Smith; Shediac, Rev. A. W. Smith; St. Andrews, Rev. J. W. Millidge; St. John, Rev. W. H. Sampson; Woodstock, Rev. A. W. Teed; P. E. New, Rev. G. Armstrong; G. O. Dickson Otty, J. P. Allison, H. F. Grimmer, W. L. Harding, T. Carleton Ketchum, Rev. R. P. McKim, Canon Richardson, C. P. Hamilton, G. H. Kuring, J. R. DeW. Cowie and A. C. Fairweather, F. J. G. Knowlton, W. (Continued on Page 3.)

AMATEUR ATHLETES SUSPENDED.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Drastic measures were taken against offending amateur athletes last night by the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union. Several leading local athletes, including Champion P. J. Walsh, of the New York A. C., were suspended. The action taken by the committee has been brought about, it is said, by the loose methods which have recently prevailed among the performers on the track and field in the Metropolitan district. The registration committee met at the St. Bartholomew's A. C. The cases of athletes who shifted from one club to another in their entries and who then failed to appear, was discussed. By the evidence of the entry blanks it was found that several instances of this violation of the rules could be charged against a number of the leading local athletes. It was decided to suspend these men for a period of thirty days.

PANIC STRICKEN PEOPLE FLEEING FROM THEODOSIA.

Mutineers Threaten to Bombard the City This Evening—Russian Admiralty Don't Know What to Do.

THEODOSIA, CRIMEA, July 6.—The inhabitants are leaving the town in panic. The first thing necessary is to make an example of the crew and restore discipline in the Black Sea fleet.

Admiral Virenus said there was no truth in the report from Vienna that four hundred Russian sailors had destroyed a cruiser and sought refuge on board a British steamer bound for Constantinople.

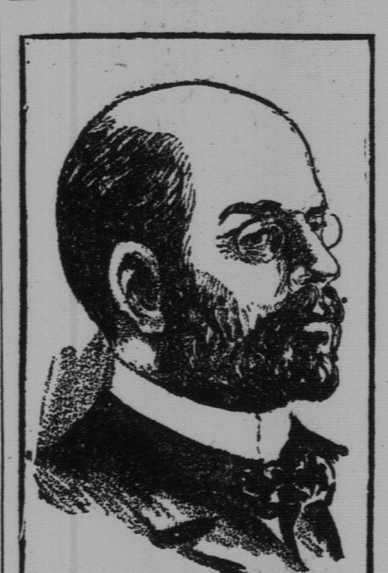

Whether the report of the sailing of the battleship be true or not, the crew took a remarkable step yesterday when with all the solemnity of a provisional government it issued a manifesto addressed to the powers, announcing that civil war had begun against the existing regime in Russia, and pledging the inviolability of foreign shipping and foreign ports.

This action doubtless was taken to quiet the apprehensions of foreign powers and to leave no excuse for the sending of warships through the Dardanelles to effect the capture of the battleship, which until now Russia's Black Sea fleet has not dared to attempt. It is considered a shrewd move on the part of the mutineers, and stamps the commander of the crew as a leader far above the class of the ordinary sailor, and strengthens the opinion that he is not a member of the original crew, but one of the revolutionaries who went on board at Odessa.

The issuance of the manifesto lends a certain dignity to the mutiny and proves that the crew and their commander have no desire that the world should believe them to be mere lawless, but that they should be looked upon as men seriously raising the standard of revolution.

MURDERER PATRICK'S LAST FIGHT FOR LIFE.

NEW YORK, July 6.—It is announced that Albert T. Patrick, who is awaiting execution for the murder of William Morris Rice, the Texas multi-millionaire, has instructed his counsel, David one of the most notorious criminals of the century. Sentenced three and a half years ago to death for the murder of millionaire Rice, he has successfully staved off his execution from time to time. He was a prominent lawyer of New York before the crime.

B. Hill, to take his case to the United States supreme court. The execution of Patrick is set for the week commencing August 7, and the appeal will act as a temporary stay.

SUICIDE INQUEST THIS EVENING.

A jury has been empanelled and will hold an inquiry touching the death of the young Lansdowne House waitress, May Grass, this evening at 8.30 o'clock.

They viewed the body in the hospital morgue at noon today, and shortly afterwards Coroner Roberts issued a burial permit.

The body will be taken on the five o'clock train to the Prince William station for Magaguadavic—the home of the poor girl—for interment. Mr. Grass, who is broken down with grief, will accompany the body home, and had hoped to take with him his other daughter, Myrtle, but the coroner has forbidden her to go until after the inquest, as she will, of course, be the principal witness.

It is hoped, however, that the inquiry will be finished this evening, in which case Myrtle will follow on tomorrow in time for the funeral. She will be returning to the Lansdowne house in a few days.

The coroner's jury which is in charge of Marshall Coughlan, is composed of the following: G. K. Burton, C. Olive, D. Coburn, J. W. Lee, S. J. Warwick, J. S. Staton, C. S. Bustin.

TWO YEARS FOR WILLIAM HOLM.

His Trial Lasted Only Fifteen Minutes.

His Counsel Intimated That Tobin's Jury Put Premium on Perjury When They Acquitted Him.

The trial of William Holm for breaking and entering Wm. Webber's shop on Charlotte street, and stealing twenty-eight watches and a quantity of jewelry therefrom, lasted fifteen minutes this morning.

On being brought into court Judge McLeod read the indictment to Holm, who immediately pleaded guilty.

G. V. McInerney, K. C., said he would like to say a few words on Holm's behalf. Holm had, he said, made a full and frank confession of the occurrence and had done it without any promise of clemency. Before the watches were found by the police, the prisoner expressed to him (counsel) his wish to make a clean breast of the part he took in the robbery, telling him (McInerney) where the property was to be found.

Holm for the last eighteen months had led an exemplary life. It was true that when quite a boy he had been in trouble, but his life since had been such, that it was thought by all he had become a reputable citizen.

Speaking of the acquittal of Tobin, Mr. McInerney said: "Juries may continue to put a premium on perjury, but for my part, I for one will continue to believe in the old doctrine, that to make a clean breast of everything, is the best and only retribution open to a guilty person. For this reason I will ask your honor to take per justice with mercy and make the sentence as light as you conscientiously can."

Judge McLeod in passing sentence said, "I feel that punishment must be meted out, but will not deal with the prisoner as severely as I might, simply on account of his being a young man, and I have in view his reformation. In the interests of the public and justice, I could not let this case go by without some considerable punishment."

Many of the aldermen were present and a large number of prominent officials.

"They're going to name the baby 'Mary,' after her maternal grandmother."

"Gracious! that's terrible!"

"Terrible?"

"Certainly. The poor child will be 'Mamed' for life."

There comes from Missouri a story to the effect that a young woman committed suicide out there because she feared the man she was to marry was too good for her. She must have been talking to his mother.

IT MADE A DIFFERENCE.

(Oak Grove, Me., Banner.)

A story is being told of a Sidney young lady who found a package of love letters that had been written to her mother by her father before they were married. The daughter saw that she could have a little sport and read one of them to her mother, substituting her own name for that of her mother and that of a six mile young man for that of her father. The mother seemed utterly disgusted and forbade her daughter to have any more letters to read to her. The daughter became so still that one could almost hear the grass growing in the yard.

MR. NOBLE'S PROMISE.

(Will H. Watron in Boston Herald.)

In the early stages of his ministry, the Rev. Mr. Noble preached for some time in a village in Maine. One day a committee called upon him to settle with him for his services and after stammering a while signified to him that his further services were not desired.

"What does this mean, gentlemen?" asked the parson.

"Why," answered the spokesman, with some hesitation, "the people have got the impression that you are inclining to universal salvation."

"Gentlemen," answered Mr. Noble, "I never have preached that doctrine; but if I ever should, I promise to make the people of this town an exception."

This morning in circuit court the case of Maudie v. Kennedy was made a remnant. Weldon & McLean for the plaintiff and C. J. Coster for the defendants.

NEW FERRY BOAT LAUNCHED TODAY.

Not a Hitch in the Proceedings.

At 1.40 Mrs. White Christened The Ludlow Which Glided into the Water a Few Seconds Later.

The much looked for and long needed ferry boat is now afloat, so that the improved ferry service that has been promised so long is in a fair way to be a realization within the next few weeks or so. The new boat, the Ludlow, was launched this afternoon at twenty minutes to two o'clock and took the water as gracefully as a duck.

There was an enormous crowd present, the wharves on both sides of the yard where the vessel was built being lined with people many tier deep. On the railway embankment was another and equally as large a congregation of people, while on lumber piles and all about the yard were many groups of interested spectators.

A stand at the bow or stern of the steamer—if she has either, as both are alike—was draped in national flags. Upon a raised platform on this stand Mrs. White, wife of his worship, Mayor White, stood with Naval Architect McLean, and as the steamer started to move down the ways Mrs. White broke a bottle of wine on the vessel and christened her. The bottle was entwined with red, white and blue ribbon, and as the contents foamed over the iron work the other end of the steamer churned the waters of the harbor in which she is destined for many years to do service.

The Ludlow was gallantly decorated with bunting, and as she took the water cheer after cheer was given, and the whistle and that of the fleet of tug boats shrieked for several minutes a welcome to the new boat.

Many of the aldermen were present and a large number of prominent officials.

FLOOR OF ONE PIECE OF WOOD.

A cross section cut from a fir tree 12 feet in diameter forms the floor of an office of tree furniture which has attracted a great deal of attention in the Washington state building at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The big tree from which the 13-foot section was cut grew in Snohomish county, Washington.

The cross section is about a foot thick, with the upper surface polished, so that it makes an excellent floor. On it are several cross sections of smaller trees, which do service as chairs. They are of cedar. Some of the stumps also are cut out and polished to form a back, while others have been so carved as to make a comfortable chair with a back.

The oddest feature of the exhibit is the typewriter desk made of a single fir log standing on end. The log forms a cylinder about four feet high and three feet thick, with a polished top. One side has been cut away underneath, so that there is plenty of room for the stenographer's knees.

In another part of the Snohomish section a log six feet in diameter has been used to make a seat. The log has been carved so that a post a foot in diameter is left in the center to form a back, and the effect is similar to that produced when a seat is built around a tree.

JEWELRY IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Great Britain's gates have been as open to foreign immigration as to foreign trade, but while the present sentiment of the country seems unfavorable to any restriction of the latter, such is the glut of new and undesirable citizens that serious attention is being paid to the problem of protecting the native-born from the increasing invasion and even now a bill is before the house of commons which if passed will shut out many who can be classed as undesirable.

One of the reasons for the introduction of this bill has been the cry from many English cities that the flood of Jewish immigrants, especially from Poland and Russia is drowning the English workmen, filling the labor market with men who are inferior as citizens to those they are underbidding and driving to pauperism. And one of the most notable results of the careful investigation of labor conditions which has naturally been made has been the alleged discovery that the coming of the Jew has actually benefited instead of injuring the English working classes and the country generally.

According to an article in the June
"Fortnightly" the only "industries" which have suffered from the coming of the Jews are the liquor traffic and the keeping of houses of ill-fame. Instead of lowering the wage scale the writer claims the Jews have raised it by providing new employment. The development of the three main industries—tailoring, cabinetmaking, and shoemaking—in which the alien engages has undoubtedly been beneficial in various ways, he says. It has increased the demand for, and the manufacture, not only of goods made in this country (which were formerly imported from abroad), but of the materials used in them, thus indirectly giving employment to native workmen.

During his election campaign in North Leeds in July, 1902, Mr. Rowland Barran, M. P., a member of what is probably the largest firm of ready-made clothiers in the world, stated that the Jews had enabled England to maintain practically a monopoly of the clothing trade of the world. Within the twenty years how factories have been erected in Leeds, and it is computed that fully twenty thousand non-Jewish workers are engaged there in an industry which the city owes almost entirely to the alien.

As to their morality, it is claimed that they have regenerated that portion of the East End of London in which they have settled. By gradually crowding out the inmates of disreputable dives they have purified whole streets. Also they are sober and possess a rule excellent health. They contribute fewer to the criminal class than in any other nationality and in their districts the increase in paupers is less than in any other part of London.

In their desire for education also they exceed the Gentile English. The Brixton school attendance in Great Britain is 85 per cent; in Whitechapel, now practically a Jewish colony, it is about 95, one school having the phenomenal record of 99.47 per cent.

On the face of these assertions it would seem Britain's proper policy to encourage rather than restrict the coming of such as these. But if any action at all is taken now it will certainly be in the nature of restriction—for in spite of his virtues the Jew is not popular—never was, in any country—and many, even of those who admit his good qualities as an individual, doubt if they are altogether such as, in the aggregate would make for a strong and vigorous citizenship. Why, it is asked, if the Jews are such perfect citizens, have they, through twenty centuries, been unable to combine into any national existence?

THE COERCION LAW.
The autonomy bills, coercion clauses and all, are law at last. They are, for the present, out of the realm of federal politics. Remains now to be seen how the West will accept the shackles.

If the new provinces submit quiescently to the constitutions imposed on them and elect legislatures to carry out obediently and meekly their provisions, the "provincial rights" cry as a political issue will lose much of its force.
But if, as premier Haultain predicts, the West revolts against the coercion and the new legislatures refuse to execute the mandate of parliament, either appealing to the Privy Council themselves or forcing the religious minorities in those provinces to do so, the matter will be kept before the people, forced upon their attention in such a way that public interest cannot but be concentrated upon it, making the separate schools question as much of an issue at the next election as it was in 1896.

TO BE VIEWED WITH ALARM.
Mr. Fielding has again beaten all records. The list of supplementary estimates submitted on Wednesday is, we believe, the largest ever brought down as a supplementary in the history of the country. After parliament has been in session nearly six months, and when it is trying to finish in another fortnight, Mr. Fielding brings forward a modest request that the house shall vote $15,414,975, in addition to the original or main estimates of $83,664,327.

This splendid total of $83,664,327 will be followed next winter by a further supplementary list of items to cover governor general's warrants and other unforeseen payments.
The fact that a few votes that will lapse. We may assume that the expenditure for the year on which we are now entered will be between $30,000,000 and $55,000,000, of which $55,000,000 or more will be charged to current account.—Sun.

INVOCATION.

Lord! from far-severed climes we come,
To meet at last in Thee, our home.
Thou who hast been our guide and guard
Be still our hope, our rich reward.

Defend us, Lord, from every ill.
Strengthen our hearts to do Thy will,
In all we plan and all we do.
Still keep us to Thy service true.

O, let us hear the inspiring word
Which they of old at Horeb heard.
Breathe to our hearts the high command,
"Go onward and possess the land!"

Thou who art Light shine on each souls
Thou who art Truth each mind control.
Open our eyes and make us see
The path which leads to heaven and Thee.

—JOHN HAY.

A PROBLEM SOLVED.

Ozone is ozone, and in buying it, the problem is to get the purest form.
"Bottling of Ozone (the coupon kind)"
is the purest form in which Ozone is put up. In addition, each bottle contains a coupon entitling you to a package of "Celery King" free, and it is well known that you should take "Celery King" along with Ozone.

We put "Celery King" coupons in our Ozone bottles because no other firm can give "Celery King" with Ozone. By buying "Bottling of Ozone
(the coupon kind)" you get the purest and most concentrated form of Ozone, and in addition you save the expense of buying the "Celery King" to use with it.

No other kind of Ozone offers this advantage. Ask your druggist for it, and if he hasn't it write to the Public Drug Co., Bridgeport, Ont.

ANTIDOTE FOR RATTLER'S POISON

Used by Mexicans and Supposed to Be Moki Indians' Secret Remedy.

Supp. B. F. Daniel of the Territorial prison, says the Arizona Republican, told of a certain cure for the bite of the rattlesnake.

He had heard of it while in Mexico, and since he became superintendent of the prison he has seen two or three Mexican convicts who had been cured and who told him the secret to show that they had been bitten. On the hand of one of them was the trace of a centipede, which he had used to cure the bite.

There is in every rattlesnake a small sac, about the size of a Mexican bean, attached to the intestines. This is filled with a brownish oil black fluid,
and that fluid is the cure for the bite.
If it is applied immediately the patient will not even feel any swelling and will entirely avoid pain.

Many Mexicans carry the fluid with them at all times when they are in the mountains or on the desert. These Mexicans kill all the rattlers they can find, and most of them store the fluid in a bottle made of a rifle cartridge shell which is tightly corked.

In anatomical descriptions of the rattler no mention is made of this particular sac, though air sacs are numeous in the intestines of all members of the snake family. But there is no doubt of the existence of it, for Mr.
Daniel said he had seen Mexicans remove it frequently.

A TREAT FOR HALIFAX.
The Henrietta Crossman Company
finished their engagement at the Opera House last night and left on the late train for Halifax, where it is hoped they will do much better than they did here.
Miss Crossman could not help but be disappointed at the miserable business done here, but nevertheless was delighted at the intelligent appreciation of the audiences that witnessed her performances here.

The City Council will run by excursion Saturday to Watters' Land-

About 12 o'clock last evening a fire caught in a canvas awning in front of Macaulay Brothers' store on King street. Before it was noticed a large hole had been burned nearly the full length of the awning. The fire was supposed to have caught from a lighted cigar having been thrown from a window above.

The unvarying success of Fred Raymond's comedy, "The Missouri Girl," has become proverbial among the members of the theatrical profession. The large business done at the various theatres where the company has played in the past ten seasons is proof positive that the play has unusual merit.
People living within sound of Trinity church chimps were started early this morning to hear the tune of the well known hymn "Holy, holy, holy, Lord, Almighty." The big chimps had gone wrong as it was 12.30 when the beautiful hymn was played.

A NORWEGIAN CRIMINAL.

Olaf Jensen, Suspected of Many Robberies in Albert County.

The Norwegian, Olaf Jensen, who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of stealing a box of eggs from the Dominion Express Co., left this morning by the 11.45 train in charge of Constable Peck, for Hopewell Cape, Alberta, where he is wanted by the authorities for stealing on the 21st June last, a bay mare and carriage and two sets of harness. It was remembered that a revolver, a leather belt and a pocket book were found on the prisoner at the time of his arrest.

James Hunter started work this morning on the installation of the telephone system in city Hall that is to connect the various departments. This has been a long and arduous task needed for years and cannot be completed any too quickly to please the officials at city Hall.

SHOE DRESSINGS

No matter how thoroughly good your Shoes may be, it is an easy matter to ruin them by using or allowing a boot-black to use a polish or dressing of inferior quality. Shoe polishes made to sell at a large profit are responsible for the ruination of thousands of pairs of shoes. They contain mixtures injurious to leather.
To protect our customers and ourselves, we sell only the very best of Shoe Dressings that we know are all right in every respect. Good Dressings act as a food for leather. It gives to leather what the process of tanning takes from it, makes it soft and pliable and adds to its durability. If you purchase your Shoe Dressings here, your Shoes will never be injured.

The Wings of the Morning

By LOUIS TRACY

The Dyaks were already stirring. Some were replenishing the fire, others were drawing water, cooking, eating, smoking long thin stemmed pipes with absurdly small bowls or cilling their limbs and weapons with impatience. The chief yet lay stretched on the sand, but when the first beams of the sun gilded the waters a man stopped over the prostrate form and laid something that caused the sleeper to rise stiffly, supporting himself on his uninjured arm. They at once went off together toward Europa point.

"They have found the boat," thought Jenks. "Well, they are welcome to all the information it affords."
The chief gave some order, at which they all hung back sheepishly. Cursing them in choice Malay, the chief seized a thick faggot and strode in the direction of the cave. Goaded into activity by his truculent demeanor, some followed him, and Jenks, unable to see, but listening anxiously, knew that they were tearing the forest of firs from its supports. Nevertheless none of the watching party entered the excavation. They feared the parched bones that shone by night.

"As he had not been able to complete the communicating shaft it was not nancing the uselessness of further search on the western part of the island. When the conversation ceased he hoped the loud voiced savage would descend. But not the scout looked into the valley, at the well, the house the cave. Still he did not see the ledge. At that unlucky moment three birds, driven from the trees on the crest by the passage of the Dyaks, flew down the face of the cliff and began a circling quest for some safe perch on which to alight.

Jenks swore with an emphasis not the least earnest because it was mute and took steady aim at the Dyak's left breast. The birds dived about in ever smaller circles. Then one of them dropped easily on to the lip of the rock. Instantly his bright eyes encountered those of the man, and he darted off with a scream that brought his mates after him.

The Dyak evidently noted the behavior of the birds—his only clue was the reading of such signs—and gazed intently at the ledge. Jenks could not distinguish behind the screen of grass. He might perhaps see some portion of the tarpaulin covering the stores, but at the distance it must resemble a weather beaten segment of the cliff. Yet something puzzled him. After a steady scrutiny he turned and yelled to others on the beach.

"The crucial moment had arrived. Jenks pressed the trigger, and the Dyak hurtled through the air, falling headlong out of sight. The sound of this, the first shot of real warfare, awoke Rainbow Island into tremendous activity. The winged life of the place filled the air with rancor, while shouting Dyaks scoured in all directions. Several came into the valley. Those nearest the fallen man picked him up and carried him to the well. He was quite dead, and although amid his other injuries they soon found the bullet wound, they evidently did not know whence the shot came, for those to whom he showed slight haze from the rifle was instantly swept away by the breeze.

Iris could hear the turmoil beneath, and she tremulously asked: "Are they going to attack us?" "Not yet," was the reassuring answer. "I killed the fellow who saw us before he could tell the others." It was a bold risk, and he had taken it, though now the Dyak knew for certain their prey had not escaped there was no prospect of their speedy departure. Nevertheless the position was not utterly hopeless. None of the enemy could tell how or by whom their companion had been shot. Many among the excited horde jabbering beneath actually looked at the cliff over their heads, yet failed to note the possibilities of the ledge, with its few tufts of grass growing where seeds had apparently been blown by the wind or dropped by passing birds.

Jenks understood, of course, that the real danger would arise when they visited the scene of their comrade's disaster. Even then the waverers of the stock's all the little accessories that musicians are in need of. Call and inspect for yourself.

At last on a command from the chief the Dyaks scattered in various directions. Some turned toward Europa point, but the majority went to the east along Turtle beach or by way of the lagoon. Prospect park was deserted. They were scouring both sections of the island in full force.

The quiet watcher on the ledge took no needless risks. Though it was impossible to believe any stratagem had been planned for his special benefit, an accident might betray him. With the utmost circumspection he rose on all fours and, with comprehensive glance, examined trees, plateau and both strips of beach for signs of a lurking foe. He need have no fear. Of all places in the island the Dyaks had imagined that their quarry had lain all night within gunshot of their encampment.

Jenks slid back down the ledge and gently awakened Iris. She sat up instantly and gazed at him with wondering eyes. Fearful lest she should forget her surroundings, he placed a warning finger on his lips.

"Oh," she said in a whisper, "are they still here?" He told her what had happened and suggested that they should have something to eat while the coast was clear beneath. She needed no second bidding, for the long vigil of the previous night had been very hungry, and the two breakfasted right royally on biscuit, cold food, ham and good water. In this, the inner section of their refuge, they could be seen only by a bird or a man standing on the distant rocky shelf that formed the southern extremity of the opposite cliff, and the sailor kept a close lookout in that direction.

Iris was about to throw the remains of the feast into an empty oil tin provided for refuse when Jenks restrained her. "No," he said smilingly. "Scraps should be the first course next time. We must not waste an atom of food."

"How thoughtless of me!" she exclaimed. "Please tell me you think they will go away today?" But the sailor turned himself flat on the ledge and grasped a rifle. "Be still, on your life!" he said. "Squeeze into your corner. There is a Dyak on the opposite cliff."

True enough, a man had climbed to that unshapely something to a confere high on the cliff over their heads. As yet he had not seen them nor even noticed the place where they were concealed. The sailor imagined from Jenks's gestures that he was communicating the uselessness of further search on the western part of the island. When the conversation ceased he hoped the loud voiced savage would descend. But not the scout looked into the valley, at the well, the house the cave. Still he did not see the ledge. At that unlucky moment three birds, driven from the trees on the crest by the passage of the Dyaks, flew down the face of the cliff and began a circling quest for some safe perch on which to alight.

STORES, ETC. THAT ARE OPEN EVENINGS.

JEWELER AND GOLDSMITH.
A fine selection of jewelry of all description can be seen at the establishment of W. Tremaine Gard, on Charlotte street. Visitors requiring souvenirs of the town cannot do better than call and inspect Mr. Gard's selection. Some fine specimens of Antwerp cut diamonds are exciting a great deal of interest at the moment.

HIGH CLASS TAILORS.
Someone has said that the finest set of a young man can possess is a good suit of clothes, and there is a deal of truth in the saying. Edgcombe and Chaisson, 104 King street, have just received per steamer from the latest London novelties with exclusive designs. Those requiring a high class suit of clothes should give them a call.

GROCERY, WINE AND SPIRITS.
It is interesting and useful to know that James Ryan has in stock a fine selection of wines and spirits at his store, No. 1 King square. Mr. Ryan is in a special position to get the very finest and best brands, and connoisseurs are invited to call and inspect for themselves. Groceries of all description are stocked also.

NEW DULSES.
From the rocky shores of the island of Grand Manan comes a most perfect form, i. e. large leaf and good flavor, that very popular and wholesome relish, "Dulse." It is a specialty at T. J. Phillips Fruit store, Union st., and every week is received a consignment of the choicest pickings. Orders will have prompt attention. Phone 1240.

CANDY STORE.
She only answered "Ting a ling" to all that he could say. "Ting a ling" by night as well as day. He said to her, "I'll marry you; but all that she could say was, "Ting a ling, ting a ling, ting a ling, ting a ling." The young lady had tried some Russell ting cans made by A. J. Russell, on Union street.

UNDERTAKER.
Death must always be a painful subject, but when it comes—as it must—it is gratifying to know that our dear ones have the greatest care and attention shown them in the last offices. T. Fred Powers, of Princess street, pays special attention in this respect, and one cannot do better than entrust him when occasion arises.

GENTS' CLOTHING AND FURNISHINGS.
A store which is situated in a very convenient place, is that of E. Komensky & Co., 48 Mill street, as its handiness to the depot makes it much sought after by people coming in from going out of the city. A full line of the latest gent's clothing and furnishings are carried by Mr. Komensky.

RESTAURANT.
It is seldom so much care is displayed in the cooking and serving of a meal as is met with at the Boston Restaurant, 20 Charlotte street. None of the enemy could tell how or by whom their companion had been shot. Many among the excited horde jabbering beneath actually looked at the cliff over their heads, yet failed to note the possibilities of the ledge, with its few tufts of grass growing where seeds had apparently been blown by the wind or dropped by passing birds.

MUSIC STORE.
Music hath charms to soothe the troubled breast, and this being a well known maxim, music lovers cannot do better than call on A. L. Spencer, 128 Germain street, who has a splendid selection of both instruments and records. He has a stock of all the little accessories that musicians are in need of. Call and inspect for yourself.

NUT STORE.

Ladies' Outing Hats AND Mexican Flip Flops.

The Great Outing and Picnic Hats Price 50 cents.

TO THE BISHOP'S TASTE.
The late Bishop Green on one of his diocesan visitations stopped with an old friend at Sevanee, Tennessee. At the early supper of the South, always a most informal meal, the bishop said he would have nothing but a dish of hominy, a little nutmeg sprinkled over.

"There ain't a bit of nutmeg in the house," exclaimed the maid when the request was repeated to her. "Dear me," said the hostess, sotto voce, "go to Mrs. Darlington next door and ask her to lend me a nutmeg." Mrs. Darlington was also out of nutmeg.

"Then go to Mrs. Harding, on the other side, we can't all be out at once, then bring the bishop the dish quickly." The hostess kept up a rapid fire of bright talk to cover the hiatus in the service until the maid appeared with the desired dish.

"What an addition is the little sprinkle of nutmeg," said the bishop: "what a fine relish it gives." When the good lady had retired the mistress said to the maid,—"Go to the supply store the first thing in the morning and get nutmeg and return, the nutmeg is Mrs. Harding's."—"But Mrs. Harding was out of nutmegs too."

JEFFRIES DISCUSSES HIS BIG BATTLE.

Ed C. Van Loan, writing of Jeffries' return to his home in California after retiring from the ring, says: "We looked on the lawn the other day, back of his home on the East Side, and Jim talked of pet bears and prize fighters, leaping tuna, fox terrier puppies, target rifles, houses and lots and street car systems. The big fellow was as full of fun as a kitten; he did not want to talk seriously about his future. It was more fun to stir the pups up to the fighting point and watch them tumbling on the lawn in their wild endeavors to chew each other's ears."

"What'll I do now?" repeated Jeffries. "Honest, I don't know! Yes, I do, too! I'm going to Catalina to have one more big fishing trip! That's the stuff! I want to get a few more of those big yellow tails over there; I might take a chance with a tuna. And that's as far ahead as I'm looking just now."

"This championship business is all right while it lasts, you know, but there ain't anything more in it for me. I know that I wanted to get a match with Jack Root, but the San Francisco people said 'Nolun' dolo'. There ain't a man left who can give me a fight enough to keep me warm, and the game, as far as I'm concerned, is dead. I made all the money out of it that there is in it and now I'm done."

"You might say for me that I'm glad to be out of it. A man gets tired of being looked at the time. I used to like you know how a brow, that way. It was kind of new to have 'em rubbing their heads off all the time and nudging at each other when I came along the street. But that sort of thing wears off and a fellow gets to wondering what they see in him. Me for the simple life now. I may go into farming and then again I may not. But it's no kid that I've quit the fighting game. They say I may fight again if there isn't a foreigner who has a chance with the bunch of fighters in this country."

"Did you ever stop to think what a great man Sullivan would have been if he hadn't gone into the ring against Corbett? They all get their sooner or later and I'm satisfied to get out of the other fellow comes along and makes me."

"The toughest fight I ever had? Well, it's a toss-up between Sharkey's second go and the one I had with a brown bear up at Harbin Springs. That bear was chewing up my bull pup and I had to go to the bear for the Spunk. He nicked me in the leg and through the arm, but I got him in the end. I laid him down on the ground, and every time he tried to get up I hit him on the nose with my fist. He had all he wanted because Fitzsimmons was bouncing a pick needle at his back bone and the bull pup was tearing his tail out by the roots at the same time, and so the bear threw up the sponge and hobbled for a doctor."

"The bear was a bad actor. He used to dig out of his cage and take to the tall trees and then the Dago would charge of him would come hot foot for me."

"Zheem," he would say, "da bear he outo da cage again; he climbs da tree!" "That was my cue. All I had to do was to show in the open and yell 'Brownie!' The minute the bear heard me he would begin to whine and cry and back down the tree as fast as he could. He wouldn't get back into his cage any too soon when he found I was on top of the tree and looking for him. Then the Dago would come around and say:

"Zheem, I wisha da damma bear would die! Some day I kella beem!" "Fitz was the greatest fellow in the world to be monkeying with animals. But that bear had the Injun sign on him. After that fight Fitz used to tell me that the bear was as close to Fitz as the bear was to me. He was anxious to take a bat at Bob with his paw, and then, whack! the pick needle would land, and Brownie would yell 'Fitz fair, but nothing to go crazy over. I had a good show and I gave a good performance of 'Davy Crockett,' but a champion of the world can get away with a lot of rough stuff that they'd kill an ordinary actor for attempting. I had about all the stage business I want in mine."

"I want to get away from all that kind of business and live my own way for a while. I made a lot of money out of the fighting game and I've got enough of it left so that I won't have to worry any about the wolves at the door. If any of 'em come around Mother here we would eat 'em up and make 'em a Mother's day. I would like to see you, Mother!" And the fox terrier to whom these remarks were addressed hopped into Jeff's arms and licked his chin in token of good faith.

"Of course, if there was a lot more money to be made in this business I'd be a fool not to stick, but the money isn't there any more. Who have they got me to fight? I went right down the line and I cleaned them all—not once but twice."

"Poor condition made my second fight with Sharkey an awfully tough one, and I think I fought as good a fight that night as I ever did. Those big lights over the ring made it hot as blazes and we went 15 hard rounds. My other fights have been comparatively easy. I never had any doubt as to the outcome. The night I won the championship I knew all along that it was coming my way. I was hitting Fitz every round pretty much as I pleased, and I knew that sooner or later I would get him. The betting was three to one on Fitz to win, and the men who backed me made a small fortune. You've seen that diamond locket I wear? One of the men who bet several thousand dollars on me made me a present of that after the fight."

"It's a great experience for a man to go through: I don't know that there is any part of it that I would have wanted to miss, but now that it is over and I'm out of it I'm glad."

COERCION BILLS PASS PARLIAMENT. All Opposition Amendments Were Voted Down.

Government's Majority Was 87—C. P. R.
Taxation Discussed—The Budget Will Be Brought Down Today.

OTTAWA, July 6.—Mr. Borden's bill to amend the Dominion Elections Act, 1900, was introduced and read a first time. The bill adds two sections which render anybody guilty of an unlawful act and subject to a penalty of $300 and costs, who knowingly publishes a false statement affecting the election of a candidate, before or during an election.

On the motion for the third reading of the bill, Mr. Scott (Liberal for Assiniboia) said he was disappointed that the government would not accept his amendment in favor of obtaining from the C. P. R. a relinquishment of its exemption from taxation. Mr. Scott moved that the following be added to Clause 23: "Provided that the foregoing shall not affect the right of the parliament of Canada to obtain by expropriation or otherwise the relinquishment by the said company's rights under Section 16 of the bill aforesaid." Mr. Talbot (Liberal for Strathcona) seconded the amendment.

Sir Wilfrid said he regretted the exemption but could not accept the amendment. Mr. Borden also said the present amendment meant nothing. The amendment was lost.

Mr. Borden presented an amendment to recommit the bill to the committee of the whole with instructions to substitute for clause 16 the following: "The provision of section 83, of the B. N. A. Act shall apply to the said province in so far as the same was applicable under the terms thereof."

Mr. Borden spoke at some length. Dr. Stockton said that the bill as presented now differed from the bill as presented originally by Sir Wilfrid. The amendment, however, was lost by a vote of 41 to 108.

Mr. Borden moved his amendment to the bill to build within Canadian territory in British Columbia all possible parts of the proposed line. Laurier, in reply, backed up the Hill interests against the C. P. R. for developing our mining possibilities.

At nine o'clock the house went into committee on the autonomy bills, when divisions were rapidly taken on amendments, the government being well sustained by a vote of 41 to 108. At 1:15 this morning the Alberta bill was passed amid loud Liberal cheers and the Saskatchewan bill followed a little later.

The budget debate commences tomorrow.

IN THE SENATE.

OTTAWA, July 5.—In the senate Hon. Mr. MacDonald, B. C., called the government's attention to some matters in connection with the imperial marine survey of the coast of British Columbia. Hon. Mr. Scott said the matter was under consideration.

Hon. Mr. Polier moved that the senate pass the following resolution: "That in cases in which the commons disagree to any amendment made by the senate, or insist upon any amendments to which the senate has disagreed, the senate is willing to receive the reasons of the commons for their disagreeing or insisting, as the case may be, by message, without a conference, unless at any time the commons should desire to communicate the same at a conference, and that any conference between the houses may be a free conference."

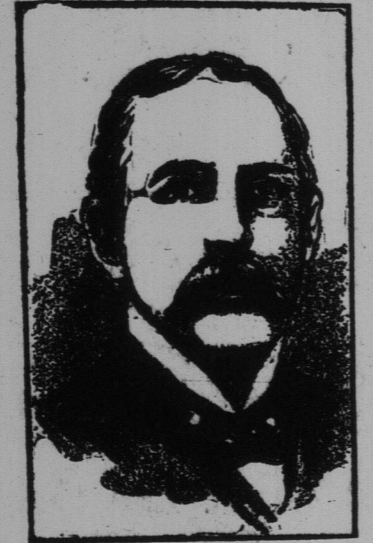

He said he was directed, in this matter by the committee revising the rules. The resolution would put in force the English practice. Hon. Mr. Scott and Ferguson (P. E. I.), were in favor of it but said that the house of commons must pass a similar resolution.

Hon. Mr. Power said he thought there would be no difficulty. He had already, he said, spoken to the chairman of the committee in the other house.

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION. Great Gathering of Christian Endeavorers at Baltimore—President Roosevelt Sends Greetings and Regards.

BALTIMORE, July 5.—The formal opening of the 2nd International Christian Endeavor convention took place this afternoon in Armory Hall with about 8,000 delegates present and nearly all of the 18,000 guests in the vast auditorium occupied.

In the absence of President Francis E. Clarke, who is unable to attend the convention, because of illness, Rev.

REV. FRANCIS E. CLARKE, head of the National organization of Christian Endeavor Societies whose big annual convention is to be held in Baltimore the first week in July.

Howard B. Groce of New York presided and opened the proceedings with brief and appropriate remarks.

President of the United Society read the following letter: OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 4. Rev. Francis E. Clarke, D. D., President United Society of Christian Endeavor, Baltimore:

"I am very sorry that it has been found impossible for me to accept your invitation to address the Christian Endeavor convention, but will permit me to send through you a word of greeting to those assembled and to heartily wish them continued success in the work in which they are engaged."

"The work of your society during the quarter of a century of its existence has been far reaching in its effect for good."

"To make better citizens, to lift up the standard of American manhood and womanhood is to do the greatest service to the country. The stability of this government depends upon the individual character of its citizenship. No more important work can be done, important to the work of Christianity as well as to our national life and greatness."

The reading of this letter evoked hearty applause, and the convention voted unanimously to send the following reply:

"BALTIMORE, Md., July 5, 1905. President Theodore Roosevelt, President's train, Lake Shore R. R., Cleveland, Ohio. 'Thousands of Christian Endeavorers from many lands honor with you the memory of Secretary Hay.'"

"We thank you for your inspiring message. 'We beg you to stop at Baltimore on your way home and let us hear your voice in a plea for the noble citizenship you exemplify.'"

"Any hour, day or night, will do."

"WILLIAM SEAW."

Governor Edwin Warfield of Maryland delivered an address of welcome that was enthusiastically applauded.

The governor was followed by Mayor T. Clay Timanus in a brief speech of welcome.

The Rev. Oliver Ruckle of Baltimore, on behalf of the ministers of this city and state, welcomed the delegates.

W. O. Atwood of Baltimore, chairman of the convention committee, welcomed the delegates and visitors.

Dr. Smith Baker, of Williston Congregational Church of Portland, responded to the addresses of welcome in behalf of the delegates.

This was followed by the anthem: "The Heavens are Telling," rendered by the convention chorus with splendid effect and conducted by R. A. Harris of Baltimore.

The annual review of the Christian Endeavor fund was read by General Secretary Von Ogden Vogt.

The convention then took a recess until 7:30 p. m.

VISITING ODDFELLOWS Given a Great Reception in Frederic- ton Yesterday.

FREDERICTON, July 5.—The visiting Massachusetts Oddfellows received a most hearty welcome on their arrival here this afternoon. They were met at the boat by His Worship Mayor McNally, Grand Master Simpson and American Consul James T. Sharkey.

As the steamer Victoria drew into the wharf the Fredericton Brass Band discoursed an appropriate welcome. Forming in procession, the order, headed by the band, marched to Parliament square. Here Mayor McNally, in a brief but most appropriate address, extended the freedom of the city to the visitors and bade them a most hearty welcome.

Noble Grand Thompson responded in a short but eloquent speech. A number of cheers were given, after which the whole party took up their stand on the Parliament building steps and the camera man took the picture of the group. The visitors were then shown about the city and took a special train this evening for St. John.

The Oddfellows will today enjoy a clam bake at the breakwater. Most of them do not know what a clam bake is and are looking forward to it with pleasurable anticipation. Tomorrow they will leave on return to their homes.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The semi-annual meeting of Union Lodge, No. 2, was held last evening, when the following officers were installed by Deputy Grand Chancellor Sutherland for the ensuing term: H. H. McLean, C. C.; Geo. E. Walker, V. C.; Edwin W. Bonnell, P. F. A. Kinneer, K. of R. and S. and M. of F.; B. C. Watson, M. of E.; A. S. Dinsmore, M. of W.; Wm. McAdoo, I. G. R. M. Barsch, O. G.

The regular reports for the past term were read, all of which showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition and with a total membership of one hundred and eighty-four.

WITH SIMPLE CEREMONY Body of John Hay Was Laid to Rest In Lake View Cemetery.

CLEVELAND, O., July 5.—The body of John Hay was laid to rest in his family burying ground in a corner of Lake View cemetery. Around his grave were the granite monuments of men who have done strong things for Cleveland, for Ohio, and some of them for the nation. Five hundred feet to the west of where the great secretary lies is the great memorial of James A. Garfield; 200 feet to the north rises the monument of the Rockefeller family.

Closer still are the graves of the Otises and the Rusts. Most of these men were buried with funeral services far more elaborate than was John Hay's. Certainly none of them could have been interred with ceremony more simple. When, however, the years shall have established their true perspective the world may come to realize that he who was laid beside the men today was fortunate in that he surpassed most and equalled all of them in the scope and value of the services he was enabled to render to his countrymen.

The services throughout were admirably conducted—in most excellent taste—and from the arrival of President Roosevelt in the morning until his departure in the afternoon brought the official day to a close not a single untoward incident was in evidence.

HOME FOR INCURABLES.

The board of management of the Home for Incurables at their monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon received several applications for admission and transacted much routine business.

The ladies have undertaken the furnishing of a dining room for the patients. The ladies have also been serving in the wards and private rooms. Whenever possible meals will be served on the lawn for those patients who are able to get out. The new elevator has been found of great value. The annual meeting will be on July 12th and it now behooves all supporters of the institution to pay their dues.

GENERAL LINEVITCH A PECULIAR PERSONALITY.

A Brave Soldier But a Tremendous Liar and a Grafter --- Japanese Hate Him for His Treatment of Them in 1900.

BERLIN, July 1.—In the event of war between Russia and Japan being continued for any considerable length of time there is one man who gives promise of leaving his imprint upon the Russian military system and that is Gen. Linevitch.

Kuropatkin, when he was given command of the Russian army against Japan had at least one enemy in his own ranks. Gen. Linevitch refused to serve under the new commander, and was given a separate command at Vladivostok. Now his enemy has succeeded him and Gen. Linevitch is in command of the entire Russian forces. Whether the future makes for peace or for war the personality of General Linevitch is interesting in the extreme.

Gen. Linevitch (Niko Ili Petrovitch) is an infantry officer who has seen none of the big campaigns of the last half of the nineteenth century, but he has acquired a great deal of experience in conducting and being associated with smaller military operations. Whether he would evolve as a strong figure in a campaign in which nearly a million men are said to be engaged on both sides is something no man can tell.

In height he is about 5 ft. 6 in. His full face, which is clean shaven, has often been compared to that of Louis Roberts, but in profile his distinctly Muscovite-tipped nose spoils the resemblance. He is in no way a powerful man to look at, but lean and of slight build. Apparently he has led a less rapid life than most Russian officers. He was in fact one of the few officers of the British, American and Japanese generals then at Tientsin.

Of the behavior of the troops under Linevitch's command enroute for Pekin in China in 1900, there is no doubt that they showed the Chinese all the horrors of war. That Linevitch in his despatches is little worthy of credence is shown by the fact that after the battle of Yangtun, where the Russian casualties all told did not exceed fifty, he telegraphed the czar saying that he had lost five hundred killed and wounded, and much exaggerated the altogether minor part played by his forces on that day.

At the assault at Pekin, on August 14, 1900, as his troops led past him to the attack, he made an amazing speech to them, giving them license to behave like savages. It was Linevitch, too, who, after having at a conference of the allied generals decided that the thirteenth of August should be devoted to reconnaissance, the 14th to concentration and the 15th to the assault on Pekin, tried to steal a march on his colleagues, and by a rapid coup de main on the early morning of the 14th force his way into Pekin and snatch the laurels from those that he had allowed to bear the burden and the heat of the day on the march up from Tientsin; but he found the Chinese on the look-out for him and was rather severely handled.

When the triumphal march through ute until signs of returning life are shown. A belated movement pressure for the storm to the same time is a great aid if you have help.

Of course, you will at first loosen collar and all binding clothing. Let some one at once remove the coat, stockings, and at the same time rub the lower limbs with an upward movement from foot to knee, occasionally slapping the soles of the feet with the open hand.

Spirits of ammonia to the nostrils, or a feather tickling in the throat, helps to quicken, but rarely arousing more than the above mechanical means. Use no spirits internally until after breathing and circulation are restored; then a moderate use of stimulants or hot tea and a warm blanket or bed is of the first importance.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S VALUATION. (Kansas City Journal.)

"A minister often has a hard time convincing a young man whom he has just married that there is no regular price for the ceremony, and yet leaving such an impression that he will be sure to get a liberal donation."

said Rev. C. P. Smith, pastor of the North Side Christian church in Kansas City, Kan. "And we often have some amusing experiences in connection with the matter."

"I remember one instance about 10 years ago when I was preaching at Walla Walla, Wash. There was no negro preacher in town and I was often called upon to perform a ceremony between negroes. One afternoon after I had married a young negro couple, the groom asked me what was the price of the service."

"Oh, well," said I, "you can pay me whatever you think it worth to you."

"The negro turned and silently looked his bride over from head to foot, then, slowly rolling up the whites of his eyes to me, said:

"Laws, sah, you have done ruined me for life."

Johnny (to his sister's young man)—What base ball club did you play with this season?

Sister's Young Man—I never played a game of base ball in my life. Why do you ask?

"Cause I heard ma tell later that you were a splendid catch."

ANOTHER LOVESICK GIRL THREATENS.

Says She Will Poison Herself in Three Weeks

Note Found, Evidently Inspired by the Sad Fate of May Grass—"Douglas" and "L. M."

Doctors who make a specialty of studying the mind, tell us that suicide begets suicide, that in many instances a wave of self-destruction follows an isolated case, of which mania there has time and again been illustrations, even in this St. John territory. The sad ending of May Grass, the Landowne hotel table girl, has seemingly set another St. John girl thinking along the poisoning line, as the following mysterious message picked up in town early this morning would indicate:

"My Dear Douglas: I am sending these few lines to let you know I can't live any longer without you. Why don't you come and see me? Douglas it is of no use, for I love you dearly. I am going away to my home on a visit, and when I come back I will poison myself and go away and die where they can't find me. Good-bye, my own dear lost one love. From your Old Love, never to be, L. M."

This note was written on the prescription slip of a well-known drug store, the writing being that of a girl none too well schooled. It seemed to be inscribed over a faintly-pencilled message which said something about, "meet me tonight."

There were several unused prescription slips in the little bunch of papers found, also a soiled handkerchief, rather daintily trimmed with lace. A second note to the same "Douglas" reads as follows:

"Dear Douglas: I drop you a few lines to let you know I love you with all my heart, and if you will not return my love I will take poison inside of three weeks. Return your love—(unfurnished). (No signature.)"

On still another piece of paper, faintly written, are the name of a young man and a young woman, or girl, having a King Square address.

Since the above was in type the Star has learned that the writer of the note is Miss Lila Miller, of Brimley street, better known as "Douglas" is Douglas Cowan, of Parrsboro.

THE WAR GAME AT CAMP SUSSEX.

SUSSEX, N. B., July 6.—Today is the day of camp, and many visitors are in evidence. A mimic battle raged around the railway bridge yesterday, the bridge being defended by the 71st and 74th Regiments while the 6th and 73rd Regiments formed the attacking party. The 71st had the road guarded by a sentry at each telegraph pole, when the 73rd advanced on it. Six sentries were fired on and the road captured. In the meantime the 74th Regiment, Col. Harper, was stationed on a hill back of the town, and gained the victory over the other attacking party, the 6th Regiment. Tonight a reception will be held by the officers and men of No. 8 Bearer Corps in honor of the P. M. D., Dr. March.
