YUKON GOLD KING

HAS DIVORCE RECORD

"Swifwater Bill" Seeks Separation From Fourth Wife and Wants Fifth.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8.—What is believed to be the American, and, therefore, the world's record in divorcing is being created by "Swifwater Bill" Bill Gates, who is seeking his fourth release from the matrimonial tie.
"Swifwater Bill" has been in Yukon
since he took a thrilling ride down Yukon river. He believed to have also made and lost more fortunes in Alaska than any other placer miner. He now worth about half a million sterling.
The co-respondents cited are the mythical characters John Doe and Richard Roe, who do duty as legal fictions on this side of the Atlantic as well as on the other.
"Swifwater Bill" had many rivals
when he courted his first wife at Eldorado Creek, near Dawson City. He won her by buying up all the fresh eggs in the place—not a great quantity, but valuable—and presenting them to her.
In San Francisco he fell in love with his first wife's sister, and married her, his first wife getting a divorce. He found that he liked his second wife less than his first, so she also obtained a divorce, and he married his first wife for the second time.
He lost a fortune, returned to Yukon, and married a California woman. He made another fortune and eloped with a girl from Sacramento. His third wife threw him out.
He is now suing for divorce from his fourth wife, and has already, it is said, married a fifth.

FOUND DEAD IN A

HARCOURT HOTEL

HARCOURT, N. B., Sept. 7.—This morning, Alfred Dugay, of St. Anthony, Kont county, a travelling salesman of jewelry, was found dead in bed at the Canadian House here. He had been there over night only, and appeared well on retiring.
Coroner Bourque, of Richibucto, held an inquest this afternoon, and after hearing several witnesses the jury found that Dugay died of hemorrhage of the lungs.
Dugay was about thirty-five and unmarried. He had been a professional athlete and held the world's championship for walking wires and tight ropes.
He had toured many countries and intended to go soon to Calgary for his health. His mother lives in St. Anthony. His brother arrived from St.
Anthony via Moncton this morning.

SUPERSTITIOUS SCARED

BY RISING PAVEMENT

Hindus and Mahomedans of Calcutta

Regard Natural Event as Pregnant

of Evil.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 8.—Some amusing evidence of Indian superstition was furnished when, owing to an accumulation of water, the pavement near the steps of the Calcutta General Post Office bulged upward.
The phenomenon caused great agitation among passersby, and an immense crowd gathered.
A third theory was that the pavement was a grave, and that the spirit of the dead was coming out to work harm in Calcutta. Many Hindus went away on hearing this, for fear of being seized by the spirit.
Some of the reports of the Hindus, to the god Shiva, laid flowers and garlands on the bulging pavement. People first ran away in fright, and then came timidly back to see whether anything had yet come out of the ground. When the municipal employees began work on the pavement there was a stampede of the timid.
The latest discovery of the Mahom-edan onlookers was the supposed impression of a hand on the earth under the pavement, which is regarded by the unlettered as a sign that the bulging pavement covered the tomb of a saint.
The return of Mahomedan ascendency.

AUSTRIAN MINISTER

IS TAKEN FOR THIEF

Baron Von Beck and His Servants Harrowed by Escape of Treatment by Mob.

VIENNA, Sept. 8.—Baron von Beck,
the Austrian Premier, was a few days ago the hero of an amusing anecdote while staying with his mother at her chateau in Southern Styria.
A neighboring villa, belonging to Count Salim-Salm, had been rifled by burglars, and the Premier, on the night of his departure, rode over with a servant to a house at which gundarmes were posted to prevent an expected second raid. The Premier's observation was that the burglar had special watch over his mother's chateau.
Two young women occupying the house heard the horses approach and the Premier conversing with his servant. They instantly threw up the windows and roused the whole neighborhood with shrill cries of "Thieves!"
The gendarmes and servants rushed upon the two visitors and, in spite of their protests, pulled them off their horses and dragged them into the house. Only there was the Premier recognized and released.

FRANCIS XAVIER WERNZ

GENERAL OF THE JESUITS

The New "Black Pope" is a German—

Pope Pius Notified of the Choice.

ROME, Sept. 8.—Francis Xavier Wernz, German, was today elected general of the society by the Congregation of the Company of Jesus, in succession to the late Father Martin, who died last May.
Following the election a messenger was immediately despatched to the Vatican to inform the pope of the choice, which, to become effective, required the papal sanction.

CROWDED STEAMER

MET A WATERSPOUT

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Officers of the steamer Lombarda which reached port today reports having narrowly escaped an encounter with a water spout while 700 miles south east of Sandy Hook. The spout appeared suddenly and caused a commotion on the steamer which carried 165 cabin and 1,000
steering passengers.
The captain ordered the ship's door closed and the passengers to take cover. The encounter, but the water spout kept a good distance from the ship.

"A man who was too drunk to tell his name was picked up by the police on the Custom House wharf this morning. He thought he was at Spruce Lake."

If you have a reason for coming into existence, let the public know the reason,

ZIEGLER'S WIDOW

GETS A TIDY SUM

She Endeavored to Break the Millionaire's Will.

But Has Settled the Action on Receipt of

Something Over Two Million Dollars.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The Sun says:
When the will of the late Wm. Ziegler, Jr., and that to his widow he had bequeathed only an annuity of $50,000 a year,
his country house and his town residence, at 234 Fifth avenue.
The widow was dissatisfied with provisions of the will, although she was willing that the greater part of the estate should go to the adopted son. She tried to contest the will, alleging that her husband's mental condition at the time he made the will was not such as to enable him to make a proper testamentary disposition of his property.
Since the announcement of the beginning of a suit nothing has been heard of it until yesterday, the accounting fied with Surrogate Fitzgerald by the executors showed a settlement had been made with the widow. The accounts showed that she consented to settle the suit for a payment of $2,185,000.
Some reports of the records show that after all expenditures on the estate have been met the residue remaining in the estate was $2,185,000.
The widow is now fifty years of age, amounts to $12,831,785.
By will not come into his inheritance until he reaches the age of forty years and it is estimated that by that time the estate which will come to him will have increased to at least $40,000,000.

PICK THE CAMBRIDGE

OARSMEN TO WIN

London Papers Are Giving Lots of Space

to Advance Information on Today's Race.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The newspapers this morning devote many columns to the Harvard-Cambridge boat race, giving their readers all the information possible on every point in dispute, the opinions of leading oarsmen relative to the outcome of the contest, the pictures of the men who will row, etc., and together do their utmost to make the occasion a great success. All of them agree that the race is an event of importance to the world of sports, and a majority pick the Cambridge crew to win.
Tribune declares that it desires to see the race become an annual feature, adding, "one glorious instance makes us all akin today. The soul of sport is stirred to its very depths by this race. It is for no medal, cup or wager, the whole sweetness of the fight is in mere honor's sake."
Sporting Life declares that the contest will decide the question of superiority of English and American style of rowing and strongly advocates making the contest at least biennial. We must not allow the American crew to "come to England."
Journal adds "there is sound truth in the opinion that the race is not just nor sportsmanlike for all the races to be rowed in England, Oxford and Cambridge must emulate their athletic conquerors and visit America in turn."

300,000 VICTIMS OF

ONE YEAR'S PLAGUE

Terrible Scourge Swept Away Entire

Districts in the Interior of India.

LAHORE, Sept. 8.—The report on the plague in the United Provinces in 1905, which has just been issued by Mayor Chatter White, shows that entire districts have been swept, and that over 300,000 people died from its effects.
The Muttra district, which was the worst, had 45,644 deaths, as against 4,188 in 1904. The scourge paralyzed the people, is the collector's graphic description.
It is believed that the rat flea is chiefly responsible for the speed of the plague and war has been waged against rats. Here is the rats' death record: Bareilly, 215,106 rats killed; Allahabad, 77,345 rats killed; Badaun, 66,241 rats killed; Agra, 57,711 rats killed.
Most of the municipalities give rat traps away to the inhabitants, and Major Chester White urges that the rat war should be carried on indefinitely.

GOT A WIFE THROUGH

AN ADVERTISEMENT.

Philadelphia Girl Married a Man Whose

Request for a Wife She Had Answered.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 8.—Within a first time, Alexander McKenzie, of Toronto, Canada, and Miss A. L. Mirabeau, of West Pittston, were married yesterday. The pair had been corresponding for several months.
"A wife wanted" ad. in a Philadelphia newspaper, was the beginning of their courtship. Several months ago the attention of the now Mrs. McKenzie was attracted to the ad.
In a joking mood she answered it.
The reply was so pleasing, that she wrote again and again, and so the courtship began. It culminated in a proposal by mail, which was accepted in the next letter which left Pittston, and yesterday McKenzie arrived in town.
He was not displeased with what he saw. Miss Beane is a comely young woman, while she in turn said he exceeded her fondest expectations.
No time was lost in making ready for the ceremony, and yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock Rev. Dr. Severon pronounced the words that united them.
A small circle of friends witnessed the ceremony, and they stood on the platform and waved merry goodbyes to the happy pair, who left at once for Toronto.

USED THE SPINAL CORD

MEDICINE HAT, Alb., Sept. 8.—A very difficult operation was performed on Engineer Glover yesterday afternoon, in the Medicine Hat General Hospital by Dr. C. F. Smith, assisted by Dr. C. E. Smith and Dr. Goodman.
In the head on collision here last Fri-and the spinal cord was mangled. No hope of his recovery could be entertained unless the cord could be replaced, and this operation was undertaken yesterday. The spinal cord of a dog being one for about an inch.

A TORONTO ITALIAN

BUNGOED OUT OF $400

He Trusted a Stranger Who Took Him In

on the Old Flam-Flam Game.

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—Fresco Salvatori reported to the police yesterday that he was robbed by a fellow countryman and flim-flamed out of $400.
Salvatori was sitting on his door steps when a stranger came up. Telling a story of how he was obliged to go to Italy in a hurry to be present in a case in court, the stranger asked if Salvatori knew where the Nicoletti Italian Bank was.
Salvatori had to have $7,000 he wanted changed to Canadian currency. After the stranger had suggested that Salvatori should help him to exchange the money, the alleged $7,000 was put in a piece of paper together with $400 of Salvatori's which was put up as evidence of good faith.
Salvatori was then handed the parcel to keep. After going for a walk the two men returned to Salvatori's house and the stranger asked for the paper parcel for a few minutes. He returned it, or another like it, and making some excuse, left Salvatori.
As he did not return the Italian's suspicions were aroused. The parcel was examined. There was no money.
Detectives are working on the case.

Patients From the Provincial

Hospital and Inmates of Orphan Asylums Were

Present This Morning—

Visitors Leaving for Their Homes.

The exhibition closes tonight. The attendance is expected to be good, as a large crowd was present this morning. None of the exhibits will be taken away before 10 o'clock tonight, and the show will be as good as ever today.
Some inmates of the Hospital for Nervous Diseases were present this morning, and they created no little amusement. The boys and girls from the different orphanages were also present.
Manager C. J. Milligan has expressed himself as well pleased with the exhibition. He is to be congratulated on the splendid work done in managing the fair.
Many of the visitors to the city have returned to their homes, and all were delighted with what they saw.
Today is expected to bring the attendance ahead of 1904's showing, and it is to be hoped that 10,000 at least will pass through the turnstiles this afternoon and night.
The amusement features of the exhibition have all been first class, and the Hippodrome was well patronized.
The "Pike" was looked on by everyone as a great improvement, and no doubt it will be seen here at the next fair.
This afternoon there will be a parade of prize horses in front of the grand stand.
The carriage horses for the city and county will also be judged.

MURDERER RETURNS

BONDS HE HAD STOLEN

Leaves Them on Saint's Statue in Church

With a Note to the Priest.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—A few hours after the Abbe Belin returned and sold this week to a Clermont bank, the Society General, some three per cent. stock of the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean Railway, of the value of $2,400, the coupons of which had not been paid for ten years, the bank discovered that the bonds had been stolen, and that they had been stolen on August 6, 1894, from an old woman who had been murdered in her home on that day.
The woman's nephew had been interested on suspicion, but no case having been proved against him he was ultimately released. No clue was ever obtained to clear up the mystery.
Meantime, the bonds in question had never been presented. Abbe Belin was therefore communicated with. He explained that he found the bonds last May on the statue of St. Anthony of Padua in his own church. A piece of paper was pinned to them bearing the words, "For the priest, for his charities." The police are now investigating the matter.

LOST IN LOVE'S SWEET GAME.

Ambitious French Grocer Commits Suicide.

His Bride's Mother Wanted Him, His Intended Ran Away, and He Hanged Himself.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—A drama could be made out of the story of a grocer's marriage at Grenoble. He was seven and twenty, ambitious and pleasing. He was introduced to a rich tradesman with a still buxom wife and a pretty daughter of eighteen years. The young grocer's game was obvious. The surest way to win a fair bride and handsome fortune was to prostrate his intended mother-in-law, and this he did only too well. She favored his suit, and was glad to see him whenever he called. Soon she received him with sighs and long pressures of the hand, and it dawned upon the terrified grocer that he had won, not the daughter, but the mother. He was twenty-seven, she was forty, and a woman of strong will, and he gave in. In the interval the husband died, and the grocer grew more alarmed than ever. Marriage with the mother, not the daughter, now threatened him, for the lady of forty was more and more loving. He screwed up his courage and told her that he loved her no more. Tears and protestations did not move him. The lady wept and stormed still more when she found him courting her daughter. As successful with the daughter as with the mother, he was accepted, and the wedding day passed without a cloud.

But the discarded lady of forty was nursing a horrible revenge. The bride retired to change her dress, the mother went with her, and told her the whole story. Her mother had been her husband's mistress. Tears and fury were the result. In the uproar the bride was forgotten. When the groom went to find her she had flown, and the best man was missing with her. She had left no time in seeking consolation. The grocer hunted for the couple a week, then shut himself up in his lodging and hanged himself.

Martyrdom Described

KINGSTON MAN TELLS HOW HE SUFFERED AND HOW HE WAS RELEASED.

"For years a martyr is how I was. I was a martyr to chronic constipation, but now I am free from it and all through the use of Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill."

Many who are now suffering from this complaint will be glad to learn from Mr. Powell's story that there is hope for the most stubborn case. He continues: "I was induced to try Anti-Pill by reading the testimony of some one who had been cured of constipation by it. I had suffered for eighteen years and had taken tons of stuff recommended as cures, but which made me worse than better. Doctors told me there was no cure for me."

Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill is for sale by all Druggists or by The Wilson-Pyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Mr. Powell will verify every word of these statements.

MONTREAL CITY COUNCIL

WARNED BY NEW FIRM

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—The finance committee of the city council today received a protest from the Hemmings Manufacturing Company complaining of a tax of $5 per year levied upon them for an electric motor. The company says that they recently moved to Montreal from Toronto, but had they not invested largely in the plant, etc., they would move back to Toronto to Hamilton, for they find cost of rent, power, light, labor and small purchases of materials greater here than there. They warn the council they will soon lose some of the city's important industries. No action was taken on the letter. It is denied that the allegations of the protest are correct.

KINGSTON CITIZEN

MAY HAVE BEEN KILLED

KINGSTON, Sept. 7.—The dead body of a man found about eleven o'clock this morning in the harbor at King Street Esplanade, was identified as that of Samuel Lowe, a well known citizen, who has been missing from his home since last evening.

Deceased was treasurer of the Independent Order of Foresters, and started to a meeting of that lodge last night, but did not reach there. He is known to have had a considerable sum of money, constituting lodge dues, in his possession, and when found this morning there was only a small amount of change in his pocket. The fact that he had the sum of four pounds and an interest in the business of a firm, led to the suspicion of foul play, and an inquest has been ordered by Coroner Sands.

HOBBS GETS FOUR YEARS

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—David Hobbs, C. P. R. customs clerk who was accused of absconding with $65,000, was sentenced by Judge Choquet today to four years in penitentiary.

DR. JONES WIRES HIS ACCEPTANCE

Takes Over the Duties of Chancellor Sept. 20th.

Will be Much Missed at Acadia Where he Was Registrar—His Successor Discussed

FREDERICTON, N. B., Sept. 7.—Dr. Jones has wired Dr. Jones that he will accept the chancellorship of the University and be ready to report for duty on the 20th instant.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., Sept. 7.—The appointment of Prof. C. C. Jones of Acadia to the chancellorship of the U. N. B. has awakened great interest here and it is the chief subject of discussion not only in educational circles, but among the leading citizens with whom he is very popular. The universal sentiment is one of pronounced regret at his departure. While congratulating him on his advancement, the faculty here will be distinctly weakened, as he was an able teacher and a tactful disciplinarian while as registrar he showed excellent administration in the correspondence connected with the president's office.

THE POLLARDS.

The news that the Pollard Lilliputian Opera Co. will shortly revisit this city comes as a pleasant piece of news. They were strangers when they first dropped down among us, but the little ones soon won their way into public favor. They are more like a family than any other band of players on the road. They show evidence of the most excellent training both on and off the stage. Indeed, it would be hard to gather a company of children ranging from seven to thirteen so well behaved, so susceptible of thorough training and whose conduct both in the hotel and on the stage was so absolutely free from cause for reproach.

The little Australians are under the direct supervision of three ladies, and they are the most obedient of scholars. They are enthusiastic about the profession that they are growing to love, and though young they fully appreciate the value of public approval. A personal friend of the audience, until their departure is regarded with regret, and their return looked forward to with real pleasure. Their repertoire embraces the brightest and best of comic opera and the liveliest and clearest of musical comedies. The Pollard Opera Co. will open here on Monday, Sept. 17, at York Theatre.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPT. 8, 1906.

Yesterday in the case of Collins vs. The City of St. John, a verdict for the plaintiff for one thousand dollars damages was rendered. The city is open to the public, and the jury, evidenced by the answers made to questions given them, there was found negligence everywhere in the management of the ferry. The jurors say definitely that the death of Mrs. Collins was hastened by the accident, and that the accident was the result of negligence, that it could have been prevented if the ferry employees had done their duty; and in fact that looseness of management prevailed everywhere. The case has been appealed, and it may be that at the next trial a different view will be taken, but here are a number of thoughtful citizens who conscientiously desire to judge fairly and who find that the city is liable because of the neglect of duty shown by its employees.

There is very little sense in locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen—unless as in this case, the owner of the stable has other horses there. It would appear that, without waiting for the judgment in the appeal case, which really has nothing to do with the affair as the evidence of neglect of duty is what should chiefly be regarded, the ferry board should give a general shake-up to the employees of that department. It might not be a bad plan to dismiss half a dozen of the crowd just as a start.

The exhibition of 1906 will be brought to a close this evening. It has been a success and reflects great credit on all those who have had to do with the management. These days of inclement weather, one of them being very disagreeable, have been experienced, and these to a large extent interfered with the attendance. However, when all things are taken into consideration the number of paid admissions so far has been very gratifying. There have been disappointments in the fair, though not of such a nature as to interfere with the general success. It is clearly seen that at this season and in such a province as New Brunswick, a large display of vegetable products need not be looked for. St. John exhibitions must depend to the greater extent on the different industrial concerns in the country, and these have certainly come to the front this year. There was an annoying and unavoidable disappointment in the failure of Barlow's elephants to appear—their latest amusement feature on the original programme. But all the other ideas of the management have been well carried out and there has been no cause for complaint.

More than ever this year the exhibition has been a boon to merchants. It has brought to St. John thousands of people who came not only to see the people to do their shopping and the amount of money left in the city by these visitors must be very large. The advertising which St. John has gained, and the stimulus to trade, have been of the utmost benefit. For this alone the exhibition was needed.

This afternoon and tonight the last opportunity of visiting the grounds will be afforded and all should attend.

CANNED MEAT.

An inland revenue department bulletin dealing with the analysis of canned meats sold in Canada has recently been issued. It contains detailed reports of three hundred and twenty-two tins of various meats selected at random from the stocks of wholesale and retail merchants throughout the country. The analyst noted the general appearance of the meat, and made tests for preservatives. Out of all the samples, only four were found to give evidence of decomposition and the only preservative found was boric acid which was present in fifty-one cases. This proportion is 15.5 per cent., while in the analysis made in 1903 boric acid was present in 21.2 per cent. of the tins. It is worthy of note that although out of the samples selected one hundred and forty-two were put up by United States packers, only three of these were found to contain traces of boric acid, one of the three being doubtful, while in the one hundred and eighty tins packed by Canadian firms forty-eight contained this preservative.

From Chicago to Tangier is a long way, but the capture of President Stensland of the Milwaukee Bank shows that the arm of the law can reach even to Morocco. Bank robbers are finding the paths of unrighteousness beset with ever-increasing difficulties.

VACATIONAL.

From breakfast bell to supper bell. From supper bell to nine o'clock. This is the part of Mrs. Pell.

To rock and talk, and talk and rock. The other boarders about, in primrose paths that please them best.

But Mrs. Pell, who's rather stout. She came up here, she says to rest.

She doesn't boat, she doesn't climb. She never drives, she never walks.

From rising bell to bunking time. She talks and rocks, and rocks and talks.

The other boarders drift away—She talks them east, she talks them west.

She talks and talks the livelong day. She came up here, she says, to rest.

Holding the best veranda chair. She circles daily with the sun.

She's travelled—has been everywhere—Seen everything—knows every one.

She talks the new moon up the sky. She talks the song bird to his nest.

She never stops. You wonder why. She came up here, she says, to rest.

The housefly buzzes on the glass. The brooklet chatters in the dell.

The bumblebee drones in the grass—So drones and chatters Mrs. Pell.

She'll still stop, if at all. The dear Lord knows who knoweth best.

She means to stay "clear through to fall." She came up here, she says, to rest.

A VALUABLE ANIMAL.

"Seems to me a man of your standing in the community ought to drive a better-looking horse," remarked the summer boarder.

"I wouldn't trade him for the fastest roadster in the hull county," said Farmer Huckleberry. "That horse knows just what to do when he meets an automobile. He cavors around an' topples over an' breaks up a dollar's worth o' buggy shaft an' mebbe fifty cents worth o' harness, and I'll bet I've collected more'n eleven hundred dollars from the automobile owners. The old boss is all right."

A visiting bishop in Washington was arguing with a friend of his on the desirability of attending church. At last he put the question squarely:

"What is your personal reason for not attending?"

The gentleman smiled in a non-offensive intended way, as he replied: "The fact is one finds so many hypocrites there."

Returning the smile, the bishop said: "Don't let that keep you away; there is always room for one more."

SATURDAY SERMONETTE.

EXHIBITIONS.

Exhibitions are of all kinds and are held in all places. You have to pay and go through a turnstile to see some of them, but the best exhibits you can see any day without money or price.

There are some very fine exhibits on boats and especially on crowded trains. I would like to be a car conductor for twenty years and then write a book. If I could write it well it would be as interesting as David Harum. But I can never be a conductor of a train for I have not the patience to answer fool questions for a hundred miles and more. "What time will we get in, conductor?" "Are we on time?" "and do we stop at the junction?" "and what time is it by your watch, conductor, and is it right?"

If conductors, as they see so many exhibitions of selfishness and temper and egoism, don't lose all faith in human nature they must have a strain of the angels in their make up.

Speaking of common every day conductors reminds me of the time I first saw a Pullman car conductor. I was a boy from the country and as I saw that gorgeous being in the robes of his mighty office wearing his diamonds and haughty look of superiority, I asked my father, if it was the King.

"He is the king of the car," said my father, and I know now that over his realm he was more absolute than King Edward is over his. That Pullman car conductor was the second great exhibit I had ever seen. The first was the colored Pullman porter.

On the train I saw a fine exhibit. The cars were crowded and seats were at a premium. An old lady came down the aisle looking for a seat, but she could find none, and I tried not to see her for fear I would have to give her mine. Just in front of me were two ladies (I suppose they were) and behind them a boy of thirteen one of them owned. Beside the boy were the wraps of the—ahem, ladies. I directed the old lady to the seat beside the boy, but she was told by two excited women that the seat was engaged, and the old lady went away crestfallen and so did I as they told me with their eyes to "mind my business."

But our triumph came later, for a few minutes after the old lady came back with a brakeman and in a trice those wraps were tossed to the ladies who owned them and the old lady settled back into that seat with a glance of triumph at the monopolists that was good to see.

It was a good-natured crowd at the exhibition, and the officials and policemen did their work well.

There was only one manufactory in the city not represented. I did not see on the streets or in building or on grounds one intoxicated person.

It was amusing to a mere man to note the difference in the ladies' appearance going into the exhibition and coming out. It was like a patent medicine ad. "They went in with hats on straight, neat and debonaire, and beautiful to look upon. They came out with hats over their eyes, dishevelled hair, and dust bespattered skirts. Still beautiful they were, but clean while the government is determined to maintain order, and it accordingly decrees court-martial for politicians and increases the penalties for carrying on the revolutionary propaganda."

THADDEUS.

This afternoon the 52nd band will furnish music at the St. Andrew's Rollaway, and in the evening the City Cornet Band will be present. The famous LeRoy children, the world's champion juvenile fancy and trick roller skaters will give their exhibition in the afternoon at 4.40, and in the evening at 8.40. The public may skate up to 4.35 and 8.35. These will be the final performances of these marvellous children in the city, and those who do not see them should do so today as their performance is well worth more than the price of admission, and their equal will hardly be seen in this city again.—Adv't.

NEW BATTERIES

BELOW QUEBEC

Will Command Long Stretch of the St. Lawrence From the Lewis Shore.

QUEBEC, Sept. 7.—Few people are aware of the importance and magnitude of the new fortifications now in course of construction at Beauport, some ten miles below Quebec, on the Lewis side of the river. The work, which has now been in progress for some time past, will require about two years to finish. It is being executed by the Militia department at Ottawa, under the superintendence of Captain Houlston, C. E., of the engineering branch of the service. These fortifications will consist of two big gun batteries of two guns each, destined to command a large water stretch of the lower St. Lawrence from the heights of Beauport. Nearly one hundred men are at work and the foundations are almost completed. Both batteries will be at a height of 100 feet above high tide, the other at a height of 200 feet. They will be fitted to accommodate a garrison of over a hundred men, and when completed will be equipped with guns of long range and of the latest pattern.

Those who wish to procure admission tickets and skate checks for the Salvo Corps carnival on Monday night at St. Andrew's Rink Rollaway, can do so at ten o'clock Monday morning, when the box office will be open and will remain open all day. Skates can be reserved by bringing a check and leaving the name and size of skate wanted, and whether for a lady or gentleman. Those who intend skating should take advantage of the offer as it will ensure them in securing skates. As there is sure to be a big demand for both admission tickets and skate checks, and there is only a limited number to be sold, they will be served on the first come first

KILLED A BOY THAT SHE MIGHT BATHE IN BLOOD.

Superstition of an Indian Woman Leads to a Trial for Murder—Epidemic is Killing Hundreds of Elephants—The Persian Assembly.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 8.—According to advices from Calcutta, preparations are already in progress for the visit of the Amherst to India in November. The road from Calcutta to Jellalpur, along the Cabul River, is being repaired for his majesty's passage, while troops are being inspected and new uniforms made for the escort.

It is announced that the Amherst's son, Inayatullah Khan, and his sister are shortly to be married to the daughter and son respectively of Nawab Khan, the Amherst's brother. The Punjab chief court has passed judgment in an extraordinary case that had come before it on appeal from the Umballa sessions court. In the town of Jagadri, about thirty miles from Umballa, there lived a merchant of some position. Like all Hindus, he was keenly anxious to have a son; but all the children that his wife bore were dead. Last year it seemed probable that she might again hope to be a mother, and the merchant sought advice from a religious mendicant in order to be sure that the expected child should be born alive. The Jogi told the merchant that if his wife bathed in human blood her child would live. This seems to be a very ancient belief, and, revolting as it must have been to a Hindu woman, the anxiety of husband and wife for a son brought them to assent to the crime for which they were tried. A boy, Arjan by name, about eight or nine years of age, was kidnapped, and after being kept a prisoner for thirty hours was strangled. His blood was collected in a brass vessel, and after certain charms had been repeated the expectant mother smeared the blood over her body and so fulfilled the rite. The boy was soon mangled, and the crime came to light through the confession of the man who had kidnapped the child, and had received three rupees for doing so. To the western mind the whole affair is marked by cruel folly; but the common folk of the Punjab will pass that by for the merchant's wife gave birth to a living infant while in jail. All Jagadri will believe that the spells and the rites have proven potent.

A strange coincidence is reported from Bombay. Late last month, the famous elephant on which Lord and Lady Curzon rode in the Delhi Durbar elephant procession, died at Benares the same day that Lady Curzon died in London.

The vice-regal elephant was about 15 years old, and had been ailing for some time, his condition having been aggravated by injuries he received in a fight with another elephant.

It is interesting to note in this connection that an outbreak of anthrax has spread death among the government elephants in Calcutta district. Nearly 250 elephants, most of them highly trained and very valuable, died within a few days of the outbreak, the loss being eight lakhs of rupees, or over $200,000.

The remaining elephants have been distributed in the district, and it is hoped that the outbreak will soon be over.

Reports from Tehran state that the Shah's rescript for a constitution orders the formation of a national consultative assembly composed of representatives of all classes, from the princes downwards.

The assembly will advise on important state and public affairs, and will propose reforms conducive to the welfare of the people and the country. Justice will be administered in accordance with the sacred law. The Grand Vizier is to draw up the rules of procedure for the assembly, and these are to be approved by the assembly itself.

During the period of excitement nearly 15,000 Persians of all classes took refuge in the grounds of the British Legation, and pitched huge tents, each trade or profession being separately represented. Almost every town in Persia was affected. The bazaars were closed, with the exception of a few European shops, and business was at a standstill in the literal sense of the word. The Grand Vizier, who has just been removed owing to the clamor of the people, still visits the Shah, and it is the general opinion that he will remain office directly the demonstrators leave the British Legation. The Grand Vizier is the goal of ambition of ministers and government officials, they dream of the position as a means of becoming rich. For methods of extortion, the official who has just been retired has put all his predecessors in the shade. He was a past master in the art of taking bribes, and now is worth in immense sum. At present the Minister of Foreign Affairs is the Grand Vizier. He is a middle-aged man, of genial appearance, and strikes the observer as being most kind and obliging. But he has the characteristics of the Oriental, and his ideas are not restricted according to European standards.

BOSTON FISHING SCHOONER ASHORE

GLoucester, Mass., Sept. 7.—The Boston fishing schooner Katherine G. Burke arrived in this port from Rockland, Me., late today. At Rockland the vessel went ashore and suffered considerable injury, necessitating the postponement of the fishing trip. The members of the crew claim that the skipper of the schooner offered them $10 each if they would free the vessel when she went ashore, and also promised them $1 a day for working the schooner back to Boston. The men say that the captain has not paid them and tomorrow they will file a libel in the U. S. court against the vessel.

BRITISH HOP CROPS ALMOST A FAILURE

Hot Weather and Scarcity of Rain Played havoc With the Plants.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Reports received from the hop grounds in Kent, Sussex, Surrey, Hampshire, Worcestershire, and Herefordshire show that the combined effect of one of the most persistent attacks of aphid blight ever known and of the protracted drought has been most adverse to the prospects of the crop everywhere, and in many cases disastrous. All the reports refer to the blight, which is generally described as the worst since 1882, when the visitation led to a great failure of the crop. Many reports allude to the injury that has been done by the absence of moisture and by the scorching sun, scarcely any rain having fallen in some of the hop districts for many weeks. There has recently been a slight improvement in the position, but the crops have been continuously carried out, and the blight, which has been growing in those plantations where washing has been neglected, is now being carried out, and the hops have gone from bad to worse, so that on these grounds scarcely any will be produced.

CLIMBED SEVEN PEAKS OF RUWENZORI MOUNTAINS

MILAN, Sept. 8.—A telegram from Entebbe, Uganda, states that the Duke of Abruzzi's expedition reached in forty days all the seven highest summits of the Ruwenzori Mountains in East Africa. Through the Mubuku Valley the party pushed up the Kivango group 12,700 feet. Then from the Congo side they reached the summit of the Duwoni group at 15,000 feet. They came back through the valley of a river, till the unknown, the Bulungu, springing from the huge Duwoni glaciers and discharging into the Mubuku Valley. The Duke is now hunting elephants. He named the highest summit Mt. Ruwenzori Mount Margaret, the second Mount Alexandra, and the third Mount Leopold. The other four are still without names.

FARMER'S SON IS NOW FRENCH COUNT.

Sirango Freak of Fortune Transferred Child From St. Casimir to Paris.

ST. CASIMIR, Sept. 7.—Joseph Orance Grandbois, born twenty-three years ago in this village, the son of Norbert Grandbois, a small farmer, is now the Count Joseph Orance Grandbois de Villeneuve, a student at law in Paris, and the first intimation that he was born to any other estate than that which he at present occupies was conveyed to him a few weeks ago in a letter from Notary Lacourriere, of this place.

The strange freaks that fortune play are never shown to greater advantage than in this story of the little orphan of this village, who was conveyed to Quebec to a college upon the death of his father's mother. When there seemed nothing but a life of hardship before, the little chap whom the parish priest had adopted as a child whom she might adopt should be sent to her to France, was the instrument. And then, in charge of the little boy of two was sent across the Atlantic. Since then he has been brought up in entire ignorance of his origin, until two weeks ago, when he was informed by a letter from the local notary that he must either accept, or refuse, as he was of age, his inheritance, which amounted to some $500. He accepted.

"SASSED" HER, SO SHE SHOT HIM

Ranch Foreman Gets a Bullet From Wounded Girl's Gun.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Sept. 7.—Miss Edna Irvine, daughter of State Treasurer W. L. Irvine, shot Geo. H. Knighton, foreman of the Lister Cattle Company's Big Red ranch, near Clearmont, yesterday.

All Miss Irvine would say is that Knighton "sassed" her and shot him for it.

Miss Irvine says she has been subjected to annoyance when her father has been away, and says Knighton was one of her chief tormentors. Yesterday morning the barn doors were left open and horses got into the granary. Knighton returned to the house, after finding the doors open, and made some remarks about carelessness.

The girl whipped out a revolver which she carries on the range and snapped it off in the foreman's face. The first cartridge failed to explode, but the second sent a bullet into the foreman's body. He was brought here and physicians have been working with him ever since.

Miss Irvine has been arrested.

INTERNAL DISSENSIONS CONTINUE TO DISTURB THE VATICAN.

Merry del Val Wants to Run Things Too Much His Own Way—Leaders of the Church are Comparing the New Regime With the Old.

ROME, Sept. 8.—The "Osservatore Romano" prints in detail a story which is causing no end of comment among Catholics. The story is entitled "William Shakespeare a Roman Catholic." Then it proceeds: "The learned critic De Rougemont has published the authentic testament of the great poet Shakespeare, which begins with the words: 'In the name of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of God, of the Archangels, Angels, Patriarchs, Prophets, Evangelists, Apostles, and Martyrs of the whole court of heaven, and of my angel guardian, I, William Shakespeare, unworthy member of the Holy Catholic Apostolic and Roman Religion,' etc., etc."

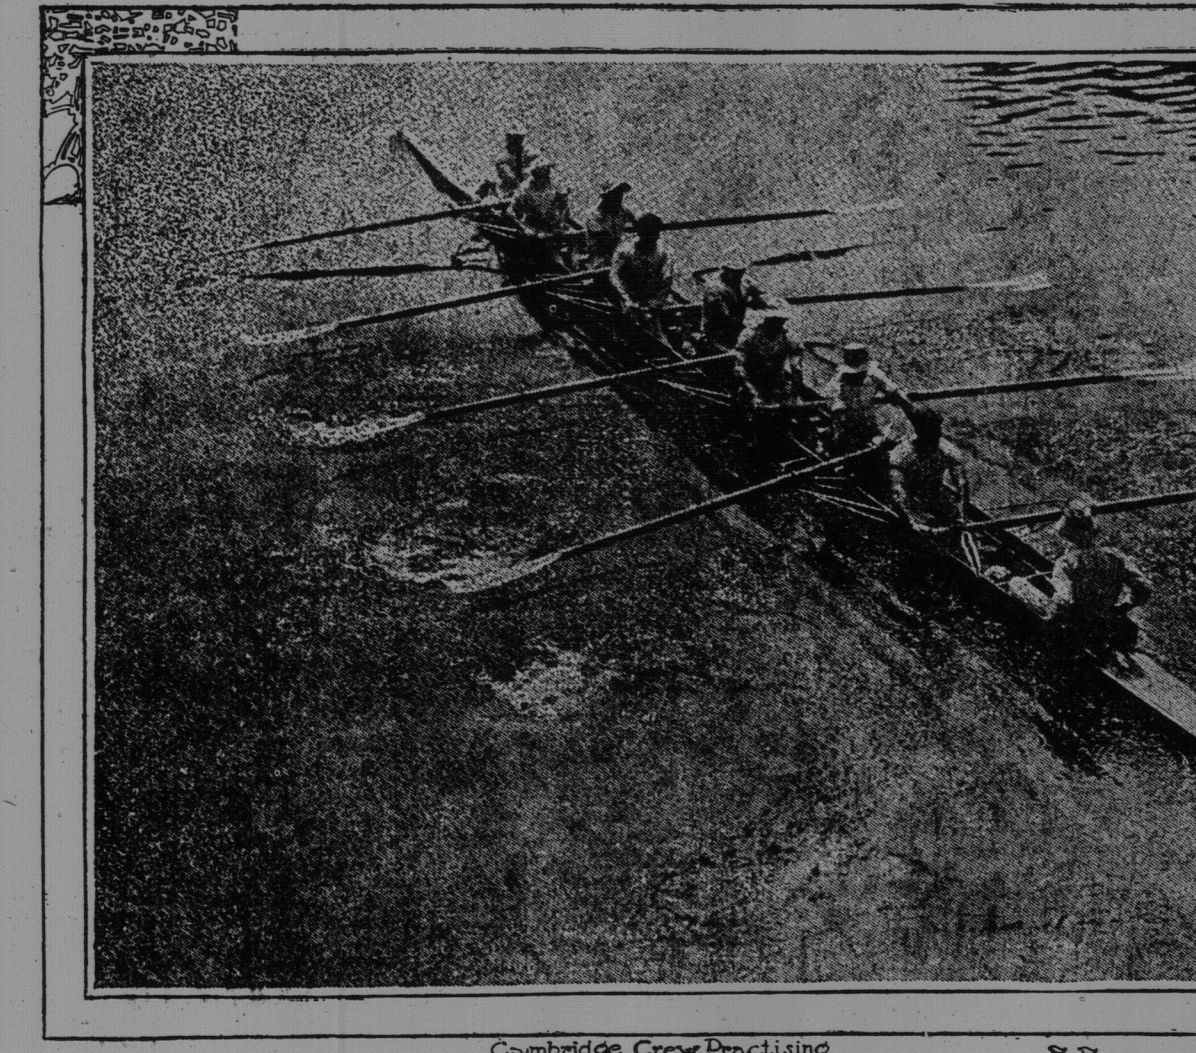

Thus finishes, continues the note, "every pretension, sustained with such persistence by Protestants, that he was born, had lived, and died outside the fold of the Catholic church."

"Already two trustworthy Protestants, Richard Davies (Davies?) and Prof. Signorini, had asserted that William Shakespeare was a 'Catholic Papist,' as was said at that time; and Giotto affirmed that the father of Shakespeare, who bore the name of John, was a Catholic, and hence had educated his son in a Catholic manner."

Interesting complications have arisen at the Vatican. The chief symptom is that the cardinals are no longer consulted, and that the cardinal secretary of state governs not only over their heads, but over the head of the good and pious old pope, Leo XIII, never failed to consult the cardinals on all important questions, and always listened to their views with closest attention. Under the Merry del Val regime the claim is made that the cardinals, even those who contributed most to the election of Pius X., have been pushed aside.

The opposition consists of three categories of cardinals. The extreme left, the "Montagne" of this new movement, is recruited from the best, the cleverest, and the most modern members of the Sacred College. To this group belong Cardinal Satolli, who has learnt much during his long sojourn in the United States; Cardinal Agliardi, famous for his wit; Cardinal Agliardi, formerly Nuncio in Paris, and the learned Cardinal Capeltrani, the influential Cardinal Vincenzo Vanutelli (the chief friend of Germany in the Sacred College), and the French Cardinal Mathieu. In the group of the "Moderates" are the Cardinals Casati, Caviglioli, Cavichioni, Gennari, Minterelli, and Nocella, all ardent partisans and electors of Pius X. The third and least militant group, which confirms itself to observation and nate criticism, is made up of men like Cardinal Gregalis, Macchi, Gotti, Serafino and Trippi.

HARVARD'S HARD PRACTICE IS OVER.

Cambridge Crew Practising

PUNNEY, Eng., Sept. 7.—The Harvard and Cambridge crews were cut for a brief period today, but the work was confined to practicing starts in which the experts found little to choose between the crews. Each side apparently is quite confident, but among outsiders and river-side onlookers there is an absence of that self confidence regarding the result which is almost always present a full week before the annual Oxford-Cambridge contests.

Generally speaking the professionals favor the Americans and the amateurs their faith to the Cambridge crew. Coach Wray is perfectly satisfied with the capabilities and power of endurance of his crew and thinks they have a more than even chance of winning. Captain Filley, of the Harvard crew, is also confident and says that if the Americans are beaten tomorrow it will not be until the finish of the race. Dr. J. J. Smith, president of Cambridge University, said today that he thought the Cambridge crew would win, but that there would not be much space between the boats at the finish. The weather probab predicts westerly winds for tomorrow. This would be against the boats over most of the course and the winner of the toss in this event would gain by the choice of the Surrey side of the river.

PUNNEY, Eng., Sept. 6.—The Harvard crew today stopped hard practice for its race with Cambridge on Saturday. Only quick starts and short sprints will be practiced from now until the race, and the men are taking matters easy.

Harvard's condition is ideal. Every man is fully accustomed to the weather conditions and trained to the minute.

Betting on the event is now even.

Despite the fact that many of the native votaries of the rowing game are wrapped up in the Cambridge eight, still there are a number of unbiased rowing fans here who can't see anything in the race but the Americans.

For instance, Driver, the waterman of the Oxford University crew, who has been teaching Bladen the course, and who has seen races here for more than twenty-five years, says: "I like Harvard. The men row like professional scullers, and what is more, they act like them. They are cool and collected and look experienced. If something bad happens they get together the next. They strike me as being very resourceful. They say Cambridge will lead at the start. Well, I'm not sure about that. Harvard is using men's size oars, while Cambridge is using boys' size, and I think Harvard will win the race."

"Yesterday the rival crews had but light practice. Neither eight did more than 'twenty minutes' work in the morning, and in the afternoon they practiced starts and short stretches, and the Harvard crew took one moderately long stretch paced by a scratch crew from the London Rowing Club."

Harvard's chief fault has been her inability to make good starts. However, today their work in this direction is much improved. They went as high as forty strokes to the minute and at the same time kept well together.

There is no extreme interest in the coming race. Dense crowds watch the men work on the river in their trial sprints each day. Never before has there been such interest in a contest of this kind, and the chances are that

SCOTCHMEN COMPLAIN THAT AMERICANS ARE STINGY.

THE TRUE INVENTOR OF THE AUTOMOBILE

Was Siegfried Markus and His First Machine Was Built in 1883.

VIENNA, Sept. 7.—Says the "Wiener Abendpost": "Whenever conversation turns on motor-cars one hears it stated—and similar assertions are also to be found in the text-books—that it was the American Edison or the German Ackermann and Peimler, or a Frenchman who invented the modern automobile. The real inventor, Siegfried Markus, is mentioned either not at all or only incidentally. And few know that the first motor-car appeared in the streets of Vienna. Under the title of 'The Motor Vehicle' the expert Hugo Guldmann has published a much-needed text-book, in which, in a brief survey of the development of modern motoring, he shows that Markus, in 1883, was one of the first to bring the Viertakt Benzin-motor into use. It is known in Vienna, and it should now be known elsewhere, that Markus' Viertakt Benzinmotor was to be seen as early as 1883 at the great World Exhibition."

HER ROYALTY FATAL

Little Girl Falls Backward From Her Throne Out of Open Window.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Josephine Changoob, 6 years old, while playing queen in a childish game with other children in the parlor of her home at 49 Pearl street, fell from the temporary throne erected for her through a window and landed on the pavement below. Her mother entered the room as the little one fell, and rushed down the two flights of stairs only to find her child dead.

The throne upon which the little queen of the game sat consisted of a soap box placed on a chair very close to the window. As the excitement of her subjects increased, so did that of the little queen, until finally she rose to her feet, at the same time dislodging the box. As she attempted to sit down again she pitched backward out of the window.

THIS WOMAN WANTED A ONE-EYED HUSBAND

PARIS, Sept. 8.—There is a strange story told of a woman in the Belleville district, Madame Joliet, who wanted to make a Polyphemus of her husband. "He'd look so queer as a cyclops," she said to the police magistrate after her arrest. "I wanted to gouge out his own eyes and to hammer a nice glass one into the centre of his forehead." The woman had approached her husband with a scissors, and was punishing his eyes when she awoke, shrieking with pain. Jumping out of bed, he had a fearful struggle to hold his wife down until help came. The woman, it is needless to say, had gone mad, and she is now in an asylum crying for a one-eyed husband.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT BEING MADE TO RECOVER TREASURES SUNK THREE HUNDRED YEARS AGO—TOURISTS CANNOT GET PASSAGE HOME.

GLASGOW, Sept. 8.—The return rush of Americans from the Highlands has begun. Already the shipping companies here and in London are at their wits' end to find cabin accommodations for them all. The number who came over this year is said to have far exceeded any previous records, and although almost all the companies have put on additional ships since last year, it is impossible to comply with all the applications for berths of those who wish to return. The companies complain that the tourists all insist on going back at the same time. Whether they come in May or June or September, they all want to return at the same time. The result is that every available berth is booked up for the next few weeks. Those who neglected to make provision for their return journey are now in a sad plight, and many will have to remain until the rush eases off in October. Americans have not as yet learned that Scotland is at its best about the time that they sail for home else social and business affairs permitting they would remain even longer than they do.

Another complaint that year appears to be against the Americans themselves. It certainly sounds singular, but the Scotch are complaining that the Americans are frugal. And this from a nation famous for what has been called "neat."

It is quite an understood thing among the class of Americans now in London, said the manager of one of the large hotels, "to use our hotels only for a bed and an address. Many of them—in fact, the majority—do not even breakfast here, but take their first meal at a tea shop. A chief objection with them appears to be to get out dresses on their bags. It is the fraud of the label in another form."

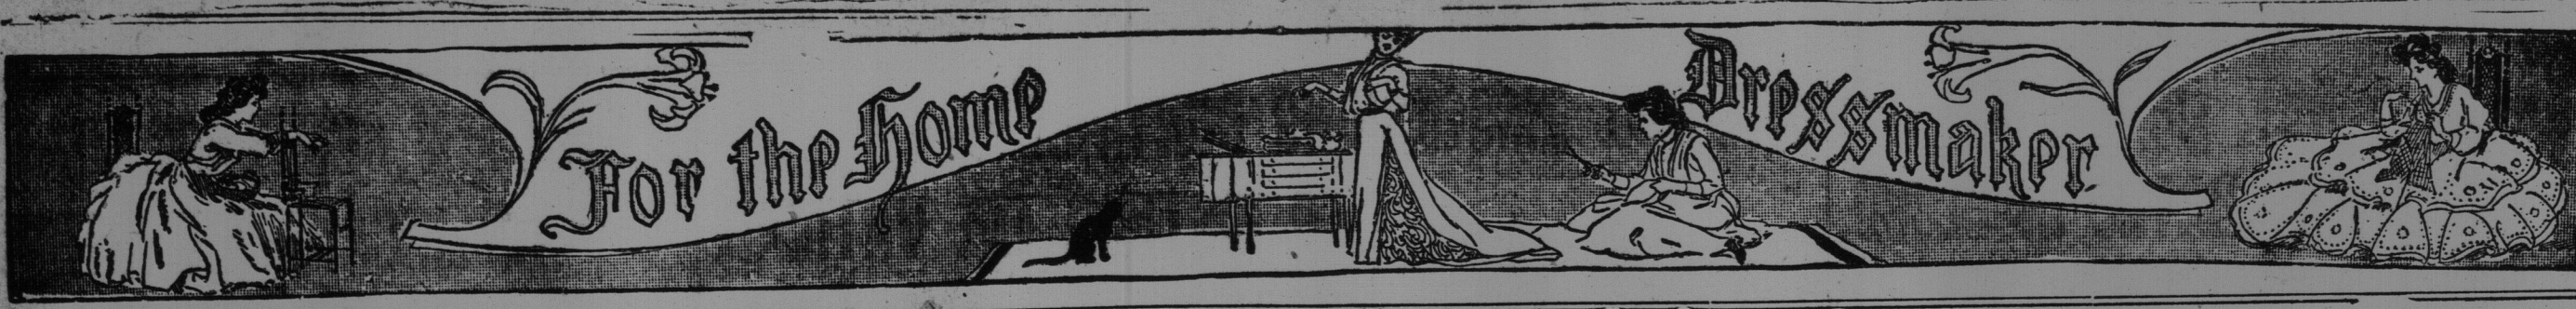

For the third time during recent years attempts are being made to recover from the depths of the sea treasure which went to the bottom more than three centuries since, in the Spanish galleon, Admiral of Florence, wrecked off Tobemory, in the Isle of Mull. Many previous efforts to reach the surface the long-lost wealth of the treasure-ship of the Armada have been refused. Captain Burns, of the British Marine Salvage Association, who is in charge of the operations for the Glasgow merchants who have again embarked in the enterprise, said it is said, he well content if he obtained possession of the silver plate, the sacramental vessels, and the other crucifixes, which were on board the flagship of Admiral Gaspard de Sues, together with the jewels and the crown, set with the choicest pearls. As for the bullion buried in the mud, there is Spanish documentary evidence to prove that it amounted to millions. The assumption is that it still lies beneath the sand, the rightful property of the syndicate to whom the Duke of Argyll has delegated his ancient right, conferred by the Royal charter of 1641.

It is stated that in 1861 a Swede brought up heavy iron cannon, but his appliances were limited. In 1740 the ninth Earl of Argyll renewed the search and found a large bronze muzzle-loading gun, which is now at Inveraray. Long years passed, and the search series of explorations beneath the surface made by divers working under Captain Burns, which were begun in 1888, resumed last year, and continued this summer, have this distinct advantage: Modern appliances are utilized to the surface the long-lost wealth of the treasure-ship, and the rest will be comparatively easy.

It is some months since the eagerly debated question of rebuilding or repairing the Auld Kirk of Ayr was temporarily settled by the town council of the burgh leaving it to a committee, of which Mr. R. A. Oswald, of Auchencrude, is the convener, to obtain funds wherewith to carry out the scheme of preservation suggested by Mr. Morris. The committee were not expected to report in time to the burgh council, and they are able to record only a partial success, $20,000 having been raised out of $50,000. Surely it will be a reproach to a people who boast of their loyalty to an "immortal memory" if they continue obdurate to the Auld Kirk's mute appeal—"wi' crazy eild" so "sair fortaunt!" Some, indeed, may excuse their reluctance to contribute by urging the opinions of Mr. Hall Blyth and Sir William Arrol, that the ancient structure should be rebuilt, but have they given adequate consideration to the greater body of testimony in favor of conserving the tottering structure, "Gothic wrinkles" and all? Burns Clubs have an opportunity at this juncture such as rarely occurs of demonstrating that the faith that is in them is not without works.

Fascinating Cloaks Share Honors With Coats

SINCE London—the home of tailor-made clothes—has decreed that separate coats, of many and varied kinds, are to be worn this winter, the long, loose wrap, whether it be coat or cape or a combination, has become even more of an indispensable.

It mustn't be too dressy, unless you're one of the mortals who are blessed (or cursed) with automobiles and carriages galore, yet it must be radically unlike the coats that London has advanced: regular ulsters and raglans and interesting things of sturdy Scotch plaids, and stunning fairly short coats—for all the world like the short coats all the men wore a few years ago—of covert cloth or of melton.

There is talk of the old-fashioned circular cape coming back again into fashion, given even more sweep in its circular lines; for never since flares began have they been so marked. The new circular skirts, by the way, are built upon so extreme a circle that they get the most fascinating, and the trickiest, of rippling hems into their construction.

Probably the newest thing is half-coat and half-cape, the sleeves no more than indications of sleeves—more like the slashings of old-time fitted wraps, with odd facings set upon the openings like absurd little cuffs.

Some fascinating little cloaks are very like those that everybody who came from London three or four years ago fell in love with at Liberty's and brought along in her train. Only, like the circular cape, they are cut on very much more circular lines. They boast the little hood, and a heavy silk cord is tied in front by way of fastening.

The prettiest of them all are of light blue—the palest, most silvery tint of it—broadcloth, lined with silk of the same shade exactly or with one of the pompadour silks, or with what is even lovelier, one of the new lining broadcloths, which come in such wonderful colorings. Old rose is popular, too, for then, only old rose is a more trying color to wear. And red ones—as like the famous little cloak of Red Riding Hood as two peas—are best liked of all for young girls.

But the coats themselves, made on circular lines, of course, or perhaps echoing faintly in style the cut of a mandarin's coat (perhaps made of cloth in that very blue), have more followers than either cloaks or wraps.

Upon some of them hand embroidery with a bit of velvet—black or some rather vivid shade—makes the only trimming. And for that matter, much trimming upon a coat intended to be worn at all sorts of times would be utterly out of place.

Voiles and Grenadines Better Than Ever This Season

VOILES and grenadines and their numerous kin are to be better than ever this winter—plain ones, of course, but as many of them interestingly embroidered, or as interesting in the way shadow effects have been developed and applied to stripes and checks and even to curious broken plaids.

Often the plain ones are trimmed with bands of embroidery, done in silks of exactly the same tone as the material, or in Persian colors, their barbaric tones softened to the quietest of tints, yet preserving their character wonderfully. As often as with the foulards that Paris has made such fascinating house gowns of, plain and embroidered voiles are combined, with the prettiest of results—the combination, in some mysterious way, not interfering at all with the scheme of trimming.

On a few voile house dresses elbow sleeves are seen, but oftener the short sleeve of voile is cuffed out with a deep cuff of lace.

Touches of black are upon almost all of them, usually black velvet. Velvet, for that matter, promises to be as popular as it was last winter, and that is saying a great deal, for last winter saw velvets at the height of their popularity.

As to crepe de chine, it—even in its palest tints or white—is an economical investment for the woman whose house gowns have to do duty over several seasons, for it cleans and washes and dyes as practically no other silk does, and lends itself to all the wonderful dressings and shirring that everybody affects these days of pliable materials.

RADIUM SILK IN HIGH FAVOR

RADIUM silk has finally "arrived." Somewhat slow have we been to take up this soft, exquisitely toned material which has had such vogue in Paris for the last few months. The best gowned among our women have already learned the charm for dainty, dressy costumes, but the coming fall and winter promises for it a regular furor.

Surely, there are few fabrics that can better stand popular favor. There is a delicacy, lustre and wonderful color to the radium silks that make them peculiarly satisfying to a refined taste.

Akin to the best foulards and the liberty gauzes is it, with the best qualities of both. Heavier and finer weaves than the latter, it has all its graceful clinginess, with greater durability, while the softness and simple patterns of the former are enhanced by a high sheen, caused by being woven of organdie so fine that the single thread is barely visible.

But the chief beauty of the radium silks is their palest coloring, so indescribably lovely. A pink will have the soft blush of the heart of a shell; the tint of the sky shining through a fleecy cloud on a sunny day is seen in the blues, while the lavender, greens, yellows, even the darker colors, have all the soft undertone that gives them a beautiful iridescent effect.

With all its softness and delicacy, this silk does not wrinkle easily. This peculiarity adapts it for the elaborate gowns for afternoon and evening wear, for which it is chiefly, indeed, one might say, exclusively, used.

For ordinary everyday purposes the radium silk, lovely as it is, would scarcely prove satisfactory, even in the darker tones, but, made up over a material that takes the strain—a taffeta, for instance—it is very desirable. It cleans as well as crepe de chine, and may even be washed, with great care, in a pure soapuds. This latter process, however, is not advised, as the material is apt to pull with rubbing.

Whatever the lasting qualities of this silk—after all, that is largely dependent on the wearer herself—its beauty is undeniable. Whether in the exquisite pastel tints for evening, shell or rose pink, maize, blue or turquoise, faint pinkish lavender, sea green or champagne or in the deeper-toned dows and silver grays, French and navy blue, a bright dark heliotrope, soft yellow browns and tans, or warm, rich olive—a shade, by the way, that promises to be very good this fall—the plain radium silks have a charm of coloring rarely seen.

Even lovelier in their way are the figured or two-toned designs, which are in great favor for dressy costumes for street wear for early fall, when one can still go without a coat.

Very quaint and old-timey was a little afternoon gown, with a background of pure stripes in white and blue, dotted with a rather large jacquard spot in white satin, interspersed with a somewhat large cashmere figure in dull blue, red, green and orange.

Another silk, equally quaint, an indistinct background of lavender checks, with coin jacquard spots, had two conventional figures, side by side, the one in Persian colorings, the other in vivid apple green. These, though rather small in themselves, were thrown up on a white surface in a way to give the effect of a large figure.

For a house gown for a woman in half-mourning, nothing could rival a radium silk with a crepe finish and white figures woven in separately-toned radium in sage green and heliotrope, gendarme blue and tan, French blue and olive, tan and white, with pin dots in white.

Very charming, also, is the two-toned radium in sage green and heliotrope, gendarme blue and tan, French blue and olive, tan and white, with pin dots in white.

The blacut and beige tones with white are particular favorites either in single or cluster hair-line stripes, or with different-sized dots. Very attractive was a little dress that took the place of a summer silk. This had an ash-brown and white pin stripe, with a somewhat dashing figure like a small comes in shadowy white. It was simply trimmed with a very little fine torchon lace, with plain brown silk to match the deeper tone of the material, and a touch of blue.

Some of the radium silk has almost the old foulard designs, but much more artistically woven. A charming one in white and French blue stripes, the stripe broken and toned down by pinpoint white dots, was covered with narrow palm leaf shadowy figures in white.

For exclusive house wear, very pretty are the pink, blue or lavender and white hair-line or cluster stripes, with large and small jacquard figures in white and a dot the size of a pea in a much darker tone—magenta, on pink, French blue on pale blue and royal purple on the lavender.

These jacquard figures, by the way, which are so much in evidence on the radium silks, are so called from the man who invented the process of weaving them. This process, which has never been improved upon, was nothing more than a series of cards, which lifted certain strands of the silk out of the way while the threads underneath were woven. The strands later being thrown up into a figure on top.

Radium silk is also much used in white and black, either plain or with diamond-shaped motifs in satin finish.

For dressy waists of tailor suits nothing is more popular than this silk. It bears so well the inevitable crushing of the waist, as it is this enough to take the tone of the lining. This quality is utilized with delicate results, especially for evening gowns, where white is made up over a pink or blue lining, or a shell pink over a deeper tone, giving a lovely iridescent effect.

Grays also are to be good again, but not the pale dove tones to which we have grown accustomed. The steels and dark blue-grays are in evidence and two-toned effects rather than a solid color. In choosing a gray gown for winter street wear select one of the fancy suitings—neat stripes, diagonal weaves or

Notes of French Fashions

THE high corselet of old gold or old silver is worn with flowered muslin dresses, the touch of metal repeated upon the corsage.

Nine women out of ten wear long face scarfs. These are at least three yards long, with rather heavy ends and lace centres. They are put on with even the simplest cotton gowns and lend a touch of elegance to older women, especially to the very slim type. For young girls, however, they appear to the American eye a little too picturesquely sentimental for any but evening wear.

White shoes invariably accompany such costumes. They are made either of canvas or of kid—which is more fashionable this year than buckskin. High shoes are more fashionable than low ones, and they are usually fastened with heavy flat pearl buttons, giving a glove-like effect.

FROM $40 TO $40,000,000!

Pittsburgh's millionaires are an interesting class. From $40 per month to a fortune of $40,000,000 or $40,000,000 is a fascinating range. Says H. N. Cusson in Munsey's Magazine: "Frick, unlike Phipps, is still busy. He will never be anything else unless he undergoes a chemical transformation. He is the real estate king of Pittsburgh. He is the umpire in many a political and financial dispute. He has a half dozen ways of becoming rich too fast. From steel, coke, real estate, apartment hotels, speculation in railway stocks, and from trust companies, he could have today a yearly pension of $3,000,000 if he chose to retire and become a looker-on. He has joined the Pittsburgh colony in New York; and the Henry Clay Frick who was living in half of a coal miner's shanty thirty-three years ago finds himself today the welcome occupant of a Vanderbilt palace."

Incidentally, Mr. Frick perhaps trades in bigger blocks of shares than any other man in Wall Street.

ENGLISH HUNTERS

ATTACKED BY LIONESS

Wounds Two Men Before She Is Killed by a Well-Directed Rifle Shot

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 7.—A fight between two hunters and an infuriated lioness is reported in the mail from British East Africa. Messrs. Lucas and Goldreich left Nairobi on a hunting expedition, and when five miles from the town the lioness was observed. While the men stood at the edge of the thicket the brute pounced on Mr. Goldreich and threw him to the ground. It bit him on the thigh before Mr. Lucas lodged a bullet in its neck. Maddened by the wound, the animal turned its attention to Mr. Lucas, whose horse it reared, and then plucked the rider to the ground. The lioness lacerated on his face and biting his right arm. He was saved by Mr. Goldreich, who, sitting up, rolled the lioness over with a well-aimed shot. The beast was about to spring on its victim again, when another discharge from the same weapon proved fatal. The wounded men were taken back to town, where they received medical aid.

EXPLOSION DOES GREAT DAMAGE

Awful Result of Accident at Lynn, Mass.

Two Men Fatally, one Seriously, and Ten Slightly Injured by Explosion of New Compound

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 7.—Two men were fatally, one seriously and ten or a dozen others slightly injured by an explosion on Lennox hill, Granite street, this city, late today. The fatally injured are Frank W. Wordenberger and George Tattail, both of New York City. Wordenberger died at the Lynn hospital tonight. Francis Chioine, an Italian laborer, who lives in Swampscott, was seriously hurt, but will undoubtedly recover. The seriously injured include a number of Lynn and Salem contractors.

Wordenberger, a German by birth and a chemist by occupation, was the inventor of a new explosive compound, and Tattail is the president of a company formed to exploit it. The two men had been touring throughout New England demonstrating the new explosive in the presence of contractors and quarry workers.

Today's demonstration was given on Lennox hill, and some forty or more contractors from this city and Salem had assembled to witness the work of the new explosive. Five holes had been drilled in the ledge and filled with dynamite. Three other holes contained the new explosive.

Wordenberger was tamping one of the holes containing the new explosive and Tattail was beside him overseeing the work. Suddenly, without warning, there was a terrific explosion. For some reason which will never be known, the new explosive was detonated, the concussion causing the compound in the other two holes to explode.

Wordenberger and Tattail were blown nearly thirty feet and when picked up were pitiful sights. Nearly every stitch of clothing had been torn from their bodies by the concussion, their faces and bodies were unrecognizable, flesh hung in shreds and they were bleeding profusely. So far as could be ascertained by a hurried examination, no bones were broken, but both men were filled full of minute particles of the splintered rock.

Chioine was badly lacerated by the flying fragments of stone. Together with Wordenberger and Tattail the Italian was taken to the Lynn hospital where it was said that he would recover. The physicians, however, said that there was no hope for either Wordenberger or Tattail. Wordenberger died about 9 o'clock.

Some ten of the spectators who were at some distance from the scene of the explosion, were cut and bruised by falling stones and splinters of rock.

Wordenberger was the victim of a similar explosion last spring in New York city, although on that occasion he was not nearly so seriously injured as today. He was able to leave his home only a short time ago.

Wordenberger came to the United States from Hamburg a short time ago. In the German city he was employed as a chemist in a tannery, and while there he discovered the compound which he has been endeavoring to place upon the market.

REFUSAL OF INSURGENT LEADER

BLOCKS ALL PEACE OVERTURES

HAVANA, Sept. 7.—All peace overtures are blocked by the refusal of Pinar del Rio province, to enter into any arrangement for an armistice. Guerra's answer to the government's announcement of its readiness to grant a ten days' armistice is the blowing up of two bridges on the Western railway, the cutting of railway communications beyond Pinar del Rio City, and an attack on San Juan De Martinez. It is believed here that San Juan De Martinez is in the hands of the insurgents and that the garrison, containing 100 government recruits and a small force of mounted rural guards, has been defeated or captured.

General Menocal said tonight that Guerra evidently had not been informed that the government had actually although informally granted an armistice, adding that a second committee had been sent to him, but could not reach him before tomorrow. The fact is, however, that Guerra refuses point blank to accept an armistice except on condition that the last presidential and congressional elections be annulled. That the government should consent to this is out of the question and so tonight every prospect points to the continuance of the war.

All regard the blowing up of the English company's railroad bridges as a serious matter and likely to invite international action by Great Britain, or at least an intervention of the government at Washington by Great Britain as to whether the former intends to intervene to end war conditions in Cuba.

FORCED TO EAT 3 TIMES A DAY

Food Being Pumped Into Refractory Doukhobors.

Fourteen of Them in Regina Jail are Bent on Dying, But the Authorities Won't Let Them.

REGINA, Alta., Sept. 6.—Fourteen Doukhobors, incarcerated in the jail here, absolutely refuse to partake of food. Nourishment has to be forced through their teeth by scientific means. These men are leaders of the famous band that braved the prickly cactus with naked feet while they wandered in nude condition over the face of the prairies.

But the militia has only steeled their hearts with a firmer determination, and they have resolved that if the police authorities will not allow them to turn Saskatchewan into a veritable Garden of Eden, they will starve their bodies.

It was not long ago that several Doukhobor families who were imprisoned in the same jail, refused to eat unless they were fed on California peaches, unwashed potatoes, and peanuts. But these fourteen will not even eat the rawest of vegetables or the most tempting fruit from Peachland. Finally the authorities realized that extraordinary methods had to be adopted.

A physician was summoned and he hit upon an expedient. Each Doukhobor, was laid on his back, pinned to the floor, and liquid nourishment pumped into the whole outfit by scientific means.

This proved so successful that it was resolved to repeat the operation three times a day until the fanatics came to their proper senses, and now the Doukhobors have got to live whether they like it or not.

SULTAN HATES TO

CONSULT A DOCTOR

His Symptoms Are Told by Servants to Medical Man Who Thus Prescribes.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 8.—The sultan seemed ill at ease during the Selamlik yesterday, but looked a great deal better after the ceremony. His majesty, fearing fatigue, had requested the ambassadors not to attend the ceremony, and postponed the reception usually held afterward. Information during the course of his majesty's illness has been of the most meagre kind. The sultan when indisposed becomes a hermit of the most rigorous type. He shuts himself up in the harem—that is to say, the part of the palace reserved for the royal family—and only the chief of his women attendants may approach and communicate with him.

It is probable that on this occasion physicians were admitted to the royal presence, but as a rule the sultan gets his medical advice from some servant who has informed a physician of his master's symptoms.

Even in the present illness an Armenian doctor was consulted by a chamberlain at his own house and the advice conveyed to the sultan. The royal disease—hematuria—is not dangerous under constant medical care, but the sultan's hatred of physicians gives a graver side to his case.

The Exhibition will close today. The attendance yesterday was larger than was anticipated, the weather being very disagreeable all the afternoon and evening. The total attendance was 9,012, which is 1,353 less than 1904's record. This makes the total attendance for this year 65,779 less than for the corresponding time two years ago. Should the weather be favorable today, this deficiency may be made up. What a difference in a few hours. The weather which gave such fair promise in the morning yesterday and lifted high the hopes of the Exhibition management, changed suddenly to rain between two and three o'clock, and from that until six, it came down in torrents.

with an occasional let-up. The poultry judging was completed in the morning and the draught horses class, in which there was but one entry, judged. W. W. Black's pair of grade Clydes carried off the red ribbon. Class 18 of the horse department will be judged this afternoon in the ring before the grand stand. There are two sections to this class, one for the best matched pair of carriage horses, owned in the city or county of St. John, the other for the best single carriage horse, owned in the city or county of St. John. The prizes in both these events will be a piece of silver plate and so far as local horse owners are concerned these are the most coveted prizes of the Exhibition. A very pleasing function to the exhibitors of prize stock will commence this afternoon at two o'clock. This is the distribution of prize money. On account of the press of people in the gallery it has been the custom to request the visitors to the second floor of Industrial Hall to move to the right. Special policemen had been stationed to enforce this request and the action of one of these guardians of the law caused quite a commotion last evening. A well known citizen was walking with his family and when he came to one of the turns of the hall, started off in the wrong direction. He was promptly greeted by a limb of the law, who repeated the usual formula to him. The gentleman objected to the policeman's interference and they conversed with one another for several minutes in quite an angry manner. The upshot of the affair was that both went down to Mr. Milligan to repeat their different sides of the story. According to the policeman, the gentleman in question had called him, "a little English monkey." He objected strongly to this title and hinted darkly that were he not clothed in the blue uniform, he would make things very warm for somebody not mentioned. This only increased the other man's grievance and he also hinted strongly about a certain sanguinary engagement which might take place in the near future if the other party was game. However, after some talk with Mr. Milligan, the men left the office, keeping up their arguments until well out of the office. It has not yet been reported that the affair resulted in blows, but as the policeman said: "It is too bad if a man in the ordinary course of his duty has to stand for being called a Henglish monkey."

Nevertheless James Broderick Roach Once Poor is Now Worth $350,000

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—On the Allan liner Tunisian she sailed today as a saloon passenger one James Broderick Roach who a week ago was worth a few dollars and today is the possessor of $350,000. This story reads like a romance with the difference that it is real for the driver of the rig has become a wealthy man. Roach came to Canada and settled in Montreal some years ago. His father went out to South Africa in the days when Kimberley and Johannesburg were unknown to the world and the race of South African millionaires had not yet come forth. After his son left his home at New Castle in Natal he was lucky and at his death left a million dollars. By the terms of the will the son was not to come into his share until he reached the age of twenty-five. The news was conveyed to Mr. Roach on his birthday, this week, by a cable from Shirley and Johnson, solicitors, at Plymouth. Roach was engaged on a Montreal delivery wagon.

FAILED TO SHOW UP FOR INSPECTION

Slaughter House Commissioners are Determined That Meat Vehicles Shall be Clean

A meeting of the Slaughter House Commissioners was held yesterday afternoon. The regular report showed that during the last month animals had been slaughtered as follows: John McCarthy, 280 cattle, 559 sheep; Kane & McGrath, 288 cattle, 148 sheep; M. J. Collins, 18 cattle and 18 sheep. The question of the inspection of vehicles for the conveyance of the meat from the public slaughter houses to the city markets was thoroughly discussed. The inspector having reported that the vehicles were not in as good condition as they might be, the commissioners took steps to enforce the law regarding this matter. The public are not in any state of mind just at present to see such important matters go by default, and the commissioners are determined to see that the regulations are complied with.

Tells a Woman How to Dress Her Child—

Fifteen Year Old Girl on Trial for Theft

In the police court this morning Vincent Robison, drunk on Sydney street, was fined five dollars and ten days in jail, and Herman Warner, for being drunk on Sheffield street was allowed to go. He is a jolly fellow and said that he went to the street looking for a gentleman friend and was not drunk as he had only purchased a glass of ginger beer and a cigar.

The case of theft against Mabel Cameron was taken up. Clara McCarthy, of 52 Brussels street, testified that Mabel Cameron met her at Mr. Cooper's house on Bevel street about three weeks ago. They occupied the same room and when the Cameron girl left the house witness missed a watch and chain and a silk waist.

Mrs. Elizabeth McAfee, mother of the McCarthy girl, said that the girl is the daughter of the late poet John Callahan McCarthy, and that the watch chain and waist were worth $3.50. Detective Kellen testified that he found the prisoner in a Mill street house. She denied at first that she had stolen the articles, but later acknowledged the theft and told witness where the things were. The waist was found in a Brussels street house and the watch and bracelet with Edward Ogler. The girl said that Ogler had taken the jewelry from her. She said she was sorry for what she had done. She is but fifteen years of age, and in all probability she will be given her liberty if a home with some family can be secured for her.

Mrs. McAfee was given some advice by the magistrate not to let her little daughter with bright, gaudy second-hand waists and cheap jewelry, as it is unbecoming on a little girl and makes them look conspicuous.

We are obliged each exhibition year to turn away hundreds of people who neglect their teeth attended to, but who neglect the main object of their visit until a few days before returning home.

We would therefore advise all to call early and avoid the usual rush so that they may not be compelled to return home disappointed at being unable to avail themselves of our SUPERIOR WORKMANSHIP and ATTRACTIVE PRICES.

Parents should remember that the vacations are drawing rapidly to a close and that as they value the health and wealth of their own children and those of others they should see to it that their children's teeth are in proper condition. We can put their teeth in the condition they should be in without affording them any pain and we can do it reasonably. Call at once.

STREET CAR CONDUCTORS
HAD A LIVELY WEEK.

Crowds of Visitors Kept Them Busy With All Sorts of Questions

One amusing incident occurred on a Haymarket Square car, which was making an extra run to the exhibition. One old "nub" had his carpet valise with him, and in some way it got mixed with other baggage. When the corner of Charlotte and St. James street was reached the conductor shouted "Get out here for the exhibition." The farmer had not found his valise and he wasn't going to get off without it, so he was carried on another block. He had by this time found the bag, and was ready to start for the fair. He was evidently under the impression that he had not yet reached the grounds. But a surprise was in store for him. In a few moments he noticed the people leave the car and heard the conductor say "King street. He got out of the car and used some wild language on finding that he had been carried away up down again. There were many amusing incidents including one where visitors put their baggage on the fenders, thinking it to be for that purpose.

Very few free riders were enjoyed by "blockers," although the cars were filled up. The conductors used their eyes for all they were worth and few got a ride to the fair grounds without dropping a nickel.

IN A SALOON.

A bright faced little boy entered an up-town saloon this morning and inquired of the man behind the bar—"Do you know my papa?" The bartender informed the boy that he did, and that his papa could not get anything in the saloon. "Well," said the little fellow, "that's what mama wants, for papa came home drunk last night and pulled out his jack knife and was going to stab mama, but he stopped when mama hit him over the head with the tin dipper." The little fellow then left the bar happy with the thought that there was at least one place where his father could not get a drink.
