Census Bulletin Gives Higher Percentage for all Crops Except in Western Canada.

Special to The St. John Standard.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 11--The census office publishes a bulletin on the condition of crops in Canada at the end of September. The reports show lower average conditions for the whole of Canada, than those of a year ago. In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, there is a decrease of about twenty per cent. in the quality of grain and roots, but the threshing indicate that the yield will be larger for wheat, oats and barley than was promised at the end of August.

Peas and beans are nearly eight per cent. lower in condition than a year ago, but nearly ten per cent. higher than in 1908. Buckwheat is about the same as last year and twelve per cent. better than in 1908, whilst mixed grains are better by five per cent. than last year and by 19.47 per cent. over two years ago. The condition of potatoes is 76.06 at the end of September, compared with 90.37 last year. The estimated yield of rye this year for Canada is 1,634,000 bushels; of peas 6,444,500 bushels; of beans, 1,089,600 bushels; of buckwheat, 7,302,000 bushels; of mixed grains, 20,103,000 bushels; of flax, 4,314,000 bushels, and of husking 17,682,000 bushels.

Ontario's Premier and the Dominion.

Berlin, Ont., Oct. 12--Premier Whitney in his address at Niagara power banquet last night, referred to the Ottawa government's $30,000,000 surplus, and declaring this was largely derived from results of Ontario's expenditure, it followed, therefore, that the provincial subsidy should be increased or, perhaps, readjusted every four or five years. Sir James also referred to the fact that Ontario, with a population approaching three millions, has no right to approach the Colonial office in London through the High Commissioner of the Dominion government, although Tasmania, a State of the Australian Commonwealth, had such a right, and intimated that that would relieve the province of all future financial responsibility. Senator Casgrain's view is that work that ought to be started at once, so that the connection with the Transcontinental will be made when the line is completed and ready for business. Senator Casgrain does not suggest that the G. T. P. ought to or will build the needed branch.--Globe.

Re-appears for 15-year Term.

Galveston, Texas, Oct. 5--With fifteen years to serve for homicide, Walter Charlton has voluntarily re-entered the State penitentiary at Huntsville, from which he escaped eight years ago after serving five years. During the eight years he was free Charlton acquired wealth in a mining speculation, and now has much money invested in California land. Determined to clear off the sentence against his name, he gave himself up and has taken up the prison routine cheerfully. Charlton conducted a store at Sanderson, and in a quarrel he killed Bart Simpson, a cattleman, in 1896. He eluded arrest for nearly a year, when he was captured, tried and sentenced. He escaped from a gang of prisoners in 1902 and made his way to Southern Mexico, where he engaged in mining. With a few hundred dollars he had earned he bought an interest in a mine. He sold out a year ago for a large sum.

At the Dominion Exhibition

Quite a number of firms who are well known to readers of the "Maritime Merchant" had very attractive exhibits at the Dominion Exhibition which closed recently in St. John. One of the first to attract attention on entering the main building was that of T. H. Estabrooks, who had a very artistic booth with polite attendants, to serve Red Rose Tea and Coffee to all comers. Needless to say it was always filled.

Nestorian Society.

The Nestorian Society met on Friday afternoon, Oct. 7, for their regular weekly meeting and the following program was carried out:

Essay, Laura Dodds "History of St. George."

Recitation, Bessie Cawley "De Bell of St. Michel."

Biog of Author, Lillian McGee "Thomas Moore."

Review of C. Events, Grade X.

Debate--Resolved that Canada should not have a navy.

Affirmative--Vernon Connell and Helen Kernighan.

Negative--Arthur Johnston and Bessie Connell.

Critic--Vernon McNicol.

Mr. Connell, leader of the affirmative, opened the debate putting up good arguments concluding that Canada should not have a navy.

Mr. Johnston, leader of the negative, also put up good arguments.

The seconds of both sides responded and brought out good points to support their leaders.

The judges decided the debate in favor of the affirmative.

This has been the best debate we have had this year and we hope that the good work will be continued.

G. T. P. and Montreal.

As everybody is aware the Transcontinental Railway does not run to Montreal. It takes what is supposed to be the shortest and best route from the west to Quebec. It has been generally felt, however, that Montreal, because of her great importance as a commercial metropolis, would be connected by a branch line with a new road. The Hon. J. P. Casgrain, a Senator of Canada, and a resident of Montreal, now calls on the provincial government through an interview to build this branch line. It would be the best stroke of policy the administration could possibly pursue. His idea is that the line "would pay good interest from the very moment the last rail was laid," and that "the province could either operate the railway in question, or could lease it to Grand Trunk Pacific, at such a figure that would relieve the province of all future financial responsibility." Senator Casgrain's view is that work that ought to be started at once, so that the connection with the Transcontinental will be made when the line is completed and ready for business. Senator Casgrain does not suggest that the G. T. P. ought to or will build the needed branch.--Globe.

South Africa.

There is no doubt that while the general election in South Africa resulted in Botha's loss of his own seat, his party triumphed. The October issue of the London National Review--which journal is a strong friend of Colonel Jameson, the opposition leader professes to be well satisfied with the result of the election, although it acknowledges that the Nationalists, whom it describes as "Boers and pro-Boers," have sixty-seven of the one hundred and twenty-one, a majority over all of thirteen, with the four labor men supporting the ministry, a majority of twenty-one. The London Daily Chronicle in its estimate of the standing of parties counts most of the thirteen independents as supporters of the government, and estimates Botha's majority at twenty-three or twenty-four. With this majority, it says, General Botha may be trusted to carry on a broad and liberal policy.--Globe.

Japan's New Dreadnought.

Tokio, Oct. 10--Something of a record for rapid naval construction has been established in the case of Japan's newest and most formidable battleship, the Kawachi, which was launched at the government yards at Yokosuku today, less than six months after the keel was laid down. The Kawachi was a displacement of 20,800 tons, and will carry a battery of ten 10 inch, ten 6 inch, twelve 4 inch guns and five torpedo tubes.

Train Despatching

There is a steady and growing tendency on the part of many of the important railway systems of Canada and the United States to change their system of train despatching from the old fashioned telegraph to the modernized telephone. According to statistics compiled by the Block Signal and Train Control of the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States, there are 295 railways in that country despatching trains by telephone over 26,244 miles of line. On approximately 20,000 miles of this, the selective system of telephone train despatching is employed. One of the most ingenious mechanisms for this purpose, says the Locomotive Engineering, is the Western Electric selector. This selector is a high speed individual mechanism, and by its use any one of fifty stations can be called separately or all can be called at the same time. The selector consists of two electro-magnets or relays which are connected in series across the line. There are on each selector two contacts. One is the station signal contact, which rings the bell at the station when the train despatcher wishes to call the operator, and the other is a time signal contact which is operated by a special key by the despatcher, and which makes contacts on all selectors simultaneously, along the line. The despatcher can, therefore, with this key, give all the way stations along his division a time signal whenever he may so desire. This permits of the calling of all stations at once on particular occasions. No special knowledge of the mechanism is required of despatcher or operator, as with the telegraph. The despatcher not only pronounces all the words, but spells the important ones as well.

How The British Islands Rose.

The latest scientific theories concerning the world in making, and incidentally the moulding of the British Islands were discussed on Wednesday in the president's address, when the British Association opened its session at Sheffield, which is the scientists' chosen gathering place this year.

The President, the Rev. Professor T. G. Booney, said that in early Pleistocene times glaciers undoubtedly existed in the mountain districts of the British Isles, and even formed Piedmont ice-sheets on the lowlands. There were to be seen deposits, which, though to a great extent of glacial origin, differed from those left by land ice in the Alpine regions and in North America, and he particularly noticed the presence of marine shells, in three instances, over a thousand feet above sea level.

Not the least perplexing of the glacial phenomena in the British Isles was the distribution of 'erratics'--masses of chalk, granite and basalt boulders, and other rock lumps, whose course had been very remarkable. Each of the hypothesis which had been proposed to account for these phenomena involved great difficulties.

One, the submergence hypothesis assumed that at the beginning of the glacial epoch our islands stood rather above their present level, and then gradually subsided in the west to a greater extent than in the east, during the glacial period. But at last the movement was reversed, and they returned nearly to their former position. He found in the thickness of our chalky boulder clay the greatest difficulty in accepting this hypothesis. The boulder clay not infrequently exceeded 100 feet--an enormous amount to have been transported and distributed by floating ice.

The materials also were not much more easily accounted for by this than by the other hypothesis. A continuous supply of well-worn chalk pebbles might indeed, be kept up from a gradually rising or sinking beach, but it was difficult to see how, until the land had subsided for at least 200 feet, the chalky boulder-clay could be deposited in some of the East Anglian valleys or on the Leicestershire hills.

The instances, also, of the transportation of boulders and smaller stones to higher levels, sometimes large in amount, as in the transference of Brockram from the outcrops near the bed of the Eden Valley to the level of the Stainmoor Gap, seem to be too numerous to be readily explained by the uplifting action of shore ice in a subsiding area.

Submergence suddenly accounted for sands and gravels, but not quite so easily for their occurrence at such very different levels. On the eastern side of England gravely sands may be found beneath the chalky boulder clay from well below sea level to three or four hundred feet above it.

While he considered the difficulties in the land ice hypothesis to be the more serious he could not as yet declare the other one to be satisfactorily established.

Sultry

"O!" exclaimed Private Atkins, who had just returned from India, "Surely you don't call this 'ot! Why you oughter hev bin with us in Hindia.

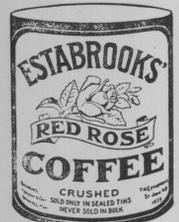

"Yes, I've heard tell as it's a bit warmish out there," said the countryman.

"You bet it is," went on Atkins. "I member once when he was playing socker wiv the Buffs it was so 'ot that the heat expanded the wind inside of the ball to that extent that it rose up in the air like a hairyplane and sailed away. Lost three balls like that, we did; then we checked the game. An', o' course, we only played football in the winter season!"

Still Room for Doubt.

A western editor of national repute and love for real art was talking to a crowd of newspaper men at one of the New York clubs the other evening on what he classed as "stamped" work--so called impressionistic pictures that were merely rough and hurried sketches, and so called portraits that bore no true likeness to their originals.

"As an instance," said he, "I know a man here in New York who had his portrait painted last year. It cost him $4,000, and he was proud of it. When it came he showed it to the cook.

"Well," Mary," said he, "how do you like this portrait?"

"Sure, sor," beamed the cook, with true Irish loyalty, "it's lovely. It's more than that, sor, it's divine."

"And of course," said the man, "you know who it is."

"Oh, of course I do, sor," quickly responded the cook. "Of course, of course. As she said this she drew closer and closer to the picture, studying it more intently. "Of course, sor," she added, "it's you--or the mistress!"

Chapel With 70 Funerals a Day

The most remarkable mortuary chapel in America is located in Calvary cemetery, Long Island, New York, and cost $180,000. The crypts or catacombs are for the burial of priests of the diocese of New York, under the charge of which the cemetery is maintained. At present but one section of the catacombs has been completed with accommodations for 24 bodies in the concrete niches. But the section can be extended underground in four directions, and at any time an addition for 72 more bodies can be made. For a cryptal burial there is a lift set in to the floor of the chapel to lower the body to the level of the crypts. The record for burials at Calvary indicates that the mortuary chapel will be in almost constant use. The burials average 70 a day and often run as high as 120.

Cat's "Whiskers"

It isn't altogether an accident that Tabby has a crop of whiskers or feelers, growing from her upper lip and from near her eyes.

In fact, not having any hands, those whiskers serve much the same purpose as you use your hands for. With the feelers Tabby is able to feel her way about in the dark, for they are highly sensitive and abundantly supplied with nerves communicating with the brain.

Puss' eyesight is pretty good, but she is predisposed to be nocturnal in habits. With the aid of the feelers and a highly developed sense of smell, she is able to get around either in the daytime or after night.

Vladimir Poulsen, the well-known electrical inventor, has invented a method of lighting electric lamps at a distance without the use of wires. He is now working to perfect the invention, which is not yet adopted for general use.

Married While Chained to a Turnkey

Ottawa, Oct. 6.--In the sacristy of St. Joseph's church yesterday afternoon took place one of the strangest and most dramatic weddings in the history of Ottawa. On Tuesday morning Osiar Millar was sentenced to five years in Kingston penitentiary for the theft of $100 from Calixte Portelance, a Russell farmer. Yesterday afternoon he stood at the rail of the altar in St. Joseph's church, and chained to the turnkey of the jail, with the solemn words of the ceremony broken by the sinister clink of the handcuffs was united in matrimony to Miss Josephine Servant, Law Street, Hull. Only four people saw the ceremony. The "best man" was Detective Ryan, also supporting the groom was Turnkey Young of the Ottawa Jail, with the prisoner's wrist double chained to his.

As soon as the ceremony was completed, the girl went to the home of Millar's parents, on 54 Baird Street and her husband was taken away to serve his long sentence.

Millar who has stoutly maintained his innocence was to have been married to Miss Servant in the near future. When the girl heard of his sentence on Tuesday she decided that the wedding must take place at once before her lover was taken away to Kingston to begin serving his sentence. Being a parishioner of Rev. Father Carriere, of Hull, she communicated with him and the reverend gentleman went post haste to interview the prisoner. Millar stated that he was not only willing but anxious to have the marriage take place.

Father Carriere then saw Sheriff Richardson and asked permission to have the ceremony performed at the Holy Redeemer Church, Hull. This the sheriff was unable to allow, as the law forbids a prisoner in one province under sentence being taken to another. However, the sheriff told Father Carriere that he would allow Millar out for sufficient time to be taken to any church in Ottawa. Arrangements were then quickly made at St. Joseph's to allow the marriage to be celebrated there. The bride is convinced of her husband's innocence. She comes of a good family and says steps will be taken to have another trial.

New Kind of House Party.

"Apropos of week-ends," says a writer in The Gentlewoman, "it has occurred to me lately that there are signs of a revival of the old political salon, brought up to date and transferred to some of the great houses within easy reach of London."

"Last summer something very like it was seen at a great house overlooking the loveliest reaches of the Thames. Here on several Sundays were assembled members of the Royal family, distinguished politicians of various shades of thought, litterateurs, actors, people of fashion."

"The hostess knew exactly how to make the thing go, and the result was some really delightful gatherings, independent of weather, which we all remember, was, last summer, about as bad as it could possibly be. The same clever lady means, so I understand, to revive these gatherings during June and July."

"Why do not other hostesses try something of the same kind? Hosts such as Lord Rosebery and Lord Curzon have for some time, given brilliant Saturday to Monday parties for clever and distinguished people at the Durdans, and Hackwood, and elsewhere. But hostesses have been content to arrange merely smart little parties, without aspiring to anything of the salon order. It would be a pleasant outcome of this inevitably mournful summer if the social political and literary salon of former days could be revived--only in the country instead of London."

The latest news from Portugal emanating from government sources declares the revolution has been generally successful and a republican administration established. The country, so far as is known outside, seems to have accepted the new condition of things without a protest.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a hollow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 30 years of cure. Accept no substitute--there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Sir Alfred Mond puts his finger on the spot when he says that shipping, shipbuilding and cotton making are three trades for whose greatness, whatever it may be, the present free imports system of Great Britain is responsible. The parallel proposition is, of course, that to depart from the free import system and revert to the tariff system would endanger the profitable continuance of these industries which would shortly result in their disappearance, or, what would be only less serious, a diminished capacity for giving employment to labor and earning dividends on capital.

Worse yet, nobody has been able to show that any other industries of equal sustaining power could be substituted for these. In woollens Great Britain more than holds her own, but here, too, the free import system helps in a hundred ways. In iron and steel she bears up against the developments in the United States. Where a gigantic demand permits of economies through volume and standardizing of outputs; but it is shipbuilding and cotton, he names the three items which effectively distinguish the British of today from the British of the sixteenth century. Then wool was king, and the wool raising countries of the fertile south were the centres of political power. For a hundred years, not wood, but coal has been king, for in the coal of the north and midland countries have been built the industries which support the world's millions, yes, tens of millions. Eliminate the industries that thrive on coal, or even reduce their efficiency to the point where they cannot meet the competition of nations more favored with natural resources, and the power that has been known as Britain for a century would no longer have to be reckoned with. Some people lightly assume that Canada and Australia could and would supply something to take its place. These who think deeply may be forgiven if they doubt.--Montreal Herald.

Do you love your town? Do you have any concern for its future? Would you like to see it grow, prosper and extend its trade and influence? If you do, then ask yourself these questions: "Do I help support and maintain its institutions? Do I encourage every moment looking to the up-building of the town? Do I speak a good word for the town and the people at every opportunity? Do I lend assistance to its industries? Do I patronize them? Do I fully understand the duties devolving upon me as a citizen.--Exchange.

The Province of British Columbia spent $30,000 fighting forest fires in August. This is a heavy expense, but there is no doubt that it was a most profitable expenditure. It probably saved timber worth a hundred times as much.

Catarrh Conquered

Rev. Father Morrissey

This remarkably effective remedy, prescribed by the famous priest-physician, combines the advantages of both external and internal treatment. It includes tablets to purify the blood and a healing, strongly antiseptic salve to be applied inside the nostrils, directly to the affected parts. Even chronic catarrh soon yields to this combined treatment. The discharge is stopped, the diseased membrane healed, and colds no longer follow one another with monotonous regularity. Don't let that catarrh run on—get Father Morrissey's No. 26 and cure it. 50c. for the combined treatment—at your dealer's. 109

Coyotes in City Park

A pack of about six coyotes is running wild in Golden Gate Park, causing a reign of terror among the wild fowl and rabbits and occasionally frightening late stragglers along the park roads. The leader of the band is a big male which Policeman Charles Budd, specially detailed from the park police station to hunt the enemies of duck and other feathered inhabitants of the park, declares to be the largest he has ever seen.

At night the coyotes slip down into down into the park from Sastro forest or from the thickly wooded slopes of the Presidio and make a full meal of ducks, peacocks or rabbits, all of which have become quite tame through not being hunted or chased.

About a month ago it was first known there was a coyote at large. That was when one fell before the rifle of Budd. Three years later William Miller, the watchman employed by the Park Board to look out for hawks, bagged a second.

Every few days since persons leaving the park toward sunset have reported seeing the coyotes and especially the big leader. Once a workman told a mounted officer of having seen a great wolf speeding through the bushes and trees along the new panhandle. The officer a few minutes later was in the neighborhood of the new road and saw what the workman had described as a "wolf," but which he immediately recognized as the coyote leader. The policeman gave chase, but the big fellow, who was gliding along with his tongue out as if tired, along a small path, merely increased his pace and slipped into the shrubbery.

For some time past the wild ducks have risen in great flocks from the shores around Stow Lake in the dead of night, but it was believed this was due to the appearance of a big barn owl, which fell before Policeman Budd's gun three days ago. However, this was disproved when on Friday night a man walking near the lake was attracted by the flutter of wings in the air, and as he came closer saw several dog-like shapes glide back into the trees on the opposite side of the path. It may be necessary to make a search of Sastro forest and the Presidio wild dogs and rifles.--San Francisco Call.

Among the Cannibals

In the course of his thirteen years as a missionary in the Fiji Islands the Rev. Joseph Nettleton learned a good deal about cannibalism, and even saw some of his colleagues killed and eaten. "It is a common mistake to think that these men eat human beings because of hunger," he says. "Cannibalism is their religion. The ovens of the temple where they cook their human sacrifices are never used for any other purpose. I once witnessed the capture of a white victim. He was surrounded, bound hand and foot and dragged along to the temple, where he was dashed with terrific force against the altar. Then he was pushed inside the compound, while the chiefs arranged as to the division of his body and began a war dance. Their ludicrous war dance--the 'derama' they call it--makes one's flesh creep. An American sea captain who once visited the islands said he was not so much afraid of being eaten as he was of the dance. It took all the courage out of him."

Mr. Nettleton had to use extreme tact to avoid arousing suspicion among the savages. "My colleague Mr. Baker, was murdered, cooked and eaten with seven others while exploring," he said. "The cannibals thought he was spying. I never carried a revolver. Why? Because the cannibals say at once, 'He doesn't carry that to kill himself, therefore he means to kill us, and they act accordingly.'"

It is said that the net profit of the electric car line (of Moscow, Russia), which is owned by the city, approximated $1,000,000, in 1909, against $300,000 in 1908.--U. S. Daily Consular and Trade Reports, Sept. 10, 1910. The foregoing is only another fact showing the profitability of municipally owned street cars. The number of passengers carried in Moscow in 1909 was 141,102,456, at an average fare of two and a half cents. If the Moscow municipally owned tramway made a million dollars on its 2-1/2-cent fare, how much is made in Canada at the higher fare? Moscow also has a big debt--almost $50,000,000, but, says the consular report, "ninety per cent. is invested in productive municipal enterprises," such as gas and electric light works and abattoirs.--Winnipeg Tribune.

Signals of Distress
St. George People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress. The secretions are dark, contain a sediment. Passages are frequent, scanty, painful. Backache is constant day and night. Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent. The weakened kidneys need quick help. Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy. Booth's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and urinary disorders. Mrs. M. E. Parr, of 262 John street, Sibleton, Ont., says: "I have found more actual results after using Booth's Kidney Pills than I did from any other remedy ever used. I had suffered for several years with kidney and bladder trouble and after a short course of treatment with this medicine I have been cured. Miserable pains across my back which would extend up my spine and into the back of my head, frequent headaches and dizziness and kidney secretions that were scanty and contained a heavy sediment had me all run down. These troubles have all left me and I am pleased to give Booth's Kidney Pills my best wishes for success and my hearty endorsement. For sale in St. George, by J. Sutton Clark. Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., Sole Canadian Agents.

Says Bride Proposed Four Times.

St. Louis, Me., Sept. 29--Asserting that Helen O'Brien, heiress to more than $100,000 proposed to him four times and was refused as often before he consented to elope with her, John A. Howland, a $40 a month life saver, is in St. Louis to appeal to the courts for possession of his bride of little more than a month.

He was determined on this section, he declared, after Mrs. Howland had repudiated him. The swimmer cannot believe, he asserts, that his wife turned against him of her own will.

He says he will sue Mrs. O'Brien, his mother-in-law on the charge of alienating his wife's affections.

The Hobbie Skirt.

One of the horses in the second race at Chantilly recently called Craton unseated his jockey after leaving the paddock and bolted across the inclosure. Eight persons were injured, including the daughter of the Mayor of Chantilly and another lady. The latter was wearing a hobbie skirt, which considerably hindered her movements when she tried to run. She fell in front of the horse, one of whose hoofs got caught in her hair, and she was dragged for a considerable distance and finally picked up with a fractured skull. The horse jumped from the rails, and made off through the forest, his mad career being brought to an end by a tree with which he collided so violently that he was killed outright.

Mr. Forden's Dilemma.

[From the Victoria Times.]

Mr. Forden, the leader of the Conservative Party (for a time), says the Liberal Government has stolen some of the planks of his Halifax platform. That should not grieve the soul of the member of Halifax. His own followers would have nothing to do with the platform, and if there be any good thing in it why should not the good provisions be adopted by the Government? There is no prospect whatever of the Conservative Party being in a position to utilize them.

An Anachronism

When some celebrated pictures of Adam and Eve were seen on exhibition, Mr. McNab was taken to see them. "I think no great things of the painter," said the gardener; "why, man! tempting Adam with a pippin of a variety that was known until about twenty years ago."

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1910

A spirit of unrest and discontent with existing states of government, work, etc. seems to be spreading over the greater part of Europe, Portugal seemingly has turned its back on Monarchical institution and taken up Republican government for what is now, after a short but decisive struggle.

And in all probability a like upheaval will occur in Spain very shortly. France is having its labor troubles and Germany had a short time ago serious labor troubles when the masses were slaughtered by the police and military, and much discontent is prevalent throughout the Empire. In all these places the troubles are very much aggravated by religious feeling which enters largely into them.

The English also have periodic troubles but they are always taken in a law abiding manner which brings results of a more just and stable character.

General News

In Condensed Form for Greeting Readers

The Republic at Portugal seems to be firmly settled and most likely will within the next week or so be recognized by all the powers, the late King and family who are at Gibraltar will be brought to England in the royal yacht Victoria and Albert which King George has ordered to go to that port for that purpose and it is expected they will reside in England, for the future. King Manuel is suffering for the sins of his father who was one of the useless ones of the earth. From present appearance some more of the maniacs of Europe will fall, perhaps before many years.

The grand jury brought in a true bill against Dr. Crippin and Miss Laneve for the murder of the Dr's wife, and trial immediately commenced.

The Canadian cruiser Niob which was to have left England on the 10th, for this side of the water did not do so, her sailing is now set down for the 21st, but is still uncertain which will be her first port. Halifax is putting forth all efforts to have her do her outfitting at the port, which will be a good fat contract.

The city of Lynn, Mass., at a special election on the 11th, adopted by a majority of 726 to put the government of the city in the hands of a paid commission. At the municipal election in December the voters will elect five men as a commission who will on the first Monday in January supersede the present Mayor and Aldermen. This movement of the city government seems to be making rapid progress in the neighboring republic.

A Norwegian ship owner has brought an action against the C. P. R. steamer Montcalm and arrested the steamer for collision which occurred last month about 40 miles below Quebec.

Obituary

Dr. Reynolds

Dr. Reynolds one of the best known residents died suddenly on Saturday morning of last week from suffocation his house caught fire in the eil and before assistance reached him he had succumbed, the body was very slightly burned so that death must have resulted from suffocation. His wife has been visiting with her daughter in Boston for some time and he had been living in the house alone, it is not known just how the fire originated but a broken lamp is reported to have been found. He had spent the previous evening at his sons a few rods away and returned to his own house between 10 and 11 o'clock, that being the last seen of him alive. Deceased was about 70 years of age, and at one time was a prominent business man in the county, conducting large lumber operations beside his professional practice. At the time of his death he still held a large amount of property at Lepreaux the lumber in which he sold to A. J. Gregory about 2 years ago for $10,000.00. He was well known and popular throughout this section of the county and his familiar figure will be much missed by all passing through Lepreaux at which place he has acted as postmaster for some years. All regret his premature taking off and sympathize with the family in their loss.

Another of the older residents passed to her rest in the person of Mrs. Jacob Jack who died at the residence of her son Geo. E. of Pennfield on Monday morning at the ripe age of 81 years, lacking a few days, she was a life long resident and native of the county, and was well known by the older portion of the community in which she was highly respected. To add to the horrors of a steamship collision at night, it often happens that the water reaches the dynamo, putting the lighting system out of commission, and making it impossible for the terrified passengers to find their way about. In order to prevent such an occurrence, one of the lake steamers has recently installed an emergency electric lighting system, connected with a storage battery which is placed on one of the upper decks. The batteries are charged during the day, when the regular lighting system is not in use. In this connection it is interesting to note that some of the theaters in Europe are using storage batteries to furnish the power for the lights at the exits, and that a Chicago theater has just installed a similar system. In this way a more reliable lighting system is assured, the necessity of which was very forcibly shown in the Iroquois disaster.—Scientific American.

A strike of railway men is now on in France which threatens to extend over the whole nation and which may result in a food famine in many parts of the land. Exhibits are being made to have a baseball game in the afternoon and a social dance in the evening will wind up the most successful fair ever held at Peanfield.

Paris Oct 7--The question of the formal recognition of the Portugal Republic already is the subject of exchanges of views between the Powers. So far as France and Spain are concerned, it is understood they undoubtedly will follow the lead of Great Britain whose century-old alliance with the Portuguese monarchs, and her important commercial relations give her a position of pre-eminent priority.

From the standpoint of pure diplomacy, it is understood that France regards the flight of Manuel from Portugal as the first great act making possible the recognition of the Republic, as the flight is considered a tacit admission that he abandoned the struggle to retain the crown.

The intention seems here to be to await the certainty that the Republic is surely founded. Advices received in France lead to the belief that for the people of Portugal generally are likely to adhere to the Republic, proclaimed in the city, and that the nation will be spared the horrors of civil war.

It is pointed out that there are more historical precedents for the lack of haste in accepting the new regime.

King Peter of Serbia was not recognized by the Powers for several months after the assassination of Alexander, and both Louis Phillip and Napoleon III failed of recognition for Prussia for a considerably longer period.

Semi-official circles in Paris regard as absurd an ideal prevalent that Spain will launch armed intervention against the Provisional Government in Portugal declaring that this would only endanger the Spanish Dynasty by exciting the Republicans to solidarity at a moment when they already are primed to observe the approaching anniversary of the execution of Dr. Francisco Ferrer, who was shot to death on Oct. 13 last, because of his alleged revolutionary teachings.

Three Great Propositions

The education of the boy and girl today, in our humble judgement, received from the public schools of our country, must be based upon the three great propositions—Humanity with all its surroundings, Honesty, industry. The feeling of humanity that is planted in the breast of the boy and girl by the beneficent rays that come from the teacher, will live forever; it matters not in what walk of life it may be, whether in the school room, counting house, shop, farm or profession. The humanitarian ideas that are inculcated in their minds while attending school, remain forever. If these are based upon the thought that the feelings of a fellow-man must be respected, that the ties of kinship and fellowship among the most beautiful and ennobling that can be planted in our hearts; if beyond all this, if the boy and girl are taught to look higher than the things of this world, then one of the foundations upon which education is based, is secure and the state is safe.

The common schools of our land must instill in the minds of every boy and girl the element of honesty, honesty to himself, honesty to his neighbor, honesty to his country.

Women's Beauty

It can Never be Perfect Without Luxuriant Hair

A head of luxuriant hair is sure to be attractive. But nature has not crowned every woman with glorious hair. Some very lovable women she has treated rather scantily in this respect.

For instance, there are tens of thousands of women in Canada to-day, who have harsh, faded and lusterless hair, who are unattractive simply because they do not know that nowadays even the whims of nature can be overruled by the genius of science.

If you are a woman without beautiful hair, do not permit your attractions to be hidden because of this slight misfortune.

Go to-day to J. Sutton Clark's and buy a large bottle of Parisian Sage for 50 cents, use it each night, and you will notice the harsh, repulsive hair disappear, and in its place will come soft, silky bright and luxuriant hair.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed by J. Sutton Clark to cure dandruff, itching of the scalp, and stop falling hair in two weeks, or money back.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 29.—Total gifts to both income and principal of the university finances amounting to $2,398,291 are shown in the first annual report of the new treasurer of Yale, Mr. Geo. Parkes Day, as compared with $1,250,952.41 in the previous year.

Additions to the university fund show a net increase of $1,905,448 as against $1,201,050 for the previous year.

The first important additions of the year to the fund have been the Yale alumni fund of $94,750, boat house subscription of $56,165, the Hewitt bequest of $350,000, the Laffan professorship fund of $100,000, the Sage gift of $650,000, the Salisbury trust fund of $331,677, and additions to the university endowment and extension fund of $344,418.

The most important additions to income were $49,000 from the alumni fund and $34,551 from the Carnegie foundation. Financially it has been the best year for Yale in her history.

The revenues of the whole university and departments was $1,797,569 and the total expenditures $1,171,165, showing a credit balance for the year of $26,404.

A table for all departments of the average cost of instruction per student shows a cost of $293.27 while the average receipts per student were but $134.21.

Portugal

There are yet details lacking in regard to the important events which have been occurring in Portugal. It is certain however, that the republicans are in control in the city of Lisbon, the capital, that the King is not in the hands of his opponents, and that the general attitude of the country towards the new movement is not yet certain. The outlook is, however, fairly favorable to the republicans. There is no doubt at all that it will be to the advantage of a consuetudinary monarch if the King does not fall into their hands. The whole population of Portugal is about five and a half millions, of whom nearly 400,000 are in Lisbon. The next city in size is Oporto, with 172,000. It is as strongly republican as, and more revolutionary than, Lisbon. Today's despatches intimate the insurgents are in control there, too. The Portuguese people who have settled in America and founded a national life in the southern hemisphere have developed republican systems of administration, and have managed their affairs well. The new republic of Brazil was an empire until a few years ago; ruled by an Emperor of a branch of the royal family of Portugal, a most excellent and judicious ruler, with whom personally there was no fault whatever. But the tendency of public feeling was against the monarchical system; it fell to pieces with scarcely a shock in 1889, and a republic succeeded. Among the interesting items of news in connection with affairs at Lisbon is the statement that General Fonseca, who was the leader of the Brazilian revolutionary movement and Minister of War of the republic and who is now President-elect of the republic, was in Lisbon at the time of the late outbreak. This is, however, but a coincidence. Portugal has lost much of her colonial possessions; but the Azores and Madeira, with a population of over half a million, are still held by her, and the people are full citizens of the nation. She has also Macao in the Canton River, half of the island of Limor in the East Indian Archipelago, and considerable territory and spheres of influence in South Africa. Her colonial population would probably closely approach and might exceed three millions.—St. J. Globe.

Traded Baby for a Pig.

Mrs. Michael Robnovitch, a Russian woman living near Winnipeg, Canada, gave birth to twins this week, and the thrifty husband, being displeased with the arrival of two babies at the same time, traded one of the infants off to a neighbor, whose wife had no children, for a yearling pig weighing about 200 pounds.

The authorities were informed and compelled Robnovitch to take back his offspring and return the pig. It was not accomplished without a great deal of argument, however, as the father insisted that he did not want any children to raise, let alone twins. He declared he preferred pigs any time.

A Hundred Years of Peace.

On both sides of the International boundary early and active preparation are making for the celebration of 1915 of the completion of a century of peace between Great Britain and the United States. The Treaty of Ghent which brought the war to a formal conclusion, was ratified at Washington the seventeenth of February, 1815, but it has been signed by the British and American plenipotentiaries on the Christmas Eve immediately preceding. The struggle was fierce and destructive while it lasted but the bitterness it engendered has so largely passed away that what remains of it will hardly survive a co-operative effort to commemorate the dawn of a peace that has lasted almost a hundred years and seems likely to be prolonged indefinitely.

It would be a mistake to suppose that by making this a peace celebration there is any purpose or likelihood of slighting the heroic efforts made by the people of Upper and Lower Canada to repel the American invaders. Their efforts to keep their territory intact and British completely successful. The United States Government took upon itself the responsibility of declaring war, and unprepared as they were for carrying it out, the American troops sent to attack Canada were foemen worthy of the British regulars the Canadian volunteers. The war was strenuously fought to a finish, but it was carried on a humanly as any war can be, and its progress was marked by deeds of heroism on both sides. If there was a General Brock on the one side there was a Captain Perry on the other, and it would be churlish not to recognize the fact. Good winners in the game can afford to be good losers.

While it is proper and commendable to commemorate wars carried on and battles fought to repel invasion or maintain a principle, it is also proper and commendable to celebrate so rare an occurrence as the centenary of the inauguration of a prolonged and uninterrupted peace. This may be done in one or other of a variety of ways, but whatever the method of the celebration, its significance and effect will be greatly enhanced if the function is carried out co-operatively. The Treaty of Ghent was signed a few months before the battle of Waterloo was fought, and if Marshal Soult, who opposed the entry of Wellington and Blucher into Paris, could be received with enthusiasm by the populace of London when he came to represent France at the coronation of Queen Victoria, surely the descendants of those who warred with each other in America can well afford to unite in commemorating the close of a struggle of which there are now few, if any, survivors on either side. A youth of eighteen at the battle of Lundy's Lane would now be ninety-six.

It should not be forgotten by Canadians in this connection that as the war between Great Britain and the United States was general in 1812-15, so the celebration of the inauguration of a century of peace will be general in 1915. There are many notable episodes in that war with which Canadians had no connection except as citizens of the British Empire. There need be no doubt that the people of Great Britain will be found five years hence taking their full share in a great international function from which Canadians cannot afford to stand aloof, and if they are to take part in the program they may as well participate in the preparations for it.

United States Consul Alfred A. Wingow reports from Valparaiso that a Commission composed of naval engineers and expert mechanics has tested the products of the Sociedad Altos Hornos of Corral, Chile, and pronounced the iron of a superior quality and suitable for general use in the navy, and for other purposes. These furnaces have a capacity of two hundred tons per day, which will go far toward supplying the demand in Chile for that class of material. The fuel is used in charcoal. The works have been in operation since the beginning of 1910. Canadian ocean liners are taking a steadily increasing proportion of the passenger trade. In the year ending June 30, no fewer than 33,200 aliens entered the United States through Canadian ports, having reached this country by Canadian vessels. And Canada will continue to have an increasing share of this business.

One Barrel of Flour Instead of Two

YES, in the old way there was one kind of flour for bread and another for pastry.

Now, OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is an all-around flour. It makes not only the very best bread but also the very best cakes, pies, biscuits, rolls, muffins, pop-overs, pancakes, dumplings, anything that you want to make or bake from flour.

"ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" saves money and trouble. Instead of having two barrels of flour in the house you can get along much better with one. And you can be certain that it is always uniform—will always come out right whether for Bread or Pastry.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD is made from the finest grade of wheat in the world; Manitoba Red Fyfe wheat, and milled by the very finest machinery, in mills that are a model of cleanliness.

"ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" costs a trifle more by the barrel than ordinary flour but this trifle extra proves real economy when the loaves are counted. For "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" goes farther than ordinary flour—farther in actual quantity of baked product.

Even if "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" cost a great deal more than ordinary flour it would be well worth it for it is more nourishing.

You can't afford to buy inferior flour at any price. You can't afford to skimp on health. And you do skimp on health when you buy flour just because it costs less than "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD".

HOME READING COLUMNS

To the Front.

The good men must always be at the front. It is not enough that there be more good men than bad, but they must be at the front everywhere and at all times. One man in a position of influence is worth a thousand men single-handed and silent. It is a Christian's duty to wield all the influence he can honestly and judiciously, wherever he is. If a mechanic, be a leader as far as consistency will allow, in the councils of labor; if a "drummer" be a leader among commercial travellers, if a merchant, be as successful as conscience and circumstances permit; in politics, be always on hand; sacrifice time, convenience and comfort be at the caucus and the polls. It requires more grace, more head and heart to be a leader in social, scholastic, mechanical, mercantile or political life, constantly and consistently, than it does to be the best deacon, superintendent or prayer meeting worker in the city, and it is as essential in its way.

Becoming Rich.

Too often that a man is growing rich is first announced to his neighbor by a wider spread and a finer show in his style of living. His wife and daughters begin to resemble the lilies. They neither toil nor spin but Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of them. Next come the coach and span. Then, of course, a new house. The old one was ample. There is no increase of family but without a grander mansion how is the world to know that the man has made a fortune? So architects and painters and decorators in due time install the household in a palace fit for a duke and they take their rank among "the upper ten." All the humble walks of life abandoned, old friends are dropped, old friends are dropped, the hearts once often cheered, and the poor helped, look no longer for their coming. The cloak of selfishness is tightly drawn and the heart closed to the appeals of charity. How true, when blessings come in the way of great prosperity they are wholly appropriated for self, and the good they were intended to do never speed on missions of mercy, but are tightly held, dwarfed and thwarted altogether and they are not known to have become rich by the many blessings bestowed or good done but only by an outward dazzling show that a few years will obliterate.

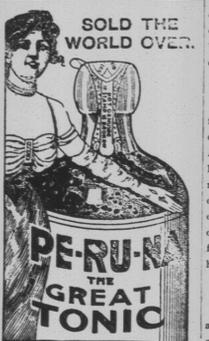

Discontent

It is astonishing how small a proportion of the men and women, old and young, who inhabit this earth are contented with their lot. How few laborers in this great work-a-day world receive payment commensurate, in their own eyes with the labor performed. How is it, with the housewife, who from morning till night toils unceasingly for her family, yet with all her diligence, must pinch here and cramp there, keeping her own wants in the background, that the household she manages may have clothes to wear and food to eat? It is so throughout every department of industry to a great degree, and one great crying evil is the cheapness to which nearly all work done by the human hand is reduced. The craving for cheapness and hating after but not economically false, but thousands of individuals. It is hard, in fact impossible, to be content and be in want. But when want is past, and comparative comfort is granted, almost invariably comes a craving still better, and the very ones who have felt the pressure and pinch of bitter need, are ready to drive as sharp a trade, and exact as much in exchange for very little pay as those who have experienced none of the grinding lessons of poverty. When we learn to deal fairly and squarely by ourselves and others a spirit of contentment will be almost sure to bless us.—Exchange

An Allowance for Children

If children have no money of their own how can they learn to manage it? Begin when they are very young and teach them gradually the use of money by arranging household work so they can earn a few pennies, and perhaps by giving moneyed rewards for special excellence in school. Whenever children are given money let them understand it is because they have earned it by good behavior. Money should not be doled out to a child as if were to a beggar. It has a right to its allowance; and children that are early taught that they must furnish equivalent of money received learn the value of money and grow up to be respected because they are self-respecting. The plan we have suggested is followed in many families and each child is paid a fixed sum for certain duties. While the sums earned by smaller children are trivial, the children are compelled to pay out certain small necessary expenses from them, and to contribute a penny of the earnings to the church contribution box each Sunday. As soon as they have a dollar saved they are urged to put it in the bank, unless it is near a birthday or the holidays, when extraordinary expenditures are in order. In one family the mother to make a liberal allowance of paper, pencils, and other sundries for school and if any of these articles are wasted or used up before a certain time the child in fault is compelled to purchase others from her own money, a very definite and usually effective way of reaching carelessness. By gradually becoming used to spending money, and learning by "paying" the ruffing and folly of carelessness, the child grows to learn values, and when she arrives at an age suitable may use an allowance given her wisely and with proper discretion.

A Romance in Sight.

Not until boarding houses cease to exist will all their romances be written. Shabby romances, many of them are, like that of the young woman who got tired of being called "poor thing" because she received no invitations and had to eat all her meals at the boarding house table that she took to eating alone once in a while at a cheap restaurant and then brazenly lying about the friends who had invited her to dinner.

There was a young man in that house who never went anywhere either. The first night the girl stayed out late the relation nearly overpowered him. "Even that poor little white faced soul has made friends who want her," he said. "Nobody wants me. I'm no good on earth."

Then on rare occasions his place at the table was vacant. "New friend?" asked the landlady.

"Yes," lied the young man. "One night the man and the girl met in a twenty-five cent restaurant. They blushed; they fencled; they finally confessed."

"We're a pair of frauds," said the girl. "It's awful to think that to-night when we go home we will have to swear that we have been dining with friends."

"Well," said the young man, "ain't we?"—New York Press.

Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloating.

A Bad Case that Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured by Nerviline.

"The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. R. Emerson, of Guys Hill P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I could not walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach arrangements disappeared entirely."

For cramps, flatulence, diarrhoea and disorders of the stomach and bowels, Nerviline shows no equal, one million bottles used every year, fifty years on the market, that's proof enough of its merit. In two sizes 50c. and 25c. at all dealers or the Cattarhogue Company, Kingston, Ont.

A Point in Law

A prominent lawyer of Miami recently received a call from a colored woman. "What's the trouble?" inquired the lawyer.

"It's a 'out mah ole man. He's cahy-in' on high wit' a lot no-count gals, he is, an' my'nin's got to be done!"

"Do you want a divorce?"

"Go 'long, man. Divorce nuffin. Think I've gwine to gin him des what he wants, an' 'low him to go sky stool in' round wif dem gals? Not on you, life, mister lawyer, I don't want to divorce; what I wants is a 'junction."

The advertising merchant is the one who does the business now days of push and enterprise. There are more newspaper readers today than ever before in history of the world. The newspaper places your business under the eyes of the buyer. He sees what he wants, and knowing where to find it looks up the wide-awake merchant who asked him to come and see him. Success in these days of sharp competition calls vigilance. You can't keep a hustler down.—Exchange

The new cruiser Eristol, just launched for the British navy, on her trial trip, developed a speed of 27 knots an hour. A few years ago such fleetness was only looked for in torpedo craft, which were made slight and swift in order that in doing their risky work they would be under fire for the shortest possible length of time. The Eristol could sail away from many torpedo boats and from most heavy fighting craft.

The C. P. R. is billed to increase their accommodation at their Montreal station at a cost of 3 to 4 million dollars.

Standard's Rival Invades United States.

London, Oct. 6.—Keen interest is taken in London in the great war between the Standard Oil Company and the Shell Trading and Transport Company for the control of the world's petroleum trade. While the Standard's capital is given as $300,000,000, the Shell Company, of which Sir Marcus Samuel is Chairman, and its allies are said to represent a capital of $200,000,000.

The Shell Company is quite confident of its ability to beat the American trust and is already attacking the Standard on the latter's own ground by sending large consignments of oil to the United States. Since the battle began the price of petroleum in this country has gone down 7 cents a gallon.

Members of the Shell group, which includes the Royal Dutch Company and the Asiatic Company, assert that in the petroleum trade of Europe the proportion of the Shell's business is 63 per cent of the total kerosene business. There was formerly a kind of market arrangement by which they learned each other's prices and acted to them.

The stock of exchange today had an exciting time in oil shares. Trading Shell Transport shares fell sharply, and Russian and other oil shares declined appreciably.

A telegram from Vienna states news of the oil was received with equanimity by the Austrian industry. The manager of a leading Austrian firm said the Standard's competition in Austria had not been very successful, despite cut prices, because of preference given by Austrian purchasers to home industries. "Austrian oil firms and the Standard trust," continued the informant, "compete all over the continent, but especially in France and Germany they wage a direct contest. Should the Standard be now contemplating a determined attempt to cut out Austrian firms by a considerable reduction in prices, I have no hesitation in saying the Austrian oil industry will fight them. I know for a fact that there are financial supplies amounting to hundreds of thousands of pounds available to carry on such a struggle, and I believe it would be a mere trifle upon with every prospect of success."

A Berlin dispatch says the Standard dominates the German market, and the only effect rate cutting can have will be to strengthen the American hold upon it.

Vitality of Eggs

A German bird fancier has made a series of experiments for the purpose of determining the vitality of eggs in different stages of incubation. On the fifth day of incubation five canary birds' eggs were taken from the nest, marked with numbers and replaced in the nest, one by one, at half-hour intervals. This experiment was repeated ten times, with as many clutches of eggs. As a rule, says the Scientific American, the first three eggs replaced hatched normally and the two others failed to hatch. Hence it may be inferred that the average longevity of a canary bird's egg, taken from the nest on the fifth day of incubation, is one and a half hours. In the same way the longevity was found to increase to two or two and a half hours on the seventh day and three and a half to four hours on the ninth day of incubation. It was discovered by accident that eggs in a very advanced stage of incubation can endure very much longer periods of removal from the nest. Two eggs, purchased as plover's eggs, in the course of an excursion, were stowed in a basket, brought home and forgotten. On the evening of the following day a faint "peep" recalled the existence of the eggs, and it was found that a young snipe had issued from one of them. The second snipe soon made its appearance, but lived only an hour. Hence it appears that the vitality of partly hatched eggs depends on the size of the bird as well as on the stage of incubation.

Jim's Cereb. Yorkshire Farmer (bursting into village inn): "What do you think, Silas? The bones of a prehistoric man have been discovered on Jim White's farm." Innkeeper: "Great Gosh! I hope poor Jim'll be able to clear himself at the coroner's inquest."—Tit Bits.

Two Minute Talks About

for Coal or Wood

Of course the Pandora Range is a few dollars more than an ordinary range. But it will soon pay for itself in the fuel it will save for you.

The Pandora Flue System and Wide Fire Box, designed by our brainy stove experts, save about half a ton of coal per year, because they supply more air than the flue systems and fire boxes of ordinary ranges, causing better combustion of fuel.

The Steel Oven saves some more fuel, because it heats up more rapidly than a cast iron oven. The heavy Fire Clay Coating on the main bottom of range prevents any heat wasting towards the floor. It drives the heat back into the oven, and thus saves still more fuel.

But the big economizing feature is this: The draft for cooking on top of the range is also the draft for baking in the oven. The heat does double duty and your fuel bill is largely reduced.

Get the Pandora—the range that pays for itself. No other range is high-class enough for you.

Synopsis of Canadian North-West Land Regulations.

Any person who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.
Duties—Six months residence and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section along side his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.
A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres, erect a house worth $300.00.
