A "STUFFED" PROPHET

The conservative forecasters are already counting their chickens. The News before the election of 1908 said there would probably be not more than twenty-five liberals returned from Ontario, whereas there were thirty-six. On the eve of the opening of the polls it published this flamboyant telegram from Mr. Borden—"Prospects in the Maritime Provinces point to a substantial majority on Monday. Our meetings in every constituency have been wonderful in point of attendance, interest, and enthusiasm. From all sides comes the same report—namely, this is 1878 over again."

It might be supposed that one exhibition of that sort would be enough for the News, but it is again at the same old business of prophesying. This time it sees hope in the small majorities of many liberals successful in the election of 1908. "Three years ago," we are told, "the Government carried forty-two constituencies by less than 250 of a majority. Seventeen of these were in Ontario, ten in Quebec, five in Nova Scotia, and four in New Brunswick. A change of 2,500 votes would have brought about the decisive defeat of the Government. What evidence is there that the Government is stronger now than it was three years ago?"

Applying the News' argument impartially, it will be found that a change of 2,500 votes in 1908 or in the coming election would reduce the conservative representation in the Commons to a mere shadow. The liberals in 1908 carried forty-two seats by less than 250 majority, and ninety-one seats by majorities of over 250. The conservatives carried thirty-seven seats by majorities of less than 250, and only forty-eight by majorities of over 250. In proportion to their numbers, therefore, the Tories stand to lose far more heavily in doubtful constituencies than the liberals. If a majority of 250 and over indicates a fairly safe seat, the liberals go into the fight with ninety-one safe seats and the conservatives with only forty-eight. It is quite needless to follow The News' argument farther. It is a veritable boomerang. Instead of proving what The News fancied, the argument indicates clearly that the liberal party stands to gain more heavily relatively in doubtful constituencies than the conservative.

Taking the Ontario seats with less than 250 majority, we find that the conservatives hold the following—Algoma East, 41; Algoma West, 209; South Bruce, 193; East Elgin, 247; North Essex (bye-election, 1909), 84; North Grey, 146; Haldimand, 246; Halton, 212; East Huron, 83; West Huron, 62; North Lanark, 63; Lennox and Addington, 154; Lincoln, 249; East Middlesex, 249; Nipissing, 21; East Northumberland, 196; North Ontario, 200; North Simcoe, 51; Toronto Centre, 187; Centre York, 45. In all twenty seats held by less than 250 majority.

The liberal seats held by majorities of less than 250 are—Brant, 245; Brantford, 205; Brockville, 144; South Grey, 87; South Huron, 154; West Kent, 82; West Lambton, 246; North Middlesex, 63; West Middlesex, (bye-election, 1909), 156; West Northumberland, 130; South Ontario, 243; North Oxford, 124; South Oxford, 93; North Perth, 41; South Perth, 29; Prince Edward, 137—sixteen in all (not seventeen) with less than 250 majority.

If The News is looking for omens it will find them in the fact that only six liberal seats in Ontario are held by majorities of less than 100. They are constituencies in which reciprocity will add strength to the liberal candidate. The conservatives hold eight seats in Ontario by majorities of less than 100. Does Mr. Borden or does The News imagine that obstruction of the reciprocity agreement will bring strength to the conservatives who now hang on by majorities of less than 100 in East Algoma and Nipissing—that will benefit by the removal of the duty on lumber—and seats like North Essex, East and West Huron, North Simcoe, and Centre York, that will benefit greatly by reciprocity in farm products? There will be some surprises for The News' prophet when the returns come in seven weeks hence.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Six open his platform on August 15, in one of the place for the open platform will be finally fixed at strategic point in group of countries all the reciprocity problem good hope of capturing now held by the Conservative will, in make reciprocity the main issue, his speech amplification of the statement of the presented in his public Canadian people, he will enter upon

NORTH AND SOUTH TRADE Canadian Pacific stock has advanced fifty percent, more or less, since January last.

It is quite a relief to turn from the indignation of the Standard editor to an interview with Dr. J. W. Daniel, M. P., in that same newspaper. Dr. Daniel, who could not foresee the Standard editorial at the time, and so did not know that an outrage had been committed, spoke as follows:

The advantage Canada enjoys in controlling the carrying trade of the West is geographic. Nothing but the most blind restrictions could take it away. The Canadian railways have the advantage of distance. That is the chief reason for the quick development of Canadian transcontinental lines.

HOW TO BE HAPPY A New York legislator gives the simple formula for happiness: "Plenty to eat, a good appetite and some good friends."

LIBERAL CONVENTIONS AND PROSPECTS The Liberals of St. John will select their candidates for the city and county at a convention to be held on Thursday, August 10.

wood directly, and only by indirection can it be won. This philosophy is reflective and derived. It is built upon experience and contemplation. It represents a secondary stage of progress and is not primitive like that enunciated by the New York legislator. But it is fundamentally pessimistic. It can never be verified by experience. It runs counter, with intention, to all the sanctions which are possible in experience.

It should not be difficult to select as a running mate for the Minister of Public Works some sterling Liberal who will assist in bringing out the full party strength, and behind whom all Liberals would rally for the political redemption of the city. Sir Wilfrid Laurier should certainly have two supporters from St. John this fall.

WHICH IS RIGHT Discussing the dissolution of Parliament, the Standard, in its first editorial yesterday morning, said, with some attempt at solemnity: "The sudden decision of the government to dissolve Parliament and precipitate a general election in a high handed piece of business, for which no valid excuse can be offered."

It will be observed from the foregoing that the Conservative member for St. John city and the Conservative newspaper, while doubtless they have the utmost confidence in each other, had not thought it necessary to compare notes before airing their views, and the result is somewhat confusing. As a matter of fact, Dr. Daniel is right in saying that the government pursued the course generally expected; but the remainder of his interview is filled with vain assertions about the political situation, and how foolish these are will perhaps be generally recognized even by confirmed Standard readers.

A CALCULATED MIDDLE The Opposition would confuse the present issue before the country. Their discussion of the part in Parliament indicates the most extraordinary ignorance of its provisions, and of the present tariff.

BRITISH PREFERENCE Mr. Borden made a great show of frankness in the West in his opposition to reciprocity, but in reality he was not at all frank in saying what he would do in the event of his accession to power.

desire the election as to the record of the party on this question. But this is a question of ethics and morality, over which they will remain more than usual calm. The question of reciprocity will give them more concern. It is marvellous that men discussing the part on the floor of the House—even discussing it as stop-gaps and speaking against it—should display such a lack of knowledge of the present tariff and of the changes really proposed in the arrangement with the United States government, as is again and again apparent in the opposition speeches.

Together with this there is the charge made recently by the Postmaster-General, who said that a plot had been entered into whereby at the elections the Tories of Ontario will tell that province that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is disloyal, while Mr. Bourassa and his followers will tell Quebec that Sir Wilfrid is an imperialist of the most extreme kind.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT While many of the Conservative newspapers have been attempting to prove, by insinuation or by open assertion, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is disloyal and that his policies are separatist in tendency, Sir Wilfrid is being still more recklessly denounced in Quebec by a combination of Conservatives and Nationalists for "selling his country to the English."

Now here is a question: Why do not the Standard and other Conservative papers, which are accusing Sir Wilfrid Laurier of disloyalty, print some of the speeches about him which are being made by the Conservatives and Nationalists in Quebec? The answer is simple. The attack upon the Liberal administration involves a distinct plan with respect to the different localities. In Catholic Quebec Sir Wilfrid is to be attacked as a dangerous imperialist; and in Protestant Ontario he is to be attacked as a traitor.

INTERESTING AGRICULTURAL FEATURES FOR OUR COUNTRY READERS

In our Ottawa dispatch today Dr. Pugsley gave detailed consideration to the Ganette article and thoroughly exposed its folly and dishonesty. The more attention Conservatives direct to Courtenay Bay, the better the Liberals will be pleased. Plans for the great development there are now complete and it is hoped the contract will be awarded in the near future. That is what the Conservatives are afraid of. They desire Liberal achievement. It is in strong contrast to the neglect of St. John that was so conspicuous a feature of Tory rule previous to 1880.

The Public Utilities Commission Monday handed down its decision in the Telephone case. The Telegraph gives much space to the fighting this morning, publishing it in full. There are several interesting features. Generally, the decision is in favor of the company. There is one sop to the complainants—the reduction by half of the price of extension rates, to take effect at the end of the current quarter. The commission refused to consider the St. John exchange as apart from the company's whole system for the purposes of rate-making, holding that charges here must be regarded not merely as fixed by local conditions but as influenced by the operation of the system as a whole. This view will be found most of the remainder of the decision.

Charlotte county Conservative convention for the nomination of a candidate will be held on next Monday, Aug. 7, at St. Stephen, while in Carleton county the Conservative party's convention will be held on Thursday, Aug. 17, at 7 o'clock in the evening.

STOCK FRENCH CANADIAN CATTLE

Characteristics and Value of This Hardy Breed.

French-Canadian cattle are, as a rule, rather small, the head is generally speaking, fine cut, rather short and broad in the forehead; eyes, clear and bright; horns rather long and slightly up-curved, white at the base; the muzzle is usually round and surrounded with a fawn ring. This fawn ring is distinctive of the breed. To judge the line along the back. The neck of the animal is, generally speaking, of good length, rather slight and firmly attached to the shoulder. The shoulders are clearly attached to the body, straight, the parts of the back, the vertebrae, well separated and the ribs well curving and widely separated. The cows are generally remarkable for good feeding qualities, having a good big barrel and roomy digestive organs, indicating their great capacity as machines for turning green stuff into milk. There is no loss of flesh in this breed, and it must be distinctly understood that it is not a breed that is likely to be of much value for beef production.

LOCK DIAMOND ROAD SADDLE IN NEED OF REPAIRS

Those Who Use It Declare It is in a Disgraceful Condition and Dangerous. The residents of the big district which has to depend for communication with the city on the alleged road which runs to Loch Lomond are growing more indignant every day over the state of the highway. In spite of the fact that the road is one of the busiest leading to the city it has been allowed to fall into a disgraceful condition, which makes its use not only unpleasant but dangerous.

STOPPAGE OF BOWELS IN CATTLE

This is one of the most common ailments that cattle are subject to, to the same time more fatal than any other. The simple reason that stoppage is due to paralysis of the bowels. Stoppage of the bowels is to be regarded as a sign of another disease rather than a disease itself. It occurs in almost all fevers, indigestion and over eating. In order to overcome stoppage of the bowels a treatment must be applied to the animal which will cause the bowels to move, and this may be done in various ways.

PROTECTING HORSES FROM FLIES

At This Time of the Year, Says Prof. W. F. Handeche, of the Minnesota Agricultural College, Much Discomfort to Cattle and Pigs to Their Owners is Caused by Flies and Other Insects.

Feed because scarce at this season and this, combined with fighting flies and at times leaving such feed as there is to seek relief from the pest in the bush, or in water where this can be found—often results in a loss of weight in cattle. In dairy herds, even where stables are darkened and the cattle kept in a part of the day, the loss in milk yields resulting from the annoyance caused by flies is often quite material. Some different, and very effective, mixtures have been used with more or less success. Several of those advertised have been used by the writer, and found fairly efficient in keeping flies off animals for three or four days, varying with the nature of the mixture and the amount applied. The mixtures are usually applied most satisfactorily by means of a small sprayer pump, which costs about $1. They can be thus applied in a very short time, and the only important item of expense is the mixture itself. Most of the patented mixtures cost from seventy-five cents to $1 a gallon. Where considerable quantities are used the necessary ingredients can be purchased and the mixture made up at the cost of thirty to fifty cents per gallon.

TEACHING THE CALF TO DRINK

When the calf is weaned from its mother, it is well to let it go 18 to 24 hours without milk in order to have it hungry and thus more ready to learn.

The first feed of milk is a crisis in the calf's life. The calf will not learn to drink any other milk than its mother's. The calf should be fed in a clean, dry trough, and the trough should be kept clean. The calf should be taught to drink from the trough by holding its nose in the trough and allowing it to suck. FEEDING WORK HORSES

The horse's stomach is not large enough and cannot hold a feed of grain and hay at the same time; therefore, it is reasonable to suppose that the grain feeds will be thoroughly digested and assimilated if not accompanied with too large an amount of hay. The best results come from feeding work horses in the morning and at noon. By practicing this method the horses have a comparatively small amount of fresh hay to be digested while at work, and the grain feed being more nutritious and more easily digested than the hay, the horse is well nourished throughout the day.

MONTREAL NEWS

Montreal Has 50,000 Jews. It comes generally as a surprise to the stranger to learn that Montreal's population of the Jewish faith is probably little less than 50,000, or, say, one-tenth of the whole. In recent years there have been large additions to their numbers abroad, and the immigration movement is continuing. They now practically monopolize a number of the streets in the heart of the city, run a daily newspaper of their own, and carry on a large number of commercial activities. And their present movements indicate an ambition to take a more definite and specific place in public affairs than they have hitherto occupied.

GENERAL CLOVER HAY

Points on Curing and Storing for Feeding Purposes.

Clover makes an excellent hay when properly cured and stored. One ton of well-cured clover hay is worth, for feeding purposes, nearly half as much as a ton of barn clover. It is especially valuable for feeding dairy cows and young stock. The quality of clover hay depends upon its palatability and nutritive value. Much of the clover hay now used is very inferior, and it is not so profitable as it should be. The farmer should be careful to cure his clover hay properly, and to store it in a dry, well-ventilated place.

SCOURS IN CALVES

A calf that has come from a well fed dam, has been born on grass or in a clean stable, has been given suckling and clean quarters and is otherwise free from disease, will not be affected with scours. If any of the above factors are lacking, scours are almost sure to follow. Scours in calves is a very common disease, and it is often fatal. The disease is caused by a bacteria, and it is often spread from one calf to another. The disease can be prevented by keeping the calves clean and dry, and by giving them a good diet.

GROWING BUSH FRUITS

The bearing canes of raspberries and blackberries should be cut out and burned soon after the fruit is gathered. A pair of long-handled pruners, or a hooked blade attached to a handle 3 or 4 feet long, is a good tool for this purpose. In setting out red raspberries one may use plants a year old, or growing plants a few inches high may be moved in late spring or early summer with a ball of earth on the roots. Pinching back the young canes, unless the weather is very warm, checks the growth of late, weak branches. It is better not to prune the canes until the following spring, when they should be cut back to 3 feet high. They will then throw out vigorous side shoots, on which the fruit will be borne. They are usually planted 3 1/2 feet apart, but 4 1/2 feet with cross-cultivation is better. London and Outburst are good varieties. The plantation will begin to decline after these crops have been gathered, and should be plowed under.

HORTICULTURE

Points in Culture of Raspberries, Blackberries and Currants.

A sandy soil or clay loam of moderate fertility and well provided with humus is good for cane fruits. It must not be wet, but should be resistant to drought. The amount and kind of fertilizer needed differ with the soil. On good land raspberries and blackberries need little barnyard manure, and what is used should be applied in autumn or winter, but it may not cause a late, large growth. Whether potash and phosphoric acid may be needed depends upon the soil, and no general rule is safe. The intelligent use of such fertilizers frequently pays well, but it is easy to waste money upon them. Gooseberries and currants are heavy feeders, and need an abundance of barnyard manure. The preparation of the soil for the cane fruits should be deep and thorough, and fresh soil should be avoided.

"CROP-KILLER" OUT OF JOB IN THE WEST

Grain Cutting Has Commenced, and a Great Harvest Seems Assured. Winnipeg, Aug. 1.—Harvest is here. Cutting has started at a few points, but mostly on barley. There never was a season when pessimistic remarks were so little in evidence as this summer. A very large crop is assured and it is impossible for the "croakers" to get even a hearing. Whatever the actual total of the crop output, it will at any rate be very much larger than the largest previous crop. There are districts where the yield is light and there are parts where the yield is very heavy, but there is a crop everywhere. One grain dealer, who is recognized as a reliable authority on the western grain crop, said that the result would be a pretty good average for the whole country. Farmers will be cutting wheat from this out, and operations are likely to be general about the middle of August. Announcement is made in the last few days by immigration and railway officials indicates that owing to the large number of men available in the neighboring states the work of harvest, there is a not likely to be much difficulty in securing the required help. There is undoubtedly a busy season ahead of the west.

DIGBY HOUSE BURNED

TORY CONVENTION

Walt Philosopher. My friends, the weather is so warm I fear no arctic storm! Sweet suns, it yet, the good old fashioned sort; refreshing sweat is rolling by the sizzling through the skies, and paints the dear, delightful, sportive fies as I contemplate the boons that cluster prunes and shed some tears of glee, here, let's think of others' woes; the mong the drifted snows—what would you be aside, and fan himself, and cuss, ried! What would the man of Lapland, in this, our sunny land, to live, and not have to shovel snow, and that in order to throw coal ashes on the ice; you munks of cordwood slam. What more apply as a clam.

DAIRY STOP THE LEAKS

If there should be a hole in the bottom of your milk pail through which one-fourth of the milk would leak out, what would you do? Stop it, wouldn't you? Why, then, let other leaks continue to run, and you will get no more. Because you don't happen to see them plainly in no reason for failing to search them out and stop them. There may be a leak in the way you feed. You may not be giving enough feed. If so, that is as bad as a leak. You may be milking a cow that never did pay for her keep and never will. That is a very common sort of leak. Why does any dairymen permit these and other leaks? He surely doesn't want to lose money in the business. It comes from want of thought, doesn't it? How much do you think about the best ways to improve your dairy income? Are you interested enough to think about it when you wake up in the night and can't sleep? It is best to sleep when necessary, but if I couldn't I would put in the time with thinking about how to improve my dairy. Many a good idea comes into the receptive mind during the dark watches of the night.—Wm. H. Underwood. In setting lines up or incubating artificially the Minnesota Experiment station has found best results by selecting eggs of a uniform size, with smooth shell and as perfectly formed as possible. Will the weeds in the corn and potatoes. Weeds take up moisture the roots need to prevent the circulation of air thus encouraging the spread of plant diseases. They shade the ground and keep the soil absorbing heat.

STRAWBERRY CULTURE

With the exception of the apple, no fruit is grown more universally than the strawberry. As it is grown more or less extensively in New Brunswick, the following points on culture by a writer in a United States farm paper are reprinted for our readers: "With our method of culture, weed growth does not ordinarily give us much concern or trouble. Excepting when an overabundance of moisture makes timely cultivation impossible the growth of what is usually termed noxious weeds is easily prevented. "During the early part of the season, before the work of layering runners is begun, frequent use is made of the horse weeder. As the teeth of this stool work close to the ground without injury to the plants, destroying weeds while they are passing through the germinating process, the problem of preventing weed growth is greatly simplified. "We use the double hedge row culture, which permits us to work close to the plant on two sides, with horse-drawn and hand cultivators. But few weeds attain any size, and these are easily disposed of. "The weed that causes us the most concern is the pernicious ground hellebore of plants that most varieties of strawberries persist in making for a superfluity of strawberry runners, which in a fruiting bed work hard and usually to much weed growth. Any kind of a plant because a weed in a place where it is not needed. "We have allowed to grow thickly, the building up of large crowns and extensive bed systems is prevented, for there is not sufficient plant food nor room in the soil to properly care for so many plants. Not only so, but each individual plant is seeking to perpetuate its kind through the formation of nodes, and as this draws heavily upon the energy and vitality of the plant there is not a sufficient amount of energy to spare, nor inclination on the part of the plant to build up large fruit crowns. Hence, in the future and amount of growth of a strawberry bed may exceed that of noxious weeds. "Where the method of culture is such as to be exceedingly profitable to cut out the extra plants with a sharp hoe."

CLOSED ALBERT ROAD KEY TO RESUME SERVICE

Arrangements Probable for Company to Operate Line Till Government Takes it Over. Ottawa, Aug. 1.—Hon. Dr. Pugsley, when seen by your correspondent after the meeting of the council this afternoon, stated that there had been consideration given to the case of the Salisbury & Harvey Railway. In view of the fact that a portion of the line is closed causing immense inconvenience to the people in that vicinity, there is need for prompt action in the public interest, he is of the opinion that an arrangement will be made at once by the company which will result in the early opening of the whole line for traffic and the taking over of the road by the government to be operated by the Intercolonial in the near future.

WHY MANY PROMINENT CANADIAN PUBLIC MEN FAVOR RECIPROCITY A BUSINESS BARGAIN THAT WILL HELP BOTH PRODUCER AND CONSUMER HELPS THE CONSUMERS NOT A PARTY QUESTION

HELPS THE CONSUMERS

Ralph Smith Says Reciprocity is Bound to Assist Them

"The argument has been put up by a few people: How are you going to increase the price to the farmer and reduce the cost to the consumer?" said Ralph Smith, M.P., speaking at Montreal. "I have no objection to that question. You must remember that in Canada we have a great agricultural country, that we have millions of acres of the richest land in the world. The opponents of this measure say that if the United States takes our natural products it is going to create a strong demand for these commodities and the result will be that these natural products will be dear. That is the argument. But, you must remember that simultaneously with the finding of the market for our agricultural products in the United States, you will have the greatest development of agricultural production in this Dominion that has ever taken place. The very fact that you have millions of acres of land, the very fact that you create a market in the United States, and consequently

NOT A PARTY QUESTION

Regret Expressed That Reciprocity Should Have Got into Politics

W. H. Johnson, President of the Brandon Grain Growers' Association, said it was regrettable that the reciprocity question had been taken into party politics. When the farmers were at Ottawa the Conservative leaders had not been antagonistic to the farmers' demands. When the farmers overhauled the treasury benches on that occasion Mr. Borden had said he had never seen those benches occupied by men in whom he had more confidence. Mr. Borden seemed now to have lost his confidence. For some time there had been no antagonism to reciprocity, but immediately the Government took up the question in a practical way the situation had become antagonistic. It looked to him as if it were a political dodge in order to get into power. He was glad that their own Western friend, Mr. Haultain, had taken a different stand by those means. The Saskatchewan Conservatives were to be congratulated upon having kept reciprocity out of party politics. He was sorry to note that the eastern capitalists had come out so strongly in opposition to reciprocity. The eastern farmers had stood shoulder to shoulder with the Western farmers in making their demands upon the Government. They had been agreed that what was good for one was good for both. He appreciated the fact that the Government would have to fight a combination of parties and interests with money at their backs.

The speaker said he was aware that a lot of people could be bought by five dollar bills. That was where the trouble was going to come. If bribery could be prevented the Government would be all right. He knew that a number of Conservatives were trying to whip him into line against reciprocity. He would stand by those who had dealt fairly with him. It was all right to say that the present prosperity of Canada was due to the National Policy. The price of wheat had most certainly increased. He would stand by the price of wheat drop to 60 cents a bushel and where would Canada and the farmers be then?

No Legislation Can Turn Trade Out Of Its Natural Channels

Let Nature Alone, Says Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and Trade Will Go to Canadian Lines—A Comparison By Figures of the Various Atlantic Routes

Replying to the charge that reciprocity would divert Canadian trade into American channels, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said: "If you attempt to prevent the people from trading in natural channels, no amount of legislation will accomplish that object; but let nature alone, and then the trade will be carried on on Canadian lines. Why? Because we have the interior and the shorter and better lines. Take the condition of things to-day: Winnipeg can trade with Europe by way of the United States; it can trade with Europe by way of Canada. The line of railway from Winnipeg to Montreal is 1,414 miles, and from Montreal to Liverpool 2,760 miles, a total of 4,174 miles. From Winnipeg to New York by way of Minneapolis, Chicago and the American lines, the distance is 1,790 miles, and from New York to Montreal 3,026 miles, a total

NO BLUE RUIN

The Annexation Cry "the Greatest Nonsense," Said Bishop Mills

Bishop Mills, in his charge to the Ontario Synod at Kingston, said some people were going about singing a song concerning blue ruin which was coming to our country through reciprocity with the United States. "Whether reciprocity would be in the general interests of the country," he said, "is a question for debate, and about which different opinions may be held. But politicians have not devoted their attention so much to the discussion of this question as in ringing changes on the cry that if reciprocity were adopted it would be the first step towards annexation, that the United States would be buying us, and we would be selling ourselves. I think that is the greatest nonsense that ever came from the mouths of supposedly sane men, as a Canadian I resent it. I would think very little of my loyalty to the British Crown if it depended on tariff schedules. Those who think the national spirit of Canada is such a poor and uncertain thing that her existence as a nation would be imperilled by an increase of trade with the United States certainly do not know her. There is no part of the British Empire in which there is truer loyalty than in Canada, and she can be neither bought nor sold. The opposition to reciprocity is simply a political one. That there are men of both parties opposed to it simply means that men can be taught by a cry and led by sentiment. Mr. R. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, like a sensible man has, I believe, while opposing reciprocity on economic grounds, refused to take up the annexation cry, and use it in any way as an argument."

WHY NOT TAKE THE CHANCE?

Mr. MacKay Thought Conservatives Lost Their Hand at a Game

OPEN THE DOOR

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Wants Canada to Share in the Trade of 90,000,000 Neighbors

"At the northern extremity of the temperate zone," says Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "our cereals have more strength, our fruit has better flavor, our vegetables have more delicacy than similar productions from other parts of the world, and under free competition, they will displace all other products on the tables of the wealthy. Our object to-day is to open the door of the American market, to open the door of a nation of 90,000,000, which has been closed to us for the last 50 years, and when we are now on the eve of reaching that goal we are deluged by a plethora of sophistry. We are told that if such an arrangement is to go into effect the Canadian vegetables, cereals and fruits can cross the boundary line and be taken free of duty by the American people. It is not so. Under the Canadian confederation, and even the British Empire will reel and rock upon its foundations. Let us discard these frolics of misrepresenting panic and let us approach this question from the point of view of common sense. All that we ask under these resolutions is to obtain for the man who works in the fields the best possible remuneration for his labor."

THE INITIAL PRODUCER

The Man to Consider in the Reciprocity Discussion

Hon. Frank Oliver told Brandon voters that the farmers, when they asked for reciprocity last December, had little idea of the magnitude which the question would soon assume. No longer was the question confined to Canada. The United States and the United Kingdom were now both energetically discussing it. He accepted as a first principle of economics that taxation should be heavy on luxuries and light on food stuffs. The initial producer had the right to dispose of his product to the best advantage. His being permitted to do so, and being facilitated in doing so, was

ENDORSED IN 1893

Resolution Adopted in That Year by the Liberals

Hon. W. S. Fielding in one of his speeches quoted the following resolution of the Liberal party in 1893: "That a fair and liberal reciprocity treaty would develop the great natural resources of Canada, would enormously increase trade and commerce between the two countries, would tend to encourage friendly relations between the two peoples, would remove many causes which have in the past provoked irritation and trouble to the Governments of both countries, and would promote those kindly relations between 'Empire and the Republic which afford the best guarantee for peace and prosperity.'"

SIR JOHN A. WANTED IT

The Late Conservative Chieftain Had Gone on Record on Reciprocity

So strongly had Sir John A. Macdonald felt upon the question of reciprocity, said S. H. McKay, speaking at Brandon, that he had left it on statutory record that as soon as the United States were prepared to enter into a reciprocal agreement Canada would be prepared to do the same. For several years Canadian had enjoyed bonding privileges in the United States and reciprocity was after all only an extension of that principle.

Their opponents claimed that the Laurier Government had received no mandate to ratify the agreement. Surely the Canadian farmers' delegation to Ottawa formed a mandate. But apart from that mandate, reciprocity had been so thoroughly endorsed by both parties that no further mandate was necessary.

SCANDAL AND SHAME

Mr. Fielding Thus Refers to the Talk About Annexation

"Annexation!" said Hon. W. S. Fielding. "Is it not a scandal and a shame that our opponents should talk annexation? I would not know—I do not know whether you do or not—I would not know whether you are the whole Dominion of Canada for a man who would call himself an annexationist. What can you say if our American friends receive an erroneous impression when they read in the papers who are supporting this Reciprocity agreement in Canada are advocating annexation in disguise, and when they know that thousands of people in Canada are supporting this Reciprocity agreement? Can you be surprised if our American friends are taught to believe that there is disloyalty in Canada? Who teaches them?"

ORGANIZED TO DEFEAT

Western Farmers View with Alarm the Source of the Opposition

The farmers of Portage la Prairie recently presented an address to Hon. Frank Oliver, in which the proposed reciprocity agreement was described as covering a very wide range and being a long step in the direction in which the grain growers wished to go. This address stated that it viewed with alarm the source from which the determined efforts of organized capital and special interests to defeat the agreement.

CAT GATHERS EGGS

There is a cat at Ditching, in Sussex, that is very clever in gathering eggs for her mistress.

The hens, you see, lay all over the yard, and it is often difficult to find their eggs. But this pussy always manages to hunt them out somehow. She takes the egg between her teeth, carries it to the back door, places it on the step, and rattles the door handle with her paws until her mistress comes and takes the egg.

necessarily and unquestionably in the interest of every legitimate industry in the country. For every industry of every kind and description in Canada lived, moved, and had its being absolutely and entirely upon the work of the initial producer in developing the raw material of the country. Any initial producer who opposed the reciprocity agreement was opposing something which was in his own interests. He repeated that every legitimate interest in Canada depended on the continued expansion of the initial producing industries, notably and above all others that of agriculture. The expansion of the farming industry depended upon the profit the farmer could make and, in turn, the profit he could make depended upon the market he could get. Upon this principle the Dominion Government had taken its life in its hands. It had introduced the reciprocity agreement into Parliament and was prepared to press the question to a conclusion for the country. Mr. Oliver said he did not believe that men from the broad prairies of the West would ever make a demand upon the Government for a policy of sectional interest.

EQUALIZATION OF TRADE

That Will Not Hurt Canada, Says Hon. Mr. Fisher

In the last three years Canada has imported from the United States $620,000,000 worth of goods, and she has exported to the United States in these same three years $297,000,000 worth of goods, the balance being in round figures more than two to one of imports against exports, said Hon. Sydney Fisher. Now, what is going to come from this Reciprocity arrangement? The result will be a largely increased export of Canadian products to the United States and an effort to reverse the alleged evil of the adverse balance of trade. And there will be an opportunity for Canadians to sell their goods to the United States and to bring about a greater equalization of trade between the two countries. Is this going to be an injury? Is this going to be an evil? Those who prate against the evils of the adverse balance of trade must reconcile their positions and try to make out where they are at this point. A great trade with the United States will come about, largely by the export of Canada's agricultural products. At present we import from the United States largely raw material, and we export to the United States some manufactured articles, a good deal of ores, a good deal of minerals, a good deal of fish, a good deal of lumber, and by this arrangement, we have an opportunity of exporting more of these articles to the United States. Is that going to hurt us? When you take your food, it costs so much to raise it, the farmer gets so much for it, then it costs so much to handle it and bring it to you, and the sum of these amounts is the cost to you, and if in addition to these amounts you have three or a half million dollars in duties, you have just so much to be added to the cost of this food to you. And if the duties are removed from these goods on both sides of the line, they will come from the original producer on the farm to the eventual consumer in the city just so much more cheaply by the removal of these duties, and it will be a relief from taxation to that extent.

RALPH SMITH, M.P.

create an extraordinary demand, will bring about an enormously increased investment of capital in agricultural land and an enormous increased production of agricultural commodities which will operate in favor of the consumers of this country. You can make no mistake in believing that when the exchange of natural products between this country and the United States is made free, the man who eats these things is going to benefit by it, that the consumers of this country are going to get plenty of these products at reduced prices as compared with what they are at the present time, and that the producers who are on the soil are not going to have any reduction in the prices at which they sell their commodities. Free trade between the two countries will develop this business enormously, will increase largely the amount of agricultural land under cultivation, more people will go on the land, and seek to meet the great demand that will be created by this exchange of commodities. Free trade in natural products is bound to assist the consumer."

AMERICAN REDUCTIONS

Greater in Many Cases Than Those Made by Canada

"At present wheat is dutiable in the United States at 25 cents a bushel and in Canada at 12 cents a bushel," said Hon. W. S. Fielding. "We make wheat free in both countries. The reduction in Canada is 12 cents a bushel, whereas the United States reduction is 25 cents a bushel. I give that as an illustration of the fact that the tariff of the United States being much higher than ours, in order to meet a common rate they have had to make very much larger reductions than we have. Barley is now made free. Canada's reduction is 14 cents per bushel and the United States reduction is 30 cents per bushel. Potatoes are now made free. Canada's reduction is 20 cents per bushel and the United States 25 cents. Oats are made free. Canada's reduction is 10 cents per bushel, the United States 15 cents per bushel. Flour is now to be dutiable at the common rate of 50 cents per barrel; Canada's reduction is 10 cents per barrel; the United States reduction is about equal to 70 cents per barrel."

FAVOR THE AGREEMENT

Centre Grey Liberals Do not Think It Will Lead to Political Union

The following resolution was adopted by Centre Grey Liberals: "That we place ourselves on record in favor of the reciprocity agreement, believing that an enlarged market means more prosperity to everybody. We resent the untrue and unpatriotic argument of the Opposition press and speakers, that improved trade relations will lead to political union, and point them to the history of the treaty of 1854, where Republican Senators opposed the treaty on the ground that Canada would seek annexation if the United States market could not be otherwise obtained, while the representatives of the southern States (who were opposed to enlarging the northern boundary) favored reciprocity as a means of keeping Canada out of the Union."

A BUSINESS BARGAIN

Reciprocity Would Mean Dollars to the Producers, Said Mr. Paterson

"Reciprocity is a straight business bargain, sought for years and years," said Hon. William Paterson, speaking at Caledonia. Personally he could see no two sides to the question. He spoke of the Opposition referring to two old gentlemen, later two old men, and, lastly, two old fogies, such as Fielding and Paterson, having the audacity to go to Washington to negotiate with our Yankee without a mandate from the people. For these same people who refer to the agreement may learn more about it when they, too, become older and wiser.

"The whole trouble is the wrong party is to receive the credit," said Mr. Paterson. If the Conservatives had gone to Washington it would have been different. For twelve years this country had the same thing and advanced wonderfully. For forty-five years we were without it, and during that time Conservatives and Liberals alike fought to get it back. Sir John Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Hon. George Brown, and even Hon. G. E. Foster, in 1891, had this plank in their platform. Both parties were committed to it. Now, why are they crying against it? Mr. Foster even wrote articles for magazines in its favor, but now denounces it, because he didn't get it. Mr. Paterson spoke of the mandate from the people. Forthrightly by railways coming in. This would mean competition. Competition means lower rates. Lower rates means dollars in the producers' pockets.

THE FURNITURE TRADE

Reciprocity Would Give the Manufacturers a Greater Market

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, speaking at Hanover, referred to the furniture trade and its relation to reciprocity. Hanover having had a dozen furniture factories. He pointed out that the greater market the Western farmer had the greater would be the migration there, and the more money there would be. The furniture trade would get its share, and he believed that under reciprocity the output of local factories would be doubled in a few years. The Government had not touched the protection on furniture, nor did it intend to. The only manufactured articles affected were agricultural implements, the makers of which could stand the reduction. He also reminded them that the manufacturers had been assisted by the reduction in the duty on soft coal. "What are the prices of cattle here, and on the other side?" asked an interrupter. Mr. King had not the figures, but he asked the farmers in the audience if it was not true that Canada was today exporting cattle to the United States. There were cries of "Yes," and Mr. King said: "Well, I leave it to your common sense if Canadian farmers find it profitable to export cattle now with a high duty on, will it not be easier under reciprocity and mean a greater net price to the farmer?"

PASS THE AGREEMENT

Brandon Liberals adopted unanimously the following resolution: "That this meeting heartily endorses the reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States now before the Parliament of Canada for ratification, expresses its regret at the opposition to the agreement passing the House, and urges the Government to do everything possible to have it agreed to."

NO BLUE RUIN

The Annexation Cry "the Greatest Nonsense," Said Bishop Mills

Bishop Mills, in his charge to the Ontario Synod at Kingston, said some people were going about singing a song concerning blue ruin which was coming to our country through reciprocity with the United States. "Whether reciprocity would be in the general interests of the country," he said, "is a question for debate, and about which different opinions may be held. But politicians have not devoted their attention so much to the discussion of this question as in ringing changes on the cry that if reciprocity were adopted it would be the first step towards annexation, that the United States would be buying us, and we would be selling ourselves. I think that is the greatest nonsense that ever came from the mouths of supposedly sane men, as a Canadian I resent it. I would think very little of my loyalty to the British Crown if it depended on tariff schedules. Those who think the national spirit of Canada is such a poor and uncertain thing that her existence as a nation would be imperilled by an increase of trade with the United States certainly do not know her. There is no part of the British Empire in which there is truer loyalty than in Canada, and she can be neither bought nor sold. The opposition to reciprocity is simply a political one. That there are men of both parties opposed to it simply means that men can be taught by a cry and led by sentiment. Mr. R. Borden, the leader of the Opposition, like a sensible man has, I believe, while opposing reciprocity on economic grounds, refused to take up the annexation cry, and use it in any way as an argument."

SCANDAL AND SHAME

Mr. Fielding Thus Refers to the Talk About Annexation

"Annexation!" said Hon. W. S. Fielding. "Is it not a scandal and a shame that our opponents should talk annexation? I would not know—I do not know whether you do or not—I would not know whether you are the whole Dominion of Canada for a man who would call himself an annexationist. What can you say if our American friends receive an erroneous impression when they read in the papers who are supporting this Reciprocity agreement in Canada are advocating annexation in disguise, and when they know that thousands of people in Canada are supporting this Reciprocity agreement? Can you be surprised if our American friends are taught to believe that there is disloyalty in Canada? Who teaches them?"

ORGANIZED TO DEFEAT

Western Farmers View with Alarm the Source of the Opposition

The farmers of Portage la Prairie recently presented an address to Hon. Frank Oliver, in which the proposed reciprocity agreement was described as covering a very wide range and being a long step in the direction in which the grain growers wished to go. This address stated that it viewed with alarm the source from

AND CONSUMER THE INITIAL PRODUCER

The Man to Consider in the Reciprocity Discussion Hon. Frank Oliver told Brandon electors that the farmers, when they asked for reciprocity last December, had little idea of the magnitude which the question would soon assume.

necessarily and unquestionably in the interest of every legitimate industry in the country. For every industry of every kind and description in Canada lived, moved, and had its being absolutely and entirely upon the work of the initial producer in developing the raw material of the country.

EQUALIZATION OF TRADE

That Will Not Hurt Canada, Says Hon. Mr. Fisher In the last three years Canada has imported from the United States $630,000,000 worth of goods, and she has exported to the United States in these same three years $297,000,000 worth of goods.

Coronation Cake

Weights 600 pounds, the King's Coronation Cake contained among other ingredients, 190 pounds of butter, sugar and flour, 700 eggs, and 300 pounds of mixed fruit.

JOHN POWELL'S CASE

THE INITIAL PRODUCER

The following is the decision of the Public Utilities Commission as the result of the inquiry held on complaint of the St. John Board of Trade regarding the schedule of rates of the New Brunswick Telephone Company.

One-third of yearly rate for first month, and one-tenth of yearly rate for each additional month, with minimum rental charge of $18.00 for business and $12.00 for residential. All short term rental charges to be based on special rates.

Elementary Matters

The respondents by their answer deny that the proposed rates are excessive and allege that the cost of affording service in a large exchange is greater than the cost of affording service in a smaller exchange.

THE INITIAL PRODUCER

Estimates made by the respondents that ought to be allowed for depreciation of the telephone plant, very moderate; but the estimate of depreciation on the New Brunswick plant are so far apart that it is difficult to reach a satisfactory conclusion.

It is probably proper to refer to the question of depreciation here. The commission are strongly of the opinion that in order to induce capital to invest in services of this character which are of a public nature, there should be assured that a larger amount of depreciation would be allowed.

Value of Plant

The next matter to be taken into consideration is the value of the company's plant, that is to say, the actual present value of the plant necessary to enable it to carry on its operations.

THE INITIAL PRODUCER

It has been repeatedly and very forcibly argued by Mr. Powell that we should in effect separate the St. John Exchange from the rest of the province and reduce St. John rentals on the ground that the St. John Exchange has a large surplus after paying all expenses of operation, properly chargeable thereto; and that, therefore, St. John rates are excessive and unfair to St. John subscribers and consequently unjust and unreasonable.

It is a good deal to be said about the relative benefits to St. John and to other parts of the province. It is also true that the service in St. John is more expensive than in smaller cities and villages of the country.

Reserve Fund

The next matter that should be considered, is the question of a contingent or reserve fund. Almost every one who has had any experience in the management of a large enterprise for the items which go to make up what after all is a reserve fund.

LIBERAL PARTY ARE COMING... Prompt Action in Every Constituency Shows How Confident Party is of Sweeping Victory CONVENTION HERE AUGUST 10 Benefits of Reciprocity Cannot Be Clouded by Tory Partisan Issues-Hon. Dr. Pugsley's Great Work in St. John Recognized-An Envious Record-Liberal Prospects in New Brunswick Never So Bright on Eve of Federal Elections

Victoria-Madawaska. In Victoria-Madawaska, Pius Michaud will in all probability be the candidate for the party again. At the last election this constituency, honorably Mr. Michaud with one of the largest majorities to an opponent in the whole dominion. There were several parishes which only gave his opponent one vote, and in one parish at least Mr. Michaud received all the votes.

Charlotte. There is always a royal fight in Charlotte county, and the Liberal party is fortunate indeed in having one of the ablest men in parliament, Mr. F. B. Carvell, to carry its banner in that territory. Mr. Carvell has just returned from a two month trip to the old country, and found his opponents may put up to him. Mr. Carvell is always the front in a good fight and never shows to better advantage than when the shot is coming thick and fast.

York. In York county, which was the only one outside of St. John city to return a Conservative candidate, the Conservative forces are undoubtedly strong, and yet it is hardly fair to the Liberal party to call the opposition forces all Conservatives, and political interests of Messrs. Crowe and McLeod, at St. John city has in the past shown that it is quite as ready to throw off such cumbersome shackles as it is to break away from them.

Kings-Albert. Arrangements are being made to hold a Liberal convention for Kings-Albert at Sussex on either Wednesday or Thursday of next week. The Liberals of this constituency have been delighted to hear of late that their present representative, Dr. McAlister, gave the prime minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his assurance that if his friends in Kings-Albert wished him to be a candidate again he would not permit his personal preferences to stand in the way of the party; so it is fair to assume that Dr. McAlister will be the Liberal candidate for the election September 21. There is rumor to the effect that George W. Fowler, who opposed Dr. McAlister at the last election, does not desire to re-enter politics, and that the prominent men among the Conservatives in Kings-Albert are considering the question of a likely man to carry the opposition banner.

Westmorland. In Westmorland there is no reasonable doubt that Hon. H. B. Emmons will again lead the Liberal force to victory. Mr. Emmons is a tower of strength in that section of New Brunswick. He is probably nearly as well known in Albert, Kent and Northumberland as in Westmorland, where his popularity is always on the increase.

Kent. Kent county has chosen ex-Sheriff A. T. Tegen as the Liberal candidate, and there is every probability that he will be quite as successful in his canvass and campaign as the popular political veteran, Hon. G. J. LaBlanc, who has retired from public life after so many years of effective service.

Northumberland. W. S. Loggie will be the candidate in Northumberland for the Liberal party, having been chosen there during the adjournment by a large convention of his followers. His old opponent, Donald Morrison, will oppose him. Mr. Loggie's majority at the last election was nearly 1,000, and judging from the reports that come from that large county, he has no reason to be afraid that there will be any reduction.

Gloucester and Restigouche. In Gloucester the gentleman who has been the efficient representative, O. Tegen, will again be the Liberal candidate, and in Restigouche, Mr. James Reid of Charlott is conceded the nomination if he is willing to accept it. It is a well known fact that for some time Mr. Reid has been willing and often anxious to lay aside the party leadership for any Liberal who is the choice of the party in his constituency, but so far as can be learned there is no desire to supersede the gentleman Restored Farmhouse. The study is lined with bookshelves built in and painted white. Above the bookshelves there is a beautiful foliage paper in tones of gray and white with touches of gray-blue and black. The furniture consists of an old cherry desk, a folding card-table, a small work-table, and two ornate bottom chairs in the same wood. A second bedroom is light gray paper with small invisible design. The curtains are made of a quaint gray and pink chintz, tiny bunches of pink roses on a gray ground. A HATER OF CONNECTICUT. A grudge against Connecticut seems to have been the ruling passion, strong in death, of Lewis Morris, of Morrisania, who died in 1810. Part of the will of this Connecticut later is printed in Case and Comment, as follows: "My desire is, that nothing be mentioned or said, not so much as a single line in a News Paper, to tell the World I am dead; it is my desire that my son Gouverneur Morris may have the best Education that so it be had in England or America, but my Express Will and Directions are, that he never be sent for that purpose to the Colony of Connecticut, Least he should imbibe in his Youth that Low Craft and Cunning, so Incident to the People of that Country, which is so interwoven in their Constitution, that all their art cannot disguise it from the World. CHARLOTTE CO. FISHERMEN NOT TO BE GULLED Tory Argument, That Reciprocity in Fish Will Hurt Them, is Absurd AMERICANS THEIR BEST CUSTOMERS Mr. Jameson's Speech in Parliament, Circulated in the County, Proves a Boomerang-Brighter Days Ahead for Charlotte When Fishermen Have Free Entry to American Market.

Dear Island, N. B., Aug. 1-C. Jameson, M. P., gave the house of commons some interesting facts and figures on the fish question, in a speech delivered during the reciprocity debate last April. Taking advantage of the franking privilege of the Tory publicity bureau at Ottawa last week, Mr. Jameson's speech, with the results of his "close study" of the question. Liberals are laughing and fishermen do not hesitate to say that another speech like Jameson's will wipe the Conservative party out altogether in their county. Mr. Jameson tells the fishermen and the Conservative party backs his assertions: "That Canada is a growing country"-this is true since the advent of Liberal rule-"that the fish business has undergone changes quite as important as any other; and today "free trade in fish" between Canada and United States is "no longer desirable."

The sardine industry in Charlotte alone runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Ninety-nine per cent of the fish are taken by the factories in Eastport and Lunenburg. Mr. Jameson and the Tory party would close this market and tell the fishermen it would be good for them! In one sentence Mr. Jameson fears Portland, Gloucester and Boston will capture our home market; in another he says: "It must be remembered that Newfoundland and Canada have practically a monopoly of the Atlantic fishing grounds. The Americans have fished out their fisheries." He fears fresh fish from Norway, Sweden and Denmark will be dumped on our shores. The whole speech abounds in ingenious attempts to patent that a child can see how ridiculous his arguments are and even dyed-in-the-wool Tories are dismayed over the effects of its distribution in this county.

The reciprocity measure gives the Canadian fishermen the right to enter American ports and carry fish in their own boats. This means thousands of dollars to our county alone. Often a fisherman has fish and no boats from the factories come near his weir. The result is he loses the sale of the fish; he could easily run them into boats, which are made by him. Mr. Jameson and his Conservative friends want our people to believe that, if they had the privilege of entering American ports, they would put their money into American boats. This means thousands of dollars to the States to man the boats and come back here for the fish. Abroad and every argument against reciprocity in fish, or any other article on the list, is likewise absurd.

CARNEGIE PENSIONS MAN WHO SERVED 20 YEARS IN PRISON Grants $40 a Month to Man Unjustly Convicted of Murder and Sentenced for Life.

Pittsburg, Aug. 2-Andrew Carnegie has placed upon his private pension list Andy Toth, who was released from the Western Penitentiary on March 19 since having served twenty years of a life sentence, having been wrongfully convicted of participation in the killing of a watchman at the Edgar Thompson Steel Works, Braddock, on New Year's eve, 1890. Mr. Carnegie became interested in Toth and asked Mr. Wilmot of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission to look into the matter. Mr. Wilmot made an investigation and found that Toth had been one of the rioters on the night in question, but that he was convicted on very slender evidence. Mr. Carnegie when he left for Europe in May instructed Mr. Wilmot if neither the State nor county gave aid to Toth, he would see to it that Toth and his wife were placed on his private pension list at $40 a month.

COMBINE METHODS Oppressive Tactics Employed in the Sale of Goods in the Plumbing Trade-An Effort to Crowd the Small Man to the Wall-Some Firms Refuse to Be Dictated To.

It has become known that even in New Brunswick the methods of some of the combines are causing revolt among merchants, manufacturers, and dealers of various kinds. Perhaps the matter can best be explained by quoting a statement recently issued by a large Chicago manufacturer, perhaps the largest in the plumbing trade, who makes protest against the methods employed to prevent manufacturers selling to small plumbers, who are not "in the association." The statement of the Chicago firm in question is, in part, as follows: "In the Valve World of January, 1907, and May, 1909, we discussed the subject of unlawful combinations and the decisions of the courts at different times concerning them. It would seem that the recent decision of the United States supreme court in the Standard Oil case, and of the United States District Court in the Beef Trust case, together with that in the Bath-tub case, should be sufficient to convince the people who are seeking to enforce certain rules and regulations upon us, that they are attempting what is strictly contrary to law, contrary to good business principles, and contrary to common decency."

People wearing eyeglasses find it very annoying when the glass steams, blurs and gets frosted. To prevent this, take any good glycerine soap, rub a little on each side of the glass, use no water, then dip with tissue paper or a soft cloth. It removes grease and grime, also stays it, and much longer than with the ordinary cleaning.

EIGHT NMA'S DIE IN HAMILTON ASYLUM FIRE Many Others Injured and Hundreds Driven Into Hysterics-Five Unfortunates Perished in One Room-Many Rescued by Heroic Work of Firemen.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 1-Fire early this morning broke out on the top floor in the Hamilton Asylum for the Insane, a caused eight deaths, injuring many others, and some probably fatally. Many of the patients into hysterics before the flames were controlled. In less than an hour after the fire started a big section of the roof collapsed and the number dead was increased to ten. Deputy Chief of Police Whately and fire Chief Teneyck with their men fought frantically to save the patients who were known to be trapped on the top floor. Many of the patients burst through the wall of fire and smoke until they were driven back and forced to abandon hope. The fire started at 1:30 in the store-room near the hall on the top floor. Night watchman Fred Bissett, who was on duty, turned in an alarm of the asylum fire department, and this was followed by a hurried call for the city brigade. In the meantime, Char. Poyner, an attendant, fought the fire over the transom door of the store-room until he was driven back and carried out unconscious. He claimed that if another extinguisher had been available he could have put the fire out. The asylum department was powerless to check the flames. The incline was not running and had not been for Hamilton's new automobile fire truck which dived the steep hill at a twelve mile clip, the disaster would probably have been greater. Three other city companies and a steamer were sent up. By the time they arrived the top of the building was a roaring mass of flames.

Hundreds of people from the city who were attracted by the red glare that lit up the sky, witnessed spectacular and horrible deeds with life and death hanging over them. Many were injured and hundreds were driven into hysterics before the flames were controlled. THE PUBLIC VS. T. Frank E. Wallis, of Know Architecture, claims to have had more to do with the construction of architectural styles in a recent story by Victor Hugo than the deposit laid by a Greek architect. He says the work of centuries ago, the nation's architect, the nation's chapter of How to Work. Mr. Wallis gives a view of the credit to the architect with the civic, religious pulses of his time, also as a largely recognized clientele. "The public," he says, "is coming to understand art is fast itself-a painter and architect and sculptor in a very fine and true way. They are being served through their eye-glasses. If you have had the kettles, it may be made by filling it with ash and for an hour or so, clear water. "Let well enough alone," they said, Canada is prosperous enough as it is, there can be no question about that, said Mr. Kyte, but there is no reason why it should not become even more so.

Hard Questions for Tories. What reason is there that Canada must not trade with the United States? Opponents of reciprocity say we must trade with Britain, England's markets are open to the world alike. Of course we must trade with England but if we can get a better price for our goods from any other country there is any reason why we should not trade with that country?
