Mems of the Merry War. Everything comes to him who waits. Sir Mackenzie Bowell has waited patiently for a long time, but his opportunity has come at last.

The Advertiser has shown that in 17 industrial establishments alone in London, nearly 1,000 more hands are employed than before the Laurier Government began to mule. Let merchants, manufacturers and mechanics think (something drop. what it would mean were all these and other thousands thrown out of work by the change of policy threatened by conditions, is it wise to let Tupper in very well enough alone

"I have been living in a nest of traitors!"-Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

If the wage scale understand that the Chinese court is fluence for the Laurier candidate.

When Hon. Haggart's head falls with a dull thud on Nov. 7, the universal verdict of Liberals and Conservatives alike will be, "Serve him right."

Hon. Mr. Fielding, Dominion Finance Minister, puts the statement of Canada's phenomenal progress in the last four years in a nutshell when he says through unnecessary misunderstandthat the trade of the Dominion since 1896, when compared with the four years previously, is as $10 to $1 in favor of the present Government. Who desires to change back to the old order of things?

With regard to the big strike of cotsoon as the situation at Valleyfield was brought to the attention of Mr. Mulock Progressive Laurier Government. he telegraphed to Mr. Bertrand, the Greenshields, for the company, and to ate Conservatives, and those not ususecretary of the labor union; to Mr. the mayor of Valleyfield, offering to ally strongly on either side, should cancel all his political engagements and vote to leave well enough alone. sible to bring about an end of the trouble.

him!-London Free Press. For cool assurance this beats the record. Everybody, Liberal and Conservative alike, is well aware that when Sir Hibbert Tupper met Hon, Clifford Sifton on the platform at Brandon, he received the most grevious trouncing he ever had in his life. He had to cry piteously for mercy, when Mr. Sifton proposed, very properly, to read his slanders relative to the Yukon. As for Hon. Hugh John, he was busy in copies of the Globe.

Ottawa Citizen-We want men! Sir Charles Tupper-All right. Take John Haggart. I vouch for him.

London's song of prosperity under the Laurier Government shows 67 per cent increase of employes in 17 establishments. Is it wise to make a change? Are you tired of prosperity?

Hon. Haggart piteously inquires "Why should I alone be made to suffer?" You won't. The entire Conservative party has already suffered, and is still suffering grievously on your account. Moreover, keep your ears cocked towards your co-conspirators on the 7th of November, and you will hear Totaled 30.000 People. New York, Oct.29.-William Jennings Bryan's second coming to this city was the occasion last night of one of the greatest political demonstrations of the campaign. Fourteen thousand people heard the Democratic candidate speak at Madison Square Garden. He had been speaking all day. His morning was spent at New Haven, and in the afternoon he made several addresses at points between New Haven and this city. He was accompanied to this city by two hundred Yale students. When he arrived at the Grand Central station there were more than 5,-000 persons to greet him. He spent the remainder of the afternoon at the Hoffman House, where he went over ... the business of the campaign with the leaders. After a dinner in his honor, at which there were 45 guests, he witnessed the great pyrotechnic display. The streets were crowded with people and his trip to Madison Square Garden was a triumphal one. The first stop was at the Broadway Athletic Club, where Mr. Bryan spoke to 10,000 enthusiastic people, the majority of whom were Italians. He reached Cooper Union about 9 o'clock, and addressed a large gather-

The political meeting in the new opera house was announced to begin at 8:30 o'clock. By 7 o'clock half the road in front had been blocked by people, and only a short time had elapsed after the doors had been opened before wrong. Since the Liberals had come the large body of the theater and both galleries were completely filled. Arranged conspicuously were the following mottoes: "Vote for Laurier, a united country, a united empire," "Laurier, stability and prosperity," 'What's the matter with Tarte? He's all right!" "Vote for Wilson and a full dinner pail," "Unity, peace, friendship, fraternity." It was useless to wait the half-hour, so at 8 o'clock Chairman McCrimmon opened the meeting.

DR. WILSON. Mr. McCrimmon spoke briefly and pleasantly, and introduced the popular Liberal candidate, Dr. Wilson. He was welcomed with unbounded enthusiasm. Whatever doubt of the ultimate result of the election he had before, said the doctor, he felt assured as he locked upon the large gathering that on Nov. 7 he would be elected to represent one of the finest constituencies in Canada. In a vividly-drawn contrast between the two parties, he brought to the electors present the notable achievements of the government and the notable lack of good works or worthy aims of the opposi-The comparative obscurity Canada before 1896, its growth into prominence since then, the establishment of the preferential trade, and the reduction of the tariff, were spoken of as illustrations of the Laurier admin-Astration's brilliant record. Dr. son's remarks concerning the preferential trade were accompanied by a query as to what Canada had done for land. Someone called out "Nothing," to which he retorted "If you have been in a Rip Van Winkle sleep for the past four years, you do not know what has happened." (Laughter.) His statement that any 6-year-old at school could answer the question was received with applause. CAPTURED THE CHAMPIONSHIP. The London football team on Saturday won the intermediate championship of Ontario by defeating Peterboro, by a score of 9 to 6, before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a game of football in London. The stands at Tecumseh Park were packed with enthusiasts, who went wild with enthusiasm over the happy result. game was the hardest-fought of the season here, and was keenly contested from start to finish, but the London boys were in better shape than their opponents in the second half, and won out. Frank Hobbs was the hero of the day, his brilliant runs winning the game. Mr. Waldie, the referee-appointed by the O. R. F. U. executive, did not show up, and Will Hobbs was accepted, with W. Peterbloro's wings seemed to be bigger and stronger men. Back of the line their halves were also big, fast men. There were probably 800 or 900 people on the field when the game started, among them being 300 of the fair sex, wearing the red, white and black, making a pretty spot of color in the stand. Peterboro won the toss and kicked to the north. The game opened with a fake kick by Peterboro. Fine play by McDonald and McWilliams took the ball to within five yards of London's line, and Peterboro brought every man into the scrimmage for a desperate effort. Peterboro gained a trifle, then lost five yards. A long pass by Mc-Donald failed of its purpose, and gave London fifteen yards. So the battle went. Peel, Hobbs and Gibbons were prominent in the splendid work. The ball was passed to Hobbs, and with a clear field before him he dodged Scott and placed the ball squarely between Peterboro's posts, amid frantic cheering. Taylor missed the kick against the wind. Score, 4-0.

Peterboro pressed hard, and Peel relieved with a good kick. Burnham returned, and the ball is scrimmaged in dangerous proximity to London's goal line. Gilmour gains ground in a run, and passes to Taylor, who carries it to center. Peterboro gets possession of the ball, and Burnham made a beautiful punt, which strikes the goal post. The ball bounds into the air, and before it is caught by Labatt the Peterboro wings are on him. He tries to punt out of the danger, but the ball goes only twenty yards, and Peterboro catching it, works a pretty run across the line for a try. Burnham converted neatly. Score-Peterboro 6, London 4.

The ball was in the middle of the field at half-time. London seemed infused with new life in the second half, and the wings and scrimmagers tore through the visitors for small gains. Hobbs, Taylor and Gilmour each take a turn at bucking the line, and Gilmour tries for a drop from the field, but misses, and McWilliams punts to cen-The wings are protecting their scrimmage and quarter, and Hobbs gets around the left wing for ten yards. ENGLISH HORSE WON. The match race between Mr. L. Newman's English horse Eager, ridden by Drake's American horse Royal Flush, with L. Reiff up, over the Hurst Turf Club course, was won by Eager. This race was the outcome of the keen rivalry existing between English and American horsemen during the past season, and was looked upon as the most interesting turf event of the year in England. The aim of the parties proposing the race was to have a crack English horse, owned by an Englishman, ridden by an English jockey, and born and bred in England, to compete with an American horse, owned by an American, ridden by an American jockey, and trained by Americans, in order, it is said, to demonstrate the superiority of one style over the other. The Hurst Turf Club added a historic Ascot gold cup, valued at £1,000, to the stake of £500 a side. An additional filip to the match race is that the gold cup, a beautiful specimen of the goldsmith's art, is the old Epsom trophy once won by Robert the Devil. SUICIDE OF A BOY

Had Led a Wild Life During His Career of Fourteen Years.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 27.-Yesterday morning a workman went to the Alhambra beer hall and garden on Cooper street, which had been closed and partially dismantled for a few weeks. A strong smell of gas led to an investigation, and the discovery of the body of Paul Miller, 14 years old, in one of the rooms.

It is conjectured the boy went to the deserted house on Tuesday night, as he has not been seen since that time, plugged up all the cracks in a room and turned on the gas. His home associations caused him to lead a wild life.

he was one of the leading spirits among the Conservatives. One day, papers fell into his hands, showing that crimes had been committed in the department of public works. He went to his respected friend, Sir John A. Macdonald, and showed him the papers. Sir John said that Sir Adolphe Caron could disprove all the charges. He told Sir John that unless he published the charges, he would do it himself. There was clear evidence that $1,000,000 had been stolen. Sir John was then weakened with feeble health, or, he believed, the case would have been taken up. He did not do it. Mr. Tarte then became a candidate in the elections of 1891. Fifteen days after parliament opened, he made the charges. An inquiry was instituted, that lasted five months, and it was proven that $1,900,000 had been sto-Some of the thieves were relegated to private life, others were put in jail. In regard to the Drummond County Railway deal, he himself had demanded an inquiry, so that the Liberal party might not be injured. He desired to prove that their hands were clean. The result was that the chairman of the committee admitted that no charge of fraud had been made, but simply one of extravagance. The Conservative leaders admitted that there was no corruption whatever. (Applause.)

The object of acquiring the Drummond County Railroad was to connect with Montreal the Intercolonial Railway, which had been losing money yearly. The result had been that it was not only paying expenses, but was yielding a surplus. (Applause.) "If we have done wrong," Mr. Tarte added, "then I want to know what to do, to do right." (Laughter.)

Further, he wanted to know if a French-Canadian coming from another province was not to be heard. Did we not live in a free country, he asked, and was there no freedom of speech. The Conservatives, Mr. Tarte said, were circulating calumnies in the market. concerning him. They did not hate him personally, but they thought that by distorting his speeches, they would make it appear that the whole French-Canadian people were disloyal. Standing there, not as a French-Camadian, but as a plain Canadian, he asked the Conservatives to repudiate the dangerous policy that Sir Charles Tupper was advocating. The French-Canadians of Quebec were a large minority in Canada. "I am a British citizen and proud to belong to the great British Empire. I am a French-Canadian. I can't help it," he said, with mock seriousness. "It is too late in the day to remedy the evil, even if I would. My mother was a Frenchwoman and my father was a Frenchman. I'm their son-that's all." (Laughter.) Why would we be disloyal? The French-Canadians are scattered all over Can-We are bound to live here. The institutions that you enjoy are the same that we enjoy. We have fought for them side by side. (Cheers.) When he was commissioner at the Paris Exposition he had been called upon speak many times. He had advertised the country to the best of his ability. He had said in every speech that he was a French-Canadian, and also that the French-Canadians were loyal to the British crown. (Applause.) Then his times until he couldn't recognize them the next morning. They made him out to say just what they wanted. He had seen where Clarke Wallace, in speaking of a trip he made to the Province of Quebec, said it made his blood run cold, and if his blood ran cold something was going to happen, for he was a very warm man-to see the French flags and no English flags carried. Carrying English and French flags, said Mr. Tarte, had been cus-tomary in the French festivities for 200 years. The British flag was the flag of their nation, the French flag is There the flag of our race. Scotch in the audience and Irish. They were happy in their lot and had no desire to go back to the French re-gime. (Applause.) "France was a good country, but where was the fool who would wish to go back to the institutions and form of government wish to go back to the there? I love France. It is a country of fine arts. I wish it all happiness but the greatest happiness I wish it would be for it to adopt Brit-ish institutions. I said this to all the great French statesmen. Before many years have passed, I hope to see France adopt many of the ways and means that have made Britain so great. These French statesmen have congratulated the French-Canadians upon being so happy and have congratulated me upon their loyalty to the British flag. They understand that they can never be anything else. (Cheers.) Is it not weakening." he added. "to let a foreign power believe that there are two and a half millions disloyal people here? The accusation is false, and those who make it know it. I was a Conservative for twenty long years too long, perhaps but I cannot now recognize the party. Sir JohnA . Macdonald was a tolerant man. He understood that a broader policy must be introduced. Since then, there has been a great change. The present Conservative party has become an in-tolerant party."

He had in his hand a pamphlet that the Mail denounced as an infamous pamphlet. This circular was made up of press clippings that had been translated from articles that appeared in the Mail, the Star and the relating to the French. They should not be ashamed of them. Was it not right to translate them? When the election was over he would make a complete list of all such articles, translate and distribute them. The French must know where they were. If the Tory party claimed that the French-Canadians should have no part in the government of the country, it would have to take the consequences. (Applause.) The Liberal party should not ashamed of its leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The first thing that he had done was to pledge himself to effect a settlement of the Manitoba school question, a racial question that had aroused prejudices to a dangerous degree. He had done this so effectively that it is now never heard of. (Applause.) In the Transvaal matter he was accused of disloyalty because he had asked that parliament be called before Canada took part in an imperial war. Sir John Macdonald had refused to take part in such a war at all. At first all thought that it would only last a short time, but when we found it assuming unexpected greatness, the Canadian government did its duty.

Mr. Tarte referred to the Montreal riots, when the Montreal Star tried to promote civil war. If the French-Canadians had not been a loyal, peaceful people there would have been trouble at the time of the university friction. They were subjected to a great trial.

Liberal Government, he continued, had endeavored in every way to do its duty by the meanle. It had revised the tariff, had decreased the taxation, had spent the money honestly. (Applause.) Accusations of every kind Justice of the Peace, Melbourne, Ont., Canwith the Mackenzie Government, but he was afraid that it was too weak he was afraid that it was too weak and too timid for them. The present government fought them on every occasion. He mentioned the comparisons drawn in the Mail and Empire, fore-telling the result of the election. He could not vouch for Ontario, but unless the signs of the times were wrong, Laurier would have as large a majority. As to Quebec, he offered to wager $500 against $100 that not more than fifteen against $100 that not more than fifteen Tories would be elected there. The P. JURGENSEN, Patchogue, N. Y. Tories couldn't elect more unless Pro- Malaria in Its Various Forms Cuyed vidence turned against the Liberals They were not divided along racial lines in Quebec, the said, and many English, Irish and Scotch Liberals were being supported by the French. When Radway's Pills, so quickly as Radway's Ready being supported by the French. When the French used to vote solid for Sir John A. Macdonald, then they were not disloval!

Mr. Tarte spoke for some time about teh splendid achievements of the Laurier Government. No man was in the opposite party who could replace its leader, who brought peace, prosperity, There Is Nothing "JUST AS GOOD" as remarks were warmly applauded. Had political and religious freedom and loyalty to Canada and the empire (Tremendous applause.)

The meeting was concluded with cheers for the Queen, Sir Wilfrid, Mr. Tarte. Dr. Wilson and the ladies.

The Unifying Policy.

The leader of the Liberal party sets It forth clearly as his aim to consider carefully the interests of all sections of this large country, with a view to harmonizing them on the sensible give and take principle. He desires also to create a healthy national spirit among men of all races and creeds. This is surely a policy that commends itself, to the matter, without distinction as to to all thoughtful citizens. That promise is fulfilled, as everyone can see by the fact that it is not now an issue, and present Government-to strike the only ful issue." no party desires to make it an issue of the present contest. We do not expect that a time will ever come when and throughout our sister colonies, all of us will think alike on all lines of policy and all details of administration. That may be a Chinese idea, but it is not a British idea. But while there must be separate parties and different groups of politicians, it is not advisable that the lines of cleavage should follow lines of race or creed. It is better when political questions are considered on their merits. The dissufficient healthy excitement. To complicate the matter by bringing in questions of nationality and religion raises a feverish heat and a dangerous, bigotted passion. The kindly reception which the Prime Minister received during his triumphal tour through Ontario showed that he is not forced upon the country by a French faction, but is accepted on his personal merits by the people at large. That reception, whatever may be its political value, that we believe will be proved at the polls, has a good influence on Quebec by showing that the sister province can rise above mere local feeling and receive one who is of a different race and creed from the majority, in a real brotherly spirit. All this tends towards a real unity, so that we can fairly claim that the influence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, both before and after his elevation to the highest position in the land, has been towards a more intelligent loyalty to the empire, and a broad, strong, united feeling in our own land. We do not claim that he and the Liberal party possess a mon-opoly of all political wisdom and patriotic virtures, but we do claim that they have inaugurated a policy honorable in itself, and serriceable to the country, which would suffer seriously by their

Only a political leader barren in legitimate cause for complaint against an opponent would be guilty of attempting to make a political issue out of a matter of this kind. It is true, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier has again and again pointed out, that the Government took time to deliberate in regard to the matter. It was an entirely new departure. When the truth is told, how puny and insignificant become Sir Charles Tupper's criticisms of the action of the Government! We have said that everybody in Britain, from Her Majesty down, has praised the Government and the people of Canada, for the conduct of their share in the successful South African conflict. Let us give two specimen statements, from widely separated authorities, which cannot be prejudiced in favor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues. The British Army and Navy Gazette says: "It was good fortune that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and not Sir Charles Tupper was at the head of affairs in Canada when the question of sending troops to South Africa was mooted. The former, because of his race, religion and inline with Ontario. Thus, if Sir Charles Tupper had been in power, we should

It was Canada, again, which was in the very foremost amongst the colonies when they volunteered their sons and their treasure, in order to make assurance doubly sure that the war in South Africa was a concern of the empire, and that it should be carried to a success-

Hon. Clarke Wallace's Charge Against Dr. Montague Never Cleared Up.

Dr. Montague Threatened Court Proceedings, But Matter Was Dropped-An Incident of '96 Recalled by the Bowell-Haggart Row.

The war between Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Hon, John Haggart recalls the scandal and row that took place between Hon. N. Clarke Wallace and Hon. Dr. Montague. Conservative leader in 1896.

In December, 1894, an anonymous letter was received by the Conservative premier, charging Sir Adolphe Caron with having accepted a bribe of $15,-000 or $20,000 from the Montreal Belt Line Railway Company to promote certain legislation in the house. The letter was handed over by the premier to Sir Adolphe Caron. Again, about November, 1895, another anonymous the premier. Sir Adolphe Caron, on being handed the first letter, immediately suspected Hon. Dr. Montague and Hon. honest men get their due.

On January 8, 1896, Hon. N. Clarke Wallace first referred to the matter in the house. He stated that he had learned from two members of the house that Dr. Montague was trying to throw the suspicion of having written the anonymous letters upon him (Wallace) and protested his innocence. Dr. Montague, in reply, stated that he written the letters and hald demanded a full investigation. He described the charge as a "foul and dirty conspir-

He protested his innocence and said that the whole matter would be investigated in a court of law. Sir Adolphe Caron, in referring to the matter, stated that the letters could not have been hawked around Toronto by N. Clarke Wallace, as they had never left his possession except to "reliable" people who were investigating them. On Jan. 4, 1896, N. Clarke Wallace again brought the matter up in the house, and the following is a synopsis of the speeches made upon that occa-

Hon, N. Clarke Wallace-"An article appeared in the Mail and Empire on Saturday last in which reference was made to the anonymous letters, stating that there is one man in the country who has particular reasons to feel uneasy. I have been told and have come to the conclusion that I am the person referred to. I believe that the rumors originated with Dr. Montague. The facts are: In June last I was told by Sir Adolphe Caron about the anonymous letter, who said he suspected Haggart and Montague of being at the bottom of it.' A few days later he showed me the letter, which I then saw for the first time, and I expressed the opinion that it was the handwriting of Dr. Montague. I had the letter compared with letters in my department from Dr. Montague, by several gentlemen, and their opinion was that the anonymbus letter was in Dr. Montague's handwriting. Sir Adolphe Caron, in order that there should be no doubt in the matter, sent the anonymous letter and six others known to be written by Dr. Montague to Mr. Daniel T. Ames, of New York, a well known expert on handwriting. Mr. Ames unhesitatingly pronounced all of them to have been written by one person, the writing in the anonymous letter having been disguised. I have only to add that I told Sir Adolphe Caron that Hon, Mr. Haggart had expressed to me the greatest hostility toward him (Caron), and had used very violent language in regard to him. saying he ought to be driven out of the government. I have felt bound to make this statement in view of the evident attempt that has been made by Dr. Montague and his friends to communications to me."

shift the odium of these anonymous Dr. Montague-"Regretted that Mr. Wallace had seen fit to bring the matter up at this particular juncture, and regarded it as an insult to His Excellency the Governor-General. Am I the uncomfortable man today with regard to these anonymous letters? I think parliament will say I am not. Am I the gentleman asking the privilege of raising this question for the purpose of casting off an insinuation? No, but another member seeks the ear of the house. What for? For the purpose of attacking me, or for the purpose of throwing off as against himself insinuations which seem to hurt him, which seem to cut to the quick. What motive did the member for West York (Mr. Wallace) have for calling the attention of Sir Adolphe Caron to the fact that it was my handwriting? Is it not the same motive which prompted the man who wrote that anonymous letter and endeavored to fasten the charge upon me? After this matter has gone before His Excellency. I think in obedience to the rules of decency, it might well have been let rest until the courts may deal with it—until the courts will deal for when I came to engage the best criminal counsel in Ontario, I found that Mr. Wallace had engaged him in advance. I have only this to say, that when this subject is dealt with in the courts, when these letters are photographed and distributed, not a man in Canada, expert or no expert, will say that here is a trace of resemblance between my writing and the writing of these anonymous letters; and I wish to God that another man in this house could say the same thing."

After a few remarks by Sir Adolphe Caron, regretting that the matter should have been brought up in the house, there was a painful silence, the members on both sides of the house hanging their heads in shame at the Majesty, each trying to throw upon the other the suspicion of having been for the occasion, followed. guilty of one of the meanest and most contemptible acts of which man can be guilty. broken when Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose | At various points and changed the subject, prefacing his remarks as follows:

"The house, I am sure, will readily understand that I have no intention whatever of even alluding to the little episode of which we have just been witnesses."

After all the threats, the matter has never been ventilated in the courts. Why? Was it patched up in Mr. R. Morrow Cured of Lumbago by order to prevent the particulars of the charges being made public? And are Messrs. Montague and Wallace so indifferent to the preservation of their own honor and the respect of their fellow-men that they will allow themselves to rest under the suspicion cast upon them without making any attempt to remove it? And these men. together with Sir Adolphe Caron and Hon, John Haggart, were all at one

Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto, Oct. 29.-The vast majority of Torontonians know and esteem Mr. R. Morrow, the able and popular general agent for the Toronto Auer Light Company. For this reason the following statement made in writing by Mr. Morrow, possesses unusual significance: "Two years ago I was attacked by Lumbago and Urinary trouble, which caused me intense suffering. I took several different remedies without any benefit. Then I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and was completely cured by them. Lumbago is unusually prevalent this fall. All sufferers should know that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the known cure for it. They never fail.

At last I got a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and resolved to try it, and to my astonishment I got almost instant relief, and the one bottle accomplished a perfect cure."

Last year the trade in China was the greatest the country has ever known. It was double that of 1890 and it was 25 per cent greater than that of the year before, rising to 460,533,288 Haikwan taels.

CANCER OF THE BREAST

One of the Commonest and Most Fatal Diseases Among the Women of Canada.

A New and Painless Treatment That Is Saving Many Lives.

Cancer of the breast is one of the diseases that has of late years been on the rapid increase in this country. In many cases it may be of hereditary origin, while in others it may result from a blow, brutse or wound. There is the hard lump, enlargement of the glands in the armpit, retraction of the nipple, puckering of the skin, discharge of a glary, white fluid, which is often blood-tinged, sometimes pain that shoots into the armpit and down the arm. As soon as the ordinary phystedan sees the growth, he says, "Op-erate; remove the breast." Most women shrink from the surgeon's knife. with its pain, danger and mutilation, especially when they know that in by far the greater number of cases operated upon, the growth returns within a year. The new treatment for cancer does away with the necessity of dangerous operations. It is a constitutional remedy that can be taken by the most delicate lady, as its constituents are purely vegetable. It operates by neutralizing and destroying the cancer poison in the system, and building up the health. By its use, the lump gradually disappears, till not a trace remains. Even after operations failed we have cases on record where our constitutional remedy effected permanent cures. Some of these are given in our new book, "Cancer: Its Cause and Cure." London, Oct. 29 .- According to a dispatch from Cape Town to the Daily Mail, a force of Boers attacked and surrounded a patrol of Cape Police, with a convoy, near Hoopstad, Orange River Colony, last Wednesday, and a sharp fight ensued. "The police," says the correspondent, "were compelled to abandon two Maxims. Ultimately reinforced by the Yeomanry, they succeeded in getting away with the con-voy, but lost seven killed, eleven wounded and fifteen captured. The colonials were outnumbered ten to one, and the engagement lasted two hours. FIFTEEN THOUSAND BOERS IN

FLOODS IN BRITAIN.

London, Oct. 27.-Violent gales, accompanied by snow and rain, have swept over parts of the country, causing floods. The northern districts of the lowlands are flooded, some of the railroads are entirely impassable and others have water up to the floors of the cars. At Newcastle, Hartlepool, Stockton, South Shields and elsewhere people have been compelled to seek refuge in the upper stories of their houses, and traffic is carried on by means of boats. THE DEATH OF SIMS REEVES.

Lengthy obituaries and reminiscences of Sims Reeves, the famous tenor, appear on all sides, but a pathetic feature connected with his death has quite escaped attention. Reeves caught a chill a few days ago, and it developed into bronchitis, but his condition was so improved on Thursday morning that he was not believed to be in danger. Mrs. Reeves, many years younger than her husband, to whom she was married in 1895, after the death of his first wife, left her husband in their modest home in Worthing to sing in London for the benefit of the survivors of Balaklava. Just as Mrs. Reeves commenced singing "Kathleen Mayourneed" a telegram was received at the theater announcing the death of Sims Reeves. When the song was finished and the applause was at its height the news of her husband's death was broken to Mrs. Reeves, but the audience, ignorant of this behind-thescenes tragedy, kept on demanding an The widow was removed from the theater on the verge of collapse. man and wife in 1898, but it was strictly a marriage of convenience between cousins, arranged for the sake of inheriting property which otherwise could not have been touched by either of them. They botth agreed to live their own lives. Apparently this extraordinary agreement did not work well in more ways than one. It is asserted that the marquis agreed to give his wife £5,000 the first year and £6,000 the second year, and so on until the allowance reached £10,000 a year. However, the alleged allowance was stopped almost immediately. Lady Anglesey, who describes herself otherwise, Chetwynd (her maiden name), now wishes to get out of the bargain, and, it is rumored, if successful, marry Count Herman Von Hatzfeldt.

ARISTOCRATIC LAWSUIT. Lady William Beresford (formerly Lillian, Duchess of Marlborough) has brought action against the young Duke of Marlborough to recover the money which she spent in improving Blenheim Palace during the lifetime of the last duke. The matter came up originally when the present duke succeeded to the title, but owing to the friendly relations existing between the duke and his stepmother it was temporarily arranged. Since the duke's marriage to Consuelo Vanderbilt it is reported an estrangement has grown up between Lady Beresford and her stepson. On more than one occasion, it is said, the young American duchess snubbed her countrywoman (Lady Beresford was formerly Mrs. Louis Hammersley, of New York), until the latter determined she could not submit to such treatment any longer, and she now asks the law to compel her stepson to return the amount she spent on Blenheim.

THE "THREE BUSY STORES

What a London Merchant Has Accomplished in 32 Years-Mr. T. G. Wiskard's Policy of 'Keeping to Facts"-Bargains Always to the Front.

"I can stand keeping to facts." Simple words these, short, strong, Anglo-Saxon, but they express clearly the policy that has actuated one of London's most successful merchants, Mr. T. G. Whiskard, for upwards of 30 years. To speak more strictly by the book, it was in 1868 that Mr. Whiskard's first venture was floated upon the advancing tide of London's commercial life. Had anyone told him then that his business would grow to its present immense proportions, he would probably have shaken his head in doubt. Possibly not, however, for the young merchant, starting in such a humble way, had faith in his city, he had confidence in himself, he had the backbone to avoid the chicaneries of trade, and by "keeping to facts," gain the confidence of the purchasing public. tor, who is recovering very rapidly Cheese - American finest white, firm, 53s 6d; Facts about poor goods or high prices wouldn't build up a business, though. and he set himself from the beginning to stock and restock his store with articles that the people wanted, of Highgate. the good quality that they wanted, and POLICE COURT. that sold for low prices. A Romance.

The domestics at Decping Hurst had forgotten him; he had seldom been When the servant asked what name he should give, Sir Karl replied that he should prefer not to give his name, as Lady Rhysworth did not expect him. He was shown into the drawing-room, where he saw many traces of her ladyship's presence. The plano was opened, and one of her favorite songs stood on it; a dainty lace handkerchief was on the table, and a little white glove in a filligree basket; a book lay open, as though she had just put it down, and a jeweled fan They were little tokens, all of them, but they meant so much to him. He took the little white glove; It should never go back to the fillgree basket again. That which struck him most in the room was a lifelike portrait of Lord Rhysworth, painted by one of the greatest of living artists. Sir Karl stood for some little time flooking at it; he felt sorry for his rival's death, so sorry that if any wish of his could have brought him back to life he would have uttered it. He felt only reverence and pity for the man who had enjoyed his happiness so short a time. If ever the wish of my heart is realized," he said, "his child shall be as dear to me as my own." In the meantime the servant who had gone in search of Lady Rhysworth could not find her. She was not in her own suite of rooms, or in the nursery. The child was absent, too; so that it was evident to those who knew her ladyship's habits that they had gone out together.

"I had better tell the gentleman," the man thought, "that he must please wait while I go into the gardens."

When the drawing-room door opened, and the servant came in, Sir Karl looked up with a sudden, startled Though he longed to see Dolores, his emotion was so great that it was almost a respite to find that it was not she who entered. He trembled for the moment when his eyes should first fall upon the face he loved so

"Perhaps." he said to the man half hesitatingly, "Lady Rhysworth is engaged; if so, I will call again."

It is not that, sir, my tady is somewhere with Miss Kathleen, and I came to ask you if you would wait while I go into the gardens to look for her." Sir Karl thought that he would have liked to go himself in quest of her ladyship; but he only said:

"I will wait," and the servant went off to renew his search. A fit of sweet musing had seized Dolores that fine morning. As little Kathleen wanted to go out on the grass and fill her fat little hands with daisies, she must indulge her; besides which, she wanted to know what these sweet musings of hers meant. So away she went, her dress of black crape trailing on the grass, with little Kathleen trotting by her side. When they reached the fountain, Dolores sat down. Her mind and heart were full of Lola's words that Sir Karl would soon be home. She thought that she knew what he would say when he came to Deeping Hurst. She had been unflinchingly true to her husband while he lived; she had allowed no thought of hers to wander from him. the had been unswervingly faithful to his memory since his death; but, now that she knew Sir Karl was coming home, surely there could be no harm in letting her thoughts stray to She would be pleased to see him; and, if he cared for her now as he had cared before, why, there was nothing- But there-she would not think that. It was some years since she d seen him. Would he be much altered, she wondered. She hardly realized the fact that a servant was speaking to her; telling her that she was wanted in the drawing-room: she hardly comprehended the words. Her thoughts so completely engrossed her that she did not ask who the visitor was. She rose slowly, never dreaming that it was Sir Karl, half impatient that she could not have a few moments of rest and respite, a few moments to dream.

If she had known that it was. Sir Karl who had sent to rouse her from dreams of himself, she would surely have gone more quickly; while he stood with a beating heart in the drawing-room waiting for what he should see when the door was opened.

CHAPTER XVII.

What Sir Karl saw when the door opened was a picture that he never forgot. Dolores had gained so much in He had left her a slender girl, with the promise of a magnificent womanhood, which was now fulfilled. She stood for a few moments in irresolute stience, not recognizing in the bronzed, beared man before her handsome Sir Karl. She drew one hand from his clasp and held up a pretty white finger in warning.

'You must not flatter me, Sir Karl," she said, smiling.

"It is not flattery, it is truth," he answered, looking at her tenderly. "Since I left you, I have seen no one half so fair. In my dreams, I have gone over this meeting a hundred times. I have dreamed that I should meet you out of doors, by the river, in the old church, everywhere and anywhere; but one thing is quite certainsince the moment I parted from you in madness and despair, I have thought of nothing but the hour of my return." "If you have called to pay me a sensible visit, Sir Karl," she said, laughingly, "you must talk to me in a sensible manner. I am afraid neither France nor Italy has improved you. You never talked such nonsense as this to me before. 'My dearest Lady Rhysworth I never had the chance. If ever a man wished to talk what you kindly call nonsense, but did not dare to do so, I am that man. I have suffered more than anyone can tell from constant, cruel repression. "You must admit that you are mak-

"No," he answered frankly. "I called at Beaulieu. It was an old promise made, but, I am sorry to say, almost forgotten by me, that I would make my first call there on my return to England; and having been reminded of my promise, I was compelled to keep it."

There was an almost imperceptible ge in Lady Rhysworth's manner At the mention of Beaulieu all that Lolla had said of Sir Karl returned to her mind. She had called him "mine," and the fact that he had gone first to Beaulieu seemed to gare her the guerilla successes in South Africa which has been received during the hast few days has prompted some of the more serious publications to Ussue notes of lalarm. The Saturday Review begs Lord Roberts to take "a lesson from one who was a greater soldlier than he, namely, Caesar, and ruthlessly suppress the rebellion." The truest mercy in the present case," says the Globe, "is to be merchless," That fairly voices the average opinion of the government organs, while a few out and out Radical organs scarcely conceal their satisfaction origing from their ability to say, "I told you so," in reference to the war being long drawn out and engendering racial thatred that a century will not dissipate.

STRENGTHEN THE ARMY. The point now made by military experts is that there will be concurrent necessity for maintaining a large army in South Africa and for organizing another great force for foreign emergencies and home defense. They hold that the abtitude, not of the French Government, but of a large section of the French people, is hostile to England, and that it is actually necessary that the British army should be strengthened and rendered more efficient. There is considerable Chauvinism even in staid and sober England when these dangers of fordemands that the military establishment should be increased by 50,000 Another significant fact is the me'n. willingness of the forward party in the army to make the best of the present situation and to essume that Lord Lansdowne will not be displaced at the war office. The plea offered is that there is no time to waste: that a programme for an increase of the military forces needs be initiated at once, and that it is more important that this increment of 50,000 men, or a larger proportion of it, should be set out in the army estimates than that Lord Lansdowne should be re-lieved from duty at, the war office. So much stress is laid by the professional element in the army upon the for strengthening the estabnecessity lishment with more officers, more men and more guns, that the sus-of merely academic interest. GIVE KITCHENER A CHANCE. Another correspondent says: military journals are greatly exasperated by the recrudescence of Boer activity in South Africa. The Broad Arrow does not hesitate to say Lord Roberts' departure has delayed too long to permit of a speedy settlement there, and that his method of dealing with the insurgents does more honor to his heart The Jacobsdal afthan to his head. fair has been the last straw, and military men now blurt out their impatience over the employment of a field marshal and an immense army for the suppression of brigandage and for other police work, and assert that Lord Roberts can gain no further distinction in South Africa, and that Lord Kitchener should be allowed a free hand and the means for operating with energy and mobility in the disturbed districts. The same authorities are opening their eyes to the truth that the presence of a large British force will be required in South Africa for a long time. Raiding and armed resistance are in progress simultaneously at a dozen points long distances apart, and there will be great risk in releasing the 16,000 Boer prisoners now under guard, since there can be no guarantee that they will not reinforce the raiders, and have access to secret stores of arms

picion is excited that reorganization of the military service is a question and ammunition. ROSEBERY ON IMPERIALISM. Lord Rosebery has appeared before the public with a new definition of imperialism aking before a meeting of the cuastian Social Union, this versatile and briffliant figure in British politics struck a note which meets with universal approval from all sections of the Liberals, even those who were most bitterly opposed to the former leader. "Imperialism," he declared, "depends on the integrity and heart of the empire for its virtue."

Continuing, Lord Rosebery said: What is an empire unless it is pillared on an impertal race? The heart of the empire is Great Britain, and the heart of Great Britain is London. You cannot afford to let the source and center of the empire decay or be poisoned, and this is what you are doing if you allow this imperial race to be vitiated and poisoned in the dens of crime and horror in which too many of them are reared at this moment.'

Lord Rosebery's subtle turn in making the virtue of imperialism depend upon internal reform has opened a door to the malcontents, and the Star, which fought his lordship tooth and hall, today declares: "This is the true and only imperialism for this empire of Great Britain." CHAMBERLAIN AND KRUGER.

An encounter as dramatic as any that marked the battlefields of South Africa may shortly occur at Marseilles. The plan of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary of state for the colonies, to go to Marseilles to meet Mrs. Chamberlain, who is now at Aix les Baines, will more than probably be effected just about the time Mr. Kruger is arriving at the same port on the Dutch cruiser. Judging from the tone of French public opinion the simultaneous arrival of these two leading figures in the late world drama would afford opportunities for lemonstrations not too pleasant for Mr. Chamberlain, and which might possibly cause international complications that would be hard to settle peaceably.

CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who has been the Liberal leader in the House of Commons up to the present, is said to be ready to accept Lord Rosebery's leadership. Combining this with the former premier's (Rosebery's) and Bowel Complaints of infants. Price 25 cents, partial retirement from the turf, the expectation is rife that he will return

CHURCH AND STAGE. Church matters are attracting no little interest. The resignation of the Bishop of Exeter, Right Rev. Edward Henry Bickersteth, has given Lord Salisbury the chance to add one more to the long list of bishops of his creation, an opportunity which the Kensites (anti-rituallists) have improved by memorializing the premier to appoint a Low Churchman who will protect the Protestant interest better than the former bishop. Within a few days final steps will be taken to amalgamate the two great Scotch churches, the Free Church and the United Presbyterlians, under the title of the United Free Church of Scotland, which will accomplish a greater breaking down of religious barriers and divisions than the century has witnessed.

The old question of the morality of the stage is once more discussed by eign hostilities are made the loasis for the English bishops and clergy. This time it is the Rochester diocesa conference, where several clergymen urged a sweeping crusade against the immo-rality of English plays and actors. Canon Jelf, well-kown here, declared it was a dreadful thing to see a Christian man taking the part of a murderer and a Christian woman playing the role of a harlot, now so common in the London theaters. The bishops of Rochester and Southwark, have, persuaded a modification of the resolutions, the bishop of Rochester telling the clergy they would be ashamed to utter such statements before one delicate, refined lady, who was a friend, of his in the profession. It was then agreed that stage authors, managers and artists merely required watchful attention of churchme

Curiously enough the last new play, 'Mr. and Mrs. Daventry," produced at the Royal Theater, Thursday, has received scathing criticism on all sides for its indecency, which was not re-deemed by the faintest trace of originality or cleverness, though the actng of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, in the leading role, is universally praised.

HOUSES WITH HISTORIES. That the memory of Charles Dickens is not guarded very jealously is clearly evidenced by the fact that in Tavistock Square, where the novelist lived nine the celebrities of the day, and wrote "Bleak House," and other works, is now in course of demolition, and that in a few days nothing will be left of it. The removal of this dandmark, visited by so many thousand Americans, is due to the Duke of Bedford's desire to erect on the site buildings which produce more revenue. Touching upon houses with history it is said once more that the Duchess of Mariborough's most cherished dream is to purchase Marliborough House, now occupied by the Prince of Wales, but which once belonged to the Churchills. As the story goes, the young American duchess would be pleased if the Prince of Wales would sell the property, and even when told that the house was crown property she did not give up hope of eventually securing it.

THE LONGEST EDITORSHIP. The retirement of Mr. Norman Maccoll. M.A., Jan. 1, from the editorship of the Athenaeum, marks the completion of the longest editorship on record in England. For 31 years he has controlled this academic journal, beat ing Delane's service on the Times, and he has probably had more to do with the formation of the higher literary standards than any man in England. He was a close friend of Carlisle, Dickens, Tennyson, Browning, Ruskin and Danwin, and in later years of Swinburne, Henley, Kipling and Wetmore, and to quote the Outlook, knows more than any man living of books and their authors."

There Are Thousands of Them Who Be lieve as This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: "I had poor digestion nearly all my life. seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good natural appetite. I was troubled with gas in stomach causing pressure on the heart with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach, sometimes I had cramps in the stomach which almost resembled spasms.

Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it and I would still be a sufferer had I not, in sheer desperation decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

I knew they were an advertised remedy and I didn't believe anything I read about them as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister living in Pittsburg wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her and her little daughter of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite and I hesitated no longer.

I bought a 50-cent box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart I took one of the small tablets and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I had never known what stomach trouble was.

I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in house and every member of our family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs." Mr. E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., "I doctored five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctor's Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient ramedy for any form of digestion, catairh of stomach, billous-ness, sout stomach, bloating after meals, sympat hetic heart trouble.

Stuart's Dys pepsia Tablets is not a chean catharttic but an active digestive remedy containing the pepsin and di-astase which every weak stomach lacks, and they cure stomach troubles because they ligest the food eaten and give the weak, abused, over-worked stomach a chance to rest and re-

Progressing Favorably in West Middlesex-Enthusiastic Meeting at Wardsville - Stirring Addresses Made.

Mr. Calvert's campaign in West Middlesex is progressing most favorably. The energetic candidate is meeting with most gratifying receptions at all his meetings, and all indications point to the fact that he will be again returned by a majority which will run well up into the hundreds.

A very largely attended meeting was held in his interest at Wardsville on

The town hall, in which the meeting was held, was packed to the doors by an enthusiastic audience, who mani-fested their sympathy with the candidate by repeated applause.

The meeting was addresses by the candidate, and by Mr. F. P. Betts and Mr. P. E. Mackenzie, of London.

Mr. Mackenzie, in opening, referred to the recent tour of the premier and the magnificent reception he had everywhere met with. He showed up the falsity of the Tory contention that no changes had been made in the tariff, and indicated the alterations that had been made, explaining incidentally the British preference and its benefits. He dealt with the question of cold storage and transportation, and contrasted the Tory contentions of today with those put forward by them during the Mackenzie regime. The keynote of the government's policy was The position of the opunited people. position on all important issues was unstable and undefined. Mr. Betts, after congratulating the electors on their splendid turnout, commended their judgment in sending the present candidate to Ottawa in 1896. Mr. Calvert was an ideal representative, thoroughly conversant with the requirements of an agricultural community, a man of more than ordinary ability and capable of expressing his views in the house in a manner to command attention. He had already made his mark at Ottawa, and would do still better work there in the next viie years. The fact that he had been selected for the high honor of party whip showed the esteem in which he was held by the older parliamentarians. The speaker, after cautioning the electors not to be misled by Sir Chas. Tupper's prophecies of victory for the opposition, traced the political history of the opposition leaders, who are asking to be again returned to power, pointing out that, with the exception of Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, they are the same men who so shamefully betrayed their trust in 1896 at the time of the "nest of traitors" incident. In this connection, the speaker referred to the consternation which had on the previous day seized the opposition on learning that Sir Mackenzie Bowell had appeared on the platform in South Lanark to denounce Hon. John Haggart for his share in the conspiracy. It was a thunderbolt that would blast the last vestige of Tory chance of success in the present campaign. It would clinch the decision of thousands of the better class of Conservatives throughout the Dominion to support the pres ent administration. The speaker then dealt at length with the progressive policy of the Liberal Government, pointing the business-like manner in which all their steps had been taken, and indicating unprecedented prosperity which had resulted from their efforts, and referred, in closing, to the cross-purposes at which the leaders of the opposition found themselves on every important question.

Mr. Calvert referred to charges that had been made at a previous meeting at Wardsville, on the preceding night, that the Liberal Government had broken all its pledges, and proceeded to refute the charge by taking up the platform adopted by the Liberals at the Ottawa convention, dealing with it item by item. He proved the utter falsity of the charge made. He touch-ed upon the tariff question and instanced the various items in which reduction had been made. On the question of purity of administration, he defied anyone to point out any instance of corruption by the present govern-ment. He dealt with the question of the provincial franchise and also the question of prohibition, which had been brought up by a speaker at the previous evening's meeting. He then dealt with the finances of the country, quoting statistics to prove his position that the country's finances are in a thoroughly healthy state. He spoke of the advance made in the postoffice department, and showed the falshty of the charges made against the administration of the Yukon. He referred to the sending of the Canadian contingents, and showed that the conduct of the Liberal administration was beyond attack in that matter.

The meeting closed shortly after 11 with cheers for the Queen, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the candidate.

Stone in the Bladder.

MONTREAL MERCHANT WHO WAS CURED BY DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Stone in the bladder is one of the most excruciating and agonizing of kidney diseases.

Some of its symptoms are sudden stoppage of the flow of urine, straining, deposits in the urine, pain in the region of the bladder and in the back, constant uneasiness and general failing of the health. This is a disease that medical men tell us can only be cured by operation; yet we have many instances on record where Doan's Kidney Pills have effected a complete cure and saved the platient from the dangers and sufferings of the surgeon's knife.

The following well-authenticated cane of Mr. G. A. LeBianc, the widelyknown and popular manager of R. J. Tooke's store, 1,553 St. Catharine street east, Montreal, P. Q., is one of the most remarkable in the history of kidney medicines in Canada. We venture to say that no other remedy but Doan's Kidney Pills can produce such a cure Here is Mr. LeBlanc's own state-

THE REMARKABLE CASE OF A | good health and after having recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to friends and acquaintances during these four years of happy life, and also having had proofs of the good results obtained in other cases, I thought it my duty to acquaint you with my caset, which is undoubtedly one of the mosit severe you will encounter.

"During the three long years that I was afflicted with Iddney disease I suffered agony. Many a time I had to leave off business suddenly and be car. ried in a cab to my home, where 15 would remain for several weeks sufferthe most intense pain. ing the most intense pan.
"At last a saviour came to me in your Doan's Kidney Pills, which were recommended to me by one of your patients. "I used only two boxes, and, thank God, they entirely cured me. "They caused me to pass a stone, the size of the stone found in ordinary dates, and of the same shape. I have it here to show anyone wanting proofs of the efficacy of your pills.

"The three doctors treating me left in surprise, and I was glad to leave off the use of morphine, which had been administered to me most freely to allay the pain. "I am now an alltogether new man
