The terms are very simple, and if they are accepted, the ratepayers will be called upon to vote on the water question at a very early date.

In brief, Mr. Beck asks the commissioners to put the whole question up to the citizens. He will allow them grandfather, and later conducted use the water provided that they will agree to submit his scheme to the people. He advises that this be done at an early date, so that he can make use of the options on property and material to be used in the plant before Aug. 1, at which date the options ex-

"I think the proposition is a fair said Mr. Beck. "It is all in favor of the commissioners. I give my wells, and the plant to the city at cost price, if the people want them. They have as much information on the subject as I have. I am willing to have the whole question stand on its merits. are as follows: London, May 18, 1909. "O. Ellwood, Esq., secretary board of water commissioners, London,

"Dear Sir,-In reply to your letter of the 14th inst., I will agree that the water commissioners may use a sufficient number of wells on Horton street to provide a temporary supply of about 1,000,000 gallons of water per day to be pumped into city mains, provided that the commissioners feel justified in approving of and entering into a contract, upon the terms of my etter to the commissioners of the 12th inst., when the bylaw to raise money by debentures has been assented to by the ratepayers, and will recommend, at once, to the city council the submission of the necessary bylaw to the ratepayers, in order that the tenders and options which I have taken for the property, plant and buildings, may be closed before the 1st of August next. "My reason for urging prompt action by the commissioners is that I cannot expect to be able to renew the tenders and options which I have upon as favorable terms after the 1st of August, as the approach of the winter season will increase the difficulties and cost of the work. "The information that I have been able to secure has been laid fully before the commissioners, and the commissioners have an equal knowledge with me of all the

of the provincial analyst, Dr. "4. The expert opinion as to the permanency of the supply, corro-borated by the offer of Mr. Oliphant, to take over the wells and enter into a contract to furnish the city with 4,000,000 gallons of water per day for an unlimited period of time. "5. The low first cost of the system guaranteed in my letter of the

"6. The low operating cost based on the first cost.

"7. The plant is available in case of breakdown and stoppage of the Springbank supply. '8. The reserve capacity of the wells for fire purposes being about 50 per cent beyond the economic working capacity, and the consequent lowering of the insurance

Henceforth Will Be a Part of Laundry Man Had a Close Call Great Britain's Fiscal Machinery.

London, May 19. - The House of escaped being struck by Ottaway car No. Commons last night, by a vote of 299 15, at the corner of Dundas and English to 96, passed the budget's imposition when the owner, who had just jumped of a 28-cent tax on unearned incomes into the seat, pulled his horse in front of and on incomes exceeding $15,000; also the troller. the super tax of 12 cents upon incomes exceedingly $25,000 levied on a very rapid rate, in charge of Motorman the amount by which they exceed $15,-

In the course of the debate, Pre- in and pulled the horse out on mier Asquith referred to the protest road. The Ottaway car was about twenty made by bankers against the budget. He pointed out that the bankers admitted the necessity of increased taxation to meet the increased expenditures. He challenged them to find a way that would be more equitable or less injurious to the country's trade. The Premier estimated the average Income tax in Great Britain, including the super tax, at 23 cents, which he said, he regarded as extremely moderate and less than that imposed in Germany and France. He foreshadowed a further increase in the income tax, which he now regarded as a permanent part of Great Britain's fiscal machinery. He declared that with proper legislation and wise administration it would come to be considered the fairest of all taxes and capable of very wide expansion in time of public emergency. .The Prime Minister said the people must be prepared to give a large definition to the term "emergency" as not only applying to an outbreak of war, chief engineer of the American Shipbut also to preparation for war, while would not be a wholly illegitimate expansion of the term to include therein pressing needs of social reform.

Where to Buy Lace Curtains

This was clearly demonstrated by the elaborate display in our Housefurnishing Section last week, as many visitors expressed surprise that such beautiful window draperies could be had in London, but the surprise to us would be to find anywhere else but in London such a display, as there are but few stores in Western Ontario, or we might say Canada, where such high-class goods are carried.

But this week we ask your attention also to the lower-priced and medium qualities, where the difference in values is very noticable, and if you fail to inspect the two specials in this week's offerings, you may find your neighbor with a more pleasing design and better quality curtain for less money than you are apt to pay. ## BRAVERY AND COWARDICE.

Cowardice is often ignorance. Are any men brave, more ready to take their lives in their hands, to reckon death as one of the daily encounters, than the deep-sea fishermen? Yet a group of these men, brought to London by one of their missionaries, have been seen too terrified to cross the street. The police had to stop the traffic to allow them to cross. The quick, quarrelsome, fearless Cockneys who laughed at them-how would they feel in a freezing storm in the North Sea? A spider may terrify the most courageous of women and a V. #### LONDON, THURSDAY, MAY 20. MILITARY TRAINING

The magnificent gift of Lord Strathcona for the promotion of the military training of the youth of Canada does not meet with universal approval. While there is little doubt that the great majority of our people are grateful for the gift, and approve of the object, yet there are some societies, both clerical and lay, that condemn the purpose for which the fund has been established; while some good which will encourage militarism. This is not a question that can be settled off-hand, as though it had only one side. The people who are always waving a flag and beating a drum with frantic enthusiasm, and those who unceasingly condemn everything that savors of war, are equally unbalanced. That war between nations is an inheritance from an ancient and inferior civilization, is generally accepted. But it must not be forgotten that to fight is a characteristic of human nature; and the combative element eliminated until his nature and his surroundings alike are changed.

There is inseparable from humanity both the struggle for existence, and the struggle for pre-eminence, which, with all their attendant evils, are yet fight is still going on, though the today contests as bitter, and followed by results as evil, as any that were fought out in ancient wars. The > CHAPTER XXIX. In the Poplar Walk.

Two days had passed. Hermione was sitting in the cheerful sitting room, with the choicest of flowers about her, and the breeze from the open window fluttering gayly in her locks. She was weak yet, but there was promise of life in her slowly brightening eye, and from the language of the smile which now and then disturbed the lines of her proud lips, there was hope of happiness in the heart which but two short days before had turn ed from life in despair.

Yet it was not a perfect hope, or the smiles would have been deeper and more frequent. She had held a long talk with Frank, but he had not touch. ed upon a certain vital question, perhaps because he felt she had not yet the strength to argue it. Emma, on the contrary, was like a yes, sang as she flitted up and down the stairs, and once Hermione started in a merry peal of laughter came from the garden. Such a sound had not heard in that house for a year; such a sound seemed an anomaly there. Yet how sweet it was, and how it seemed to lift the shadows!

There was another person who started as this unusual note of merriment disturbed the silence of the garden. It was Huckins, who was walking slowly up and down beneath the so bright, eh?" He was waiting for Doris,

The big detective room in the rear was crowded with men studying it. Hunt wrote it and it is a complete treatise on safes and their construction and the various kinds of locks, with a long decription of how to get into safes and vhat powder to use. Hunt concludes that smokeless powder is the best for the cracksman, even better than dynamite, and that the only burglar proof safe made is the one placed right up in a store window with a light flooding it all night. The first eighteen pages of the manuscript is written in what the poice call the genuine cracksman's jar gon. There was no man in the buildng at 300 Mulberry street last night who could read it and Hunt refused o translate. The captian of Hunt's manuscript is CPSXYJ LUZYL," whatever that may mean. Right after the caption the treatise says: "This is an old make, but there are a great many of them in the south.'

Then follow several diagrams of how they work. Hunt then goes on: There are fifty kinds of safes made n the United States and Canada, and many kinds of locks, all of which rejuires many ways of mechanical and otherwise ways of opening them so that a knight of the work must thoroughly know his work in order to keep abreast of the times. I can give you a general knowledge of all the makes.

There are two kinds of safes recogfized in the profession: fireproof and burglar proof. Well, there is really no such thing as a genume... (burglar proof safe), made, yet the so by courtesy.'

Hunt goes into a long description and how the weak spots are found. He discusses powders and says he himself likes the smokless best. He winds up his remarks on powders by giving a formula for smokeless powder with Considerable interest is being taken by some Middlesex County farmers in the question of up-to-date orcharding, notably spraying. There is no doubt London, May 19.—The late George Meredith was born in Hampshire, Surrey, England, on Feb. 12, 1828. His career as an author began when he was 21 years old, although it was not the big novel is said that he feared it was now too late to visit America. "I spraying of apple-orchards would reworms and scab, the former being the larvae or worms hatched from the eggs of the codling moth, while the scab is gain entrance to the tissue of the productive portion of the fungus. Hitherto spraying has been far too generally neglected by Middlesex Counapple growers, but the orchardists of the county are watching the results of an experiment being conducted by the publishers of the Farmer's Advocate, who have leased for a period of three years the orchard of Joseph Poole, near Lambeth, for the purpose of giving a thorough demonstration of the results of up-to-date orchard practice, including pruning, cultivation and spraying. This orchard has been sprayed twice already; the first time, efore the buds started, with bluestone (2 pounds to the barrel of water) on one-half, and commercial lime-sulphur on the other. The second spraying, before the blossoms opened, was with bordeaux mixture and parls green; while for the third spraying bordeaux will be used again along with paris green on one part and arsenate of lead on the other.

If successful, this orchard experiment may lead to much better profits to growers, and a better class of fruit for the citizens of London. The Dose.

The standard treatment is bordeaux mixture and paris green. It is easily made and readily applied with modern spraying outfits. The proportions are 4 pounds copper sulphate (blue stone), 4 pounds unslaked lime, and 40 gallons of water, with 4 to 8 ounces of paris green added. Under average conditions, 4 ounces of pure paris green is sufficient, but the presence of lime guards against damage to the leaves when larger quantities are used. Care must be taken in the preparation. To make the Bordeau mixture, dissolve the copper sulphate, by suspending it in an earthen or wooden vessel, containing 4 THE SYSTEM IS OVERLOADED or 5 or more gallons of water. Big Chief" Bender fastened the "Indian sign" securely on to the Tigers yesterday, and the Champions dropped the first game of the series to Connie Mack's Athletics by a score of 10 to 2. The score tells the story. Bender had the Champions at his mercy from start while the Philadelphia aggregation touched up Jennings' twirlers for 15 hits - 13 singles, a double and a home run, Summers Taken Out.

box for six sorry rounds. Then Jennings was forced to retire Summers and Edward Lafitte, one of the Champions' recruits, was sent to the mound. Edward proved about as soft a proposition as his namesake in the box and the Athletics annexed two more tallies to their already plump score.

Seven Bad Players. Once the Athletics were safely in the lead, the Tigers sought to increase the visitors' advantage in the run column by booting the ball or throwing It over each other's heads at divers opportune moments of the game. So that combined with the heavy stickwork, the wobbles of the Championsseven of 'em-assisted materially filling up the spaces on the scoreboard gave way to Criss after New York had decided hit. There wasn't a dull moment on the programme, from the time the curtain went up until it was owered amid a tumult of applause, which greeted an exhibition of fancy drilling. The forty ladies in the were dressed in white, with colored sashes, and the effect was a prety one. The end ladies were otherwise attired with garments of gaudy hue, and blackened faces and they had a line of funny stuff that kept the house in roars. The choruses and songs were without exception splendidly rendered, and every one made a hit and was heartily encored. The first part of the programme was as follows: "You're Just the Boy For Me," Miss Bertha Upthegrove; "Bon Bon Buddy," Miss Sassafras; "I Re-member You." Miss Annie MacLeod; "Bon 'Mornin', Cy," Miss Snowball; "Love Me Just a Little Bit," Miss Suhr; "Superstition," Miss Sunflower; "Love, the Peddler," Mrs. Wardle; monologue, Miss Dewdrop; 'Good Evening Caroline," end ladies; "Sleep, Lil Chile, Go Sleep," company.

SEQUEL TO LIQUOR CASE.

Essex, Ont., May 20 .- As a sequel to a recent liquor case in the Windsor police court, two young men, Taylor and Chase, living near here, are likely to bep resecuted for perjury. Chase was almost impossible to keep our crown as witnesses for the prosecution of Charles Little, hotelkeeper at Maidstone, charged with Sunday liquorselling, it being alleged they got the liquor, but on the stand they professed to be unable to remember, and the case was adjourned for investigation. While this was in progress Little made a voluntary visit to Windsor, changed his plea of not guilty to guilty, and paid a fine.

Louisville Derby JOCKEY RICE IS THROWN

Track Record Is Lowered One-Fifth of a Second in the Event.

Louisville, May 19.—Olambala, -year-old colt by Ornus, belonging to J. G. Greener, of Nashville, beat Wintergreen, the winner of this year's Kentucky derby, and Miami, at a mile and a sixteenth, in the preliminary derby trial this afternoon, Olambala's victory was an easy one, so easy in fact that he will probably be favorite in the Latonia derby, which will be run next Tuesday. He broke the track record today, galloping the distance in 1:45, which is a fifth of a second under the local mark. In the last race Sem-pro stumbled in a jam, throwing Jockey Rice, who was badly shaken up internally, suffering hemorrhages. Summaries:

LONDON MEDICAL

Will Be Held at Asylum For Insane on June 7.

It is expected that a large number f the medical men of Western Ontario will be in the city on June 7. The London Medical Association will hold their meeting at the asylum on that date, and Dr. Robinson, the superintendent of that institution, has under way a plan to gather all the medical men from the vicinity for a social gathering. He is sending out about 300 invitations, and though probably a good number of the doctors will not be able to be present, still it is hoped that a very large number will be on hand. The gathering will be largely of a social character, and will be more in the nature of a holiday than anything else. There will be an opportunity, however, for those who are not familiar with the work being done there, to examine the newly-installed hydro-therapeutic apparatus, and the other means for the treatment of the different manifestations of the mental

It is expected that most of the guests will arrive early in the afternoon, and that the greater part of the afternoon will be given up to an inspection of the buildings and grounds, after which a dainty supper will be served. In the business meeting will be held in the large entertainment hall of the institution. At this meeting there will be a paper on "The Pathology of Paresis," by Dr. Ernest Jones, of To-ronto, while there will also be a discussion of some of the interesting pealed. cases that have come under the notice of the staff.

It is expected that the Hon. Mr. Hanna, the provincial secretary, will be among the guests.

After balloting a dozen times Rev. Mr. Armstrong was elected as district representative (along with the chairman, Rev. Mr. MacAllister, of Blenheim), on the stationing committee. Mrs. Wilson Taylor, organizer of the district Women's Missionary Society, addressed the meeting on behalf of missions.

Walter Dolman's benefit recital last night was a great success, and St. Andrew's Church was full to the doors with a large and fashionable gathering. A unique combination, and a very effective one, was Mr. Dolman at the organ, and Miss Anna Carson at the piano, playing together, Ray Peck gave some violin selections that were much appreciated, and E. Arnolde Webster sang delightfully his solo, "When We're Together," meeting with particular favor.

Miss Simmie Grateful.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Dear Sir,-I wish to take this opportunity of thanking, through your pages, all those who so generously assisted me in the recent Trip-to-Europe contest in District No. 5. Throughout the contest I have received nothing but kindness from all the people whom I have approached, while very many have been very generous in their voluntary assistance. I sincerely appreciate their efforts in my behalf, and would like to be able to thank them all personally, but as that is impossible, I hope all those who have aided me in this contest in any way, will feel assured of my gratitude for their aid. Sincerely

MARGARET SIMMIE,
