NOT GUILTY BUT IS ASSESSED WITH COSTS

A Passage at Arms in the Police Court This Morning - J. Wedgwood Bowlby in the Limelight.

A passage at arms between Mr. W. S. Brewster, K.C., and Barrister John Wedgwood Bowlby, K.C., occurred this morning at the police court at the conclusion of the wounding case in which Mr. Bowlby acted as crown attorney.

KING GEORGE AS PEACEMAKER TO SETTLE HOME RULE CRISIS.

MR. BONAR LAW, LORD LANSDOWNE, MR. LLOYD GEORGE, MR. JOHN REDMOND, MR. JOHN DILLON, SIR EDWARD CARSON, CAPTAIN CRAIG, KING GEORGE

An important step has been taken toward the settlement of the home rule crisis.

On the invitation of King George the political leaders of the parties were in conference in Buckingham Palace.

The government was represented by the Prime Minister and Mr. Lloyd George, and the opposition by Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Bonar Law, the

FORMER WIFE CAME INTO COURT TODAY

Proceedings of Remarkable Murder Trial in Paris - The Ex-Minister is Met by the Woman He Left.

PARIS, July 23.—Judge Louis Albanel's court in the palace of justice where Madame Caillaux, wife of the former premier, is undergoing trial for the murder of March 16 of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, was crowded as never before when the fourth hearing started today.

The testimony was to be concluded today with the evidence of M. Barthelemy and of Madame Berthe Gueyden, the first wife of M. Caillaux, but before they were due to come to the stand, half a dozen other witnesses of lesser importance were to be sworn and to testify.

Madame Caillaux took her place in the prisoner's enclosure punctually at noon. She carried in her right hand a little vial of smelling salts and a notebook. Ten minutes afterward the red-robed judges led into court and an expectant hush fell over the crowded masses in the court room.

INDIAN SAYS THAT WHITE MAN HAS NOT THE RIGHT

To Seize Any of His Property on the Reserve for Debt.

The right of a white man to take the goods and chattels of an Indian from his own land upon the Reserve was hotly disputed at the police court this morning when Reginald and Jacob Marten, father and son were charged with obstructing officers of the police in the execution of their duty.

ST. PETERSBURG HAS REAL STREET CAR STRIKE--OVER 120,000 MEN ARE OUT

Five Strikers Were Killed Last Night by Cossacks and Fighting Was General Throughout the City--Men Marched Through Streets Carrying Red Flag--Attempt to Destroy Waterworks.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—At least five striking workmen were killed and eighting in the streets of St. Petersburg between the strikers on the one side and the police and cossacks on the other, which continued throughout the night and ceased only at dawn this morning.

The strikers, however, eventually dispersed and the barricades were destroyed, but only after the police and soldiers have been subjected to hot attacks with volleys of stones in four different parts of the city and had fired volleys from their rifles in return.

Peace May Come at Last

WASHINGTON, July 23.—While many obstructions still appeared to bar the way to peace in Mexico, yet despatches today from headquarters of both Constitutionalists and Federalists expressed views that the end of fighting was almost in sight.

HOME RULE CONFERENCE BREAKS UP

For the Third Time Adjournment Was Made Today.

LONDON, July 23.—The tiding over of to-day's critical session of the conference at Buckingham Palace on the Ulster situation without the occurrence of a rupture created a decidedly more hopeful view among the general public as to the outcome of the discussions between the statesmen representing the different parties.

SAILS INTO ARCTIC REGION TO RESCUE EIGHTEEN MEN FROM ICE-GLAD ISLAND

Captain Bartlett, Who Was Wrecked With the Karluk, Undertakes a Nine Month Trip Into the Far North--An Exploring Trip Which Failed--Party May Be Without Food For Some Months

Nome, Alaska, July 23.—The Revenue Cutter Bear with Captain Robert Bartlett, master of the wrecked Steffansson exploring ship, Karluk, aboard, will sail to-day for the Arctic to take off the eighteen white men and four Eskimos of Bartlett's command who are marooned on Wrangell Island, where they sought refuge after the Karluk was crushed in the ice north of Herald Island last winter.

THEY WERE SATISFIED

The lacrosse boys returned from St. Mary's last night defeated but eminently satisfied with the game and also with their own playing. They put up a splendid fight. The game was clean and fast, and ably handled by Referee Allan Kinder of Preston.

CONQUEST OF WORM IS UNLIMITED ONE

NEW YORK, July 23.—The army worm has descended upon New York doing heavy damage to lawns in Harlem. Within the last two days the worm extended its operations to parts of Brooklyn and destroyed lawns on many large estates.

NEW EARLY RECORD

COURT, Man., July 23.—A. J. McCullough started cutting a seventy-acre field of barley to the southwest of the town this morning. The crop is a good one, and establishes a new early record for this district if not for the Province.

IS LEAKING BADLY

QUEBEC, Q., July 22.—The Gaspe Liner Canada floated this morning at Cape Chateau, where she had foundered over a week ago, is making way, according to a despatch received this afternoon, and her crew have lowered boats to escape, should she go down. Her nose is deep in the water.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, July 22.—Black rust and heat spoiling the outlook for even an average yield in the spring crop belt made the wheat market tend to soar. The close was firm, 7-8c to 1c and 1 1/4c above last night. Corn showed a net advance of 1 1/4c to 1-8c. Oats were 1/2c off to 1-8c up. In provisions the outcome ranged from 22 1/2c decline to a gain of 2 1/4c to 5c. It was generally admitted for the first time that all prospect of a big crop of wheat this year in the northwest was gone.

CHEESE MARKETS.
STIRLING, July 22.—At yesterday's cheese board 600 boxes were offered; 250 sold at 12 3/4c; 290 at 12 1/2c; and the balance at 12 1/4c to 12 1/2c.

UTICA, N. Y., July 22.—A quarter of a cent advance in cheese prices and a half cent in butter featured yesterday's session at the Utica Dairy Board of Trade. Sales were 2050 small colored cheese and 1600 small white at 18 3/8c to 18 3/4c.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 22.—The output of cheese for the Campbellford district is said to be 20 per cent. less so far this year than it was at the same season last year. This is a serious falling off, as last year owing to shortage of pasture the output was below other years. The quality is said to be good.

Cainsville News

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Regular services were held in the Methodist church on Sunday, both morning and evening and were well attended.

At the former service Rev. Mr. Plyle chose for his subject "The significance of little things," taking as his text the words, "But what are they among so many," found in John 6-6. This was a most inspiring and uplifting discourse and will not soon be forgotten by the congregation. Rev. Mr. Bowers in the evening preached a splendid sermon on the subject "Christian Forgiveness," a sermon which was full of helpfulness throughout.

In the morning a duet was pleasingly rendered by Miss M. Norrie and Miss A. Smith, while at the latter service Miss Myrtle Norrie sang a solo very sweetly.

The Cleaners of the Methodist Sabbath school held a little picnic at Mohawk Park on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Fred Mellor of the Bank of British North America, Brantford, is acting manager at the bank here during Mr. Yules' absence on holidays.

Miss Annie Smith is spending a couple of weeks with friends at Mt. Hope and Hamilton.

Mrs. (Dr.) Laidlaw and little son Robert of Ottawa visited at the home of Mrs. Dutton on Saturday afternoon. Miss Pearl Gilroy of Pine Grove is the guest of her sister, Miss Edith Gilroy this week.

Master Willie Butler of Hamilton is holidaying at Mr. O. Avery's "The Maples."

Mrs. A. Reid of Vancouver, B.C., is visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs. Jos. Utasattle.

Miss Hattie Springer of Paris was the Sunday guest of Miss Annie Hawley.

Mr. Grantham Lumsden left on Saturday for a visit with his aunt Mrs. Dillon in New York.

Mr. Lew Smith is holidaying at Orangeville and other points.

Mrs. Nelles of Simcoe, who had been spending a few weeks with Mrs. A. Cole, returned to her home the fore part of last week.

We congratulate Miss Anna Graham upon having successfully passed the recent Hamilton Normal School examinations.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Avery, Mr. Earl Avery and Master Willie Butler had a pleasant motor to St. Thomas and other points last week.

Mrs. F. Brewer and Miss Violet Robinson have been visiting friends at Burlington.

We are sorry to report Mr. Seymour Cole on the sick list.

Mr. Lumsden of Dundas was in the village on Friday last.

Dr. La V. Pattison of Brantford was calling on friends here on Wednesday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gillen and children of Alford Junction spent Sunday with relatives here.

The Epworth League service on Monday evening was well attended, and was one of unusual interest. The entire evening was given over to Miss Graham, who was the league's delegate to the summer school of the Hamilton conference, which was held this year at Burlington the week of July 6th to 12th, and this evening was the one selected for the report. Indeed it almost seemed to all present that they had a miniature summer school of their own on this particular evening, as a number of the summer school hymns were sung. A number of the "yells" from Miss Graham's tracts were given and Mrs. Graham's presentation of the different addresses by the noted speakers of the summer school was really splendid. She also gave a brief outline of the other phases of the school. Miss Graham has the happy faculty of holding the divided attention of her hearers and the evening throughout was one of intense interest and pleasure. A solo by Miss Wilson also added to the pleasure of the evening. Miss Graham has reserved some parts of her report, which at some time in the near future, it is expected will be given at a Sunday evening service.

The "Army Worm" which has been creating such havoc in different parts of this country as well as sur-

CATHCART

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Rev. Mr. Frid, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church on Sunday morning and preached a very interesting sermon, to a large and attentive audience. The Methodist people have great reason to be proud of their ministers. We sincerely hope that the choir will be resurrected again; it would be a help to the ministers.

Mrs. R. Warboys, has returned to her home, accompanied by her son, Wesley, who will rusticate for a short time at Leasonville, near Cathcart.

Mrs. Corless and family have returned to their home, North Bay, after a months visit with friends at Cathcart and Burgessville.

Mrs. G. A. Aulsebrook of Burford, and Miss Greta Swarts of Brockville, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Lawson.

Mr. J. Stephenson left this morning to visit his sister at the Mines, near North Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Millar Lawson, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Sayles, Blue Lake.

Mrs. E. W. Chant and family, who are visiting at Cathcart, have gone to Burgessville to spend a few days before returning to their home in Toronto.

NOVEL LIFE BELT RACE.
A novelty was introduced into the programme of sports, one of the forms of the celebration of Dominion Day, took place on the White Star Line, "Tonic" on her last eastbound voyage, this being a life-belt race. Captain James being the judge, the proper tying of the life-belt rather than the speed at which it was accomplished being the principal object. A little girl proved to be the winner, donning her belt and tying it securely in the short space of twenty-three seconds. This innovation of the sports was partly to make the passengers familiar with their life-belts and the mode of adjusting them without in any way causing alarm, and it succeeded admirably.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to bring back color, gloss, thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready to use bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge and soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. Agent George Bowles.

A QUEBEC FIRE

QUEBEC, Que., July 22.—When he was trapped by fire about three o'clock this morning on the flat of his boarding house on St. Nicholas street, Yousoff Markolev, thought death close at hand, but he was rescued by the firemen climbing to his low window on ladders through dense volumes of smoke. The house was damaged to the extent of some four thousand dollars.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Grain Cutting.

Grain cutting is now general throughout the County of Brant. The wheat yield will be an average one and conditions generally are reported good for all crops.

Well Known Here.

The death is announced in Toronto of Mr. Charles Norris, of the Wood Advertising Agency. Mr. Norris was well known in Brantford. He had been in poor health for the past three years.

Fell Into the Grand.

A very enjoyable outing was spent by the Girls Bible Class of Trinity Church, yesterday. The girls going out to the Bell Homestead in Burrows' motor bus. Nothing marred the pleasure of the afternoon, except a small accident when three girls fell in the water and had to struggle out very wet. They escaped without any serious injuries. The party returned about 9 o'clock, after having a real good time.

Successful Masonic Event.

The second annual picnic of Mt. Horeb Chapter, R. A. M., was held yesterday afternoon at Mohawk Park and was a great success. Over 150 members, and lady friends, attended and a splendid program of sports, including races and games, was run off. The broom ball match of the single women, the married ladies, was won by the single ladies, while the tug-of-war was won by the married ladies, after a strenuous pull. A novel feature of the sports was the nail driving contest in which some very accurate work was demonstrated. Taken altogether, the picnic was a great success and credit must be given the members of the committee in charge, Dr. Chapin, chairman; W. E. Greensides, Secretary; W. R. McCormack, T. J. Kirby, A. Campbell, W. Wylie and Rev. G. A. Woodside.

Inspected Post Office.

G. M. Harris, district post office inspector, paid his official visit to the local post office to-day. The inspector was well satisfied with the conditions at the city office and found the service to be very efficient.

Fine Time at the Port.

Over three hundred members of Oxford St. Methodist and Balfour St. Presbyterian churches and Sunday schools left on the union picnic to Port Dover yesterday. The picnic was a great success in every way, both financially and numerically. The children thoroughly enjoyed the day, particularly the boating. No mishaps occurred, and everything went off smoothly. No races were held, but a good time, two good meals, and bowling were enjoyed by all.

The Army Worm.

The army worm has in small numbers invaded the Indian Reserve and a special meeting of the Six Nations Council was held Tuesday at Ohsawaken to consider the situation. It was decided to vote $200 towards coping with the pest. The worms crossed into the Reserve from Walpole to the south, while there are a few very close in proximity in the northwest corner, which they have been trenched into on which they were observed. They have done practically no harm, and it is intended to spend effort in preventing them from any.

DIED AT ST. KITTS, MAN SAID TO BE FROM THIS CITY

His Wife, Who Resides on Queen Street Has Received Description.

A man who was found dying and later expired in the hospital, St. Catharines, on Tuesday last, is thought to be the husband of Mrs. William H. Charlton, late of Queen street, Brantford. She has seen the description and it corresponds with the marks by which she could have identified her husband. They were on good terms and he had for some time been travelling around the country and she heard from him at different times. She was not sure that he was at St. Catharines when the dying man was found, as she had not heard from him, and it is likely that he was.

The details of the discovery of the unknown man are, that on the morning of Tuesday last, two men were passing the O'Pea Chee gun factory which was partially destroyed by fire in St. Catharines, when they heard groans, and investigating found the man just inside the, burn-out building. They at once conveyed him to the hospital where he died three hours later. Not a thing about his person gave any clue to his identity. An investigation was ordered and they came to a verdict of death by misadventure, no one having seen how the deceased came by the accident which caused his death.

The description is that of a man about 35 years of age, sharp featured, 5 feet, 9 in. in height, black hair, clean shaven, brown eyes, high jaw bone and a poorly nourished appearance.

Under the right arm the initials W. C. were tattooed.

It is thought the body was buried yesterday.

EVIDENCE WAS DAMAGING IN CASE TODAY

Result of Raid on 174 Darling Street - Assault Case is Aired.

Two farmer boys in the Oakland Township got together last Sunday after church and had a scrap which was seen by a number of others and the outcome was that both appeared at the city police court in a county case in which H. Pike charged Wallen Hagen with wounding. Numerous witnesses of the fight testified to seeing defendant put his hand to his pocket for something but none of them seem to have seen him use the knuckle duster. Defendant admitted owning it but claimed he did not use it and the magistrate summing up said he thought that the fight had been unfair and as the complainant had marks upon him which appeared to have been made by such an instrument he would dismiss the case upon payment of costs.

Upon a second charge of carrying a knuckle duster defendant would be fined $10.

Sergeant Wallace and P. C. Blower made a raid upon 174 Darling street last night and as the result Hester Bingham was charged with keeping a bawdy house and William Kelly and Benjamin Bradley were charged with being frequenters.

Bradley claims that he has nothing to do with the case as he was taken from the upstairs part of the house, but there is likely to be a much more serious charge preferred against him, as the police suspect he had brought his daughter from Woodstock to live with Bingham. If they prove this Bradley will be liable under the White Slave act.

Kelly turned King's evidence and gave damaging evidence against Hester Bingham, whose house he was driven to by a cab driver. He had visited the house for immoral purposes when the police arrived.

Kelly cannot now be charged as he has been used as evidence to the prosecution and as he said he was anxious to get back to Hamilton he will be allowed to go when he identifies the cab driver.

The case was adjourned until tomorrow at the request of the Chief Constable.

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS

The public are notified that unless the regulations governing the use of water upon lawns and gardens are strictly observed, that prosecutions will be made. The regulations must be observed, as people on Terrace Hill cannot get water while the lawns are on down in the city under present conditions. Any person found violating the by-law will be summonsed without any further notice.

Carpet Department Perfect Vacuum Cleaners This cleaner is all that the name stands for; in fact, it is the latest machine of its kind on the market. Here are a few of the many points in its favor. Brush Attachment—This does away with the necessity of going over your rug the second time to pick up lint and threads; the brush is revolving at the same time as the suction — two operations in one. Then there is the dustment. This is a fine powder, everything in its right place, this is a perfect suction. Point No. 3 is the attachment for protecting the furniture and wood work, which is a very essential factor. Point No. 4—The machine is portable and bearing; so easy to run. Point No. 5—It is provided with three sets of bellows which means continuous suction. Point No. 6—a fine finished Maltese cross, the actual value of the machine is $12.00. We are offering it for Friday only $7.95.

FORMER WIFE

"There have been so many lies told," said Mme. Gueydan, "that my notes are absolutely necessary if only to fix dates. Was not M. Caillaux allowed to read from papers? I am confronted with a mountain of lies which I must climb and break to pieces, one by one. I am alone, I have no husband to defend me."

In saying this she cast a long glance at Mme. Caillaux, who however he did not look at her.
"You are not here to accuse," interposed Maitre Labori. "You will find nothing but courtesy and deference for yourself personally if your role is simply that of a witness. But if you come here to accuse then you will find me in front of you as a defender of my client."

Mme. Gueydan: "If you have spoken of me to M. Caillaux he will have told you that at least I have courage."
This was spoken in a challenging tone and called forth "bravos" from the spectators, whose sympathy she seemed to have from the moment she entered the court room.

Judge Albalan rapped on his desk.
Then Mme. Gueydan continued: "I have been pained to see that the person who drew the indictment has gathered together the filth. All the pieces I have gone to take my place."
Maitre Labori: Mme. Gueydan promised to testify without hate.

Mme. Gueydan: "It is said that the crime was committed because I communicated copies of letters."

The witness then referred to her notes, to which Maitre Labori objected amid murmurs of protest against him from the audience.

Judge Albalan supported Maitre Labori's objection. The judge then himself addressed the witness saying questionally in order to give her a start.

"Disagreements arose in your home."
Mme. Gueydan: "There were no disagreements."

The witness was speaking rapidly.
She continued:
"Of domestic life was tender. No one knows. Not even you, Mr. Presiden, and absolutely no one knows about this affair."

Judge Albalan: "Nevertheless, you and your husband had a reconciliation over something, and the letters were burned, will you explain."

Mme. Gueydan: "The first letter which appeared. Do you know who gave that to me? M. Caillaux. He did it at the ministry of finances in 1908."

Mme. Gueydan was speaking in low tones, and the impatient spectators called out "louder, louder."

Mme. Gueydan: "I had never suspected that my husband had a mistress. I first knew it when he threw himself at my knees and asked my pardon. He humbled himself and I pardoned him, but the day after, he returned to this person. I did not cease to believe his lying talk. I believed that the evil surrounding my home had gone, for I thought I saw the bottom of his heart in his tears."

Mme. Gueydan's voice had become clear, and though she spoke in low tones her words penetrated every part of the chamber as she said:

"I did not know at all the person in question. To show you my loyalty to my husband he confided to me a travelling satchel full, he said of important papers. I never opened it.
I did not know until a long time afterwards that it contained correspondence between him and Mme. Raynourard, nor Mme. Caillaux."

The witness' voice sank into indiffidence, and she stood silent for a moment, before continuing her testimony, and then she said only:

"I do not know what I can say-what I ought to say."

Mme. Gueydan again stood silent until Judge Albalan requested her to continue and to speak louder. She then said:

"My husband became irritable and I was nervous. One day he said to me: 'Do you know I came to your bedside last night to kill you.' After that I felt I ought to leave. I went to Versailles and wrote to him. I thought he would follow me and bring me home, but no. He went to the department of the Sarthe and I returned to Paris, but he did not and you know why."

Mme. Gueydan continued:
"well, I came back home and I noticed his desk half open. There were in it two letters from a woman. They had been fabricated by him and Mme Raynourard to make me believe that there was no intimacy between them."

Joseph Caillaux, the witness' former husband, during her testimony changed his seat four times getting nearer to her so that he was better able to hear until finally he was within four or five feet of her.

Mme. Gueydan, however, did not notice that Caillaux whose fingers were twitching and whose hands were incessantly opening and shutting. The witness meanwhile entered into many details of small happenings preceding her divorce. She said:

"I had an impression that he was afraid."

While she was saying this Mme.
Gueydan turned and looked her former husband straight in the face, while Mme. Caillaux bent over the railing around the prisoner's enclosure with her face half concealed and occasionally wiping away the perspiration.

Mme. Gueydan then recited a succession of quarrels and reconciliations between M. Caillaux and herself. She said she had found letters at her house

in Marnes, and added:
"I took them so as not to be unarmed in the divorce."

Upon Judge Albalan reminding the witness at the end of the second hour of her testimony that her voice had become almost inaudible she excused herself by saying:

City News Items

City Pay Sheet.
The supplementary pay sheet of the city sewers department for the last two weeks totals $223.50.

Tender for Painting Hall.
E. McHugh has submitted a tender for the painting of the City Hall,
one coat, at a cost of $150.

Market To-day.
The rain held the mid-week market
down to small proportions to-day.
Berries and currents were the chief thing for sale, and they were readily disposed of.

They Want to Play Here.
H. A. Stares, bandmaster of the 91st. Regimental Band, has written the city council, enquiring if there is any date on which the city would require their services.

Arbitrators Adjourned.
The Board of Arbitrators which has the case of Clarke and L. E. and N.
Railway met yesterday in the court house, but they reached no decision, adjourning until Monday, first, for final consideration.

Building Permits.
Building permits were granted by Building Inspector George Bennett,
to-day, to Samuel Levine for a frame verandah to house on Charlotte St.
to cost $80; also to John Robinson, 8 Grant street for a frame kitchen to house, cost $80.

Partition Built.
A splendid partition built of quarter oak is being erected at the end of the librarian's office to form its southern extremity. It is expected that soon the office will resume its former appearance. The work of extension proceeds satisfactorily.

Real Estate Steady.
Local real estate dealers pronounce the present state of real estate in Brantford to be quite firm. Although no big deals are being put through there is a good lot of smaller sales being made. The whole situation looks much brighter than a few months ago.

Old Home Week Notes.
The invitation, a sub-committee of the fraternal committee met last night at the Temple Building. The meeting was called to receive reports, and a large number of acceptances were reported as having been received. The general executive committee meets to-night at the Temple Building.

A False Alarm.
The firemen received a hurried call this afternoon to the house of Mrs.
Hurley, 12 Charlotte street, and they found upon arrival that it was a false alarm. Mrs. Hurley had lit a stove and a neighbor seeing a reflection and smoke thought that a fire was breaking out and sent in an alarm. The brigade returned without lifting a hand.

Saturday, Lawyer's Half Holiday.
The lawyers and solicitors offices of this city will in future be closed on Saturday afternoon. The move has been taken in order that the law offices may all be closed on a similar day to those of business houses in the city. It has been customary for some of the offices to close on Wednesdays. For some time the lawyers have felt that the day of the half holiday should be changed and after they got together they decided that in future Saturday would be the date of the holiday.

Parents' Day.
To-morrow is Parent's Day at the Y. M. C. A. camp at Dunnville and as there are likely to be a number taking the trip they are renuciated that they can obtain club rates if the party is sufficiently large, being over ten. The train leaves at 10.5 in the morning and reaches Dunnville in little under two hours, when conveyances will be on hand to transfer the travellers to the camp which is situated on the lake some six miles from the station. The boys are from all reports spending the time of their lives.

Home Secretary, the King, has appointed Mr. George Rhodes, K.C. to be Recorder of Oldham, in place of the late Mr. A. G. Steel, K.C., the famous cricketer.

HINDUS GET UNDER SAIL THIS MORNING

They Wanted Beer as Well as All Kinds of Provisions.

The Nasty Trouble With British Subjects Believed Settled.

(By Special Wire to the Courier)
VANCOUVER, B.C., July 23.-
Shortly after five o'clock this morning the Japanese steamer Komagata Maru steamed out of the harbor on her way back to the Orient. The Hindus on board made no demonstration, and the services of the local militia companies, who spent the night on the wharf, were not needed.
The vessel was convoyed out of the harbor by the cruiser Rainbow, which will accompany her to a point off Vancouver Island. Two months ago to-day the Komagata arrived in Vancouver harbor.

They Wanted Beer
VANCOUVER, B.C., July 23.-
Among the demands formulated by the Hindus in their last minute requests, were a liberal supply of beer for the home-ward trip, live sheep and sufficient live fowl to give each man
one day on the trip across the Pacific.

Immigration Inspector Reid stated
at a late hour last night that these demands would probably be complied with, and the provisions they asked for put aboard the Komagata.

He denied that there was any truth in the rumor of force having been used against the crew of any vessel and expressed the belief that the Komagata would soon leave Vancouver to-day.

Colored Gentlemen Played at Ball
The postponed game between the two colored baseball teams the Benedicts and Bachelors, was played off last night at Recreation park before a big crowd of spectators, the married gentlemen having the best of the argument to the extent of 16 to 4.

Jesse Brown twirled for the benedicts with Winn McCurtis as catcher,
while Charley Morey and Harry Tanner were the battery for the bachelors.

Casey Jones played third base for the benedicts but Casey didn't get a hit during the entire game. Jack Gaysins played a star game at short.

On Saturday afternoon the Maple Leafs will play the Marlboro street church team a benefit game for Thos.
Blackburn, who was injured, next Wednesday night, the two colored teams will oppose each other again in a benefit game.

NORTH BAY CELEBRATES
NORTH BAY, July 22.-This town is filled with people from all parts of the country, attracted by the celebration of old boys week. Aeroplane flights are a daily feature of the celebration, and lacrosse, baseball and field sports are scheduled for every day. North Bay yesterday defeated Pembroke six to five.

LAWNS.
By resolution of the Board:
"No person or persons shall be allowed to sprinkle, or use in any manner whatsoever, the water supplied by the Board of Water Commissioners upon lawns, gardens, yards or grounds of any description, except between the hours of 6 and 8.30 o'clock p.m., on lawns up to and including 5,000 square feet; on lawns over that amount, from 5 to 8.30 o'clock p.m.; and any person wishing to use the water on their place of the evening may do so between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock a.m. by giving notice to that effect in writing to the Secretary."

It must, however, be clearly understood that the water cannot be used on lawns or grounds both morning and evening, and hose must be detached from hydrants at 8 a.m. and

IT WAS AWFUL, BUT GAMES WERE GREAT

Red Sox Dropped Two Games to Toronto Yesterday by Close Scores—Fans Got Everything But a Victory.

The Beavers grabbed both games of the double-header yesterday from the Red Sox winning the first 3 to 1, and the second 2 to 1. Both were great games, Gero pitching the first against Auld and Nickel the second against Schaeffer. Auld pitched a great game during the first session holding the Red Sox to three hits. A peculiar coincidence of the game was that the first three runs scored were homers, Snell twice hitting the ball over the centre field fence for Toronto, while Dudley by repeating the same stunt in the seventh inning saved the Red Sox a shut-out. It was in the third inning that the Beavers first scored on a home run by Snell which he repeated in the fifth. Dudley's home run came in the ninth. The award runs for the Beavers came in the ninth when a scratch hit and two errors allowed Ort to score.

The only double play pulled off in the first game was in the ninth when Isaacs went out to Barrett and Barrett made the double with Deneau on Isaacs.

Young Fried showed up well during the game at short, but the rabbit couldn't find Auld at all, and struck out three times at bat.

The game was called at 2 o'clock for some reason and many missed the opening inning on this account. There was a splendid crowd present and lots of old time yelling by the fans.

Second Game

Schaeffer outpitched Nickel in the second game and the old Guelph boy held the Red Sox to five hits. The Beavers scored their two runs in the seventh on Harkin's and Killilea's singles, an infield out and Killilea's steal home. The Beavers held the Red Sox scoreless until the very last inning, the seventh, which was some inning. The Red Sox had two good chances to score and tie the game up, but with three men on twice only one man scored and that was Barrett after he had driven a two-bagger to centre. Fried went to first on Ostrich's error, Lacroix batting for Ostrich sacrificed Schaeffer to Schultz, Lamond was walked but went out at second, Killilea to Ort, Taylor batting for Nickel got to first on fielder's choice. Fried scored. Long was walked, again filling the bases, but with two out, Roth went out to Killilea, and the game was over. Roth and Barrett both got two baggers. Nickel showed up well, but he couldn't handle the liners as well as the rest of Rubel's pitchers.

RUBE DENEAU LANDS PLAYER HE WANTED

Cosma, Hard Hitting Infielder, Will Play on Saturday.

Rube Deneau announced last night that he had finally secured the hard-hitting infielder he was after. His name is Cosma from the Southern Michigan League. He is not only a hard hitter, but a fast fielder and base runner and has drawn his release because of the rocky shape in which the league at present finds itself. It is the intention to place Cosma at third and he will probably be in the Saturday game at St. Thomas. If the new player is as good as reported, he should round out the Brantford team into a pretty formidable aggregation. Even taking yesterday's games, the club played excellent ball and almost at any stage of either game, a hit would have broken it up.

GREAT STRUGGLE FOR PENNANT THIS YEAR

Neither Giants Nor Athletics Are Sure of Winning Flag.

For the first time in a good many years the fight for the leadership in the two big major baseball organizations is a decidedly interesting one. As a rule the latter part of July generally finds the leaders in at least one of the leagues, with matters pretty well in hand, but this year both McGraw and Connie Mack are hard put to keep in the front.

Six weeks ago both the Giants and Athletics were close to the borders of certainties in their respective leagues, but today neither are certain. Of the two McGraw has the edge. He has at most only one or two clubs to beat, whereas in the Johnson organization Connie Mack has to beat four or five machines, any one of which is liable to crack the world's champions at any moment. Detroit, Washington, Chicago, and Boston are four hard clubs to keep down, and if you don't believe it ask Mack what he thinks of them.

With the season half over Mack is only leading the sixth club by half a dozen games. The Athletics are only leading the sixth club by half a dozen games.

There are still about seventy-five games to be played, and it may be that some second division club may rise up in the National and trim McGraw, but at the present time only Chicago and St. Louis are displaying enough power and consistency to be rated with a chance.

The complete collapse of the Pittsburgh club, which is now reclining peacefully in last place, has been the biggest upset of the season. Six weeks ago columns of space were being consumed pointing out what a wonderful machine Fred Clarke had organized, and how at the critical moment Wagner, Adams, Gibson, etc., would be putting the Giants to rout, but after getting away to an excellent start and leading by nine or ten games in the early part of the season the club cracked completely, and has been gradually slipping ever since, until it is now as low as it is possible for it to go.

Cincinnati, after Pittsburgh first commented to slip, took a spurt that made things decidedly interesting while it lasted, but Herzog has not got the pitchers to keep him up in the race.

McGraw himself is reported as having admitted that his club was not as strong as last year, although he did not anticipate any difficulty in landing the flag.

TOM MCPHAIL WENT DOWN IN SEMI-FINALS

Brantford Bowlers Put Up a Great Battle in London Yesterday—Results of Other Matches Played.

Tom McPhail did not win the semi-final game with Shaw of the Toronto Canada's yesterday afternoon in the W. O. B. L. tournament at London, but the Pastime's skip put up one of the best games ever played on the London green in many a day. Both Shaw and McPhail had good rinks and to McPhail belongs most of the honor, although he did not win the game. He got rather indifferent support from the front half of his rink and it was up to him time and again to save a slaughter. He held the rink together all through, hoping to get them going right but they did not rally.

Shaw had his rink going well, although some of the fine work of his other three players was offset by the brilliancy of McPhail. Shaw had to make splendid shots, and he seldom failed.

The other competitors are getting well under way and the finals will be reached this afternoon. Sixteen rinks remain in the Tecumseh, and 32 in the McNee. Some of the rinks out of 9 to 8, and at half time stood 2 to 1 in all the competitions, have left for favor of St. Marys. The game was stubbornly fought, and was anybody's contest till the last. LONDON MAKES IT THREE STRAIGHT FROM ST. THOMAS

Eric and Hamilton Divide a Double Bill, While Peterboro Beat the Ottawa Senators 4-1.

ST. THOMAS, July 23.—Bobby Heck's marvelous pitching enabled London to make a clean sweep of the series here yesterday, when he out-pitched Vern Hughley in one of the closest battles of the season, which was decided by the score of 3 to 1. A big week-day crowd was in attendance at Pinafore Park, with a considerable sprinkling of fans from the Forest City.

Both hurlers were in splendid form, but once the lid was pried open with two gone in the ninth the old ball game looked almost within the grasp of the locals, when McNeill's muffed up an easy grounder from Reid's bat and this, coupled with an infield hit, saw the blowing up of the whole Saint works.

Sport Comment

Some wiseacre over on the Expositor is after the scalp of the official scorer, Mr. W. E. Hartman. Inasmuch as no previous complaint has been made about Mr. Hartman's work we suspect it is the same party who applied once for the job of official scorer, and was turned down. Mr. Hartman shouldn't let his judgments be affected by any wild ravings from the Cupalo.

They do say up in London that Tom McPhail's rink showed a brilliant performance in the semi-finals. Yesterday was a tough one, however, on Brantford in a sporting way. The ball team got two wallpings, the lacrosse team got theirs at St. Marys, and the bowlers got nosed out after a sensational battle. The whole town seems to be under a jinx.

The ball games yesterday were wonderfully satisfactory as far as the exhibition of the great pastime was concerned, but as far as results went they were tremendously disappointing to the splendid crowd on hand. Both games were beautiful contests, containing many fine plays and very few misplays. The first affair was an unusual one having three home runs, all of which came with nobody on bases. In this regard commend us to Mr. Snell of Toronto. With two strikes on him on two occasions he had the third one left and he hit it hard enough to beat the centre field barrier. Outside of these two wallpings Gero pitched as nice a game as Auld in every respect. It should be remembered, however, that Auld is the best pitcher in the Canadian League to date and is a hard one to beat any time. He had yesterday a beautiful curve ball and a fast one with real hop to it. In Kirley and Auld the Beavers have two fine young pitchers.

According to pitching averages just issued including games up to July 15 Gero has won 9 and lost 7 contests. Chase has won 6 and lost 7, Taylor won 6 and lost 9, and Nickel won 2 and lost 4.

There was some kicking about Umpire Miller's work yesterday. It is true the umpire didn't give the Red Sox any close ones but he gave the plays as he saw them, regardless of the feeling of the home crowd. It is just Brantford's luck to get a real honest umpire at home and when the club is on the road to get somebody like Bedford who will reverse a decision if necessary to appease the feelings of the homesters.

Guess that Brantford with a near tail ender cannot be considered a bad ball town after yesterday's fine crowd. What this town would be with a winner is easy to guess.

Local fans seemed to be satisfied with the trade of Ivers for Barrett and Dudley. The two Hamilton players fill up holes on the Red Sox lineup while as far as fielding was concerned Gabby Ivers was only in the way. At Hamilton yesterday, Ivers in two games got a three-bagger and a single. His record was:

A. B. R. H. O. A. E.	2	1	1	8	0	1
Dudley	2	0	1	9	1	0

The record was not a bad one at all. The record of the two players secured in exchange for Gabby was:

Barrett	3	0	0	2	1	0

If Toronto displayed a superiority over Brantford in the five games played it was at the bat. That made the Red Sox pitchers look somewhat inferior, but a little better clouting would have turned two defeats with victory. Good hitters are a great asset to a team.

WORLD'S GREATEST SHORT STORIES

The Man Who Would Be King

BY RUDYARD KIPLING

PART III.

I CAN'T tell all we did for the next six months, because Dravot did a lot I couldn't see the hang of, and he learned the lingo in a way I never could.

"They were afraid of me and the army, but they loved Dan. He was the best of friends with the priests and the chiefs, but any one could come across the hills with a complaint, and Dravot would hear him out fair and call four priests together and say what was to be done. They sent me with forty men and twenty rifles, and sixty men carrying turquoises into the Ghordan country to buy those handsome Martini rifles that come out of the ameer's workshops at Kakul, from one of the ameer's Herati regiments that would have sold the very teeth out of their mouths for turquoises. We got more than 100 handmade Martinis, 100 good Kobat jezails that'll throw to 600 yards, and 40 manloads of very bad ammunition for the rifles.

"Dravot was too busy to attend to those things, but the old army that we first made helped me, and we turned out 500 men that could drill and 200 that knew how to hold arms pretty straight. Even those corkscrewed-hand-made guns was a miracle to them. Dravot talked big about powder shops and factories, walking up and down in the pine wood when the winter was coming on.

"I won't make a nation," says he. "I'll make an empire! These men aren't niggers; they're English! Look at their eyes, look at their mouths. Look at the way they stand up. They sit on chairs in their own houses. There isn't a fair 2,000,000 of 'em in these hills. The villages are full of little children. Two-and-a-half million fighting men—and all English! When everything is shipshape I'll hand over the crown—this crown I'm wearing now—to Queen Victoria on my knees, and she'll say, 'Rise up, Sir Daniel Dravot.' Oh, it's big! It's big, I tell you! But there's so much to be done in every place—Baskhal, Khawak, Shu and everywhere else. It's a big country, and somebody you can't help me, Peachey, in the way I want to be helped.

"Go to your blasted priests then! I said, and I was sorry when I made two million, but it did hurt me sore to see Daniel talking so superior when I'd drilled all the men and done all he told me.

"Don't let's quarrel, Peachey," says Daniel without cursing. "You're a king, you're a man! I was all taken aback, for a priest cut at me in front, and the army behind began firing into the Baskhal men.

"I tried to give some sort of orders to my men—the men of the regular army—but it was no use, so I fired into the crowd of 'em with an English Martini and drilled three beggars in a line. The valley was full of shouting, bowing creatures, and every soul was shrieking, 'Not a God nor a devil, but a man!' I was all taken aback, for a priest cut at me in front, and the army behind began firing into the Baskhal men.

"We can't stand," says Billy Fish. "Make a run for it down the valley. This place is against us." There wasn't more than six men, not counting Dan, Billy Fish and me, that came down to the bottom of the valley alive. "My own notion is that Dan began to go mad in his head from that hour. He started up and down like a stuck pig. Then he was all for walking back alone and killing the priests with his bare hands, which he could have done. 'An emperor am I,' says Daniel, and next year I shall be a knight of the Queen."

"All right, Dan," says I, "but come along now while there's time." "It's your fault," says he, "for not looking after your army better. I was too hasty to care, though it was all his foolishness that brought the smash." "I'm sorry, Dan," says I, "but there's no accounting for natives. This business is out fifty-seven. Maybe we'll make something out of it yet, when we've got to Baskhal."

"Let's get to Baskhal then," says Dan, "and when I come back here again I'll sweep the valley so there isn't a bug in a blanket left." "We walked all that day, and all that night Dan was stamping up and down on the snow, chewing his beard and muttering to himself.

"There's no hope of getting clear," said Billy Fish. "The priests will have sent runners to the villages to say that you are only men. Why didn't you stick on as gods till things were more settled? I'm a dead man," says Billy Fish, and he throws himself down on the snow and begins to pray to his gods.

"Next morning we was in a cruel bad country—all up and down, no level ground at all and no food either. The six Baskhal men looked at Billy Fish hungry-wise as if they wanted to ask something, but they said never a word. At noon we came to the top of a flat mountain all covered with snow, and when we climbed up into it, behold, there was an army in position waiting in the middle!

"The runners have been very quick," says Billy Fish, with a little bit of a laugh. "They are waiting for us." "We're done for," says Dan.

the bit of a gun so that you'll never want to be heartened again." "I got up very early in the morning while Dravot was asleep, and I saw the priests talking together in whispers and the chiefs talking together, too, and they looked at me out of the corners of their eyes.

"What is up, Fish?" I says to the Baskhal man, who was wrapped up in his furs and looking splendid to behold. "I can't rightly say," says he, "but if you can induce the king to drop all this nonsense about marriage you'll be doing him and me—and yourself a great service."

"That I do believe," says I. "But sure, you know, Billy, as well as me, having fought against and for us, that the king and me are nothing more than two of the finest men that God Almighty ever made. 'Nothing more, I do assure you.'"

"That may be," says Billy Fish, "and yet I should be sorry if it was." He sinks his head upon his great fur cloak for a minute and thinks. "King," says he, "be you man or god or devil, I'll stick by you today, and I have twenty of my men with me, and they will follow me. We'll go to Baskhal until the storm blows over."

"A little snow had fallen in the night and everything was white except the greasy fat clouds that blew down and down from the north. Dravot came out with his crown on his head, swinging his arms and stamping his feet and looking more pleased than Punch.

"In the last time, drop it, Dan," says I in a whisper. "Billy Fish here says there will be a row." "A row among my people?" says Dravot. "Not much. Peachey, you're a fool not to get a wife too. Where's the girl? says he with a voice as loud as the braying of a jackass. 'Call up all the chiefs and priests and let the emperor see if his wife suits him.'"

"There was no need to call any one. They were all there leaning on their guns and spears round the clearing in the center of the pine wood. A deputation of priests went down to the little temple to bring up the girl, and the horns blew up to it to wake the dead. Billy Fish saunters round and gets as close to Daniel as he could, and behind him stood his twenty men with matchlocks, not a man of them under six feet. I was next to Dravot, and behind me was twenty men of the regular army. Up comes the girl, and a silver and turquoise, but white as death and looking back every minute at the priests.

"She'll do," said Dan, looking her over. "What's to be afraid of, lass? Come and kiss me." He puts his arm round her. She shuts her eyes, gives a bit of a squeak, and down goes her face in the side of Dan's flaming red beard.

"The girl's bitten me!" says he, clapping his hand to his neck, and sure enough his hand was red with blood. Billy Fish and one of his matchlocks catches hold of Dan by the shoulders and drags him into the Baskhal lot, while the priests howl in their lingo. "Neither God nor devil, but a man!" I was all taken aback, for a priest cut at me in front, and the army behind began firing into the Baskhal men.

"I tried to give some sort of orders to my men—the men of the regular army—but it was no use, so I fired into the crowd of 'em with an English Martini and drilled three beggars in a line. are Englishmen, these people, and it's my blasted nonsense that has brought you to this. Get back, Billy Fish, and take your men away; you've done what you could, and now cut for it. 'Carnehan,' says he, 'shake hands with me and go along with Billy. Maybe they won't kill you. I'll go and meet 'em alone. It's me, the king, that did it.' "Go," says I. "I'm with you here, Billy Fish, you clear out, and we two will meet those folk."

"I'm a chief," says Billy Fish, quite quiet. "I stay with you. My men can go." "The Baskhal fellows didn't wait for a second word, but ran off. It was cold-awful cold. I've got that cold in the back of my head now. There's a lump of it there."

"Carnehan was shivering, and I feared that his mind might go. I wiped my face, took a fresh grip of the pitiously mangled hands and said, 'What happened after that?'" "What was you pleased to say?" whined Carnehan. "They took them without any sound. Not a little whisper all along the snow, not though the king knocked down the first man that set hand on him—not though old Peachey fired his last cartridge into the brown of 'em. There was a man called Billy Fish, a good friend of us all, and they cut his throat, sir, then and there, like a pig; and the king kicks up the bloody snow and says, 'We've had a dashed fine run for our money. What's coming next? But Peachey—Peachey! Tell me, I tell you, sir, in confidence as betwixt two friends—he lost his king, sir. No, he didn't neither. The king lost his head, so he did, all along of one of those chinning rope bridges. Kindly let me have the paper cutter, sir. It dited this way. They marched him across that snow to a rope bridge over a ravine with a river at the bottom. You may have seen such. They prodded him behind like an ox. 'D—your eyes!' says the king. 'D'you suppose I can't die like a gentleman?' He turns to Peachey—'Peachey, that was crying like a child. 'I've brought you to this of your happy life to be killed in Kaf-tristan, where you was late commander-in-chief of the emperor's forces. Say you forgive me, Peachey.' I do," says Peachey. "Shake hands, Peachey," says he. 'I'm going now.' Out he goes, looking neither right nor left, and when he was plumb in the middle of those dizzy dancing ropes, 'Cut, you beggars!' he shouts. And they cut, and old Dan fell, turning round and round and round, 20,000 miles, for he took half an hour to fall off! He struck the water, and I could see his body caught on a rock with the gold crown close beside.

"But do you know what they did to Peachey between two pine trees? They crucified him, sir, as Peachey's hand will show. They used wooden pegs for his hands and his feet; and he didn't die. He hung there and screamed, and they took him down next day and said it was a miracle that he wasn't dead. They took him down, poor old Peachey, that hadn't done them any harm—that hadn't done them any—"

He rocked to and fro and wept bitterly, wiping his eyes with the back of his scarred hands and moaning like a child for some ten minutes. "They was cruel enough to feed him up in the temple, because they said he was more of god than old Daniel that was a man. Then they turned him out on the snow and told him to go home, and Peachey came home in about a year, begging along the roads quite safe, for Daniel Dravot he walked before and said: 'Come along, Peachey. It's a big thing we're doing.' The mountains they danced at sight, and the mountains they tried to fall on Peachey's head, but Dan be held on his hand, and Peachey came along, bent double. He never let go of Dan's hand, and he never let go of Dan's head. They gave it to him as a present in the temple, to remind him not to come again, and, though the crown was pure gold and Peachey was wearing, never would Peachey sell the same. You knew Right Worshipped Brother Dravot. Look at him now!"

He fumbled in the mass of snow around his bent waist, brought out a black horsehair bag embroidered with silver thread and shook therefrom on to my table the dried, withered hand of Daniel Dravot! The morning sun struck the red beard and blind, sunken eyes; struck, too, a heavy circle of gold studded with raw turquoises, that Carnehan placed tenderly on the table, under the temple.

"You behold now," said Carnehan, "the emperor in his habit as he lived—the king of Kaftristan with his crown upon his head. Poor old Daniel, that was a monarch once!" "I staggered, for, in spite of definitions manifold, I recognized the hand of the man of Marwar Junction. Carnehan rose to go. I attempted to stop him. He was not fit to walk abroad. 'Let me take away the whitey,' and give me a little money," he gasped. "I was a king once, I'll go to the deputy commissioner and have to sit in the postoffice till I get my health. No, thank you, I can't walk all you set a carriage for me. I've urgent private affairs—in the south."

He stumbled out of the office and departed in the direction of the deputy commissioner's house. That day at noon I had occasion to go down the blinding hot wall, and I saw a crooked man crawling along the white dust of the roadside, his hat in his hand, quavering dolorously after the fashion of street singers at home. There was not a soul in sight and he was out of all possible earshot of the houses, and he sang through his nose, turning his head from right to left— "The son of man goes forth to war. His blood-red banner streams afar. Who follows in his train?"

I waited to hear no more, but got the poor wretch into my carriage and drove him off to the nearest mission, for my eventual transfer to the city while he was with me, whom he had not in the least recognized, and I left him singing it to the missionary. "Cut, you beggars!" he shouts. And they cut, and old Dan fell, turning round and round and round, 20,000 miles, for he took half an hour to fall off! He struck the water, and I could see his body caught on a rock with the gold crown close beside.

are Englishmen, these people, and it's my blasted nonsense that has brought you to this. Get back, Billy Fish, and take your men away; you've done what you could, and now cut for it. 'Carnehan,' says he, 'shake hands with me and go along with Billy. Maybe they won't kill you. I'll go and meet 'em alone. It's me, the king, that did it.' "Go," says I. "I'm with you here, Billy Fish, you clear out, and we two will meet those folk."

"I'm a chief," says Billy Fish, quite quiet. "I stay with you. My men can go." "The Baskhal fellows didn't wait for a second word, but ran off. It was cold-awful cold. I've got that cold in the back of my head now. There's a lump of it there."

"Carnehan was shivering, and I feared that his mind might go. I wiped my face, took a fresh grip of the pitiously mangled hands and said, 'What happened after that?'" One of "Black Hand" Fraternity Caught With A Decoy Letter

Northern Italian Merchants Threatened With Violent Death if They Failed to Contribute.

NORTH BAY, July 23.—A bell-planned "Black Hand" enterprise has been nipped in the bud by the vigilance of the provincial police, and one of the conspirators is now safely locked up in Sudbury jail awaiting trial, having been committed by Magistrate Brodie. For the past few months well-to-do Italian citizens in the District of Nipissing have been receiving letters couched in approved "Black Hand" language, demanding money and threatening violent death if requests were not satisfied. An Italian merchant in Sudbury was one of those who received an ultimatum that unless he came to North Bay and deposited $500 under a rock in the vicinity of Trout Lake he would meet death sudden and horrible. Provincial Police Inspector Storey learned of the letter, and came to North Bay to investigate. He planned a trap for the "Black Handers," and placed Provincial Constable Fred Lefebvre in charge of the North Bay end of the case, while he returned to Sudbury and sent out decoy letters, in one of which was enclosed a marked ten-dollar bill. At the North Bay post-office the letters to foreigners are placed in an open box in the lobby, and are sorted out by the foreigners themselves. Officer Lefebvre kept a close watch at the post office and arrested an Italian named Michael Angelo Silverstro just after he had taken out the decoy letter and abstracted the ten-dollar bill. The name used in the "Black Hand" correspondence was Joseph Pagello, and in Silverstro's pockets were found letters with this address. The prisoner at first made a vigorous denial of the charge, but it is said he later confessed to Officer Lefebvre, and was taken back to Sudbury, where he was committed for trial.

Travels of Death Dealing Ocean Derelicts.

Government have realized the necessity of taking precautions to protect shipping from derelicts and icebergs, and some time ago, following suggestions made in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, an agreement was arrived at between Canada, the United States and Britain, so that a ship would patrol the Atlantic ocean and warn vessels of the locality of anything which constituted a danger to those "who go down to the sea" in ships. Of all the perils which beset ocean navigation perhaps the most insidious, because the most elusive and difficult to guard against, is the derelict—the abandoned and almost submerged but still floating wreck. When a vessel of stout construction, particularly if she is built of timber, is loaded with a cargo that is lighter than the water, she may sink until she is in the wash condition, and, by virtue of the strength of her hull, may hold together for many years, floating hither and thither at the caprice of wind and tide, and so constitute a perpetual menace to navigation.

O. liner India, which reached Port Adelaide on October 28, 1911. On that occasion Captain Gordon reported that his vessel received a severe shock on the morning of October 26 while proceeding in the usual track of steamers from Fremantle to Port Adelaide. The Captain was under the impression that the obstruction was wreckage, and his supposition was confirmed a few days later when the captain of the Monaro reported passing some wreckage on November 4, at 6 p. m. in practically the same locality. There are many other cases of sunken or partly submerged wrecks which could be mentioned. We have just recently had brought home to us the danger vessels of the size of the ill-fated Empress of Ireland constitute when lying in a river or even in stretch of water for there is, even in deep water, a possibility of portions of a wreck rising to the surface, drifting into the line of shipping, and bringing a ship to her doom.

The ever-shifting wreck is naturally uncharted and although a vigilant watch by day may suffice to detect the danger, in the night time the obstacle is quite invisible and should it be in the direct track of a ship a collision is unavoidable.

Great Danger to Navigation. Unquestionably the floating derelict has been answerable for not a few of the unexplained losses of staunch and well-found ships, instances of which the too many and well known to need recapitulation here.

The endurance of the derelict and the extent of its ocean wanderings are almost unbelievable. Take the case of the Norwegian barque Crown, lumber laden, which was abandoned in a supposedly sinking condition in mid-Atlantic on December 26, 1909. In the following May it was reported as on the edge of the Saragossa Sea, and at a later date it was sighted upon the other edge of the sea, having traversed in the interval 1,100 miles. In the summer of 1910 it was sighted between Charleston, South Carolina and Bermuda.

Afloat for Three Years. The Fannie E. Woolston was wrecked on the Jersey (U.S.A.) coast on October 15, 1891. During the following three years the wreck was frequently sighted once off the coast of Africa, and later on the opposite side of the Atlantic, off the coast of Florida. Finally it drifted entirely out of sight.

There has been a big demand for the Photo-Panoramic and Industrial edition of The Courier, issued on Saturday, and hundreds of copies have been mailed to Brantford Old Boys and Girls at a distance. The supply has not yet been exhausted, and copies wrapped ready for mailing can be had at the Courier Office. As the edition is weighty, three cents postage is required for each copy.

NOT IMMODEST FOR A GIRL TO PROPOSE

Boston Woman Says It Would Be Absurd for Young Couple to Hold Back.

BOSTON, July 22.—"I do not believe that a young woman loses any of her modesty in solemnly proposing to a man," declared Mrs. Richard Child in discussing the statement of a Baltimore man that in 72 per cent of the marriages he investigated, the woman proposed or there was no proposal. "It would be absurd for a young couple to stand back and wait simply because the young man had an idea that he should not propose. Perhaps he might feel that he did not earn sufficient money with which to support a wife. On the other hand, a young woman who loved him dearly might quite properly suggest to him that she could get along on less needed."

"I believe the practice of proposing to be antiquated and that the majority of marriages of to-day are without them. There was absolutely no proposal between Mr. Child and myself. There was not even an engagement or a wedding, simply a marriage service."

REPAIRING FRACTURED HEARTS BY THE DOZEN

Thirty-one patients in a Russian hospital have recovered from stab wounds of the heart. Dr. Zlizer says the patients were put under the influence of ether very soon after an injury, part of the chest wall was removed, the heart lifted from its bed and the stitches quickly introduced between pulsations. The bony chest wall over the heart was not put back in place, but that organ being left covered only by skin and muscle. This was done to give the heart room to expand and prevent adhesions from embarrassing the heart's action. Several of the patients have resumed their usual employment.

Heart Songs

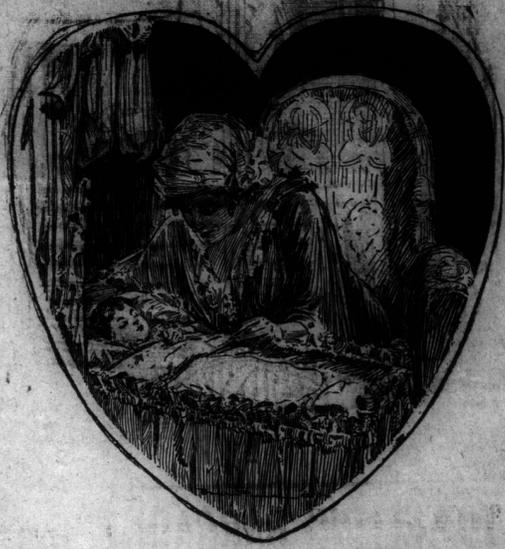

Refreshing as a Drink at the OLD WELL

518 Pages of Sweet Music. 400 Songs

HEART SONGS is not a mere collection of music and words! It is a book compiled directly by more than 20,000 people, who in sending their favorite songs, told why they sent them.

From the lone cabin on the trackless prairie—from the snowy wastes of Alaska—from the mining camp amidst the pines of the lofty Sierras—from the coral strand of an island in the far Pacific, so remote that the ships come only once a year (if they do not forget)—from the garrets of London and Paris, with only the stars above—from the sandy deserts of the Orient, somehow seemingly forgotten by even God Himself—came these outpourings of the human heart—from the men and women who loved them—and the singing of which oftentimes saved their sanity and faith in Heaven.

Every song in this wonderful book has had some sacred memory—some touching experience—some sweet and hallowed association—connected with it in the hearts of thousands. It is their song of joy—of sorrow—of thanksgiving—of love—of bereavement—of home-coming—of re-union—of all the tender sentiments that lift the human heart in worship to its Maker. It is for this—by inspiration—that this unique volume is entitled "HEART SONGS!"

Rowdyism Must Stop On Football Fields

Executive Held Meeting Last Night and Disposed of Several Important Matters—Tutela and Scots to Play Seven Minutes

President Bowtie declared at the executive meeting of the Brantford and Paris Football league, that all rough play must in the future be cut out. This rough work augured for the decadence of the sport, which here was only rough house play compared with the finished and scientific exhibitions given in the Old Country.

say and he declared that police patrol must be sought and he would see if it were possible to have an officer attendant at each match. The spectators were largely responsible for Saturday's scenes and nothing would have occurred had a unit of the law been present. The good reputation would not stand for such scenes as had transpired.

J. W. Seago, advocated getting to the root of the trouble and thought that much rough work would be eliminated were the players themselves severely dealt with. He was officially decreed that the home club is responsible for the good conduct of the spectators.

The Executive feels strongly upon the rough work which has recently crept into the sports and they are doing all in their power to cleanse all association games.

The unfinished game between the Scots and Tutela was ordered to be finished and on Tuesday, July 26th at 7:30 p.m. both teams will line up to play off the unfinished seven minutes, the score being at the start 2 to 0 in favour of the Scots.

The referees met the Executive in a body and they were authorized to form an Association in connection with the Brantford and Paris League. They will appoint a committee which will jointly with an executive committee, decide upon the referees to rule the ordinary league and cup games.

This was a good move, as some dissatisfaction has existed with regard to the method of picking them before when they were drawn, in lottery style from a hat. A committee was appointed for the selection of the English team and their opponents, The Canadian, Welsh Irish and Scots team to battle in a Fraternal game during Old Home Week.

Mr. Hollister, a referee, complained of the conduct of an official, who, during the course of a game last Saturday, differed with him upon a point he had decided, and made threats that he would use his office to have the referee taken from the list. The member defended himself, saying he had a right to see that a game was referred properly, but he was informed that when attending a game, he was merely a spectator and must remember that in future, as the referee had entire charge of the game.

Mr. Harnsworth asked why referees should be barred from Executive meetings, when these came for the mutual benefit of the league and themselves, and was told that the Constitution so declared that only members and the league, official representatives of clubs were to be allowed to attend. The games and referees for Saturday games were decided upon as follows:

Cockshutt and Tutela—Farnsworth, Duffs and Holmedale—Groutley, Wanderers v. Paris—H. Smith, S. O. E. v. P. S. A.—Crough. Many tickets for the Fraternal Day match between picked teams were disposed of to the various club representatives last night, and Treasurer John Hill explained the method by which the game receipts were to be handled. The cash obtained would be handed over to the Old Home Week Executive and if they came out with a balance on hand, the Executive would be handed their receipts, but if they failed, then they all stood together to lose. It was a means by which they all helped each other.

BIG FOUR CHAMPIONS WILL NOT GO WEST MONTREAL, July 23.—The big four will not, in all probability, journey to the East after the Minto cup this season it was announced by President Caron.

"We can't see our way clear to making the trip," stated President Caron of the Nationals. "We have thoroughly investigated lacrosse conditions in British Columbia, and do not find them to our liking. The teams in the West are not playing fast lacrosse and are not drawing the crowds. It appears to us as though the national game on a pro-basis was in bad odor there, and unless conditions improve we shall not go West after the Minto Cup."

PETROLEA BOWLING PETROLEA, July 23.—Eight rinks lined up on the bowling green yesterday in a progressive game. Local Skip Grenzen and Skip Brown, of Wyoming, were hot foot for the high notch until the very last tie-breaker, when Brown came out victor; up two points.

Skip Wm. White and his rink wear the jewelry in the pin contest bowling series for the season. Some picked rinks are coming to the front, and expect to dismantle this proud bunch. Big sport ahead.

SEVEN KILLED PARIS, July 22.—In a collision between an express train from Bayonne and a local train near Tonlouse last night, seven French passengers on the local were killed.

TROUT IS BEST HITTER IN LEAGUE

Leads With .373, While Harris of Erie, and Mullin of London Follow.

The Canadian League batting and fielding averages issued by President Fitzgerald of all games played up till July 15 show that Trout of Toronto, leads the league in hitting with an average of .373, with Harris of Erie second with .351, while Mullin of London is there with .340.

There are in all 16 batsmen in the league who are hitting .300 or better are as follows: Trout, Toronto, .373; Harris, Erie, .351; Mullin, London, .340; Bierbauer, London, .338; Killilea, Toronto, .333; Welsh, Peterboro, .328; Snyder, London, .327; Schaeffer, Erie, .324; Scott, Toronto, .321; Lamy, London, .314; Hunt, Toronto, .310; Stewart, Ottawa, .307; Kustus, St. Thomas, .300; Nill, Ottawa, .300.
